"That," Kane said, "explains the murder of Lillian Hull. She went to Miss Hull's apartment. Either the actress had already returned home or Dorotha waited until she did arrive. She gained admittance to the apartment, probably, on the pretense that Miss LeRoi had sent her. In a moment when she caught Miss Hull by surprise she plunged the dirk into her heart."

"I sent Dorotha on an errand to the bank in Hollywood," Nanette explained. "I thought she acted strangely when she returned."

"Her motive for killing Lillian Hull is easily enough explained," Kane resumed. "Dorotha Deane thought she had given the police enough information to warrant her release. She didn't know that Miss Hull was cleared by circumstances.

"Sometime today she set a trap for Miss LeRoi again, this time not just to cast suspicion away from herself but to get her out of the way. Then when Mr. Holmes came and, at my instructions, insisted that the three women here go out for a while—the construction of the table aroused my suspicion; its position was on a line with the throne chair and, too, the table had been recently cleaned—she saw her chance to kill both women and make it look like an accident."

"That's right," Nanette affirmed. "She drove off the road and headed for the chasm. She was about to leap from the car when I brought it to a stop."

"But what was her motive?" Chief Lee asked. "You have worked out a nice case—all except motive."

"When Evelyn Deane disappeared, saying she was going to marry a studio employe who might give her an opportunity in the movies, Dorotha sought to stop her, but without avail. Then, when she heard no more of her sister she became alarmed. Through the aid of Larry Weldon she met Richard Bailey. She knew his reputation and thought it might be he.

"Her association with Bailey naturally aroused comment and it got back to her. She was working on the theory that if she could get in his good graces she might worm the information from him. But she did not bargain for his sincere admiration. Finally, my deduction is, she faced him with the statement that she knew of something which he dreaded to have known. I haven't the slightest idea what it was, but that little coup seemed to have hit its mark.

"Seeing an easy way to get money, she started blackmailing him, and he paid, only too gladly. Then, in some way, she found out that Bailey was the man who had robbed her of her sister. She began making unreasonable demands of him, and in turn he passed these demands on to Miss LeRoi.

"Finally, he managed to place her in Miss LeRoi's employ. Then she learned that the money she was getting from Bailey was coming from her employer. It was a situation that pleased her vanity, and she felt safe enough while she was under this roof.

"Her visits to Bailey became more and more frequent. She finally decided that she wanted to use his influence to get in the motion pictures. She threatened him with exposure—for now she knew he was blackmailing Miss LeRoi—if he didn't 'come across.' He didn't know what to do. His employer refused to let him use her; she wanted the leading role, nothing more or less.

"Finally, she threatened his life and he even thought of suicide to escape her."

When Kane had finished he took a small bundle which he had brought with him, untied it and threw back the paper. Nanette gasped:

"My knife! It disappeared a week ago."

He turned over the knife to the chief. Holding up the handkerchief, he asked Nanette:

"Did you ever see this before?"

"It is Dorotha's," she replied without hesitation.

"And here is the diary," Kane said, handing both articles to the police chief. "I think you will find that diary very interesting reading and I believe you will find that it bears out everything that I have said."

The chief arose to go, but Kane stopped him:

"There's just one thing more. Miss LeRoi, will you look in your former secretary's room and see if there is a suit of men's clothes there?"

Without a word she left the room and presently returned with a coat, pair of trousers and a cap.

"Those are the clothes of the prowler I saw," Holmes exclaimed.

"Not a prowler," Kane said. "That was Dorotha Deane returning from the home of Richard Bailey. You surprised her before she could get in the house, and so she fled.

"She also wore these clothes when she returned to Bailey's home later that night to replace the ladder in the garage which she had left standing against the window when she fled after the murder. It was that second visit," he turned to the chief, "which aroused Chivington and sent him on that nocturnal walk when he found the gun. The gun he took out with him to shoot the prowler, as he first said, and was not found, as he told me."

Kane looked at his watch. "One o'clock!" he whistled. "I guess I'd better be getting some sleep if I'm going to catch that train for New Orleans in the morning."

"Rest assured we'll be down to see you off," Nanette smiled.

"And the rest of us, too," Lee grinned. "In fact, I think I'll order out the police band."

THE END.

THE BROWSER.

Now the Browser knows all about mystery stories....He's read one of them and it was S. S. Van Dine's "Kennell Murder Case" which is all about dogs and daggers and deep dark devilishness. And very exciting, too, with its mysteries and its Chinese ceramics and its canine pedigrees. Van Dine puts everything he knows into his books and makes you believe youre getting an education while you are reading a detective story. That's the secret of his success.

Once upon a time the Browser read mystery stories. "Seven Keys to Baldpate" was one. "The Circular Staircase" was another. (Ripley asked the other day whether you could describe a circular staircase without using your hands. The Browser can: It's a staircase that runs upward like the stripes around a barber's pole. But can Ripley describe a Van Dye bear without using HIS hands? S. S. Van Dine has a Van Dyke beard. He had it years ago, too, when he was Willard Huntington Wright, art critic and all that. And how about getting back to the Kennel murder?)

Of late, however, the Browser has avoided mysteries, but he decided that a man must not go blindly through this world. He must see things, read everything, understand what's gong on, and if people are reading mystery stories then he ought to read one of them, too. So he heard "The Kennel Murder Case" and now he knows exactly how they are made.

(1) There MUST be a murder or a disappearance, at least. (2) There must be a detective. The mystery must not be solved accidentally. (3) Suspicion must be thrown with practically equal emphasis on a number of people. (4) The guilty one MUST be one of those under suspicion. (5) The murderer must not be a wild animal, like a gorilla, or an irrational person. (6) And when the mystery is all unravelled, it must be easily accepted and you must believe that the detective was really capable of solving it as the author says he did.

Did the Browser really like the Kennel murder? Well, if you must know he was just a wee bit disappointed. He thought his hair would stand on end and it didn't. After this he'll stick to Conan Doyle and Sherlock Holmes and leave the mysteries to the politicians and professors.

This man's personality is characterized by moderation, restraint, distinction, refinement, culture and good taste. He is earnest and conscientious in all he does. He takes his duties and responsibilities most seriously. But he would transact his affairs with quiet decision—without undue emphasis either on their importance or on his own. His is a practical, synthetical mind, strong on the organization of masses of detail. At the same time he has a sensitive imagination that makes for unusual delicacy of perception. He is unobtrusively but unmistakably self confident; seeming to observe always, he yet give a subtle twist of individuality to everything on which he lays his hand. ANOTHER DEMAND FOR ECONOMY

Editor Examiner:

Dear Sir.—The Examiner editorials and the letters of Householder and Observer not only express the sentiments of over-burdened taxpayers, but challenge the right of such grossly unfair conditions, to be further continued.

Regarding teachers' salaries, we hear the statement, "but they have contracts." Quite true, but it is also a fact that these contracts expire in June next.

It looks as though the electors would have to remove some old timber from the Board of Education at the first opportunity. We cannot stand for luxury floating on adversity or prosperity at the expense of privation, and any salary of $1,500.00 or over is luxury in comparison with most of those who are taxed to pay it.

We have no quarrel with the people drawing these boom time salaries, but we hold our elected representatives directly responsible for any unfair continuance under present conditions.

The general hope that this financial condition would soon blow over has made tax payers slow to take action. Chamberlain recently stated in the British Parliament that it would take ten years to recover, and the President of the Bank of England declares there is no immediate prospect, hence it is time to act.

We note with approval our Aldermen's effort to curtail expense, but considering the fact that the Government rules that all able-bodied men receiving relief are rightly required to give work equivalent to that relief when called upon, it would seem that both the Parks and the Board of Works estimates could be further reduced.

We cannot afford to have an alderman run his department as a personal hobby, nor champion some grant of personal interest. Grass will be more pleasing than flowers to most of those who are called upon to foot the bills.

With our relief expense running at $500.00 per day and steadily increasing, The Examiner is right in stating "it must be done." We cannot afford civic salaries at boom period levels, nor unnecessary officials; public demand is against such an unjust continuance of such conditions.

The higher salaries, especially should have a very drastic reduction and the Aldermen would be well advised to forego their own small allowance for the sake of principle; we trust they will have the public spirit to do so.

Yours truly,
TAXPAYER.

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

THE HALIFAX EXPRESS.

On this date, in 1849, there was inaugurated the Halifax Express, one of the pioneer news transmitting services in America. There was, of course, no cable and news gatherers were compelled to resort to the habits of their forefathers and get the news as best they could from incoming packets and steamers. The New York papers were continually at war in news getting. The Journal of Commerce of that City established a branch at Boston whence it used to send out yachts to intercept the incoming vessels and transmit the news ashore by means of semaphores and flag signals....James Gordon Bennett, the founder of the New York Herald, had a pony express between New York and Boston with relay riders and some remarkable records were made.

In course of time the telegraph line reached Saint John, N.B., and it became necessary to devise some plan by which the news gathered from the incoming vessels at Halifax could be brought to the telegraph. And so a party of news men went up from Boston to see what could be done about it. Among them was one David H. Craig, who was a little wiser than his fellows. When they went out 75 miles to sea to meet the packet he had two carrier pigeons (famed for their speed records) in his pocket and as soon as he boarded the ship got his news, tied it to the pigeons and sent them off home to Boston, beating his competitors by three days. Then he suggested a combination of newspapers to run a pony express from Halifax to Digby in order to rush the news to the wire at Saint John, whence it could be sent to Boston and New York. Craig himself was made the manager of the service and thus organized the first international associated press in America. There were two riders on the Halifax express, one from the seaport to Kentville; the other from Kentville to Digby where the "stuff" was rushed across the Bay of Fundy. This continued until the following November 14 when the telegraph was printed. In a Halifax newspaper. That ended the Halifax express, but it did not end the rivalry of the newspaper men at Halifax to secure "beats" on their rivals on news gathered from the ships' pursers. It was quite a common thing (until the cable were inaugurated) for a reporter to appropriate all the English papers on board, slip ashore and have the news on the wires before the other fellows discovered his loss from the ship. Chief among those who thus secured "scoops" at Halifax was one William Stevens Fielding, afterwards Premier of Nova Scotia and the Minister of Finance who introduced the British preference into the Canadian tariff.

Assembly Gets Report

GENEVA, Switzerland, Feb. 21. (AP)—The League of Nations report condemning Japan's Manchurian policy was presented this afternoon to the League assembly which then adjourned without discussion until Friday when the report will be debated.

Shortly after the adjournement the Japanese delegation issued a statement reiterating that the government at Tokyo would be unable to accept the League's report.

The statement warned that a grave situation would arise if the assembly should adopt the report, and appealed to the assembly "to think twice before making this decision."

Protesting against the declaration for non-recognition of and non-co-operation with Manchukuo, the statement said: "in so pronouncing judgment the League would be embarking upon an adventure which certainly could not contribute to the peace happiness and welfare of the 30,000,000 people in Manchukuo, and it might prove to be an obstacle to good understanding and friendly relations between nations upon which peace depends."

Would Mean Disorders

"For Japan to accept this report would create uncertainties and probably disorders in Eastern Asia.

"Japan implicitly believes in the sanctity of treaties, including the covenant of the League of Nations, the pact of Paris and the nine-power treaty. Having regard to the exceptional conditions existing in China, a fundamental and conclusive solution of the dispute cannot be realized unless the principles of these treaties are applied in a way to harmonize with the realities.

"Japan, in her endeavor to secure peace and welfare in the far east, has had to reconcile these treaties with actions essential to the purpose."

Market Closing On All Exchanges

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Feb. 21.—(CP)— The Toronto Stock Market dragged wearily along to a quiet, lower close today, producing a pattern very much on the lines of the Wall Street mark to where trading was about the slowest since 1924. Outside of the drive against Bell Telephone and selling of C.P.R. following postponement of consideration of a dividend policy, there was no pressure on the market.

Bell Telephone sagged to 80 for a loss of 4 on top of yesterday's 4-point drop. Interlisted shares led the downswing. C. P. R.'s drop of ⅝ to 10⅝ was accompanied by a loss of ¼ for Brazilian and ⅛ by Nickel.

While trading very quietly and in low volume most of the oil shares perked up in price, Imperial and B. A. both gaining a fraction and McColl holding while Fez dropped a small fraction.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Feb. 21.—(CP)—Moderate selling in a non-receptive market had the effect of wearing prices down today on the Standard Mining market and the close revealed a long list of recessions though none was important. Weakness extended to all sections of the list.

Silver shares failed to continue the advance launched yesterday. Eldorado closed off 7 and Castle weakened to 23.

Among the high-priced gold shares, losses of 5 to 100 were general. Lake Shore dropped 150, Dome 10, Hollinger 50, McIntyre 75, Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves about 15 each.

Nickel trader actively but most in odd-lots and the close was within 10 of the previous close but Noranda slipped back to $23.75 for a loss of 35.

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (C.P.).—The Stock Market held to a fairly even keel in dull pre-holiday trading today. The general list settled back to around yesterday's close in the late dealings after several early attempts to push up under leadership of shares harboring sizeable short interests. Aviation issues were fairly active, with Douglas and United Aircraft rising more than a point each. Rails firmed slightly. Early gains of 1 to 2 points in Liggett and Myers "B," Allied Chemical, McKeesport Tin Plate and Union Pacific were later reduced about half. American Telephone dipped a point. Turnover approximated 600,000 shares.

CANADIAN GROUP TO HANDLE DEAL

Livestock Head Says Company Would Relieve Gov't Of Undue Responsibility.

IN RUSSIAN BARTER.

CALGARY, Feb. 21.—(CP)—Proposed barter of Canadian cattle for Russian coal and oil may be handled by 'a Canadian Company" to relieve the Dominion government "of undue responsibility," Mr. A. Wright, president of the Western Canada Livestock Union, stated here today.

Mr. Wright revealed this possibility in his presidential address at the union's annual convention today. He asked the convention to appoint a committee which could negotiate with the unnamed company to carry through the barter.

This company, Mr. Wright said, could speak for the livestock men of the Dominion. He declared his organization had given the government every assistance in an effort to make the proposed barter successful but he said Prime Minister R. B. Bennett favored the plan with the exception of the coal angle.

According to Mr. Wright the government would not interfere with the plan as long as Russian coal was not imported. He said Canada had agreements with the mother country under which Welsh coal was shipped here in return for the preference on Canadian wheat.

GOODYEAR REPORT REVEALS STRENGTH

Material Improvement In Liquid Position Shown By President.

TORONTO, Feb. 21.—In spite of adverse conditions, the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Canada, Limited, and its subsidiary companies, were able to show a combined operating profit of $1,463,653.10 for the year ending December 31st, 1932, after providing for all manufacturing, selling and administration expenses and taxes, but before providing for depreciation. Of this amount, $795,900.43 was set aside for the full amount of depreciation, at rates equal to those used in previous year, including the peak years of 1927 to 1929, leaving net profits of $717,752.67.

The report presented to shareholders by the president, C. H. Carlisle, at the annual meeting to-day, showed that the company has well maintained its strong financial position through a trying period. It revealed an increase in net current assets, a pronounced increase in the ratio of current assets to current liabilities, a material improvement in liquid position, and large additions to reserves. Payment which was made during the year of 7 per cent. Preferred dividends amounting to $509,743,50 and dividends on Common Stock at the rate of $5.00 per share amounting to $643,150.00 was fully justified, said Mr. Carlisle, inasmuch as the surplus carried forward this year amounts to $7,230,421.98.

The accumulated reserve for depreciation now stands at $5,982,079.08, and is equivalent to over 50 per cent. of the total investment in buildings and plants. The manufacturing equipment of the rubber plants stands on the books at a net value of 22 per cent. of cost including installation. All bad and doubtful accounts have been written off and a reserve of $80,449.74 carried forward. All inventories have been written down to cost or market, whichever was the lower, and pale crepe rubber, in stock and manufactured, quoted at 4c per pound has been written down to 3¼c per pound.

Total current assets amount to $10,337,936.62 compared with our current liabilities of only $376,073.60, or a ratio of 37 to 1 as compared with a ratio of 25 to 1 a year ago. Cash on hand of $684,544.08 alone is approximately two and one-half times the total of current liabilities, although cash reserves were reduced by prepayment of $44,028.32 in Federal income taxes. Current assets include $5,873,488.37 in call loans and Government bonds. These bonds, which include a large percentage of Canadian Government bonds, have been written down to markets as of Dec. 31st.

During the year, the working capital was increased by $77,006.06. Bonds of the Goodyear Cotton Company to the amount of $100,000 were redeemed in accordance with sinking fund requirements, $85,000.00 of Preferred stock of the Rubber Company was redeemed. Necessary additions to plant and equipment were made to the amount of $134,785.09.

The marked reduction in motor car and truck production in Canada for 1932 had affected sales, the company being a large supplier of tires to manufacturers. All these factors operating to reduce production had correspondingly increased unit costs. In addition, the discount on the Canadian dollar, averaging 12 per cent. as compared with 4 per cent, for 1931, had increased the cost of production.

Decreased purchasing power of the public had resulted in a larger demand for lower priced tires, a larger market for second hand or used tires, and more old tires repaired. Increased credit losses affected the rubber industry in about the same ratio as they have other businesses. New taxes and increases in old taxes had increased the company's payment of taxation over 35 per cent., exclusive of Federal income tax and duties on imported materials, in spite of the fact that the rubber industry showed a decrease in dollar sales of 30 per cent.

NARROWLY ESCAPES DROWNING

STRATFORD, Ont. — Falling through the ice of the Avon River while on her way to school to-day, Ruth Hunt, a pupil at Falstaff Public School, narrowly escaped death by drowning.

J. A. Triller and Ken Cook noticed the girl's plight and were able to pull her to stronger ice. The immersion had no serious effect on her.

YOUTH SUICIDES AFTER KILLING HIS STEP-SISTER

Accidently Shoots Girl Then Cuts Her Throat To Stop Struggles.

LEAVES NOTE EXPLAINING.

Police Hint At Evidence Of Row Between Children Of Two Families.

MONTREAL, Feb. 21 (C.P.). — Horror-stricken at having accidentally dealt his step-sister a fatal wound, Andrew Gibson, 21, to-day committed suicide. The bodies of Gibson and the girl, Jean Kelly, 16, were discovered by members of the family.

The girl apparently was shot while asleep in bed; in addition her throat had been slashed with a razor blade. Gibson's body was found in an adjoining room with a bullet wound in the forehead and a rifle on the floor nearby.

A note had been written in a scribbler on the bureau of the girl's room. "It was an accident," said the note. "My arm struck the door and the shot went off. I hated to see her kicking."

Intended To Shoot Rats.

Detectives stated Gibson had borrowed the .22 calibre rifle from a neighbor last night. He had said he intended going out to shoot rats today. Assistant Inspector Brodeau said there had evidently been "a row between the children of both families."

The dead girl was housekeeper for her father. Gibson, the stepson, and three other children lived in the home.

Mrs. Kelly, mother of both Gibson and the girl, is in Scotland visiting relatives. Gibson had been out of work for two years. Archibald Kelly, the girl's father, said that to his knowledge his stepson and daughter had always been on good terms and had loved each other like brother and sister.

Both bodies were taken to the morgue for autopsy. An inquest will be held to-morrow.

Ontario Legislature Moves To Halt Seizure Of Farmers' Steeds For Debts

TORONTO, Feb. 21.—Many years ago, when legislation was first enacted to safeguard farmers, craftsmen and others from losing the tools of their trades, someone made a glaring error.

It has just been uncovered. The first essential in farming is a team of horses. And yet horses have not been exempt from seizure when a farmer got too far into debt and a bailiff came along to take property for his creditors.

Recently Attorney-General Price received a letter from a farmer. It said, in effect: "My horses have been seized for debt, so how can I continue farming?"

Col. Price did not believe the statement since it has been the accepted belief for years that enough horses with which to carry on at least skeleton farming were included in the list of property which, by law, is exempt from seizure.

But he started a check-up, and found that the man who had seized the farmer's horses had been within his rights.

Therefore, Friday afternoon Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, introduced an amendment to the Executions Act. It adds to the exemption list, untouched for years, two horses and their harness.

The other property which must be left to a farmer, even if all his other possessions are seized and sold for debt, follows: one cow, six sheep, four hogs, 12 hens and one dog, and feed for them. Including the new exemption, the total value of these goods, left to allow a farmer to start anew, must not exceed $200.

HERRIDGE TALKS TO ROOSEVELT

STATEMENT LATE TO-DAY.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (C.P.)—President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, conferred to-day with W. D. Herridge, the Canadian Minister, after a conversation with the French Ambassador, Paul Claudel. Yesterday he conferred with Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador.

Mr. Herridge reached the Roosevelt home just as the French Ambassador concluded a 45-minute conference with the President-elect.

All signs pointed to the fact that President-elect Roosevelt is laying the ground-work for immediate economic readjustment in world affairs.

The visit of the Canadian Minister was linked with the statement yesterday by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett in the House of Commons that Canada is desirous of effecting a reciprocal trade agreement with the United States.

Up to Roosevelt

Mr. Bennett, however, left it up to Roosevelt to make the first step.

Reciprocal tariff agreements and stabilization of the monetary exchanges are fundamental points in the Roosevelt world economic program.

Claudel was accompanied by Emmanuel Monick, financial attache of the French embassy.

Asked if war debts had been discussed, the ambassador spread his hands and said:

"We discussed many things, everything. Mr. Roosevelt has a nice communique for you."

The president-elect sent out word he would issue his statement at 4 p.m. It was not disclosed whether representatives of other nations would be called in during the day.

The office staff insisted it knew of no other engagements, but Mr. Roosevelt had about cancelled plans to leave here to-night for Hyde Park.

LABOR LEAGUE DISGUISED REDS

"amnesty" for the eight Communist prisoners at Portsmouth, including Tim Buck, and all others held for "workers' activities." The number was 64. Remarks about terrorism and capitalism were heard repeatedly from the delegation in regard to the present economic system.

Answering the delegation, Premier Bennett stated that Mr. Smith had begun his remarks by expressing appreciation for the hearing. "Has anyone ever heard of any freer speech being permitted than has been uttered in this room by your delegation?" he asked. "And those of you who come from foreign lands should appreciate this."

The statement of the delegation that the prosecution of the Communists was a "frame-up" was absolutely untrue, Premier Bennett said. No deputation was necessary, the courts of the land would deal with the convicts who were involved in the prison riots at Portsmouth and elsewhere. The courts alone would decide on what should be done to leaders of the revolts. The law was on the statute book to enforce penal discipline: "It is an old law and will be older," Mr. Bennett added.

See Landscape Design At The Legion Hall

Every citizen should be interested in the International Peace Garden, which is now an assured fact and is being developed by the governments of Canada and the United States as a testimonial of the long period of peaceexisting between the two great countries. The creator of the design adopted by the committee is in Peterboroughg to-day and is exhibiting this afternoon and evening large drawings of the design at the Legion Hall. He will lecture to-night at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the Peterborough Horticultural Society, and many of our citizens should attend.

and the opportunities of success are few," he continued.

Construct Not Destroy

"Disappointment and disaster lead to discouragement and teachers of false principles make headway," he said. "We can stimulate right thought by candid and fair discussion of our affairs. Of necessity, we will disagree with the government on many issues. In that disagreement however, let us construct and not destroy."

The speech from the throne, he said, was not a working speech but might be termed prophetical or futuristic. "Its wording is most vague and meaningless."

He asked for a fair deal for the opposition parties in the redistribution bill which will be laid before the House shortly. "Give rural representation a smaller unit. Try and get ridings more equal in size. Rural Ontario will necessarily suffer. Let us over here have our part in the work."

Calls For Election.

Calling for an immediate dissolution of Parliament, H. C. Nixon, Progressive leader in the Ontario Legislature, to-day moved an amendment to the Speech from the Throne.

The amendment follows: "This House begs to advise Your Honor (Lieutenant-Governor H. A. Bruce), the present so-called Henry Government does not enjoy the confidence of the majority of the people of Ontario, and is maladministrating the public affairs under the mandate given Mr. Ferguson (former Premier G. H. Ferguson) in 1929. We advise therefore only routine business of the House be carried out and with all possible despatch, and the Legislature should then forthwith be dissolved."

H. C. Nixon, Progressive leader, who followed Mr. Sinclair, strongly attacked the government for its part in the Abitibi power deal. "I propose to present at the proper time resolutions asking for the tabling of all documents, contracts and correspondence in connection with this most astounding and most improvident deal," he declared.

CLARENCE BELL, LAKEFIELD BORN, DIES IN TORONTO

Assistant Registrar of Supreme Court—Long At Osgoode.

PROMINENT ANGLICAN.

Helped To Organize The Anglican Young People's Association.

TORONTO, Feb. 21—After a brief illness, Clarence A. Bell, 30 Lascelles Boulevard, a prominent official attached to the Supreme Court, and had been associated with the Provincial Civil Service for forty-eight years.

Born in Lakefield, Ont., Mr. Bell was in his sixty-fourth year. During the regime of Sir Oliver Mowat, Mr. Bell was appointed a junior in the Attorney-General's office, and gradually rose through the service until he became Assistant Registrar of the highest court in the Province.

Active in Church Work

Mr. Bell was also well known on account of his connection with the Anglican Church. He was active in laymen's movements, and took a leading part in the formation of the Anglican Young People's Association, as well as the Progress Bible Class. He was a member of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, where he held theoffice of warden for several years. As a licensed lay reader he conducted services in Bartlett Avenue School until he built St. Edmund's Parish, which has a handsome edifice at Davenport and Dovercourt Roads. He assisted in founding the Church of the Good Shepherd, Mount Dennis. Since moving to North Toronto he had been a member of Christ Church, Deer Park.

Prominent in Societies

Mr. Bell was a member of Ionic Lodge, A.F. & A. M.; St. Patrick Chapter, R.A.M.; Clarke Wallace, L.O.L., the Knights of Pythias and the I.O.F., in which he held important offices.

He is survived by his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Alex. Bell, Toronto; his widow; a daughter, Miss Sybil, at home; and a son, Arthur A. Bell, Toronto; three sisters, Mrs. Benjamin Gale, Victoria, B.C.; Mrs. Fred Robinson, California; Mrs. Edward L. Crawford, Toronto; and three brothers, Allan Bell, Boston, and Charles and Norman, Toronto.

From Rev. J. D. Paterson, rector of All Saints church, it was learned that Clarence A. Bell was the first president of the Dominion council of the Anglican Young People's Association, and continued in the presidency for some years.

"I came to know Mr. Bell when I was at the church of St. Mary the Virgin in Toronto," Rev. Mr. Paterson said, "and I regarded him as one of must best friends. I saw him the last time a week ago when I visited him at the General hospital Toronto. Mr. Bell suffered a stroke last fall, and from that time his health gradually declined.

I had several telegrams from the family this morning, and have been asked to assist in the funeral service which will be on Thursday at 2 p.m. from Christ Church, Deer Park, Toronto."

Rev. Mr. Paterson has been asked to represent the local council of the A.Y.P.A. at the funeral.

Dr. Alex Bell of Toronto, father of the deceased, was prominent in municipal affairs of Dummer township. The family was well known in the township, and also in Lakefield and Peterborough.

LIFE AND WORK OF ST. PAUL IS TOLD BY REV. T. H. FLOYD

Rector of Christ Church Gives Interesting Address At Rotary Luncheon.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 21.—The life and work of the great St. Paul formed the theme for a Campbellford Rotary club address yesterday when the Rev. T. H. Floyd, rector of Christ Church, Campbellford gave a splendid talk on this man of the ages, pointing out that in days like these, when we need an example of courage and perseverance, we could not find a better one than St. Paul.

Paul of Tarsus, the name of the city in which he was born, should be studied with the world in which he lived the speaker pointed out, giving an outline of the three great races then in existence, the Hebrews, the Greeks and the Romans.

The Greeks were a wonderful people, giving to the world the art and learning that exists even today. Possessing a flexible language which formed the means of transporting the Gospel through its universality, they were a race that we look back to with gratitude, although in Saul's day the golden age of Greece was in the past.

The Romans were the masters of the world, Empire builders they had welded together a magnificent empire, spreading their power to every known land. But with all this there was a sink of rottenness under it all Mr. Floyd said. The great emperor Nero was a man who murdered his own mother and kicked his wife to death. Tourists in Rome today are shown the great Circus Maximus which held 200,000 people. Here carnivals of blood were held. Men fought men; men fought animals; dwarfs fought dwarfs; women fought women; blindfolded men fought each other while the massed citizens cheered. Under Trojan 10,000 gladiators were used up in half a year. Every two people on the streets of Rome were slaves, brought home from the conquests of the army. The better ones of these crowded into Christianity, the worst debauched and rotted the populace. And yet the Romans gave laws that are a basis for our laws today and built roads that are still in existence.

And the third race of people were the Jews, the only race that believed in one God. They were a wonderful and mysterious people, said had done wonderful things for the world, the people to whom was entrusted the Word of God, the Bible.

Such was the world when Saul was born in Tarsus in Cilicia, a city that was the centre of commerce and trade, boasting a university and built on the banks of the River Cydnus. It was a pagan city, yet here Saul received his education, later being sent to Jerusalem, where he studied under the great Gamaliel, eventually graduating and becoming a rabbi of the church.

For ten years he was away, probably in the country, and then he returned to Jerusalem to find in the streets the followers of Jesus proclaiming that the Messiah had died and risen, and was the Nazarene. This was too much for Saul, who immediately started the persecution of all followers of Christ. Gaining power he was given authority to go to Damascus to punish the Christians there. It was on this journey that his conversion took place, this event having been described as the turning point of the history of the world.

Paul started his ministry by spending seven years in Arabia in contemplation. Then coming to Antioch he found that Barnabas was conducting a revival there, with which he helped him. Then commenced the three great missionary journeys which formed the life work of this great teacher and exponent of Christianity.

The first of these, in company with Barnabas, started from Antioch, from which city they went to the Island of Cyprus, from there to Perga, and on to Tarsus and home to Antioch. The second tour Paul took alone and proved one of the most outrivalled expeditions in history. He went over the old route of his first journey until he came to Troas. Here a decision must be made—should they proceed westward or eastward? But through a vision Paul saw a man of Macedonia calling him to come over and help, and Paul accepted the instruction and went, which put the seal on the fate of the Western world as a Christian sphere. From here he went to Athens where he met his first defeat through the indifference of the people, and then on to Corinth.

The third of Paul's journeys covered Asia, where he was for three years, and also to the church in Greece. Going to Jerusalem at the time of the Feast of Penticost, he was recognized, seized, rescued by the Roman police, and sent to Cesarea for safety. He later asked to be sent to Rome for trial, the right of a Roman. This was allowed, and he came before the Emperor and was freed.

After this event, Paul renewed his wanderings, but hatred toward the Christians was fanned by Nero after Rome was fired, and Paul was rearrested, tried, and beheaded outside the city wall of Rome.

The gathering was presided over by Elie Brunelle, the community singing being led by Stanley Neale.

MUCH WORK DONE SEWING MEETING

Mrs. L. M. Bonneville Entertains Women's Guild of St. Thomas' Church.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 21.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Mrs. L. M. Bonneville entertained the Women's Guild of St. Thomas' Church at her home on Thursday afternoon for the initial sewing meeting of that organization, work being started on a number of articles, fancy and useful, intended for sale at the series of afternoon teas usually sponsored by the W.A. during the summer months.

Seventeen members were present and a goodly amount of work accomplished under the general supervision of Mrs. J. E. Allen, convenor of the guild. Work for the annual bale sent in April by the W.A. will also be accomplished at the sewing gatherings which are in prospect. The hostess, who is secretary of the social service committee in the W.A., served a dainty lunch before the guests left for home. The next event in the Anglican Church calendar will be the illustrated travel talk to be given in the Parish Hall on Tuesday, February 21, at 8 p.m., to which the public generally is invited.

Grace Church W.M.S.

The February meeting of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of Grace Presbyterian Church was held in the Sunday school auditorium on Thursday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. William Deyell, in the chair, Mrs. (Rev.) H. R. Williams reading the Scripture lesson and taking the opening prayer.

Mrs. Z. Seaton took up the study book, "The Tide of Opportunity," covering the work of Caroline MacDonald in her instructive talk, and business items included discussion of plans for a tea or hot supper within the next few weeks. Mrs. Hawthorne, who had invited the W.A. to her home for the gathering on Thursday, was unable to entertain the members, owing to the illness of her daughter, Mrs. J. Thompson, who has an attack of flu, her mother being necessarily called to her home. The next event in the Grace Church calendar is the hot supper on March 4, in the J. Steele store, the Women's League sponsoring this undertaking, this organization having been meeting weekly on Wednesday afternoons practically throughout the winter and working on quilts, some of which will be for relief, some for the annual W.A. bale and some for sale.

Representatives from the three Women's Missionary Auxiliaries of the village met at the parsonage on Friday afternoon to discuss plans for the annual day of prayer on March 3, Miss MacNamara and Mrs. H. J. Russell representing the Anglican W.A., Mrs. S. E. Eakins and Mrs. Deyell the Presbyterian, Mrs. J. H. George and the hostess, Mrs. (Rev.) W. W. Jones the United Church. The official program will be followed, the gathering this year being in St. Andrew's Church, the custom being to take each in turn when this annual event comes round.

The pupils of the Continuation School, with their teachers, W. H. Jordan and S. W. Sawker, enjoyed a jolly party at the school assembly hall on Thursday evening, games, dancing and music completing the program, the happy gathering breaking up before midnight.

The Public School pupils, with their teachers, Principal B. B. Dawsonfi Misses L. Orchard and B. Montgomery, had a pleasant skating party on Attwell and Shepherd's pond Friday evening, the ice being in good condition and not limited as to space for the skaters, though the season's ice harvest is being taken from this pond and is almost completed for the current winter.

Mr. S. E. Eakins was in Hamilton this week attending the Retail Hardware Merchants' annual convention, leaving on Monday and returning Thursday evening.

Mr. Roskelly, of Port Hope, has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Edmunds and family this week, celebrating a birthday anniversary on St. Valentine's Day.

Clery, grown in Ontario, was sold in Calgary, Alberta, for the first time in January this year.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 21 (C.P.).—Claribel Batterman was voted the most beautiful girl of the Freshman Law School class of the University of Cincinnati.

She was voted the best-dressed, too; and the smartest; and the most popular and the cleverest.

She's the only girl in the class.

Hastings Board Doing Good Work

HASTINGS, Feb. 21.—(Examiner Correspondence). — The Hastings Public Welfare Board, which organized last November, are receiving the praises of the ratepayers of the village for the very capable and efficient manner they are carrying on the work. The December relief cost $106.00, for January $110.90; of this the board received a grant from the Government of $70.00, and the balance has been raised by concerts and donations, so that up to the present the corporation has not been called upon for any assistance. There are five families on relief at the present time.

BETHEL Y.P.S.

Play Hosts to Omemee Group —Fine Program of Songs, Musicals and Speeches.

EAST EMILY, Feb. 21 (Examiner Correspondence). — On Thursday evening, February 16th, the members of the Young People's Society of Bethel United Church entertained the Young People of Trinity United Church, Omemee, in the basement of the church, with a large crowd present, despite the snowy evening.

Mr. Sidney Colley took charge of the worship period, after which Miss Marion Rea, president of Bethel Society, welcomed the Omemee guests.

Guitar duet—Misses Gladys Smith and Grace Best; solo, Mr. Marcelle Bowen.

Three speeches were given by three of the Omemee Young People, taking for their subject, "If I Were Prime Minister," "First speech by Dr. McPhee"; quartette, Harrison Brothers; second speech, Miss Verna Gardner; solo, Mr. Sidney Colley; third speech, Mr. Howard Vaughan; quartette, Harrison Brothers; solo in French, "O Canada," Mr. Marcelle Bowen.

Miss Louise Bray then put on a geography contest, which was very much enjoyed. And then, of course, perhaps, the most enjoyable part of all was the serving of dainty refreshments by the Bethel Young People.

Mr. William Weir, president of the Omemee Society, moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Bethel Young People for the pleasant evening's entertainment.

Valentine Spirit At Bethany Meeting

BETHANY, Feb. 21.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The members of the Y.P.S. of the United Church held their weekly meeting in the church parlors on Wednesday evening with a splendid attendance.

Community singing was enjoyed for a short time, followed by the following program: Reading, Arthur Patterson; solo, Frances McKinnon; trumpet solo, Ben Page; reading, Eric Porteous; instrumental piano selection, Lorraine Jackson; reading, Letty Vandergayt.

The evening's entertainment was in keeping with St. Valentine and the contest was based on the word "Miss," meaning much matching of wits.

The social part was in the form of a pie social and was greatly enjoyed.

W.M.S. Meets.

The members of the Women's Missionary met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Sara McMullen, and the attendance was much smaller, owing to sickness in the community.

Mr. George Dickson, of Toronto, is the guest of Mr. William Davis, Glengarry road, for a few days.

Rev. Mr. Holden was a recent visitor to Toronto.

Warsaw W.M.S. Holds Jolly Meeting

WARSAW, Feb. 21.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Mrs. G. G. Taylor entertained the active members of the United Church W.M.S. Mrs. Taylor, assisted by Mrs. Thomas Clements, received her guests. The large living-room was decorated with heart motifs and Chinese lilies. The main object of the meeting was to, if possible, increase the subscription to the Missionary Monthly. A missionary rally song, composed by Mrs. Taylor, was sung. The subscriptions to the Monthly were taken after a little talk on the real need of every member taking it. Mrs. Wallace Anderson and Mrs. Charlotte Cooper gave short readings, Mrs. Brethren gave a mouth-organ selection, Mrs. O. B. McIlvena sang, and Mrs. Wilkinson gave a beautiful piano selection.

Mrs. Arthur Payne is visiting friends in Toronto.

Mrs. Thomas Cooper is spending a few days in the village with her daughter, Mrs. McIlvena.

Obituary

CHARLES H. BLACK

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 21 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—A prominent business man of Campbellford, Charles H. Black passed away in New York on Sunday, February 19, where he has been undergoing treatment for the past few weeks. He was aged 52 years. The funeral will be held on Thursday morning from St. Mary's Church, Campbellford, where Requiem Mass will be said, interment being made in St. Mary's cemetery.

THOMAS H. BUCHANAN

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 21 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—The funeral of the late Thomas Henry Buchanan was held on Monday afternoon from the family residence, Seymour Township, to Tabernacle Church, English Line(where service was held, conducted by the Rev. F. G. MacTavish; interment being made in English Line cemetery.

The late Mr. Buchanan, who died on Saturday, was aged 56 years. Born in Seymour Township, he has lived there all his life, carrying on the occupation of farming at his family home. Surviving are his father, Samuel Buchanan; three brothers at home and one daughter, Mrs. William McDonald of Seymour West.

eral stated, he had only come across one man whom he believed to be impossible of reclamation, and who was not glad to see him when he left the penitentiary. That man was killed three weeks after he left prison. He was the victim of a policeman's bullet in Buffalo, of which city he was a native. The speaker firmly believed that there was good in all men. "I loved the work," he stated, "because I love my fellow men."

In answer to a question by the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, pastor of St. Paul's Church, the General said that a large percentage of the prison population to-day was made up of young men. In British Columbia forty-seven per cent. of the prisoners were young men convicted of murder, manslaughter and armed robbery. He believed the root of the trouble lay in the lack of proper parental discipline and control. He suggested that the old fashioned use of the rod would be beneficial. Parents of the present day were too inclined to spoil their children.

Introduced by R. R. Hall, K.C.

Brother of the late Sir Sam Hughes and beloved Commander of the 21st Overseas Battalion which he recruited, General Hughes was guest of honor at the banquet presided over by Hurrell Dodds, president of the Men's Club.

Following presentation of a birthday cake to Dr. Barr by James Anderson, and the honoring of the toast to "The King," proposed by Lieut.-Col. W. Gordon Hall, V.D., the speaker was introduced by R. R. Hall, K.C. Touching briefly upon some of the prison reforms, Mr. Hall described the present conception of prison as being a place of correction rather than of punishment. It was a system that aimed at the prevention of crime and the reformation of the person who had gone wrong.

Over 200 Present

Included among the gathering, which numbered over two hundred people and the size of which exceeded all expectations, was a group of 21st Battalion Club members, along with their president, F. C. Roberts. Towards the close of the program, Mr. Roberts thanked the men of St. Paul's for having extended an invitation to the members of the 21st Battalion to be present at the function and to have the opportunity of again meeting their old O.C.

Later, Dr. N. H. Sutton came over to the meeting,—an emissary from the local branch of the Canadian Legion. With permission of the toastmaster, he extended an invitation to General Hughes, and all other ex-servicemen to pay a visit to the Legion Hall, where arrangements had been concluded for their further entertainment.

General Hughes expressed keen pleasure at having men of his old battalion present at the function. "The 21st never gave up a position they had captured," he remarked. "They never backed up."

Bugler to Brigadier

Recounting his earliest recollection of military service, General Hughes recalled having been in camp with his unit on the Otonabee River between Peterborough and Rice Lake as a boy of nine. He had a tailored uniform and a beautiful bugle. One day the paymaster came down from Ottawa. He wanted to know who I was. He asked if I could blow the calls on the bugle. I said "Yes." "I didn't 'Sir' him, I was mad.

Launching into his address on prison administration and touching upon the recent riots at Kingston Penitentiary and the garbled reports that were contained in some of the newspapers, the General observed, "We had the military in Kingston in the '60's. The only way to stop prison riots, he said, was to be "on the job" and to pick out the ringleaders.

He recalled that one evening he received a call from Kingston Penitentiary at about five-thirty in the afternoon. He reached there at 12.30 in the morning. A riot had been planned. He went into the dome, put on a pair of felt slippers and went to the cell block. He heard the ring-leaders discussing plans for the start of the riot the next morning. "I called in and asked what part they would like me to play. The riot was stopped There was never a riot while I was there," he said.

Talking is Permitted

During the time he was at Kingston Penitentiary, the General said, they had turned out over sixty per cent. of the prisoners at the conclusion of their sentences who had never so much as been reported for breaches of discipline. As regards prisoners talking, he said, he never knew they were not allowed to talk. No prisoner was barred from talking as long as he could talk properly and not resort to obscenity, although talking was not permitted after nine o'clock at night until dawn the day following.

In a matter-of-fact, conversational voice, the speaker told how he had actually prevented a riot at one time at St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary. The men were in an ugly mood and a riot threatened. He let them see who was master of the situation, ordered thirteen of the ringleaders disciplined, and sent the remainder off to church. That was his only experience of anything like a riot. In all the penal institutions he had been in from coast to coast, that was the only approach to serious trouble he had ever experienced. It was not however, always possible where there were so many men confined under strict discipline to prevent minor breaches of peace.

Among the slides that were shown in conjunction with the lecture, were numerous interesting pictures of Kingston Penitentiary and other penal institutions throughout the Dominion where great and beneficial changes were wrought by General Hughes. Pictures also included interesting views of the cell blocks with the automatic devices for locking the cell doors.

Airy and spacious, the cells themselves are fitted with a bed, wash bowl with running water, and toilet accommodation; as well as hot air. That was in contrast to one of the cell blocks of some years ago at Kingston where, the General stated, the snow was often driven down the corridor in winter time and the men had to sleep with their clothes on to keep warm.

The general system in all the institutions is for the prisoners to learn useful occupations to fit them for re-entry into society upon completion of their terms of imprisonment. Farming, harness-making, machine shop work, stone masonry and similar trades are taught.

Dr. Barr tendered a vote of hearty thanks to the speaker; while Dr. J. J. Craig voiced appreciation to the entertainers and to the members of the Ladies' Aid who were responsible for the dinner arrangements. The entertainers included Charles M. Lawrence, Howard Macdonald, Marion Armstrong, and Jessie Pattison. A skit was also presented by a group of the choristers. Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., played the piano accompaniments.

"When all else failed Eagle Brand pulled her through!"

MRS. J. MOONEY, 222 East Eighth St., Hamilton, Ont., writes: "Just before my baby was three months old I found I could not satisfactorily nurse her. For almost two months I tried various milks but none agreed with her. I read different times about Eagle Brand, so I decided to use it. A week showed a difference. Barbara became contented, would go to sleep after her feeding without any fuss and no vomiting. Now at 7 months she is just average weight, bright and active and so contented, which means quite a bit to a busy mother of four active children."

If you are unable to nurse your own baby, follow the advice of hundreds of thousands of mothers and try Eagle Brand. The coupon below will bring you full informative literature.

PEACE GARDEN IS DESCRIBED

COLORED DESIGN.

An address, interesting, unique and educational, punctuated with references to peace and world conditions, was listened to with rapt attention by a small audience in the Canadian Legion hall last night, when Mr. Kneller of Winnipeg, known as "K.K." spoke to his listeners about the International Peace Garden.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the local Horticultural Society, with Dr. A. J. Madill in the chair.

Standing before a large colored design representing a garden of 3,000 acres which was dedicated last year, the speaker explained the structure and design of the Garden, which has 1,500 acres in Southern Manitoba and 1,500 acres in North Dakota.

He explained the plan of paths, walls, buildings and greenhouses and described the large plots of flowers, fruits and trees.

Mr. Kneller, who has been travelling since last July throughout Canada in the interests of the Peace Garden, which is a reminder for all time of the good spirit existing between the two countries, will speak again to-night in the Legion Hall, where the Landscape Design of the Peace Garden will be on view all this week.

Police Foil Plots On Japanese Leader

KOBE, Japan, Feb. 21 (C.P.). — Police thwarted two attempts by reactionaries upon the life of Yukio Ozaki, veteran Liberal leader, when he arrived home to-day from a long stay abroad.

The 73-year-old disarmament champion and ex-Mayor of Tokyo had said, when leaving London more than a month ago, that he knew certain assassination awaited him in Japan. But, he wrote his son, he would "die with a smile."

When the Terukuni Maru from London, with Ozaki aboard, docked here this morning, police detained three members of a patriotic society attempting to board the liner to see Ozaki.

Later, as Ozaki stepped to the pier, two youths brandishing clubs attempted to reach him. But police intervened, arresting the assailants, and Ozaki escaped unharmed.

DEATH.

McCANN. — The death occurred this morning in Detroit of Mrs. John McCann, formerly Mary O'Leary, of Indian River, Ont.

The remains will arrive on Wednesday on the noon train to the home of her sister Mrs. Thomas Lynch, Otonabee.

Funeral announcements later.

IN MEMORIAM.

ADAMSON. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. H. T. Adamson, who died on February 16, 1924, and our father, H. T. Adamson, who died February 18, 1929.

Those whom we love go out of sight,
But never out of mind;
They are cherished in the hearts
Of those they leave behind.

NATIONAL OIL PRODUCTS SHOWS HIGHER PROFITS

NEW YORK, Feb. 21. (AP)—By sticking to science right in the trough of depression, the National Oil Company, reported to-day a 15 percent rise in net profits for 1932, an increase in employees and no pay cuts.

This company deals not in petroleum, but in the other kinds of oil, specially cod-liver, castor and olive oils. It specializes in the discoveries of scientific laboratories, such as methods of adding vitamins from oil to milk and bread, the use of oils in cosmetics and special oils for textiles.

The report gives the company's total liabilities and capital as $1,700,000 in round members. Its net income is given as $228,000, a 15 percent gain over 1931. It employs now about 250 persons.

LOWER SCHOOL COSTS.

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 21 (C.P.).—East Windsor is seeking some way to avoid the cost of pupils attending Walkerville Collegiate and Windsor-Walkerville Technical School. It costs the city some $37,000 a year now for about 200 pupils in the latter institution and 98 in the former. This is more than is budgeted for at the East Windsor Separate School Board with 1,537 pupils.

The death occurred on Monday morning at St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, of Vincent J. Heenan, son of Mrs. Mary Heenan and the late Patrick Heenan.

Mr. Heenan had been employed at the Toronto Hydro Electric plant for the past six years. He leaves his mother, and his wife and infant son; also four sisters, Mrs. F. H. Kearney, Mrs. J. Anglesey, Mrs. R. L. Donoghue and Miss Irene. His father predeceased him four months ago.

The funeral is to be held from his mother's residence, 797 Water street, on Thursday morning, at Interment at St. Peter's Cemetery.

Unemployed May Use Y.M.C.A. Facilities

The unemployed young men of the city and district are invited to use the facilities of the Y.M.C.A. without cost to themselves on Tuesday and Friday mornings of each week for the balance of the present season. The showers and the swimming pool will be open to the unemployed group from 9.30 to 11.30 on these two mornings of each week. A program in the gymnasium will be arranged if a sufficient number of men are interested in this activity.

All young men wishing to take advantage of this offer are urged to get in touch with the staff for further details.

Criminally Insane Moved From Guelph

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 21 (C.P.) — One hundred criminally insane, housed for years at the Ontario Reformatory here, were taken today to Penetanguishene, where a new building has been erected for them. The transfer was kept secret until after its completion to avoid the gathering of curious crowds. A special train was used to move the prisoners.

Much-needed accommodation will be made available here by the transfer. The reformatory has been taxed to capacity for some time.

Segregation of the criminally insane in a more suitable building was recommended here about three years ago by a coroner's jury investigating the murder of "Scoble Dan" Macdonald, who was slugged over the head with an iron bar by another insane inmate. Steps then were taken by the Provincial Government to provide more satisfactory accommodation and found their completion in the transfer today.

GALWAY HEADS OLDEST REGIMENT IN WORLD

LONDON, Feb. 21 (C.P. Cable). —Command of the world's oldest regiment, the Honourable Artillery Company, is to devolve upon Lord Galway, who served in the war as Lieutenant-Colonel of the Life Guards. His Lordship is succeeding the Earl of Denbigh, who has commanded the regiment for forty years.

No other combatant unit can boast such unbroken traditions as the H.A.C. Its earliest members were armed with the bow and arrow, but the corps has always remained abreast of the times. It forsook the longbow for the musket and pike, and then discarded the pike for the bayonet. When the regular army adopted the rifle the H.A.C. was quick to follow suit.

In the Great War the Company maintained five batteries and two battalions on active service, besides supplying more than 4,000 officers for other units.

26 Rinks Undefeated

Twenty-six rinks were undefeated to-day of the 100 which began the sixth annual Toronto bonspiel yesterday. These 26 are the winners of the preliminary round of the Birks-Ellis-Ryrie Trophy event, the original winners in the Royal York moving into this competition while the losers revert to the North American Life event.

Only one of last year's champions encountered any great trouble yesterday. Charley Bulley's Toronto Granite rink, grand aggregate winners last year, met with two reverses. First they were ousted from the Royal York by H. H. Chisholm's Toronto club quartet by a margin of one shot and then losing to J. Robinson, of Milton, after an extra end, in the North American.

COUNTY COUNCIL IS GOING TO TORONTO

Members Will Attend The Good Roads Convention This Week.

Tickets have been bought for the County Council's trip to Toronto on Wednesday morning to attend the annual convention of the Good Roads Association.

Warden McIntosh told The Examiner a few days ago that he didn't know how many of the members were going, but it is understood that the usual provision has been made for all the members who wish to avail themselves of the information gleaned from the sessions which continue until Friday. It has been customary for every member "to take in this trip," and the Council has usually been accompanied by the county clerk and the county road superintendent.

At the January meeting of the County Council it was decided to attend this year's convention. The neighboring United Counties of Northumberland and Durham took a different view of the benefits of this annual event among provincial road builders, and concluded that in as much as their Council was committed this year to little more than maintenance, they could economize by passing up the convention. They also declined to pay the membership fee of $15.00.

CITY COUNCIL IS ASKED TO GIVE $4,000 TO BOARD

cook was reduced $60 from $720 to $660. The salary of the laundress, who will also do the work of a general maid, was cut from $360 to $240 a year.

Other important reductions were made in the amounts set out for fuel, light and electric current, and for groceries and provisions.

A letter was received from Miss Price stating that she had been informed of the new schedule of hours as drawn up for her by the Board. She informed the Board that she found these new hours "unsatisfactory and most inconvenient to me and my work." She asked that some further consideration be given the matter by the Board.

Without comment Miss Price's letter was received without action, on motion of Aldermen Holland and McIntyre.

When it came to the consideration of the applications for nurses at the hospital, Alderman Holland moved that Miss Scollard be hired, and Alderman McIntyre supported the motion.

Mayor Denne and Dr. T. W. H. Young introduced an amendment that Miss Scollard and Miss Adam both be hired. Alderman Stocker supported the motion, and the amendment was defeated.

However, so strenuously and to such point did Mayor Denne and Dr. Young urge that it was necessary that two nurses be appointed that they brought both Aldermen Holland and McIntyre to their view and later the motion appointing both nurses was carried.

Do Not Need Nurses.

Alderman Stocker said, "There's no patients up there now. We don't need two nurses."

Dr. Young—"You don't know when you will need them."

Alderman Stocker — "I think it is just a waste of money. Appoint one and I can get others when they are required, in ten minutes."

Mayor Denne—"But you'll pay more than $20 a month for them, and they won't be graduate nurses, fully trained."

Mayor Denne urged that both nurses be appointed so that "we will be prepared for an outbreak which may come any minute."

Alderman Stocker—"Oh, we'll take the chance."

Mayor Denne—"Get the two of them and then your hospital is fully equipped and the public is being properly safeguarded. It's true economy."

The motion then carried appointing both nurses.

Little Argument.

When it came to Miss Price's salary, Dr. Young thought that $1,000 was too little for the matron of the hospital, Mayor Denne replied, "Not under present conditions, when you consider we are hiring graduate nurses at $20 a month." This argument disposed of the matter, and the matron's salary was fixed at $1,000.

Alderman Holland, when the caretaker and cook's salary came up for consideration, said, "Their services have been very satisfactory."

Mayor Denne—"But how many mechanics are getting less than that. These people have everything found, their food, lodgings, and they are warm and comfortable." The clippers went into the salary and cut off $60.

Mayor Denne—"We can't pay the laundress more than the nurses." And right away the laundress was cut $120, and instructions given that she must do general work as well as her laundry duties.

The various items were then added up. The estimates came to $4,305.78, but it was estimated that the receipts from the hospital would reach at least $305.78. That amount was deducted and the Board will ask the City Council for $4,000 to run the hospital this year.

"Don't forget there may be an overdraft," warned Dr. Young.

"I think we can manage. We'll keep a watch," retorted Alderman Stocker as the meeting adjourned.

Zangara's Attorneys To Consider Appeal

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 21 (A.P.)—Attorneys for Giuseppe Zangara will confer at noon to-day regarding a motion for new trial for the man who yesterday was sentenced to 80 years' imprisonment for his attempt on the life of President-elect Roosevelt and five other persons.

The announcement was made by J. M. McCaskill, one of the three Miami attorneys appointed by the court to defend Zangara.

"Our plans are not definite and I do not even know whether we will attempt future action," McCaskill said. As soon as my colleagues and I are able to get together, we will go into the whole situation."

"I can not say from what angle an appeal, if taken, would be made," he concluded.

The Ice Carnival at Brock street rink on the evening of Monday next, February 27th, promises to be a spectacular and entertaining event.

These carnivals in the past have been unvarying sources of amusement and fun for old and young alike. Costumes are judged and prizes are awarded, there will be ice skating and a dance after, with a twenty-piece band in attendance. The decorations and illuminations will be of the best.

"During the year the police investigated 147 accidents, four being fatal and 34 in which persons were injured. All of which is to be deplored. But considering the number of motor vehicles and few prosecutions in police court, this city must be blessed with fairly careful drivers."

He praised the assistance of The Examiner in issuing warnings from time to time, and also the removal of snow from the streets, which he said doubtless helped to prevent many accidents.

Many warnings were issued to motor drivers for minor breaches of the traffic regulations.

"Several outbreaks of fire were nipped in the bud by the vigilance of the police and citizens combined, he declared.

"During the year," he said, "there were numerous cases of theft and house and shop - breaking and other serious offences reported to the department, the majority of which cases being where there is little or no police supervision."

Dealing with the carrying of concealed weapons, the chief reported two such cases during the year. "This is one item I submit worth noting under the present conditions," he told the Commission.

He declared that the city is practically free of houses of ill-fame, although one such house was prosecuted during the year. "This case arose from the old source, home brew, and with such a limited force very little time can be given to obtain the necessary evidence. "Yet for all that we were very successful in curbing the growth of this evil."

He said the pool rooms had received special attention which resulted in their being no breaches of the law observed.

He reported no breaches of the Narcotic Drugs Act, "because of the vigilant efforts of the police to suppress this evil."

"During the year 1932, the members of the force discharged their duties in a very creditable manner. I have not had an occasion to even reprimand an officer for the slightest breach of the rules and regulations" Chief Newhall declared with pride.

Outlining the difficulties of the police, he said.

"Is there any body of public servants, who have had more experience with and know the meaning of the word 'depression', better than the policemen. He has worked longer hours, subjected himself to greater risks of life, contributed generously to public relief funds and individually done much to alleviate the needs of those in want. He has to stand the rigors of the weather all night long, run the risk of the criminal's pistol and the sarcasm of his enemies and if he can survive all this until he is 70 years of age, he can die in peace looking for a penson.

Needs Larger Force

"The proper and careful enforcement of the following acts: The Highway Traffic Act, the Liquor Control Act, the Narcotic Drug Act; Offensive Weapons and various other acts, to say nothing of the numerous by-laws, etc. The attendance at courts and never dying watch on our banks during business hours calls for a force twice the strength of our police force, therefore I submit that through all these years Peterborough has been most unfortunate in escaping crime of a very serious nature which can easily be explained by those who know."

4,040 Given Shelter.

Other facts reported by the Chief were: 15,336 telephone calls answered by the department; police attended 11 fires; 35 unoccupied houses were watched during the holiday season; 4,040 destitute persons, transients, were given shelter and food during the year, all being handled through the police department; 14 lost children picked up and returned to their homes, and 13 persons were arrested for other places and handed over to receive court trials.

Sixteen prisoners appeared before the Juvenile Court during the year. But he pointed out that during the year over 75 juveniles of both sexes had appeared before him for various offences. "They were cautioned and probably saved a criminal career," he said. "I have always practised this method, and in the past 13 years some 2,200 offenders of this type have been successfully dealt with, only a small number proving repeaters. In this manner the city has also been saved thousands of dollars."

It is interesting to note that 53 of those brought into police court were between 16 and 20 years; 166 between the ages of 21 and 30; 89 between 31 and 40 years of age; and 51 more than 40 but under 50; 32 between the ages of 51 and 60; and 6 over 60 years of age, and under 70.

Almost all races were represented among the prisoners, 329 being Canadians, 35 English, 11 Irish, 25 Scotch, 7 Russians, and Australia, China, Greece, Italy, Serbia and the United States being represented with one delegate to the court.

All but four of the prisoners could read and write. One hundred and fifty of them were married males and eleven married women; while there were 245 single men and seven single women. Of the prisoners, 177 were non-residents of the city.

Stolen Property.

During the year, $987.10 worth of property was reported lost, and the police recovered all but $267.25 of it. Stolen property reported totalled $8,213.37, but of this $489.62 was recovered by police. Chief Newhall said this was a very high average of recovered property, and the Commission agreed with him.

During the year, there were 103 doors found open by the police. The department collected $932 in dog licenses, and fines and costs collected by the police totalled $3,424.95 for the year.

REV. MR. SUTCLIFFE IS GUEST SPEAKER

Rev. C. D. Daniel Has Charge Of Mark Street Church Y.P.S. Meeting.

The Rev. C. D. Daniel had charge of the regular meeting of the Young People's Society of Mark Street United Church, held last evening, taking charge in the absence of the convenor of the Citizenship committee, Art. Reynolds.

The Rev. Mr. Daniel took the subject, "Archieving for Others" as the theme of the worship period.

The visiting speaker of the evening was the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church, who spoke from Matthew 16:24—"If any man will come after Me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me."

A very interesting contest which followed later was based on memory, the winners being those who could remember best verses from the 5th chapter of St. Matthew's gospel.

A well-received vocal solo was given by Miss Ena Young, accompanied by Mrs. W. A. Greenslade.

It was announced that Miss Laura Charlton will be a member of the debating team of the society in the preliminary debate for the contest of the district to take place later.

Next week, the evening will be of a social nature, with a skating party and program of games.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO HAVE COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC FINANCE

Executive Of Chamber Decided To Form Such A Committee.

STUDY EXPENDITURES.

As a result of action taken by the executive of the local Chamber of Commerce at a meeting last evening, Peterborough is to have a committee on Economy in Public Finance to study the problems of municipal expenditure and to cooperate with the Provincial organization formed recently.

President John R. Marshall was in the chair, while the object of the meeting was explained by Lieut.-Col. C. C. Ackerman, Peterborough representative on the Provincial Committee on Economy in Public Finance. Col. Ackerman gave an interesting report on the recent meeting of the Provincial committee, and outlined the ends which it was hoped to achieve. It was made clear that what was desired was the selection of a committee of representative citizens who would make a study of municipal expenditures and suggest possible savings, the recommendations of the committee to be reported to Provincial headquarters which would collect such information from all over the province. This public service would not be undertaken in a spirit of antagonism to spending bodies but on the contrary, in the hope of assisting those bodies and strengthening their hands in efforts to reduce the burden of taxation.

The executive decided unanimously that the Chamber of Commerce should organize a Peterborough committee, and President John R. Marshall, Col. Ackerman and Ald. James Hamilton were named as a sub-committee to arrange for the selection of a representative committee to undertake the most important work.

SINGING MINERS TAKEN FOR RIDE

ENTERTAIN ENGINEERS.

NEW YORK, February 21 (C.P.). —Four Cornish miners from Porcupine Ont., to-day had proved they can "take it." Arriving at the Grand Central Railway terminal from their Northern Ontario home, the "Cousin Jacks" fell victim to an inhospitable taxi driver who ran up a $1.00 fare to transport them to the Hotel Commodore, which is almost part and parcel of the station.

The miners, who are engaged to sing at the social gatherings of the annual meeting of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, grinned good-naturedly while explaining their "ride."

The four, Stanley Johns, Alfred Snow, Samuel Hoar, and Ephrium Street, are not the best singers in Porcupine. "But," according to their manager, Adolph La Prairie, "I'd hate to see some of the other boys in this town. They'd go on the loose and there's no telling what would happen. It's a tough life, working underground all day."

DALLIN AND ELLIS SCORE THREE GOALS FOR LOCALS IN BITTERLY FOUGHT CONTEST AT BELLEVILLE

Hotly Disputed Goals, Poor Refereeing, Many Penalties And a Free-for-all Fist Fight Are Highlights of O.H.A. Play-off Game.

GILLESPIE MAKES SEVERAL BRILLIANT SAVES; WEIR, ELLIS AND DALLIN ARE OUTSTANDING MEN.

The Petes' intermediates were short-changed, 6 to 3, in a bruising O.H.A. second round play-off game in Belleville last night. They face a three-goal deficit in the return fixture at the Brock Wednesday. Last night's contest, run off before eighteen hundred wildly-excited fans, was the hardest battle the Petes have been through this season. It was furiously fast throughout and flavored with hard checking from start to finish.

Play was marked by everything imaginable in a hockey game. Hotly disputed goals, poor refereeing, both sides short two and three players at a time, and finally a free-for-all fist fight that resulted in three major penalties, were some of the high lights that kept the place in an uproar for three hectic periods. Belleville deserved the win, but by not more than one goal on their play, and the Petes turned in some poor hockey, besides handicapping themselves with penalties.

Ernie Wortley Booed.

Referee Ernie Wortley was booed continuously through the third frame, and he let the play get away from him all the time. Twenty penalties were handed out and many more should have been as the teams fought bitterly and roughly for the win. The Petes drew eleven trips to the box, one a major by Creighton. The Morgan brothers both drew a major at the same time. Doherty A. C. led 3-1 to end the first, and both teams played to a 1-1 draw in the middle canto. Only in the opening session did the homesters look better.

Gillespie, Weir, Ellis and Dallin were outstanding in the Petes' cause, though the whole team fought back hard and left the ice at the finish dog-tired. Gillespie saved a flock of almost-impossible ones, and did not let a soft one by him all evening. His defence was shaky throughout, letting the speedy homesters get around them often on the larger ice surface. Weir went fine the first half with Ellis going best, the last period and a half. Dallin played fine hockey both offensively and defensively throughout. The others all looked good at times, but failed to click as well as usual on the artificial ice.

Brilliant Game in Goal.

Tice in goal for the Doherty team was largely responsible for their win, being almost impossible to beat close in or at longer range. His hard-hitting defence gave him fine support and the forwards backchecked better than the Petes, while showing more speed and a better passing game on their home sheet. McMeeking and MacDonald both turned in fine offensive efforts, while the second line of Nicoll, H. Morgan and Covert turned in stellar performances.

Play opened fast and it was not long till H. Morgan scored in close on Nicoll's pass. Dallin wormed his way through defence right back to go in and even the count. Howe went off for charging, Gillespie pulled a couple of fine saves, and then the first big argument started. Creighton took Weir's pass to lift a hot one that either hit the bar or the post of the goal. The light flashed on and an angry crowd nearly mobbed the goal-umpire. After much argument, the goal was disallowed and umpires changed. Weir was chased for slashing and Nicoll went around defence fast to put the Whiteshirts ahead. MacDonald's hard angle shot on Sherry's pass went in right after, and LeBarr and Weir were ruled off as the frame ended, for roughing it. The Petes protested the last goal, claiming it went in through a hole in the side of the net, but it was called a goal.

Getting Rougher.

Early in the second, H. Morgan and Dallin were benched for roughing it and Nicoll followed for tripping. The Petes threatened hard and then Gillespie dived out for a circus save on McMeekin. Play was very fast and exciting, and getting rougher. P. Morgan was next off for tripping, followed by LeBarr for cross-checking and then Ellis for charging (though this was a bad guess). With the Petes two short, H. Morgan scored at the goal-mouth, aided by Nicoll and Covert in a general mixup with Gillespie out of the net after one stop and Creighton lying in goal. LeBarr and Ellis pulled nice rushes, and then Howe hit the trail for tripping. Creighton almost got one, and with a minute to go, Ellis waltzed through defence with Dallin's pass to tap it in. The Blueshirts threatened but Tice was good. Dundas and MacDonald were thumbed out at the close for roughing it.

Ellis breezed around defence to score early in the third, and play was plenty hot and up and down about even, with the fans yelling their heads off. P. Morgan got a penalty for boarding, and Jim Gillespie pulled another save when his defence was beaten. Covert drew a "pinch" for slashing, and then the big scrap started. Harry Morgan made a pass at Creighton, and Red grabbed him and flopped the Belleville husky with a wicked body-slam to the ice. Brother Pete Morgan came off the bench fast after Red and players of both sides mixed it up hard with fists flying for several minutes before order was restored. Major penalties were handed the two Morgans and Creighton, but Harry had to be carried into the dressing room.

Muff Several Chances.

The Petes now had five men on to Belleville's three, but they couldn't seem to click at all, missing several fine chances till their advantage was lost. MacDonald was chased for tripping and Dallin followed for the same thing. Weir almost got through and later Ellis, Jarvis and Hatton came close on a couple of efforts, and then MacDonald skated around left defence with Nicoll's pass to go in and drill in another marker. He followed up within a minute on an assist of Covert's to fool Gillespie as the latter came out. Howe got the high sign for tripping and Belleville threatened for a space, Gillespie saving twice. Play was about even and slower at the windup.

The teams:

Petes: Goal, Gillespie; defence, Howe and LeBarr; centre, Ellis; wings, Dallin and Dundas; alternates, Weir, Jarvis, Creighton and Hatton.

Belleville: Goal, Tice; defence, Rigby and Sherry; centre, McMeekin; wings, MacDonald and P. Morgan; alternates, Nicoll, H. Morgan, Covert and Weir.

Referee, Ernie Wortley.

STRATFORD MIDGETS CAPTURE 10-5 ROUND FROM KITCHENER

U. OF T. WINS 4-2.

(By the Canadian Press.)

Nine teams in the various series of the Ontario Hockey Association prepared to-day to stow away for another season, their hockey equipment, following their elimination last night. One Senior B team — University of Toronto — fell by the wayside, along with six intermediate and two junior outfits.

The feature game of the night saw 3,500 fans pack their way into Galt Arena to watch the third and deciding game between two great junior sextettes—Stratford Midgets and Kitchener Empires.

Midgets, Sportsmen's Patriotic Association champions outplayed and outscored in the initial session staged a comeback, climaxing it with a four-goal splurge in the final frame to win 6-1. Stratford thus takes the round, 10-5, after dropping the first game by a score of 4-2.

Ray Getliffe and Desislets monopolized the winners' goal-scoring, Getliffe garnering three counters, Desislets two. Roubell scored the other.

Hause Injured.

Goldsworthy clicked for Kitchener in the opening stanza, but an injury to Hause, Empire defenceman, weakened the team and played a big part in the ensuing rout.

Midgets will, it is expected, meet Windsor Wanderers in the next round.

In their first game in the playdowns, Hamilton Patricias experienced little trouble in upsetting Niagara Falls Senior B team 5-2.

The bulky Pats found their way through the Falls' defence at random and led by Joe Worthy, gave Goalie Brown a busy session. Worthy netted three times, Bellingham and Fitzgerald scoring the others.

Outscores Oshawa 4-2.

Varsity outscored Oshawa 4-2 on the game, but dropped the round 6-5. The better-conditioned students set a hot pace from the drop of the puck and maintained it throughout, only the steady work of Burry in the Motor City nets saving his teammates.

The outstanding player for the Toronto team was White, who scored two goals and supplied the pass for the other pair. "Doc" Rowden and Drinkle tallied for Oshawa.

REGAINS SANE MIND.

OAKLAND, Calif., Feb. 21 (C.P.).—Pressure on the brain which physicians said caused Al ("Cyclone") Morelli, professional wrestler and former Boston college football player, to become temporarily deranged, was reported relieved at a hospital to-day.

An emergency operation was performed on the wrestler after he had resisted efforts to remove him from his hotel to the hospital. Two policemen were injured in the struggle.

Bill Cook Sets Pace For National Scoring

MONTREAL Feb. 21.—Not only did "Bill" Cook of the New York Rangers break a tie for first place in the National Hockey League point-scoring race during the past week, but his brother "Bun" took advantage of prolific Ranger scoring to assume second place.

Lawrence Northcott of Montreal Maroons, who had shared the leadership of the entire league with "Bill" Cook, found his checks too difficult to shakeoff and dropped back to third place. Northcott and Cook had been deadlocked for two weeks.

Figures issued tonight by President Frank Calder showed Bill Cook had added one goal and three assists during the week and has now a total of 17 goals and 10 assists for a total of 36 points. Next comes Brother "Bun" wit ha total of 33 points made u pof 20 goals and 13 assists, while Northcott has 20 goals and 12 assists for a total of 32 points. Scoring three goals in one game at New York during the week, Harvey ("Busher") Jackson of the Toronto Maple Leafs jumped into a tie with Johnny Gagnon, Canadiens, for third place in the Canadian division. Each has 29 points, one less than Paul Haynes, Montreal Maroons, who still held second position.

In the United States division Marty Barry, Boston's centre, climbed into third place with 28 points. Three players followed, tied with 26 points, Nels Stewart, Boston, and Cecil Dillon and Frank Boucher, Rangers.

"Red" Horner of the Maple Leafs was still the most penalized player by a wide margin, having spent 120 minutes, two full games, on the penalty bench. "Ching" Johnson followed with 108 minutes.

STIFF ASSIGNMENTS IN TO-NIGHT'S BILL

Win For Amerks Over Maroons Would Make Them Third Place Favorites.

TORONTO, Feb. 21 (C.P.).—The schedule-makers had fixed up a dreary date to-day for the National Hockey League's group that hang on the play-off borderline. Outfits that decidedly require a pick-me-up at this time—such as Chicago, Canadiens and Americans—will have to battle plenty for their points.

At the moment there is hardly a stiffer assignment than playing Maroons at Montreal and the Joe Simpson's Americans drew this job for to-night. A victory would make them strong favorites to clinch third place in the Canadian division.

Canadiens, who need a win to gain on the Amerks, invade the Bruin stronghold at Boston and will carry about as much backing for the night's run as Americans.

Tommy Gorman's fighting Chicago Black Hawks, slowly pulling up on the Bruins for the third United States section play-off position, are slated to face the Rangers at New York. Rangers will pass Detroit and gain first place alone if they outpoint the Hawks.

KEMPT'S TEAM BEATS CARTERS BY 5-2 COUNT

Stevenson, Scriver, Webb and Cripps Are Marksmn For The Winners.

NORWOOD FAVORED.

NORWOOD, Feb. 21. — Alex. Kempt's East Peterborough League championship team of 1932 started the final drive of this season's campaign by taking the first of the play-off series here last night from Carter's team of Peterborough by the score of 5-2.

And judging by the opening game, the E. A. Peck cup is going to spend another summer in Norwood.

The Kempt team ran in four goals in a row before the visitors made an impression on the score sheet toward the end of the second period. In less than a minute Norwood flashed up another, leaving the score 5-1 at the second intermission. Carter's got the only counter in the concluding frame, and by that stage had the bigger share of the game, enough to show that they can make tight for title-holders in the second encounter in Peterborough Friday night.

Referee—Ray Rose.

First Period.

1st — Norwood, Stevenson (F. Cripps)—4 mins. 20 secs.,

2nd—Norwood, Scriver (Rathwell) —7 mins.

Second Period.

3rd—Norwood, Webb (W. Cripps) —2 mins.

4th—Norwood, W. Cripps (Stevenson)—6½ mins.

5th—Carter's, Lackie (B. Jones) —4 mins. 40 secs.

6th—Norwood, Scriver—45 secs.

Third Period.

7th—Carter's, B. Jones—7 mins.

How the Goals Were Scored.

In the absence of Pat Calladine, who was in Belleville with the Peterborough intermediates, Gordon Rathwell and Harold Davis were used last night. Bill Cripps was moved up to the right wing position of the first line, and with his brother Fred, on the opposite boards and Stan. Stevenson, of Hastings, at centre, backed by "Mose" Scriver and Roddy Webb on the defense, the team showed plenty of strength from goal to centre.

Norwood scored first early in the opening session when Stevenson tallied in a rebound off Fred. Cripps' shot. On the next one, Rathwell's shot hit the post and bounced out about ten feet to Scriver, who breezed a fast, low one into the net.

Norwood kept up the pressure in the second. Webb made it three on a smart passing play with Bill Cripps and Stevenson. Maudsley and Swanger had a couple of scoring chances, but there was no sting to them. Stevenson hooked the puck from Maudsley in the right-hand Peterborough corner and tossed it out to Cripps near the front of the visitors' net for the fourth.

George Lackie and the Jones brothers swept through the home team for Carter's first goal, Lackie doing the rifling at close range.

Scriver got that one back in less than a minute, a flukey goal on a high shot from the blue line. Foley stopped it with his hand, but the puck dropped inside behind him.

The third period opened with a parade to the penalty box. Tony Stante was the only offender up to that stage, a minor infraction of bumping Bill Rogers against the boards. But, early the last chukker Williams and Stevenson threatened a flare-up and both sauntered, followed shortly afterward by Maudsley and Bill Cripps. Nothing serious happened, and Abbie Rose stepped in promptly with the banishing act. The only other penalty went to Fred. Meagher for cross-checking McConnell.

Bernie Jones clocked up the lone counter in the last period on a fast solo dash through the Norwood defense close in on Beavis.

Bill Cripps and Scriver looked best for Norwood, with the whole team clicking smartly and showing command of the game all the way through the first two periods. Connie Lackie stood out in the visitors' effort with the second string forwards, the Jones brothers and Meagher, injecting most of the speed and aggressiveness into Carter's offensive.

BELLEVILLE HERE FOR RETURN GAME

Petes Fully Confident They Can Overtake Doherty's Lead On Series.

The most important—and perhaps the last—O.H.A. game of the year in Peterborough, starts tomorrow (Wednesday) at the Brock at 8.30, Doherty A.C. of Belleville meeting the Petes. It is the return game of their second round series, with the Petes down three goals from their 6-3 loss in Belleville last night. On the smaller sheet of ice—natural ice at that—the Petes believe they can make up this margin and win out, giving them the intermediate title for Eastern Ontario and a fine chance for provincial honors.

Nearly two thousand fans in the Quinte town last night saw the most exciting game of the year, a bruising, speedy struggle between well-matched outfits that fought to the last bell. Hot arguments, stiff checking, flashing and thrilling hockey, and a free-for-all made it a memorable battle. The return engagement here to-morrow promised to be at least as packed with thrills.

The Petes should play better hockey than they did in Belleville, and conditions favor them somewhat. But three goals is a big margin to overcome against a strong team in perfect condition, and one that likes rough going. They have a star goalie in Tice, formerly of Windsor, a husky and dangerous defence, and two very fast forward lines that teamed up well, backchecked like fiends and fight at the drop of the hat, his combination makes for a lively evening anytime and with so much at stake, and the Petes at full strength and fighting against sudden elimination from the O.H.A. race—the Brock is sure to be packed before game-time.

TOWNSEND WINNER OVER TOMMY BLAND

Bout Fails to Provide Excitement For 5,000 Toronto Fight Fans.

TORONTO, Feb. 21.—(CP)—Billy Townsend's reputation for pleasing is further enhanced today in the opinion of some 5,000 Toronto fight fans, who last night watched the Vancouver welter defeat Tommy Bland, Dominion lightweight title holder in a 10-round go.

The bout itself was a drab affair, particularly when four of the preliminaries ended in knockouts and the semi-final was a rousing toe-to-toe slugfest between Ossie Bodkin and Bobbie Lawrence, Toronto bantams.

But Townsend, aggressiveness personified, rushed his opponent around the ring, piercing his defence with solid right and left hooks. He took all but two rounds, Bland coming out of his Shell and using his superior reach to peck out an edge in the fourth and fifth.

JIM BROWNING THROWS LEWIS

St. Louis Wrestler Wins Bout At New York With Scissors Hold.

GAINS "HEAVY" TITLE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (C.P.).—The deadly looping scissors hold Jim Browning has used to hack down many wrestling opponents had landed him to-day in the select ranks of world-title claimants.

The big St. Louis grappled used a series of scissor-grips to wear down the resistance of the Los Angeles strangler, Ed. Lewis, when they met last night in Madison Square Garden, and finally clamped on one hold he could not break. Lewis' broad shoulders struck and stayed on the mat after 50 minutes 57 seconds of heated tugging and lugging. With his defeat went his claim to the world's heavyweight throne, which the New York State Athletic Commission recognized as his.

Lewis was the second title-claimant whipped the past fortnight when Montreal's Henri Deglane suffered a broken collar-bone in a recent match at Boston against Ed. Don George of Buffalo; the American was given the decision and Deglane's lien to the title.

BUCKLAND CLAN BEATEN 5 TO 2 IN SECOND GAME

McGregor And Calladine Score Only Goals For Blue And White Club.

MAKE GAME FIGHT

(Special to The Examiner)

KINGSTON, Ont., Feb. 21.—Queen's juniors eliminated Peterborough from the O. H. A. race here last night when they scored a sparkling 5 to 2 victory to win the round by the count of 9 to 4. Disastrous first two periods gave the Tri-color five goals and it was only in the last ten minutes that the Petes finally smashed through James' defence and notched two goals.

Queen's played nice hockey in the first two periods and were clearly superior. They ran in three goals in the first period and added two in the second period to put the game and the round on ice.

Score In Third

It was not till after eleven minutes of the third period that McGregor nailed the first counter for Peterborough and two minutes later Calladine scored for the Petes. After that James played sparkling hockey and held out the determined Blue and White squad.

Calladine and Fenton played brilliant hockey for Peterborough and each deserved at least a couple of goals. Sanderson played fine hockey after the first period, but looked rather weak in the first two frames. Jay and Cadd went well in the latter part of the game while Weir worked hard throughout. Johnnie Wing, Lewis and Bryden were best for the Tri-color, with James playing a sensational game all the way.

Queen's Scoring Rampage

Queen's mounted their margin on the round to three when Wing tore in after five minutes and passed to Lewis who beat Sanderson. Twelve minutes later Bryden tallied on a pass from Smith and less than a minute later Lewis scored unassisted.

Starting the second period Wing scored in sensational form less than a minute after play opened and near to end Lewis made it 5 to 0 on the game and 9 to 2 on the round.

Queen's more or less coasted in the last period and played a strong defensive game to break up a flock of determined Peterborough thrusts, finally after eleven minutes, McGregor skated in fast and beat James and two minutes later Calladine bore in fast and scored as James' threw himself out to save.

Peterborough have no reason to feel disgraced over their defeat. They played hard, fast hockey all the way and deserved a great deal of credit for their plucky display.

The teams:

Peterborough: Goal, Sanderson; defense, Cadd and Weir; centre, Calladine; wings, Jay and McGregor; subs, Fenton, Williamson, Burley and Hill.

Queen's—Goal, James; defence, Gibson and Smith; centre, Wing; wings, Bain, Lewis; subs, Crystle, Bryden, McQuay, Pettit.

Referee—Ernie Collett, Toronto.

The summary:

First Period

Queen's—Lewis 5.00
Queen's—Bryden 17.00
Queen's—Lewis 17.50
Penalties—Wing, Bryden.

Second Period

Queen's—Wing 5.00
Queen's—Lewis 17.00

Third Period

Penalties—Pettit, Fenton.
Peterborough—McGregor 11.00
Peterborough—Calladine 13.00
Penalties—Pettit (2), Smith.

RANGERS BEAT ST. PETER'S 2-1

Joe Bailey Breaks Up 1-1 Tie To Give Southenders City League Win.

ICE HANDICAPS PLAY.

A bullet-like drive from the blue line from the stick of Joe Bailey that Fleming had no chance to save and which broke up a 1-1 deadlock gave the Rangers a 2-1 victory over the St. Peter's Juniors in a City League fixture at the Brock street rink last night. Poor ice handicapped the play, making good combination and smart style of hockey almost impossible but at that the two minor league teams put up a fairly decent brand of the ice game.

The first stanza went scoreless although both clans made valiant efforts to score but the sticky ice handicapped all combination efforts and both goalies made many brilliant saves on the individual shots. The Saints lead at the end of the second period when Harry Gainey tallied the lone counter of the game for St. Peter's. Peel of the OBrien outfit handed the Southenders their first goal of the tussle when he batted the puck into his own net from a scramble in front of the net which was followed a few minutes later by Baileys counter and the winning goal.

There was little to choose between the well-matched outfits, both net minders going good, while Kennedy, Wills and Murdoch were going great guns for the Saints and the first forward line with Bailey seemed most effeitive on the offensive for the winners. The game was fairly clean with few penalties being handed out.

Line-ups:

St. Peter's—Goal, Fleming; defense, Gainey and Hallihan; centre Wills and Murdoch; subs., Peel, McCarthy and Crowe"

Rangers—Goal, McCarroll; defense, Gibson and Bailey; centre, Courneya; wings, Watson and Payne.

Referee—Ashmore.

Fields And Corbett Are Eager To Fight

Boxing fandom continued its speculation over the outcome of the first important battle here in nearly 20 years. Thrust into the unusual role of strong favorite over a champion, Corbett continued the popular figure in the eyes of those who back up their judgments with money. Odds of 10-7 with the Fresno southpaw on the long end prevailed, although a shortening up was looked for in some quarters.

The regular drying out process was the order of the day in the two camps with each principal balancing the scales a pound or so over the 147-pound limit. No difficulty in making the weight was anticipated on either side. Each has a $2,500 forefeit posted. The official weighing in will be Wednesday morning.

SPORTS Day by Day

HOCKEY—BOWLING—BOXING
BASKETBALL — OTHER SPORTS

(By C.J.P.)

Those two Peterborough hockey games last night were N. G., which is short for "not so hot." Two slaps across the face in one evening is a little hard to take, but what can you do about it? We weren't so much surprised at the juniors losing, as they faced a mighty tough task going away from home against a team like Queen's and two goals down. But we shouldn't have lost by three markers in that intermediate fixtures in Belleville. I'll keep the Petes stepping to get 'em back in the return playoff tilt at the Brock Wednesday.

* * * * * * *

Not having taken the trip to Kingston, we can't say any more about the game there than what appears in the regular write-up. We've been told by a car-load of good C.G.E. fans who journeyed down that the young Petes had most of the play the last half, and didn't go out without a real battle. That's the stuff. They can't win all the time, and deserve credit for a fine showing this season, considering the lack of ice in January when it was needed most. Congrats, Manager Buckland, Shorty Burgess and kids, you at least cleaned up on the natural-ice centres.

* * * * * * *

It's not so easy to push any bouquets in the intermediates' direction. The team as a whole wasn't playing up to its usual standard. Artificial ice, a larger surface and better-conditioned opponents were the main reasons, but even at that the Petes muffed some swelegant opportunities late in the fray. And when we say "fray" we don't mean "sort of." No, sir, it was a slam-bang Peterborough-Belleville mixup and the boys of both sides didn't spare the rod. It was too much for Ernie Wortley, and both sides objected plenty to his refereeing.

* * * * * * *

The Petes figure they were robbed of one goal and they also maintain another one could not have possibly got in their net except through a sizeable hole in the side of the cage. Take those two off the score-sheet and the count would have been 5-4 and about right, although we again say that the Doherty crew played better hockey. Of course, that means last night only, and we don't think they're a better team. Just a tough intermediate crew, and what a hard-boiled and bloodthirsty couple of thousand followers they have! Oy, oy, we just sat still and hoped no one would ask us where we came from!

* * * * * * *

The first big fuss broke when Pat Calladine, goal-umpire back of the Quinte cage, flashed the light when the puck hit the back bar, as we figured, but the post as the Belleville rush-seaters said. A couple of them grabbed Patrick and threatened to tear him apart right in his little cage. And as he leaned over to tell the referee his version, a couple or three boots—with feet in them—didn't do him a bit of good. Well, to make a sad tale short, the goal was disallowed and Pat was chased with an angry bunch of fans thinking seriously of jumping him, but not thinking fast enough. A couple of cops guarded the next goal-umpire at that end of the rink.

* * * * * * *

We liked the work of Gillespie in goal all through. Red Dallin checked his head off and was dangerous as a puck-freighter too. And then Weir and Ellis went nicely, with the second forward line all working themselves into a lather. Our backchecking wasn't quite up to its usual mark and our defence appeared slow. But then, those D. A. C. boys ankle around mighty spryly, and having the advantage of large ice to which they were naturally quite accustomed.

* * * * * * *

Looking back from the safety of this office, we'll say it was as exciting an argument as one would care to see. Plenty rough all the time, and with the feeling that a few explosions might set things off any minute. That scrap of Creighton's pretty nearly started a general riot, but was confined to players of both sides. Harry Morgan was looking for it all evening and Red certainly flopped him hard. Morgan was "hors de combat" or something and was carried from the ice. He may be seriously hurt. Brother Pete then started another fight by going for Red and they all tangled for a few minutes. Three majors and a million boos, and play was resumed. Poor Mr. Wortley, ex-referee, hadn't a friend in the place—nor did he deserve one.

* * * * * * *

Can we take 'em here tomorrow eve? Yeah, we should. It certainly won't be any cinch if we do it, but that's our opinion and if we can scrape up a few bucks and run into any Belleville rooters up here Wednesday, we're going to lay even money that we cop the round. The Petes will be on home ice, natural not artificial, and on a smaller playing surface. It won't be so easy to go around the defence up at the Brock. The referee won't be jugging the local boys as was the case last night every time the crowd roared disapproval at a hard bodycheck. And then the locals should certainly play better hockey than they did in the Quinte town. Yeah, we'd say they have an even chance of taking the round and thereby grabbing Eastern Ontario honors.

* * * * * * *

Looks like Carters will have to do some tall stepping to trounce Norwood Combines in the E.P.L. play-offs. It was 5-2 for the Kempt crew last night and they easily earned the win. What's the matter, Carters? The Combines have a smart bunch of pucksters but Herb Payne's boys should be pretty fair, too. They meet in the second of this best three-out-of-five series at the Brock Friday, and it ought to be closer.

ENGLISH LINE AND MENIE IN SCORELESS TIE

While Petherick's Defeat Hoards In Final Games Of E.S.H.L.

SUCCESSFUL SCHEDULE.

BURNBRAE, Feb. 21 (Examiner Correspondence).—Before a splendid crowd, but on very poor ice, the 1933 schedule of the East Seymour Hockey League was brought to a close on Saturday afternoon, when Pethericks defeated Hoards, 4 to 1, and English Line and Menie fought to a scoreless draw.

Only four regular Moards' players came in time for the game and with their manager ill, there was no one to arrange for players. The quartette gamely took the ice, and assisted by J. Watson of the Pethericks' team put up a hard game. Later in the period, Little and J. Stevens of the Line team volunteered to help Hoards' and with this assistance they staged a good battle. Pethericks secured a three goal lead in the first on a lone rush by Dorie, another close in shot by G. Kerr, and a nice combination play by D. Watson and D. Kerr, the former counting. Barnum made it four for the northerners, starting the second period, when he netted a rebound, and J. Stevens almost immediately counted for Hoards from a scramble. This ended the scoring though K. Oddie and Gunning tried hard for more goals.

Pethericks.—Goal, Turner; defence, Dorie and D. Watson; forfards, G. Kerr, Southworth, D. Kerr. Subs., J. Watson, G. Petherick, A. Petherick, Barnum.

Referee.—Runions.

Scoreless Draw

In view of the watery ice conditions the Line-Menie tangle was staged as the final scheduled game and not as a play-off encounter as advertised. The goalies were too good for the forwards of either aggregation, but a lot of good hockey was played. Doug, Milne, Tom Little, Rannie and Nelson all played exceptional hockey for Menie, while Shillingiaw, Alec Stevens and Don Peake looked a little better for the Line. These teams are bound to stage two hair-raising battles for the group honors.

English Line.—Goal, Owens; defence, Shillingiaw and Locke; forwards, A. Stetvens, H. Stevens and D. Peake. Subs., E. Little, T. Peake, A. Potts, Fry.

Menie.—Goal, Eagleson; defence, Craighead and Doug. Milne; forwards, A. Stevens, H. Stevens and son; subs., Linn, W. Whitton, K. Milne and Tom Little.

Referee—Dunk. Timer—Fry.

Penalty, Craighead.

The final league standing:

	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
English Line ...	4	0	2	10
Menie	3	1	2	8
Pethericks	2	4	0	4
Hoards	1	5	0	2

The first game of the play-offs between the Line and Menie will be held on Wednesday evening if ice conditions are favorable.

Following out the league policy of giving the public two games for one admission, an exhibition game is to be staged at 7.30 between a picked team from Hoards and Pethericks and a team of Campbellford Juniors. This should provide a real hockey treat, with the scrappy play-off game at 8.45.

SOCCER LOOP DECIDES NOT TO AFFILIATE

Finances Will Not Permit Obligations—Lindsay admitted—Financial Statement.

NEW OFFICERS.

Lindsay was admitted into the Peterborough and District Football Association at the annual meeting of that body, held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms last night. Deloro and Port Hope were not represented.

In reverence of two departed associates of the soccer code—Alexander Campbell, for many years representative of the Quaker Oats football team and one of the best legislators of the game in the city. Also in loving memory of the school boy player—George Bousfield, who played many outstanding games in the school league, with King George School, on the right wing. The company stood in silent testimony of the departed.

The president gave a resume of the year's transactions and the many activities attached to the position on the executive which had been very excellently fulfilled by the men who had given their best in the interest of the scientific code in the city. Over thirty meetings had been held throughout the season. More important had been the local team's victory in Toronto and in the city against Toronto, which had created a true fellowship between the sports. Also the new entry—Port Hope in carrying off the two important trophies.

1933 Officiers

Hon. Members.—Hon. G. N. Gordon, Father Phelan, A. E. Peck, ex-Mayor Holloway, Mayor Denne, Bishop O'Connor, F. Clark, R. M. Glover, Dr. Hammond, Dr. Howson, Dr. McPherson.

President.—David McGregor.

Vice-President.—James Edward.

Second Vice-President.—William Anderson.

Sec.-Treasurer.—Stan. Gillespie.

Assistant Secretary.—D. Anderson.

Auditors—R. Gilmour and Stroyan Leith.

Executive.—W. Harrington, J. Kerensky, Lindsay; A. Frick, G. Farrance, J. Clark, J. Cairns and Ernie Abraham.

Drop O. F. A.

The new executive decided not to become affiliated with the Ontario Association this year, owing to the financial obligations attached to organised football, but were in hearty co-operation to further the interest of the code.

On March 6th, the association will meet to draw up the rules and regulations for the incoming season.

Auditors' Report

The financial statement of the secretary, Stan. Gillespie, was read and adopted. Local expenses amounted to $256.68 and the Ontario Football Association $60.00, which included the sum of $35.00 as affiliation fee. The other amounts being the registration forms throughout the season. There were 102 players registered during the year 1932, and the D.F.A. and O.F.A. got part payment therefrom.

Packers Won In League

Canada Packers won the local championship, and each player received a photograph from the association as a souvenir of their prowess on the field of sport.

C. P. won the Holloway Cup—Injured players' competition.

Port Hope won the Gordon Cup.

Packers won the White Challenge Cup.

Packers won Spalding Cup.

Port Hope won the Father Phelan Charity Cup.

Packers won the Peck Cup.

During the 1931 season the C.G.E. held four of the trophies and Brinton and C.P. one each.

Injured Players' Fund

The out-going executive deserves credit for the splendid achievements accomplished in the Injured Players' Fund. Cup tie gave the sum of $19.36. Balance from last season, 1931—$28.12. Total $47.48. Injured players' accounts amounted to $51.50, which leaves the sum of $19.48.

Spalding Cup showed a loss of 33 cents, while the rest made a favorable balance.

Phelan Charity Cup resulted in St. Vincent Orphanage and Children's Aid $6.40 each.

Local expenses amounted to $256.68; O.P.A., $60.00—$316.68. Receipts received, $384.09; leaving a balance as Injured Player's Fund, $19.48; current balance of P.D.F.A. $47.93. Total in bank and on hand, $67.41.

TORONTO "YOUNGS" THROUGH WITH LONG-DISTANCE SWIMS

George May Enter Marathon Event At The Chicago World Fair This Summer.

WILL BE HIS LAST.

TORONTO, Feb. 21.—(CP)—Toronto's distance-swimming Youngs are all but through with the water wars—George deep in a whirl of business and Mrs. George, the former Margaret Ravior of Philadelphia, too much interested in a new household to worry about serious swimming.

Young, the one-time Catalina Kid and winner in 1931 of the 15-mile Toronto exhibition grind, told the Canadian Press today he might enter a distance swim event at the Chicago World Fair this summer but that would be his last effort.

Neither Young nor his wife will enter the Exhibition swims here this year. Mrs. Young, who captured the women's 10-mile C.N.E. swim for the third straight time last August, will train George if he enters the Chicago event.

Interested In Business

Surrounded by clerks and stenographers and guarded by office boys, Young admitted he was more interested in business than in swimming. Organization of two companies has held Young's interest since his marriage late last year and he said he intends opening a garage next month on the lake shore, close to the Lake Ontario course which saw his greatest home-town triumph and all his outstanding defeats.

"If everything goes well at the office I most certainly will enter the Chicago swim," George said. "I have kept in fairly good condition and like the prospect of winning at least one more championship before retiring this summer."

Johnny Walker, veteran coach who handled Young in his 1931 winning effort, will not handle him this year. His wife is George's only trainer now. His manager is Fred MacLean.

GOODNIGHT STORIES

By Max Trell

Napoleon was a corporal,
Napoleon was a king,
When Napoleon wasn't hungry
He never ate a thing.
—Shadow Sayings.

"Don't you know who I am?"

Wouldn't you be surprised if, late at night, you heard noise coming out of the history book that happened to be lying on the desk? I guess you would. At any rate Mij, Flor, Hanid, Yam and our good old friend Knarf (they were all the shadows of real children and their names were spelled backwards) were so surprised that without waiting to be invited, they all went inside the history book.

You cant' imagine the excitement inside the history book. From every page came soldiers and generals and famous men of every country in the world. They were all walking in a great hurry towards a fine big house painted white, with pillars in front. The five shadows wondered what was happening, or going to happen, so Knarf (who was a brave shadow) went up to a little man dressed like a general and asked: "Where are you going, please? I mean, where is everybody going? I mean, why is everybody going into that big white house?"

"You'd better make up your mind what you mean before you start speaking to me," the general answered. "Don't you know who I am?"

"Who are you?"

"I'm Napoleon."

Knarf knew that Napoleon was a great general, and had been the emperor of France about a hundred years ago. But before Knarf had a chance to tell Napoleon that he was sorry he had not made up his mind before he started speaking to him, Napoleon walked off, and entered the big white house.

Knarft went back to the other shadows and told them that he had just spoken to Napoleon, but that Napoleon had walked off without telling Knarf why everybody was going into the big white house.

"Let's go into the big white house, too," Yam suggested.

"No," said Knarf, "we'll have to wait here until someone asks us to go inside." The other shadows were all sad about this because they were sure that whoever lived inside the house didn't know them, and could not ask them to go inside.

"If only we knew somebody," Flor wished. At that moment Mij uttered an exclamation of joy. "There's somebody I know!" The shadows all looked at a man dressed in knee breeches, with silk stockings. The man was carrying a telescope in one hand, and a long map in the other, and he was wearing a black cloth over his shoulders. "Who is it?" they wanted to know.

"Why," Mij answered, "that's Christopher Columbus!"

For Wednesday, February 22

A day of particular activity and aggressive attack of affairs in hand is the augury based upon the lunar as well as mutual planetary aspects. But with all the heightened spirit of enterprise and initiative there may be stubborn obstacles and frustrating circumstances to be disposed of before real achievement may be attained. Much determination and perseverance may be required but an acute mental condition should be curbed. There may be advancement or favors in employment. Be careful as to extravagance, excesses and careless use of funds.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for an important year, with great spurts of energy and activity despite tenacious obstacles and setbacks. There may be a bereavement or sorrow. Employment may bring advantages, but be careful as to the careless use of funds, extravagances and personal indulgences. CAVAN MEETING MUCH ENJOYED

DISTRICT NEWS

CAVAN, Feb. 21.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The Young People's meeting was held in Cavan church on Wednesday evening, with Miss V. McKim's side in charge. Miss Mary Tinney presided for the following program: Community singing, with Miss Dorothy Cobley as accompanist; a serial reading, read by Doris Tinney; Ralph Staples spoke on "Miracles." The singing of a hymn brought the meeting to a close.

St. John's W.A.

A social evening, under the auspices of St. John's W.A., was held at the home of G. Cobley on Thursday evening. Ten tables of military euchre were played. Prize winners were Mrs. Geoge Cobley, Roy Lough, L. H. Winslow and Mrs. R. McCamus. Lunch was served and a social time enjoyed.

Institute Meeting.

The February meeting of Cavan's Women's Institute was held at Mrs. Creighton Carr's home on the third Thursday of the month, with a good attendance of members.

The secretary's report showed seven meetings had been held at six homes during the month of January. Acknowledgment was read of bales received at New Liskeard for relief in the northern part of the province. Mrs. Snider read an article on temperance. The treasurer reported a balance of $37.29 on hand.

Mrs. R. S. Staples reported 14 new volumes added to the institute library. Mrs. Smith read an article on "The Art of Being Friendly." There was discussion concerning the adding to the funds of the treasury.

A plan suggested by Mrs. Lloyd Sutton was adopted.

A committee was appointed to arrange for a social evening to be held in the hall in the near future. Mrs. Armstrong showed the "Dutch quilt," which her group had completed. It will be disposed of at the social evening.

Mrs. Kennedy's group will be in charge of the program in March and Mrs. Ray Syer's group will entertain.

Mr. Herbert Syer, South Monaghan was a visitor in Cavan on Thursday.

Trent River

Efficiency League meeting Friday night will be social and literary when the program will be in charge of the Misses Fleda Thompson and Fleda Wildman.

Rev. Mr. Brethen of Norham, will have charge of the services Sunday at Havelock and Trent River. The pastor, Rev. S. A. Kemp, will take charge of the services at Norwood for the Rev. Mr. Cleland, who has been unable to take charge, owing to illness.

Miss Ada McCarthy, of Havelock, spent the week-end with Miss Fern Longmuir.

Miss Jessie Anderson, of Havelock, was a Sunday visitor with Mr. and Mrs. James Longmuir and family.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Scott, Norwood road, were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Vanvalkenburg, West Seymour.

Mrs. G. F. Harrington took in the excursion to Toronto for the week-end.

The Centreville Presbyterian Church is observing its one hundredth anniversary this year, and arrangements are already under way for a suitable celebration of the event, special services being in view for June 11 and 18, with details to be announced later.

Mrs. G. Locke has returned to the village after a few weeks' visit with her daughter, Mrs. J. Perrin, Cavan. Mrs. Locke has not yet returned her own home, but is with her daughter, Mrs. J. McKnight, until warmer weather arrives.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Darling and daughter, Betty, of Peterborough, were guests of her grandmother, Mrs. (Dr.) E. L. Burnham, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kerr and Councillor and Mrs. J. R. Eakins motored to Toronto on Thursday, the two latter returning the following afternoon, owing to Mr. Eakins' ill-health.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Brown and Mrs. Mervan Kinsman motored to Pefferlaw last Tuesday, and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Brown. On the return trip, owing to the icy condition of the roads, the party had a narrow escape from the car overturning into the ditch at a point near Lindsay.

BRIDGENORTH.

Miss Meta Thorn, teacher of Branches' School, Smith, spent the week-end at her home, near Omemee.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jackson, of East Emily, spent Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Mann, Smith.

See "American Madness," the film of the hour, at the Regent Theatre, February 22nd, 23rd, 24th.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

Cold Settled In Chest Caused Racking Cough

Mrs. S. E. Wood, Elmwood, Mas., writes:—"Some time ago I had a severe cold which settled in my chest causing such a racking cough it seemed to tear me to pieces.

I had read about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so I decided to give it a trial. After the first dose I felt relief, and when the bottle was finished my cough was entirely gone."

Price 35c. a bottle; large family size 65c; at all drug and general stores; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

BLACK WOLVES DOGS OFFSPRING

Claim Is Made By Indians Of Batchawana District Of Ontario.

BOB BECK DIFFERS.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Feb. 21 (C.P.)—Is the black wolf, specimens of which have been taken in Algoma district during the past three years, an imported species, or, as claimed by Indians in the Batchawana area, the offspring and descendants of a big black Newfoundland dog?

Wolf experts are divided on the question.

It is claimed the dog has been seen with the wolves while they were on their pilgrimages of destruction in the Batchawana deer yards. Residents of the area have killed wolves which were almost black along the back and legs, and have been paid the bounty on them.

Bob Beck, the Searchmont wolf trapper, who has taken 18 wolves in the Ranger Lake game sanctuary during the year, has not seen any black wolves there. In the Sault to-day with his 18th pelt Bob says: "Dogs and wolves will not mate, all arguments to the contrary notwithstanding." Bob knews his wolves.

AT THE REGENT

"AMERICAN MADNESS"

One of the most compelling screen dramas of the 1932 season will make its bow to Peterborough audiences, when Columbia's "American Madness" opens a run at the Regent Theatre, beginning Wednesday of this week.

Considered tremendous in scope and of sweeping power, "American Madness" is a film that strikes at the vitals of present-day America.

Walter Huston, whose reputation as one of the greatest actors on the American screen is unquestioned, has the feature role of a strong clear-thinking banker whose courage and faith in people leads him successfully through a run on his bank and an attempt to break up his home.

"American Madness" has a superb supporting cast, headed by Constance Cummings, one of the most talented and charming of the younger screen actresses. Pat O'Brien, who made the role of Hildy Johnson in "The Front Page" an unforgettable one, plays the part of an ex-convict whom Huston has given a chance to make good in his bank. Kay Johnson, noted for years as one of the most popular stage actresses on the West Coast, and remembered for her great performance in "Dynamite," is cast as Hustons' wife. Popular, talented Gavin Gordon is the heavy.

Critics all over the country have praised "American Madness" for the timeliness of its plot, bringing to the screen, as it does, the dramatic situation that has touched the lives of everyone in the world in the last two years or more.

Robert Riskin, the author of the original story, is considered to have done a superb job of weaving against the complicated background of a great bank, the poignant story of a man who forestalls the ruin of his bank and of his home, by his definite, courageous vision.

The picture was directed by Frank Capra, known to the movie public for his directoral work in such popular successes as "Dirigible," "Flight," "Submarine," "Ladies of Leisure," "Forbidden," and "Rain or Shine." The entire picture reflects the movement and power that always stamp a picture of Capra's talented efforts.

Not to be ignored is the fact that "American Madness" is mounted in a spectacular fashion, with the largest sets ever built at the Columbia studios and the largest number of "extras" participated in the stirring scenes of the bank run. Columbia officials consider this picture the greatest dramatic spectacle they have ever made.

AT THE CAPITOL

"A FAREWELL TO ARMS"

This is the type of feature that is tragic in its essence, and yet stirring, compelling and quite unforgettable. The art of Helen Hayes, the little star of "The Sin of Madelon Claudet" and of "The Son-Daughter," makes it wonderfully real, and Gary Cooper, possibly stirred to new heights by the art of his companion, rises to new heights in this picture.

War makes its menacing and sinister background. Death drops from the skies in terrible and graphic form in one of the scenes; but the war, as it affects the morals and ethics of those who take part in it, is the theme of the picture.

"This, too, is the war. Without the war, you would have been married in God's house; is it not so?" asks the kindly little Italian padre who cares for the two young people, ensnared by the slime of Mars and his minions.

The majority of recent talkies have pictured immorality of some type or another, and many of them gloss it over with fine reasons and happy endings. "A Farewel to Arms" is an exception. The girl, Catherine Barclay (Helen Hayes), throws her cap over the windmill, it is true, and that in a regrettably hasty fashion, but the finale of the story does not mitigate or change the punishment for sin. This tale is nearer being an old-fashioned moral lesson than has been seen here in many moons.

Gary Cooper is Frederic Henry, the tall and dashing hero, and Adolphe Menjou is as remarkable as always in the role of the master-surgeon, Major Rinaldi, who thinks only of the man, his friend, and too little of the woman. Without him, the tale would have ended happily. This little man never lets a part down. It matters not what his role, he performs nobly and adequately. He is really a very satisfying actor.

Something that will be of intense interest to those who care for remedies for present-day conditions is the short, eloquent and very earnest talk on Technocracy that precedes the comedy, which is a funny one.—Jeanette.

$26,000 PLACED IN ESTIMATES FOR THE POLICE

back to an efficient basis," the Chief declared further. "This is a serious matter and should not be treated lightly, for we are faced to-day with dangers the public little dream of. Into our hands and keeping are placed not only the material possessions of the people, but their very lives depend on our appreciation of our oath of office."

Unpaid Taxes.

Mayor Denne met Chief Newhall's request, that the police estimates must be increased, by drawing the Commission's attention to the fact that last year there were $160,000 in unpaid taxes in the city, and that every economy must be practised to keep the tax rate so that the citizens, many of whom have been sorely affected by the depression may be able to pay their taxes. "A lot of citizens have worse clothes than the police, and some of them are forced to get them from the relief store," he declared.

A resolution unanimously passed the Commission, finally, recommending to the City Council that 12 police officers, a chief constable, and a police matron are absolutely required on the police force, and that the estimates for 1933 be $26,000.00.

"Getting Hot" Judge Says.

But before this resolution resulted from the meeting, Chief Newhall and Mayor Denne had tossed many hot words across the table in the keen debate. Once Judge Huycke, chairman of the Commission, who with Magistrate O .A. Langley, the other member of the Commission, was left on the outside of the main argument on the estimates, deemed it wise to interject. "Now, gentlemen," he said, "don't you think you are getting too heated?"

Judge Huycke was re-elected chairman of the Commission at the outset of the meeting. Studying Chief Newhall's report of the department for 1932, Judge Huycke declared, "Peterborough should be congratulated on its record for the past year, for all recent years, but particularly for the past year. We have very little crime here compared with other cities, and it should be a subject of great pride. There is a lack of serious crime, in fact a lack of all manner of lawlessness.

"Our citizes are mainly peaceful and law abiding" he said, "but of course there are some exceptions."

Praised Police Force

He praised the energy and faithfullness of the police. "A great many people believe that the police record is shown in the number of arrests" he stated. "Of course this is wholly incorrect. It is in preventing crime and in safeguarding citizen's property that the main duty of the police exists and this does not show in the number of arrests."

While most citizens are wholly satisfied with the efforts of the police, he said that it was a fact that the city is not properly policed.

"That is because we have insufficient police" he explained, "and in these times it does not seem probable that we can have a sufficiently large force." He concluded by stating he had heard from outside points strong commendation of Chief Newhall and his force, and that among Toronto police Peterborough is looked upon as having one of best police chiefs and forces in Ontario.

Chief Explains Need

Explaining why he was recommending that the police departments estimates for 1933 be $27,417.00, Chief Newhall said that much supplies required by the force last year could not be purchased because the estimates passed last year were not sufficient to permit of their purchase. "Particularly is that true of clothing" he commented.

Two hundred and fifty dollars were spent last year in meals for prisoners and he complained that although this was included in the court costs levies by the Magistrate the department did not get credit for it. "It goes into the city treasury and stays there," he explained.

Magistrate Langley—"You didn't get any new cars last year?"

Chief Newhall—"No we couldn't. The estimates wouldn't permit it."

Need New Car

Judge Huycke—"How are the cars now?"

Chief Newhall—"The Dodge has gone 50,000 miles and it will be a great expense this year because of needed repairs. The Ford will do. Last year the upkeep for cars was more than $1,100.00.

He explained that the department had four bicycles that were used for night patrols and that this year at least one new bicycle must be purchased. All this required that the estimates must be increased above those of last year, he said.

Mayor Denne — "Under present conditions you will be lucky if you get through $26,000.00 Everyone is having a tough time making ends meet. Everyone is being forced to get along on less, and the police department will have to also. That is the stand that everyone is taking.

Double-faced People

Chief Newhall said that there must be a lot of double-faced people" because many had come to him and told him that the police department must be kept up to standard at all costs."

Mayor Denne—"Relief alone will cost us $150,000 this year."

City Clerk Armstrong—"I think it will run higher than that Mr. Mayor."

Mayor Denne—"Where are we going to end with it?"

Chief Newhall — "You'll have people on relief for the next 50 years. Some of them have admitted to me that relief is making them lazy and they don't want to work even when they can get a job."

Relief Spoils Character

Judge Huycke — "That's the trouble. The British dole is spoiling British character."

Mayor Denne—"Under such circumstances, the city is out now to reduce all civic expenses and every department will get its share of cutting. There's a petition out now to slash everything."

Chief Newhall—"I know where the petition is coming from. It is from Bell and Henderson, fellows that were kicked out of Council and not supported at the election, and some of Mr. Tuggeys followers are backing them."

"Board Lacks Courage"

He charged that members of the Board of Health lacked courage. "Why don't they get after the right man and not try to browbeat a defenceless girl," he declared. "They havent enough courage to come out after the right man. They are hiding behind a woman's skirts. I'd jump in the river before I'd do that."

The discussion was led back to the clothing of the department. "I have only four men who have had new clothes last year" Chief Newhall explained. "Even my own clothes are shabby and nearly worn through. Every man required an overcoat last year, and I only could get four. All the men's uniforms are threadbare and unless we can soon manage to get new ones they will be walking around the streets like scarecrows. I was ashamed of their appearance at the last court."

Chief Newhall—"They all need new tunics."

Mayor Denne commented that regardless of the lack of proper uniforms for the police, many citizens—"Good decent citizens, mechanics and others, are averaging little less than $8 a week and yet they are striving to live on it and keep their heads above water."

Chief Newhall "But the police force must be maintained."

Mayor Denne: "I'll admit that, but where is the money coming from. We must make economies, and you'll have to get along as best you can."

Chief Newhall replied that the local police force had never received the proper scale of wages.

Mayor Compares Wages

Mayor Denne: "Inspector Reid is getting more than Tax Collector Green, and so is Meagher. I'm not finding fault, remember, but if this keeps on you'll have to get along on a lot less and there will be more cuts. Last year we have $160,000.00 in unpaid taxes, and we must try and keep the taxes down so that people can pay."

Chief Newhall: "That's not my fault."

Mayor Denne: "Every man is straining every point and cuts will have to be made here as in other cities."

Chief Newhall commented that there was much talk of what Windsor had done, but he said Windsor had not cut its police. Mayor Denne insisted that Windsor had.

Reduce Force or Salaries

Mayor Denne: "It is up to you whether you cut the number of men or cut the salaries."

Chief Newhall: "This city's force is paid less than any other force of similar size. Why the Provincial constables get $400 more than our first-class constables and more than our sergeants."

Mayor Denne: "We're not dictating to the Province. And, another thing the police job is easier here because we haven't got the foreign element of other places. This is not a personal matter with me, but I know you'll never get more than $26,000.00 this year. If we can't get the taxes in, you won't have any police force."

Chief Newhall: "In that case I would suggest that the cars be put away and the men go around on foot as they used to do. As far as the uniforms go, the men will have to put up with what they have."

Judge Huycke: "Could you make them do?".

Ashamed of Uniforms

Chief Newhall: "I'm ashamed of them. They're next to rags."

Mayor Denne: "A lot of people have worse clothes than they have and some are getting them from the relief store. Some men are living on greatly reduced salary; men who own their own homes. I would suggest a ten per cent. reduction for the whole force. You've always got the best of co-operation from me."

Chief Newhall: "Not always."

Mayor Denne: "Not always. What do you mean? I'd like you to qualify that."

Chief Newhall: "You cut the estimates last year. That's not co-operation."

More Cuts Coming

Mayor Denne: "I'll move that the estimates be $26,000.00. You won't get any more co-operation. Every city official was cut last year and they will all get a bigger cut this year."

Chief Newhall said he had nothing to do with citizens in other walks of life. "But when I get a good police force, you try to break it up," he charged.

Mayor Denne: "That's not fair."

Chief Newhall: "It is fair."

Mayor Denne: "That is not fair. You can knock me if you like."

Judge Huycke: "Gentlemen, don't you think you are getting too heated now?"

Chief Newhall: "Well, there are my recommendations and I have given them a great deal of thought and study. Everything in them is badly needed."

Judge Huycke: "I think you have, Chief; but the Mayor also believes what he says."

"Keeping Loafers"

Chief Newhall said that the depression had not passed him by without badly depleting his savings. "And then we have to keep a lot of lazy loafers who didn't save when they had jobs," he declared. "And now we have to keep them. And some aldermen are encouraging them."

Judge Huycke: "That's unfortunate; we have enough troublemakers without the aldermen taking part in it."

Chief Newhall said it was true and stated: "Come out on the street now, and I'll show some of them at it."

Judge Huycke: "I'm not going to urge any increase in the estimates this year."

Fix Estimates

Magistrate Langley: "I move that we report to the City Council that twelve policemen, a chief constable and a police matron are absolutely required on the force, and if the Mayor won't go any higher that the estimates be $26,000.00."

In reply to the Mayor, Magistrate Langley said, "Yes, I know what you are facing."

Mayor Denne outlined some of the difficulties facing the man in the street, and Judge Huycke said, "In view of what the Mayor says, I favor fixing the estimates at $26,000.00."

Magistrate Langley: "We are not even sure of getting that."

Judge Huycke: "I think that will go through all right. It is only fair that the force should get that much."

Magistrate Langley: "Then what about clothes and cars?"

Chief Newhall stated that if the force were reduced to $26,000 then it would be necessary for him to see that the cars be only used when absolutely required.

It was passed unanimously that the estimates be $26,000.00.

Magistrate Langley: "What will we do with the estimates submitted by the Chief Constable?"

No Reflection on Chief

Judge Huycke: "Those estimates are no reflection on the Chief. These are the estimates submitted by the Police Board, but in view of conditions we have fixed the estimates at $26,000.00."

Chief Newhall commented that the Mayor had spoken of cutting wages. "The police department," he explained, "has already volunteered a cut in salary because each man is giving two days' pay a month to relief."

Mayor Denne: "The firemen were cut five per cent. last year, and all civic employees were cut last year five or ten per cent., and they will be cut more this year. If the police department is not cut, it makes bad feeling between the other departments."

Chief Newhall: "Put them out all night on police duty. Let them encounter the cold and dangers of tramping beats and they would soon be glad they weren't policemen."

The meeting then adjourned.

TWO MEMBERS RESIGN POSTS

R. Crawford's and F. J. Squire's Actions Mean Possible Election For Havelock Board.

WOMAN MAY RUN.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 21 (Examiner Correspondence).—At the recent meeting of the Village School Board, the resignations of thte former chairman, F. J. Squires, and Robert Crawford were read and accepted. The two aforementioned, it is alleged, resigned as a result of charges made by one of the other members that there was underhand work in connection with the applications received for the position of caretaker, only two of which were read, while three applications had been made.

A small amount of routine business was disposed of and the accounts ordered paid.

The village council will be notified of the vacancies on the board, at the regular meeting to be held here the first Monday of March, and will make arrangements for holding nominations and, if necessary, an election, should more than the required number be nominated and qualify for the positions on the Board.

There are rumors afloat to the effect that a woman is likely to be nominated for one of the vacancies, and should such be the case she will likely be elected, as it has been felt for some time that at least one woman should be on the School Board here.

Weddings

PUGH—METCALFE.

NORWOOD, Feb. 21 (Examiner Correspondence).—A pretty wedding of local interest was solemnized at the United Parsonage, Castleton, February 14, by the Rev. Mr. Hinton, when Miss Bertena Metcalfe, daughter of the late James Metcalfe, Hastings Road, was united in marriage to Mr. Walter Pugh. The young couple are spending a short honeymoon in Toronto, Hamilton, and Queenston, and on their return will reside on the Metcalfe farm, Hastings Road.

A host of friends and neighbors extend their heartiest congratulations and best wishes.

Obituary

MRS. ETTA CAIN.

OMEMEE, Feb. 21 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late Mrs. Etta Cain took place from the home of her brother, Robert Hayes, recently.

The deceased was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hayes and wife of the late Daniel Cain, who predeceased her twenty-eight years ago. The late Mrs. Cain spent almost her entire life in this locality, and in Bobcaygeon. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Johnson of Brandon, and Mrs. D. Dick of Omemee; also two brothers, Jim Hayes and Robert Hayes, Omemee.

The Rev. Mr. Stewart of Toronto, a relative of the family, conducted the funeral service. Interment was made at Bobcaygeon Cemetery.

The pall-bearers were: Messrs. E. Hayes, A. Hayes, E. Anderson, H. Best, H. Dick and H. Hayes.

MRS. VICTORIA NICKLE
(Examiner Correspondence)

MARMORA, Feb. 21.—The funeral took place here on Monday of a well known former resident in the person of Mrs. Victoria Nickle. Deceased passed away on Saturday after an illness of long duration at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Sarah Chambers, 5th Concession of Thurlow township, where she had resided for the last fifteen months.

The late Mrs. Nickle was a faithful member of the United Church and throughout her life evinced a particular interest in Sunday School work. She was born in Marmora Township and was a daughter of the late David and Margaret Hamilton, pioneers of North Marmora.

She was the second wife of the late James Nickle of which marriage there were no children. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Sarah Chambers of Thurlow Township and Miss Emma Hamilton of Belleville. A large number of her old neighbours and friends assembled in St. Andrew's United Church Marmora for the funeral service which was conducted at 3 p.m. by the Rev. W. R. Merrick of Cannington assisted by the Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth, pastor. Interment followed in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

MRS. J. A. SEXSMITH.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 21 (Examiner Correspondence).—In the death of Mrs. J. A. Sexsmith, beloved wife of John A. Sexsmith, former M.P. for this county, who died at her home in Belmont early Saturday morning after an illness of more than a year's duration, the whole community has sustained a great loss, and particularly the Institute of which Mrs. Sexsmith was an ardent supporter.

For a number of years, the late Mrs. Sexsmith was president of Belmont branch, and in that capacity was untiring in her efforts to promote the welfare of the branch. Later she was elected as district director, and afterwards held the positions of district president and representative to the Federated Board.

Of a straightforward and upright character, she won the respect and a admiration of all with whom she came in contact, and to her efforts to educate the younger mind to a true sense of its duty, many of the successful homemakers of to-day owe their outstanding success.

A number of years ago Mrs. Sexsmith herself formed a sewing class of the young girls in Belmont, and at her own home taught them many intricate details of cutting and making garments for themselves and their families. This was before the time of short courses in sewing which are now sponsored by the Government.

Many helpful and inspiring papers on articles of interest to homemakers came from her pen and were read at Institute branches throughout the district. Many times she was heard to say of the Institue, "We are not banded together for the purpose of holding pink teas, or of impressing others with our social accomplishments, but for mutual help and benefit. If you or I, or any one of us, can help some one else in even the smallest way, or make things easier for a young mother, through our Institute work, then we have not met in vain." Universally beloved by those who knew her, she has left a void in the community which cannot soon be filled. Of Mrs. Sexsmith it may well be said, "She was a good woman."

The funeral will be held to-day from the house to Maple Grove Cemetery.

Chestnuts, almonds, filberts, walnuts, pecans and other varieties of nuts have been successfully grown in the Okanagan valle, British Columbia.

Boy Scout Troop Is Formed In Hastings

HASTINGS, Feb. 21.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Rev. S. H. Hill, B.A., of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, held a meeting of boys from the ages of 12 to 16 years on Thursday afternoon in the school room of the church for the purpose of forming a Boy Scout troop for Hastings. This meeting, while not very largely attended, was a very enthusiastic one, the boys showing a keen interest in Scout work as explained by Rev. Mr. Hill, who has so kindly offered his services as instructor in this noble work. The troop, which will be known as the first troop, will meet every Friday in the school room of the church until such times as permanent quarters are obtained. Every boy in the village and district is invited to attend one of the meetings in the very near future and enroll in the troop so that they will receive the splendid training of the capable leader.

Messrs. J. A. Brown, W. M. Fowlds and G. Sine have offered their services to Rev. Hill.

RADIO NOTES

By R. H. CHILDERHOSE of City Radio Service.

When tuning-in short-wave stations be sure to make a note of all broadcasting stations received, even though some of them are close and regularly heard. If you are trying to bring in a foreign station and you have a closer station of nearly the same wave-length, correctly logged, it gives you a very good idea where to find the distant one.

Mr. E. B.—No changes are necessary to operate a 25-cycle radio on 60-cycle current, as the line transformer and filter section of a 25-cycle set are made larger and heavier than those of a 60-cycle set. The set will operate satisfactorily and safely. To use a 60-cycle set on 25-cycle it is always necessary to change the line transformer, and usually the filter condensers.

Ed.—Mr Childerhose will be glad to answer any questions asked by radio fans. If you have any trouble just drop a note to Mr Childerhose in care of The Examiner.

$2,100 Unpaid Taxes Of Hastings Village

HASTINGS, Feb. 21.—(Examiner Correspondence).—At the next regular meeting of the Village Council some action will be decided on to collect the unpaid taxes, which amount to over $2,100. For a number of years the collector, Mr. L. T. Huycke, was able to get most of the taxes paid, but unfortunately for the past few months he has been confined to his home. Most of the names on the unpaid list could meet their taxes, and it is to be hoped no drastic action will have to be taken.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN.

TORONTO, Feb. 21. — Ontario grain, approximate prices track shipping point—Wheat, 43c to 45c; oats, 29c to 24c; barley, 32c to 35c; corn, 33c to 35c; rye, 30c to 32c; buckwheat, 28c to 29c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Feb. 21.—Continuance of the upturn in butter prices was the highlight of the Montreal produce and dairy market yesterday. Eggs declined while cheese and potatoes were unchanged.

At the peak of the winter season and at the highest levels for many months, butter prices continued last week's gain of three cents by advancing a quarter of a cent a pound. Carlots or less of No. 1 grass make were quoted at 23½ cents a pound. Receipts were only 16 boxes.

A cent decline was registered by eggs. Fresh graded extras in carlots or less sold at 20 cents, firsts at 18 cents, pullets at 17 cents and seconds at 16 cents a dozen. To retailers eggs in cartons also recorded a loss of a cent. Receipts totalled 557 cases. Cheese quotations held steady at 10 to 10½ cents for fresh or recent Ontario colored and 11¼ to 11½ cents a pound for early Ontario colored. Receipts were 19 boxes.

Potatoes were firm, New Brunswick Green Mountains per 80-pound bag being quoted at 75c to 80c and Prince Edward Island Green Mountains per 90-pound bag at 85c to 90c.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—For a brief interval grain values ran upward yesterday, following prohibition repeal action at Washington, but profit-taking sales quickly wiped out price gains.

Belief expressed by crop experts that injury to domestic winter wheat was irreparable, and had been done on a big scale, with the damage area extending, gave an undertone of strength to wheat throughout the day. Weakness of securities was almost ignored.

Wheat closed unsettled at the same as Saturday's finish to ¼c lower; corn unchanged to 1-8c higher; oats a shade to 1-8c up; and provisions varying from 7c decline to 5c advance.

Cold-wave predictions for the United States winter-wheat belt served to increase uneasiness and green candles in silver candle garding crop prospects.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, February 21.—Wheat futures traded apathetically on the Winnipeg Grain Market yesterday. Even reports of fairly good export sales failed to move prices more than fractionally. Values at the close were ¼c to ⅜c lower.

Traders showed little incentive for commitments on either side of the market. Offerings were light, offset by the equal lack of strong support. For long stretches the ticker showed no change from the previous quotations.

Estimated at approximately 800,000 bushels, further sales of Canadian wheat were made. Four hundred thousand bushels of this was sold for spring shipment from Montreal.

The increased demand last week for Canadian wheat was reflected in the large total of 17,704,000 bushels of wheat shipped from all sources, announced in the world's shipments report to-day. North America supplied 5,551,000 bushels of this.

Cash and coarse grains showed no change, trading quietly throughout the session to close unchanged.

BLUEBIRD SETS NEW SPEED RECORD

SUSPENSION OF NIGHT CLASSES AFTER SEPT. 1 IS RECOMMENDED TO THE VOCATIONAL COMMITTEE

Board Of Education Sends Back Report To Vocational Committee.

ESTIMATES NOT STRUCK.

IF Salaries Further Cut Dr. Craig Says He Consider Resigning.

Estimates for the current year were not struck at last night's meeting of Peterborough Board of Education.

After a two-and-a-half-hour session, which ended in a stalemate, the meeting of the board was adjourned to Thursday night, to be held immediately following a conference with the Advisory Vocational Committee whose recommendations regarding night classes were referred back with the suggestion that all night classes be discontinued as from September next.

Mrs. W. R. Morris introduced the report of the Advisory Vocational Committee and moved its adoption on behalf of James Dutton, chairman of the committee. Her motion was seconded by Dr. J. J. Craig.

An amendment by John R. Marshall, seconded by Dr. G. R. Scott, that the report be received and considered clause by clause carried, after which V. J. McElderry, K.C., move that night classes be wholly discontinued from September next until further notice.

Mr. McElderry was ruled out of order by E. F. Reid, chairman, and the report was considered clause by clause.

One of the main items referred back to the committee, on motion of Messrs. McElderry and J. A. McKone, was that the appropriation for the purchase of supplies and equipment for the Vocational School be reduced from $2,520.00 to $2,000.00.

Pursuing his objective after the report had been fully considered and discussed, Mr. McElderry again moved that the report be referred back to the Advisory Vocational Committee with the recommendation that all night classes be discontinued. Seconded by Mr. McKone, the motion carried. Other members of the board who voted in favor of the motion were: Messrs. E. F. Reid, M. Burnham and W. J. Hancock.

Teachers' salaries were also the subject of discussion, but in view of the action of the board last July in deciding on a ten per cent. reduction for the calendar year 1933 and the fact that the teachers were notified that they were re-appointed from September subject to a continuation of a reduction of 5 per cent. to December 31, 1932, and

Debt Holiday

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 22 (C.P.)—The bank holiday in Michigan turned out to be a debt holiday for a London business man. He received a letter from a Detroit firm asking him not to pay an account due for coal. The writer said: "You doubtless know what happened. All banks in Michigan are closed. We are in a mess." The recipient was asked to withhold payment until the Detroit company has had time to make arrangements to open a banking account in New York.

U.S. COMMITTEE VOTES IN FAVOR OF SEAWAY PACT

Ballot Goes Twelve To Five With Four Absentees To Be Polled.

NO RESERVATIONS

Cost Is Divided $272,453,000 To U.S. and $270,976,000 To Dominion.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The senate foreign relations committee today favorably reported the treaty between the United States and Canada for construction of the gigantic St. Lawrence seaway.

Although four absentees remained to be polled, a favorable report was assured when Chairman Borah recorded two additional names to make the vote 12 to 5.

At the time the committee meeting broke up, the vote was 10 to 5, with seven absentees.

Borah quickly obtained "aye" votes from Senators Johnson, California, and Robinson, Indiana, Republicans. Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, asked not to be recorded it was announced, leaving only Cutting, Republican, N. M., and Robinson, Arkansas; George, Georgia, and Connally, Texas, to be polled.

Others voting for the treaty were: Borah, Capper, Fess, Lafollette, and Vandenberg, Republicans; and Pittman, Walsh, Mont.; Harrison and Black, Democrats, and Shipstead, Farmer-Labor.

Opposition Evenly Split

Recorded in opposition were Moses and Glenn, Republicans, and Swanson, Wagner and Lewis, Democrats.

Borah said while no reservations were attached to the treaty in committee, freedom of floor action was reserved by those voting on both sides.

For instance, it was understood that Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, who voted against a favorable report because of an indecision whether New York State

MAYOR CERMAK SLIGHTLY WORSE

Temperature Rises Result Of Intestinal Disorders—Mrs. Gill Holds Own.

NO APPEAL FOR ZANGARA.

MIAMI, Fla, Feb. 22. (AP)—The condition of Mayor Anton Cermak, who bears an assassin's bullet in his chest, grew somewhat worse today.

Meanwhile lawyers for Giuseppe Zangara, who tried to kill President-elect Roosevelt and wounded five others instead, dropped plans for an appeal as the assassin snapped his finders in contempt at the 80-year term at hard labor meted out to him.

Harassed by the effects of intestinal disorders, the Chicago mayor slept only fitfully and his temperature had risen to 101.2, an increase of two-fifths of a degree in three hours.

Dr J. W. Snyder said the rise was no cause for alarm, however, and it was blamed on intestinal inflammation and colitis which made the mayor uncomfortable yesterday.

The condition of Mrs. Joe H. Gill, also seriously wounded by Zangara's wild bullets, was described as "remarkable."

If either she or Cermak should die Zangara faces murder charges, for which a possible penalty is death.

"Eighty years or a hundred years —make no difference," Zangara cried defiantly to his attorneys, ordering him to drop any thought of seeking a new trial.

ELECTRIC BELL SAVES 7 LIVES

ESCAPE IN NIGHT ATTIRE.

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (C.P.)—Seven persons and a dog escaped with their lives early to-day from a fire that gutted a three-storey building on Bloor Street West.

Trapped in their sleeping quarters on the second and third floors, three women and two children, their hair and eyebrows badly singed, fought for their lives clad only in scanty night attire.

Mrs. B. A. Jowett, Mrs. M. Swan and Mrs. Lillian Blakly risked their lives to rescue the children by clambering over slippery, slanting roof tops, 60 feet above the pavement.

Leroy Haines, 21, dropped from his bedroom window to the ground 20 feet below. He returned with a ladder and rescued his pet terrier from a window sill. D. C. Hayes, owner of a vulcanizing shop on the ground floor, was roused by the ringing of a bell when the fire short-circuited the wires. He awakened the others.

INTERNATIONAL CRISIS VISIONED IN JAP ATTACK

Foreign Diplomats Worried Over Outcome If Tientsin, Peiping Involved.

INSIDE GREAT WALL.

Invading Army Already 30 Miles Inside Border Of Jehol Province.

WASHINGTON, Febrruary 22 (C. P.). — International complications of a grave nature are feared by the foreign diplomatic and consular officers in North China should the fighting between Chinese and Japanese troops spread south of the Great Wall and involve Peiping and Tientsin.

These two cities have foreign concessions and extensive foreign interests. Each has a population of over 1,000,000, and Western Powers can not forget the horrors experienced by their nationals in these cities in 1900 when they were besieged by Boxers for many weeks.

Peiping is less than 40 miles south of the Great Wall at its nearest point. Tientsin, which is 80 miles south-east of Peiping, is 200 miles from the Jehol border, which is marked by the Great Wall.

Tientsin is 40 miles from the sea, but is connected with it by the Pei-Ho, which is navigable for ocean-going ships to that point. Along the banks of this stream in Tientsin lie the British, French, Belgian, Italian and Japanese concessions, where the trade of those nation is centered.

Move On Chaoyang.

CHINCHOW, Manchuria, Feb. 22 (C.P.).—The main force of Japanese troops which plans to wrest Jehol from Chinese rule in the next few weeks was preparing to-day to strike next at Chaoyang, second largest city of the province.

After a rapid but uneventful advance 30 miles across the border, this force was consolidating at Peipiao, terminus of a branch of the Peiping-Mukden Railroad, from this point. It occupied Peipiao late yesterday without encountering opposition.

A further movement in the drive aiming ultimately at the capture of Jehol City, the metropolis and capi-

VIENNA, Ont., Feb. 22.—(C. P.)—Samuel S. Chilton of this village can boast a better record than that claimed for J. L. Nickleson, Concord, N. S., Masonic past master who had 68 years of membership to his credit.

Mr. Chilton has been a member of Malahide Lodge, Aylmer, Ont., since 1860—73 years ago. He was master of the lodge in 1865 and is still in good standing. He is also a member of Vienna Lodge, in which he continues to fill the office of secretary.

Mr. Chilton is in his 94th year, is a 32nd degree Mason and has been warden of Elgin county.

BAN REMAINS ON THE PRESS

Matters Of Personal Nature Dealt With One Of Objections Offered.

HIGH SENSE OF HONOR.

"The press has a high sense of honor."

In those words V. J. McElderry, K.C., last night paid tribute to the newspaper fraternity when arguing before the Board of Education in favor of his motion that "the press be admitted to committee meetings of the Board."

The motion, seconded by W. J. Hancock, was defeated at the vote. The ayes included the mover and seconder and M. Burnham and J. A. McKone. Mrs. W. R. Morris and Messrs. Craig, Marshall, Moir, McNabb and Reid voted against the measure.

The matter came up for discussion after Mr. Marshall had stated he was "very distressed to see a committee report discussed in the public press before it had been presented to the Board."

Mr. McElderry agreeing that Mr. Marshall's complaint was well taken, said the best way out of the difficulty would be to admit a press representative to committee meetings.

"I move," he said, "that committee meetings of the Board be held in public."

Strenuous Objection

Dr. J. J. Craig offered strenuous objection on the main grounds that

In two blistering runs over the hard packed sands, the intrepid 48-year-old race car driver attained the astounding speed of 272.108 miles an hour over an officially measured mile course for a new land speed record.

On the first of two runs across the sand, Sir Malcolm was clocked at a speed of 273,556 miles an hour, and on his second trial at a clip of 270.676 for an average two-way record of 272.108 miles an hour.

Made Record Last Year

On his epochal runs, Sir Malcolm exceeded by 18.140 miles an hour his old world record of 253.968 he established here a year ago.

Streaking across the beach on his first trial, he was clocked over the measured mile in 13.16 seconds and on his second run over that distance at 13.60 seconds, for an average elapsed time of 13.23 seconds.

At the same time Sir Malcolm established a new land speed record over the mile, he also set up a new mark of 271.636 miles an hour over a one-kilometre route, which is approximately five-eights of a mile. His previous record for that distance was 251.340.

On his first run, the racer was clocked at 8.18 seconds over the kilometre for a speed of 271.802 miles an hour, and on his second run over that distance at 8.24 seconds for a speed of 271.472. His average elapsed time over the kilometre was 8.235 seconds and his average speed 271.636.

SHERIFF'S OUST MILK STRIKERS

Use Military Tactics, Gas Bombs To Arrest Eighty-Three Farmers.

DUMPING TRUCK CARGOES.

JUNEAU, Wis., Feb. 22 (A.P.)—Two hundred deputy sheriffs, who tossed tear gas bombs and manoeuvred in military manner, to-day arrested 83 striking farmers who were dumping milk trucks at Mayville.

The prisoners were taken 14 miles in 100 automblles to jail.

Strike sympathizers surrounded the jail, muttering threats to release their companions.

Sheriff Henry Lehman and District Attorney H. J. Gergen addressed the crowd in the jail yard and prevailed on most of the demonstrators to cross sthe street to the Court House ground. The jail was guarded by deputies, armed with rifles and bombs.

The trouble started near Mayville when strike pickets dumped several trucks of milk.

WHITE TERROR IS SPREADING DECLARES GERMAN OBSERVER

Police Are Forbidden to Interfere With Bands of Brown Shirts.

ARMY IS WELL FED

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN
Copyright

BERLIN, Feb. 10.—The white terror has burst over Germany. The Reich, foremost in material and cultural development is rapidly reverting to conditions reminiscent of the middle ages. One million young men in brown shirts equipped with revolvers, knuckle-dusters, daggers, machine-guns and certain nameless instruments of torture have been let loose by Adolph Hitler. They are raging through the working-class districts of the big cities, shooting, mutilating, terrorizing with impunity. Any policeman who dares to interfere when Nazis seize upon a lone pedestrian to beat him down and turn their heels in his eyes, any policeman who interferes is at once dismissed. The new chief of police in Berlin, a Nazi himself, has issued orders to this effect. Yet this is only the beginning. Before many weeks are over the world will stand aghast: There is going to be a bloodbath in Germany.

Pierre Van Paassen

Flush with money, well-fed, well-armed, the shock-battalions of the Fuehrer (the German word for leader or duce), that is to say, Hitler, patrol the working-class districts where hunger and privation

$5,000 DAMAGE IN MURRAY FIRE

3 MILES FROM WOOLER.

WOOLER, Feb. 22. (Examiner Correspondent).—Damage estimated at $5,000 was caused this morning by an outbreak of fire which destroyed a store and residence owned by W. H. Bell situated three miles south of Wooler at Concession 3, Lot 29 Murray Township.

Having its origin in the chimney, the fire gained a rapid hold of the living quarters situated over the store and spread so quickly that it was only possible to salvage a few articles of stock. The loss is only partly covered by insurance. The building was of frame construction.

FRESH ATTEMPT MADE ON LIFE OF ROOSEVELT

Shell, Wired To Explode If Struck Or Jarred, Found In Mail.

PACKAGE BREAKS OPEN.

Work Of Amateur, Say Officials—Might Have Gone Off Any Time.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (C.P.).—A second apparent attempt on the life of United States President-elect F. D. Roosevelt is under investigation, following the discovery of a package addressed to him containing a crudely wrapped shotgun shell.

The opinion that it was the work of a crank was expressed by William Statterfield, chief postal inspector for the Washington district. He added, however, that if the shell had exploded it might have resulted fatally.

Tightly wrapped with rusty wires and in a paper-stuffed package addressed to "Franklin D. Roosevelt, Washington, D.C., the shell was found yesterday at the city post office. It was mailed from Watertown, N.Y.

The discovery resulted when the package tumbled from a mail sack and burst open. An investigation centering at Watertown to ascertain who sent it was begun promptly.

Work Of Amateur.

The 12-gauge shotgun shell was wired to explode if jarred or struck. It was described as obviously the work of an amateur and might have gone off at any time.

The investigation is being made under a law prohibiting the sending of explosives through the mail. Satterfield is handling it.

Only last Saturday, five persons were arrested here in connection with a letter which had been found expressing regret the attempt to assassinate Roosevelt at Miami was unsuccessful.

Two were released promptly, another was held for immigration authorities and the remainder were freed when they explained the letter was intended as a joke. Police were advised by the district attorney's office the men had committed no crime.

HENDRICHON IS GIVEN 3 YEARS

Pleaded Guilty To Charge Of Attempting To Commit Armed Robbery.

WAS NOT ARMED.

MONTREAL, Feb. 22 (C.P.)—Three years' imprisonment was the sentence meted out to Harold Hendrichon, arrested some time ago in Peterborough, Ont., after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to commit "armed robbery" with provision that the court take into consideration the fact that he was not armed.

According to evidence yesterday of Louis Gervais, manager of a Verdun gasoline station, Hendrichon attempted to commit a hold-up on April 24, 1931, but was put to flight when Gervais hit him with a hammer. "He had something in his coat pocket which appeared like a hidden revolver," said Gervais. "When he came and pressed it against me, I felt what seemed to be the muzzle of a revolver."

"Not at all," protested the prisoner, "I was bluffing. There was nothing in my pocket except—of course—my hand." Request of the accused that the proviso be considered, was put aside by the court, and Hendrichon was tried on the original charge.

For two years, Hendrichon lived in Ontario under an assumed name after the attempted hold-up in Verdun. When he appeared in court at Peterborough under a charge of manslaughter, he was identified as the man wanted for the Verdun offence and brought back here.

AUSTRIA TO SEND ARMS SHIPMENT BACK TO ITALY

Government However Balks At Replying To French, British Note.

HOLD INCIDENT CLOSED.

Claim Rifles And Machine Guns Only Sent Over For Repairs.

VIENNA, Feb. 22.—The Austrian Government will speed the return to Italy of 50,000 rifles and 200 machine guns over which an international situation occurred, Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss announced last night.

He said, however, the Government will not comply with the "drastic conditions" of an Anglo-French note demanding the return or the destruction of arms recently shipped into Austria from Italy.

The text of the communication, as revealed by Mr. Dollfuss during a secret session of the principal Parliamentary committee, said Austria "must" act concerning the shipment, and fixed two weeks as the outside limit for an answer.

No Reply

The Chancellor said he did not plan to make any formal reply to the note.

Suggesting that the transportation of the arms violated the St. Germain Treaty, which forbids arms concentrations in countries defeated in the Great War, Great Britain and France asked Austria either to destroy the guns or return them to Italy. The Italian Government explained they were sent to an Austrian factory for repairs.

Chancellor Dollfuss said the text of the note was substantially the same as the one recently published in Rome, and as such had made a "painful impression upon him."

He said he had contended from the first that there had been no violation of the Treaty of St. Germain, and the Cabinet yesterday morning had authorized him to reject the Franco-British demands.

He was later informed by the British Foreign Minister of an interpellation in Parliament at London. However, he said that a friendly "liquidation" of the whole affair was indicated.

No Oath Required

In other words, he said, the Austrian standpoint was recognized, adding that there will be no "assurances under oath" (which the Franco-British note is understood to have asked), nor will there be any question of setting a time limit for a reply.

Nevertheless, he continued, the Austrian Government will speed up as far as possible the completion of the "repair" of the weapons shipped from Italy. Italy is now willing, according to the London interpellation, to have the arms sent back as soon as possible.

The Parliamentary committee thereupon adopted a resolution affirming Austria's continued desire to maintain neutrality toward "all alliances, armaments and conflicts of neighboring States."

Population During the Same Period Increased 75 Per Cent.

COMMITTEE FORMED

Startling information regarding the increase of taxation in Ontario compared with the growth of the population has been made public by the Ontario Committee on Economy in Public Finance, a committee representing thirty-one Ontario municipalities formed for the purpose of acquainting the public of this province with the actual state of public finance in Ontario, and to co-operate with the Provincial Government and the municipalities with a view to restricting governmental expenditures and reducing the present day all-too-heavy burden of taxation.

City Represented

Peterborough is represented on this Committee by Colonel C. H. Ackerman.

The Committee finds that in 1904-5 the total direct provincial taxation in Ontario amounted to $1,129,866. In 1930-31, this had been increased to the enormous sum of $33,854,982—a growth of 2896%. In that same period the population of the province increased less than 75%. The largest single item of taxation in 1930-31 was the gasoline tax, which netted the povince $10,-950,645. In 1904 this tax was non-existant. Auto licenses yielded $4,-687,521 in 1930-31. Thirty years ago receipts from this source were negligible. Succession duties follow closely in point of increase, the figures being $9,506,814 and $684,-176 in 1930-31 and 1930-1 and 1904-5 respectively. The corporation tax yielded $5,829,736 in 1930-1 and in 1904-5 only $445,688. This increase has been a severe handicap to industry.

Fees, fines, etc., brought $3,951,-254 to the treasury in 1930-1, against $741,578 in 1904-5. Revenues from the public domain increased from $2,260,817 to $4,839,262 in the same period, while miscellaneous departmental revenues grew from $475,709 to $12,470,675. This tremendous growth is attributed largely to the revenue of the Ontario Liquor Control Board, which in 1930-1 amounted to approximately $10,015,000.

Comments Made

The Committee makes several comments on the situation:

1. It will be noted that while the taxes have increased over 2800% the population has increased less than 75%.

2. The cost of living went up from 100 in 1913 to 136 in December, 1931 (36% increase) declining from 161 in December, 1921. Since December, 1931, the cost of living has gone down to 126.

3. As demands for provincial expenditures have increased, taxation has had to assume a larger share of the burden.

4. The only category of revenue other than taxation that has increased approximately as fast as taxation is Departmental Miscellaneous Revenue. This is due to the revenue of the Liquor Control Board which possibly might be added to taxation and would increase the percentage of increase under that head.

5. The revenue from public domain has not kept up with the increase in other revenues.

6. The Corporation tax increased over twelve times during the period.

Committee's Recommendations

Three preliminary recommendations have been made by the committee, as a general basis for co-operating with the Ontario Government with a view to reducing taxation, which in turn will necessarily require lessened expenditures.

1. Taxes on Business Corporations should not be at such a level as to handicap Ontario industry in competition with that of other provinces.

2. The public domain should be conserved so as to greatly increase the revenue therefrom.

3. As increased taxes are caused by demand for more expenditures, such demands should cease at least for some years and let the ability to pay taxes catch up on the demand for taxes. The public should co-operate with the Ontario Government in the endeavour to balance the provincial budget by refraining from demanding public expenditures properly payable out of revenue and encouraging reductions in current expenditures.

To co-operate with the Ontario committee the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce is organising a local committee to study the fields of municipal financing.

Painful Error

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 22. (AP)—A slight error on Edward Ogougke's part was reported by the police.

They said he aimed a kick at a bull dog, but his carry through was poor, and he fell.

MATTERN TESTS REBUILT PLANE

Flier Hops Off On "Limbering Up" Flight, New York-Texas Dash.

PLANS WORLD DASH.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (AP). Jimmie Mattern, birdman who nurses an undying ambition to whirl around the globe in record time, took off from Floyd Bennett airfield at 4:49 a.m., E.S.T., on a non-stop "limbering up" hop to San Angelo, Tex.

The jaunt, a 1,650-mile one, was the first big test for Mattern's rebuilt plane "The Century of Progress." The craft carries some original parts of the old "Century of Progress" which smashed up in Russia last summer on an unsuccessful world flight which Mattern attempted with Bennet Griffin.

Mattern was alone in the big ship as she shot away from the Brooklyn airport to-day. Griffin, who plans to go along on the second globe-girdling venture this spring or summer, is now in the west.

Bible Class Elects J. J. Thompson Head

MILLBROOK, Feb. 21 (Examiner Correspondence).—The annual meeting of the Larger Circle Bible Class of the Grace Presbyterian Church called out a practically full attendance; the superintendent of the Sunday School, J. H. McKnight, taking the chair, and Mrs. John R. Thompson acting as secretary. A balance on hand of $31.04 was reported by S. E. Eakins, and the slate of officers for 1933 elected as follows:—

President, J. J. Thompson; vice-president, Ruth Thorndyke; secretary, Mrs. Fred J. Deyell; treasurer, Mina Gibson; teachers, Mrs. J. R. Thompson and Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A.

The class plans to hold a social evening and reunion of its members in the near future; the new president, in his brief address, stressing the need of unity and loyal co-operation in the ensuing twelve months.

HENRY DEFENDS ABITIBI DEAL IN LEGISLATURE

Nixon Charges On Mortgage Issue Draw Premier's Fire.

SHARP EXCHANGES.

Taunted With Receiving Fees Premier Challenges Accuser.

TORONTO, Feb. 22.—In a fighting speech hurled across the floor of the Legislature, Premier Henry replied last night to the biting criticisms of Hon. Harry C. Nixon, Progressive Leader. Mr. Henry's address in reply was merely intended, as an answer to some of Mr. Nixon's remarks, and the Premier took only thirty-seven minutes to present it. He warmed to his task, and shouted a denial that he had ever been connected with a combine in the milk business.

With equal heat Mr. Henry replied to the accusations of Mr. Nixon regarding his (the Premier's) alleged ambiguous position as Leader of the Government on one hand and as a director of the Toronto Mortgage Company on the other.

Nixon Statements Challenged

He explained his connection with the latter, saying that his family had been associated with the company for many years, and vehemently declared Mr. Nixon's statement that a 12 per cent. dividend had been earned was wrong. Equally wrong, the Premier asserted, was the Progressive Leader's quotation on the increase in directors' fees. Mr. Henry stated that the increase in fees from $5,000 to $5,300 covered the total amount paid to the directors as a body, and did not indicate the amount paid to each director.

The Premier labelled Mr. Nixon's statement on 12 per cent. dividends of the company as "cheap talk — which he knows full well is not the truth."

The Leader of the Government quickly turned to a defense of the Abitibi deal, declaring he was willing to stake his reputation in the Province on the purchase of the

SCOUTS, GUIDES HONOR POWELL

Troops Banquet To-night Over Empire On Birthday Of Movement's Founder.

MEMBERSHIP 2,100,000.

OTTAWA, Feb. 22 (C.P.). — The Dominion's 62,000 Boy Scouts and 30,000 Girl Guides to-night will maintain the Canadian link of the unique world chain of banquets, which annually celebrate the joint birthday of Lord and Lady Baden-Powell, respective heads of both organizations throughout the world.

Special significance is given the event this year, as 1933 marks the completion of the first quarter century of the Scout movement. In 1908 a camp held at Brownsea Island, Dorset, by Lord Baden-Powell was the actual beginning.

A feature of many "B.-P." banquets throughout the Empire and in the United States will be the singing of a song, 'A Toast to B.-P.,' written by a Canadian, Scoutmaster Leslie Sara, of Calgary.

From initial membership of eight English boys and a scoutmaster has grown a world Scout enrolment of 2,160,000 boys and leaders in 94 different countries and parts of the British Empire. The Girl Guides and Girl Scouts number more than 1,000,000.

Quebec Considering Tax On 'Soft' Drinks

QUEBEC, Feb. 22 (C.P.).—A province-wide lottery, a tax on "soft" or carbonated drinks and Government monopoly of gasoline sales stand to-day before the Quebec Legislative Assembly as three sources of possible new revenue.

These suggestions for replenishing a depleted exchequer came yesterday from Hector Authier (Lib., Abitibi) as debate on the budget continued in the House. Sources of revenue and schemes for lessening the burden of taxation and economic difficulties were the main topic of budget discussions.

2 POSTS FILLED BY ROOSEVELT

Senator Hull, Secretary Of State And W. H. Woodin, Treasury.

HARD TASKS AHEAD.

NEW YORK, February 22. — President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt last night announced the names of two members of his Cabinet — Senator Cordell Hull of Tennessee to be Secretary of State, and William H. Woodin of Pennsylvania and New York to be Secretary of the Treasury.

Apparently impelled by realization of the gigantic tasks into which these officials will be plunged on March 4, Mr. Roosevelt announced their appointments earlier than expected.

Only yesterday afternoon the President-elect had told newspapermen who questioned him about his Secretary of State: "I'll have the name for you about March 2."

The appointments — which Mr. Roosevelt had previously expected to announce just before his inauguration — will permit Hull and Woodin to enter at once into open preparation for the change of the administration.

Immediate Conferences.

Hull will confer immediately with the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, and French Ambassador Paul Claudel. Woodin, it is assumed, will prepare himself to relieve Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills.

Mr. Roosevelt's announcements, made at his home here several hours after his regular press conference, came as no surprise to friends of the President-elect.

Hull had been regarded as a certain choice for the Department of State portfolio since his visit to the President-elect's Warm Springs, Ga., home several weeks ago. Mr Roosevelt is believed to have offered him the post then.

He is fundamentally a free trade man and an advocate of reciprocity —a question talked of in the Canadian House of Commons only on Monday as something to be aimed at in Canadian-United States relations.

William H. Woodin is an industrialist, manufacturer of railroad equipment, banker, composer of symphonies, numismatic fan, collector of eruikshankia. He lists himself a Republican, which gives a queer "twist" to his appointment by a Democratic President.

JAPS FORESEE FORCED ATTACK ON PEIPING CITY

Prepare To Warn British And Other Governments With Interests There.

KEEP WAR IN JEHOL.

Announce Intention Of Annihilating Gen. Chang's Army of 100,000 Men.

TOKYO, Feb. 22 (C.P.). — Great Britain and other governments which maintain military forces and "spheres of interest" in the Peiping-Tientsin area will be informed that Japan may be "compelled" to extend military operations to those cities.

The Foreign Office announced today that Ambassadors of the principal Powers will be told the Japanese army has no intention of carrying its campaign in Jehol Province south of the great wall of China unless Chinese reprisals force such action.

"There is a real danger of backwash from the Jehol campaign, resulting in a Chinese attack on our garrison at Tientsin or in the massacre of Japanese at Peiping," said a Foreign Office spokesman.

"In this event, our army will be compelled to move to protect them. Barring such unfortunate developments, fighting will be confined to Jehol," he added.

Great Britain has a military force in the area, along with other Powers which participated in the Boxer protocol of September, 1901. This document provided for punishment of China after the Boxer uprising in Peiping, the maintenance by foreign troops of communication between Peiping and the sea and the fortification and policing of Legation quarters.

Will Wipe Out Army.

The possibility the Japanese Army will occupy the ancient Chinese capital, and its port, Tientsin, developed with announcement of determination to annihilate the army of Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang, North China War Lord. Driven out of Manchuria by the Japanese, Marshal Chang now maintains headquarters at Peiping.

Defence of Jehol against the Japanese drive to annex that province to Manchukuo will be directed from Peiping and Marshal Chang already has despatched about 30,000 of his 100,000 troops to aid local Jehol forces.

The Japanese took another step to-day in their announced plan to withdraw from the League of Nations. Premier Makoto Saito and Foreign Minister Yasyua Uchida appeared before the Privy Council and explained the reasons for the Cabinet's decision. The final step is to obtain the endorsement of the Emperor, which is believed assured.

44,651,090 Bushels Wheat Sent England

OTTAWA, Febraury 22 (C.P.).—Wheat exported to the United Kingdom by Canada during the three months November, December, and January totalled 44,651,090 bushels, according to official figures here. Of this quantity, 17,887,718 bushels were shipped in November, 17,206,177 in December, and 9,587,-195 in January.

London cables indicate that about 27,586,869 bushels were given the preference during the eleven-week period from November 17 to January 31. Statstics are not compiled here for that period, but for the three months including the eleven weeks indicated, total figures are as given above.

The exports of Canadian wheat to months was nearly 70,000,000 all countries during the three bushels.

JUST AMONG US GIRLS

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

A GIRL, OR EVEN A WOMAN, is popular for some one of many reasons or by a combination of them!

* * * * * * *

For example, one who is good at sports will find herself popular with those of similar tastes. She must be expert in some fields. It may be tennis, golf, water sports, sailing a boat, skiing, etc., and she should be above the average in some of the other sports.

* * * * * * *

It is worthwhile for a girl who enjoys out-of-door exercise to practice and perfect herself in her favorite sport so that she will be sought as a partner for games or a companion in sports.

* * * * * * *

Her very ability at winning gives her prestige which makes her agreeably noticeable. If to this ability she adds a pleasant manner and is a good sport in losing, as everyone must at times, she has gone a long way on the road to popularity.

* * * * * * *

Some are popular in their set because they have an accomplishment which makes them an addition to any gathering — playing a musical instrument, singing, impersonating, being able to interest a group in an account of some event or in telling stories amusingly, in short, kinding a certain enviable distinction to the person.

* * * * * * *

It is assumed, of course, that there is also a polish of manner which gives a gracious and agreeable personality without which few can expect to become favorites or be popular, whatever their field.

* * * * * * *

Being a good dancer is one of the accomplishments which makes a girl or woman sought as a partner and cut in for when already dancing. A help to this popularity is to have a happy expression.

* * * * * * *

The one with whom the girl is dancing may get only brief glimpses of this, but those watching get a full view, and are apt to make mental note of expression.

* * * * * * *

Those who are unpopular are apt to think harshly or even speak disparagingly of those who are popular. But it is far wiser to analyze the situation and find out why one loses out.

* * * * * * *

Learn to be good at something which makes for attraction. To be good-looking is far from everything. To have a winning expression is a great aid.

* * * * * * *

If you do these things with sincerity, you are in a fair way to win success.

OUR MAIL

Dear Anne:

So many times I have wanted to write but I have had one sickness after another, culminating in a nervous breakdown. However, I am on the mend again.

I always read with interest your articles but missed two weeks or more, when I was too ill. There have been some nice letters recently.

I remember Quid Est saying in one of her letters that she thought I was a farmer too. But I never have been, only I have stayed a few weeks there, but did not enjoy it.

And now I have started, Anne, my mind seems a blank. Only this, I would like to pass on for all those who are being tried sorely just now, whether it is through lack of work, or sickness, or disappointments: Try to live one day at a time—no more. Do not trouble your mind about what you will do next week or even tomorrow. Because each day will be taken care of. Be thankful for what you have and God will send you more. We cannot see why these things come on us, but maybe it is to test us for higher things. And when your mind is troubled and your heart is low, be still, "Be still and know that I am God."

So many times have I felt the nearness of God; so much I could tell of His goodness but you might think I was preachy. Yet I have had a lot of trouble and a great deal of sickness and trying to be a Christian is hard because of the criticism and because so much more is expected of you. But still, if when we come to the end we can look back and think that at least we did our best, what else matters?

And now Anne, in conclusion, I would say that things are really on the mend. Slowly but surely better times are on the way. Summer will be better; next winter will not be so bad as this one and by 1934 we will all be back on our feet again and wont we be glad? So as I am all tired Anne, I wish you and the neighbors the best your heart could wish for.

Yours rather shakily,
AD INFINITUM.

Thank you, Ad Infinitum, and I sincerely hope that very, very soon, you will have regained your health. Your advice will add a new note of cheer to many who read it and we all hope that 1934 will be a brighter year than this. Write to the page again, when you can find time.

Sincerely,
Anne Wilcox

ASSISTING MINIMUM BIDS

There is about one in four chances that an opening bid of one by partner may give your side a game at some call. Do not feel that you cannot support unless you hold at least four small trumps and one and one-half quick tricks. Circumstances and unusual strength of one kind frequently atone for lack of strength specified by somebody's rules.

Provided a sound shift is available nobody wants at once to support upon only three small trumps, but no player imbued with the spirit of the game will fail to support partner's opening bid of 1-Heart on the hand shown below, in case second hand bids 1-Spade. The hand contains no biddable shift and hearts must be aided. If no bid intervenes the proper bid is a no-trump shift.

♠ 8 6 3	♣ K 6 5 4
♥ 9 5 2	♦ A K J

Suppose you support partner's 1-Heart on the above hand, because second hand was overcalled with 1-Spade. Partner will proceed as indicated below.

Bid 2-No Trumps

♠ A J 2	♣ A Q 3

Pass

♠ 7 5 2	♣ A Q 3
♥ A K 6 4	♦ 8 5 2

It is for you to bid 3-No Trumps over your partner's 2-No Trumps, with your hand and his as previously given. Pass partner's 4-Hearts Raise his 3-Clubs to 4-Clubs. Your partner will pass in the first case where he has made that Bid. In the second case he must bid 5-Clubs. Of course you pass, no matter whether second hand bids 2-Spades or not, in the case where your partner has decided to bid over your assist to 2-Hearts.

A convenient rule for determining the strength needed to support partner is as follows:: When either four small cards, or three including a high honor are held, assist once upon a count of 5, including both quick tricks and probable tricks.

Of course you count both the quick trick and probable trick values of honors. The Ace is one quick trick and one and one-half probable tricks, if at least three small cards follow it. The K is one-half quick trick and one probable trick. Count both values in each case.

Using the above rule you may assist partner's opening bid of 1-Spade with each of the five hands shown below.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

I nominate as the best magazine article which has been written since the depression, Helen Keller's "Three Days to See," in the January "Atlantic." For all those who are bemoaning their fate and pitying themselves, it might be bracing to read what a woman, who has never seen the world or never will see it, has as her dearest desire.

"If I were given the use of my eyes for just three days,' says Miss Keller, "this is what I would most like to see. Suppose you, too, set your mind to the problem of how you would use your own eyes if you had the same period of time. If with the on-coming darkness of the night you knew the sun would never rise for you again, how would you spend those three precious intervening days?

"'On the first day, I should want to see the people whose kindness and gentleness and companionship have made my life worth living.

"I do not know what it is to see into the heart of a friend through that 'window of the soul,' the eye. I can only 'see' through my finger tips the outline of a face. I can detect laughter, sorrow, and many other obvious emotions. I know my friends from the feel of their faces.

"The next day—the second day of sight—I should arise with the dawn and see the thrilling miracle by which night is transformed into day. I should behold with awe the magnificent panorama of light with which the sun awakens the sleeping earth.

"This day I should devote to a hasty glimpse of the world, past and present. * * * Often I have visited the New York Museum of Natural History to touch with my hands many of the objects there exhibited, but I have longed to see with my eyes the condensed history of the earth and its inhabitants displayed there—animals and the races of men picture in their native environment.

"On this, my second day of sight, I should try to probe into the soul of man through his art.

"The third day I shall spend in the workaday world of the present, amid the haunts of men going about the business of life.

"I start from my home in the quiet little suburb * * * I drive across the lacy structure of steel which spans the East river, and I get a new and startling vision of the power and ingenuity of the mind of man.

"Now I begin my rounds of the city. First, I stand at a busy corner, merely looking at people, trying by sight of them to understand something of their lives. I see smiles, and I am happy. I see serious determination, and I am proud. I see suffering, and I am compassionate.

"I who am blind can give one hint to those who see—one admonition to those who would make full use of the gift of sight: Use your eyes as if tomorrow you would be stricken blind."

Is Your Child's Diet A Thief?

Is "Deficiency The Robber" Stealing His WEIGHT . . . ?

Scientific Food Products, Limited, maintain a Research Laboratory under the supervision of Dr. F. A. J. Zeidler, Ph.D., where the Vitamin and other nutritional constituents of VIP are under constant test and supervision.

Scientists have discovered that one of the most frequent causes of underweight in children is a deficiency in Vitamin B_1. This precious Vitamin has a direct effect on the appetite, growth and weight of a child. It has also been discovered that one of the two richest known sources of this precious Vitamin B_1 is in the life cells of wheat.

Here's Convincing Evidence

A test of 30 weeks' duration, carried on by two nutritional scientists on school pupils, furnished definite proof that the addition of life cells of wheat to the diet, increases the rate of growth and weight of school children. Of two similar groups of children, the group which included life cells of wheat in their diet showed a three-fold greater increase in weight than the other group fed on the same diet but without life cells. (See Report American Journal, Diseases of Children, May, 1930, 39:935.)

Why "Life Cells" Not Widely Used

You may naturally wonder why a much wider use of these life cells of wheat, so rich in Vitamin B_1, has not been made. The chief reason is that they are perishable.

Recently, however, a process has been developed that prevents deterioration and still retains the Vitamin and nutritional values of these life cells. This process has made possible a new food-drink, called VIP, the basic elements of which are the life cells of wheat, to which have been added cocoa, malt, iron and other healthful ingredients. In addition to its big Vitamin B_1 content, VIP is a rich source of Vitamins A, B_2 and E, of energy-building proteins and iron.

Two Teaspoonfuls of VIP Supply As Much Iron As A Pound of Spinach

The rich supply of iron in VIP is another growth and weight-producing factor which makes this new product of exceptional value in the feeding of children. Children who dislike spinach will drink VIP, HOT or COLD, with enthusiasm. Its nut-like, chocolate-malt flavor is irresistible!

For best results, VIP should be given the child at least once daily. Twice a day, a cup at breakfast and another after school, would be even better to overcome "Deficiency the Robber". VIP will not only increase a child's growth and weight, but will also increase his vigor and strength.

At Druggists and Department Stores

VIP (Vitamins + Iron + Proteins) is obtainable in two sizes. The 10-oz. size at 65c, the 20-oz. (1¼ lbs.) at $1.10.

HERE IS A LESSON.

There should be a lesson to a good many people in the story from Oshawa of a widow who fearful for the safety of her money in the bank where it was deposited withdrew her savings and then lost them in the excitement of a fire in the house next door.

Yielding to panic in a time like this is liable to be an expensive experiment; people who ignore the essential soundness and stability of Canada's banking institutions and attempt to protect their savings by hoarding their money at home are exposing themselves to the risk of losing their all by theft or fire.

The condition of the banks of the country should be its own guarantee of the safety of the depositor's money; to remove savings from such sure protection and to run the danger of having the earnings of a lifetime disappear in the pockets of some sneak thief seems like a silly proceeding for which the present financial situation offers not the slightest justification.

It may be that there are those who have been frightened by the closing of large numbers of American banks; they should, however, study the difference in the record of the two banking systems, and if they do will probably have their confidence in Canadian banking institutions fully restored.

A USELESS VISIT.

Amnesty for Tim Buck and other convicted Communists was requested of the Federal Government by a deputation representing the Canadian Labor Defense League which waited upon the Premier at Ottawa yesterday.

The answer of Mr. Bennett was exactly what might have been expected.

He logically pointed out to the members of the delegation that the law would take care of convicted Communists, and that those among the prisoners who had been guilty of inciting penitentiary riots would have to face a new trial in the courts of the country.

They would not be released, he flatly told the deputation, and then turning his guns upon the organization represented by his visitors, the Premier declared that the Labor Defense League had been carrying on Communistic activities since the Toronto Communists were convicted a year ago, and that so far as the leader of the league was concerned there was no doubt "but that a jury of citizens of this country would find you guilty."

The prisoners whose freedom was requested were convicted after a fair trial of an offence, the nature of which they understood from the first, and the Premier is entirely justified in refusing to extend clemency to men who would resume their Red activities and their plotting against established authority the moment they were pardoned.

AN INVOLVED SITUATION.

Those who endeavor to keep an eye at all times on the political situation are finding it somewhat difficult to weight the significance of recent developments in the Ontario field.

The speech of Mr. Sinclair in the Legislature yesterday in which he expressed sympathy with the Government in the serious problems it is endeavoring to handle and urged that criticism should be constructive and not harmful, was so utterly at variance with recent speeches delivered by Mr Hepburn that it would seem that the Liberal House leader and the Liberal field leader are as far apart as the poles in their attitude.

Then there is the fact that most of the questions hurled at the Government have been framed by Progressive members, and in some quarters this is taken as an indication that Mr. Hepburn has chosen to work through his Progressive allies rather than the elected Liberal members in the Legislature, all of which helps to obscure the situation and cause political commentators a great deal of difficulty in attempting to prophesy what is going to happen next.

There are those who can see signs of a coalition government in the provincial field, and certainly the happenings of the past few days give color to that idea.

The political developments of the next few months should prove decidedly interesting.

THE ACCIDENT TOLL.

The accident record in Ontario last year which shows a total of 1,665 lives snuffed out was a little better than that of the year previous, but was still large enough to convict the people of this province of a great deal of carelessness, inasmuch as the vast majority of these fatal accidents could have been prevented.

An analysis of the figures reveal the fact that motor accidents were responsible for the greatest number of deaths, 502 individuals being killed in automobile mishaps.

Ontario's lakes and rivers took another heavy toll, 349 persons meeting death by drowning during the year. 179 others were killed by falls, 83 died in railway accidents, 69 died of burns or scalds, 47 lost their lives in explosions, 41 were accidentally shot, 32 asphyxiated and carbon monoxide accounted for 24 deaths.

The slight improvement noted in the total will be appreciated, but the number of killings is an indictment of the people of the province; to have nearly 1,700 persons slain by causes that would have been eliminated by the observance of the ordinary rules of caution and discretion is a condition that an intelligent people should not be satisfied to accept.

However, it seems an impossible task to sufficiently educate public opinion so that there will be something like a concerted movement to cut down this annual slaughter.

TOO BIG FOR PROPER CONTROL.

Condensed summaries of the report of the United States National Transportation Committee, with a recommendation for "sweeping consolidation of United States railroads on a regional basis," are liable to be misunderstood. This committee, in the first place, was not a government body. Unlike the Duff Royal Commission, which was created by the Dominion Government, and which reported to the Government, it was appointed by railway investors and, as a purely private body, has reported to those investors.

Also—and this lest advocates of amalgamation in Canada take this report as supporting their contentions—it may be well to understand what the United States committee means by "regional" consolidation. It doesn't mean amalgamation; certainly not amalgamation of entire transcontinental systems, or amalgamation of the character proposed in Canada. What it means is that in certain regions there should be less of over-lapping services; fewer terminals, less of parallel trackage, reduced unnecessary overhead. It is something entirely different from amalgamation into one monopolistic control.

The truth is that in the United States the tendency is away from amalgamation. The position taken by railway experts is that no single management, no matter what its efficiency, could be expected to operate a railway system in excess of a certain mileage. The matter has been threshed out on more than one occasion before the Interstate Commerce Commission, and always the conclusion has been the same. Perhaps the most conclusive opinion on the point was given by Mr. Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Southern Pacific lines. Giving evidence before a committee of the United States Senate, he said:

"The difficulties resulting from increasing a system from 11,000 or 12,000 miles, which ours is, to 25,000 miles, we will say, would increase the difficulties not twice but probably four times or even eight times what they are with the smaller system."

Here in Canada we are being told that a single management could take the 23,000 miles of the Canadian National and the 22,000 miles of the Canadian Pacific and run the combined 45,000 miles with increased efficiency. Mr. Kruttschnitt, speaking from personal experience, and thinking only of a system of 25,000 miles, said:

"I might say that I believe a man would be found who would rise to the occasion, that you could find men to operate such a property and who would devote all their time and abilities to it; but the task imposed on them would be—well, I would say almost more than any one man could bear."

And Mr. Kruttschnitt added,

"I will speak, if you will pardon the allusion, to a personal experience, somewhat from that standpoint, During Mr. Harriman's lifetime I was charged with the operations both of the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific, which then aggregated 15,000 or 16,000 miles. It was pretty hard to know some mornings how to get around the whole job. It was one of very great difficulty and an immensely greater burden to the executive officer in charge of them than supervision of half or two-thirds of that mileage."

Mr. Beatty, giving evidence before the Duff Royal Commission, and urging amalgamation, was closely questioned on this point; questioned by Mr. Loree, by Lord Ashfield, and by Sir Joseph Flavelle. Those who have read the evidence may judge for themselves as to whether or not Mr. Beatty's answers were satisfactory; but it is significant that in framing its report this very factor—the factor of the difficulty of a single management operating 45,000 miles of railway—was one of the main things operating in the commission's mind to influence it against amalgamation.

Actually, the report of the United States Transportation Committee is practically upon all fours with that of the Duff Commission. It does not call for amalgamation. It does call for elimination of "vast and wasteful duplication of services." And it urges "governmental action where necessary" to enforce economies. In other words, the principle of the arbitral board, one of the fundamentals of the Duff Report.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The stream of donations to the Relief Fund must not be allowed to dry up. Every cent of the money asked for will be required.

A March blizzard slipped into the February scene yesterday as a reminder that this city is quite a distance from the Gulf Stream.

The battle of the estimates is being fought by every spending body at the present time, and there are evidences that what is going on is not sham-fighting.

The Labor Defense League deputation which visited Ottawa yesterday doubtless came away convinced that Mr. Bennett can do some free speaking on his own account.

Hon. H. C. Nixon, Progressive leader, is calling upon the Government to resign, but it is a safe wager that the administration will remain on the job until an election becomes absolutely necessary.

Little Girl Lost

By Temple Bailey

CHAPTER 1

Her name should have been Cinderella. But her mother had called her Araminta. After her mother's only sister, who was known as Aunt Min, and whose full name was Minerva. Araminta's mother had wanted something more romantic, and out of it all had evolved—Aramin a! for Araminta was the child of her mother's later years and of her second marriage. The other girls were Leontine and Helen and Iris. They had been named by their father, and Araminta's mother had had very little to do with it. For being a first husband, he had functioned, inevitably, as the head of the family. Araminta's father, on the other hand, hadn't cared in the least what the baby was called, so that his wife was satisfied. So Araminta was Araminta, and that was the end of it!

Or it would have been the end if Araminta's father had been able to provide for his family. But he wasn't. He had absolutely no head for money matters and said so, frankly. The father of Leontine and Helen and Iris had left a comfortable fortune. His wife was to have her share of the income if she remained unmarried. If she married, it was all to go, except her dower rights, to the first husband's three daughters, who were, of course, her own, although they did not seem in the least like her, having inherited their dominant traits from their father. And so it happened that Araminta's mother having spent the major part of her dowry in two glorious years of honeymooning in Europe with her improvident husband—who was a painter and perfectly delightful, but whose pictures never sold—came back with a brand new baby to live with Helen and Leontine and Iris, who were really very fond of their mother and had missed her, and who, when at last they came home from the convent where they had been placed in the honeymoon interim took their stepfather on his own terms of good looks and gayety and gentle manners.

So that was Araminta's family—Leontine and Helen and Iris, and Araminta's mother, whose nice name was Mary, and Araminta's father, whose pleasant name was Nick! And it might have been a happy family except for the fact that Araminta grew beyond innocent childhood and beyond long-legged girlhood into the loveliest of them all—an exquisite creature wearing the clothes which her stepsisters handed down to her with such grace and distinction that they might have come straight from Vionnet or Chanel or from that house of Worth which had once made gowns for Araminta's own grandmother.

And Araminta looked like her grandmother—the grandmother who had married a bishop, and who had been the toast of two Maryland counties, and had drawn men to her as a honeypot draws bees. And while Iris and Helen and Leontine tried to be generous and big-hearted and all the things that their post-war generation entitled them to be, the fact remained that it was not easy for their more mature years to look with complacence on the conquests of Araminta's youth and inexperience.

And so, since Araminta had a wit to see, and a heart to be hurt here she was, at this moment, running away to be married!

Three ducks flew across the moon, like little black ships with their sails up. Araminta, touching her lover's arm, said "Look, Barney, look!"

"I know, Loveliness. . . ."

The moon went with them as they drove along. It hung above the bay, and after the ducks were gone, thin clouds drifted across it, then bigger clouds, until at last there was no moon, and the night grew black and the thunder roared, and the rain came down in torrents.

But not a whit did the lovers care for thunder or wind, or for the lightning which burned blue about them. For they were safe and dry in Barney's car, and it was spring and the night was warm, and their lights picked out the white of the dogwood against the darkness of the pines and the bridal white of the bloom was like the bridal white of Araminta's wedding gown packed in a bag on the back seat. The gown was made over from one of Leontine's. But that did not matter. Nothing mattered but the fact that Barney and Araminta were to be married tomorrow.

The wind blew harder . . . the world swept by them in a swirl of flying branches and streaming water In an open space in the road, Barney brought the car to a stop. "It's dangerous under those trees. We'll wait until things let up a bit."

Araminta was content to wait. She lay with her cheek against Barney's coat, with her ear catching the beat of his heart while he told her over and over again of his great good luck in getting her. "I can hardly believe it, Loveliness."

Araminta said nothing. Three hours ago she wouldn't have believed it. Not until Leontine had come into her room just before dinner and had said, "We are planning a trip for you, darling."

Araminta's room was the Cinderella-room of Great-Gate, where the six of them lived together. But Araminta felt no sense of grievance. She loved her room because its windows looked out over the wide Maryland acres towards the Chesapeake. It was much better than the one in the town house in Washington, which was on a street still fashionable, but whose back windows gave on a crowded row of negro tenements.

And it was in Araminta's room, therefore, that Leontine had announced, "We are planning a trip for you."

Araminta, dazzling in Leontine's last-year's pink lace had asked: "What kind of trip?"

"To the Riviera. Everyone is crazy about Juan-les-Pins in summer. And Nicky could paint, and you could all take an apartment."

"You mean that Nicky and Mary are going?"

"Yes. They jumped at it. And Helen and Iris and I will put up the money."

"But why, Leo? I'm happy here."

"We thought you'd love it."

"Did you. . . .?"

"Of course. Any girl would. . . ." Leontine prided herself on her frankness, but she had hesitated to tell the truth to Araminta, and the truth was this, as has been said, that Araminta, growing up to unexpected loveliness, had put her stepsisters completely in the shade. One heard everywhere, "Little Araminta Williams, Little Araminta Williams," as if there were no other women in the world. Leontine and Helen and Iris were, in fact, fast becoming known merely as backgrounds to Araminta's beauty.

And something had to be done about it!

Leontine did not underrate her own charms. She had a tall slim figure, and her green satin dinner gown fitted her as if it had been put on with a shoe horn. She had a golden skin, and a waved-bronze boyish head like a Greek god, and a voice with a rich, deep note like Ethel Barrymore's; but with it all she lacked the things which made men mad about Araminta—perhaps it was some magic quality of youth, perhaps this new-old-fashioned air of femininity which became her so well. But whatever it was, Leontine knew that she and her sisters were being swept off the stage by this star performer!

And now here was Barney Tyson!

Thinking therefore of Barney, Leontine had flung reticence to the winds—"There are too many of us. We thought if you'd run along to Europe with Nicky and Mary—we might have a chance at things. . . ." And by "things" Leontine meant men, and Araminta knew it.

"Oh, Leontine, how silly. . . ."

Leontine had laughed a bit awkwardly, but had stuck to her point, "It may sound silly to you. But honestly Minta there are too many of us . . . four unmarried women in one family. It's positively—indecent. . . ."

She had leaned back against Araminta's mirror, which had made two Leontines of her, and Araminta, looking at the two Leontines, the one in the mirror and the one out of it had said, "I thought you loved me."

"Darling, we do. But three was bad enough, and now with you coming on! And we thought if you would go, and Nicky and Mary, we girls would fix you up with gorgeous clothes—and give you plenty of money. . . ."

She had stopped suddenly, for Araminta had made a quick imperative gesture, "I don't want your money, Leo."

"Nonsense, Minta."

"I've always hated being dependent. You know that, but you wouldn't let me work—"

"Why shouldn't you share things?"

"Because, Nicky and mother and I really haven't any right—and as for marrying. I don't want to marry—anybody."

"You think that now. But you'll marry, of course, with a man like Barney Tyson after you."

"Oh, Barney," Minta's light tone had dismissed him.

"I don't love him in the least and he knows it," and Leontine who loved him had felt a flame of hope.

"You mustn't think we want to get rid of you, Minta. But a year over there would do a lot for you."

"Of course you want to get rid of me of you wouldn't have planned it," Araminta had been close to tears, for she adored them all, and at last Leontine had said, "Darling child, if you feel that way about it, don't go. But we just thought . . ." and then there had been arguments all over again.

ALL OF US

By MARSHALL MASLIN

SLOW MOTION PICTURE OF THE MIND

You've seen those slow motion pictures of things. Of a football game. Of a tennis match. Of a hundred yard dash. You know how gracefully, how precisely people move in those picture. You can see every action, every turn of the body. You don't miss a thing. Everything is there right before you, clear as can be. Nothing escapes the eye.

Some day somebody ought to invent a camera that will photograph the action of the mind that shows its activities just as candidly as that. It would be illuminating—and terrible. I can think of many occasions when it would be convenient.

Example One. A man driving down the highway thinking of something besides his driving. There's a collision. He didn't see the other car at all. He hasn't the faintest idea how the accident happened....In a flash he is out of the car telling the other fellow what's what, asking him why he doesn't look where he is going, getting out from under, acting the part of the abused party, sincerely clearing himself of all blame....Wouldn't a slow motion picture of that man's mind be interesting?

Example Two: Another man wakes up in the morning with a headache. He knows why. He was out too late, he had too much to drink, he spent too much money, too....He knows he made a mistake. He knows some critical remarks may be made....Immediately he is sorry for himself. He lives a miserable life. His wife is extravagant. His children don't appreciate him. He might as well be dead. It's strange indeed if a man can't get out occasionally and have a little recreation.....He's on the defensive at once, and if you say a word he'll fight back....A motion picture of his mind would be annoying.

Example Three: A third man accepts an invitation to spend an evening playing bridge He doesn't like bridge, he'd rather do anything else. ....He's sorry he said he would go, but he doesn't know how to get out of it. It bothers him. He wonders whether he can't avoid it in some way. He can't think of any excuse. ....It harasses him....On the day he was to go to the party, he forgets all about it and goes to a movie instead. Afterwards he is furiously embarrassed and eats dirt as he apologizes. He can't understand how he ever forgot....But a motion picture of his mind's activities would be convenient.

Examples four, five, ten, fifty-six and one thousand and two are just the same as these....And on second thought I don't think I'll invent that camera. We know too much now.

This is the signature of a man who is emotionally very much alive—he is enthusiastic about life generally, keen on people, completely sincere and of a rare generosity in giving of himself. At the same time he wears a light armor of cynicism over his open heart and as a further means of protection keeps his sense of humor—a very mellow and individual sense of humor—in athletic trim. His capacity for authority is remarkably well developed, although a peculiar apprehensiveness detracts from complete self assurance. It is as though in consequence of experience he is aware how deeply he can be affected and hurt and is therefore on his guard against letting things get under his skin. This conscious self-guarding enables him to present a most equable front. He is unaffected, amiable and free of self conceit so that he is receptive and adjustable and gets a great deal out of life. He has considerable organizing ability. He would be particularly efficient on complicated jobs—he has decision of just the proper degree without undue emphasis; he works smoothly and apparently without effort. He has a tremendous abundance of vitality and is keen on the elemental forms of outdoor sport, as hunting and fishing.

SALARY CUTS

To the Editor of The Examiner.
Dear sir:

I would like to ask Alderman McNabb if he ever took the trouble to find out anything first before he made statements.

At the council meeting on Thursday, February 17, at a Board of Works meeting, when salary cuts were being discussed he stated that the factories would take their pattern and do the same. I would like to inform him that the factories in the City started cutting their payroll as far back as last Summer and some of them have been cut twice, from the office staff down to the laborers. They have been cut from 10 per cent to 25 per cent according to what their salaries were and they have been put on short time as well.

Now as Alderman McNabb came out on an economy platform it is up to him now to give his support to the other Aldermen in their effort to keep the taxes down and vote for a cut in salary and a clean-out of all non-producers. That is the only way we can get lower taxes and the only way a working man will get the taxes reduced. Rents are too high and they will be high unless the taxes are lowered.

Hoping, Mr. Editor, that I have not taken up too much space in your paper. I remain,

FAIR PLAY TO ALL.

Tea And Hot Supper Most Successful

MILLBROOK, Feb. 21 (Examiner Correspondence).—The afternoon tea and hot supper, on Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Ladies' Association of St. Andrew's Church, for which Mrs. J. McKnight kindly extended the hospitality of her home, was an enjoyable social event, and a marked success from the financial viewpoint as well.

Mrs. H. Ross Edmunds attended the door for the incoming guests, who were welcomed in the cosy living-room by the hostess, her mother, Mrs. George Locke; Mrs. F. J. Smith, president of the Association, and Mrs. J. Albert Brown. In the tea room golden daffodils in silver holders centered the daintily-laid tables; Mrs. E. J. Thornton, Mrs. G. E. Burnham, and Mrs. T. Douglas looking after the serving of the guests.

The hot supper from 5.30 until after 7 p.m., attracted most of the business men of the village, as well as many others who enjoyed the substantial meal served.

The King's request that all officers in the Household Cavalry wear moustaches, has been extended to include all ranks.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

THE FIRST PINAFORE IN CANADA

On this date, in 1879, the first performance of a Gilbert and Sullivan opera in Canada took place at Toronto in the Opera House, long since abandoned by thespians but for many years the centre of social amusement in the days when Toronto was very small. The opera was performed by the celebrated Holman family, with assistants, and a critic of the day told the world that the company "rendered it very creditably." The opera had quite a long run and in time the performance reached such smoothness that the company went to Philadelphia and Chicago and other places. It created quite a furore because it was announced as an "entirely English company"; true as to the nationality of the players who were Canadian-born but not actually, for none of them had ever seen England.

The star of the company was Sallie Holman, then and for many years "the toast of the town." In those days it was the custom in Toronto for the socially elect to parade at the tea hour along a certain section of King street. Whenever Sally appeared she was at once surrounded by a crowd of admirers, some youthful, some mature, but all worshippers of her beauty and vivacity. It is said by old-timers that when she left town, three florists had to go into bankruptcy.

Among the most ardent of her admirers were a young bank clerk, afterwards a noted figure in Winnipeg and further west, the other a newly admitted barrister. Both were deep in love with the lively Sally; she played one against the other with much success, concealing of course(that she was a married woman all the time. (It should be emphasized that her moral character was of the highest; no one was ever able to point the finger of reproach against her; she was just a theatrical flirt). One day she got her dates mixed and promised to go to tea after the matinee with both her Romeos. She came out of the stage door; both were waiting; each approached; Sally was in a dilemma; but she had quick wit and promptly returned to the theatre whence she emerged by the front door leaving the rivals glaring at each other. Somehow or other the story leaked out a few days later, and each of the swains accused the other of having spread it. Recourse was then had to the "code of gentlemen." A friend was sent by the bank clerk to the lawyer carrying a challenge to a duel; the defi was accepted; a locale was fixed near the Niagara border, and the day set. But Sally heard of the foolishness. She went to the manager of the bank and urged that his clerk should be got rid of; he was; he was sent to Winnipeg where he won a high reputation and died in ripe old age an author of books on finance and history. Then Sally went to the best friend of the lawyer, told him he must get the young fellow out of town as the other was not going to wait for the duel, but contemplated immediate action that night. The lawyer's friends rallied round, got money together and sent him to a small town not very far north of Toronto, where he became the chief lawyer, in time an M.P.; and eventually a county judge. He is, I believe, still alive.

The one time rivals did not meet again for forty years. One early winter morning the hotel bus at a western Ontario town picked up passengers for the train to Toronto. It was dark and it was not until they got into the light of the station that "Jack and Walter" recognized each other, shook hands, and agreed that the fuss over Sally had been the best thing that ever happened since it took them away from Toronto and gave them opportunities which they might not otherwise have had. Thus does Cupid play partners with Destiny!

Market Closing On All Exchanges

TORONTO EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (C.P.)—Activity increased on the Toronto Stock Exchange this afternoon but prices showed little inclination to move forward. Most of the interlisted stocks closed lower, although the weakness could not be blamed on Wall Street, which was closed.

Features of the trading were the sharp recovery of Bell Telephone from the low level established on Tuesday, and the accumulation of British American Oil, which carried the price up to 8 3-8. The other oil shares were unchanged.

Brazilian dropped to a new low at 7 3-8, and Nickel held consistently at 9 and Smelters was unchanged. C.P.R. was weak, trading most of the time at 10. Bell Telephone moved up from 80 to close at 85.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Feb. 22 (C.P.)—A strong recovery by Bell Telephone and continued weakness in interlisted issue featured trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange to-day. After a weak opening and a slight improvement around mid-day traders became very cautious in the last two hours and turnover became extremely slow. The market was without the guidance of Wall Street.

Interlisted issues closed slightly better than the lowest levels of the session. Canadian Pacific recovered from 9⅝ to 10. Brazilian finished at 7⅛ with a loss of ¼ after touching an all-time low at 7⅜. International Nickel recovered from 8⅞ to close ⅛ lower at 9.

Bell Telephone, which declined nine points in the first two days of the week, cut this loss in half by moving up 4½ points to 84½.

STANDARD EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, February 22 (C.P.).—A buying wave hit the Standard Mining Market in the last hour to-day and boosted prices all along the line. The chief issues to benefit were the secondary gold shares which had been under a mild campaign of liquidation in the last couple of days. The base metal shares also shared in the improved feeling and scored substantial gains.

When the new buying broke out, Ventures was lifted from around 96 to $1.06, Sylvanite from 89 to 95, San Antonio from 90 to 97, Howey from 69 to 74, and Granada from $1.60 to $1.65. Gains were also scored by Macassa, Premier, and Ashley.

In the high-priced gold group gains were less pronounced owing to the fact that the New York market was closed. Dome gained 25, Hollinger 15, Lake Shore about 25, McIntyre 25, and Teck, after selling down to $4.27, recovered to $4.36.

Silver shares were in demand in the late trading, and a few points were gained by Mining Corporation, Nipissing, and Eldorado. In the Base Metal group Noranda came back to $24 and Nickel advanced 10 to $9.10.

Dashing Over Road Lad Killed By Truck

BEACHVILLE, Ont., Feb. 22 (C.P.)—Dashing across the road to get a lift to school on a milk rig, 7-year-old Blake Earl, only son of Mr. and Mrs. William Earl, was instantly killed near his home here to-day when struck by a truck.

The truck is said to be owned by Devine Transports, London, and allegedly driven by George Watson, London.

The wheels of the truck passed over the boy's head.

SINCLAIR'S BILL IS INTRODUCED

Would Make Voting Compulsory In Ontario Provincial Elections.

HEAVY PENALTY.

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (C.P.).—Ontario's voters won't be able to sit at home on election day if a bill sponsored by W. E. N. Sinclair, House Liberal leader, and introduced in the Legislature to-day, becomes law.

Mr. Sinclair's bill calls for compulsory voting, with penalties of $20 and disenfranchisement for seven years for those failing to vote.

The bill reads, in part: "A voter entitled to vote shall on the day of polling attend at the poll where he is entitled to vote and shall record his vote in the manner provided by this Act, unless prevented by illness, absence or physical disabilities from so doing. For such purpose, he shall be entitled to absent himself from any service or employment in which he is then engaged, from the hour of noon, unless by arrangement with his employer he has voted before that hour, and a voter shall not be cause of his so absenting himself, be liable to any penalty or suffer or incur any reduction from the wages or compensation to which but for his absence he would have been entitled."

would benefit from the navigation improvements as well as power development, had not determined whether this opposition would be maintained on the final vote in the Senate.

The treaty, signed by Canada and the United States on July 19, 1932, provides for the joint construction of a 225 mile waterway from Lake Ontario to tidewater at the northern edge of the city of Montreal. A 27-foot channel would be provided.

The biggest engineering feature of the project is the routing of the canal past the international section between New York State and the province of Ontario, at a point near the northern border of New York.

To the United States would be allocated $272,453,000 of the cost and to Canada, $270,976,000. The United States' share for the international section development would be $215,492,000.

AMATEUR ASTRONOMER SIGHTS 4TH NEW COMET

LIMA, Ohio, Feb. 22 (C.P.).—A 30-year-old self-taught astronomer, who works at selling automobile accessories by day, has sighted his fourth new comet in recent years.

Leslie C. Peltier, of Near Delphos, bought his first telescope in 1918 for $15, with money he earned at odd jobs. He then was a high school student. The knowledge of the stars he since has acquired largely by home study has made him outstanding in the field, and he reports regularly to Harvard, Princeton and Yerkes Observatories.

His latest discovery, made from an observatory he constructed near his farm home, had been recognized to-day by Harvard scientists, to whom he first reported it recently.

MASONRY FIRM SPITE OF STRESS

Over 400 Delegates Attend 75th Convocation Of Grand Chapter.

MEMBERSHIP DROPS.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 22 (C.P.) — Masonry in all its branches and ramifications has passed through a year fraught with hardships and sacrifice, but the condition has merely reflected the storm and stress of the day, declared Rt. Qex.-Comp., George L. Gardiner, chairman, on condition of Capitular Masonry, in a report submitted to-day at the opening session of the 75th annual convocation of the Grand Chapter, Royal Arch Masons of Canada at their two-day session here.

The convocation opened to-day with 400 delegates from all parts of Ontario, Western Canada and several from the United States. Reading of reports, communications, petitions and appeals took up a lengthy period. Nominations for elective offices opened at noon and will be completed late to-day.

This evening a complimentary dinner and entertainment is being held in honor of the guests and delegates. The speaker will be Right Rev. Comp. Charles Bishop Seager, Lord Bishop of Huron.

In an address to-day, Rt. Ex.-Comp. Gardiner stated that conditions in Masonry were similar to individual conditions in life.

"Despite a desire to spread and share the spirit of true optimism, our membership has found that adverse conditions prevailing in the commercial and professional life of the country seriously affect the energy and enthusiasm which formerly charasterized their labor in the quarries of Masonry. However, the committee on the condition of Capitular Masonry is of the opinion Royal Arch Masonry should prove to our companions a bright spot in an otherwise cloudy sky."

Weathered Storm

Notwithstanding the difficulties, he said, Royal Arch Masonry has buoyantly weathered the storm. The great need of the day is practical application of the fundamental principles of good Masonry.

In his report, Most Ex. Comp. Davis of Hamilton, acting Grand Treasurer, disclosed the Grand Chapter had a cash balance of $12,004.97, and investments of $84,383.76. The investments are chiefly Dominion of Canada bonds.

The resignation of Grand Treasurer, Most Ex. Comp. George Moore, Hamilton, was presented. Mr. Moore has been ill for the past year and could not carry on his duties.

The report of the Grand Scribe, Most Wor. Companion Edwin Smith, London, revealed that 159 Royal Arch Chapters now exist with a membership on Nov. 30 of 24,062, compared with 25,224 in 1931.

SMITH'S FALLS STUDIES USE OF SCRIP MONEY

SMITH'S FALLS, Ont., February 22 (C.P.). — Further consideration is expected to-day of the suggestion tabled at the Retail Merchants' Association meeting here last night advocating the town adopt the "scrip" money plan as a means of stimulating trade and relieving unemployment. Adoption of the plan was urged by Councillor John Bolton, chairman of the Municipal Relief Committee, and Edwin Meredith, president of a manufacturing concern.

Councillor P. A. McKeown, Finance Committee chairman, stated the Council would endorse the plan if the retail merchants petitioned for it, but the Council could not take any responsibility in connection with it.

"DELIVER OR ELSE—"

CINCINNATI, Feb. 22 (A.P.) — Admonished by Manager Donie Bush to "deliver or else—," the Cincinnati Reds began preparations today for their trip to Spring training quarters at Tampa, Fla.

"The boys will not find me a hard taskmaster," said Bush, "but it is going to be baseball and nothing else when we buckle down to the real work. They will have to deliver or else—".

JUGGLED LOTS

WINDSOR — One resident on Goyeau street has discovered that the lot he really owns is 60 feet away from the lot on which his residence is built.

Incorrect descriptions of property when registered has mixed the lots along a section of the street and efforts are being made to register a new plan. The matter is now in county court.

$104 CELEBRATION

LONDON—It cost W. Riddell, London, $26 a goal to celebrate London's victory over Windsor at hockey last night. Arrested for creating a disturbance, he told the court he was merely expressing approval of the Tecumsehs' 4-0 win. However, a bottleof liquor found in his possession brought $104 penalty.

BLAMES POLICE

DENVER, Colo.—Claude K. Boettcher, Colorado multi-millionaire, said to-day he had failed in an attempt to keep an appointment with the kidnappers of his son, Charles Boettcher 2nd, near Derby, Colo., last night, because he was followed by two automobiles believed to have contained police.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, Feb. 22 (C.P.) — Wheat prices scored fractional gains in early trading to-day due more to lightness of offerings than to any particular support. Trading turned draggy as the morning progressed with traders generally awaiting new developments.

At mid-session, values were ⅛-¼ ¼ higher, May at 48⅞, July at 49¾, and October at 50⅞.

Most of the support came from export interests, while scattered selling came in the nature of hedging pressure. Early reports indicate only a small export business was worked in Canadian wheat overnight.

Liverpool wheat held steady due to a better demand for Manitobas and quotations at mid-session were unchanged to ½d higher per 100 pounds. Buenos Aires wheat at noon was unchanged.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLES

TORONTO, Feb. 22. (CP) — The following wholesale prices on fruits and vegetables were supplied by White and Co., to-day: Domestic fruits: MacIntosh Reds, No. 1 per bushel, $1.25 to $1.50; MacIntosh Reds, No. 2, per bushel 75c to $1; Spies, No. 1 per bushel, $1 to $1.25; Spies, No. 2, per bushel 50c to 75c; imported fruits: Texas grapefruit, per case, $4.50 to $5; California oranges, per case, $4 to $4.75; Domestic vegetables: Beets, per bag, 60c; carrots, per bag, 50c; Green onions, per doz., 20c; cabbage, per doz., 40c; hothouse tomatoes, per lb., 18c to 20c; hothouse, rhubard, per doz., 50c to 60c.

TORONTO CHEESE.

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (C.P.).—The Toronto wholesale cheese market was steady to-day, with dealers buying large, colored, paraffined and Government grades at 10c to 10¼c.

Wholesalers offered cheese to retailers at the following prices:

New—Large 11½c; twins 11¾c; triplets 12c.

Old—Large 17¾c; twins 18c; triplets 18¼c.

Robert, wro celebrated his 15th birthday to-day, tips the scales at 340 pounds, and is 7 feet 8½ inches tall. Since his last birthday he has gained 30 pounds, and grown 3½ inches.

Saved President

The heroine of the attempted assassination of President-elect Roosevelt at Miami was Mrs. W. F. Cross, who was standing beside the would-be assassin, and who knocked his arm as he fired his gun. It was to her action and presence of mind that the next President of the United States owes his life. She is shown above.

SPLIT INDIGENTS M.O.H. 3 DOCTORS

Plan Is Suggested To Windsor Deputation By Minister Of Welfare Monteith.

TRIAL FOR MONTH.

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (C.P.)—A temporary plan of distributing the care of indigent patients in East Windsor between the M.O.H. and three other doctors was advanced by Dr. J. D. Monteith, Minister of Public Works and Welfare, in a conference to-day with a deputation from that municipality.

The deputation, composed of Mayor Fontaine, Dr. P. J. G. Morgan, M.O.H., and C. E. Wadge, Director of Relief, pointed out that sole responsibility of the care of the indigent patients had, up to the present, rested on the medical officer and that mounting costs could not be covered by the $100 maximum grant provided by the Government allowance.

Under the proposed plan, the grants will be provided all four doctors, and will be operated for one month, at the end of that time, further consideration will be given the problem.

It is understood that the deputation will ask, at a later conference, that the operating costs of the Sanitorium in East Windsor be borne by the Government.

It is stated that the request would be a radical departure from the Government relief policy.

Transport Minister Resigns In London

LONDON, Feb. 22 (C.P Cable)—The minister of transport in the National Government, Percy John Pybus, resigned his portfolio to-day so that he might give more attention to his business. He is a National Liberal.

His office will be taken over by Oliver Stanley, Conservative, who is the second son of the Earl of Derby and has been under secretary to the home department.

Mr. Pybus had been minister of transport since 1931 following his election at Harwich. He had also represented that constituency as a Liberal in 1929 and 1930. He is associated with many companies, including the English Electric Company, the Times Publishing Company.

Madoc

St. Peter's Presbyterian C.G.I.T. girls were pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs. George West, on Wednesday evening. A varied program of instrumental and vocal solos was presented by the young ladies, after which games and contests filled the time. A very dainty and bountiful lunch was served by the hostess, after which a hearty vote of thanks was presented to Mrs. West for her kindenss and hospitality, while Rev. Mr. Nelles, the pastor, and Miss Lorraine Connor, leader of the C.G.I.T. group, expressed their thanks and appreciation of the honor extended to the girls.

STORE BURNS NEAR WOOLER.

BELLEVILLE.—The W. H. Billo store and house adjoining, situated on the third concession of Murray, three miles from Wooler, were destroyed by fire to-day with an estimated loss of $5,000, covered by insurance.

An overheated chimney caused the fire.

SHORTER TIME.

LONDON. — Canadian National Railway section foremen on the London division received notice today that working time will be reduced by one day this month and two days in March.

BRITISH DRIVER SETS RECORD

ty were none too good Sir Malcolm, who has been forced to delay his record attempt for two weeks because of unfavorable conditions, decided to make his trials to-day after the beach had improved, rather than risk a further postponement.

After waiting for more than an hour, for a light mist to clear from the beach, he suddenly started the motor of his giant machine and immediately began his epochal runs across the sand.

Taking a four mile rolling start, the famous racer quickly threw his car into high gear, shoved the accellerator of the 12 cylinder aeroplane motor toward the floor-board and he was off on a terrific burst of speed.

Rapidly gaining momentum, the car approached top speed as it neared the officially measured mile, and in only a few seconds it streaked past the timing tower to disappear in the light haze at the south end of the course.

Because the visibility was so poor, spectators at the timing tower and grand stand were unable to see the speeding machine until it was only a mile away.

Terrific Roar

Faster and faster the hurtling car sped, and with a terrific roar it flashed past the stands to gradually come to a stop four miles south down the course.

Jumping out of the cockpit, Sir Malcolm hastily inspected his car, gave officials word he was ready to start his second run, and in an instant was off on another mad dash north over the beach.

In computing Sir Malcolm's record speed racing officials averaged his elapsed time for the two trials and divided that average into 3,600, or the number of seconds in an hour.

They explained that that procedure was the most accurate system to determine the average speed in miles per hour.

Weighs Four Tons

The English-built Bluebird is virtually a power plant on wheels whose extreme streamlining gives it a weird appearance.

The car weighs about four tons and has a Rolls-Royce aero type of engine with 12 cylinders with a maximum capacity of 2,500 horsepower. It is water cooled and has four-wheel brakes. Its drive is in the two rear wheels.

The body is constructed along streamline design with a huge directional fin protruding from the rear to hold it steady on the course. It has only one seat, so narrow that Sir Malcolm can barely sueeze in it. He steers the car by sighting through a telescope at a mark far up the beach.

Worst Drive.

Sir Malcolm Campbell said after he had "the worst ride I ever had in my life."

Suffering from a sprained arm, received last week in making repairs to his powerful Bluebird racing car, the intrepid driver said he was forced to drive at his astounding speed to-day with only one hand.

"The beach was so rough," he said, "that on several occasions I thought I was gone. If I had not been able to control the car so magnificently, I should have landed either in the sand dunes or in the ocean."

matters of a personal nature were dealt with in committee.

"The press has a high sense of honor," Mr. McElderry observed, and if requested not to discuss questions of a delicate nature can be relied upon not to do so."

At this juncture Mr. Hancock seconded the motion.

Mrs. W. R. Morris, speaking to the question, said the best of feeling had always existed between herself and the press. There were, however, committee meetings where the Board would not desire the presence of a press representative, and she believed after many years' experience on the Board that no useful purpose could be served by allowing the press to attend committee meetings. She could see many difficulties in the way.

Dr. A. Moir concurred with Mrs. Morris' views. He felt that questions before the committees were in the embryonic stage and that no purpose would be served by having a press representative present at such discussions. In the early stages of discussion, he said, members of the board felt freer to express their various opinion if they felt that the discussion was not going to be made public. It was not the desire of the Board to keep matters from the public that should be known.

Gentle Hint

HAMILTON, Feb. 22. (CP)—Division Court was humming along in its steady monotone to-day when suddenly the calm was shattered as one case ended and another began.

"You know you could be put in jail without option of a fine for interrupting the court" Judge Carpenter remarked, addressing himself to G.V.P. Shaver, whose voice had suddenly risen higher than court etiquette permitted. "I'm not saying I will, but I could."

Mr. Shaver subsided, and the dull hum of court business when on.

tal of the Province, was expected to meet with resistance of Chinese defending forces. The Japanese military command announced the advance would not be resumed immediately.

Meanwhile a 24-hour ultimatum was being delivered to-day to the Chinese Nationalist Government at Nanking, issued by the Japanese sponsored State of Manchukuo. This gives the Chinese until a late hour to-morrow to decide not to resist the Japanese. Its acceptance was hardly expected, and when the time limit expires it was believed the drive would resume in earnest.

The Japanese force at Peipiao is only 20 miles north-east of Chaoyang. Military leaders were confident it would reach the gates of Jehol City in five days, 150 miles further to the south-west.

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, Feb. 22 (A.P.)—Japanese officials asserted to-day that General Liu Kuei-Tang, Principal Commander of Chinese forces in the Lupeh region in Northern Jehol, has offered to submit to the Government of Manchukuo and move against defenders of that province.

The Japanese asserted he commands a force of 15,000 troops in the Lupeh area, 70 miles north of Kailu.

Other guerilla leaders were expected to emulate him and join the Japanese and Manchukuo forces in the drive against Chinese in Jehol.

His decision to pledge allegiance to Manchukuo, which seeks to bring Jehol within its borders, was reported to have resulted from activities of Japanese and Manchukuo agents among the Chinese irregular leaders.

Drive Continues

PEIPING, Feb. 22. —(AP)— The Chinese commander at Chaoyang, Jehol, reported tonight that Japanese infantry had attacked the town of Hanling, a few miles west of there, after a bomb attack from the air.

ROADS TIED UP.

SAULT STE. MARIE.—Roads in Algoma district are still tied up as a result of Monday night's storm and there is little prospect of them being opened to wheeled traffic before several days. JUDGE PONTON OCCUPIES BENCH

Lindsay Judge Is Welcomed To The Bench In Peterborough County.

CRIMINAL CASE.

Before Judge R. D. Ponton of Lindsay, Kenneth Warman, 560 Albert Street, pleaded not guilty here this morning to a charge under the Criminal Code to the effect that being over eighteen years of age he seduced a girl of between sixteen and eighteen.

The offence was alleged to have been committed on Sunday night, June 26, 1932, on a road in North Monaghan, which was reached by driving out Sherbrooke Street. Warman was accompanied by Leslie Cowling and two young girls, sisters. On a similar charge under the same section of the Criminal Code, Cowling was acquitted on Friday, December 16 last, by a jury in the sessions of the County Court before Judge Huycke.

V. J. McElderry, Crown Attorney, conducted the prosecution this morning, and J. A. O'Brien was counsel for the accused. The trial was adjourned at one o'clock with the completion of the Crown's case and the hearing of character evidence in Warman's behalf.

New Judge Welcomed.

This was Judge Ponton's first case in a Peterborough court, and a cordial welcome was extended to His Honor by Crown Attorney McElderry and J. A. O'Brien as members of the Peterborough Bar, with their felicitations on his appointment to the county bench at Lindsay

In acknowledging the welcome by the representatives of the Peterborough Bar, Judge Ponton said: "I do not forget the fine compliment that was paid to me by the members of the Bar of Peterborough by their attendance at the reception to me in Lindsay after my appointment. I have also very pleasant memories of my stay in Peterborough some years ago while engaged in a trial that lasted three days."

Judge Ponton said that by his elevation to the bench he felt that he had been taken out of the play and had been made the referee.

"In one respect I regret my accession to the bench. It cuts off one of the fine things of life, the personal confidence and contact that exists between the barrister and his clients. I wish to thank you again for your kindly greeting this morning, personally and officially. All my decisions may not be acclaimed by both parties, especially in criminal cases, but it shall be my endeavor to ascertain the truth and to see that British and Canadian justice continues to have the confidence of the people."

Warman was this afternoon found guilty by Judge Ponton of Lindsay.

Senator Offers Plan To Get Rid Of The Canadian National.

READING POSTPONED.

Would Give Old Intercolonial Railway Back to Maritimes.

OTTAWA, February 22 (C.P.).—Sale of the greater part of the Canadian National Railways to private interests which would operate it independently of the Canadian Pacific and maintain a transcontinental system from Montreal to Vancouver is the latest proposal in connection with Canada's complicated railway problem.

The idea was advanced in the Senate last night by Senator Rufus Pope, who said he had positive information a group of responsible financiers were prepared to take over a part of the lines and operate them on a profitable basis. The old Intercolonial Railway from Montreal to the East would be given back to the Maritime Provinces and unprofitable branch lines would continue to be operated by the Government as colonization roads.

Reading Is Postponed.

The Senator advanced his scheme when the Canadian National-Canadian Pacific Bill came before the Senate for third reading after an exhaustive study by the Senate Railway Committee. Third reading was postponed until to-day and before it passes there may be further discussion of Senator Pope's idea, which, he claimed, would relieve the Dominion of a part of the annual burden now laid upon it by the National Railways.

An attack on the new salmon fishing regulations effective on the Pacific Coast by E. J. Neill (Ind., Comox Alberni) occupied the House of Commons yesterday and prevented the long-awaited debate on the proposed cattle-oil deal with Russia.

Mr. Neil charged the new ruling which requires salmon to be delivered to canneries within 24 hours of being caught unless they are iced and will only have the effect of benefiting certain canneries but Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, insisted the regulation was necessary to maintain the high reputation of Canadian canned salmon which was now faced with competition from Japan and Russia in world markets.

Commotion In Gallery

Orders were issued last night to House of Commons guards to eject from the public galleries all spectators who caused disturbances. This action followed a minor commotion in the galleries during debate on a resolution to repeal the famous section 98 of the criminal code dealing with sedition and unlawful assemblies.

"Give it to them. That's the stuff," exclaimed a young man in the north gallery while William Irvine, (U.F.A., Wetaskinwin) attacked section 98 as archaic, drastic and tempered to breed disrespect for law and order.

A guard rushed to the young man's chair, ordering him to leave speech-making to the members below. The man grabbed his coat and fled.

The House devoted an hour to consideration of the resolution of J. S. Woodsworth, leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation to repeal section 98. Hon. Maurice Dupre, solicitor-general upheld the section as a bulwark against Communism and radicalism while William Irvine and Samuel Factor, (Lib., Toronto West-Centre) characterized it as drastic and the type of legislation that fostered Communism. Under one clause, said Mr. Factor a man could be imprisoned 20 years for wearing a certain type button in his coat lapel.

Communist agitation was prevalent and was increasing all over Canada, declared Hon. Maurice Dupre. He charged that the move of the Liberal government in 1926 to repeal section 98 was prompted by Mr. Woodsworth and that this was the price which the then Prime Minister was prepared to pay for the support of the Labor group in the House of Commons.

Federal assistance in the movement of Canadian coal will be continued at least until the end of the fiscal year of 1933-34, Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Mines, told the House. Going into committee on supply just before adjournment last night one item was passed in each of the departments of national revenue, marine and mines.

Obituary

MRS. J. A. SEXSMITH.

HAVELOCK, February 22 (Examiner Correspondence). — Attired in her wedding gown, of white duchess satin, embroidered in seed pearls trimmed with tiny tucks and shirrings, and looking young and beautiful as a bride, the remains of the late Mrs. J. A. Sexsmith, beloved wife of the former member of the House of Commons for Peterborough, were laid to rest in the family plot at Maple Grove Cemetery on Tuesday afternoon.

Though over seventy years of age the late Mrs. Sexsmith, formerly Bessie Buchanan, was as keen mentally as one only half that age, and never lost interest in the doings of the world about her. For many years a school teacher, she exercised a wonderful influence for good on the lives of those entrusted to her care. Many of the successful homemakers of to-day owe their success to the influence of their beloved teacher. Forty-eight years ago she taught at the school house at Preneveau, and many of her former pupils are now settled in and around that district, and all speak in glowing terms of her outstanding worth.

Of Mrs. Sexsmith it may truly be said that she never grew old. This was perhaps due in part to her interest in the young people which never failed. She was never critical of others, but always sought for and found their best qualities and made the most of them. A good neighbor, a true friend, she was ever attentive to the needs of the sick, suffering, and poor about her. Due largely to her efforts, many branches of the Women's Institute were formed in and around this district, and her work in that connection was one of her proudest accomplishments.

It is told of her that at one time while at Ottawa, she was in a gathering with her husband, where a speaker made a statement that was not true. After he had concluded his speech, Mrs. Sexsmith arose, unmindful of those about her, and challenged the remark, and in a quiet and dignified manner set him aright and earned the applause of all who heard her. This was characteristic of her, as she could not tolerate anything that was not right.

The funeral, which was attended by many members of municipal councils, members of the Legislature, and other notables, was held from the family residence in Belmont, three miles east of Havelock, the services at the house and graveside being in charge of Rev S. A Kemp of the United Church, Havelock ,and Rev. A. C .Reeves of Knox Presbyterian Church, Norwood. The text was taken from the seventh chapter of Revelation, ninth verse to the end of the chapter. Two beautiful old hymns, "Sun of my soul" and "O God our Help in ages past" were fittingly sung during the service.

The pall-bearers were six friends and neighbors, Messrs Robert and William C. Anderson, Harry Scott, Harry Tinney, John Seabrooke, and George Smith. Besides her husband she leaves five sisters, Mrs T. Lancaster and Mrs. G. R. Pearse of Peterborough, Mrs. James Turk of Toronto, Mrs. E. Brooks of Leamington, and Miss E. Buchanan of Campbellford, also two brothers, James Buchanan of Belleville and Archie of Preston. All but Mrs. Brooks were present at the funeral.

Many beautiful floral pieces spoke eloquently of the love and esteem of a host of friends. The sympathy of the entire community is extended to the bereaved husband, sisters, and brothers.

MRS. JOSEPH CHRISTIE

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, Feb. 22.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Joseph Christie was held from her home in Madoc on Thursday 9th. A short service was conducted by her pastor, Rev. G. W. Rivers, at her late residence, after which a funeral service was held in Trinity United Church, where the pastor was assisted by Revs. Bennett and Oldford of the Holiness movement and Standard Churches. Rev. Mr. Rivers took for his text, "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints." Ps. 116:15., and spoke of the interest our Lord takes in the life and the death of those who love Him and live the Christian life.

After the service, the remains were conveyed to Fox's Cemetery, Eldorado, and laid away with tokens of esteem and affection. The bearers were Messrs W. H. McBain, Frank Smith, Simeon Fox, Wm Rousehorn, E. A. Bedford and Wm. Devolin.

The late Mrs. Christie was born in Berwick County, on December 20th, 1854, and passed to her reward on Tuesday, Feb. 7th, 1933.

Mrs. Christie's maiden name was Margaret Groves, and for some years she taught school at Finch, Ontario. She taught French children to speak English, and was proficient in the Gaelic. Early in life she became an earnest Christian and was for many years a faithful and devoted member of the Methodist Church; latterly of the United Church.

In November, 1876, she was married to Joseph Christie, who predeceased her about twelve years ago. To them were born five sons and one daughter, Robert John, Rev. William C., Joseph Herbert (deceased five years ago), Rev. George A., Rachel C. and Thomas W.

Mr. and Mrs. Christie lived for a time in Madoc Township, over sixty years ago, later in Marmora township and in 1892 settled in Eldorado, where they remained for fifteen years, then moving to Madoc village in 1897, where they resided until the time of their death.

Mrs. Christie had reached the advanced age of 87 years. For several years she had been in failing health and suffered much from weakness, but her faith in her Heavenly Father was bright and clear and strong, and her love for God's word and house and people was constant and sincere.

Rev. George Christie, of Ottawa, Rev. William Christie of North Bergen, N.J., Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Christie, and their daughter, Mrs. Nelson Hill, all of Toronto, attended the funeral of the late Mrs. M. Christie in town.

MRS. VICTORIA NICKLE

MADOC, Feb. 22 (Examiner Correspondence).—After an illness of long duration, Mrs. Victoria Hamilton Nickle passed away on Saturday, February 18th, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Sarah Chambers, 5th Concession of Thurlow, where she has resided for the past fifteen months.

Mrs. Nickle was the widow of the late James A. Nickle (who was born in Madoc Township), and was born in Marmora township, where she had lived all her life till her removal to her sister's residence. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Hamilton, and was a member of the United Church.

To mourn her loss are two sisters, Mrs. Sarah Chambers and Miss Emma Hamilton of Belleville.

The funeral was held on Monday afternoon from the residence of her sister, where the death occurred, at one o'clock p.m., to the Marmora United Church, where service was held at three o'clock.

REV. J. KEFFORD INDUCTED TO ST. ANDREW'S PASTORATE

Several Speakers at Impressive Service in Stirling Church.

VISITING CLERGY ATTEND

STIRLING, Feb. 22. (Examiner Correspondence). — Thursday evening, Feb. 16th was an outstanding date in the history of St. Andrew's church, Stirling and West Huntingdon when their new minister, Rev. J. Koffend was inducted as minister of these joint congregations. A large gathering not only of members graced the occasion by being present.

Rev. D. Hill of Foxboro preached the induction sermon. His text was taken from Acts 20:28—"The Church of God which he hath purchased with his own blood."

Rev. A. Cameron performed the solemn induction ceremony. Rev. Cameron is the moderator of the Presbytery. Rev. B. Nellis related the steps leading to the induction.

Rev. D. MacKenzie of Burnbrae next addressed the newly inducted minister: "The calling which you have chosen is the most noble on earth and this position has never been more difficult to fill than at the present time. You have been called as Isiah. You have responded to the call to work in the extension of God's kingdom on earth. No work is comparable to that of the Christian ministry.

A minister must be a man of tact yet have the evanagelistic message of tenderness and pathos. You are the ambassador of Christ and must be a teacher, a student of human nature. Try to understand each individual. You cannot unlock all parts with the same key. You must study books of biography, history and poetry and above all that great treasure house the Bible. Spend time in meditation and prayer. As a general, map out your plan of campaign. Be a leader and you will be assured of hearty and sympathetic co-operation. Note the special needs of the people.

You must have courage to tell people of their duty. Do not compromise. The pulpit is your throne. Martin Luther who possessed tremendous power in the pulpit did not talk over the heads of the common people. Preach with power, pathos and appeal and in so doing your listeners while perhaps not remembering your sermon will feel that they have been drawn closer to God.

Rev Nichol of Trenton was asked to address the congregation. He took for his theme the words found Acts 17:11—"They searched the Scriptures daily to see if these things be so." We must not take things for granted. Our appreciation of good music is formed by reading the opinions of musical critics. We must not leave all to the minister but search the Scriptures and combine with his own efforts to advance the Kingdom of God.

Other ministers present were Rev. R. Koffend, Sr., father of the newly inducted minister; also Rev. F. A. Robinson a former Stirling pastor, also Rev. R. Craig, clerk of the Presbytery.

Lunch was served in the basement at the close of the service to visiting ministers and families and the visitors from West Huntingdon.

Rev. F. A. Robinson of Toronto spoke of the happy associations he had enjoyed with Rev. J. Koffend. Rev. R. Koffend also spoke feelingly of the interest taken by his own people in Toronto in this particular field to which his son had been chosen to work.

Old Resident of Bobcaygeon Is Laid To Rest On Sunday.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, February 22. — Clifton Weaver of Coboconk, is in the tolls on a liquor charge. He was arrested by Jack Woods, R.C.M.P., on a charge of having illicit liquor.

The death took place at Ross Hospital during the past week of A. Carrington, a student of Emmanuel College, Toronto, and who had been supplying on the Bury's Green Mission in the Lindsay Presbytery of the United Church.

Mrs. Elijah Garlick, an old resident of Bobcaygeon, was laid to rest in the Verulam cemetery on Sunday. She was born in Verulam district, her husband predeceasing her a year ago.

Wilfrid O'Reilly, a young man employed on the Minden-Dorset Highway, is at his home here suffering from injuries sustained when a piece of timber crushed him to the earth. He is suffering from broken ribs and other injuries.

Tom Walton of town, employed on the same work, had his arm broken a few days ago by a large stone which fell on him following some blasting operations.

development from Ontario Power Service Corporation.

Compliments Mr. Sinclair

The Premier complimented Liberal House Leader Sinclair "upon the wonderful spirit which he has shown in his speech this afternoon." He said that the Conservatives were willing to co-operate if the House "can get away from party politics."

Epidemic of Foreclosure

Dealing with the moratorium question, Mr. Henry took Mr. Nixon to task for "endeavoring to create the impression" that he (the Premier) was responsible for "an epidemic of foreclosure" in Ontario. Mr. Nixon, he said, had his "sequence of facts reversed." What had inspired the Government's pre-Christmas statement was the fact that such an epidemic was then underway.

"We were very much concerned about it," he said. "People with small amounts due on some annual payments were being pushed out of possession of their properties. These cases were coming to our attention daily. We felt that with the situation as serious as it was some intimation should be given that if remedial legislation should be brought down in the Legislature it might be made retroactive as from the first of the year. That was the reason for our announcement."

"We sought to have mortgagees hold off from foreclosing because any action they might take might be rendered null and void by any legislation which we might pass later. That was the reason we took the action that we did. There was no intention whatever of interfering with ordinary loans. We felt that something should be intimated to the public, leaving to the Attorney-General the details of the bill which will shortly be brought down and put through as soon as practical, because of the difficult situation obtaining among mortgagors."

Mr. Henry expressed himself as very pleastd with the spirit of English people who had come out to this country and had sought to establish their own homes—working determinedly, and with ever-mounting satisfaction to build up a substantial equity over the years in properties that ultimately they could call "their own."

"When people like that found themselves in difficulty it naturally gave me some concern," said the Premier. "I received letters daily, expressing fear that all the writers had would be wiped out. Their sole thought was to seek to stay proceedings.

Mr. Henry complimented Liberal Leader Sinclair on "the admirable spirit he had disclosed in his address earlier in the day." He could assure the Liberal Leader, he said, that the Government would be prepared to co-operate as closely as possible with the Opposition in tiding things over during these days "of great problems and responsibilities."

"We can get better results if we co-operate," said Mr. Henry. "If we work together and refrain from playing politics."

Staking Reputation.

Dealing briefly with the Abitibi Canyon purchase, Mr. Henry said he was staking his reputation in this province in the acquirement in the purchase of the Ontario Power Service power assets for the benefit of the entire north country. Mr. Henry said the Government had realised the difficulties that had arisen—that the failure of the parent Abitibi Company itself had created indirectly the danger of the entire canyon development stopping and falling down. With the proposed sale of all its power to the Hydro and to the parent company "the set up of Ontario Power Service," said the Premier, "was an admirable one."

Nothing ever would have been heard of the situation, had the corporation been able to go through with its plans. But when they were forced to quit, the Government naturally became concerned about "the possibility of the whole project going to ruin and waste." An undertaking like that, he told the House, could not be left very long, unhandled, without suffering severe and costly deterioration. That was the reason why the Government had stepped "into the proposition" when it had.

Mr. Nixon had talked, said he, of the stock being sold at 94 and then falling down to around 20, and being freely offered at that price. "What authority, may I ask, has my hon. friend for making such a statement?"

"It was in the press," answered Mr. Nixon.

"Read it—where?" said Mr. Henry.

"I read it from The Globe this afternoon," Mr. Nixon retorted.

"Read it again."

Mr. Nixon dug into his desk, and reproduced the complained of reference in clipping form. He read it. "That's an editorial in The Globe—nothing more," said Mr. Henry.

"Isn't it a box item on the front page of the paper."

"Isn't a box item on the front page an editorial?" Mr. Henry came back . "That's all it is. You said that the corporation bonds had been freely offered at 20. I would expect that when my honorable friend made a statement of that kind he would have the authority with which to back it."

"Can you dispute it?" T. K Slack Progressive, Dufferin, put in.

"It's not my business to dispute it," said the Premier. "My honorable friend raised the point, let him substantiate it."

500% Business Increase in past 3 years of "hard times"

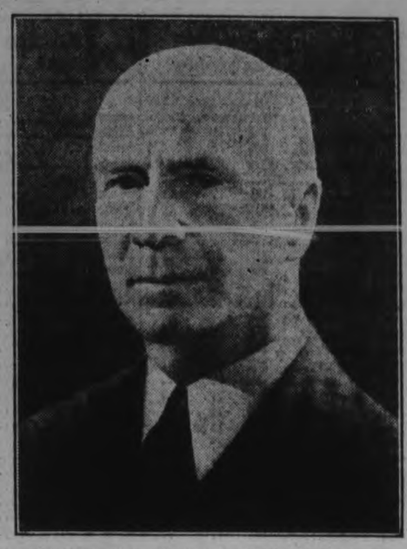
This Is Interesting Reading



The above is a photograph of Robt. C. Jackson, M.D., at 75. After eighteen years of increasing decrepitude and approaching death, Dr. Jackson at 50 was given only four months to live by the great Sir Wm. Osler.

By natural living habits and the use of alkaline foods, Dr. Jackson is today, at 75, able to do anything the average healthy man in his early thirties can do.

THOSE whose businesses have been cut in half, or what is worse, practically disappeared entirely—(and unfortunately there are too many such in Canada)—will be surprised to learn of a business that has increased 500 per cent. in the past three years. It is rare these days to find a business that has held its own, much less made such a startling increase. So, doubts of such a statement are natural, yet those who doubt will admit that even in these times of difficult business conditions if they had the field to themselves without competition, they would be almost sure to make a definite business increase, or at least hold their own, even if the product were a luxury. But if the product was of distinct benefit to all the people all the time, belonged in the class of absolute necessities of life, and had the field all to itself, only poor merchandising could prevent a great sales gain. These conditions are present in the case referred to.

Dr. Jackson's Roman Meal, Lishus, Bekus Puddy (pronounced Beck-us) and Kofy-Sub are foods, and foods are necessities. But these foods have the field entirely to themselves. They are the only alkali-forming grain foods, and as more and more is being learned about the value of alkaline foods in building bodies that can resist disease, these Dr. Jackson's Foods have forced their way to a phenomenally increasing consumption and will continue to do so. Such an increase cannot be avoided as civilized people more and more realize that the greatest of all the underlying causes of sickness and disease is an accumulation of acid and toxic or poisonous residues in the body, resulting from an excessive use of acid-forming foods.

Biochemistry asserts: "A normal alkali reserve in the body is Nature's First Defense against fatigue, disease and premature death" and its absence the basic cause of fatigue, colds, 'flu and other diseases.

Food science has determined that if eighty per cent. of the volume or bulk of the food intake consists of alkali-forming foods, we can be assured of a normal alkali reserve with an increased sense of wellness, physical and mental alertness, strength and endurance, as well as protection from colds, 'flu, etc. Such a happy condition is the sure result of a persistent use of alkaline foods, unless it be offset by extreme carelessness or vicious habits of living in other directions.

It is here that Dr. Jackson's alkaline cereals, Roman Meal, Bekus Puddy and Lishus and his alkaline beverage Kofy-Sub have their chance to physically bless mankind, because they are the only alkali-forming grain foods.

It is almost impossible to make a palatable diet without grain foods, and as all grain foods are naturally acid-forming, Dr. Jackson's alkali-forming cereals and beverage must be resorted to by those who would use grain foods freely in their diet and yet build up a normal alkali reserve. Civilized people have been rapidly learning these scientific health facts and naturally they have turned in ever-increasing numbers to alkali-forming Roman Meal, Bekus Puddy, Lishus and Kofy-Sub. So the mystery disappears as to why the great increase of 500 per cent. in sales has occurred in three years, turning these so-called years of depression into "boom" years for the Dr. Jackson alkaline food products.

Dr. Jackson says, "There can be no question that the next three years will witness an even greater sales increase because the health-building value of alkali-forming cereals and beverages is only beginning to become known, and every user of these foods and drink becomes automatically an agency of publicity regarding their health-building value. The enormous number of present users therefore cannot avoid making an enormous sales increase during the next three years".

All three cereals are natural laxatives and, properly used, will correct both atonic and spastic constipation.

Lishus is especially prepared for indigestion, ulcer, colitis, for infancy and child feeding, the undertoned digestive organs from any cause, also for the aged and infirm and convalescents from all forms of sickness. It contains a natural slightly bitter principle, a natural bitter tonic to weak digestive organs, inherent in the rice-polishings which form part of its compound.

80 per cent. of the food intake should consist of alkaline foods. We shall gladly send a list of the other alkaline foods which should go with Dr. Jackson's alkaline cereals; also Dr. Jackson's booklet, "HOW TO KEEP WELL" to those who write for them—see address below.

DEATH.

PECK. — At Peterborough, on Wednesday, the 22nd Day of February, 1933, Henrietta Peck, fourth daughter of the late Arthur H. Peck and Mary Armour Peck, and beloved sister of John H. Peck, Vancouver, B.C., and of Miss Nellie Peck and Edward Armour Peck, Peterborough.

Funeral on Friday Afternoon at 3 o'clock, from her brother's residence, 304 Rogers Street, Peterborough. Burial in Little Lake Cemetery.

CAVANAH. — Sarah Evaline Green widow of the late J. H. Cavanah, formerly of Lethbridge, died this morning at her residence, 295 Charlotte Street.

The funeral is to be held on Friday at 2 o'clock p.m., from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Fred L. Roy, 308 Rubidge Street. Interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM.

WRIGHT. — In loving memory of our dear son and brother, William Albert Wright, who died on February 22, 1931.

Time speeds on, two years have passed
Since death its gloom, its shadow, cast
Within our home, where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light.

We miss that light, and ever will,
His vacant place there is none can fill.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain,
For up in Heaven we will meet again.

—Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Armstrong and Family.

MATTRESSES NEEDED.

Supplies at the Clothing Relief Depot on George Street are coming in well, but there is always room for more.

Mattresses are badly needed at all times. There is also a constant call for baby carriages, high chairs, chairs and beds, as well as stoves and oil lamps. Most of these things take money to buy, and there is little money in homes where the wolf and the stork are busy, even in frigid weather.

A CORRECTION.

The dropping of several lines out of the printed report of the address given by the Rev. E. J. Springett of Toronto at All Saints' Parish Hall on Monday evening, under auspices of the local branch of the British-Israel Federation, caused some misunderstanding with regard to a Biblical reference made by the speaker.

He was referring to the Bible as giving a picture of modern world conditions. As the report was written, instead of "thirty-eighth and thirty-ninth of Revelation," the quotation was "in the thirty-eighth and thirty-ninth of Ezekiel, in the fourteenth of Zachariah and in the eighteenth and nineteenth chapters of Revelation."

Speeding Truck Strikes Vehicle

In a motor crash at the corner of Dublin and George streets this morning a truck, driven by E. B. Reid, 709 George street, was struck with such force by the Globe newspaper truck, that it was impelled over the street curb, across a lawn and struck the side of a house on the southeast corner.

Proceeding south on George St., Reid was making a left hand turn onto Dublin street when the Globe truck collided into his rear. It is alleged that the Globe truck was going at a high rate of speed south on George street and was trying to pass Reid's truck when it turned. The Globe truck was driven by A. Curry, of Oshawa.

Police Court

A complainant in Police Court this morning was so deaf that court officials and Magistrate Langley became hoarse shouting at the top of their voices to make him hear and understand. To save their voices the plan was adopted of writing out each question, and finally John Edgar, inspector of the Children's Aid Society came to the court and the man's assistance by conducting his case for him.

However, the charge which the deaf one, Charles Dainton, brought against Lewis Irwin, farmer, of Smith Township, was dismissed.

Dainton, who was formerly working at the Irwin farm, claimed that Irwin had struck him on the evening of February 17. But Irwin swore he hadn't and brought a witness, Melville Moncrief, also a Smith farmer, to substantiate his evidence. Moncrief said there was no blow delivered and that all the trouble was due to Dainton's inability to hear and comprehend what Irwin tried to tell him.

HARBORS ICE-LOCKED

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Feb. 22 (C.P.)—Lake Superior harbors are generally ice-locked, according to the first summary of ice conditions received here to-day, and in some instances the thickness of the ice does not indicate an early opening of navigation. The recent cold snap, which kept the mercury at double figures below zero for nearly two weeks, did much to strengthen winter's grip at a time when occasional warm days tended to rot the ice.

Seven-Year-Old Lad Wields Iron Pipe, Saves Brother From Jaws of Zoo Bear

BOSTON, Mass, Feb. 22.—(CP)—When seven-year-old Johnnie Suvisakus disobediently started following the footsteps of his brother Anthony, 11, he was just a "tagalong"—a kid who wouldn't go home. His return was triumphant, a hero, for he bested a bear and probably saved his bigger brother's life.

Into the park zoo little Johnnie followed his brother and chums on their sight-seeing tour yesterday. Suddenly a bear whisked out and angry paw and pulled Anthony into its cage. Anthony's grown up pals shouted and threw mud, but Johnnie found a piece of iron pipe and wriggled into the cage as a keeper ran up shouting warnings.

"Wham" came the pipe down on the bear's snout. With a surprised howl Bruin retreated to the rear of his cage.

Anthony was carried to city hospital by a zoo attendant, his right leg, thigh and arm torn by the bear's claws. Hero Johnnie emerged from the cage unscathed and was accompanied home by another attendant who loudly sang the youngster's praises to parents at first shocked, then prideful.

NEW PRODUCT "VIP" PLACED ON MARKET

Substance Designed To Stimulate Intestinal tone, Activity And Assimilative Power.

In the display window of The Examiner, is a bright and attractive display of the containers and advertising posters for the new product "Vip", which is manufactured by the Scientific Food Products, Limited, of Toronto, and is being placed on the market just now.

The name is a combination of the first letters of vitamin, iron and proteins, and the substance is designed to stimulate intestinal tone, activity and assimilative power. It is declared to be beneficial for brain and nerve cells, and thus is of much value in preventing nerve hyper-irritability; to increase the rate of growth in children; and to aid in improving general strength, vigor and resistance to infection. Taken hot before retiring, it aids in inducing restful sleep.

Vip is especially rich in iron, one glass containing the complete daily requirements needed for the blood, and thus preventing nutritional anaemia.

If the contents are as appetizing as the container is attractive, it should be a very pleasing beverage indeed. The oblong-shaped tins are created in a wrapper combining the warmer tones of rich brown, canary yellow and tangerine.

Obituary

VINCENT J. HEENAN

The funeral of Vincent J. Heenan who died at St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, on Monday is to be held from the residence of his mother, Mrs. Mary Heenan, 797 Water street on Thursday morning at 8.45 to St. Peter's Cathedral. Interment at St. Peter's Cemetery.

MRS. JOHN McCANN

The funeral of Mrs. John McCann, formerly Mary O'Leary of Indian Rinver, who died in Detroit will leave the residence of Mrs. Thomas Lynch, Otonabee on Thursday morning at nine o'clock to the Church of the Sacred Heart for service at 9.30 o'clock. Interment will be made at St. Joseph's Cemetery, Douro.

MRS. J. H. CAVANAH

Sarah Evaline Green Cavanah, widow of the late J. H. Cavanah of Lethbridge, Alberta passed away at her home, 295 Charlotte street, early this morning. Born at Morton, Leeds County, Mrs. Cavanah spent her girlhood days in Peterborough, moving later to Blenheim, Ontario, where she was married to J. H. Cavanah. Shortly after their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Cavanah went to the West where they were pioneers in the early eighties. They lived in Medicine Hat, Calgary, Edmonton and Lethbridge. Mr. Cavanah was associated with the Hudson Bay Company for many years.

After the death of her husband in 1904, Mrs. Cavanah and her family returned to Peterborough where she had resided ever since.

A faithful member of St. John's Anglican Church, she endeared herself to all with whom she came in contact.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. W. J. Green, Peterborough and Mrs. E. J. R. Walton of Nelson, B.C., and by three daughters, Mrs. (Mona) F. L. Roy of Peterborough; Mrs. (Ola) G. B. Hutchings, Toronto; and Mrs. (Rita) R. W. Frank, Toronto; also two sons, W. H. Cavanah of Chicago and Ormond V. Cavanah of Toronto.

The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. F. L. Roy, 308 Rubidge street, with interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

RIOT QUESTIONS

OTTAWA.—Humphrey Mitchell, Labor member for Hamilton East has given notice of a series of questions he will ask the Government relating to the riots at Portsmouth Penitentiary. He asks if the Government will provide counsel for the prisoners who have been committed for trial on rioting charges, and if Col. Keillor MacKay has been retained as prosecutor.

The Hamilton Laborite wants to know who recommended Col. MacKay for the prosecutor's work and how much he is paid.

INJURIES ARE SLIGHT

James Gillespie, 477 Homewood Avenue, goal-tender of the Peterboroug Intermediate hockey team, suffered very minor injuries in a motor accident this morning. He was a passenger in a motor car which slewed on the icy pavement at the corner of Westcott and George streets. The car struck a tree; flying glass opened a slight cut on Mr. Gillespie's forehead and his right arm was bruised. The driver was uninjured.

St. Andrew's W.M.S. Plans For Centenary

The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S. was held on Tuesday afternoon in the church parlour, Miss Fanny Dixon presiding. The meeting opened with the singing of a hymn followed by prayer. Arrangements were made for the Day of Prayer to be held on March 3rd in St. Andrew's Church. A committee was appointed to arrange for the Missionary program in connection with the centenery anniversary of the church to be held in May.

Mrs. F. H. Dearborn presided over the devotional service, Miss J. R. Ferguson reading the Scripture lesson, and Mrs. Porteous leading in prayer. Mrs. B. Stacey read an item for the Watch Tower and Miss Dixon a letter from India. Interesting reports from the Presbyterial were given by Miss E. Ferguson and Mrs. W. Zeihr. Mrs. L. M. Brooks sang a well rendered solo "Hold Thou My Hand."

The meeting closed with prayer.

Rev. Ben Spence Raps Canada's Liquor Law

AUGUSTA, Me., Feb. 22 (C.P.)—The Liquor Control System of the Canadian Provinces were described as "ghastly, grim, unspeakable failures," by Rev. Ben Spence, "dry" crusader of Ontario, before a public meeting held under the auspices of the Maine Council of Women.

"Canada is only half dry," he told the gathering last night. "The control systems are the old liquor system back—functioning through a more efficient marketing process than the old system ever did."

COBOCONK MAN IS FINED $300

Alternative Is Year In Jail On Moonshine Charge—Four Previous Convictions.

LAD NEARLY DROWNS.

LINDSAY, February 22 (Examiner Correspondence). — A fine of $300, or one year in jail, was the punishment meted out by Police Magistrate Jordan yesterday to Clifford Weaver, of Coboconk, on the charge of being in possession of illicit spirits. The spirits were found by the police hidden in a wood pile. In passing sentence, Police Magistrate Jordan referred to four previous convictions against Weaver. The court had been informed that the accused had been selling moonshine to the laborers on the Coboconk-Dorset Highway.

Percy Tripp, son of P. Tripp of Haliburton had a narrow escape from drowning in the waters of Drag River on Monday night. The little fellow, while crossing the ice, fell into an air hole. When Clifford Harvey went to his rescue, the ice gave way beneath him, and both he and the child were in the water. Ronald Curry rushed from his house, and by stretching himself out on the ice, he was able to pull both of them to safety.

Peterborough Scottish Rite Masons, according to information given out by the Lindsay Welfare League, have contributed $100 to the local relief fund. It is said that there are several members of the Peterborough Lodge residing in Lindsay.

COUNCIL, BOARD SPLIT.

WINDSOR. — Sandwich East Township Council has made an open break with Essex Border Relief Board, named by the Government to supervise expenditures in all municipalities under 100 per cent. welfare relief costs from the Government.

STAY IS ORDERED IN WHATLEY CASE

Chief Justice Rose Orders Stay Of Proceedings At Osgoode Hall.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 22.—(Special)—Allegations in a statement of claim cannot constitute the basis for a libel action, decided Chief Justice Rose in weekly court at Osgoode Hall today in striking out part of the statement of claim of Donald Frederick Whatley, Peterborough salesman against his father-in-law Harry Hague and M. C. Hooper, Toronto solicitor, whom he claims falsely arrested him on adultry and conspired to fabricate evidence for a divorce action which his wife Evelyn Mary Whatley has instituted against him.

George T Walsh, K.C. for the defendant, Hooper, told the court that Donald Frederick Whatley was married in June 1932, but that by agreement the wife lived at her father's house until her husband could provide a home for her. Whatley claimed that his father-in-law had conspired with M. C. Hooper to induce his wife to start a divorce action against him. In October 1932 the action was lauched as a result, he alleged of misrepresentations as to his conduct. Whatley claims $5,000 from Hague for alienation of his wife's affections, $5,000 from both defendents for conspiring to institute legal proceedings and fabricate evidence and $5,000 against them for alleged libel contained in the statement of claim in the divorce action, which is pending.

Chief Justice Rose ordered that part of the statement of claim charging libel to be struck out and ordered a stay of all proceedings until a disposition of the divorce action.

Splendid Prizes For Ice Carnival

One of the big winter events of the season will be the Grand Ice Carnival which will take place on Monday evening next, February 27, in Brock Street Rink, under auspices of The Examiner Relief Fund.

Splendid prizes will be presented for the best costumes. There will be a twenty-piece band in attendance for the skating and dancing program, and there will be plenty of lights and snappy decorations.

Remember the next — next Monday, at the Brock Street Rink, and get out your costumes for an evening of real fun, in a good cause.

Silver Output Is Lowest In December

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (C.P.). — Silver output in December by the six leading producing countries (Canada, Mexico, United States, Australia, Burma, and Peru) dropped to 9,280,000 ounces in December, the lowest since the decline in production became general, says the American Bureau of Metal Statistics. This total compares with 10,493,000 ounces in November and 10,821,000 in December, 1931.

The sharp decline was caused by a decrease in output of Mexican mines.

"Gossip and Such"

ONE MORE FORMER "OFfice boy" of baseball partially realized his ambition recently to become one of the "bank presidents" of the game when Tris Speaker acquired a part-ownership and managerial reins of the Kansas City American Association team.

TRIS' EFFORTS TO BEcome one of the major-general's of the sport in which he served so long and nobly as private and first lieutenant is laudatory to a degree. All who have admired the skill and brilliance of the once great American League outfielder wish him great success.

However, if Speaker eventually rises to the position of a major league club owner, he will be one of the very few ball players who have made that grade. Baseball ownership is almost completely in the hands of men who never played ball except in their grammar school days.

FORMER BASEBALL STARS who later became major league club owners include Christy Mathewson (Boston Nationals), Fred Mitchell (Chicago), Wilbert Robson (Brooklyn), and Jim McAleer (Boston Americans). Only McAleer had the satisfaction of being president of a pennant winning club, the Red Sox winning in 1912, Jim's first year at the Boston helm.

ONLY COMISKEY OF THE stars who became club owners or presidents experienced a rise to the heights comparable to that which is so common a story of the business world's multitude of "self-made" men.

BUT THE DAYS WHEN that could be done are gone. Baseball success to-day can only be obtained by those clubs which have large fortunes at their command. Since 1920 neither major league has seen a pennant won by one of the "poorer" clubs and the 1920 winner, Cleveland, has since obtained the backing of considerable wealth.

BOSTON BRUINS SET SEASON'S SCORING RECORD BY BLANKING CANADIENS 10-0 AT HUB CITY

Maroons Gain Two Points On Toronto Leafs by Trouncing Americans 5-2.

PENALTIES COSTLY.

Cooks Stars As Rangers And Hawks Battle To 2-2 Overtime Draw.

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (C.P.).—Bitterest dose any National Hockey League team has swallowed in several seasons is the portion of Montreal Canadiens to-day as the most crushing defeat of the current campaign went into the records. Leo Dandurand's Red Shirts were smothered 10-0 by Boston's rugged Bruins in last night's game.

Boston's triumph carried them to within two points of Rangers and Detroit, deadlocked leaders of the American group, and gladdened the heart of Charles F. Adams in his feud with Dandurand. Rangers crept into a tie with the idle Red Wings on a 2-2 overtime draw at Chicago. In the other scheduled contest Montreal Maroons whittled two points from Toronto's Canadian group lead by trouncing Americans 5-2 while the Leafs rested.

Even Vic Ripley scored a goal at Boston, something it has taken five years for him to do, as Bruin marksmen amassed a total of 20 scoring points. Marty Barry gained five points in the scoring spree and Dit Clapper four, as 10 Boston players added to their point totals at George Hainsworth's expense.

Harrington was serving time when Clapper scored the only first-period goal with the aid of Eddie Shore. After Barry had shot the first of his two goals in the second session, Sylvio Mantha watched from the timekeepers' bench, while Red Beattie pasted in the third Boston goal.

Clapper Leads Splurge.

Apparent collapse of Canadians' defence in the second period was borne out in the last 20 minutes as seven out of 17 shots whistled past Hainsworth with such rapidity the overworked scorers could barely keep pace. Alex. Smith, Barry, George Owen, Joe Lamb, Ripley, Harry Oliver scored and Clapper, who started things in the first period, wound up with the last goal of the game. Art Chapman gained an assist on Oliver's goal.

Opportune thrusts while Americans were weakened by penalties and brilliance of Goalie Dave Kerr had much to do with the lop-sided score at Montreal. Hooley Smith led Maroons' attacking forces with two goals, Lionel Conacher, Dave Trottier and Paul Haynes accounting for the other three. Baldy Northcott aided twice and Haynes once in scoring plays.

Pint-sized "Doggie" Kuhn, recruit to Joe Simpson's squad, furnished Bill Brydges with the opening for Americans' only goal. The former star of Truro Bearcats of Nova Scotia fed the hefty defenceman a pass at the goalmouth for the veteran to lift the puck over Kerr's stick.

Cooks Score.

Bill Cook's goal in the last five minutes of the third period sent Rangers and Black Hawks into a dull overtime period at Chicago. Tommy Cook twice gave Chicago a lead they failed to hold when his first-period goal was matched in the third by one from the stick of Bun Cook. He scored his second midway through the period only to have Bill even it up again.

Fast and furious in the regular time, the pace slowed to a walk in the extra period. Frank Boucher aided both the Ranger Cooks' goal-getting and Art Coulter figured in both of Tommy's. Paul Thompson drew an assist on the second.

STUART GAINS 10TH SHUTOUT

Referee Ion Hands Out 19 Penalties As Tecumsehs Blank Windsor 4-0.

QUENNEVILLE IN ACTION.

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (C.P.)—Johnny Chick, guiding the destinies of Windsor Bulldogs, since the retirement of Herbie Mitchell, is wondering to-day what strange power it is London Tecumsehs exert over his proteges.

Eight times the International Hockey League's Canadian rivals have clashed this season and Windsor have yet to win a game. They held the Londoners to two ties—one a scoreless affair—and dropped the others.

Last night at London Tecumsehs blanked them for the fourth time, when they won a 4-0 decision. The victory enabled Tecs to advance to within one point of the leading Buffalo Bisons and gave Herbie Stuart his 10th shutout of the season.

Leo Quenneville stepped into action for the first time since Feb. 4 and showed no ill-effects from his absence, caused by injuries. He assisted Mike Neville score the initial goal of the contest in the second stanza.

Gordon Fraser, Gene Carrigan and Tory Gregg also scored for the Londoners, Fraser scoring two other goals, which Referee Mickey Ion refused to allow.

Ion had a busy session, chasing no fewer than 19 players to the timers; the high-water mark being reached in the middle stanza which saw 11 minors and 2 majors handed out.

NATIONALS BLANK OWEN SOUND 7-0

TORONTO, Feb. 22.—National Sea Fleas, Toronto junior champions, and sole remaining hope of this city for a junior hockey title, will carry a commanding lead into their second game with Owen Sound Greys, by virtue of a 7 to 0 kalsomining they handed the Greys at Maple Leaf Gardens last night.

About 2,500 fans saw the game. Outclassing their lighter opponents in all departments, the Fleas were good value for their win, and would have won by an even larger margin had it not been for the effective goalkeeping of Neath, in the losers' net. This clever player, although beaten seven tmes, blocked plenty of drives that were labelled for tallies.

Only two players on the visiting team showed to any advantage. These were the goalkeeper, Neath, and Defenseman Blair. The latter was the most effective man the losers had and he handed out many hard body checks, and worked like a Trojan all evening.

RITCHIE'S PATS ARE VICTORS

REGINA, Feb. 22 (C.P.)—For the fifth successive season, Al Ritchie's Pats will represent Southern Saskatchewan in the Provincial Junior hockey playdowns. The Pats earned the right last night when they scored a 5—0 victory over Yorkton in the second game of the series, winning the round 11—0.

KING EDWARD HOLDS SCHOOL HOCKEY TITLE

Southenders Defeat Old Rivals, King George In Sudden-Death Game.

BY 8-2 SCORE.

King Edward School hockey team won the Public School League championship for 1933 in a sudden-death game at the Brock yesterday evening, beating their old rivals, King George, by an 8-2 count. Several hundred youngsters kept up a continual uproar as the boys battled it out in a game much closer than the score indicates.

The K.E. team was big, for the most part, fast, playing good combination and showing more finish around the net to gain the verdict. The losers had but one alternating player but never quit trying. Add to this, a couple of soft goals that got by Hepburn, and it can be understood that it was a close contest on the play.

Quite a few grown-up fans took in the tussle and were treated to some fair hockey, with lots of dash thrown into it. Both squads turned in nice teamplay and good defensive hockey at times. It was a clean contest, Referee Archie Weir keeping the players checked up on trips, etc.

Good Game in Goal

Piercy went fine in goal for the southenders, blocking a bunch of close-in tries. His defence checked effectively. Jobe, Post and Conners were the pick of the forwards, with the others also good. Hepburn was over-anxious in the King George cage and muffed several, but he also stopped some good ones. He had a good defence, with Hopcroft playing a smart all-around game. The forwards showed plenty of grit and kept hammering away right to the finish.

The first frame was all King Edward's, Jobe scoring twice and Post once as they blanked the opposition. The second stanza was even up and down hockey, both outfits trying hard time and again and both tallying once. Post got one for the K.E. squad and Davis bulged the twine for the Ashburnham aggregation. Early in the third, Hopcroft stickhandled his way through in a smart rink-length rush to fool Piercy in close, but the others came back strong to run in four, Jobe getting two and Conners a pair. One was a long drifter and another was pulled in by the goalie himself. It was just as exciting at the end. The teams:

King George.—Goal, Hepburn; defence, McLean and Hopcroft; centre, Blade; wings, Legon and Davies; alternate, Craig.

King Edward.—Goal, Piercy; defence, Grose and Patterson; centre, Conners; wings, Jobe and Post; alternates, Wainman, Leggit, Hall, Anderson and Strickland.

Referee—Archie Weir.

ODDS ARE EVEN IN TITLE BOUT

Fields And Young Corbett Battle For Welterweight Crown To-night.

DISPUTED TITLE.

(By Russell J. Newland, A.P. Sports Writer.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22 (A.P.)—When the sun begins its dip into the Pacific late to-day, either Jackie Fields will be distinguished as one of the remarkable champions of boxing or Young Corbett will have become the new wearer of the Welterweight crown.

In this city exactly three years ago Fields was outpointed in a non-title bout by the Fresno, Cal., left-hander who squares off against him this afternoon in a 10-rounder.

Fields' assignment was to turn the tables on a persistent challenger, thereby not only regaining lost prestige but also successfully defending his laurels. Woven into the comparatively short career of Fields, also, is his feat of losing and winning back the 147-pound title.

In 1930, shortly after he was defeated by Corbett, Fields lost the championship to "Young Jack" Thompson. Then the rangy negro took on Corbett and like his predecessor, dropped a decision in a non-title battle. The crown passed along to other hands, Fields eventually regaining it through a victory over Lou Brouillard.

Until last night, when even money was quoted, Corbett was favored at odds that at times reached as high as 2 to 1.

Given a chance at the title after three years of steady knocking at the door, Corbett entered the ring with one of the outstanding individual records in the history of the welterweight ranks. In 140 battles up until to-day, the Italian, whose correct name as "Raffaele Giordano," lost but two decisions. Like Fields, he started as a lightweight, eight years ago.

WAITS ON KING

LONDON.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald was received in audience late this afternoon by King George at Buckingham Palace. Speculation was aroused whether this was in connection with a possible MacDonald mission.

Manitoba's metal production for 1932 included approximately 52,000,000 pounds of copper and 42,000,000 pounds of zinc.

BILL CALLADINE PLAYS TO-NIGHT

Will Play Centre Between Hatton And Creighton On Centre Forward Line.

FOR BELLEVILLE FRACAS.

One change has been made in the Petes' line-up for their final play-off game with Doherty A.C. of Belleville at the Brock at 8.30 to-night. Bill Calladine, junior centre star, will play the second forward line with Hatton and Creighton. This trio had a half hour's workout last night and appeared to be going well together. The change has been made in an effort to procure a bigger scoring punch in this line as the Petes face a three-goal deficit which must be overcome in order to avoid elimination.

Either Gillespie or Miller will be in goal. Weir, Howe and LeBarr will be back on defence; and the first forward line consists of Ellis, Dallin and Dundas. The Belleville outfit will be the same as in their previous game, though minus the services of Harry Morgan who suffered a broken collar-bone in the Monday game with the Petes. His loss may prove a serious blow to the Quinte team.

The Petes plan to open up with a strong offensive and press hard all through the first period. They hope to wipe out that three-goal lead in the first twenty minutes, before Belleville has become acclimated, and used to the tricky Calladine. Bill has been a fine scoring threat with the juniors all season, being a good checker in enemy territory and very dangerous around the net with his coolness and hockey experience. The whole team is in perfect shape now and confident they can take the round in to-night's game, which will doubtless be a hard-hitting, exciting and fine exhibition of intermediate hockey between the two best teams in Eastern Ontario.

A huge crowd is expected to pack the arena to-night for this important fixture. If the Petes win, they are champions of the eastern section of the province and have a fair chance of getting Ontario honors. If they lose, the Belleville team will continue in the O.H.A. race. Frank McCurry, experienced Toronto referee, has been named to officiate.

AT THE REGENT

"AMERICAN MADNESS"

Against the timely tapestry of adding machines, tellers' cages and the intricate paraphernalia of a modern bank, there is unfolded a story at the Regent Theatre, in "American Madness," which enters into the very midst of to-day's greatest human problem.

It raises a problem, yet it is not a problem picture. Frank Capra, ace director of the Columbia studios, the producers of "American Madness," who is famed for "Ladies of Leisure," "Flight," "Submarine" and "Dirigible," has woven his essentially simple theme into and against a huge, complicated background in a manner that makes "American Madness" the finest entertainment of the year.

"American Madness" has force and power. It brings to life the marble pillars, which are the symbol of the nation's great banking institutions; and it makes intelligible the drama that seethes behind the hundreds of doors marked, "Bank President."

"American Madness" will be presented at the Regent Theatre on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week, with a portion of the proceeds donated to The Examiner Relief Fund.

NINE UNDEFEATED RINKS REMAINING

Two Of Last Year's Titleholders And 1929 Winner Left In Running.

TORONTO, Feb. 22. (CP)—Only nine rinks out of the origina 100 to-day boasted undefeated records at the start of the third day's play the sixth annual Toronto bonspiel. Two of these are title holders of last year, while a third was a 1929 winner.

Five of quartettes are from out-of-town, chief of which is Dave Walker's Fort William rink, winner of at least one trophy, ever since it first took part in the 'spiel. The other visiting quartettes are B. C. Hall's Kitchener four, winners last year of the Royal York trophy; B. Ritz, Chatsworth; Cecil Smith, Hamilton Victorias and A. E. Stephenson, New Liskeard.

Play to-day is expected to advance into the third round, as all the preliminary and the majority of first round games have been completed.

WINDSOR MIC MACS WIN ROUND ON TIE

Border Team Holds Lead From First Game Of O.H.A. Senior "B" Play-offs.

WINDSOR, Feb. 22 (C.P.)—Windsor Mic Macs moved into the second round of the Senior "B" O.H.A. playdowns here last night by holding Chatham Maroons to a 1-to1 tie in one of the most exciting amateur puck-chasing classics to be offered here in years. Mic Macs won the first game played in Chatham last Friday, 3 to 2, and took the round 4 to 3. The game was witnessed by 2,500 fans.

After two hectic but scoreless periods, Chatham tied up the series while Mic Macs were short-handed after six minutes of play in the last session. Roy "Smokey" Reynolds, ponderous Maroon defenceman, was the marksman, blazing a shot from just inside the Windsor defence zone. The rubber hit Goaler Teno's stick and bounced between his legs into the twine. "Robbie" Robson, Mic Mac captain, was serving time in the cooler for slashing Coatsworth when the goal was scored.

The city of Tjahuanaco, Bolivia, is thought to antedate even Ur and the ancient pyramids.

PLATT SCORES WINNING GOAL IN EXTRA TIME

Knox Takes First Junior Play-off Tilt From All Saints' By 3-0 Count.

HARD-FOUGHT BATTLES.

All Saints won the juvenile championship of the Church Hockey League, 4 to 3 from St. James at All Saints' rink last night, Platt scoring the winning counter after seven minutes of overtime. Knox took the first junior play-off tilt from All Saints, 3 to 0. The second one will be held at seven o'clock Friday. Champions declared so far in this loop are: All Saints' intermediates, All Saints' juveniles, and Knox midgets.

The juvenile titular affair last night was close and exciting throughout. The score was 2-1 for All Saints to end the first frame and 3-2 for them to close the second. It was tied up late in this session and they went overtime to break it. Webb got the two for A.S. in the initial stanza, with Leggett countering on a lone rush for the Saints. In the middle go, Webb got another and then Smart took Wood's pass to sink it. St. James pressed hard in the third, Wood finally getting the tying counter on Heal's assist. Platt won the championship for his team after seven minutes of overtime, going through on a fine lone rush.

Webb, Platt and Jay stood out for the winners, while Smart, Wood, Leggett and Heal went best for the losers. The teams:

St. James: Goal, Piercy; defence, Grose and Leggett; centre, Heal; wings, Spencely and Smart; alternates, Wood, Dinsdale and Lawson.

All Saints: Goal, Jay; defence, Webb and Beauclerc; centre, Platt; wings, Livingstone and Trotter; alternate, Boddison.

Referee—C. Sproat.

Blank Saints 3-0

Knox juniors blanked All Saints, 3-0 in the other game played, a fast, exciting fixture. Play opened at a speedy clip with both sides threatening. The Knox boys finally bulged the hemp once in the first chapter, Anderson's hard drive being only partially blocked by Worsencroft. Seabrooke sifted through in the second to chalk up a smart counter and play was hot and even. They fought hard all through the third, with Watson blazing in a tough one to make it three for Knox, though the other side threatened all the way through.

Hammell in the winners' net was the star of the game, but his rival also stopped a flock of fast ones. Anderson, Watson and Seabrooke were the most effective though all the players worked hard throughout. Worsencroft in goal, R. Hope and Frost shaded their teammates in a fine performance. The teams:

All Saints: Goal, Worsencroft; defence, E. Hope and R. Hope; centre, Clarke; wings, Hetherington and Frost; alternates, Pulford, Webb and Platt.

Knox: Goal, Hammell; defence, Fisher and Seabrooke; centre, Watson; wings, Anderson and Menzies; alternates, Macdonald, Masters and Gatfield.

Referee—J. Wilson.

FLURRY OF FISTS AS NEW HAVEN BEATS CUBS

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 22 (A.P.)—New Haven Eagles defeated Boston 4-2 last night in a rough Canadian-American League hockey game enlivened by a fist fight.

Kinsella, of the Eagles, and Lane, of the visitors, drew major penalties as a result of a brief exchange of blows in the second period.

The Eagles took an impressive lead in the initial period when Keating, Pickett and Paddon each scored a goal. Kinsella scored the fourth New Haven tally, while Buckler and F. Jerwa accounted for the visitors' points.

Crowded Arena Sees Bowmanville Win 8-6

LINDSAY, Feb. 22. (Special to Examiner).—Eight hundred fans packed the Oakwood arena last night to see four Maple Leaf hockey players who each refereed a period of fast hockey between Lindsay and Bowmanville junior teams which resulted in the latter winning 8-6. The game was in aid of relief sponsored by Kiwanis Club of Lindsay. Sticks autographed by Primeau, Conacher, Jackson and Day were raffled off.

Juvenile Play-Offs In South-End League

SPORTS Day by Day

HOCKEY—BOWLING—BOXING
BASKETBALL — OTHER SPORTS

(By C. J. P.)

By the way the reserved seats were being sold at the Brock yesterday and this morning, we'll have a sell-out for tonight's intermediate play-off game. With the promise of another bruising game between two strong and well-matched outfits like Doherty A.C. of Belleville and the Petes and so much at stake, it's a "natural" and they only happen once or twice in a season. It may be the last O.H.A. game of the year here. In fact it will, if the Petes don't come back fast to overcome that three-goal lead.

* * * * * * *

Bill Calladine, star junior, will be with the intermediates this e'en. Bill is a good backchecker but he's out there this game because he's a goal-getter. He is just a junior but a real good one, and wasn't it the two Belleville juniors who starred offensively in the game Monday? The Petes will have to turn on the juice early and try to wipe out that lead the very first period before Belleville get accustomed to the smaller rink surface and the natural ice. And boys and gals, if the Blueshirts ever tie it up, what a fight it will be the rest of the way.

* * * * * * *

Quite a few fans around town are willing to wager real dough that the locals can come through. They should if they play hockey and don't handicap themselves with penalties. Doubtless, the Doherty crew will play a more or less defensive brand, at least to start. But conditions here favor the Petes and then they'll be remembering that a loss finishes them for the year—so we'd say it's a fairly safe bet though not a cinch by any means. The players themselves are out for vengeance and say, "Sure, we'll beat that bunch of so-and-sos!" You pay your money and you take your choice.

* * * * * * *

Once again, King Edward school copped the hockey title of the Public School League, beating King George 8 to 2 at the Brock yesterday evening. Talk about a racket, those kid fans sure made the old rafters ring, and it was contagious—older fans and a certain sports scribe getting all het up as the gallant youngsters skated themselves into the ice. Play was closer than the score shows, and both teams did well. We'll be hearing from a number of those pucksters in higher company within a few years.

* * * * * * *

A letter from the Amateur Athletic Union, Ontario Branch, states: "The Ontario Branch proposes to hold a series of amateur boxing shows throughout Ontario, with finals in Toronto, during the next two months, the competition to be known as the Golden Gloves Tournament of Ontario. It is proposed to have eight classes of weights and district contests in all classes to be held in London, St. Catharines, Hamilton, Kingston, Peterborough and Toronto. It is hoped to have the district shows conclude not later than the first week in April with the finals scheduled to be held in the Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, on April 17th and 24th.

"It has been suggested that all accepted competitors in the district shows should be presented with the golden gloves as a token, the winners and runners-up in the finals here to receive major prizes. All competitors would be required to hold amateur cards for 1933. The plan is that no sanction fee would be required for the district shows but those in charge would have the opportunity of charging an admission, in order to cover expenses and also send district winners to the two Tronto shows.

F. E. Nobert, our boxing supervisor, has instructed me to write you to this effect and to solicit your co-operation in organizing your local tournament. Please let me know what you can do without delay so that the provincial series can get under way as soon as possible. I believe the Golden Gloves Tournament would prove a popular feature. Your truly, W. M. Gladish, secretary". The letter was sent to the "Y" here and turned over to us.

Possibly Gord Garwood of the Alpha A. C. would be interested and do something about it. Boxing hit the skids here before Christmas and there hasn't been a ripple in gloved circles since. Such a tourney as that suggested by the A.A.U. of C. should be a good one, and there are half a dozen scrappers in the lightweight and welter class in town that should go a long way in fight tournaments of the province. We'd like to see some action on this matter.

Vince (Honey) Heenan, who died Monday in Toronto, was an old Peterborough ball player. He was in the outfield for the senior Petes of the old C.O.B.L. in 1919-20, and later with the Senior City League, before going to the Queen City. Vince was a good gardener and a steady hitter, and was well-known in baseball circles around here some ten years back.

HAINSWORTH IS COOLEST GOALIE IN MAJOR LOOP

Tied With Worters For Canadian Group Leadership Despite Canucks' Poor Showing.

STARRED AS JUNIOR.

(This is the 12th in a series by the Canadian Press on outstanding athletes of Ontario olties and towns.)

KITCHENER, Ont., Feb. 22 (C.P.)—Back in pre-war years Junior hockey was a barely-tolerated, necessary evil in Western Ontario Hockey circles until a game in Woodstock in 1912 turned the spotlight on Kitchener Juniors and featured the performance of a midget goalkeeper, George Hainsworth.

Struck in the face by a flying puck early in the game, Hainsworth was carried unconscious from the ice. Restored to full possession of his faculties, Hainsworth returned and shutout his opponents for the remainder of the game. Mainly through Hainsworth, Kitchener's Junior team went on to Ontario Junior semi-finals before being eliminated.

From that time on Junior hockey gained in popularity until to-day it ranks with the best-drawing sports in Western Ontario. And much of the credit is due to Kitchener's outstanding hockey product, who progressed through Intermediate to Senior ranks with the Allan Cup winning Flying Dutchmen of 1918, and now ranks with the best goalkeepers in major professional ranks.

Learned Under Lehman

Hainsworth received his first pointers in goalkeeping from the great Hughie Lehman, when that master netman played for Kitchener (then Berlin), in the Trolley Professional League. He turned pro with Saskatoon Sheiks, then under Newsy Lalonde, and afterward succeeded George Vezina in the nets for Montreal Canadiens.

Since then Hainsworth has compiled a remarkable record including one season when he had 22 shutouts in a 40-game schedule, and last night with Canadiens in charge of his first professional boss, Hainsworth watched the puck fly past him 10 times in 60 minutes as Boston Bruins shutout his team.

Careless-looking, easy manner of handling the hardest shots has made Hainsworth's name a synonym for coolness around the National Hockey League circuit, and despite Canadiens' poor season performance in the current campaign he is tied with Roy Worters for shut-out leadership in the Canadian division.

J. W. MORSE 96 YEARS OLD

MINNEAPOLIS.—J. W. Morse, who said he was a third cousin of Samuel Morse, and one of the first telegraphers in the United States, observed his 96th anniversary yesterday. He got a lot of congratulations, some of 'em, fittingly enough, by telegraph.

WEST HAM UNITED DEFEATS BRIGHTON

Birmingham Wins From Middlesborough 3-0 To Break Scoreless Tie.

LONDON, Feb. 22 (C.P. Cable).—Soccer games played in the Old Country to-day, including two replays of the English Cup, are as follows:

West Ham United defeated Brighton 1-0 after extra time in a replay of their 2-2 fifth round battle on Saturday.

Birmingham defeated Middlesbrough 3-0, following the scoreless tie these two teams played on Saturday.

In the English League, First Division, Derby and Arsenal played 2-2, Bolton defeated Portsmouth 4-1, Blackpool defeated Everton 2-1 and Leeds United were defeated by Sunderland 3-2.

In the Second Division, Manchester United defeated Burnley 2-1 and Chesterfield defeated Southampton 1-0. Gillingham and Luton Town played a 1-1 tie in the Southern Section of the Third Division, while Halifax defeated Darlington 4-2 in the Northern Division.

Quarter-Final Draw For Scottish Trophy

GLASGOW, Scotland, Feb. 22. — (C.P. Cable). — The draw for the quarter final round in the tourney for the Scottish Soccer Cup which is to be played March 4 was announced to-day.

Kilmarnock, following Saturday's brilliant victory over the Glasgow Rangers, will line up against Motherwell, who gained the fourth round by defeating Dundee. The win of Hearts over St. Johnstone in the third round entitles them to meet Hibernians, who gained entrance to the fourth bracket by a bye.

Albion Rovers and Celtic are brought together, following Celtic's victory over Partick Thistle. Albion Rovers had a bye into the fourth round. The other two of the eight favored teams gained the quarter-finals with byes; they are Clyde and Stenhousemuir.

DISTINGUISHING FEATURES

GOODNIGHT STORIES

By Max Trell

George chopped down a cherry tree
He did it with his hatchet;
But since he did not tell a lie,
Our George did not catch it.
—Shadow Song.

"That's' Christopher Columbus!" Mij exclaimed. The five shadow children were inside the book entitled, "History of the World." They went inside because the book happened to be open, as books often are. All the people inside the history book—and they were all famous, like Napoleon, and Joan of Arc, and kings and generals — were hurrying towards a large white house. From the house the shadows could hear the noise of a party. It sounded like a birthday party.

Naturally the shadow children wanted to go inside the house and join the party, but they couldn't until they were invited you see.

"That's Christopher Columbus," Mij repeated, as he went over to a man carrying a telescope in one hand and a large map in the other, and wearing a cloak over his shoulders. "Howdy-do, Mr. Columbus," Mij greeted.

George Washington's Party

"Why, how do you do," Columbus answered.

Then Knarf, who had just come up, broke in: "Will you take us into the birthday party, please?"

"My goodness, haven't you been invited?" Colmbus asked in surprise.

The shadows shook their heads. "Whose birthday party is it?" Hanid asked at last. At this Mr. Columbus was really astonished, and wanted to know if they did not remember what date it was.

"Howdy-do, Mr. Columbus," Mij greeted.

"Today is the twenty-second of February—"Yam started to answer, when all at once Flor, and Hanid, and Knarf and Mij all shouted together: "Today is Washington's birthday!" After this they didn't wait to be invited into the house. Inside the house the shadows found a huge birthday cake with—do you known how many candles?

Hanid knew, for she was a clever little shadow girl. "There are 201 candles," she whispered to the other shadows, "because George Washington was born in 1732, which is just 201 years ago."

Gebrge Washington, dressed in the clothes of years ago spied the shadow children. He was glad to see them, and bade them all to have a piece of birthday cake. Then he told them the story of how he crossed the Potomac, and how cold it was one winter at Valley Forge, and of how he chopped down the cherry tree, and how he couldn't tell a lie, and how he was elected to be the first president of the United States. I'm sure you can find out about all these things, too, if you'll just look inside a history book.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, February 23

A very lively and pleasant state of affairs is presaged from the predominant stellar operations, with the accent on those matters concerned with domestic, social, artistic or romantic activities. It is possible that the energies may be concentrated upon these, although there is some token of fortunate renewal of contracts, either business or personal. The romantic prospects loom large, possibly claiming major interest and application, with heightened pleasure as well as profit.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a very happy and prosperous year. A child born on this day may be devoted to social, domestic and romantic or artistic rather than to business pursuits. It should be talented, popular and attain good position.

Saves $2. So Easy! No Cooking!

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough. It's no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle, yet it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water for a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a 16 oz. bottle, and fill up with your sugar syrup. The 10 ounces thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is the most effective remedy that money can buy. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and clears the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, famous as a healing agent for throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

Was So Short of Breath Could Not Lie Down to Sleep

Mrs. P. J. Chernoff, Shoreacres, B.C., writes:—"I had been so troubled with shortness of breath I could not lie down to sleep.

I couldn't do any hard work, or climb the stairs, and had nervous and smothering feelings, and became very weak.

I tried all kinds of medicine, but could get no relief until after I had taken three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and since then I have felt better in every way."

For sale at all drug and general stores; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

Dr. F. Lewis Honored, Great Public Service

BUFFALO, N.Y., Feb. 22 (A.P.)—Dr. F. Park Lewis of Buffalo, Canadian-born and internationally known for his work in the prevention of blindness, to-day was awarded the Chacellor's Medal by the University of Buffalo at its mid-winter graduation.

The medal is given for outstanding public service.

Dr. Lewis, born in Hamilton, Ont., 78 years ago, is credited with fathering the movement which led to general use of a silver salt solution dropped into babies' eyes at birth to prevent an infection that used to cause 25 per cent of blindness in children.

He has been president of the New York State School for Blind at Batavia since 1900.

PLAY PRESENTED BY THE A. Y. P. A.

No Tresspassing Is Title Of Bright Three Act Play.

ST. JOHN'S SOCIETY.

"No Trespassing" is the title of the bright play in three acts that represents this season's contribution to the dramatic productions of the city, by the A.Y.P.A. of St. John's Church. It was presented for the first time in the Parish Hall, last night, and will have its second presentation to-night.

There was a very appreciative audience last night for a play that is replete with humor and bright and breezy situations. It revolves about the complications which arise when a rich young man, destined by his father to be the husband of a certain young lady, meets a pretty summer visitor at the farm adjoining his estate, and proceeds to fall in love with her. The entanglement is prolonged by the fact that his friend has been mistaken for him and his real identity is also masked.

A New England farmhouse is the locale of the production, and the staging and costuming is appropriate to the setting.

Characterizations, which Bernard Shaw declares are the first essential to the success of any dramatic production, rather than plot, provide the major interest in "No Trespassing," and each part is in splendid hands. The young people go through their parts almost letter perfect, and they delineate the roles in great style.

Although the young lovers of the piece provide the romantic interest the comedy of the piece centers about Mrs. Palmer, described as "a regular scold," but a lady whose sharp tongue is offset by a warm heart. She has a line of conversation and droll, unconscious humor that makes her part a real standout, and she gets many a chuckle from a pleased audience. Miss Aloha Horn has this difficult, well-enacted role.

Bert Hayter is her bucolic, good-natured husband, Mr. Palmer, while their very pretty blonde daughter, Peggy, who figures in one of the love affairs of the play, is Miss Margaret Curtis, and a youthful mischief-maker, Barbara, whose impish instincts and "enfant terrible" demeanor add much to the spice of the production, is Miss Belle Thurnbeck.

The other ornamental ladies of the play are Miss Enid Welch, the lovely little dark heroine who plays several roles in her dual part of twins and also of the city visitor, Tisle Irving, and Miss Hilda Phillips, who does very fine work as Almeda Meader, daughter of Bill Meader, who is "on the town."

Mr. Meader (George Pryde) deserves special mention. He has a character part that calls for a lot of hifalutin' language and much unconscious humor. His dialogues with Mrs. Palmer are quite irresistibly funny, and get many a laugh.

Then there is his tall son, Jim Meader (Claude Hewitt); the handsome dark hero, Herbert Edmund Rayner, owner of Deepdale (Walter Jones); his breezy friend, Cleveland Tower (Whitty Thirnbeck); and Mr. Irving (Archie Townsend), the city business man who has a brief appearance.

Miss Florence Hutchinson directs the play in very creditable fashion, and the actors are brought on at the opening in unique and effective fashion. As their names are announced, prior to the commencement of the production, they cross the stage, something in the style of the move casts. It is an interesting bit of business.

The orchestra of St. John's Sunday School plays before the play and between acts, led by Reg. Dyer, in bright, buoyant, rhythmic music that is exceptionally attractive.

"No Trespassing," which is very worth-while and entertaining, will have its second presentation to-night in St. John's Parish Hall.

New Slow Tempo Used In National Anthem

LONDON, Feb. 22 (C.P.).—When King George took his seat in the throne room at his first investiture of the year to-day, the Scots Guards Band played the National Anthem in a new slow tempo, recently adopted at the King's recommendation, for the first time on an official occasion. The function was a resplendent full-dress affair at which persons named on the New Year's honors list were invested with their honors.

a net reduction of 10 per cent. for the year, 1933, the matter was shelved for further consideration at the May meeting.

A motion by Mr. Hancock, seconded by Mr. McKone, that the report of the committee on appointments be referred back, and that the committee be asked to make further reduction of five per cent. in the salaries of teachers in the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School from September next, was defeated.

Press Banned.

The board's ban against admittance of the press to committee meetings is still to remain in force. Mr. Marshall broached the subject when he expressed himself as having been 'very distressed" at having seen the report of the Advisory Vocational Committee discussed in the press before it had been presented to the board.

Mr. McElderry suggested the best way of getting over the difficulty was to admit the press to committee meetings of the board. He moved that such a course be permitted. His motion was seconded by Mr. Hancock and was defeated at the vote 6-4.

Estimates of the board are usually struck at the regular February meeting, but this year an impasse was reached largely by reason of the fact that Premier George S. Henry had not at that time made announcement as to the reductions that were to be made in educational grants. The result was to leave the board in an indefinite position where they were unable to strike their estimates.

Then followed the announcement that the Government had made a further ten per cent. cut in grants, making a net reduction over the previous year of twenty per cent. And after that came the further intimation that the Government would permit school boards throughout the province to discontinue evening classes in the vocational chools.

With decreased revenue caused by the reduction of grants to be met, the Advisory Vocational Committee in their revised report to the board presented last night took the middle course and recommended the retention of classes in the evening schools which they considered essential and elimination of certain other classes which it was considered might be dispensed with in order to meet the situation.

Committee Report.

The report of the Advisory Vocational Committee stated:

"After very careful consideration of the recommendations of the board concerning night classes, your committee beg to report as follows:

"1st. That the class in 'applied electricity' be left in the remaning classes, and that the class in 'mathematics' be added to the classes to be discontinued, with the result that the night classes to be discontinued from 1st October will be as follows: 'artistic design,' 'ornamental lettering,' 'commercial French,' 'auto mechanics,' 'boat building,' 'mathematics.'

"2nd. The committee is considering your recommendation regarding the proposed charge of a fee of $5.00 felt that it would be a mistake and could only be prejudicial to the best interests of the school to place the fee at the figure suggested by the board.

"It was pointed out during the discussion by one of the representatives of the employees that many of those attending the night classes were only apprentices. In ordinary times these would only be earning small amounts of wages, and he felt that at this time these earnings would be considerably reduced. It was also pointed out that in many cases parents were anxious that their children should attend the classes and that they were willing even at some sacrifice to pay the fees for their children in order that they might have the benefits which the school has to offer and in order that their boys and girls might be kept from roaming the streets, as many of them probably would, if they were not attending the school.

"Your committee also had in mind the regulation issued by the department regarding fees. This is found on page 31 of the Recommendations and Regulations which is issued by the Department of Education, and which reads as follows: 'The fee for evening class pupils, if one is charged, should be merely nominal. It is found to be good policy, instead of charging the fee, to require the applicant to make a deposit and to return it to him at the end of the course, if his attendance has reached a stated standard. This policy is found to be effective in increasing regularity of attendance and persistence to the end of the course.' Section 63, paragraph 3.

"In asking your reconsideration of this matter, the committee would respectfully suggest that a fee of $5.00 be charged those attending the evening classes, and in doing so believe that the attendance will not be seriously affected and neither injustice nor unfairness will result to those who are desirous of improving themselves through the facilities which the school has to offer. This fee to be payable one-half at the beginning of the fall term and the balance at the beginning of the spring term.

"3rd. That the board place the sum of $2,520.00 in their estimates for 1933 for the purchase of supplies and replacement equipment for the various departments as per the statement appended hereto.

"4th. That Mr. Kenner and Mr. Johnston investigate the matter of conducting the day classes in 'motor mechanics' at the South Central School, with a view of having them conducted at or nearer the Vocational School."

Would Resign.

After presenting the report of the committee on appointments and moving its adoption, Dr. J. J. Craig, during the course of discussion on the salary question, stated, "I would seriously consider tendering my resignation to the board if the board broke faith with the teachers.

As the report indicated, he felt that the question of salaries which was referred by the board to the committee of which he is chairman was one on which no further action could be taken in view of an agreement entered into by the board with the teachers.

The report stated: "Regarding the question of salaries which was referred to your committee for consideration, we beg to report that in view of the action of the board last July in deciding on a 10 per cent. reduction for the calendar year 1933 and the fact that the teachers were notified that they were re-appointed from September subject to a continuation of a reduction of 5 per cent. to December 31, 1932, and a net reduction of 10 per cent. for the year 1933, your committee recommend that no further reduction be made for this period."

It was an agreement, Dr. Craig maintained, under which the board could not morally make a further reduction in teachers' salaries until January, 1934.

If the situation warranted it, the teachers might be taken into conference, and he believed they would be found to be public-spirited enough to accept further reductions.

Dr. A. Moir said there was no doubt that conditions were far from favorable in Peterborough. It was impossible to tell what might happen before mid-summer came, and it might be necessary that the board would have to consider the salary question again. When that time came, if it did, he was of the firm belief that the teachers would co-operate with the board. He did not anticipate any difficulty in that regard.

Mc McKone wondered if a conference between the board and the teachers could not be called "right away and have the question settled."

Mr. Reid—I don't think the public generally are aware that the teachers have already taken a 10 per cent. net cut at the first of January.

Mr. McKone—A number of teachers received increases in salary and then had the cut on top of that.

Dr. Moir believed it would be better to let the matter rest until May, when the board would be in a better position to deal with the situation.

Explaining the situation for the benefit of Dr. Moir, who was away on a trip to Europe when the salary question was first dealt with by the board last July, Dr. Craig stated that Mr. McNabb had stated on that occasion that the board was trying to deal with a situation that was too far distant when dealing with the salary question for 1933. He and Mr. McNabb, he said, had a motion which in effect was to advise the teachers of salary reductions to be effective in September and subject to revision at the beginning of the New Year. Other members of the board felt differently on the question and considered that the question must be settled in a manner that would satisfy the ratepayers. A motion was accordingly put forward that the teachers be reduced 5 per cent. in September and a further 5 per cent. in January, 1933, making a net 10 per cent. reduction for the calendar year 1933. That was the motion that carried, he exclaimed, and that is the agreement under which the board is morally bound. "I feel, however, that the teachers are fair-minded enough to meet the board if the need should arise later in the year," he concluded.

Mr. Hancock maintained that the motion did not bind the board to anything, and that it simply intimated to the teachers that they might expect the salary reductions to remain in force throughout the year 1933.

The chairman of the board did not agree with Mr. Hancock. He believed like Dr. Craig that the motion was morally binding upon the board. He admitted that had the members of the board realized the situation fully there would have been greater care in the matter, but under the circumstances he was prepared to stand behind the original motion, made last July. He was equally prepared to stand for further reductions in teachers' salaries in May next if conditions required that reductions should be made.

Mr. Marshall thought the board was taking up a great deal of time in discussion of the question. "We seem to lose sight of the fact that on the first of the year a ten per cent. cut went into effect on teachers' salaries, which should be justification that the board is out for economy. If times do not improve a further 10 per cent. reduction will probably have to be made, and I feel the teachers would take it," he said.

"I would like to see the frills of education removed. I am interested in economy in this direction this year. The teachers have already taken a ten per cent. reduction."

Mrs. Morris felt that the public generally were not aware that the teachers had already taken a ten per cent. cut in pay. It was a point that had not been fully stressed.

Mr. Hancock, referring to Dr. Craig's motion for adoption of the report still before the meeting: "If we vote on this now it seems to me we won't have the right to vote on the question in May of this year."

He moved that the report be referred back to the committee, and that the committee be asked to make a further reduction in salaries of Collegiate Institute and Vocational School teachers of 5 per cent., effective in September next. His amendment to the motion was seconded by Mr. McKone.

"That is just hedging," Dr. Craig exclaimed. "It is only dealing with one section of the teachers."

"I think I will have to accept that motion," the chairman interjected.

An amendment to the amendment was moved by Dr. Scott and seconded by Dr. Moir that the question of salary reductions of Collegiate and Vocational School teachers be left to the May meeting of the board.

"I feel I cannot support that move," Dr. Craig told Dr. Scott across the table, "in view of the moral obligations of the board to the teachers."

Mr. Marshall—We are not going back on any obligation to the teachers by accepting that.

Mr. Hancock: "We have to make reductions in our estimates. The City Council are doing all they can to cut their estimates—("I wonder," Mr. Reid remarked; "Salaries first?" Mrs. Morris asked)—the ratepayers demand it." Mr. Hancock proceeded unmindful of the interruptions. The situation is bad in Peterborough. Many people have been sold out of their homes or are losing the titles to their properties. I was never in favor of drastic reductions. I am just asking for 5 per cent., thinking it would meet the approval of the board."

"You are asking 15 per cent," a chorus of voices exclaimed.

"Not for the whole year," Mr. Hancock retorted.

He continued to state that he had been told by several people that the board had not made reductions. That was not so. Cuts had been made, but the reductions in Government grants had largely offset them, so that it was difficult to reduce the appropriations.

Put to the vote, Dr. Scott's amendment to the amendment that the salary question be referred to the May meeting, carried. Those voting in favor were Messrs. Scott, McNabb, Marshall, Craig, Moir, Reid and Mrs. Morris. Contrary: Messrs. Burnham, McElderry, Hancock and McKone.

Mr. Thompson, secretary of the board, intimated that the estimates would again have to undergo complete revision. They would not be ready until after the conference between the board and the Advisory Vocational Committee.

WHITE TERROR IS SPREADING

have long since crushed the spirits of the seven million unemployed. "Give us four years and we will exterminate the Red rabble and make an economic paradise out of Germany," the "Angriff", Hitler's lifeorgan announces tonight. And Dr. Frick's paper, the man who also sits in the cabinet, argues that the only way to overcome unemployment is to surround the working-class districts with an impenetrable girdle of steel and starve a few million men and women to death.

These are the same men, Hitler and Frick, who have issued the manifesto to the German people wherein they declare that God has at last looked with favor upon the Germans by letting them have "the divinely anointed leader", Hitler himself, who will make an end of dissension by welding together a single-willed, strong German nation.

Powerless Against Terror

The working-classof Germany, on whose side stand tens of thousands of liberals and democrats, are powerless against the growing Fascist terror. The whole apparatus of the state, the police, the courts, the army, is in the hands of the Hitlerits, while the Junkers, the banks and the agrarian big landlords are represented in the Hitler cabinet and are naturally making common front with the Fascists.

The working-class of Germany, on supported years and years of unemployment and destitution, are now considered the enemy who must be crushed to the ground before Germany can start back on the road to prosperity. Their organizations, the Christian labor unions, the Catholic trade federations, the Socialist party, the Communist party, must be liquidated so that the working-class as a whole shall be without a voice, without strength and without influence. The paradise which Hitler promises is a paradise which excludes the workers .

There is little doubt that the elections of March 5, which Hitler has announced, will bring an overwhelming success to his party. Before that date he will have outlawed the Communist party, which is naturally the most aggressive of the working class parties, while the system of intimidation, suspension of Socialist papers, prohibition of meetings for all left-wing groups and a wave of terror will do the rest in assuring the Fuehrer a handsome majority in the new Reichstag. There is not the slightest hope that Hitler will be defeated in the coming elections. Yet even if he were by some miracle placed in the minority, he and his group would not vacate the seats of the mighty. In that case the Fascist dictatorship would be established in one blow. Otherwise it is to come by stages.

Storm Troops Popular

Hitlerism exercises for the moment the fascination of the conqueror. The chance to wear a uniform, to possess a real pistol, to be fed well, to be covered by anonymity, and to be paid regularly is attracting tens of thousandsof young men to the storm-troops, among them a large percentage of criminals, sidewalk lizards, street-corner hoodlums, etc. Recruiting has been resumed all over the Reich. The Fuehrer needs more brown shirts, hundreds of thousands more. There are today entire precincts in Berlin and in Hamburg where a Hitlerite in uniform dares not show his face. In a few weeks time, however, they will invade those districts in large bands. That is when blood is going to flow.

Will the situation develop into a civil war? At present it does not look that way. If the workers' organizations like the iron front and the red front were armed, yes, then it would be a different story. But they have been disarmed long ago by Bruening, by Papen and Schleicher, who nevertheless allowed the Hitlerites to continue equipping and drilling. Under these circumstances, mass-resistance on the part of the workers' organizations would result in a useless slaughter, as bloody and ruthless as the Spartacus-revolt when 100,000 of them were massacred.

Hopes For Revolt

Yet Hitler seeks to manoeuvre his opponents in exactly this direction by provocative decrees, followed by prohibitions of assembling, he hopes to drive the working-class into open revolt, knowing full well that in that event he will have sufficient forces, equipped in a superior manner, to drown the revolt in blood. All has been very cynically planned by the "God-anointed leader."

What Germany undergoes today is the prelude to a Fascist "revolution". Before she can return on the road to prosperity, it is said, law and order must be established. Not that this was lacking before Hitler came to power. It is a Fascist law and order which Hitler and his backers desire. A Fascist order like that which prevails in Italy for the last ten years under Signor Mussolini. There seems no doubt but that Hitler will succeed in his plans. But whether Fascism can solve — not merely patch up by terror—but solve the economic crisis in Germany remains to be seen. In Italy, it has not succeeded. In Italy reigns a Fascist order, which has turned out to be the order of the graveyard, economically, culturally and politically. All the glittering parades and the flamboyant speeches of the Duce are merely designs to camouflage and cover up the real situation.

RADIO NOTES

By R. H. CHILDERHOSE of City Radio Service.

There are a variety of visual tuning indicators used on sets to indicate when the set is tuned-in correctly. Among these are meters with moving pointers, dials with widening or narrowing shadows, small lights that dim, and brighten, etc. Many radios tune so critically that it is difficult to tell by ear when you are properly tuned-in and these indicators are really necessary. Also, you can turn the volume control of your set off, and tune in a desired station corectly by your dial numbers and indicator, without hearing other stations as you pass over them.

Mr. L. R. H., North Bay.—Yes, you can add extra speakers to your radio. They can be either dynamic or magnetic, but the latter are less expensive and serve the purpose in most cases.

Ed.—Mr Childerhose will be glad to answer any questions asked by radio fans If you have any trouble just drop a note to Mr Childerhose in care of The Examiner.

NEWFOUNDLAND UNION FORECAST WITH DOMINION

Definite Steps Toward Goal Seen by Ottawa and London Observers.

ROYAL COMMISSION.

Viewpoint on Subject in Colony is Greatly Changed From Past.

OTTAWA, Feb. 23.—Close students of national and Imperial affairs last night were satisfied that announcement of the personnel of the Royal Commission to report on the future of Newfoundland marks the first definite step toward the union of Britain's oldest colony with Canada.

It is not the fact that two members of the commission, Sir William Stavert and Hon. C. A. Magrath, are Canadians that leads to the belief that for the first time since 1867, the situation favors union, but rather that conditions in Newfoundland are such that a commission was necessary and acceptable.

At the moment there is no great enthusiasm in favor of union in official circles in Canada, but there is realization that there may be no other alternative unless the Empire is to see the oldest colony pass from the Commonwealth.

Viewpoint Changes

In the past it has been held that any Newfoundland Government supporting union with Canada was doomed to defeat, but evidence is accumulating that this attitude was created by politicians and private interests bent upon exploitation of the island's resources. These now having been rather thoroughly alienated there is said to be a much different public viewpoint, which is reflected by the present Alderdice Government in its expressed willingness to consider any proposal for union.

Union would bring back within Canada not only Newfoundland, but that very important section of Labrador which was awarded Newfoundland by the Imperial Privy Council.

The current indebtedness of Newfoundland is in the neighborhood of $100,000,000. In usually well-informed circles it is declared Great Britain would assume a portion of this, provided the colony, or Dominion, as it now is, was able to enter into an agreement with Canada regarding the balance and union.

Neither in Canada nor in the United Kingdom is there the slightest suggestion of compulsion. In fact this time the suitor for union will be Newfoundland itself. On any reasonable basis it is unlikely Canada would turn a deaf ear to proposals, though the question of administration holds many complications no Canadian Government would be anxious at this time to assume.

FIRE IN HOTEL AT BELLEVILLE

$5,000 DAMAGE.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Feb. 23 (C.P.)—Fire to-day caused $5,000 damage to the third floor of the Queen's Hotel. It was believed to have started from a smouldering cigarette butt in a guest's room.

One guest was carried out overcome by smoke, while the guest in the room where the fire started lost all his personal possessions.

Smoke and water seeped through into the divisional offices of the cities service building, causing considerable damage.

Firemen were hampered in their work because of a line of cars in front of the hotel.

There were 70 guests in the hotel for the night.

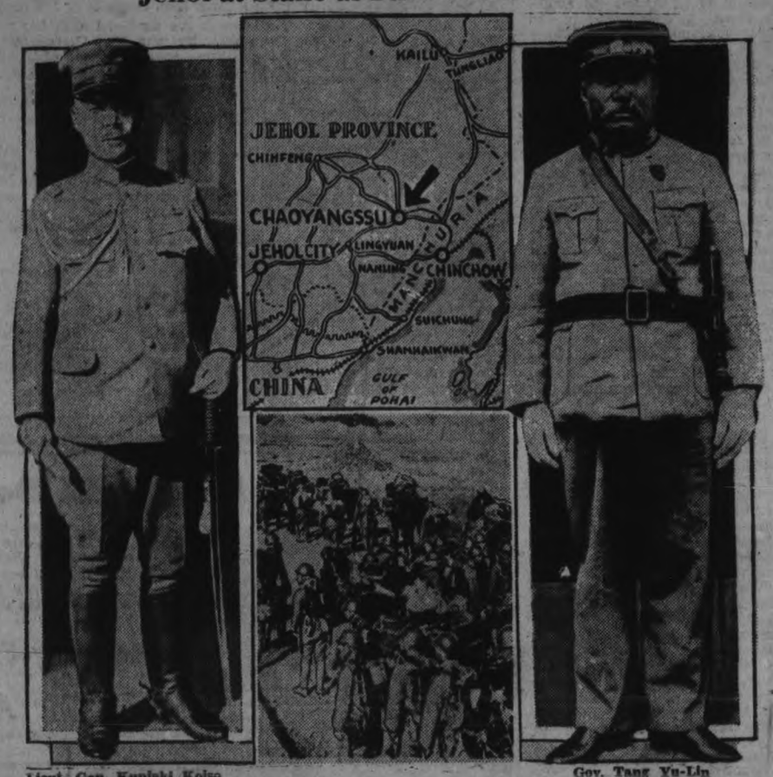
Jehol at Stake as Far East Battle Starts



Lieut. Gen. Kuniaki Koiso — Gov. Tang Yu-Lin

Lieut. Gen. Kuniaki Koiso, left, is reported to be the directing genius of the Japanese drive into Jehol province in North China. The fate of Jehol City, the capital, hangs in the balance. Tang Yu-Lin, right, is the defending Chinese governor. If Jehol is taken, Peiping may fall next.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 23. (AP) Miltenberger Smull, registrar at the Maryland Institute, art school, answered the telephone. A femine voice enquired:

"Will you please give me some information about your class of whistlers?

"Whistlers?" exclaimed Smull.

"Why, yes," said the gentle voice. "I read of your exhibition of Whistler's work and I think I would like to join your class."

COUNT BALLOTS RAILMEN'S VOTE

Men's Opinion on C.N., C.P. Cuts Will Be Known Late To-day.

ASKED TO TAKE 10 P.C.

MONTREAL, Feb. 23 (C.P.)—Acceptance or rejection of an added cut in wages of 10 per cent by the running trades employees of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways was at stake here here to-day as general chairmen of the various unions opened results of ballots taken by each union.

The general chairmen were to meet this afternoon to tabulate the men's opinions. As soon as possible they are expected to advise the railways whether the cut announced as going into effect on March 3 has been accepted or not.

It was generally conceded the men had voted against accepting the cut. The men, it was understood, were willing to continue the 10 per cent. reduction accepted for the past year, but were not agreeable to another, similar, slice.

Should the decision be in the negative, a board of conciliation loomed as the next stage of negotiations.

TORONTO FEELS SHOCK

TORONTO.—An earthquake of marked intensity was recorded on the seismograph at the Toronto Observatory at 3.19.46 o'clock to-day. The distance to the disturbance was computed at 4,405 miles, and it was believed to have been in or near Chile. The record continued intermittently over a period of three hours.

BINGHAM LONDON ENVOY.

WASHINGTON.—Official circles here heard to-day that Robert W. Bingham, the Louisville, Ky., publisher, definitely had been chosen by President-Elect Roosevelt to be Ambassador to London

Bernard K. Sandwell Addresses Rotarians and Their Ladies.

"GREAT TRIBULATION."

Bernard K. Sandwell, F.R.S.C., of Toronto, recently-appointed editor of The Toronto Saturday Night and economist of note throughout the Dominion, was the guest speaker of the evening at Rotary Ladies' Night, held at the Empress Hotel last evening and attended by seventy-five people, members of the club and their ladies and friends.

Mr. Sandwell, speaking for an hour, took as the subject of his discourse, or so he humorously declared, the "Great Tribulation," which the British-Israel Federation uses as a name for the present world crisis. He was introduced by the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., a special guest of the evening, with Mrs. Gordon, and the appreciation of his address was voiced by Rotarian H. R. H. Kenner, who took advantage of the occasion, Ladies' Night, to express in characteristically witty fashion some of his innermost thoughts about the fair sex in general.

President James Juby was in the chair and Rotarian R. F. Downey introduced the guests of the evening, the ladies being welcomed by the singing of "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." Mrs. W. R. Morris made a suitable and eloquent response, on behalf of her fellow guests.

LAD SAVES THREE CHUMS

PUBNICO, N.S.—Chubby Malcolm Larkin, aged six, is a hero today, rescuer of three of his playmates. The four were playing on a pond when the ice gave way. Malcolm's companions plunged into the water, but he hauled them back to safety, one by one.

One to Campbell

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23 (C.P.)—Sir Malcolm Campbell, in addition to travelling faster than any other human being on wheels is a modest man.

When he broke the world's record in his "Bluebird" yesterday he was quoted as saying, "If I had not been able to control the car so magnificently. . . ."

But this was an error. What he said was, "If the car had not controlled so magnificently I should have landed either in the sand dunes or the ocean."

Credit one to the "Bluebird" or if you prefer to Sir Malcolm.

Retired

BA YCITY, Mich., Feb. 23.—(A.P.)—Orin W. Butts is glad now that he can put a "retired" before his title of "champion liar of the United States."

Setting out for a club meeting, he ended up in General Hospital with a sprained leg, and he wants his wife to believe that he fell down the stairs at Trainman's Hall.

But ts relinquished his championship at the last liars' contest held in Burlington, Wis.

LONG-STANDING FEUD IN HOUSE AGAIN RESUMED

Nixon Seeks Apology From Premier When House Opens.

INFERRED THE LIE.

Rift Occurs Over Dividends Paid By Mortgage Company.

TORONTO, February 23 (C.P.)—Seeking an apology from Premier George S. Henry, for inferring he had lied, H. C. Nixon, Progressive leader, to-day resumed the long-standing feud between himself and Premier Henry before the orders of the day in the Ontario Legislature.

Speaking in the Throne Speech debate on Tuesday, Mr. Nixon had declared Premier Henry should resign from his directorate on the Toronto Mortgage Company, and said the company was paying 12 per cent. dividends.

Quotes Premier.

The Premier was quoted as replying as follows: "When he talks about the Mortgage Company with which I am associated paying dividends at 12 per cent., he knows he is not telling the truth; he is deliberately trying to deceive the people."

"If the Premier intended to give me the lie direct, which I still cannot believe, that is quite a different matter and a most serious reflection that I would not rest under for an instant," said Mr. Nixon.

"Never in my 14 years in this House have I asked a Speaker to rule against an honorable member, and I don't propose to do so now under any circumstances. I would infinitely prefer to rest my case in our fair judgment and in the fair judgment of the honorable members of this House rather than take satisfaction by the application against the honorable member of a formal rule."

He had read, he continued, from the annual report of the company

NIPPON ARMIES AWAIT MIDNIGHT TO START DRIVE

Ultimatum Ordering Chinese Troops to Quit Jehol Expires Then.

ATTACK AT 2 POINTS.

Chinese Report Jap Planes Bombing Cities in Eastern Sections.

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, Feb. 23 (A.P.)—General Chang Hsi-Peng, Commanding the Army of Manchukuo, began an advance against Chinese forces occupying the Province of Jehol at midnight Wednesday.

(By The Associated Press)

Reports that Chaoyang, Jehol's second largest city and other towns in Eastern Jehol were bombed by Japanese planes were issued to-day at Chinese military headquarters in Peiping.

Japanese reports said one of two advancing armies in Jehol was at Peipiao 20 miles northeast of Chaoyang, awaiting expiration of an ultimatum at midnight to-night before starting the long-heralded "big show." Chinese sources said Peipiao was attacked but denied it was captured.

The other Japenese army, 150 miles northward, was approaching Kailu, northern key city, with bombing planes leading the way.

The Last Warning

The Japanese spokesman at Shanghai said the Chinese Nationalist Government was informed today that unless its troops are withdrawn from Jehol they will be expelled forcibly. Although Chinese officials have not reported receipt of such a communication the Japanese spokesman said it was delivered verbally to Foreign Minister Lo Wen-Kan.

Japanese Ambassadors in Great Britain, the United States, France, Italy, and Germany were instructed to inform those governments Japan is mindful of their interests in the Peiping-Tientsin Treaty area and will not invade those two cities unless Chinese reprisals force such action.

While many have been slain and wounded during the movement of the Japanese along the Chinchow-Peiao Railway in the past few days, the Japanese command has insisted the "real fighting" will not begin until midnight.

Chang Leads Army

General Chang Kai-Peng, a former bandit leader whose name meant terror to many communities, was leading the advance on Kailu, in the north. Native Manchukuo troops were in the forefront of both drives, aimed to bring Jehol under the rule of that Government set up a year ago by the Japanese.

A Chinese army of 47,000 was concentrated in the Kailu area, hanging together despite continual air bombardments by the Japanese during recent weeks. Each section of the Japanese offensive is estimated at only about half that size.

May Reopen Probe Into Bern Death

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23. (AP)—A reopening of the investigation into the death of Paul Bern, motion picture producer and husband of Jean Harlow, screen star, appeared likely to-day as a result of a secret inquiry started by two members of the county grand jury.

The jurors, acting on their own initiative, have obtained a copy of the transcript of the import into the death of Bern and have been studying it several days, it was learned.

New information received by the two from private sources is reported to be the incentive for the present study of the circumstances of the producer's death.

District Attorney Buron Fitts said he knew of no reason why the investigation of the case should be reopened.

Thirty-Six Sticks Scattered About Near Allanburg

Discovery Made By Canal Forestry Department Foreman While Patrolling Along Grant $130,000,000 Project Only Officially Opened Last August 6.

EXPLOSIVE DIFFERS FROM THAT USED ON JOB; LAST PLOT THWARTED 1915—POLICE PROBING

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., February 23 (C.P.). — What may have been an attempt to dynamite the Welland Ship Canal was foiled to-day when Arthur Brady, foreman of the Canal Forestry Department, discovered 36 sticks of dynamite laid along rocks on the canal bank between Allanburg and the time office of the Ontario Paper Company.

Brady was walking along the canal bank in the course of his duties when he made the discovery.

The dynamite was collected and turned over to Chief Dennis Harold, Thorold South, who is conducting an investigation.

The dynamite is said to differ from that used in canal construction work, and was apparently not stolen from the canal stores.

Meanwhile, Chief Harold is investigating all angles of the discovery, and has ascertained that the dynamite was originally shipped from the Canadian Explosives Company, Montreal, and may be the same dynamite stolen recently from a construction company at Port Colborne.

The Chief said he was returning to the scene of the discovery to carry out further investigations. He could not say definitely whether there appeared to be a deliberate plot to damage the canal.

$130,000,000 Project

The Welland Ship Canal, a $130,000,000 project, came into the limelight last August 6, when delegates to the Imperial Economic Conference from all parts of the British Empire converged upon Welland to assist in the formal opening of the 21-mile stretch of water between Port Colborne on Lake Erie, and Port Weller on Lake Ontario.

The existing canal is the fourth one linking the two great lakes. The original one was begun more than 100 years ago. The canal has total lift of 326½ feet in which eight locks are used. The longest lock is 820 feet and 80 feet wide.

The probability of the canal forming one of the most important parts of the St. Lawrence Seaway project gives the system a greatly enhanced value.

Last Plot in 1915

Back in the war days of Dec., 1915, United States police arrested a trio accused of conspiracy to blow up the old Welland Canal.

Paul Koenig, known as chief of police of the Hamburg-American Line, was arrested and charged with having started in the United States a military enterprise against the Dominion of Canada for the construction of the canal.

Two others, R. E. Leyendecker and Fred Metzler, were also arrested

CAMPBELL ENDS HIS SPEED TESTS FOR THIS YEAR

Physician Advises Against Further Races Because of Sprained Arm.

CRACKED IN TRIAL SPIN.

Hopes to Return Next Year—Begins Packing Bluebird For Home.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23. — (AP) — Sir Malcolm Campbell, British race driver who yesterday hung up three new world land speed records, announced definitely today he would make no more speed trials here this year, and would leave Tusday for New York to sail for England shortly after.

Sir Malcolm said he would ship his record-holding Bluebird racing car north tomorrow or Saturday.

Decision not to make any more speed trials this year was reached after the 48 year old driver had consulted a physician, who told him it would not be advisable to race now because of a previously sprained arm.

Sprained Arm

The British monarch of land speed injured his left arm a week ago when, while making a test run in his car, the gear lever slipped out of place and cracked him just about the wrist, bruising a tendon. During his record smashing achievement on the beach yesterday he was forced to drive most of the way over a bumpy beach with only one hand. His left arm was encased in bandages and a leather guard.

He had wanted to try for new land speed records today for one kilometre and one mile from a standing start. The records set yesterday over one kilometre, one mile

Democrat Leader Confident New Gov't Will Receive Bennett's Suggestion. Favorably.

INTERVIEWS SECRET.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23. (AP)—Representative Rainey, United States House of Representatives Democratic leader, said to-day President-elect Roosevelt's selection of Senator Hull as Secretary of State and Daniel C. Roper as Secretary of Commerce "means that he is going forward with his reciprocity tariffs program."

Commenting on a report that Henry Morganthau, Jr., had recently visited Ottawa to look over the prospects of reciprocal tariffs with Canada, Rainey said he was delighted to learn of Prime Minister R. B. Bennett's suggestion that Canada desired to enter such a trade treaty with the United States.

"Senator Hull is an expert on tariff and so is Mr. Roper, who helped the House Ways and Means Committee frame the Underwood Tariff Act before the World War" he said.

Favorable Reception

"Their selection for cabinet posts means that the incoming administration will receive proposals for reciprocal tariff agreements favorably.

"I have every reason to believe that the Roosevelt administration will receive Mr. Bennett's suggestions very favorably and will be glad to discuss suggestions in the direction of more friendly or reciprocal trade relations with Canada. This will, in my opinion, be taken up shortly after Mr. Roosevelt's inauguration.

"An agreement between Canada and the United States will lead to lowering of tariff barriers all over the world."

THREE CHILDREN DIE IN FLAMES SHARBOT LAKE

Mother Gathering Wood Nearby Strives in Vain to Save Infants.

FATHER IN COURT.

News of Tragedy Telephoned to Kingston—Stove Overheated.

KINGSTON, Feb. 23. — Three children were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Wilson, five miles west of Sharbot Lake, yesterday afternoon, according to information received here.

The dead are: Robert Wilson, aged 3; Albert Wilson, aged 2; and Arthur Wilson, aged 9 months.

The children were alone in the house at the time the fire occurred and it is believed the flames started from the kitchen stove. The father was in Kingston, having been summoned as a witness in a case in the Supreme Court.

According to the information received here, the mother was about 300 yards away from the home, gathering wood, when she noticed the house, a two-story log building, in flames. She ran to the house and gave the alarm, but the building was a mass of flames, and the mother and neighbors who gathered were unable to rescue the children.

Part of Bodies Found

It was stated over long-distance telephone that only portions of the bodies of the three children had been recovered.

Provincial Constable Tomlinson of Sharbot Lake is investigating. Dr. C. D. Sheldon, Coroner, of Sharbot Lake, was also notified.

The three children who were burned to death comprised the family of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson.

Grief stricken by the news that his three children had been burned to death, Milton Wilson paced the corridors of the Court House here for more than an hour, waiting for the train to take him to the scene of the tragedy.

He gave evidence here at the trial of Hess Winkle, on a charge of arson, and was awaiting conclusion of the case when news of the fire that took the lives of his children was received.

Information obtained last night failed to throw further light on the cause of the fire.

NO INQUEST.

KINGSTON, Ont., Feb. 23.— (C.P.)—No inquest into the death of the three children of Milton Wilson, living near Sharbot Lake, will be held, it was announced to-day by Crown Attorney T. J. Rigney, following investigations carried out by Provincial Officer W. Thomlinson and Coroner Seldon at Sharbot Lake.

There had been a report that Wilson said he had enemies when asked regarding tre fire, but there has been absolutely nothing, it was learned, that would indicate the fire was of incendiary origin.

MYSTERY CASE IS RE-OPENED

WAS PLANNING TO MOVE.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., February 23 (C.P.). — Arrested as a material witness in connection with the investigation of the murder of four members of the Germond family at Stanfordville, more than two years ago, Arthur F. Curry, the Germonds' nearest neighbor, has been held for several days in the Dutchess County Jail here. He was unable to provide the $10 000 surety required for his release.

Curry has been questioned by the investigating authorities on numerous occasions, and his arrest was ordered when county officials had learned of his announced intention to sell his poultry farm and move away.

The murder of James Hazed Germond, his wife, son and daughter, on November 26, 1930, has never been solved.

Police authorities believe Curry was born near Toronto, Ont., but he maintains he was born in New York State, either at Amsterdam, Fonda, or Utica. He is 56 years old.

Alberta had 3,635 entries for homestead lands during 1932 of which 1,044 were entries by women settlers.

C.C.F. ORGANIZER RUSSIAN AGENT LAVERGNE SAYS

NO PEACE RIVER ROAD.

Railway Bill Appears in Senate To-day for Final Reading.

OTTAWA, Feb. 23 (C.P.). — Amended in many minor particulars, but still preserving intact the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Transportation, the Canadian National-Canadian Pacific Bill may receive the final approval of the Senate to-day and move on to the House of Commons, where its passage is likely to be more rapid.

The bill, perhaps the chief piece of legislation before the present session of Parliament, is designed to solve Canada's railway difficulties by giving the Canadian National Railways a new administrative set-up and establishing a means by which the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific will be compelled to co-operate in cutting down expenses and eliminating wasteful competition.

It was based on the report of the Royal Commission which studied the railway problem and toured Canada from coast to coast and was the subject of a careful study by the Senate Railway Committee which made minor changes but rejected all proposals to alter the main principles of the bill.

Peace River Line Taboo.

The House of Commons yesterday had its annual debate on the proposed railway outlet for the Peace River country. D. M. Kennedy, member for Peace River, urged the importance of building a road to the Pacific Ocean, but Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, said the financial condition of the country made the proposal impossible at this time.

The House defeated, 133 to 39, a resolution proposing the railway. It was introduced by Donald Kennedy, United Farmer member for Peace River, and received practically all its support from Alberta and British Columbia.

A direct attempt was made in the House yesterday to link the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation with Red Russia. George Williams of Saskatchewan, a member of the executive of Canada's newest political party, was branded a "Bolshevist, a paid Mosoow-agent," by Armand Lavergne, Deputy Speaker and Conservative member for Montmagny.

Mr. Lavergne read from a French magazine to prove his charge against Williams.

A denial that Williams was a Communist was inserted in the running debate by Mr. Woodsworth. "I have again and again heard Mr. Williams denounce the Communist party and say we do not want Russia set up here," he said.

Section 98.

For an hour and a half the House again debated the Woodsworth resolution to repeal Section 98 of the Criminal Code, dealing with sedition and unlawful assemblies. It was a bulwark against Communism, insisted Mr. Lavergne, but at the same time did not restrict any law-abiding citizen from expounding honest convictions.

"I should like to ask the Government if it intends to continue during 1933 the payment of a premium to the gold producers of Canada," enquired Olaf Hanson (Lib., Skeena) in the House.

"The price paid for gold is the price the producers can obtain elsewhere and that is all," Prime Minister R. B. Bennett answered. "The Government has commandeered gold in the sense that it cannot be exported without a license, and it is purchased at the price which the producer could obtain for his products in other markets."

PREMIER HENRY WILL OUTLINE GOV'T POLICY

Premier Leads Off To-day in Reply to Speech From Throne.

BILLS AMENDED.

Licensing of All Collecting Agency Companies is Thought Desirable.

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (C.P.).—Verbal warfare will be resumed in the Ontario Legislature to-day, when Premier GeGorge S. Henry leads off in the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. The Premier spoke briefly on Tuesday night and then adjourned the debate until to-day, and hence will start the ball rolling.

Actually, he has not yet laid down the lines the Government will follow other than the brief references contained in the Speech from the Throne. His speech on Tuesday night was more or less a reply to statements made previously by H. C. Nixon, Progressive leader, and his "leader's speech" is to come to-day.

Just what trend the Premier will follow is unknown. There has been much discussion of the proposed redistribution bill, and the possibility of an early election. Too, the Abitibi Power project has been attacked by the Opposition, and mentioned but briefly by Mr. Henry. He is expected to talk on unemployment relief, the proposed moratorium bill, and the general record of the Government.

Whether the redistribution bill will be brought down is unknown. Gossip around the corridors is to the effect this may be done at once.

License Agencies.

Giving many instances of collection agencies, with their head offices in Ontario, using high-handed, high-pressure and improper methods to collect honest debts, Attorney-General W. H. Price explained the reasons for the bringing in of an amendment to the Collection Agencies Act, so as to allow proper regulation, control, and licensing of all such agencies operating in the Province. At the present time those agencies having their head offices outside of the Province are so controlled, but the amending Bill, which was given its second reading, will make the Act inclusive.

In a session which lasted just an hour, the Legislature attended to its knitting and got down to real business. Second readings were also given to the Bill, sponsored by Wilfrid Heighington (Conservative, St. Davids), to conserve and improve the valley of the Don River; to an amendment to the Bills of Sale and Chattel Mortgages Act; to an amendment to the Deserted Wives' and Children's Maintenance Act; and to an amendment to the Mechanics' Lien Act. There was no discussion on the Bills, the sponsors merely briefly explaining them.

Hastings

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. e. Lavole was the scene of an enjoyable party on Tuesday afternoon, it being the occasion of the ninth birthday of their daughter Mary. The room was very prettily decorated with a color scheme of pink and white streamers, which extended from the table to the ceiling, and were gathered in a cluster in the centre of the ceiling. The color scheme was also carried out on the table with flowers and candles, with a dainty birthday cake to complete it. Nine young girl friends of little Miss Mary, who received many beautiful gifts, indulged in games, after which a treasure hunt took place.

According to available records, the first collection of big game trophies from America was made by ueen Elizabeth of England.

Five-toed Hog

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 23. (CP).—A. W. Frederick of Anderson townsh.p killed one of his hogs and found it had five toes on each front foot instead of the usual four.

A normal hog has two toes on which it walks—said to be the cloven hoof referred to in the law of Moses—and two other toes which are useless.

This unusual porker had three useless toes on each front foot. The back feet were normal.

HAVELOCK

A pleasant evening was spent by the Girls' Bridge Club on Friday evening last at the home of Miss Marie Bedford, who entertained at the second party of the season. Two tables were played, the honor prize being won by Miss Cordie McColl, the consolation trophy by Miss Margaret Voyer.

Dainty refreshments were afterwards served and a short period of fortune telling from the teacups enjoyed. The next hostess will be Miss Cordie McColl.

Mrs. Jack Moore entertained at a bridge party for the series of diminishing bridge on Saturday evening at her home, when three tables were played. The prize for the highest score was awarded to Mrs. (Dr.) Thompson, who received a lovely box of stationery. Dainty refreshments were afterwards served and a half hour of social chatter enjoyed.

QUESTIONS ON TITLES

OTTAWA—Joseph Mercier, Liberal member for Laurier-Outremont has filed in the House of Commons notice of a question dealing with titles. He asks: "Do the recent decorations granted Rt. Hon. Sir George Perley in the Order of St. Michael and St. George, and Rt. Hon. F. W. Anglin in the Order of St. Gregory the Great, mean that Canadians holding titles in any order may now accept promotion in the same order as long as such promotions do not carry any rank or title?"

FRANCE, BANKS FILLED WITH GOLD STRUGGLES TO MAKE ENDS MEET

Cuts Civil Salaries 5 p.c., But Balks at Slice in Military Budget.

DISQUIET GROWS.

(By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Writer.)

PARIS, Feb. 23 (C.P. Cable). — France presents the world's great paradox. Her banks and vaults are glutted with gold and yet she is struggling to make both ends meet.

The Senate have voted one month's interim supply. It has approved the five per cent. cut in civil service salaries over 9,000 francs and it has reduced parliamentary indemnities by ten per cent.

But—it is significant to note—the Senate is pronounced in the principle of not reducing military credits.

At one stage of the long Senate discussion the Daladier Government was defeated, but as a vote of confidence was not submitted the Government escaped resignation.

For a time therefore, the financial struggle passes from the upper house. But throughout the country uneasiness grows. On the billboards are monarchist manifestos from Duc De Guise,—France's claimant king in exile,—which flank workers' appeals for a united front.

More Economy

The newspapers ring with a strident cry for more economy. Shopkeepers in the provincial towns are closing in protest against higher taxes. At Blois all shops were closed for two and one half hours, and at Bressuire for two hours.

For five hours to-morrow drug stores will be the only shops open at Persan Beaumont, in Seine et Oise. Chambers of Commerce up and down the country are resolving for economy and for equality in taxation.

And linked with the struggle over finance is the disquiet over what is considered a growing menace to peace across the Rhine. It is a disquiet which finds expression in both political wings. In the policies of Germany's Nazi Chancellor, Adolph Hitler, Leon Blum, leader of the French Socialists ,sees an attack on peace itself. "To preserve the social democracy of the German Republic from the supreme attack is to preserve France, to preserve Europe from the same," he explains.

The Government is reported to have a wide army reorganization scheme under review. The plan is to strengthen still further the line of concrete and steel with which France protects her eastern frontier. Thus if an attack ever comes a curtain of defence will hold the eastern front against storm troops while France is given time to mobilize.

Miss Canada

For her charming ways, pleasing personality, grace and beauty, Miss Ruth Connolly (above), formerly of Toronto, has been chosen "Miss Canada" for 1933 at the annual Canadian tourists' ball held in Los Angeles, California. Miss Connolly is travelling in the footsteps of her aunt, Mrs. Claude Aisthorpe, of Toronto, who in 1913 won a modern Venus contest.

Grand Island Bridge May Be Speeded Up

ALBANY, N.Y., Feb. 23 (C.P.). — The Grand Island Bridge, a $3,500,000 project proposed by the Niagara Frontier Bridge Commission as another traffic artery between Canada and the United States on the Niagara Peninsula, was among projects Governor Herbert Lehman had moved to-day to speed to completion.

In a special message to the Legislature the New York Governor requested quick enactment of minor legal details which, he said, stood alone in the way of the construction. Financial aid of the Federal Reconstruction Corporation would be sought for the work.

LOST 52 LBS. UGLY FAT

So Fat that People Stared

"Puffed" to Walk 10 Yards

Some people suppose that fatness is necessarily constitutional—a natural state against which struggle is in vain. This man's experience disproves that—and on his own description he was an extreme case.

"I was 220 lbs. two years ago. I am only 5 ft. high and I looked awful! Through diet and Kruschen, I am now 168 lbs., and as nimble as a two-year-old. I am well-known as a fat man and people always stopped to look at me. I could not go anywhere without a stare. And after walking 10 yards I puffed awful. Life was a misery to me. Now I am all right. There never was such a difference in a man."—E. W. R.

Kruschen is a scientific blend of various mineral salts found in the waters of those European spas which have been used by generations of overstout people to reduce weight. Kruschen combats the cause of fat by assisting the internal organs to perform their functions properly—to throw off each day those waste products and poisons which, if allowed to accumulate, will be converted by the body's chemistry into fatty tissue.

Take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning. There will be no rapid and alarming loss of weight, but just a steady decrease of that flabby fat which is as unhealthy as it is unsightly. You will also find that Kruschen builds up remarkable new strength and energy while you are training yourself down to a point of normal weight. Its tonic influence reaches every organ, gland and fibre in the body, bringing good health to all who put their faith in it.

AN EXTRA SIX MILLION DOLLARS FOR THE ONTARIO DAIRY FARMERS

L. A. Zufelt Strongly Recommends Cheese Instead of Butter.

HEAD OF DAIRY SCHOOL

KINGSTON, Feb. 23.—About one hundred cheesemakers gathered in the School Room at the Eastern Dairy School recently to hear L. A. Zufelt, Superintendent make clear how the additional sum of six million dollars might be divided among the dairymen of Ontario. "My figures," said Mr. Zufelt, "are based on fact. They are not open to successful contradiction. We profess to be anxious that our farmers get more money. Six million dollars is no mean sum, and if we had that much more to circulate, how long would the depression last?"

Dealing with the average monthly quota on New Zealand butter, New Zealand cheese, Canadian cheese and English cheddar, taken from the weekly quotations sent out by the Empire Marketing Board, London, England in Shippings per cwt. (112 lbs.) Mr. Zufelt quoted the following figures:

Month 1932	Butter N.Z.	Cheddar Cheese N.Z.	Can.	Eng.	Ratio in price Butter to Cheese N.Z.	Can.	Eng.
May	96	56½	70	120	1.70	1.37	.80
June	97	56½	70	124	1.71	137	.80
			56½	*85		175	*1.14
July	104	59	58	93	1.76	1.78	1.11
August	109	59	60	98	1.85	1.81	1.11

The above figures showed from an official report, that Canadian butter sold on an average of from 3-4 to 7-8c less per pound than New Zealand butter. Thus the average price on the English market for Canadian butter would be 16 1-4c. In submitting his case for the production of more cheese, Mr. Zufelt pointed out that it has been admitted as a truism that in order for buter to pay as much as cheese to the milk producer butter must sell wholesale at 2 1-4 times the price of cheese. In other words, the milk required to make 1 pound of butter would produce 2¼ pounds of cheese. This was true where the utmost efficiency prevailed in the separation and handling of the cream on the farm, but from actual facts obtained by weighing the milk before separation and a strict record kept of the fat paid for as delivered in the cream, it has been found that the loss of fat is much greater than estimated as above.

"It is, therefore" said Mr. Zufelt, "quite safe to say that the amount of milk required, under these conditions, to produce one pound of butter, would produce fully 2 1-2 pounds of cheese. If we increase the volume of our butter to the point where an increasing amount must be expected each year, then the price of all our butter would be governed by the price paid on the English market and the 5c duty would be of no effect nor benefit. As the Western Provinces will be compelled to increase their make of butter, it would seem a wise move for Ontario dairymen to produce less butter and more cheese, so as to give our Western Dairymen a ready market here and not compel them to ship it overseas."

Mr. Zufelt asked how this would effect Ontario, and answered his own question, "suppose for instance, we could reduce our output of butter by 40,000,000 pounds," he said "The milk required to produce this amount of butter would produce 2 1-2 times as much cheese, or 100,000,000 pounds, this at 11c (the average price paid for cheese in England last year) would yield $11,000,000. The 40,000,000 lbs. of butter, which it represents, was worth 16 1-4 per pound, or $6,500,000. It is worth $4,500,000 more in actual cash to make cheese rather than butter, in the above instance. As we are making about 70,000,000 pounds of butter at present we would still have 30,000,000 pounds to dispose of in our own markets and as we would be importers, the value of this butter would be increased by at least 5c perp ound, the amount of duty now levied. This would give us another $1,500,000 to be added to the $4,500,000 already obtained from the extra value of the cheese, making in all the tidy sum of $6,000,000 to be divided among the dairymen of Ontario."

BREEDERS MEET AT HUME'S FARM

Livestock Improvement Discussed at Seymour Gathering—Mr. Stansill of St. Thomas Speaks.

CAMPBELLFORD, February 23 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—A meeting in the interests of the live stock improvement situation was held on Tuesday afternoon at the farm of Alexander Hume & Son, Seymour Township, the chief speaker being Mr. Stansill of St. Thomas. The meeting, which was attended by about fifty people, was of a general nature, and featured discussions on methods of improvement to dairy cattle of all breeds.

In his address Mr. Stansill stated that the live stock department realized that the farmers are faced with a crisis. The prices of farm produce have been so ridiculously low that farmers cannot afford to purchase high-priced sires for their herds. Then, too, breeders of purebred stock cannot afford to raise a male calf until he is a year old and sell them at $30 or $40. The result will be that very soon there will be a scarcity of pure-bred bulls.

The Department of Agriculture, realizing these conditions, are promulgating a scheme to encourage dairy farmers to use pure-bred sires. They propose to give a bonus to purchasers of pure-bred bulls of from $20 to $30, according to the record of their dames and sires. For the higher grade of bull with a lot of good records behind him, the purchaser will get the larger bonus. There is no bonus for the producer, but as the buyer receives a certain sum it enables him to give a better price for the animal. To get this bonus an animal must be eight months old, but arrangements can be made for inspecting younger calves, which will be graded, and subject to the bonus given for particular grade. There is no fee for inspection for members of the advanced registry, but non-members are charged one dollar for inspection.

The speaker stated that while the plan was not yet complete, it would be discussed with an executive committee composed of one member from each of the associations of pure-bred cattle breeders at Toronto on February 22.

Walter H. Smith, of the Department of Agriculture, Brighton, also addressed the meeting, outlining the aims of the Northumberland Live Stock Improvement Association.

After the address of the afternoon a judging class was held, there being four classes, dry cows ,cows in milk, and three-year-old heifers, and a championship class of females of all ages. A vote of thanks was tendered Messrs. Hume & Son for their kindness and hospitality.

Operations Investigated

In speaking to the amendment to the Collection Agencies Act, the Attorney-General stated that during the past year certain features of the operation of some companies had been investigated by the police and Crown Attorneys. The Attorney-General cited instances in which he stated action had been taken.

"Some of us have had personal experiences" interposed Hon. H. C. Nixon, Progressive Leader, with a smile.

"Then all should support this bill" returned the Attorney-General.

In view of such tactics, it was thought better that all such companies should be licensed, he said. The fee was put a nominal one of $2, excepting to those companies outside, with head offices outside the Dominion of Canada, the fee for which would be $50.

Another important bill to be given its second reading was that concerning the Deserted Wives' and Children's Maintenance Act. "Judges of the Juvenile Courts and Domestic Relations Courts have been finding difficulties in defining what constitutes cruelty," commented the Attorney-General, explaining that the present act provided that a wife should be deemed deserted if she left her home because of cruelty.

"What Is Cruelty?"

"I have had letter from all over the Province about this. The question is 'What is cruelty?' A great number of decisions have been made, and it takes up much of the time of courts in defining it. This bill is to help those who are examining such cases," he explained.

"Would the passing of this bill affect the working of the Mothers' Allowances Act? Would it not widen its scope?" questioned D. J. Taylor, Progressive, Grey North.

"I do not think it would affect it at all," replied Colonel Price.

Colonel Price stated that the amendment to the Bills of Sale and Chattel Mortgages Act was to allow the County and District Judges to exercise the same powers with respect to the registration of renewal statements as they had in connection with the registering of chattel mortgages. This would allow a longer period of time for the filing of the registration, he said.

"I suppose there is no harm in the legislation, but there is not the same emergency in connection with renewals as there is with chattel mortgages," interposed W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal House Leader. But he did not oppose the bill's second reading.

Obituary

JAMES E. BOLAND

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Feb. 23.—The funeral of the late James Emmett Boland was held on Monday morning from the family residence in Asphodel Township to our Lady of Monte Carmel Roman Catholic Church, when requiem high mass was sung by Rev. Father P. J. Kelley. The very large number who attended the funeral showed the esteem in which the deceased was held by a wide circle of friends made during his short time in this life.

The deceased was born in the Township of Asphodel where he spent his very short life of twenty-one years.

There are left to mourn his loss his father, John E. Boland, one sister, Miss Kathryn, his grandmother, who is seriously ill at the present time, an uncle, Thomas Boland, an aunt, Mrs. David Garvey, all of Asphodel Township.

The bearers, all young friends of the deceased, were Clayton Breckenridge, Lawrence Doherty, A. Heffernan, Wm. Heffernan, Gus Boland and Ormond McCarthy.

Interment was made in Our Lady of Monte Carmel cemetery.

MRS. JAMES H. KINLOCH.

MADOC, February 23 (Examiner Correspondence). — On Sunday, February 12, the death occurred of a beloved neighbor in the person of Effie Milligan, wife of James H. Kinloch, of Madoc Village.

Mrs. Kinloch was the eldest daughter of John and Anne Milligan ,and was born in Tyendinaga Township, where she lived in her younger days. She had lived in Madoc for the past thirty-five years. She was an active member of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, an enthusiastic worker in whatever she found to do in church or community. She had been confined to her home for the past six years with a lingering illness, and through all that time she was bright, patient, and kind, though suffering an incurable affliction. Like many other wonderful mothers, she gave a son to the country in the Great War, and Frank Kinloch, beloved by all, lies in France.

Besides her husband, she leaves three sons and two daughters to mourn her loss, also one brother, Blake Milligan of Owen Sound. The sons are: Donald of Oshawa, Robert of Sudbury, and Bert at home; the daughters: Lena, Mrs. H. Carter of Belleville, and Olive, Mrs. O. Wilson of Madoc.

The many floral tributes spoke of the kind, sympathetic feeling of the community. They also showed their respect and love in the large numbers present at the funeral, which was held on Tuesday, February 14, at 3 p.m., at her late residence.

Th efuneral service was conducted by her pastor, Rev. Bertram Nelles. The pall-bearers were Charles and Walter Whytock, Duncan McKenzie, George West, Fred Curry ,and John Barton.

MRS. G. A. WEBBER

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 23.—Susan Elizabeth McInnis, beloved wife of George A. Webber of Campbellford died on Tuesday in the Kingston General Hospital, after a very brief illness. She was in her 54th year. Born in Glasgow, Scotland, she came to Canada fifty years ago, settling with her parents in Prince Edward County.

The late Mrs. Webber was a Baptist in religion and a member of the L.O.B.A. in which organization she heldoffice. Surviving are her husband and two sons, Clifford of Toronto and Roy of Picton.

The funeral will be held from the late family residence, Rear street, Campbellford, on Friday afternoon with interment being made at Picton. The officiating minister will be the Rev. L. M. Smith of Campbellford Baptist church.

MRS. JOHN A. MEIKLEJOHN

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 24. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — One of the pioneers of the district and a person who was beloved of all who knew her, Mary Ann Morton, beloved wife of John A. Meiklejohn, passed quietly away at her Campbellford home yesterday afternoon. She was aged 78 years. Born in the Township of Rawdon on July 18, 1856, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Morton, she married John A. Meiklejohn on October 10, 1882 and until ten years ago resided on the Rawdon farm, when the family moved to Campbellford where they have lived ever since. A staunch member of the United Church, and one who held the admiration and esteem of a wide circle of friends, the late Mrs. Meiklejohn is the last member of a family of nine. Surviving are her husband and four daughters, Mrs. John S. McKeown, Mrs. Fred Barnum, Mrs. Percy Oddie of Seymour Township and Miss Emma Meiklejohn at home.

The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon, leaving the Campbellford home at 2 p.m. after a short service for Rylstone Church where service will be held, interment being made in Rylstone cemetery. The officiating minister will be the Rev. F. G. MacTavish of the Seymour United Church charge.

MRS. HARRIET COX.

LAKEFIELD, February 23 (Examiner Correspondence). — Harriet S. Lukey, widow of Solomon J. Cox, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James Morgan, in Douro Township, yesterday. The deceased was 81 years of age, and had been a life-long resident of Lakefield and district.

The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late residence, Lot 20, Concession 3, Douro, with interment in Lakefield Cemetery. Rev. W. R. Archer will officiate.

Simple Remedy For Bad Stomach Gives Swift Relief

No Need of Strong Medicines or Diet. Safe and Simple Recipe Keeps Stomach in Fine Condition.

If you are a victim of Stomach Trouble—Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this simple advice.

Don't take strong medicines, artificial digestants or pull down your system with starvation diets. For within reason most folks may eat what they like if they will keep their stomach free from souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion.

And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with a teaspoonful of Bisurated Magnesia —a pleasant, harmless, inexpensive prescription that promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A week's trial of Bisurated Magnesia, which any good druggist can supply, should quickly convince you that 90 per cent. of ordinary stomach distress is absolutely unnecessary. Be sure to get Bisurated Magnesia.

Put more SUNSHINE days on your calendar

How many days in the month do you feel your best? You can add to these sunshine days by simply obeying nature's laws.

The first of these laws is regular elimination. Avoid common constipation by eating a delicious cereal.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help aid regularity. ALL-BRAN also contains twice the iron of an equal weight of beef liver.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much more pleasant than pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. Directions on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Why You should INSIST on BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE for Coughs Colds Flu Bronchitis Asthma

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1933

THE DEPARTMENT CAN HELP.

With a great deal of what Mr. Sinclair said in the Legislature the other day in regard to the expensive regulations imposed by the Ontario Department of Education, The Examiner is thoroughly in sympathy.

The standards insisted upon by the Ontario department has to a considerable degree been responsible for the rapid increase in the cost of education; school boards as a result of the provincial policy have been encouraged, to an extent at least compelled, to make huge outlays on educational facilities, the cost of which is under present conditions an onerous burden upon the taxpayers.

While this period of depression is being battled with, there might well be a relaxation of provincial regulations so that local boards of education will not have any excuse for not sharply reducing their expenditures.

Mr. Sinclair has contributed a real service in pointing out the existing situation, and while his amendment as a political move is, of course, doomed to be snowed under should a division occur, it may be that his protest will have some effect upon the Government, and that out of the discussion a certain measure of relief will be afforded.

The Ontario department has in its power to materially improve conditions so far as municipal school authorities are concerned.

COMPULSORY VOTING.

It is not likely Mr. Sinclair's bill to make voting in Ontario compulsory will gain a great deal of support either in or out of the Legislature, but at least his introduction of the measure will open the way to an interesting discussion which is doubtless all the Liberal House leader had in mind when he introduced the legislation.

Briefly, Mr. Sinclair's proposal is that every qualified voter who does not use his franchise at a provincial election shall be fined $20 and deprived for seven years of his right to vote, unless a bona fide reason, such as illness, accident, etc., can be shown for the failure to go to the polls.

While compulsory voting has given satisfaction in Australia, and while there is undoubtedly a comparatively large section of the electorate in this country that is neglectful of its responsibility, The Examiner is doubtful of the value of the plan if applied to Ontario.

It seems to us that while the indifference of a good many electors is deplorable and political parties are subject to much unnecessary expense in getting voters to use their franchise, that little would really be gained in the way of an intelligent expression of public opinion by the use of compulsion.

The votes of people who have to be compelled by law to mark their ballots would not be of much value in deciding the fate of governments, or of the important issues that from time to time come before the electorate.

THE JIG-SAW CRAZE.

"Pigs may be close to the 3-cent mark and the relief line in the cities may extend a little more, but the jig-saw yearning must be appeased. Strange, isn't it?" comments the Stratford Beacon-Herald in an editorial on the picture puzzle fad that has been taking the whole continent by storm.

The development of this craze that has peculiary enough originated in a period of deep depression is indeed difficult to explain.

These jig-saw puzzles are on sale everywhere and are in increasing demand, while factories which because of the conditions could not find enough orders in their usual line of business to keep their employees busy, are now working overtime, one London firm employing 450 people to turn out some 30,000 puzzles every day. Then, of course, the lithographers and the box-makers are getting their share of this suddenly launched new business which a traveller, quoted by the Stratford paper, declares amounts to a million and a half dollars every month in Canada, and shows no signs of immediately falling off.

It is indeed strange at a time when thousands are on relief, when tax collections are falling into arrears, when most people are getting along on reduced incomes and business generally is at a low ebb, that a fad should come along and sweep the country, and that there should be enough loose money available to make this new amusement device a source of great profit to those fortunate enough to get in on the ground floor.

If it had been toy balloons for inflationists to practice on the thing would have been much easier to understand.

SIR MALCOLM'S TRIUMPH.

Sir Malcolm Campbell, the veteran British driver who already had the distinction of having travelled over land faster than any other individual in the world, yesterday piloted his famous British-made and British-engined Blue Bird over the hard-packed sands of a Florida beach to a new record—one that is likely to stand for some time unless the intrepid Campbell himself betters it.

The British racing driver, whose courage and skill have once more been convincingly demonstrated, attained the amazing speed of a fraction over 272 miles an hour, his machine hurtling over the sand at a rate of over 18 miles an hour faster than it recorded a year ago.

It is difficult for the layman to comprehend such speed, to realize what it means to eat up space at the rate of better than 4½ miles a minute.

Peterborough people might perhaps get a fair idea by appreciating the fact that moving at that speed Sir Malcolm Campbell's machine would travel from Peterborough to Chemong in less than 90 seconds, and would cover the distance between Peterborough and Lakefield in a fraction over two minutes.

The triumph of this fearless Briton will be appreciated all over the Empire, and satisfaction at his success will be only exceeded by joy over the fact that Sir Malcolm has come safely through this truly terrible test; the feeling is general that he should rest on his laurels and cease putting his life in jeopardy in undertaking such terrific speed.

HEAVY ARREARS IN CIVIC TAXES.

(From the Sarnia Canadian-Observer)

Statistics from a number of cities in southern and central Ontario show that Sarnia has carried on its unemployment relief project in a capable manner compared with other communities of somewhat similar size. Of the eight cities from which the figures were available Sarnia had the second lowest outlay on relief in 1932 and all reports would indicate that there was fair treatment of those requiring assistance.

Sarnia expended $65,000 on relief in 1932. Guelph was lower, with $61,837. Actually these cities spent one-third of these amounts, as Governments provide two-thirds of the actual outlays.

Sarnia expended $65,500 on relief in 1932. Guelph the matter of arrears of taxes as compared with other cities. There was $400,000 in arrears of taxes in 1932. Peculiarly, Guelph, the city which had the next best record to Sarnia in the outlay for relief purposes, is the only one with a larger total of tax arrears. While Kitchener, Peterborough, Sault Ste. Marie, Galt, St. Thomas and Stratford all spent more on relief, they have less formidable tax arrears and the difference is so notable that there ought to be some explanation for it which has not yet been put forward by the local civic government.

The tax arrears figures are foundation for uneasiness. More than likely they will increase rapidly in the future. If these other communities can collect their taxes more effectively than is possible here we should know the procedure accounting for that. It is not in the best interests of the community that considerable amounts of tax arrears should be permitted to accumulate.

Some thought ought to be given a plan whereby municipal taxes would be paid in monthly instalments as are the charges for gas and electrical services. Such a scheme would be less burdensome than the existing annual or semi-annual levy and it would have the additional advantage of providing a steady inflow of cash to the civic treasury.

A LINK WITH MOWAT.

The life-work of the late Clarence A. Bell did not carry him along paths which lead to glittering renown or the illusory rewards of wealth. Yet the assistant registrar of the Supreme Court of Ontario, who has been taken by death in his sixty-fourth year, leaves behind him a record of achievement in his own modest sphere which stamps him as a kinsman of the Master Builders.

Son of a pioneer physician at Lakefield, Clarence Bell entered the service of the province in the days of the Mowat premiership as a clerk in the Department of the Attorney-General. Horse-and-buggy days those—but spacious days in which the traveler's vision was not restricted to a strip of asphalt. Moving to Osgoode, Mr. Bell brought to his tasks powers of observation and a sense of social obligation which quickly met all the routine demands of musty filing cases—then turned to wider fields of interest. Bench and Bar of the province are keenly aware of their indebtedness to him. Years ago he undertook the work of issuing the "Circuit Guide," with its first-aid data for judges and lawyers.

Anglicans, also, all over the province will hold in grateful remembrance the help lent by Mr. Bell in the upbuilding of newer and weaker congregations. In fraternal society circles he was widely known, and his services as a high court officer of the Independent Order of Foresters demanded many years of constructive effort.

But Mr. Bell was essentially an "outdoors man." Cricketers are heavily in his debt for services rendered in earlier years as captain of the Rosedales and for an always generous support. Every summer found him at his Stoney Lake cottage, and to the end he retained his skill as a canoeist, gained as a native son of Lakefield, home of champion paddlers—Reg. Blomfield, Norman Bell, the Ridpaths, and others. Among the earliest Kawartha cottagers, Mr. Bell prepared the first complete map of the Stoney Lake area.

On Thursday, Mr. Bell's father, Dr. Alexander Bell, a Fenian Raid veteran and the oldest living graduate of Queen's Medical School, will reach his eighty-ninth birthday at his home in Toronto. Sharing with him the memories of his stressful years as a country doctor and pioneer health officer, is Mrs. Bell, who is eighty-eight.

For two generations the family has served Ontario well, and to these worthy parents of a worthy son an expression of the community's gratitude as well as of its deep sympathy will go out in this distressing hour.—Globe (Wednesday).

THE TUTTS By CRAWFORD YOUNG

Little Girl Lost

By Temple Bailey

READ THIS FIRST:

Araminta Williams, 20 and beautiful, is faced with the problem of three step-sisters who are not so attractive and on whom she and her mother and father are dependent. She decides that the only way out is to marry and decides on Barney Tyson, who is madly in love with her.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 2

In the midst of the argument the dinner gong had sounded, and they had gone down to find Nicky in flannels at one end of the table, and Mary in a stay-at-home chiffon at the other; and the three older girls sat at the sides, in gowns that showed their backs to the vanishing point, and with their bobbed heads fresh from finger waves. And Helen was in white, and Leontine in green, and Iris in the faint lavender she affected because of her name. For Araminta and her sisters were going on later to an officer's hop at Annapolis, and three men were coming for them in two cars at nine. And in one of the cars would be Leontine and Helen and Iris, with two of the men, and with another to meet them at Annapolis, and in the other would go Araminta and Barney. And it was because Barney happened to be the man nearest at hand that night that Araminta decided to marry him!

It was of course a most inadequate reason for matrimony. All through the ages men and women have married because of propinquity, but Araminta had always hated things like that. To her marriage was a sacrament, for in spite of the effect she gave of thistledown lightmindedness she had a simple faith which saved her from shallowness.

But here was Barney to her hand. And she liked him. Perhaps she might have loved him if it had not been for Janney Breckinridge. But Janney was out of the picture. And so there remained—Barney. Barney, with his crisp gold locks, with his lithe figure, his facile wit, his dancing feet, his dancing eyes. Barney, who loved her, and who had asked her over and over again to marry him, not knowing that two years ago, she had put marriage out of her life—forever!

But that was another story, and so, sitting beside Leontine at dinner, Araminta had felt that Barney was as a sail to a shipwrecked mariner, the shadow of a rock in a blazing desert, a life-line thrown. . . . Yes, Barney was the man who could save her from being banished to Europe and from the thousand humiliations which came from her dependence upon her stepsisters.

Not a sign had she shown outwardly as she sat there at dinner of the blow which had been dealt her. She had been, apparently, serene—with her bright hair gathered in feathery curls on top of her head, in that distractingly becoming new fashion, with her skin as white as milk, for she had sun-tan and would have none of it, with her eyes gray, with a slight blue-greenness which darkened in moments of emotion to black, with her lips red without lipstick and with her cheeks rosy without rouge, and with Leontine's last year's pink sheathing her slim body according to the latest mode, and with not a jewel on her but a pair of old pearl clasps which caught the lace across the silver snow of her shoulders and a pearl ring which had belonged to the grandmother who had been the toast of two counties.

She was absolutely in the revived fashion of the eighties;—the fashion which had swept down suddenly upon the flappers in sports' clothes and had left them stripped of their charm. Araminta was enchantingly feminine, and linked by that femininity to the honey-pot of a grandmother rather than to her stepsisters, or, indeed, to her mother.

Her grandmother had been Nicky's mother. And Nicky was the son of a Bishop. But that was as far as it went. For the Bishop had no money, and neithe had Nicky's mother, who was dead, and Nicky, inheriting her beauty had been content to pass it on to Araminta, and to pain: it in th pictures which did not sell.

But if Nicky had no money, Barney had it. Loads of it. And if she married him, Araminta would have the world before her. A house of her own—two houses—three if you counted the camp in Maine. And Iris would have her chance. And Helen. And Leontine. And they would all feel much better about it—for wasn't there really some truth in what Leontine had said, that four unmarried women under one roof was—"indecent"?

So in spite of her tumbling thoughts, Araminta had eaten a very good dinner. Mary had had the same cook for 25 years, hence the six of them were served with food for the gods—shad fresh from the Potomac, planked and with its own roe in crisp crescents about it; asparagus from a great bed in the garden; strawberries straight from the vines.

Coffee was served on the wide porch, and they had gone out to drink it, all but Araminta who had left them to telephone Barney. "How soon can you come over?"

"Right away? Why?"

"I'll tell you when I see you."

"Look for me in 20 minutes."

And there had been no doubt in her mind that he would make it, at 60 miles an hour in his long, gray, fearfully expensive car.

So she had gone back to the family, and had stood in the doorway which led to the wide porch, and they had all stopped talking and looked at her. For standing there, sheathed in her shimmering pink, with the silver snow of her neck and arms against the ground of shadows, Araminta had been a sight to stir the heart, and Nicky had said, after a moment, "By jinks, I'll paint you in that, Minta, tomorrow."

But Araminta had known he would not paint her. For tomorrow she would be married to Barney. So she had smiled at her father, and had patted him on the head, for say what you would, Nicky was a sweet thing, and wanted them all to be happy. And when Barney arrived, Araminta had welcomed him with a faint smile, and not in the least as if she were welcoming her future husband. And she had taken him away for a walk, and Leontine's eyes had followed them, and she had said to her jealous heart, "She doesn't love him now. But she may at any moment." For it seemed incredible to Leontine that anyone could resist Barney. She had loved him for years. She was 26 and he was a year younger, and their childhood had been spent together. Then Barney had gone away, and now he was back again and quite mad about Araminta, who was 19, and not the least in love with him.

And the thing Leontine did not know was that what Barney had felt for any other woman was as milk and water compared to the strong wine of his passion for Araminta. The best that Barney had to give of manhood and strength and tenderness was for the child in Leontine's made-over pink dress, who now walked beside him in the garden. He wanted to protect and shield her, not merely to love her, to possess her. There was, indeed, a spiritual quality about his love for Araminta which shook his heart.

They had walked through the garden towards a little hill, which overlooked the Chesapeake, and was topped by a small pavilion. And the garden as they had passed through it was dim with twilight, and the sky when they came to the little house was a clear green pricked through with bright stars. Beyond the summer house was a rustic seat and a rustic table, and Araminta, sitting on the table and swinging a glistening toe, had said: "I don't quite know how to begin. . . ."

"Why not?"

"Well—"

"Go on. . . ."

But Araminta had found it hard to go on. The easy give and take of modern conversation, its staccato style, its abbreviations were a part of her social equipment. But for once her ready tongue had failed her. Barney's golden, glowing youth, had seemed to her for the first time, formidable.

"Go on . . ." he had urged, standing beside the table.

"Well—I'm trying to ask you — to marry me. . . . Barney!"

She had been a little frightened at the storminess of his response. Yet it had been—wonderful. He had lifted her from the table, laughing—and his laughter had been triumphant — as young Lochinvar might have laughed, lifting his lady lightly to the saddle! Or Paris stealing away with Helen!

GREATER SAVING NEEDED.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—The ratepayers of the city should be grateful to the Aldermen who have the courage to express and advocate, with no uncertain sound, that for which they were elected to do, to have the people's money spent judiciously with efficiency and economy, and to put into practice that which is so long overdue.

We want action at once where it is needed, regardless of sentiment, and to be consistent, to the fullest in every detail, not in the hospital alone, but everywhere. The keeping of all Departments with full staffs at the present high salaries, when so many are unemployed, and the cost of living so much reduced, cannot be tolerated any longer. It is hoped that when a tax collector is required, that applications will be called for to fill it.

Those private 'phones that are paid for by the city for employees should be eliminated.

There must be a greater saving in all Departments of the City service, salaries included, with adjustments which are absolutely necessary. There should not be some Departments over-staffed, and others not enough.

Here is a true story from an eye-witness: Last Fall a number of men were engaged gathering the dry leaves of the streets in our City. Some were using pitchforks and loading them into dump wagons, to which was attached a span of heavy draft horses, with a driver. Then after having succeeded in getting a bulky load of about a couple of hundred pounds, would drive a mile to the incinerator to dump them. Then about a month later they would return for the remainder, and repeat the operation, which was done much easier, because the leaves were wet.

This surely is not technocracy, as we are told to-day. Maybe the City Engineer or the chairman of the Board of Works, can give the proper definition. I think I can. It is wilful waste of the people's money, no matter if it was charged up to the Government as relief. We had to pay just the same.

Why should one of the men at the Sewage Disposal Plant get a $300 increase in salary? He had $1,500 in salary, and glad to get it when the cost of living and salaries were at the highest. It costs over $8,000 per year to operate this plant.

More Waste.

It is a waste of the people's money to pay a salary of $1800 a year to a man to oversee loads of wood leave the city yard to be delivered to the needy of our city. This job should be given to an unemployed man who is in need.

With these few remarks, I thank you. Yours, etc.,

(Signed) A CLOSE OBSERVER.

THE GREAT DEPRESSION

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear sir:

Would you please, kindly publish the enclosed views of a farmer subscriber to your paper, the following on "The Great Depression."

Its Causes and Its Cure

1. Causes of the Great Depression: War and war profits and war debts; protective tariffs, embargos, anti-dumping laws and trade restrictions, etc.; hoarding of gold by nations; watered stock in manufacturing concerns and mining companies; over-capitalization of national railways; high taxes both visible and invisible; expenditure on liquor, drugs, tobacco and soft drinks, etc.; sales tax on necessities instead of tax on luxuries; high freight rates; high cost of education, especially in salaries, which should be cut in half; as well as other professional salaries; to bring them in line with basic industries; high rents; high interest rates, hoarding of money; excessive public borrowing; gambling, betting and lotteries; professional sport, idleness of the rich; low prices of all basic products, as agricultural, forest products, fishing products and mining output, except gold, oil, gasoline, and salt; high insurance; excessive advertising; high prices of manufactured goods and high profits in manufacturing; small families or none, diminishing the market for all goods at home.

2. Remedies for the Depression: Cancellation of war debts and disarmament; abolish protective tariffs; get rid of all watered stock; enforce moderate dividends to say 10 per cent per year; lessen taxes except on luxuries and high incomes; lower interest rates; lower freight rates; lessen salaries in all lines and occupations; lower cost of education; abolish sales tax; increase tax on luxuries and high incomes, of say $5,000 a year and above; borrow less; lower insurance rates; abolish beverage use of liquor and improper use of drugs and tax use of tobacco and soft drinks and places of amusement, high; tax land values, but not improvements; so as to bring idle land and land held for speculation into use by the public; abolish gambling, lotteries, betting, Sunday sport, etc.; quit duplicating railway lines and highways; united both great railways, C.P.R. and C.N.R. under government control, not private control; uniform power rates for electric power in rural and urban localities, or flat rate as in postal rates; lower postal rate; tariff for revenue only; lower rents; found a national bank as in Britain, France, Germany and United States, to control inflation or deflation, as the needs of industry require, to stabilize price of basic products such as of agriculture, forestry, fishing and mining; buy from countries that buy our products, and so open up markets in foreign countries and not as we have been doing in the past, that is: selling about twice as much to Britain as we bought from her, and buying about twice as much from from United States as they bought from us, making an adverse balance of trade against us by the United States and now we are paying the United States vast sums in interest on borrowings there, at a very injurious rate of exchange; that together probably more than offsets all we get from the tourist trade in our country; abolish the gold standard which has been found so signally wanting in the past few years and equalize our exchange with the Mother Country to promote trade with Her, our best customer; lower the interest rates on Victory Bonds from the present rate to the 3½ per cent rate adopted by Britain by a large National Conversion Loan, either voluntary or cumpulsory and tax all tax-free bonds in future.

Make 6 per cent interest the highest legal rate for banks; and 5 per cent the highest legal rate for all mortgages, in future and 4 per cent for debentures from now on. If something radical is not done soon the rulers of this country do not prove equal to the situation and do not take to heart the many warnings from great statesmen and economists all over the world, and do not bestir themselves to remedy the terrible conditions now prevailing (in agriculture, labor, forestry, fisheries and mining), as quickly as possible, I fear that ruin will soon overtake our country, morally and mentally, as well as materially.

When a man piles up millions of money, it usually proves a curse to himself and his family as well as to the victims of his greed.

Increase our postal facilities with Britain and the Empire, and curb the flood of American magazines and Sunday papers into this country.

To Cure Unemployment: In Winter clear up waste land or poor land, and eventually use publicly owned forests to help pay cost of government in our country and in summer use unemployed to fight fire and to construct drainage works and in autumn, build roads where needed. Let the country, and all countries begin to follow the Golden Rule and to do unto others as we would like to be done by, or follow the Ten Comandments given by God to man; we would soon see such prosperity in this splendid country of vast natural resources such as would surprise the most sanguine and optimistic among us.

If the wealth of this country were rightly managed, there would be work and comfort for all; but the work would need to be shared, as well as the comfort, because God's Word says that if any would not work, neither should he eat, and that everyone shall be rewarded according to his works. Let us one and all help to hasten the day when righteousness shall cover the earth as the waters cover the sea; and then no one shall want food or clothing or comfort.

Yours respectfully,
Central Ontario Farmer,
Peterborough County.

HON. THOMAS AHEARN, P.C.
Ottawa, Industrialist, Engineer

This is the signature of a top notch man, big in himself, big in everything he does. He has all round ability, powered by great vitality, resolution and decisiveness. He is decidedly dynamic. The above signature reproduced above are of remarkable strength in view of the age of this man (born 1855). His handwriting shows a capability of range beyond the capacity of the majority of younger men. But his wrath, althoug violent, is slow to come and quick to depart. He places a high value on manliness generally, on sportsmanship, whether in man or woman. Lack of character in others provokes him to anger when nothing else will. He himself has the pioneer qualities of robust vigor, endurance, fearlessnes, together with foresight and enterprise. He is loyal to tradition, but always open for the new thing. Although he is stern, he is at heart romantic and sentimental. He does consider that he has made at least a fair job of himself and of his undertakings, but essentially he is too well balanced to be seriously vain. The harmony, grace and charm which characterize the general formation of this signature are surprising and pleasing in the case of so forceful a personality.

"Oh, darling," says the girl in Hemingway's "Farewell to Arms", "I'm awfully glad you're not conceited. I'd have married you even if you were conceited, but it's very restful to have a husband who's not conceited."

He HAD been conceited, you know....Well, not exactly conceited, but he'd gone his own way and done as he pleased and had never had the slightest intention of falling in love with anybody, or marrying her, either....But now he'd fallen in love, and he wasn't like that any more. He was at rest now, and seeking anything he did not have. Not worried, not driven. The two of them were enough for each other and they were happy together. Afterwards he said:

"Often a man wishes to be alone and a girl wishes to be alone, too, and if they love each other they are jealous of that in each other, but I can truly say we never felt like that. We could feel alone when we were together, alone against the others. It had only happened to me like that once. I have been alone while I was with many girls, and that is the way you can be most lonely. But we were never lonely and never afraid when we were together."

So they were truly married, those two. Even if he had been conceited she would have loved him just as she did. But she liked him best without conceit....Any wife would, I think....Sometimes a man is arrogant with other people, but not with his wife. Sometimes he's arrogant toward everybody, including her. And that must hurt. She wants him to be strong and unafraid toward the world and toward the things that happen in it—toward the thing we sometimes call Life (with a capital "L")—but let that be the end of it.

If she's happiest only when he's there and knows that's the happiest time for him, too, that's really marriage and a deep and wonderful blessing.

A woman will forgive many faults if a man is like that. She doesn't want him weak or soft. She wants him independent (those maternal marriages are never as satisfactory as they sometimes seem; they are really a pathetic compromise, and any normal woman knows they are) But she wants the two of them to be living TOGETHER and never lonely as long as the other is there ....That's the good marriage. And it's the only one that lasts.

And I'm thinking, too, there are quite a few people in this world who would envy the man and woman in Hemingway's book.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

THE FIRST AIR FLIGHT IN CANADA

On this date, in 1909, the first air flight was made in Canada. J. A. D. McCurdy at Baddeck, Cape Breton, pulled out his plane, the Silver Dart, on to the ice of the bay, climbed in, and took off for a flight of half a mile, the first time any Canadian had taken to the air in Canada.

The feat was the sequel to a number of experiments which had been carried on for some months by the Aerial Experiment Association, composed of Dr. Alexander Graham Bell (the inventor of the telephone), Lieut. Thomas Selfridge (who was killed in a crash at Washington, D.C., and after whom the United States flying field at Mount Clemens, Mich., was named) Glen H. Curtiss, J. A. D. McCurdy and F. W. "Casey" Baldwin. Not only was McCurdy's flight the first in Canada, but it was the first in a Canadian plane made from his own plans. The Baddeck town council presented Dr. Bell and McCurdy (styled "the bold aviator") with engraved testimonials.

In a second trial at Baddeck McCurdy flew a distance of 4½ miles, making a circle of the bay, and a few days later made the Silver Dart complete a figure 8, the first man in the world to do so. Two years of barn-storming in the States followed, including the sending of the first wireless message from an airship, and a flight from Key West to Havana for a $10,000 prize, which he never received, the slick promoter giving him an envelope just as he pulled off, supposed to contain the cheque, but which when opened had only a sliver cut from a newspaper. McCurdy chased the chap for years, but never got his money!

On his first visit to Toronto in 1911 McCurdy crashed down on an island in the bay just a few yards from a summer cottage where a wedding was in progress. The wedding party made him welcome and he added to his laurels of being the first Canadian aviator to reach a wedding, even if uninvited, by air!

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 23.— (C.P.) — Light selling pressure, together with lack of export and weak overseas markets, sent wheat prices fractionally lower in early trading on the grain market here to-day. Trading generally was dull.

At mid-session, wheat futures were ¼-⅝ cent off, May at 48⅛; July 49 3-8 and October 50 5-8.

Bulk of the fferings came from elevator interests and local operators, with the latter selling apparently in the nature of profit-taking.

Liverpool wheat opened lower due to a disappointing demand for wheat and quotations in the closing stages of the English market were ¼d to ⅜d lower. Buenos Aires wheat at noon was unchanged to 1-8c higher.

Clearaces of wheat from Black Sea ports for the past week totalled only 56,000 bushels, all of which was of Russian origin. Argentine shipments for the week are estimated at 4,250,000 bushels.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Feb. 23. — (CP) — Stocks worked into a lower level on the Toronto Stock Exchange today, persistent selling of some of the leaders following the line of operations in the New York market. C.P.R., Brazilian and Dominion Stores bore the brunt of the pressure locally. The close was slightly up from the day's bottom range.

Bell Telephone lost some of the buoyancy that marked its course over the two previous days dropping two points to 83 today. The cutting of the dividend was the influence in causing the sell down.

In the interlisted section C.P.R. fell back to 9⅝ and closed at 9⅝ for a ⅝ drop. Brazilian hit 7¼, a new low but regained a fraction while Nickel lost ⅛ and Ford held unchanged.

After holding strong through the day, oil shares weakened in the late trading, International Pete losing ¼ and B. A. Oil ⅛.

STANDARD EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, Feb. 23.— (C.P.) — Although the standard mining market sold down to-day, offerings were readily taken at the lower level and the price range firmed before the close. With exception of Noranda, the base metal stocks held better than the gold shares.

Affected by weakness in the New York market, inter-listed stocks slipped back early in the day and then held firm at the new level. Lake Shore and McIntyre lost 75 each, Dome 50, Teck Hughes about 7 and Wright Hargreaves 5. Pioneer was strong all day and closed with a gain of 10.

In the base metal group Nickel maintained the best tone, losing only about 20, while Noranda was off 75. In the silver group Eldorado lost 7.

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (A.P.). — Losses of one to more than two points were fairly general in the Stock Market to-day, most of the decline occurred during the noon hour and although trading was dull thereafter late prices were around the lows. Losses of two points or thereabouts were shown by Santa Fe, American Telephone, New York Central, American Can, Case, Union Pacific and Johns-Manville. United States Steel, American Tobacco "B," McKeesport, Montgomery Ward, Dupont and General Motors were off about a point. Sales approximated 1,300,000 shares.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, February 23 (C.P.). —Pressure against Canadian Pacific lifted somewhat in the late trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange to-day and the issue was able to cut a quarter of a point off its extreme loss. The rail declined at mid-day to a new low at 9¼, off ¾, met support in the last hour, and recovered to 9¾. It fell back in the last minute, however, to 9½ for a net loss of half a point. The stock was fairly active.

Losses dominated in the list as a whole, outnumbering gains 19 to 3. Brazilian closed at a new all-time low at 7¼, down ¼. International Nickel was off ¼ at 8⅜, while Consolidated Smelters conceded a point at 59.

In the utilities half-point declines were recorded by Montreal Power at 28½ and Shawinigan at 10. Bell Telephone was quiet following today's dividend reduction and dropped a point to 83½.

ONE ON THE CHIEF

BRANTFORD—Chief of Police Albert Burtch of Galt is busy today hunting for the sneak thief who siphoned the gasoline from his car. The chief attended the hockey game here last night between the Galt police and firemen and those of Brantford. He was travelling home when his car came to a stop and he found the gas had been siphoned. While the chief fretted and fumed, it was learned here other cars had been treated similarly.

CAUTION URGED NEW BRUNSWICK

TRADE OUTLOOK BETTER.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Feb. 23.—(CP)—Sounding a note of caution with reference to public undertakings under present conditions, Hon. Hugh H. McLean, lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick, opened the third session of the 17th legislative assembly of the province today.

The only indication in the speech from the throne regarding legislation to be introduced was the single sentence: "Various measures in amendment of the statute law of the province will be presented for your consideration."

Regarding the matter of transportation, the speech said the Maritime provinces had recently joined in a reference to the Supreme Court of Canada with respect to the Maritime Freight Rates Act, with a view to the retention for these provinces of certain preferential rates under the Act.

Beneficial effects of agreements made at the Imperial Economic Conference already had been felt, said the speech, "and, with a readjustment of exchange, the trade of this province should be greatly stimulated."

Careful Thinking Needed

Disturbed world-wide economic conditions had become greatly accentuated, it said. "While we may at this time look forward to the future with a greater degree of hope and confidence, the experience of the past and the uncertainties of the present situation call for the most careful thought and consideration in respect to all matters of public concern."

Efforts of the Dominion and Provincial Governments and municipalities to deal with the problem of unemployment and direct relief, were mentioned. "On the whole a full measure of co-operation has existed and generally our people have manifested a fine spirit of patience and fortitude under most trying circumstances," the speech said.

Clever Police Work Saves Innocent Man

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Feb. 23 (C.P.). — Clever work by mounted police prevented punishment of an innocent person to-day and brought conviction to Steve Ruisch, 19, Hungarian.

Police were informed by Ruisch that "moonshine" would be found in a car owned by L. Prest, Stamford Township. A half pint flask of "moonshine liquor" was found in the car, but Prest vehemently denied knowing anything about it.

The Mounties photographed fingerprints on the flask and found them to be those of Ruisch, who was arrested later. Ruisch admitted "planting" the liquor.

He was fined $200 to-day and sentenced to one month's imprisonment, and six months in default of payment. It was said he would later be deported.

Bell Dividend Is Reduced 1 Per Cent.

MONTREAL, Feb. 23. (CP)—The annual dividend of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada was to-day reduced from seven to six percent.

The cut was announced to shareholders at the annual meeting of the company by C. F. Sise, president, who said the quarterly dividend payable April 15 would be at a rate of one and one half percent.

At a special meeting the shareholders ratified issue of bonds to the amount of $30,000,000.

M. S. SZYMCZAK

Chicago's city comptroller, M. S. Szymczak, is temporarily filling the office of Mayor Anton J. Cermak. He is shown talking with the hospital at Mimai, Fla., inquiring about the condition of the Mayor, who was critically wounded by a bullet intended for President-elect Roosevelt.

HOPES IN SIGHT FOR RECIPROCAL TRADE

sent here by President-elect Franklin Roosevelt to discuss trade reciprocity between Canada and the United States. If Mr. Morganthau visited Ottawa recently on the mission indicated, the conference has been kept a close secret.

"No comment" was the brief statement from the prime minister's office when the despatch was drawn to official attention. As the Prime Minister, R. B. Bennett, is also Minister of External Affairs for Canada, he would be fully conversant with any such discussion, assuming that it has taken place.

Morgenthau Mum

ALBANY, N.Y., Feb. 23. (CP) Henry Morgenthau, Jr., of New York, who may become assistant secretary of agriculture when President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt assumes office March 4 today declined to comment on reports from Washington he had visited Ottawa recently.

The Washington report linked his trip to the Canadian capital with the present talk in the House of Commons of trade reciprocity between the Dominion and the United States.

Mr. Morgenthau said any information given out in connection with his visit must come from either Prime Minister R. B. Bennett or Mr. Roosevelt.

At Ottawa Mr. Bennett declined to discuss the visit as did Roosevelt here.

CAMPBELL ENDS HIS SPEED TESTS

and five kilometres were made from a flying start.

Will Return Next Year.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Sir Malcolm Campbell, daredevil driver who set a new automobile world speed record yesterday, said to-day that in all probability he would return next year in an effort to boost his land speed records still higher.

"I am confident my car has much more speed in it," he said, "and I would like to return next year and raise my records as high as possible."

In his trials yesterday, Sir Malcolm established new records from a flying start of 272.463 miles an hour over one kilometre; 272.188 over a mile and 257.295 over five kilometres. He also holds records of 242.751 for five miles and 236.669 for ten kilometres, which he established here last year.

Will Visit Toronto.

TORONTO, Feb. 23 (C.P.).—Sir Malcolm Campbell, who yesterday at Daytona Beach, Fla., drove his racing car to new speed records, has accepted the invitation of the Empire Club, in Toronto, to address the regular meeting of the club, Thursday, March 2. The acceptance was received this morning by Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, president of the club.

NO WITHDRAWAL RUNS FOLLOW RE-OPENING OF MICHIGAN BANKS

USUAL ROUTINE BUSINESS.

DETROIT, February 23 (C.P.). — Michigan's banks opened for restricted business to-day, some of them for the first time since Governor William A. Comstock's emergency closing order ten days ago.

Rudolph E. Reichert, State Banking Commissioner, said that most banks were doing business in the best possible way," and congratulated the State's bankers on their co-operation during the emergency. He said that most banks were cashing cheques that had not already been cleared, on the depository percentage basis laid down in the Governor's second proclamation issued on Tuesday.

Generally, the banks were following the plan under operation for the past week in Detroit, allowing depositors to withdraw five per cent. of their deposits. In Detroit at the opening hour there were no lineups outside the banks and few instances of unusual numbers of customers inside.

Good Advice

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 23 (C.P.)—"I don't know what your wife said to you, but I can imagine. It was probably as much punishment as you being kept in jail," Judge Joseph Wearing said to Edward Spence, Ealing butcher, in suspending sentence on him for one year for receiving stolen goods.

"You are not a criminal at all, but just plumb foolish," the Judge told the accused. "It is beyond me how any man in this country would pay a fair price for articles he knew were stolen."

Oil Fortune Heiress Killed In Car Crash

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 23 (A.P.)—Mrs. Daisy Canfield Moreno, oil fortune heiress and estranged wife of Antonio Moreno, film actor, was killed early to-day when an automobile plunged off a 300-foot embankment in the Hollywood foothills.

The wife of the actor was riding in an automobile with Rene H. Dussag, who, after the accident, climbed back to the highway and signalled passing motorists. He was injured slightly.

Mrs. Moreno was the daughter of the late Charles Canfield, multi-millionaire oil man of California. She was married to Moreno in 1923 and only a few weeks ago separated from her husband.

DIES OF INJURIES

LINDSAY.—Funeral services have been held for Daniel Morrow, 73, of Verulan, whose death followed injuries when a ram attacked him while he was at the barn on his farm.

His dog came to the rescue, but the aged man suffered internal injuries from which he died shortly after reaching the house.

LONDON, Feb. 23 (C.P. and A.P. Cable).—Brigadier-General Francis Conway Jenkins, who had served as director of aircraft parts and depots of the Air Ministry, died in a Windsor nursing home to-day, following an operation.

Brigadier-General Jenkins was one of the pioneer aviators of the United Kingdom. He was granted a flying certificate in 1911. He was a Brever-Major in 1916, a substantive Lieutenant-Colonel in 1917, and named an Honorary Brigadier-General in 1918. He also holds the honors of Commander St. Stanislaus of Russia and Commander Redeemer of Greece.

Brigadier-General Jenkins, who lived in St. Louis, Mo., for some time, was 45 years old.

FATHER VOWS VENGEANCE IF KIDNAPPED SON HURT

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 23.—(A.P.) —Claude K. Boettcher to-day vowed Vengeance upon the kidnappers of his sonfi Charles Boettcher, 2nd., if the 31 year old wealthy broker is harmed in their custody

"I will spend five times the $60,000 ransom or 10 times that sum to track them down if they harm one hair of my son's head," the multi-millionaire declared. A short time after it was learned a revolver had been ordered for him by his son's firm, Boettcher, Newton and Company.

The elder Boettcher, who Tuesday night made a futile effort to contact the kidnappers on a lonely road, was prevailed upon by police to take steps to protect himself from kidnapping or other harm.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHCIAGO, Feb. 23 (AP)—Wheat tended upward early to-day, influenced by Liverpool reports that Chinese and Japanese buyers had re-entered the market. Sharply advanced quotations on silver were an additional bullish factor. Opening unchanged to ¼ up, wheat later held near the initial limits. Corn started a shade to ⅝ off, and subsequently altered little.

Police Chief Proctor spoke favorably of the man and the case was remanded for a week in hope of conciliation.

ADVERTISING for the MERCHANT of TO-DAY

Conducted by HAROLD S. EDGAR

A series of weekly articles on advertising and merchandising prepared for the merchants of Peterborough district with the co-operation of The Peterborough Examiner.

MORE WEARING APPAREL ADVERTISING

Last week we spoke of the trend of fashions in textiles, whether in household furnishings or clothing for men, women and children, referring specially to those where the manufacturer places his name on the product as a guarantee for the quality, advertising it through the medium of newspapers, magazines and other channels, that the merchant may offer the goods with confidence.

This week we will cover some additional items not treated before. Men's wear sold in departments of the larger stores, but more generally in stores catering to the sterner sex.

HATS: It is not so many years ago since the only well-known brand was Christie's, made in England, and one or two others from the United States. There were many lines with fancy names and known as "Jobbers' Brands," but for the most part, a hat was a hat, and if ever it proved a good buy, you had no way of insuring getting the same quality again, but had to take pot luck most of the time. To-day we have Brock hats and Biltmore hats made in Canada, and advertised to the Canadian public. The Budd and Borsalino hats, imported, trade-marked, and advertised.

SHIRTS AND COLLARS: Canadian manufacturers are turning out a quality of men's shirts and collars that is not surpassed anywhere. Some of these plants are Canadian owned, while others are branch factories from across the line. Tooke, Eastern, Arrow and Forsyth are familiar brand names.

SUSPENDERS AND GARTERS: There has not been as much advertising for these two products as there might well be, and in consequence too many brands without name are sold on a basis of price. Dominion Suspender Company with their "President" suspenders was very early in the advertising field, and their inch or inch and a half advertisement with just two or three strong lines was a leader in advertising to men. Boston, Paris and King suspenders and garters are supported by a certain amount of advertising. Hickok belts also.

MEN'S SUITS: Fit-Reform and Semi-Ready initiated a merchant tailor service scientifically designed to fit the different types and figures, enabling the merchant to give a proper fitting service to the "Short-Stout" and "Tall-Slim," and the varying types between. In order to facilitate this fitting, the sleeves were only basted at the cuffs and the trousers at the bottom, so that sleeves and leg lengths could be fitted and then the garment completed. Fit-Reform was launched by E. A. Small & Co., an old established clothing firm, followed shortly after by the Semi-Ready Company. The franchise for these products was eagerly sought by merchants, and with this franchise went a carefully planed campaign of advertising support. Other manufacturers very quickly found that putting their name or trade-mark on the lapel and standing back of the product brought good business, and so we have Fashion-Craft, Society Brand and others competing for public favor. We also have the made-to-measure tailors with branch agencies in towns and cities, where, placing your order from a sample of material, your measurements are taken and the garment made up in huge merchant tailor establishments in one or other of our cities. Two of the made-to-measure tailors operating in this way are Tip Top Tailors and Hobberlin's.

SWEATERS AND KNITTED GARMENTS: These also we have in many lines well known and supported by advertising, among which we might mention Monarch-Knit, Knit-to-Fit, Ballantyne and Aberley.

BATHING SUITS: While Canada with most of her population away from ocean shores and with most of the inland waters waiting for July and August weather to warm up there is a considerable sale of knitted bathing suits of a style and quality that compares very favorably with those worn on the more crowded beaches of warmer climes. Jantzen, Klingtite and Regent.

UNDERWEAR: Outstanding lines dating back for a good many years are Stanfield's unshrinkable underwear and Penman's natural wool, which have been advertised in the papers for nearly the whole of this century. Stanfield's wrestling figures and Penman's triangle-quill trade-mark are familiar to nearly everyone. C. Turnbull & Company's "Ceetee" has also been made and advertised for a long period. Wolsey also, a British line, is a consistent advertiser. During latter years, Hatchway, B.V.D. and Zimmerknit.

MEN'S HOSE: There are not so many well-known lines trade-marked and advertised in this classification. Circle-Bar and Holeproof are the earliest trade-marked lines supported by advertising.

WORKING CLOTHES: Canada is a working country, and overalls and jumpers are necessary equipment of our mechanics and railroad operators, and even the white collar group usually have a set of the familiar blue outer garments hanging up somewhere in the garage, woodshed or cellar. Associate merchandise is working shirts and gloves; familiar names are Rock Island, Carhartt "Union Made," Deacon and Peabody.

Next Week—"Going Up."

Mr. Edgar will be glad to answer questions in this column, if readers will address their communications in care of this paper. Confidential replies can be arranged through the editor.—(Copyright).

GIRLS' DAY HELD BY SEYMOUR W.I.

Large Attendance At Annual Celebration By Seymour West Branch.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 23 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The annual Girl's Day celebrated by the Women's Institute of Seymour West on Thursday, last at the home of Mrs. Chas. Macoum proved an outstanding success, with an attendance of over fifty registered, many of whom were girls. Mrs. G. G. Stephens was the accompanist for the opening exercises and featured among the roll call were some very fine St. Valentine greetings.

The financial report, which was read at this meeting, shows the branch to be in a thriving condition financially. In making application for a departmental speaker for the summer series, it was thought that the possibility existed of co-operation with the Percy Branch of the W.I. and the meeting will probably be at the home of Mrs. Chas. Macoum in the early part of June.

A committee of the executive and anyone else who wishes to attend, was named to frame next year's program before the district meeting held some time in April. Any help or suggestions will be gratefully accepted by this committee.

Application is also being made for a three day course in "House Furnishing" in preference to nursing. This course will be held either in February or March. Food charts were distributed at this meeting and it is hoped that the ladies will fill these out and so check up on their diets. A letter was read from the Ontario Educational Association urging the members of the Institute to attend the meetings that are held from time to time.

Miss Elsie Russell took the chair for the following excellent program: Humorous reading "Antiques" Miss H. Watters; paper, "What the Institute has done for the rural girls, Miss Margaret Waddell; instrumental silos by Mrs. G. G. Stephens and Miss Dorothy Watters; violin solo, Clark McKelvie, accompanied by Mrs. Stephens with Mrs. McKelvie singing the chorus. Following the program a dainty lunch was served by the hostesses.

ANGLICAN SOCIETY HEARS 2 SPEAKERS

S. H. Neale And R. C. Ramsden Address A.Y.P.A. At Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 23 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Two speakers were featured at the regular meeting of the A.Y.P.A. of Christ Church, Campbellford, held in the Parish Hall on Monday evening, S. H. Neale and R. C. Ramsden both delivering interesting addresses to a very large gathering.

The evening was sponsored by the Literary Committee, and was under the chairmanship of the president, Rev. T. H. Floyd. Mr. Neale gave a very comprehensive talk on the Book of Kings, relative to the value of reading in which he stressed the need for the proper choice of good books and what and how to read, giving, in his own words, an outline of the two books of the Bible as a practical demonstration. Mr. Ramsden's talk was on insurance, in which he made a comparative study of bonds and premium policies, stressing the higher value and worth-whileness of the latter.

Business arrangements were made at this meeting for the last dance before Lent to be held on Friday evening in the Parish Hall, and Mary Smith was appointed to look after prizes. Joe Ellis will handle the soft drinks, and Mary Shaw was appointed convenor of the social committee in the place of Gertrude Horricks, who was appointed treasurer. At this dance, special novelty numbers will be featured. The meeting next Monday will take the form of a pancake social.

GROCERY VOUCHER RATE IS ARRANGED

Grocery Orders to be Dispensed to Percentage Basis According to Assessment.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 23 (Examiner Correspondence). — The regular meeting of the Council was held on Monday evening, with Reeve Tanner in the chair, and Councillors Hill, Botterill and Webster present. Messrs. J. H. Miles and W. Peacock requested lowering of the pool-room license, owing to loss of business.

Moved by Messrs. Botterill and Hill: "That the pool-room license be $25 in 1933 if paid before the end of February, otherwise the previous fee should be effective." Carried.

All the grocery firms were present by request and the question of giving vouchers on a percentage basis according to assessment was discussed with them.

Moved by Messrs. Hill and Botterill, and carried: "That merchants be notified that considering assessments of all property and business involved, that vouchers for groceries be dispensed on the following percentage basis: Spence and Son 30 per cent., Porter Co. 30 per cent., A. V. Hill 17 per cent., T. C. Yonge 13 per cent., Habooo Store 10 per cent., and that all vouchers in future be issued on this basis, irrespective of previous affiliations.

Dr. Smith presented the accounts for medical services which were referred to the Finance Committee.

Moved by Councillors Hill and Botterill, "That the Corporation have requisitions printed and same to be properly signed by the chairman of the department when ordering supplies, and also to be signed by relief officer as authority for doctors to tender medical and nursing service, except in very emergent cases." Carried.

Moved by Councillors Hill and Hull, "That the municipality purchase sufficient dry wood as required and mix same with wood from lot for all householders on relief, and no vouchers be issued for fuel elsewhere." Carried.

The Finance Committee presented a report with accounts for the general municipal expenditure for fire, light, care of buildings, etc., the second section, with the expenditure of the camp at the municipal wood lot and the direct relief accounts, all of which were received and the payment authorized.

The Council adjourned.

The income for 1932, the largest in the Company's history, showed an increase over the previous year of $14,859,229.33 and amounted to $921,953,100.70.

The Metropolitan in 1932

—paid to policyholders $562,804,650.79
—added to policy reserves $109,755,306.00
—set aside for dividends to policyholders in 1933, $101,685,956.00
—increased its contingency reserve by $26,550,000.00
—increased its surplus by $13,541,501.95.

The assets of the Company at the end of 1932 were $3,769,372,425.28, an increase of $179,256,771.56 during 1932. New investments made in 1932 amounted to over $300,000,000 and cash on hand was increased to $64,025,923.35.

After making provision for policy reserves and other liabilities, and after the apportionment of $101,685,956.00 for dividends, the Company held, on December 31st, 1932, a contingency reserve of $43,000,000, and a surplus of $240,811,739.47 — a total of $283,811,739.47.

The strength of a life insurance company lies in the spread of its obligations over a long period of years and in a sound policy of diversification of investment pursued through the years under expert guidance and in accordance with conservative investment limitations prescribed by law.

Metropolitan assets consist of

Cash	1.70%
Bonds—Federal, State and Municipal	7.70%
Bonds—Railroad	18.00%

WARMAN GIVEN 6 MONTH TERM IN REFORMATORY

Found Guilty of Criminal Offense Against a Girl Under Eighteen.

NEED OF REFORMATION.

Six Months' Indeterminate Term is Aso Added to Sentence.

Found guilty of a criminal carnal offense against a young girl, Kenneth Warman, 20, was sentenced yesterday afternoon by Judge R. D. Ponton of Lindsay to a definite term of six months, with six months less one day indefinite, in the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph.

Warman was not called as a witness in his own defense by his counsel, J. A. O'Brien, and in proceeding to dispose of the case Judge Ponton said it did not present many difficulties to him. He said that he accepted the evidence of the Crown, as presented by V. J. McElderry, Crown Attorney, and after a further review of the testimony announced that he found the prisoner guilty.

According to the evidence, Warman and Leslie Cowling took two "teen age" girls, sisters, in a motor car to "Green Hill," some place in North Monaghan out Sherbrooke street on the night of June 26, 1932. The girl in this case was between sixteen and eighteen years, as specified in the criminal code, and her sister was about fifteen. Cowling and the girl got out of the car at "Green Hill," and Warman and the other girl remained in it.

Nothing Extenuating.

"There is no doubt," His Honor said, "that both girls were seduced. Mr. O'Brien has raised the question as to whether the accused was wholly or chiefly to blame for the girl's condition. If there were anything which could set up in my mind a reasonable doubt for the prisoner! But, there is nothing throughout the whole evidence that I can say conscientiously leaves a reasonable doubt.

Leslie Cowling did not impress me as a witness. He was not convincing. The manner in which he gave it did not convince me as to the truth of his evidence. There is no doubt which I can take into consideration in favor of the prisoner. It was very pleasing to see the Crown's case conducted in the way it was without prejudice or animosity, but in a fair manner as it should be. And I wish to mention the splendid way the defense was handled."

His Honor also complimented counsel on the courtesy they both showed to the "female witnesses in questioning them." He deplored the number of cases of this kind, involving young men especially withing the age of 18 to 21, that had been disclosed during the last few years.

Ask Suspended Sentence.

Mr. O'Brien made a plea for suspension of sentence in view of the fact that young Warman had never been in any trouble before and was regarded by his employer and neighbors as a youth of good character.

Mr. McElderry said he could not agree to that proposal. The offense had been deliberately perpetrated, and had been going on for a length of time that took it out of the category of first offenses.

Prevalent Offense.

"These offenses against young girls are altogether too prevalent," Mr. McElderry said, "and they must be stopped."

After sentence had been passed on him, Warman looked down for a moment, then lifted his head and turned partly around towards the public gallery where only several persons were sitting. He saw Cowling, and the two youths smiled at each other.

Police Constable Piercy swung open the gate of the court railing and nodded toward the exit, signifying that the scene was ended. Warman passed through and was met by Cowling. They shook hands and exchanged a word or two. The constable moved off to the door. It was reported that he was met there by his mother who had not heard the trial.

"The worst" he said to her. His mother swooned. Cowling, trailing behind, was noticed by some other woman in the corridor. "Get out of here," she said. "You've caused enough harm."

Judges Remarks

"This is one of the sad duties we assume when we are appointed to the judiciary," Judge Ponton said in addressing the young prisoner, who stood with his hands in his pockets beside his counsel, J. A. O'Brien. "I hope it will be many years until another young man of your appearance comes before me charged with any offense against a female. It is necessary for me to find you guilty on the evidence of a very serious offence. This offense has become very prevalent, and it hurts every decent living citizen. For some reason or other you and other young men seem to be unable to control yourselves sexually.

Instead of picking on women older than yourselves, you select girls younger than yourselves who in a great many cases are not entitled to much sympathy. In this case we find a girl in a very unfortunate position. Her most valuable possession is gone, and you have robbed her of it. To let you out on suspended sentence as your counsel has proposed, would be like patting you on the back. It would be an encouragement to other boys of your age to carry on this beastly habit. I can't think of any other word for it. This little girl is paying, and you've got to pay well for your fun. I don't know whether you knew it was a crime, but if you ever went to Sunday School you knew it was wrong.

Need of Reformation.

Your punishment is what bothers me. The code fixes the maximum penalty at two years' imprisonment. No one has a greater sympathy with first offenders than I have. But you have got to get a lot of silly ideas out of your head. It is reformation your need. I don't want to send you to a place where you would be with a lot of hardened criminals who are practically beyond redemption. You should be sent to some place where you will be helped, and where you will realize what you have done. I hope it will always be uppermost in your mind, and that you have paid the penalty to society. In cases like this it might be proper to impose a short term with the lash, but I believe justice will be satisfied if I sentence you to the Ontario Reformatory. The sentence therefore will be six months definite and six months less one day indefinite.

This is not only for you, Warman, but for hundreds of young men who pick on young girls who are almost children. And it is also in the hope that for the sake of society this thing will be stopped. I hope it will be a deterrent to other young men."

Who'd ever think that a trifle like a split cent could assure success in baking—but, actually, that's all perfect results need cost anybody.

You see, you use more flour than anything else when you bake, so it has just that much more effect on your results. A cup or two of Five Roses Flour may cost a split cent more than inferior flour but it makes all the difference in the world where baking success is concerned.

Women who have compared Five Roses with other flours say that Five Roses goes farther, too. So it actually pays to use dependable Five Roses Flour and isn't it extravagant, to say the least, to risk wasting eggs, milk, sugar and shortening for the sake of saving just a split cent? Five Roses is tested before you get it—and is always uniform—that's why you can be confident of success with its use.

Have you a copy of the new Five Roses Cook Book? It's a real help on bake day and a valuable aid in keeping house. Fill in the coupon below for your copy.

Always Lying Down—Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Getting Stronger Every Day

"I suffered from backache, general rundown condition and female weakness. I had to lie down nearly every day. My druggist recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken several bottles and believe it to be the best medicine I ever used. I sleep well, my nerves are better, my appetite is improved and I am getting stronger all the time."—Mrs. A. E. CAMPBELLFORD PUBLIC LIBRARY REPORT IS VERY SATISFACTORY

NET INCREASE 303 BOOKS

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 23. — One of the finest reports in the history of the Campbellford Public Library was given by the secretary, E. H. Greig, for the year 1932, showing an increase in every direction, in spite of the fact that running expenses have been very materially cut, owing to the financial stringency of the times. Quoting from the report Mr. Greig stated:

"You will be glad to know that the record of the Campbellford Public Library for 1932 is the best that we have ever had. This, in spite of the fact that our income was lower than any year since 1922, since we voluntarily reduced the grant made by the town $100 and for purposes of economy the Government unexpectedly reduced their grant to us by $100, thus lessening our income by $200. Notwithstanding this the efficiency of the library has not been impaired in any way although we note at the end of the year our treasurer was obliged to bring forward a small debit balance, instead of the usual credit."

"There have been 443 books added to the library during the year, and we discarded 140, making a net increase of 303. We have available for use 6682 volumes. The circulation of books, which we thought last year had reached a very high level, took a jump of about 20 per cent., and in 1932 reached a total of 38,486 books. This made an average of 15.3 books per head of population this year against an average of 12.5 last year. We think it will be difficult for our librarian, Miss H. Campbell, to again equal this record."

"Our cost of distribution was equally good. Last year it was 6.3 cents per book; this year it was 5.1 cents, so that in both respects there has been a good advance made. The board invested $745 in new books. It may be necessary to cut down this amount for the current year for financial reasons, although we shall do so with regret, because new books are the life blood of the library."

"We obtained a copy of the latest annual report of the inspector of Public Libraries so as to compare our record with towns of similar size. We figured out over 20, and we found that with only one exception Campbellford was at the top. The exception was the town of Strathroy whose figures we cannot hope to equal. The average circulation of these towns was about seven books per head and the cost of distribution 10 cents per book so apparently we distribute about twice the number of books at one-half the average cost."

Well Patronized.

"The reading room has been well patronized and is well supplied with up-to-date magazines, and our reference library is also made good use of, and the Board would thank the public for the interest and co-operation, and feel sure that our competent librarian, Miss Campbell, will be glad to help any of the subscribers in any way possible."

The officers of the Board are:—Chairman, R. C. Weston; secretary, E. H. Greig; treasurer, Elie Brunelle.

MARSHALL—TAYLOR

(Special to The Examiner.)

COBOURG, Feb. 23. — A quiet marriage took place last week at the home of the bride's father, A. W. Taylor, Elizabeth Street, Brighton, when his youngest daughter, Doris, was married to Noel Franklin Marshall, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Marshall, Brighton. Rev. C. W. Barrett conducted the ceremony. The bride, who was attended by her sister, Miss Denise Taylor, wore a becoming blue dress, and carried several roses. Dan Vinant acted as groomsman.

A light luncheon was served and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall left later to motor to Rochester and other points before taking up their residence in Brighton.

Presentation Made To Madoc Student

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Feb. 23. — Kenneth Bird, one of the high school students of Madoc, was very agreeably taken by surprise on Monday evening by his school mates, who arrived in a body at the home of his brother, James Bird, to spend a last social evening before his departure to make his home with his mother, Mrs. Moon, in Springbrook. As Kenneth will be attending the Stirling High School his friends and schoolmates were not willing to say good-bye without one more evening of fun and games. They arrived, laden with parcels of "eats," and being cordially welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. James Bird and Kenneth, spent the evening very enjoyably. Before leave taking, Kenneth was presented with a fountain pen as a memento, the address being read by Murray Irwin, and the presentation made by Walter Ross. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, and many willing workers, after which good-bye was said, accompanied by good wishes for Kenneth's future success.

BETHANY.

Mr. Ken. Thorndyke spent Sunday with friends at Oshawa.

Rev. Mr. Holden will hold evening service at St. Paul's Anglican Church on the third Sunday of each month, there having been discontinued during the fall season.

The members of the Y.P.S. of the United Church are preparing a play to be produced at an early date, the proceeds being for the benefit of the society.

ACUTE BRONCHITIS FRUSTRATED

Simple Treatment That Brought Amazing Relief.

SUFFERERS, READ THIS!

If you are a martyr to bronchitis and dread the coming of the cold, windy days—read this letter, which has reached us from a trained nurse. It will open a new prospect of blessed relief. "My own niece," writes this nurse, "was taken suddenly ill with an acute attack of Bronchitis. I happened to be at home, and thought of 'Thermogene.' I applied it back and front, and was amazed at the relief she gained in such a short time. I told doctor what I had done, and he was pleased, explaining how the properties contained in 'Thermogene' acted on the bronchial tubes. Needless to say, I shall never hesitate to recommend it to my patients."

So now you know exactly what to do at the first sign of the old trouble. Put a good layer of "Thermogene" Medicated Wadding on your chest AT ONCE. Its soothing warmth will prove the greatest help. It's not messy like the old-fashioned poultices. It's a clean cotton wool—scientifically impregnated with pain-relieving essences. You can wear it next to your skin, underneath your clothes, and it will do its healing work while you carry on your normal life. For "Thermogene" doesn't simply deaden pain as drugs do—it removes pain because it removes the cause. Buy a box of "Thermogene" today and always keep it in the house during the winter months.

enthusiastically-received and encored piano numbers and songs were given by Miss Musa Cox and Miss Alma Blanchard, respectively.

President Juby expressed the thanks of the Rotarians and their guests to the speaker of the evening, the musicians and to Mine Host Graham, for an excellently-served and bountiful repast.

In introducing Mr. Sandwell, Mr. Gordon read Hector Charlesworth's glowing eulogy of his successor when the latter assumed the reins of office in the editorial chair of The Saturday Night. Mr. Sandwell remarked that he had read "that obituary" twice; but had never heard it read aloud before.

These Troublous Times"

Mr. Sandwell drew an analogy between the action of Russian mechanics in allowing costly harvesting machinery to lie idle and rust in the fields, simply because one part of the machine was out of commission, to the ideas of some of the people of to-day, who declare that the whole financial machine should be scrapped because some one part of it has weakened.

"I don't think we should scrap the whole machine just because the carburetor is not working nicely," he declared, in concluding an address that reviewed briefly some of the outstanding facts of the financial situation, within the past two generations.

A dry and pithy humor enlivened the address and drew from his listeners appreciative chuckles.

"At this time, we can only look back at the good old days when the ordinary man went about his business and left government to more intelligent people," he said. "Now we all insist on having a finger in every pie: " political, social, economic."

He spoke of what the scientists term the quantity theory of money, "which, reduced to its simplest terms, is an attempt on the part of the science of economics to formulate a principle which gives to a given unit of money the purchasing power which it happens to have from time to time. There must be some force which determines the purchasing power of a gold dollar. If the price of things goes up, the purchasing power goes down, and the reverse is also the case. In the long run, the purchasing power of a unit of money is determined by the relation between the need for money and the supply of money with which to carry on the transactions required."

The speaker traced an imaginary graph showing the movement of wholesale prices, taking a "weighted average" in which every element enters with reference to its estimated importance to the Canadian people.

In the year 1867, this average of wholesale prices was well up to the top of the graph, but from that year to 1896, the average prices in Canada fell, not evenly, but steadily and consistently.

The Reason

"Prices of commodities fell during that period because the supply of money, which is gold, did not increase as fast as the volume of business transactions. Our grandparents in 1867 led simpler lives. The processes of production and distribution did not involve so may business transactions, with the result that money became more precious in comparison with the things for which it was exchanged. The need for it grew faster than the supply.

"But the people of Canada did not raise any particular hell about that declining price period, as they did in sections of the United States. I used to think that William Jennings Bryan was one of the most terrible things ever let loose on a civilized world, but now I know that he was at least half right, because he gave a correct diagnosis of what was wrong with the United States. He said that the supply of money was not keeping pace with increasing business and that money had become too valuable. He had a simple and charming remedy. He said: 'There is not enough gold being produced. Let us therefore declare that sixteen ounces of silver is one ounce of gold. It was an interesting idea, and if it had been tried out and it stuck the results would have been very interesting. But it was never tried out and I do not thing it would stick."

In 1890, went on the speaker, the annual output of gold began to increase, and soon the results were apparent. "There is no other way by which you can understand the fact that prices went down continually until then, and then began to go up. The rate of output of gold, assisted, to some extent, by an increased efficiency in the use of gold, enabled each unit of gold to do more work and that increased the supply of gold more rapidly than business was increasing the need of it.

"From 1896 to 1914, prices rose substantially and steadily and things changed in the Dominion of Canada. I am aware that a differing school of opinion considers the change due to a change of government about that time, but the people who sit at Ottawa have little power to change depression into prosperity."

The war years intervened and it was not until 1921 that prices recovered, and then toppled again in 1922 and 1923. "It had something to do with the enormous output of Government credit and every acute business man saw it coming and did his best to unload on the unfortunate investor on the street."

Mr. Sandwell's own part in that unloading, he confessed, was in purchasing part of a sugar plantation in Cuba the price of which was based on years when sugar rose to 25 and 30 cents a pound levels.

The Wrench in the Machinery.

"For five years, price levels were stable, but then began the first creakings of something going wrong with the machine. The first howl was from the wheat growers. They said the price of wheat at Liverpool was preposterous and blamed it first on the Russians, and then on the short sellers in Chicago. They decided to hold for better prices, which never materialized, and we, the taxpayers, are still helping to pay off the indebtedness incurred during those four years."

Prices then declined anywhere from 33 to 40 per cent, "and a decline of that much in prices meant an increase of 66 per cent. in the value of the unit of money, in four years. There has never been such a catastrophic change in the value of metallic money within the history of the world, in such a space of time."

The war left many legacies, declared Mr. Sandwell, among them an increased ability to produce. But he derided the theory that the world cannot consume as much as it is possible to produce, giving a sly dig at the ladies when he declared that his wife could consume 200 to 500 times as much as at present, in the way of extra luxuries.

Another legacy was the debt owing the Allies by the Germans the collection of which, he said, had been an interesting experiment to watch, but foredoomed to failure, with the Lausanne Conference which wiped out the German indebtedness as the only logical conclusion to the attempt.

The debt owed by the Allies to the United States for goods and services supplied and consumed during the war was another legacy.

"Seeing that there is only eleven billions of dollars' worth of gold in the world, our allied debt of twenty-two billions, owing to the United States, could be easily wiped out if we could, in some way, get hold of all the gold in the world, pay it to the United States, get it back by some means and then pay it over again. What we have been trying to do is to emulate Mr. Micawber's method of issuing I.O.U.'s and then declaring the debt paid. The pressure at present to obtain gold to make payments to the United States is the only explanation of the increasing value of gold.

"No business man can do business on the price level that is being forced down because the gold price is being forced up."

GLIDER CRASHES GALT MAN DIES

Fatal Plunge to Lake's Frozen Surfac Witnessed by Father and Brother.

INQUEST LIKELY.

GALT, Feb. 23.—Buckling of the wing of his glider brought death to 30 year old Arthur Russell late yesterday when the machine crashed to the ice of Puslinch Lake from a height of 150 feet. Wesley Russell, father of Arthur, and Clarence, a brother, were witnesses of the tragedy.

The two rushed to the wreckage as the nose-dive was ended on the ice, but Arthur was dead when they reached him. It is believed he died instantly of a broken neck. The body was taken to the family residence, 30 King street.

Arthur Russell had considerable experience gliding as a member of the Windsor Club, and won several trophies at various glider meets. On his return to Galt he organized a gliding club, which had about fifteen members.

Lately they had been using the ice of Puslinch Lake for their take-offs with the machine being towed by an automobile until it rose into the air.

Besides his parents, Arthur Russell is survived by several brothers and sisters. An inquest will likely be held.

THEATRES

"AMERICAN MADNESS"

In this feature, in which mob psychology and modern business methods play so large a part, Walter Huston without question gives his finest performance since "Abraham Lincoln." No character that he has played since that epic has had the vitality and moral courage that animates Tom Dickson, bank president, whose code is character —not collateral.

It is a powerful and vital drama that depicts a seldom-seen aspect of business life; the inner workings of a great bank, where most of the scenes are staged and where Tom learns, all in one day, of the possible collapse of his lifetime of business effort, of the robbery of a huge sum from his vaults, and cruelest blow of all, of which he takes to be his wife's infidelity.

Constance Cummings and Pat O'Brien are excellently cast as Matt Brown and Helen, the two young lovers who are constantly vexed by the problem of getting married on a bank clerk's salary.

There is warmth and charm in Kay Johnston's role as Dickson's wife, and Gavin Gordon is a very convincing "weak heavy" the gentleman whose lack of moral fibre starts the whole works on the down grade.

The scenes of the run on the bank are so dramatic that the audience feels itsef in the midst of the mob, and the relief is very real when an unexpected source develops assistance in Dickson's hour of need, and, incidentally, proves that his psychology is sound and right.

With so superb an actor as Huston in the feature role so talented a directorial hand as Capra's and so competent a cast, "American Madness" would have been a superior picture had it possessed no story at all. Its wide, sweeping power makes it a screen masterpiece and holds the riveted attention of its audience until the last moment, lightened by the wise-cracking of Matt.

—Jeanette.

OUR MAIL

Dear Anne:

I was interested in "Optimist's" letter to our page and while I agree with her in preferring our own bracing, healthful climate to that of any other, I cannot agree with her in a good many other things. Of course "Optimist" has the same right to her opinions as others.

But believe me, Anne, this depression is very real—not at all "imaginary." At least it is real enough to the one who have known suffering and hardship for many a day. If "Optimist" were to see some of the things that are never made public or even how many homeless wanderers there are tramping our city streets, footsore and hungry, nowhere to go but to move on, well, Anne, optimism is a good thing, but we cannot blind their eyes to these things and refuse to recognize the suffering we may see on every hand; unless we wilfully blind our eyes to it. It is true pessimism will never get us anywhere but neither will the attitude of blithely proclaiming, "all is well."

Why do we see so many haggard, care-worn faces on which anxiety and trouble have written lines that will never be erased, if there is no want? What a wonderful thing it would be if one could see the light of happiness and hope come into those worn faces; to see their steps light and their shoulders raised from the pitiful droop that is caused as much by mental suffering as by physical!

I agree that there is much needless luxury on the other hand. That this luxury makes neither for happiness or contentment also. But there is a happy medium Anne. Most people do not crave great wealth. I think this is true Anne. But the average man does want that feeling of independence that only his own earning can bring. The privilege of providing his family with some of the good things of life that every man is entitled to, the poor as well as the rich. Being cared for by others is a poor substitute for that and one which cannot help but injure the morale of any man.

I think this is one of the most serious aspects of this whole situation. Will people in time grow indifferent about getting work, broken by their long idleness or will they welcome the chance to work at anything?

"Optimist" would have us go back to pioneer days as a remedy, but I cannot see it, Anne. Would it benefit us to scrap all our modern appliances, the many conveniences which have made life so much more enjoyable? The many blessings that have been bestowed upon us in this age are not to be thrown away as useless. They were given to us for our progress and enjoyment and should be appreciated as such. Would we go back—could we go back—to a day when the automobile and the airplane would have been laughed at as impossible to operate?; set in semi-darkness by the light of tallow candles, draw water a mile when we might have the same by the turn of a tap; travel weary miles by stage coach instead of train, cross the ocean by a sailing vessel, taking weeks and weeks; attempt to cut our vast acres of wheat with a hand flail (try that on our western wheat fields). Also one wonders where all those oxen we woud need could be purchased. No, Anne, we can't go back to the primitive and make no use of all we have been given; all our forefathers worked to bring about would be for nothing, if no progress had been made all these generations.

Life can't go back, it must go on. Besides there is nothing to be gained by doing such things. Things are here to make use of. Why throw them away? Do you suppose those pioneers would not have welcomed the relief of such things, relief from back-breaking toil and the women who were old and bent and worn out at middle age? Indeed, they would. It would have seemed heaven on earth to them. They knew nothing but these crude methods but civilization has progressed since then. Mahatma Gandi has the same solution for his country but if one knows anything at all about the poor in India, his doctrine would not have much appeal to the intelligent. "Other days, other ways," the country was being built in those days, settlers were few and far apart. Now the cities are teeming and life cannot be lived at so leisurely a pace.

I am sorry to have written so long a letter, Anne.

Yours truly

ADASTIA.

It is indeed nice to hear from so many pen friends again, and I know the readers will be glad to read a letter from you again, Adastia. Certainly everyone is entitled to her own opinions but I wonder if you have taken the wrong idea from Optimist's letter. Of course, I may be wrong but I believe she intended to convey the idea that people in olden days got along with such a little that in times like these, we should be able to get along with less. What do the rest of you readers think? Write again, Adastia, soon.

Sincerely,

Anne Wilcox

HUMANE SOCIETY ELECTED OFFICERS

Thomas Sargent is Re-elected as President of Socity.

Regular monthly meeting of the executive of the Peterborough Humane Society was held on Tuesday evening, in the Chamber of Commerce. Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather, the attendance was good. Much interest was manifest in the continuance of the society's work which of late has been handicapped owing to lack of funds. Through the generosity of many citizens who are in sympathy with the society's work, donations and memberships are being received and the appeal will be continued, that others may have the opportunity to contribute. The inspector, Dr. Thomas Johnston, was unable to give his monthly report owing to his illness. The following officers were then elected for the ensuing year:—

Patrons. — His Honor Judge Huycke, Mayor Denne. Hon. Presidents.—Archdeacon R. C. Blagrave, Colonel C. H. Ackerman. President —Thomas Sargent. 1st Vice-President—Dr. J. E. Middleton; 2nd Vice-President—Mrs. S. C. Martin. Sec.—Mrs. Young. Press Secretary —Miss E. V. Wood; Assistant—Miss Dorothy Kelly. Treasurer, Mr. S. C. Martin.

Executive.—Mrs. Stuart, Mrs. Parsons, Mrs. Powell, Mrs. McWilliams, Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Helson, Miss M. Wyatt, Miss B. Latimer, Mr. James Skinner, Mr. James Dutton.

Inspector—Dr. Thomas Johnston.

Plucky Girl Clerk Saves Store's Cash

PEMBROKE, Ont., February 23 (C.P.). — The pluck of a female clerk saved the day's cash receipts of F. J. O'Brien's grocery store here when a robber attempted to steal them last night. Coming from the rear of the store, Miss Ida Reckzin grappled with a man who had entered the store, grabbed the reciepts which were lying in two paper envelopes on a shelf, and made for the door. Though pushed partially through the plate glass, Miss Reckzin succeeded in grasping the money as she called for help. The man made his escape minus the cash. Police are following up the case.

CAMPBELL AFTER NEW LAND MARKS

(By Ted Gill)

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23 (A.P.)—Three new world land speed records were to the credit today of Sir Malcolm Campbell, daring British race car driver, and he thought seriously of trying for two more.

With new flying start records for one kilometre, one mile and five kilometres to top more than a quarter of a century of thrilling racing and narrow escapes on the roaring road, the 48-year-old Briton now wants to try for new standing start marks for one kilometre and one mile.

Whether he makes any more speed trials now, or decides to sail for England shortly, will depend, he said, upon how soon he recovers from an injured left arm sprained while making repairs to his giant Bluebird racing car a week ago.

Good London Market For Canadian Cattle

OTTAWA, Feb. 23. (CP)—Canadian cattle arriving on the steamers Vardulia and Manchester producer were readily disposed of, says a special cable to the Dominion Livestock branch to-day. Twenty head of the cattle were shipped to London. The general quality of the steers was reported as fairly good, but many of them lacked the desired finish. The desired finish. The heifers were of mixed quality and included a large percentage of springers and cowish animals which were unsuitable for the trade. The best of steers and heifers sold at 12.6 cents per pound, dressed wheat; heavy and inferior steers and heifers ranged from 11.6 cents to 12.2 cents, and cows brought 6.7 cents.

FOUNDRESS OF W.C.T.U. HONORED BY MEMBERS OF LOCAL SOCIETY

Tribute Also Paid to Memory of Five Departed Presidents.

LIFE HISTORY REVIEWED.

In honor of the foundress of their order, Francess Willard, a very beautiful program was arranged for the meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, held yesterday afternoon in the green room of the Y.W.C.A., with the president, Mrs. J. H. Rowe, in the chair.

Associated with the memory of their foundress, whose death day occurred on February 18th 1898, was the memory of five past members of the local branch of the W.C.T.U., who passed on during the twelve-month just ended. These were the late Mrs. George Powell, Mrs. W. Bell of Smith township, Miss M. Nicholls, Miss Emma McCamus and Miss Annie Walton, and brief references to their lives and good works were made by five members present yesterday: Miss Emma Might, Mrs. M. A. Morrison, Mrs. Graham, Mrs. R. Bamforth, and Mrs. B. W. Manning. The deceased ladies were all active members for many years of the W.C.T.U. and of various church organizations in which they served nobly during their life-time.

An extremely interesting review of the life and work of Frances Willard was given by Mrs. E. Wand.

The meeting opened with a Scripture reading by Mrs. J. Fairbrother and prayer offered by Mrs. W. H. Buckler. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Might and the financial report by the treasurer Mrs. M. A. Morrison. Mrs. J. Spencer reported for the visiting committee.

Mrs. Rowe spoke of the annual convention of the Ontario Prohibition Union, which will be held at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on March 2nd and 3rd. She also referred to the holiday cards which are designed for systematic giving, each of the ten holidays of the year being remembered by dropping a dime in the bag, for W.C.T.U. purposes.

The Clip Sheet

The Clip Sheet was interestingly taken by a number of the members. It was entitled "The Innocent Cocktail," and dealt with a description of the constituents, the elements, the effects and the dangers, of cocktail-drinking, especially on the young. Women's influence was urged to stamp out the practice, and Mrs. M. A. Morrison pointed out that the habit of terming innocuous beverages such as fruit cups and tomato juice drinks as "cocktails," lent an innocent demeanor to the habit, which might very easily lead to the ignorance of the harmfulness of the alcohol-contained cocktail.

A delightful duett, "The Man of Galilee," was sung by Mesdames Rosebrough and McLaren, with Mrs. Wand at the piano.

A unique chart which was unrolled for the benefit of the members, was brought and explained by Mrs. H. G. Lewis, and proved to be of especial interest. It illustrated, by means of sketches, the contents of a letter which appeared recently in The Toronto Globe and had to do with expenditures for liquor.

In 1929, Ontario's population, declared the missive was 3,271,000 people and its liquor bill amounted to over 56 million dollars, or about $17 per capita. Last year, the liquor bill for the province totalled about 46 million dollars, which represents the value of the following items: 200,000 bags of sugar at $4 a bag, or a total of $800,000; 200,000 bags of flour at $3, or $600,000; 200,000 bags of potatoes at 60 cents, or $120,000; 200,000 suits of clothes at $25, or $5,000,000; 200,000 overcoats at $20, or $4,000,000; 200,000 boys' suits at $8, or $1,600,000; 200,000 dresses at $8, or $1,600,000; 2 million loaves of bread at 6 cents a loaf, or $120,000; one million lbs. of beef at 16 cents, or $160,000. The amount would also pay five months' rent for 200,000 families at $25 a month, or $25,000,000, making a sum total of $44,600,000, and leaving a balance of $1,400,000 for medical attention.

On motion of Mrs. Bamworth, seconded by Mrs. Buckler, it was agreed that the chart, which is the work of Mr. Lewis, should be placed in turn in every Sunday School of the city.

Mrs. Buckler thought that the time had come to ask that liquor be banned altogether. "This was done in war time. Why not now, when conditions appear to be even worse?"

Before commencing the eulogies of the departed members the ladies sang, standing, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," and then proceeded to the memorial references for the departed members and to Mrs. E. Wand's eloquently-phrased review of the life and work of Frances Willard.

Life of Foundress

The woman honored by every member of the W.C.T.U., wearing the white ribbon of temperance, was born at Churchville, Monroe County, New York State, on September 28th, 1839, and was educated at the Northwestern University at Evanston, Illinois, an institution of which she later became dean of the Women's section. In 1874 she became secretary of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union and in 1883, she founded the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

She was the author of many books, among them being "Nineteen Beautiful Years," "How to Win," "Women and Temperance," "A Classic Town," "The Young Woman in Journalism," "Glimpses of Fifty Years," the latter an autobiography of which 50,000 copies have been sold, also "A Great Mother," which commemorated the theory and practices in child-rearing of her own mother; a book entitled "Do Everything," "A Woman in the Pulpit' 'and "Occupations for Women."

Mrs. Wand sketched briefly the outstanding career of this famous woman and her achievements in the cause of temperance. She enumerated several interesting personal characteristics and traits which drew a graphic picture of Miss Willard, and also referred briefly to Mrs. Frances Barnes, her assistant, called by Miss Willard, "my younger sister, so dear to me."

In conclusion after speaking of their foundress' belief in the good to be derived from attendance at conventions where topics of interest were discussed, Mrs. Wand suggested that a tea or other form of entertainment be sponsored annually by the local branch, the proceeds to be earmarked for delegates' expenses to the annual convention.

She also said that nine awards would be made at the W.C.T.U. Provincial convention of the society, which will be held in this city next October, one of them to be a silver basket presented by Mrs. Gordon to the Union recording the largest increase in membership during the year.

A very interesting meeting was closed by a thoughtful prayer offered by Mrs. A. B. Cunningham.

The mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment is clearly shown when used as a household remedy for bruises, chapped hands, cold sores, and chafing. Druggists will tell you there is nothing better. Big box only 50 cents.

Roseneath

The Sunday school will repeat a crokinole party on Monday, March 6. A small fee will be charged as the school is in need of funds.

The Women's Institute will hold their open meeting in the Town Hall on Thursday evening of next week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Lockhart and son, Roney, Mr. and Mrs. A. Braithwaite and daughter, Jean, and Mrs. M. D. Brown were recent visitors with relatives in Hastings.

The Valentine social that was held in the Orange Hall on Friday night, Feb. 17, in aid of the United Church Sunday school proved in every way a huge success. Over two hundred people were present. The committees in charge of the events were not prepared for such a crowd and therefore extra help was required. The grown-ups were enthusiastic over playing crokinole when twenty-seven tables were filled. After the playoffs the winners were announced—Miss Lois Talbug, Roseneath, for ladies, and William Curtis, Fenella, won the gentlemen's prize. George Empey was timekeeper. Andrew Brown, Mrs. Brisbin and Mrs. Brown scored. The upstairs of the hall was alive by the junior classes of the S.S. who were playing games and making merry in every way. The decorating committee—Mrs. George Mouncey, Mrs. E. Blodgett, Misses Hildred Taylor and Jessie Mouncey—had the hall very prettily decorated with many hearts, cupids and darts of several sizes and other features suitable for St. Valentine's Day.

HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATION NEWS

COUNCIL MEETING.

The regular meeting of the Home and School Council was held at the Y.W.C.A. on Monday evening.

A committee was appointed to make arrangements for a lecture to be held on Thursday evening, March 2, at the Prince of Wales School. The lecturer, who is a representative of the National Institute for the Blind, will discuss matters pertaining to the preservation of good eyesight.

The Council passed unanimously a motion expressing their hearty appreciation of the Women Teachers' Guild for their unselfish efforts in conducting a card party recently to raise funds for the relief of needy children.

The Council purposes having a social tea at the Y.W.C.A. from five to six o'clock on March 22, to which the School Board, the teachers of the public schools and Collegiate Institute, and former past presidents will be invited so that they may all get better acquainted.

Mrs. W. R. Morris addressed the meeting and made special reference to Mrs. Courtice, the founder of the Home and School movement. She was a woman attractive in personality and gifted with a broad vision. Her purpose in establishing the Association was primarily to educate parents. The best memorial to her was to try to carry out her ideals. Mrs. Medd was one of the earliest in Peterborough to see the advantages of the Home and School Associations.

Mrs. Morris also made feeling reference to Mrs. Edith Groves of Toronto, who did so much for underprivileged children.

The schools were represented at the meeting as follows: Queen Mary 1, Central 5, Confederation 3, King Edward 1, Prince of Wales 3, King George 6.

METROPOLITAN LIFE CREATES NEW RECORD

Again Pays Policyholders Over Hundred Million Dollars In Dividends.

ASSETS INCREASED.

Canadian Figures Reflect Splendid Progress By Company Last Year.

Reporting its financial position and its operations for 1932 to the holders of over 42 million life insurance policies, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's annual statement reveals strength and progress.

Assets were increased — the surplus and contingency funds were added to — cash income for the year 1932 gained over 1931 and policyholders dividends set aside to be paid in 1933 are over the hundred million mark for the second successive year. All these features of the statement indicate the confidence of people everywhere in life insurance and in the Metropolitan. They demonstrate also the stabilizing influence of life insurance in a world facing economic conditions without precedent.

The Company's assets stood at $3,769,372,425 on December 31 last thereby continuing the position of the Metropolitan as the world's largest financial institution. These assets were increased during 1932 by $179,256,771. The Company has always been noted for its conservative investment policy and the statement brings out the high calibre and diversity of its investments. They constitute a great bulwark of strength to Metropolitan policyholders.

HARRY D. WRIGHT

Third Vice President and Manager for Canada, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company who stresses basic soundness of the Dominion as reflected by operations of the Company during 1932.

During 1932 the cash income of the Metropolitan was the largest in the history of the Company, being $921,953,100, an increase over 1931 of $14,859,229. Of special interest and significance are the items concerning the cash payments and new investments made by the Company during the year. It was pointed out by Third Vice President Wright, Manager for Canada, that the Company's income averaging $3,032,740, a day, afforded ample means for making current payments to policyholders; for necessary additions to reserves; for current expenses; and also provided a substantial addition to surplus.

Cash payments to policyholders reached a record figure in 1932 being well over half a billion dollars and being paid out at the rate of $3,856.94 a minute for each business day of eight hours. The fact that living policyholders received over $400,000,000 of this amount is significant. This was more than two and a half times the amount paid in death benefits, which totalled $151,262,286.

The Company made investments during the year of over $300,000,000, and increased the amount of cash in hand from $39,756,709 to $64,025,923.

An amount of $26,550,000 was added to contingency reserve which now totals $43,0000,000 and surplus funds were increased by $13,541,502, bringing this item up to nearly a quarter of a billion dollars.— $240,811,730.

Commenting on dividends for policy holders, Mr. Wright said "For the second successive year the total set aside to pay these dividends is over the hundred million dollar mark. This constitutes a record and it is made possible chiefly by decreased expenses and favorable mortality. Including this distribution for 1933, the amount the Metropolitan has paid or credited to its policyholders in dividends and bonuses since organization totals $823,137,177."

Metropolitan has 2,761,136 life insurance policies in force in Canada, the largest number in the Dominion of any ipsurance company and its operations in the past year reflect the basic soundness of the country. Over $222,000,000 life insurance was issued in 1932 bringing the total Metropolitan Insurance in force in Canada to well over a billion dollars. Investments in Canada are now over $241,000,000 having been increased in 1932 by more than $10,000,000. Operating through its Canadian Head Office in Ottawa and 104 branch offices, and having 3200 employees in Canada, Metropolitan Life makes a real contribution to the economic progress of the Dominion. Disbursements, payments to Canadian policyholders and investments in Canada, exceed by over $100,000,000, the amount of premiums collected in Canada since the Company first began operations here in 1872.

Continuing its welfare activities in Canada during 1932, the Metropolitan made nearly 400,000 free bedside nursing visits to its Industrial and Group policyholders and the field force distributed over 3,000,000 booklets dealing with health topics.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN

TORONTO, Feb. 23.—Approximate prices track shipping point—Wheat, 44c to 46c; oats, 29c to 24c; barley, 32c to 35c; corn, 33c to 35c; rye, 30c to 32c; buckwheat, 28c to 30c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Feb. 23. — Butter eased while eggs advanced on the Montreal Produce and Dairy Market yesterday. Cheese and potatoes held firm.

A lull in buying sent butter down a quarter of a cent a pound. No. 1 grass make in cartots or less was quoted at 23¼c to 23½c a pound. Receipts were 16 boxes.

Light receipts so far this week combined with colder weather in Ontario and higher markets in other cities resulted in fresh graded eggs in cartots or less rising a cent a dozen. Extras sold at 21c, firsts at 19c pullets at 18c and seconds at 17c a dozen. Receipts were 982 cases.

Cheese remained unchanged at 10c to 10½c for fresh or recent make Ontario colored and 11¼c to 11½c a pound for early Ontario colored. Receipts were 26 boxes.

Potatoes were steady at 75c to 80c for New Brunswick Green Mountains per 80-pound bag and at 85c to 90c for Prince Edward Green Mountains per 90-pound bag.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, February 23.—Wheat futures moved narrowly and firm y on the Winnipeg grain market yesterday, receiving sufficient stimulus from scattered export sales to score fractional gains. Values at the close were ¼c to ⅛c higher, with May at 48⅞c, July 49⅜c, and October 50⅞c.

With United States markets on holiday, local traders were loath to commit themselves, and trading throughout was inactive. All offerings, however, were readily absorbed.

No estimate was placed on the amount of Canadian wheat sold for overseas shipment, but it was believed not to be large. Reports here indicated better demand, and an offer of higher prices in the United Kingdom for Canada's grain.

Cash and coarse grains continued dull.

Miss Irene McQuigge Is Elected Treasurer

(Examiner Correspondence.)

RUSH POINT, Feb. 23. — The League meeting of Thursday, Feb. 16th, at the White Church, took the form of a Valentine social.

A Valentine reading was given by Corrinne McArthur. Archie McMillan sang "Home on the Range," with guitar accompaniment played by himself.

A reading entitled "The Trouble with School," was given by Bertha Graham. Miss Jean Pollock sang "Day by Day," and Reginald McQuigge gave one of his comic readings, "Bellworthy and the Deacon."

The last item on this part of the program was a song by Messrs. Murnie Barton and Gavin Buchanan, "Silver Haired Daddy," with guitar accompaniment by Mr. Barton. Called back by an appreciative audience, they gave "The Gangsters' Warning," as an encore.

Due to the resignation of Miss Esther Menzies, who has been the treasurer of the League for some time, it was necessary to elect a new officer. Miss Irene McQuigge was elected treasurer for the remainder of the year.

RADIO NOTES

By R. H. CHILDERHOSE of City Radio Service.

If you have a very recent model radio that has a knob or lever operating a control to elliminate noise between stations do not turn it around further than necessary. You not only cut out the noise between stations, but also the weaker stations, so that, if the noise clears up, and your control is left turned far on, your control is left turned far on, your stations will be limited. Turning it too far also causes loud stations to sound uneven, or jerky, at times.

Mr. E. B.—Short wave converters and adaptors of various well-known manufactures are quite satisfactory. They are not usually quite as good as all-wave sets designed and built in one unit. It would be as well to get a converter built by the same manufacturer who built your radio, if possible.

Ed.—Mr Childerhose will be glad to answer any questions asked by radio fans If you have any trouble just drop a note to Mr Childerhose in care of The Examiner

Toronto Man Discovers Quick Relief for Backache

Could Hardly Straighten Up —But Now Well, Thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills

Toronto, Ont., Feb. 23. (Special).

"My husband's back was very painful," says Mrs. Edwin Milner, a well known and respected resident of this city. "It was so bad that when he stooped he could scarcely get up again. This condition was caused by his Kidneys. He took Dodd's Kidney Pills for a short time and was soon rid of the pain in his Back and felt fine. I have also used Dodd's Kidney Pills, and both my husband and myself think they are the best Remedy there is. We have recommended them to our friends and they all say there is nothing to beat them."

Backache is Nature's warning of faulty Kidney action. Never neglect it. If you fail to heed this sign that your Kidneys are out of order you are taking great chances. Backache, if not corrected, is often followed by some far more serious form of Kidney disease. Do not hesitate but at the first sign of Kidney trouble, such as Backache, turn unhesitatingly to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

EDWIN MILNER

Who suffered from such painful Backache that he could hardly straighten up. He took Dodd's Kidney Pills and his aches and pains quickly disappeared. He is now feeling fine and recommends Dodd's Kidney Pills to all his friends.

First Opera In Year Treat To Chicagoans

(By Homer McCoy, A.P. Staff Writer.)

CHICAGO, February 23 (C.P.)—Sardou-Puccini's opera "La Tosca" was the vehicle on which grand opera returned to temporary glory in Chicago last night.

As Floria Tosca, Mme. Maria Jeritza, Austrian singer and former prima donna of the New York Metropolitan Opera Company, led, and the big town's music critics dusted off the adjectives of laudation they hadn't used for more than a year.

Assisting her were Mario Duca, as Cavaradossi the Artist, and John Charles Thomas, American baritone in the role of Scarpia, Chief of Police of Rome, scene of the opera.

It was old home night for Chicago's opera-goers, society gave heavily to charity—proceeds went to the Presbyterian Hospital—and the golden horseshoe appeared but faintly tarnished.

PRIZES ON DISPLAY FOR ICE CARNIVAL

Offerings Are All Exceptionally Attractive and Worth While.

The prizes for the Grand Ice Carnival which will be held at Brock Street Rink next Monday evening, February 27, are now on view in the north display window of The Examiner.

They are exceptionally attractive and anyone taking part in the parade of costumes at this event is assured of something really worthwhile in a prize. There are eight altogether: a dainty three-piece silk crepe lingerie set for the ladies' fancy; a bath robe for the ladies' comic; silk pyjamas for the girls' fancy and a set for wet weather—a raincoat and hat, for the girls' comic; a snappy set of shirt, hose and tie, for the gentlemen's fancy, and a handsome silk scarf for the gentlemen's comic; also a windbreaker for the boys' fancy and a pair of kid gloves for the best boys' comic costume.

The carnival is to be held for the benefit of The Examiner Relief Fund.

Grand Ice Carnival at Brock Street Rink on Monday night, February 27th. Don't miss it.

Obituary

MISS SUSAN TIGHE

The funeral of Susan Tighe was held on Monday afternoon from the home of her sister Mrs. C. W. Bullock, 4th line of Smith Township, and was attended by a large number of friends. The service was conducted by the Rev. Ralph W. Wright, pastor of Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church and the Rev. E. K. Tyler, B. Th., pastor of Park Street Baptist Church, Peterborough.

Mr. Tyler read the scripture from St. John 14: "Let not your hearts be troubled . . . . ."

After the Scripture reading Mr. Wright spoke briefly and impressively on death overcome. Stressing the point that those who like the deceased lived in the promise of eternal life did not die but slept, he said, "though absent from the body she is present with the Lord".

A message of comfort was brought to the bereaved by Mr. Wright's discourse and the stress he placed on the promise of eternal life.

He also paid eloquent tribute to the Christian life of Miss Tighe. The deceased had requested that her favourite hymn be sung by her friend James Young of Smith. The request was complied with, the hymn being "He's My Friend".

Pallbearers were: Harold and Ralph Bullock; Edward and Archibald Bulmer, all of Smith; and Gordon Trennum and James Paisley both of Peterborough.

Interment was made at Lakefield Cemetery. The deceased was born in Dummer Township in the year 1876, and had lived in or near Dummer all her life, during which time she had acquired a host of friends, by whom she was highly regarded. Her death after a brief illness, came as a decided shock to all who knew her.

Surviving her are two sisters, Mrs. Charles W. Bullock of Smith; Mrs. Sophia Whatley of Ohio; and one brother Howard Tighe of Peterborough.

MISS CATHERINE SWEENEY.

The death took place this morning at St. Joseph's Hospital of Miss Catherine Sweeney, sister of the late Father Sweeney of Peterborough.

The deceased is survived by one sister, Miss Mary Sweeney of Sophia Street.

The funeral will take place at nine o'clock on Saturday morning from the Church of the Immaculate Conception, where the Funeral Mass will be solemnized, to St. Peter's Cemetery. The remains will be at Cain's Undertaking Parlors until that time.

MISS HENRIETTA PECK

One of Peterborough's best-known citizens, Miss Henrietta Peck, passed away with great suddenness yesterday morning, February 22. Although confined to the house for about ten days, her death was quite unexpected and will be deeply regretted by her many friends in the City of Peterborough and surrounding district.

Miss Peck was the fourth daughter of the late Arthur H. Peck and his wife, Mary Armour Peck, and on her mother's side was the granddaughter of the Reverend Samuel Armour, the first rector of St. John's Church, Peterborough.

The deceased was born at Ashburnham and with the exception of a short interval spent in England with her father and mother, resided in Peterborough until her death.

During her many years' residence in Ashburnham, Miss Peck was an active worker in St. Luke's Church and continued her membership and attendances at the services of St. Luke's Church until her death.

For upwards of twenty years the deceased was also a member of the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Church.

On the outbreak of the Great War in 1914 Miss Peck organized and became President of the Progressive Club which did a large amount of work for the Belgian refugees, and also for Shorncliffe Hospital. When the Red Cross work was organized in Peterborough, Miss Peck associated the work of the Progressive Club with the work of the Red Cross, but at the same time continued the work which she had previously performed for the Shorncliffe Hospital.

The deceased always took a deep interest in public affairs and became a very active worker in the Conservative party, holding the position of Honorary President of the Women's Conservative Association for a number of years.

The deceased was one of a large family and is survived by her sister, Miss Nellie Peck of Peterborough, and her two brothers, John H. Peck of Vancouver, B.C., and Edward Armour Peck, M.P., of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held to-morrow, Friday afternoon, at three o'clock, from the residence of her brother, 304 Rogers street, and the burial will be in the family plot in Little Lake Cemetery.

ARTHUR LISMER TO GIVE LECTURE

Vice-President of Ontario College of Art to Speak in City Friday.

ART IN CANADA.

Arthur Lismer, vice-president of the Ontario College of Art, is to address the Y.M.C.A. Friday Nigh. Club this Friday, and will give a public lecture on "Art in Canada" in the Y Auditorium at 8.15. Mr. Lismer has been one of those few men who in banding themselves under the name of "The Group of Seven," and working together with common aim, have awakened artistically Canada from a mere outpost of Europe to the realization of her own heritage. They saw that the pasture lands and towns along the southern fringe of the country did not represent the massive dignity and solemnity of the real Canada, the spirit of the eternal land. And so they turned to the wilderness. Their paintings of the northern country are not photographic but interpretive; rich in the conveyance of the sense of rough beauty and brooding might. These painters have been greatly abused and misunderstood, but to anyone who has experienced the pull of that northland, the validity of the group's work can not be doubted.

Since 1919 Mr. Lismer and the group have fought prejudices and conservatism, and now they are seeing their concepts spread to the kindred arts of architecture and literature. Through their influence, the development of a typically Canadian School of Art is promised. The younger generation have tested and accepted this esthetic viewpoint and are aware of their own mighty environment.

Mr. Lismer has said, "Above all, give a chance for the creative men to grow in Canada and trust to the potentialities of Canadians to think artistically and create usefully." This challenge to the creative is the background of his philosophy and his paintings.

Mr. Lismer was born in Sheffield England, and has studied there and in Antwerp. Coming to Canada in 1911, he joined the O.S.A. and was elected to the A.R.C.A. in 1919. His best known canvases are probably "September Gale," "Happy Isles," and "The Island of Spruce," three northern scenes glowing with life and movement and sending a thrill through the heart of everyone who loves Canada and her rugged country. These canvases justify the reputation Mr. Lismer has as one of Canada's outstanding artists.

Lt.-Col Watts Morgan Resigns Welsh Seat

LONDON, Feb. 23. (C. P. Cable) A parliamentary vacancy is created by the death to-day of Lt. Col. D. Watts-Morgan, Labor member for East Rhondda Wales, since 1918.

Lt. Col. Watts-Morgan was the chairman of the Welsh Labor party and had served on many important parlimentary committees. He started work as a minor and graduated as a mine manager and at the opening of the war recruited 1, 5,000 Welsh miners. He joined himself as private but eventually became a major in the battalion which during the retreat of the fifth army in March, 1918, held up the German onrush with picks and shovels when it was surprised without arms.

Lt. Col. Morgan was given the D.S.O. for the part as he played in that action.

He was reelected in the 1931 general election by a majority of 11,727 over a Communist candidate.

NICK OF TIME

LONDON, Ont.—"I'm glad I was arrested when I was, or else worse might have come of it," said Ernest Nantais, of Walkerville, in police court to-day, when he was sentenced to 40 days in jail for possessing stolen goods.

Nantais admitted stealing small articles from Kitchener and St. Thomas stores and selling them here. He told a long story of a hunt for work, and failure to receive a pension, which led finally to his decision to steal.

MADRIGAL CONCERT ON TUESDAY NIGHT

Peterborough's Famous Choir to Present Annual Concert in Collegiate.

The program to be given by the Madrigal choir, conducted by Dorothy Allan Park next Tuesday evening in the Collegiate Auditorium, promises to be one of the most beautiful performances ever presented by the organization. The choir has been trained to an amazing degree of accuracy, precision, and delicacy, and the music-lovers of Peterborough can look forward to an evening spent with some of the loveliest music ever written for womens' voices. It is always a matter for surprise and admiration when the chorus displays its disciplined and reliable power of memorization. Its repertoire numbers over two hundred and fifty madrigals and part-songs, all of the highest musical excellence, and never has the arduous and unflagging preparation failed to give authoritative and charming interpretations.

The program this year contains one decided novelty, a Cantata by the great English composer, Henry Purcell, entitled "The Moon". The choir will sing two Bach compositions from the "Peasant Cantata" two beautiful Brahms part-songs, two Elizabethan madrigals, two Healey William numbers, an intricate and amusing setting of "Peter Piper", by Frank Bridge, and English and Irish folk songs arranged by Percy Fletcher.

The assisting artists are the well-known Joyce Hornyansky, cellist, and Scott Malcolm, pianist, both of Toronto, and these fine musicians will contribute a Vivaldi concerto, a Suite by Da Falla, and a group of Bach, Ravel, and Chopin.

Charge Hindenburg Is Avoiding Public

BERLIN, Feb. 23 (C.P.).—Charge that the door to President Paul von Hindenburg has been closed to the public since Adolf Hitler became Chancellor was before the German electorate to-day.

It was made last night by Fritz Schaeffer, Bavarian People's Party leader, in a campaign speech at Nuremberg. He charged Hitlerites with seeking to curb the "free will" of the former Field Marshal, although under the German constitution the powers of the President exceed those of the Chancellor.

This came close upon a sensational report of a plot to kidnap the 85-year-old President after the March 5 election. Published in Swiss newspapers, it was described as "too silly" for a denial by the Hitler Government.

Hard Road For Tories In Rotherham Riding

LONDON, Feb. 23 (C.P. Cable).—The National Government, through its Conservative candidate, Drummond Wolff, is expected to have a heavy task to retain the Rotherham seat in the House of Commons.

A by-election for this seat was necessitated by the resignation of the member, George Herbert, Conservative, on Feb. 6 due to illness. Several names have been advanced as possible candidates and although the by-election date is not yet set there is considerable interest shown in the forthcoming campaign.

The ancient town of Rotherham on the borders of South Yorkshire, is devoted mainly to steel and iron production. Until 1931 it had decidedly Labor traditions, but in the general election of that year the Conservative candidate won from his Labor opponent by a scant majority of 762 out of 46,430 votes.

ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY IS OPPOSED BY MAGUIRE

TORONTO, Feb. 23 (C.P.)—C. A. Maguire, Ontario Hydro-Electric Commissioner, last night told an audience he was opposed to international development of the St. Lawrence River while the State of Illinois is "permitted to take water out of the other end and deplete our flow in the St. Lawrence River."

Mr. Maguire predicted the St. Lawrence agreement would never be ratified by the Canadian Parliament unless it were ratified first by the United States Congress.

WINDSOR SCHOOL BOARD OBJECTS TO HEAVY CUTS

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 23 (C.P.)—A "vigorous protest" is to be made by the Windsor Board of Education with the committee of Supervisors regarding the budget allotted schools for 1933. The City Council will also be approached for a reconsideration of the situation on the grounds that cuts for the education board are more severe than for other departments.

Original estimates budgetted by the board were $596,360, and through the city council the board was advised the committee of supervisors set $490,000 as the budget. It is claimed this would mean an additional wage slash of 22 per cent, while board members contend other department cuts vary from 4 to 15 per cent. Board members and teachers urge cuts should be more nearly uniform.

B.C Legislature Opens Pre-Election Session

VICTORIA Feb. 23 (C.P.)—Seeking a solution within the next few months of the tangled political situation which has prevailed for some time, the British Columbia Legislature opens its pre-election session here to-day.

Premier S. F. Tolmie has announced he will carry through the session with his present Conservative Cabinet and pass only necessary legislation. He will then form a Union Government, submit it to a convention of the Conservative party, and then appeal to the electors.

TWO LOCAL MEMBERS ON HOUSE COMMITTEES

The two local members of the Ontario Legislature, J. F. Strickland, K. C., and T. P. Lancaster, have been appointed members of the following standing committees of the House by the Select Committee: Mr. Strickland member of the Committee on Privileges and Elections, of Committee on Private Bills, of Committee on Public Accounts, and Committee on Fish and Game; Mr. Lancaster member of the Committee on Public Accounts, Committee on Printing, Committee on Agriculture and Colonization, Committee on Municipal Law, and Committee on Fish and Game.

MRS. W. KENNEDY MEETING SPEAKER

Millbrook Community Glee Club Holds Regular Meeting in St. Andrew's Basement.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 23 (Examiner Correspondence).—The Community Glee Club met in the basement of St. Andrew's Church on Monday evening, and following the hour's practice of one of Gilbert and Sullivan's operas under the direction of Martin Chenhall, musical supervisor of Cavan Township, the young people held their weekly session, Francis Jones taking the chair, and the program being featured by an instructive talk on "Rabbit Culture," by Mrs. W. W. Kennedy.

Within the past year the rabbit industry has been taken up on the Kennedy farm, and also by their neighbors across the roadway, Mrs. D. Henry, the speaker, intimating that one unit consists of a buck and nine does, and that the rabbits being raised for marketing purposes are pure-bred, pure white with thick soft fur, and with marked veining in the pink-lined long ears. On the Kennedy farm two units were purchased for the initial venture in the domestic rabbit industry, and for each unit there must be three hutches made to standard measurements, a certain distance off the floor, and kept in a dry, well-ventilated room, free from draughts.

Galvanized pans under the wire floors of the separate compartments make it possible to keep the sections quite clean of droppings, and between each section is placed the 'manger' filled with clover, while a specially prepared grain mixture in the feeding troughs of each pen and earthenware drinking vessels, further ensure absolute cleanliness and meat of a peculiar whiteness and fine flavor.

Bucks are taken for killing at the end of three months and should weigh six pounds; does are kept for six months and are then bought for breeding purposes. Mrs. Kennedy had two small rabbits with her to illustrate her talk, the fact being noted that in the process of rabbit-raising the promoter soon has them from one day old, like tiny pink mice, through all stages up to six months and possibly some older. When dressed the meat is white, and each rabbit is separately boxed for the market; no "game" taste is evidenced in these domestic rabbits, and the company interested at present is confining its efforts to supplying the Toronto market, where large hotels and restaurants are listing the meat with increasing success on their menus.

Varying ways of cooking were instanced, including cut up and stewed like chicken; dredged with flour and butter, with seasoning, and cooked like baked chicken; or dressed like fowl and roasted. Some of those present had tasted the meat during a holiday last summer, through the courtesy of Mrs. Henry, and had emphatically declared it "good."

B. B. Dawson, president of the Y.P.S., took the business period and gave the talk on the devotional topic, Sadie Rowland and Gordon Muspratt reading the Scripture lessons. Next Monday's meeting will be under the missionary department, Jack Stinson being the convenor in charge. Discussion regarding a delegate to be sent to the Y.P.S. convention at Toronto March 2 and 3, will be acted upon at next week's gathering. Mrs. Kennedy was warmly thanked for her interesting address before the meeting was dismissed with the blessing.

The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the landing of the United Loyalists at Saint John, N.B., is to be celebrated in that city on May 18, 1933.

Household Hints

By Mrs. Mary Morton

MENU HINTS

Beef Stew With Vegetables
Cabbage Salad
Butterscotch or Other Pudding
Milk Tea

This is an economical menu which is well balanced as to foods and their relative value in the diet. I have included a number of pudding recipes in the recipes so that you may have a choice.

Today's Recipes

Butterscotch Pudding—Four tablespoons cornstarch, one cup water, one cup evaporated milk, one tablespoon butter, one cup brown sugar, dash of salt, one teaspoon vanilla. Mix cornstarch with one-four cup water. Scald remaining milk and water. Melt butter, add sugar and cook until sugar melts, stirring constantly. Add slowly to hot milk, stirring until well blended. Add cornstarch mixture and stir until thickened. After that, stir only occasionally, while cooking 20 minutes. Add flavoring and pour into molds to cool.

Hot Water Gingerbread—One-half cup boiling water, one cup molasses, two and one-fourth cups flour, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon ginger, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon clove, four tablespoons melted shortening. Add water to molasses. Mix and sift dry ingredients together. Combine mixtures, add melted shortening and beat vigorously. Pour into a buttered shallow pan or into greased muffin tins. Bake 25 minutes in a moderate oven.

Poor Man's Pudding—One-half cup rice, four cups milk, one-third cup molasses, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one tablespoon butter. Wash the rice, combine ingredients except the butter and pour into a greased baking dish. Bake three hours in a slow oven, 300 degrees Fahrenheit, stirring three times during the first hour to prevent rice from setting. At the last stirring add butter. Raisins, of course, may be added to this pudding, a half cup being sufficient. These, too should be stirred in the last stirring.

Indian Pudding—Five cups milk, scalded; one-third cup corn meal, one-half cup molasses, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon ginger, dash of cinnamon and nutmeg. Pour milk slowly onto corn meal. Cook over hot water 20 minutes. Add molasses, salt, ginger and spices. Turn into a greased baking dish and bake two hours in a slow oven 275 degrees Fahrenheit. If you find that you need to use a higher temperature, because of other foods being cooked, set the pan in a pan containing an inch of hot water, and cover the pudding during the baking period.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

One of the most charming of that new flock of Wampus Baby Stars has what you might almost call a passion for water drinking. She consumes quantities of that fluid each day, and she considers the habit one of the chief things responsible for her excellent health and flawless loveliness.

As far as I'm concerned, the gal's perfectly right. For the benefits of sufficient water drinking are innumerable. The blood needs water for a great many purposes. To dissolve the wastes in cells all over the body. To rush them along to the lungs, skin or kidneys so that they can be eliminated. To carry foods in solution to the tissues. To prevent the deposits of minerals that would harden the arteries and stiffen the joints. And to help prevent the accumulation of excess fat on the body.

The last reason is one of the most important. For there are quite a number of women who think that water is fattening. And it's really quite the opposite. In fact, any woman who is overweight and desires to reduce should see to it that she consumes plenty of water each day. For water assists in keeping the body its normal weight.

In many cases, overweight is due mostly to the improper removal of waste material from the body. Water cleanses the alimentary canal, dissolves the waste material in the tissues and sweeps the intestines clean of all poisons. In this way, by increasing bodily health, it assists in reduction. Moreover, it is necessary that an individual consume large quantities of water while reducing. For the reducing process breaks up the fat supply in the tissues, and a poisonous waste remains. The water flushes the entire system, and keeps it free of these poisons. And as a result, the weight of the body tends toward normality.

Of course, if a woman follows a good reducing routine such as the one outlined in my 'New Figure" booklet, she doesn't have to worry about her water intake. For that is included in the routine. But no woman who wishes to lose weight should curtail her water intake. If she does, she'll only be defeating her own efforts. For water really is a grand reducing, rather than fattening, agent.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Gooseflesh

Violet Forti: When taking your nightly bath, scrub your legs with a bland soap, using a small flesh brush. After the bath, massage the legs with cold cream or pure olive oil.

Bleach

Bobby: I know nothing of a detrimental nature about the preparation you name. A half and half mixture of lemon juice and dilute peroxide makes an excellent skin bleach.

Cosmetics

Jean: I think that a soft ochre shade of powder, soft orange rouge, and light lipstick would blend harmoniously with your coloring.

Owenbrook Auxiliary Plans To Make Quilt

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OWENBROOK, Feb. 23. — The monthly meeting of the W. A. of St. Andrew's Church was held on Thursday last at the home of Mrs. Ivan Liscum, opening with a Scriptural reading by Mrs. J. Rosebush, and prayer by Mrs. G. Robson. The Dorcas report showed that the quilt started last month had been completed by the members, and presented to one of the mothers, and a second quilt was well on its way to completion. Several articles of clothing had been manufactured out of material supplied by Rev. C. A. G. Spence, and given to needy cases.

After the report had been received it was moved by Mrs. G. Robson, seconded by Mrs. R. Winter, and carried unanimously, that an autograph quilt be commenced, and when completed be presented to Rev. and Mrs. Spence, the cost of names to be 5 cents each. It was decided to hold the next meeting at the church. The members present were Mrs. G. Robson, president, Mrs. F. Card, Vice-President, Mrs. J. Rosebush, Secretary, Mrs. R. Winter, Treasurer, Mrs. I. Liscum, Mrs. H. Washburn. Lunch was served by the president.

Saturday night was musical night for the A.Y.P.A., at Apsley, and attracted a large number of young people, about 60 attending the Parish Hall. A musical contest provided a great deal of amusement and interest. Miss P. Spence secured the highest number of points; Lloyd Lean being a close second, followed by Frank Tanner, and Evelyn Reid, all of whom were awarded prizes. A literary contest the week before was won by Elgin Peters, with Virgie Smith, second.

"I'm no martyr to a wash-board or a mending basket"

says Mother of five boys

"Surely this isn't the mother of these big boys—she must be their sister!" This is what you think when you meet jolly Mrs. Calvin C. Williams. She doesn't let herself get tired and old with hard rubbing on washday—not Mrs. Calvin C. Williams!

"CHIPSO soaks the dirt out of our big washes," she says. "No fear that clothes won't be clean after swirling in those grand Chipso suds! I don't have to rub them into rags. And everything's safe in Chipso."

That is the big point! Nothing can beat Chipso at getting out dirt—yet Chipso is SAFE, even for woolens and fine silks. So safe that clothes wear longer. It pays Mrs. Williams to use Chipso. She doesn't have to patch and darn all the time, or keep buying new clothes.

How can Chipso soak clothes clean so quickly—yet be so safe? Because Chipso is SOAPIER. You get thicker soapsuds with Chipso because it is not adulterated by harsh, "dirt-cutting" ingredients that injure clothes. Its rich suds bubble out dirt safely. It rinses quickly, leaving the clothes soft—shining clean—new looking.

Chipso is soft on your hands, too—simply grand for dishwashing! Get Chipso from your grocer. It is the best package-soap value in Canada today because it is richer and safer!

EXCELLENT DEFENSE

The hand below shows the utility of at once supporting partner upon three small trumps, when lacking a shift, and upon showing a second suit, although partner has supported the first suit.

Z made an opening bid of 1-Spade, which A overcalled with 2-Clubs. Rather than bid no trump upon a singly stopped suit and so weak a hand, Y bid 2-Spades. Z offered his partner a choice of makes, by bidding 3-Hearts, which Y raised to 4-Hearts. A doubled, expecting to win one spade, one club and two diamond tricks.

If A made an opening lead of his two high diamonds, before leading his clubs, the declarer would have lost no club trick, as he could have discarded his lowest club upon an established diamond in dummy, thus losing only two diamond and one spade tricks. A was too smart to play that way. He made an opening lead of his K of clubs, losing to Z's Ace. Three rounds of high hearts pulled all opposing trumps, leaving one trump in dummy and one with declarer. Then Z led a low diamond. A's K won the trick. Of course 9 could have led one club and taken his diamond trick, but then he would have been through. He did better than this. A took in one club trick, then he led his J of clubs. Dummy ruffed with its last heart. The declarer discarded his lowest spade. Another diamond was led. A's Ace won the trick, and he had nothing to lead but a club. This took the declarer's last trump, and A hoped to win a spade trick.

Z led his last diamond. Dummy overtook with the Q, then led the 10 discarded his J of spades, leaving him only his Ace and K of that suit.

The declarer played the hand with great skill. He won one club trick; three heart tricks, two spade tricks, two diamond tricks; dummy ruffed one club lead and the declarer ruffed one club lead. By very careful planning the declarer was able to win 10 tricks without having to take a finesse in spades. All the opposition won were two diamond tricks and one club trick, giving the declaring side its four-odd doubled.

A also should be accorded credit for his play of the hand. He gave the declarer every opportunity to make a mistake, but the declarer just would not take that spade finesse.

BUTTONS ARE MADE in two different types, those with shanks, and those which are pierced with two or more holes.

* * * * * * *

Occasionally in the latter class are buttons formed like beads in which there is really but one hole with two openings. Unlike beads, however, the hole does not run through the centre of the little ball, but at one side of the centre.

* * * * * * *

This permits the major part of the ball to stand out from the goods on which it is sewed, while the minor part forms a sort of shank. Gazing crystals is the name given to the latest style of these bead buttons in clear or cloudy glass.

* * * * * * *

The shanks in buttons are metal and are centred on the under side. The ends are embedded in the substance of the button, whatever that may be, wood, bone, composition, glass, etc.

* * * * * * *

The only part of the metal which is visible is a tiny, smooth loop. It is through this that the thread is run when sewing buttons on to materials, as was noted in the article of last week, of which this is a continuation.

* * * * * * *

The one disadvantage in shank buttons is that being made in two parts, tops sometimes come off. On the other hand, the solid tops lend themselves admirably to decoration. Most ornamental buttons are of the shank variety.

* * * * * * *

Pierced buttons have the advantage over the shank type that they are all one piece. They are, therefore, the kind best suited to practical purposes.

* * * * * * *

Cloth buttons, such as tailors make of goods matching garments, belong in the shank button classification. The shank is not of metal, but of slightly protruding circle of stout lining material on the under side of the button.

* * * * * * *

Tape button is a name given to a bone or pearl button having two wide holes through which narrow tape is run, the ends of which are sewed to lingerie, especially children's under-garments.

* * * * * * *

To sew on cloth buttons without shanks, take stitches in buttons near their edges, bringing the needle down through goods at a point under the centre of the button with each stitch.

* * * * * * *

Sew the button on with rather loose stitches, if for use, and when firmly attached to the garment, wind the thread around the sewing-on threads to form a sort of thread shank. End off thread on under side of goods.

* * * * * * *

If these lace or crochet buttons are for ornament only, sew down flat with stitches taken rather near edges and through material also.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

There is no way to tell the natural span of life of any animal until it becomes domesticated. The wild jackal, from which the dog family sprang, probably never got beyond the age of five years. At that age, the domesticated dog is just about beginning to decline from its period of greatest vigor.

In the wild state, such an animal would begin to lose its eyesight, its quickness of spring, its strength of jaw, and would die from starvation because it could not stalk any prey, or because it would be killed off by younger and more powerful members of its own pack.

The domesticated dog, on the contrary, frequently lives to the age of 12 or 15. It is petted, well fed, protected from getting under motor cars and horses' hoofs and from being attacked by other dogs. It is taken to the vet and wumpsy-dumpsied and bathed and kept free of fleas. These ordinary commonsense precautions allow it to live out its natural span of life.

The same thing has happened with man. Shakespeare wrote his "Sonnets" probably when he was in his twenties, but he frequently refers to himself as being almost on the brink of the grave. At 25 he deplores time's ravages. In that day, 350 years ago, the age of 30 was regarded as being fairly venerable. Nowadays, a young man hardly gets an education by the age of 30. He has just about begun to raise a family by that age. And he confidently expects to look forward to 30 or 30 years more of life at least, in order to raise that family and get it started before he passes on.

This change has been brought about partly by our increased knowledge of hygiene, but largely by the fact that man has become domesticated. Nature in the raw is seldom mild, and the condition of mankind in a savage or semi-savage community was such that most individuals were killed off by violence.

Most of those who were not killed by violence died of infectious diseases. Infections from bad milk and bad water, and lowered resistance from bad food, killed most individuals in the first year of life. They still do, but not to such an extent as formerly. Such infections as malaria and typhoid fever carried off whole cities. It is more than likely that the ruined city of Angkor Vat was deserted on account of malaria—the entire population decimated.

As a result, we find today that man is allowed to live out his natural span of existence. Which is probably closer to 80 years than the 70 years of the Old Testament. Therefore, we hear increasingly more of the diseases which are natural to old age, such as heart disease, kidney disease, cancer and diabetes.

I sometimes wonder—but my time is up and I will save the wonder until tomorrow.

ERA OF HOOP-SKIRT IN OTONABEE IS REFLECTED IN OLD DAY BOOK OF 1862 KEPT BY GEORGE READ

Tea Was Manifestly a Luxury, Costing $1.20 Per Pound.

5,000 ENTRIES IN BOOK.

Keene at That Time Was Most Flourishing Community.

The era of the hoop-skirt in Otonabee Township seventy-one years ago is reflected in an old day book recording the merchandizing business that was done in the general store at Keene, conducted by George Read, father of W. G. Read, Gilmour street.

This store was situated on the north side of the road leading to the bridge over the Indian River, recently occupied by S. Taylor, hardware dealer. In George Read's time Thomas Campbell, father of W. D. Campbell, of Campbell and Best, Hunter street, was the chief clerk and accountant. One of Thomas Campbell's duties was to "keep the books," and all the entries in the day book were entered by him in ink, showing a handwriting that might be used as a model for school copy books, if art in manuscript is still pursued. Mr. Campbell's flowing pen runs along on page after page of this bulky volume with freedom and grace of movement, indicating thoroughness, neatness and something of the artist's touch that were probably all marks of his character.

The old day book of 1862 and 1863 is not only a personal revelation, but in a broader sense it holds a clear mirror to the life and habits of the large community that centred about Keene nearly three-quarters of a century ago.

A Village of Industry.

From one of the late Frank Dobbin's memoirs of the folklore of Peterborough County, it appears that about that time Keene was a flourishing community with a flour mill, saw mill and tannery operated by water from the Indian River. There were two carriage and sleigh-making shops, three stores, three hotels, three blacksmiths, three shoemakers, tailors, saddlers and harness makers, and other handicraftsmen.

It was the day of manual labor when apparently the average man could always obtain work, the modern capitalist and the inter-locking corporations had not appeared on the economic and industrial stage, and the technocrat was even less conceived than the radio broadcaster, the ocean-hopping airmen and women, and the marvel of high-powered motor cars.

With all our wonders of invention, people of the older generation to-day are inclined to look back on their youth when the first signs of the industrial revolution were appearing on the old familiar horizon. And in this record that was kept by Thomas Campbell at Keene is found a cross-section of the manners and customs of that day when this land was studded with busy little villages.

Tea Was a Luxury.

Tea was manifestly a luxury in 1862, costing from 90 cents to $1.20 a pound. Men's boots, hand-made, were of various qualities, brogans, buskins, cowhide, Congress, "bloomers," and so on.

Mr. Read disposed of the store to Thomas Campbell and James McNeil, and the business was subsequently sold to Anderson and Skinner. A mere perusal of the register of business indicates that the system of barter was extensively employed. Farmers sold pork and grain and other produce to George Read, and received credits against their purchases. Others sold barrels and other articles. Today the cycle has almost swung back to that form of business.

George Read was an ex-M.P.P., postmaster, general merchant, clerk of the Council of Otonabee, clerk of the Division Court, and issuer of marriage licenses.

5,000 Entries in Book.

This old day book was bought from Richard White, "account book manufacturer, job printer, general stationer," No. 4, Market Block, Peterborough.

It comprises 786 pages with an average of fourteen entries to the page, an approximate total of 5,000. The first accounts recorded the business done on Saturday, March 8, 1862, and the last are of Thursday, May 7, 1863.

In the opening pages there is recurring mention of purchases of plaster, which presumably was used by farmers in those days as a fertiliser, or perhaps to maintain the lime content of the soil. This, however, is only conjecture.

The first entry relates that John Wood bought five barrels of plaster at $1.40 for $7. Six barrels cost Alex Wood $8.40. Peter Gillespie bought 4 barrels of plaster for $5.60 and one-third book 17c, the total being $5.77.

John Rubidge, 1 lb. tea, $1.30. James Brough, 4½ yds. brown denim, 90c. Andrew Nelson, 4 lbs. sugar, 50c.

Possibly those March days fell within the Lenten time of abstinence. At any rate William Quinlan bought ½ barrel of herrings for $2.50; and an order for Patrick Quinlan included half a barrel of herrings at $2.50, 1 lb. tea $1.50, one bundle of matches 10c, and 2 lbs. of shot 25c, and 1 canister of powder 25c.

Cod Liver Oil in Use.

The following are various accounts selected here and there in recollection of the old families of Otonabee and the articles they bought at George Read's general store:

Wm. McIvor, postage 1 letter, 7c. Richard Quinn, 1 lb. salts 10c, ¼ lb. senna 13c, 1 box pills 25c.

Credit John Blezard 81¼ bush. barley at 45c, $36.57. Dr. Amos McCrea, sugar $1 and 6 lbs. herrings 18c. Mrs. James McCann, one washboard 27c and 1 3-16 lbs. soap 12c.

George Gillespie, Sr., one shoe hammer, 25c. Robt. Esson, 22 lbs. clover seed, $2.20. Alex Fee and wife, 1 child's hat 80c, 1 pr. child's shoes 50c, coat and pants $9.75, ¼ doz. spoons 50c.

David West, 1 pt. coal oil, 11c. Thos. Buchanan, 2 yds. linen diaper, 54c. David McNevan, 1 bottle cherry balm, 75c. Hugh Read, 1 sugar kettle $5.45; 1 coffee mill 45c, 1 handkerchief 14c.

Credit Peter Anderson, by making a suit for Thomas Campbell, $5. And the next item debits Mr. Campbell this $5 item.

John Wallace bought 2 lbs. candles for 30c. Richard Walsh 12 panes glass, 7" by 9", 48c, and ½ gal. boiled oil 55c.

Alex Wood, 4 lbs. rich 28c, ½ doz. plates 27c, candies 5c and 20 lbs. codfish $1.

Candle Wick Bought.

Mrs. D. Comrie, 1 lb. tea, $1.30. Gavin Shearer, ½ doz. egg cups, 30c. William John Dickson, 3 balls of candle wick, 15c.

Credit Peter Londerville, by 12 pork barrels, $15. John Soucie bought 2 window blinds for 20c. A daughter of David Fife bought 1 dress pattern for $4.50, 1 hoop skirt 90c, 4 yds. cambric 36c, 2 yds. white flannel $1.20, 3 yds. gingham 36c.

Mrs. Wm. Nelson, 2 pails 50c, 1 broom 17c, 42 yards factory (cotton) at 15c a yard, $6.30, 1 lb. soda 10c and 1 lb. tea 95c.

S.S. No. 4, 1 bot. ink, 17c. Jas. Beckett, 7 yds. stripe shirting, $1.33. eter Londerville, 2 oz. lozenges, 5c. James McCann, 1 pt. pale seal oil, 13c. John Nelson, 1 lb. buckshot, 14c.

Dr. McCrea, 1 pair boots (bloomers), $1.90. Hugh Kent, 2 lbs. candles, 30c. John Gall, 1 1-3 yds. moleskin, 80c. Alex. Johnston, 100 lbs. flour, $2.75. Geo. Read, 2 lbs. crackers 20c, 4 lbs. cheese 40c.

Note of Mourning.

Another item suggests bereavement in the family of Archibald McIntyre: 31½ yds. black Cobourg $11.82, 24 yds. cambric $13.98, 2 yds. grass linen 48c, 1 yd. Holland (linen) 25c, ¾ yds. crepe 60c, 4 pairs black gloves 50c.

Mrs. Wm. Lang bought an umbrella for 80c. An order for Mrs. Mary Lynch was: 1 coat $5.50, 4 yds. ticking $1.08, 1½ yds. oilcloth 60c, 1 pitcher 33c, 1 cream jug 20c, 1 covered dish 55c.

Mrs. James Barnes: 2¾ yds. doveskin $3.85, 21 yds. print $3.50, 1 girl's hat $1.50, 2 hoop skirts $2.25.

Township of Otonabee, 200 envelopes 50c, sealing wax 10c. From that item it may be deduced that letters were sealed with wax in those days.

Wm. McCracken, one clock, $4. John Grier, "to writing," 50c. The variety of merchandise and service in that general store is little short of amazing. Possibly Mr. Grier had a letter written for him, and if it were by Thomas Campbell it was an excellent work of penmanship.

Credit Peter Anderson $1 for making a vest for George Howson. Credit Richard Elmhirst as follows: 10½ doz. eggs at 7c, 73c; 10½ lbs. butter at 11c, $1.15; 17 lbs. lard at 7c, $1.19; 16½ lbs. tallow at 10c, $1.65.

Mrs. John Lancaster bought 9½ yds. of Delaine for $1.43. Joseph Bowie, 1 pair cowhide boots, $3.20. Peter Londerville (in April), 5 lbs. eels, 15c. Peter Londerville, sulphur and aloes, 5c.

Day of Stay Laces.

Mrs. Archibald McIntyre, 16 yds. second mourning, $2.72. John Gobbie, 1 trace chain, 99c. Mrs. Alex Connell, 2 stay laces, 4c. Rev. D. B. Madden, 1½ doz. shoe laces 30c.

Credit Thomas Short 1 lb. tobacco, 45c. Credit Dougald Shearer 3 coon skins, 62c.

Debit John Walsh to 53 lbs. pork, waste on damaged hog; 58 lbs. salt used in repacking twice, charged in 1861 account.

Credit Philip Elmhirst's daughter by 1 pair ladies' boots returned, $1.90.

George Read bought 13 pounds of ham at 6 cents, costing 78c. Dr. A. McCrea, 3 pints olive oil, 75c. James Weir, 1 pr. overalls, 90c. Wm. McCracken (Wm. High and order), 7 yds. hat crape 88c, 3 prs. black gloves 51c.

Thos. Lockhard, 1 pr. boy's boots, $1.60. Presbyterian Church (John Mein), 6 lbs. whiting, 24c.

Credit library by cash per G. Gillespie from Westwood Church, $2.75. John Soucie, pr. boys' gaiters, $1.30.

Seeds for Spring.

Another touch of spring: Farrel Shaw, 1 oz. onion seed 13c, ½ oz. cabbage seed 7c, 1 pint top onions 10c.

Alex. McFee, 1 pr. kid boots $1.90. Alex. Graham, 2 bottles Stoughton's Bitters, 50c. Michael Quinn, 12 lbs. clover seed, $1.20.

Credit Peter Anderson $5, by making suit for Dr. McCrea. And also credit Alex. McFee $1.90 by 1 pair kid boots returned. Then on May Day credit White, Hamilton & Co. (Peterborough) with a supply of No. 2 and No. 5 plow points.

James Wason, quinine, calomel and jalap, 38c. Israel Humphries, 30 lbs. clover seed, $3. Michael Quinn, 1 plow point 50c, 1 scythe stone 10c. Patrick Logan, 2 oz. bees' wax, 8c. Captain Paudash, 1 lb. Japan tea, 95c. R. E. Birdsall, 24 lbs. clover seed, $2.40. Rev. Francis Andrews, 2 lbs. white sugar, 28c. Thos. Ashburn, 1 cow bell, 90c. John Knox, 6 milk pans, $1.02, when the cream was skimmed off before the De Laval idea was conceived.

Mrs. Wm. Lang, 12 yds. black silk, $19.20. Mrs. D. Comrie, for cloth and making suit for her son, John, $14.50. Duncan McIntyre, white tea set, $4.20. Wm. Redpath, 1 pair buskins, $1.20. Dr. McCrea, 1 bottle Eau de Cologne, 34c.

Credit for the Tailor.

The tailor knew nothing of depression in that pre-machine age. And so Peter Anderson is frequently mentioned in Thomas Campbell's journal. On June 2, 1862, he is credited with $20.40 as follows: Suit for John McLoughlin $4.80; ditto Peter Londerville $4.80; suit for R. English $4.50, one for "W. Blezard's man" $4.50, pants for John Plunkett 90c, and to D. McCarthy's son 90c.

Credit Wynan and Butler $100 for cash to buy wool. And here's the old Adam winking through another entry which tells that on June 3 William Simpson's son bought fish hooks and a line for 22 cents. There were some noses that escaped the unrelenting grindstone for those who were building solid estates. Somewhere in the neighborhood there must have been a drive of lumber for several entries refer to Strickland & Company's purchases of pork

A Coat For Summer.

Patrick Gilroy, June 3, 1 summer coat $1.50, 1 pair pants $1.60, braces 35c. Mrs. James Miller 8 5-16 lbs. cheese 84c. Peter Hewie 1 bbl. salt $2.25, canister of powder 40c.

Credit Peter Hewie 12 lbs. wool at 30c., $3.60 and 24 26-34 bush. oats at 40c, $9.90. Arch. Bryce 2 pr. socks 70c. Rich. Quinn 4 oz. snuff 12c. N. Woodcock balance on brogans 22c.

The seasonal changes continue to be recorded in the purchases of the many customers. As Christmas approached the customers bought more noticeably currants and raisins, spices and so on, the familiar and unchanging ingredients of puddings and cakes.

Here are a few more final sales to conclude the excerpts from Thomas Campbell's remarkably legible account book:

Mrs. A. Fife 1 pr. scissors 32c. Peter McIntyre 1 pitcher 15c; Francis Birdsall 10 lbs. candles $1.34; 1 package of cards 33c. James Galon paid A. McGregor $3 for making a coat.

Dec. 24—Wm Lang brass candle sticks 40c, 2 lbs. raisins 34c, 2 yds. table linen $1, ½ doz. knives and forks $1.40.

Wm. Calder's daughter 2 lbs. raisins 34c, ¼ lb. allspice 4c, candies 13c.

And so on, a repetition of such names as Comrie, Drummond, Eaton, Anderson, Hewie, Doris, Ashburn, Birdsall, Hope, Wood, Blezard Evans, Robertson, Miller, Welch, Mahony, Read, McNevan, Loderville, Fife, Elmhirst, McFee, Gillespie, and so on. Hundreds of names, most them still appearing in the business and social affairs of Otonabee and Keene.

Days of the tallow candle, the hoopskirt, scythes, full cloth, homespun, darning needles, and so on, when society lacked many of the refinements that are common in the homes to-day. But, with the older generation the conviction persists that when the whole account is balanced there was something to the credit of the social and economic phases those years in 1862-3 that has been lost without substitutes of enduring satisfaction.

BREATH LOOKS LIKE SMOKE HAND LIKE GLOWING EMBER

British Scientists Use Mirage Principle in New Optical Invention

OF PRACTICAL USE

London—Three young British scientists have developed from an old principle an apparatus which makes it possible to see heat.

To an interviewer who paid a visit to their laboratory at Harlesden, the investigator said: "Hold up your hand. You know it has warmth, but can you see how much warmth?"

The hand was then placed against an instrument and its image reflected on a screen.

It appeared to be on fire.

A test was then made with a heated rod, which looked like a flaming brand. Breath, even in the well warmed room, looked like a jet of tobacco smoke.

These scientists have been at work for nearly three years on this optical apparatus.

Bend Light Through Prisms

Light is "bent" through prisms under temperature conditions which set up a "mirage" effect. "Shimmering" of heat is caused in the same way, but here the "shimmer" is more efficiently visualized.

Its purpose is mainly commercial and came about in this way:

For a long while the electrical industry has been troubled because the heat from an electric light bulb tends to rot the flex which suspends it.

So H. G. Taylor, P. D. Morgan and W. Lethersich were deputed to find a remedy.

By applying the principle of the mirage they developed the apparatus which makes it possible to see heat.

Has Practical Uses

Looking at a suspended electric light bulb through the instrument they saw the heat like smoke licking round the flex just above the bulb.

So they got busy and found a way to protect the flex.

But the apparatus can be put to other useful purposes. It can be used for finding the best methods of heating and ventilating rooms, theatres or factories. With a small model of a room one could see the draughts and paths of heat.

The safety in mines research board are already using the device for discovering the force and effects of explosives.

CONDUCTOR UPON BUS BROKE UP PROPOSAL

Demanded Fares Just as Question Being Popped

London—A story of an interrupted proposal of marriage on the top of an omnibus was told when a breach of promise action was heard in the king's bench division.

The action was one in which Miss Daisy Hoare, Stratford, received judgment for £200 damages, with costs, against Isaac Osborne Jones, who denied that he made any promise.

Miss Hoare testified she and Jones were alone on the top of the bus and that he had just asked: "Do you care enough for me to marry me?" when the conductor interrupted by coming upstairs and demanding fares.

PAINT BRUSH MADE ACTRESS SAY WORDS NEVER UTTERED

Took Ten Days to Make Connie Bennett Change Five Words

SAVED FIRM MONEY

London. — Can synthetic voices made from ink and cardboard ever take the place of great singers on the screen?

Singers, actors and actresses are asking these questions because of a startling new process by which "voices" which never spoke and which never could speak can give realistic renderings of song and dialogue on the screen.

This new process is a natural development of talking films. Its originator is E. A. Humphriss, the young technical supervisor in London of a big film corporation, who had studied the appearance of sound when photographed—a wavy line rather like a cross-section of a steep mountain range, running perpendicularly down the edge of the film. When put through the projector this results in talking, singing, music, according to the variations in the bumps and peaks.

It suddenly occurred to him that there was nothing to stop a man from drawing similar peaks, photographing them, projecting them, and hearing the result.

He tried. And it worked.

The first voice Mr. Humphriss painted spoke like an American. By altering its "shape" with a paint brush he could make it talk like a Cockney or a Scot. He could do strips that would speak German, French or Italian. He could make them sing like Caruso or Melba. He could make strips that would bark like a dog or howl like a hyena, and he could make others that would give out diabolical noises, the like of which man has never heard. Here was a new and possibly dangerous power.

Then there came a chance to put it to practical use. An American film was banned by the censor here because the producer had unwittingly used the name of a living English peer. To send the film back to America to be altered would have cost a lot of money and meant much loss of time. Instead, Mr. Humphriss volunteered to make the actress (Constance Bennett) appear to speak a fictitious name which she had never heard.

He procured pieces of the film showing the sound track which he had to imitate. He put the pieces under a miscroscope which magnified them 20 times. By studying them, he got the characteristic bumps and curves that go to make an American woman's voice.

Eighty Feet For Five Words

Then he began to draw the new words. There were only five of them, but it took him ten days to complete that alteration. The strip of card he had to fill was 80 feet long. This was because half a yard of film passes through a projector every second, and Mr. Humphriss was drawing on a scale 20 times as large. His ten days' work passed before the public in two or three seconds. The film went all over the country and no one detected that Constance Bennett was not speaking.

Once the practical difficulties are overcome, the possibilities of this discovery are staggering.

Dead voices that have once been recorded can be made to sing new songs. Great singers of the past become immortal. An actress would only have to speak a sample line of her part and artists could do the rest.

Flaws in the human voice could be rectified with ink and paintbrush. But by photographing the perfect note and examining it microscopically its perfection could be kept in a drawing and its pitch altered by a few strokes of the paint brush. Thus a voice with a perfect range could be manufactured out of paint and card.

PROTEST "COST OF DYING"

Roubaix, France.—This great textile town of the north has formed a committee of economic action against the high cost of living. The organization's first step was to launch a protest with the municipal council against the high cost of graves. It costs between four and five hundred dollars for a "perpetual concession."

KING USES BROUGHAM TO REPLACE TAXICAB

Thus Avoids Staff Cuts at Royal Mews

London—Need for economy has led to a return of an old custom in the carrying of messages and dispatch boxes between Buckingham Palace and government offices in Whitehall in a brougham from the Royal Mews, driven by a cockaded coachman.

Recently it was suggested cuts might be made in the establishment of the Mews. When the King heard of the practice of using taxicabs for the conveyance of messages he at once saw a way out. "Keep my men and use them and the horses and broughams from the stables instead of taxis," was his order.

PAGES OF "PARSIFAL" BURIED WITH AUTHOR

Had Been Copied Out by Woman Admirer

London.—The last gift of many from a woman whom George Moore, the author, had counted among his best friends since her girlhood, was buried with him.

This woman, the wife of one of the best known and most influential men in London, is herself beloved for her charm and generosity of spirit.

With the affection of long friendship she had copied out a few pages from the first act of Wagner's "Parsifal," covered them with snowdrops, and placed them in George Moore's hands when she paid a last silent visit to her lifelong friend.

FAIR ALBANIAN ENDS LIFE UPON STEPS OF CENOTAPH

She Had Tried to Commit Suicide Four Times Before

SECRET FOR WEEKS

London.—Several remarkable features have come to light concerning the death of Mme. Zeiner Vlora, a beautiful Albanian woman, whose suicide on the steps of the Cenotaph in Whitehall the day after her arrival from Paris, was hushed up for five weeks at the request of powerful officials in Albania.

It was the fifth attempt at suicide made by the woman, who was a member of a noted Albanian family connected with diplomatic circles.

Her death was kept secret because the authorities feared an attempt in Albania to make political capital out of the tragedy.

Mme. Vlora has carried the secret of her past sufferings and lonely life in Paris to the grave. She was the divorced wife of an Albanian subject, Djeine Vlora. Her nearest relatives are a son in Albania and a daughter in Italy.

Her red hair was going gray under the strain of domestic troubles and financial stress.

She had only a few shillings in her possession at the time of her death. It is believed that permanganate of potash was the poison which she took.

C. Wright Morris, Trinity, Edinburgh, who at the age of 82 has just celebrated his diamond wedding, claims that when a young man, doctors told him they could do nothing for him. His ailments included asthma, varicose veins, heart trouble and rheumatoid arthritis. He formed his own theories about health, and claims that his age is proof that they were correct.

BRUMMAGEM TRAFFIC NOTABLY HAZARDOUS

Some 6,000 Killed or Injured There in 1932

Birmingham.—Birmingham traffic authorities are perturbed by preliminary figures, which show the city again holds the grim record for the highest total of persons killed or injured by road traffic in any provincial centre, the 1932 total being 6,000, an increase of 360.

Birmingham has more licensed vehicles for its population than any other city in the kingdom and insurance actuaries estimate that chances of being killed or injured in its streets are at least 7 per cent. greater than in any other city of comparable size.

LEFT SAVOY A CLERK NOW GUEST IN SUITE

Losing Job Prelude to Prosperity for Linguist

London.—Three years ago Luigi Luraschi was a clerk at the Savoy.

Recently he returned to occupy a luxurious suite of rooms for now he earns exactly nine times as much a week as he did when he was a clerk.

He speaks seven languages, including Arabic, and his abilities have earned for him a position as technical adviser to one of the leading film companies in the United States.

"I left London," said Mr. Luraschi, "thinking I would extend my experience in the hotel business by visiting the United States, but I was taken ill with appendicitis, and lost my job."

While recuperating, he got a translation job which brought him to the attention of the film concern.

EXORCIZE EVIL ONES BY BURNING CLAVIE

Villagers of Burghead Still Observe Strange, Centuries-Old Custom

Aberdeen. — The centuries-old custom of burning the clavie was recently observed at Burghead by the villagers, with the object of ensuring that no evil spirits would enter their homes during 1933.

The clavie, in its modern form, consists of the lower half of a heavy Archangel tar barrel fixed to a salmon fisher's net stake, and filled with the broken parts of the other half, tar, and other combustibles.

The work of construction was done during the day on the seashore, and was superintended by William Peterkin, whose family has had a close connection with the ceremony for generations. An ordinary beach stone was used in the nailing together of the parts. The use of a hammer is looked upon as desecration of the clavie.

At night, after the flaming barrel was carried through the village streets, it was finally borne to Doorie Hill, overlooking Moray Firth. The burning clavie could be seen for miles around Burghead.

At last the barrel began to fall apart. Simultaneously, several hundreds of people surged forward in a rush to secure pieces of the clavie. Fragments and embers were snatched up and borne to many homes, some to be guarded jealously as a charm to ward off evil spirits, some to be sent to Burghead natives abroad, and some to be taken on board vessels in the harbor as a protection against the evil spirits of the elements.

Formerly pieces of the burning wood were thrown on board boats, but following the destruction of a vessel by fire as a consequence many years ago, this practice was abandoned.

DEATH HAS OUTRIDDEN OLDEST OF JOCKEYS

Was Nearly 105, Had 33 Children, Never Once Laid Wager

Appleford. — John Faulkner, the oldest jockey in the world, died here in Berkshire within a few months of his 105th birthday.

For 66 years he rode on every racecourse in England, beginning when he was eight.

Some of the outstanding facts in the life story of this amazing little man are:

He had 33 children, many of whom he had forgotten, and was married twice, the second time to a girl of sixteen.

In his first race at Epsom he was promised threepence if he won, a good hiding if he lost. He won.

He broke nearly every bone in his body, and at 96 fractured a leg when breaking in a mule. His last race was a steeplechase when he was 74.

He never laid a bet in his life.

He called for a pint of ale on his deathbed.

"You can't ride a horse crouching like a monkey, with your arms and legs around his neck," he used to say. "There is nothing like sitting well back, as we used to do in the old days."

CRIPPLE SINCE SIX LAD WRITES PLAYS

Sir Barry Jackson Is to Produce One

Bedford.—Although a cripple since the age of six, when he was stricken with paralysis, and although now only 23, Henry Laurence Miller has written two plays, one of them so striking and clever that Sir Barry Jackson has put aside his earlier intentions for the Queen's theatre in order to present it there, with a cast headed by Cedric Hardwicke.

The title of this play is "Head On—Crash!"

This is not Miller's first achievement for, as an external student of London University in 1929 he got his degree—B.Sc., economics, first-class honors—taking third place in all England.

WAR AND GOLD RUSH PIE FOR "DULL BOY"

Single-Handed He Averted Battle in Land of Revered Peglegs

London.—He was the "dullest schoolboy ever" and always in trouble, this son of a Gloucestershire farmer, but he stopped a tribal war single-handed, and has just been commended by the native affairs department of Kenya Colony for the tact and skill which he displayed in turning the recent gold rush into something like a Sunday church parade.

"The general atmosphere of peace and goodwill is largely due to Police Constable T. A. Slatter," reads the official report, adding that his decisions were accepted without demur by both diggers and natives.

It was in 1931, when the hostile Lumbwa and Masai tribes near Kenya declared war on each other, that Constable Slatter placed himself single-handed between the armed tribes when they were on the point of battle and succeeded in bringing about a peaceful settlement.

The tribesmen then honored him by using his name for a ceremonial rite, and for years to come, it is said, the name of Slatter will be given to native babies born in the area.

In describing his intervention to his parents at Winchcombe, Slatter said that the natives had been feasting for days on raw flesh to develop the blood lust for battle, and finally had reached the requisite stage of frenzy.

He admitted that had he as much as turned his head when facing those two tribes, one after the other, he would have been cut to pieces.

Incidentally one of the unusual activities of the Kenya administration is to supply wooden legs to natives who have suffered amputations. These are made to measure by a European, who takes with him, as a demonstrator, an old Swahili who lost his leg many years ago. This man is active on his peg, and points out the advantages of a monopod life, till the patient almost comes to feel that fortune has conferred a favor on him by depriving him of an unseemly excrescence.

TELLS OF DEATH FIGHT IN CLERKENWELL HALL

Mining Engineer Fought Off Slayer Once, Nearly Saving Professor

London.—A vivid description of a struggle for life in the hall of a Hampstead house was given by a witness in the Marylebone police court.

Theodosios Petrou, aged 20, a native of Cyprus, but resident in Clerkenwell, made a further appearance on remand to answer a charge of murdering Dr. Angelos Zemenides, a Cypriot language master, who was found shot in Hampstead. Petrou was remanded.

Arthur William Deby, a mining engineer, who occupied a room on the ground floor of the house, said that he admitted a visitor to Dr. Zemenides.

Shortly afterwards he heard the doctor cry "Mr. Deby...quick...help me!" He went out and saw the couple struggling. He thought the caller had a revolver in his hand. They let go of each other and the first shot was fired.

"I said to the caller 'Stop it, you fool!' and stepped backwards towards my room with Dr. Zemenides behind me. I managed to get him into my room. He was terror-stricken. The caller bounced into the room and fired.

"Dr. Zemenides had been holding my shoulder. After the shot I felt him relinquish his hold and I let him slide to the ground. I pushed the caller out of my room and locked the door."

SENTENCED TO DEATH IS LATER EXONERATED

French Court-Martial Reverses Decree of Execution on Alleged Traitor

Paris.—Leon Guilbeaux, whom the French sentenced to death in his absence in 1919 on a charge of having furnished intelligence to the enemy during the war, has just been acquitted by court-martial here. After an intensely dramatic sitting the prosecution abandoned the case and the military judges returned a unanimous verdict of not guilty.

Guilbeaux returned from abroad and gave himself up last August on account of his anxiety to establish his innocence. He was defended by Maitre Henry Torres.

At the hearing a witness for the defence, M. Henri Reboul, described as having been entrusted with "an official military mission to Geneva," denied that a man named Paul Schlessinger, with whom Guilbeaux had been in touch, was a German agent. "But, in view of the source of my information, I can only give evidence in camera," the witness added.

The judges retired to hear M. Reboul give his evidence in camera. When the public sitting was resumed the prosecuting officer announced that he had abandoned the prosecution. After only five minutes' deliberation the judges declared the defendant a free man.

Grezes, France.—The body of 65-year-old M. Sembat was being taken to the cemetery when the bearers heard tappings. The coffin was at once opened and medical help summoned. The man was treated and taken back to his home. He does not yet know that he came nearly being buried alive.

BULGARIAN BANDITS EXECUTE THREE MEN

'Fast Becoming Americanized' Is Comment in Sofia

Sofia.—Under the headline, "We are fast becoming Americanized," a Bulgarian journal reports the "execution" by bandits of three men charged with murdering and robbing a Macedonian school teacher. After a whole year's delay the accused were finally being transferred to the locality, Gorna Jumaia, where they had committed the crime. Fifty Macedonian bandits, styling themselves "a court on horseback," stopped the train, overpowered the police, removed the murderers, held court on the railroad tracks and executed the prisoners.

STREETS OF VIENNA BLOCKADED BY TAXIS

Drivers Protested Gasoline Tax—Halted Chancellor Dollfuss's Car

Vienna.—Converging from all quarters on to the busiest part of the city, Vienna taxicab drivers parked their cabs, emptied the radiators, and left them to block the traffic, in protest against a high gasoline tax.

In a car jammed in the centre of the hold-up the drivers espied the Austrian chancellor, Herr Dollfuss. They promptly surrounded him, shouting their demands. A detective sitting beside the chauffeur whipped out a revolver and threatened to shoot anyone who came near.

Troops were called out. They arrived on foot with fixed bayonets and in armored cars and motor tractors, and proceeded to drag the taxicabs from the streets.

FRENCH GIRL MARRIED 10 YEARS ERE 'BORN'

Erroneous Entry in Birth Register Can Only Be Corrected by Courts

Rouen.—When the clerk to the maire of the town of Sotteville, between here and Dieppe, came to examine the papers of a prospective bride, he was astonished to find that she has ten years to wait before she is born, for the papers she presented showed that though she claims to be twenty, her birthday is not until 1943.

The explanation is that when the birth was being registered in 1913 a clerical error caused it to be set down as 1943. And, strange as it may seem, this entry has been allowed to stand ever since, being copied into other registers and copied on to any certificate issued in respect of Mlle. Germaine Herve, the girl in question.

The registrar of the marriage had no option but to repeat the error, and thus the couple were given a marriage certificate in which the bride's year of birth is set out as taking place ten years from now, that is ten years after her marriage. Officials say they have no authority to make the correction because they have no data by which to check the girl's version of her birth date.

It will be necessary to have an order from the courts accepting the date she gives, and calling on the officials concerned to make the necessary corrections in their records. As neither the girl nor the husband want to find funds for the necessary legal proceedings, she will have to go through life as the woman married ten years before she was born, and quite possibly will be a mother before the date of her own birth in 1943.

MARIA IS PROHIBITED AS MASCULINE NAME

Names Must Indicate Sex, Prague Rules

Prague.—The authorities here have upheld the refusal of a registrar to enter the name of a baby boy as "Ludwig Maria" in his books. The official ruling is that "Maria" cannot be used for a boy, since "the principal aim of Christian names is to indicate the sex." "Maria" is a girl's name, and in the eyes of the law even its conjunction with a boy's name might not tend to avert error. "Maria" is a name borne by many well-known men in Germany, including Carl Maria von Weber, the composer.

VATICAN CITY SHOWS NOTABLE GROWTH

Population Has Doubled Within Two Years

Vatican City.—The population of Vatican City is growing apace, and at the end of December had already doubled that of the census taken two years ago.

The density of population of the Vatican City is now by far the greatest in Europe, being 6,000 inhabitants per square mile, as compared with 660 in Belgium. The total population is 1,025, of whom 726 are male and 299 female. Of these 735 are "citizens" with "Vatican nationality" and passports. Eighteen of them (nine boys and nine girls) acquired this status by birth, and are consequently less than four years old, while the remainder were granted their new nationality under the Lateran Treaty of 1929.

After deducting these 18 and the 117 members of the Swiss Guard and their families, the remaining "citizens" are seen to be almost exclusively of Italian extraction with 578 out of 600. There are no British, and the only American is merely a "resident"—a young lady born in the United States of Italian parents, who are now Vatican officials.

CREDITORS TO CONTROL ROUMANIA'S FINANCES

Government to Pay Off Arrears Over Five-Year Period

Geneva.—Financial control of another European state has passed into the hands of its creditors. Roumania has signed an agreement with the finance committee of the League of Nations which, in such matters, acts almost openly on behalf of the central banks of the big powers.

It is notable that the bankers have insisted that in the preamble of the agreement there shall be a reference to the fact that Roumania has re-established the gold standard. One chief object of the agreement is, indeed, to keep her "on gold" in the interests of her creditors.

The Roumanian government pledges itself to carry through a program of financial reform which shall make it possible to resume full payment to its creditors and to pay off all arrears. This reform is to be carried through by a financial adviser, nominated by the league (which means, in effect, by the big powers) and assisted by three experts recommended by the league to the Roumanian government.

Already foreign experts are virtually in control of the state railways and the national bank and they are to remain for the period of the agreement. In short, whatever may happen in Roumanian politics these six foreigners will have complete power over all her finances. And they will use their power primarily to ensure that the foreign creditors get full payment of interest and arrears.

The control is to last for four years. The bankers wanted five; the Roumanians tried hard to get away with three. There was a severe struggle and a threat of deadlock—and then the usual compromise.

COUNTERFEITERS AID GREEK GOVERNMENT

Cause Rush to Unload U.S. Currency—Exchange Rate Helps Treasury

Athens.—An epidemic of forged United States dollar notes widely circulated throughout Greece has helped to solve the Greek finance minister's most pressing problems.

The Greek government, eager to meet its foreign obligations, agreed with its foreign bondholders to pay 30 per cent. of the interest due. This offer was accepted by the bondholders, but it left treasury officials wondering how to find the money without endangering the exchange. A group of "American forgers" solved the finance minister's difficulty.

The "arrest" of the men following the "forged note discoveries" caused great concern among wealthy Greeks, who had been quietly accumulating foreign money. In case their notes, too, were forgeries, they went to the banks and cashed them.

In four days no less than $5,000,000 in foreign currency had been accumulated by the banks. This was just about the sum the government wanted to pay out abroad. Commitments were promptly met and the exchange did not suffer in the least, thanks to the "gangsters!"

MONTE CARLO WIVES ON SHOPPING STRIKE

Buy in Italy, Instead of in Monaco

Monte Carlo.—Wives of Monte Carlo croupiers have gone on a "shopping" strike and refuse to buy household supplies here.

Croupiers are having an unhappy time at the moment, most of them being unemployed because there are few visitors, and their wives have to go where food is cheapest. Monte Carlo, they say, is not cheap, but Italy is, and so they are going to Ventimiglia, just across the border.

Petes Win Game 4-3 But Lose on Round 9-7

SPYING on SPORTS

International — Canadian

"Gossip and Such

IT IS HIGHLY DOUBTFUL whether anything in this wo-begone world has been deflated to as great an extent as the batting average of the Detroit Tigers.

FOR DECADES THE TERror and pacemaker of both major leagues, the Tigers' stick work in recent years has collapsed completely and with a loud hiss—the hiss emanating from various American bleachers, the inhabitants of which can remember Detroit people by the name of Ty Cobb, Sam Crawford, Harry Heilman and Bob Veach.

• • •

LAST SEASON, THE TIGers nudged baseballs so reluctantly that the close of the campaign found them trailing five other clubs, topping only the White and the Red Sox, whose batting weaknesses are traditional.

THIS YEAR, UNLESS HITters are imported wholesale, Detroit may not attain the club's 1932 figure, which was an anemic .274.

THE TIGERS' FALL FROM batting prestige was so great last season that Gerald Walker, outfielder, was the team leader with .323. Shades of Ty the Terrible, Wahoo Sam, Hammering Harry and Bat Breaking Bobby!

WALKER RANKED 13TH among American League batsmen and he was the most potent hitter representing a club which has won 17, or more than half, of the American league's batting championships in 33 years!

• • •

TO ADD A DEEPER TONE of sadness to the doleful picture of Detroit batting, the 1932 American League batting champion was one Dale Alexander who began the season with the Tigers and then was traded to Boston!

• • •

DETROIT COULD HAVE used the 100 or more hits Dale ground out for the lowly Red Sox after the Tigers banished him to Boston.

EQUALLY ODD—AND NOT exactly cheerful, to the Detroit fan—is the fact that the Tigers now have one of the best pitching staffs in the American League.

• • •

TIGER MOUNDSMEN INclude Tommy Bridges, one of the best looking young hurlers in the big leagues; Elon Hogsett, Vic Sorrell, Whitlow Wyatt, George Uhle, Charley Fischer, Firpo Marberry, the best relief man in the league, and some fine looking rookies.

WHAT MAKES THIS SO exasperating is that for many years, when Cobb, Crawford, Hallmann and Veach were in their heyday, the Tigers lacked just such a pitching staff, and failed to win pennants as a result.

• • •

SINCE 1909 THE TIGERS have not won a pennant, largely because their marvelous hitting was wasted through mound weakness. Now they have the pitchers, but their batting has sunk far below par.

ISN'T THE DEPRESSION TERRIBLE?

Hawks and Canadiens Need To-Night's Win

TORONTO, February 23 (C.P.).—The fading Frenchmen that Leo Dandurand still hopes will reach the National League play-offs are going to try and show the home fans to-night they were just "off" the other night at Boston.

Chicago Black Hawks, who hope Canadiens are in a permanent state of disorder, face the weary Canucks at Montreal in a fixture that means more than a little to both. A loss for either would just about ruin play-off hopes that already are somewhat dim.

Boston Bruins, winners by 10-0 on Tuesday night over Canadiens are the only idle team in the circuit to-night.

At Detroit the Red Wings and New York Rangers battle with the United States section leadership at stake. They are tied for first place.

Toronto's Maple Leafs face the Senators at Ottawa, while the second place Montreal Maroons hook up with New York Americans in Madison Square Garden. Americans can just about shake off Canadiens for the last play-off berth in the Canadian section with a victory.

The Canadian tobacco crop for 1932 was approximately 52.5 million pounds (preliminary estimate) of which more than half, or 27 million pounds, was bright flue-cured leaf.

HATTON SCORES 3 MARKERS FOR WRIGHT OUTFIT

Stars With Creighton on Front Line Offensive for Homesters.

PENALTIES COSTLY.

The Petes' intermediates were rubbed out of the O.H.A. picture at the Brock last night, licking Doherty A.C. of Belleville 4-3 on the game but dropping the playoff round, 9 to 7. It was a fast, exciting game seen by seventeen hundred fans and played under protest after the first period, Manager Eddie Wright of the Petes objecting to the decision of Referee Frank McCurry in regard to a goal disallowed at the close of the period.

Apparently, Creighton scored late in the frame on a pass from Hatton, but the referee did not allow it, and the Petes lodged a protest. The game itself was the Petes throughout, but good defence by Belleville plus sticky ice hampered them and although they had most of the play, the local boys failed to earn a big margin. The score was 1-0 for the Blue and Whites to end the first frame, and 2-0 for them at the close of the second. Belleville got a couple of cheap ones in the third, with the Petes finishing strong to tally twice again and ending just two short of a draw though having a big part of the play all the way through the third period. The crowd did not care for the refereeing at times, although play was fairly clean.

Star Offensive.

Miller did not have a great deal to do in the locals' net, but stopped some hot ones. The defence looked good early in the fray, but missed a few later. Doug Hatton and Creighton were probably the best of the forwards, although both lines tried hard as did the whole team.

The Belleville second front line went best, Nicoll and Covert having a fine evening at backchecking and rushing. The rest of the team worked hard on the ice which became sticky as play progressed, being mostly satisfied with defensive hockey. Tice had a good evening in goal, getting all kinds of hard ones in close and at long range.

Play opened at a good clip, with first one side and then the other threatening. Rigby was chased for hooking Creighton and a little latter Hatton scored on Lebarr's pass as the Petes swarmed in on rush after rush. The Petes had most of the play at this time but could not sink another one on Tice. Weir went off for charging and Miller pulled a smart save. Creighton took one from Hatton late in the frame and a big argument resulted as to whether it was in or not at the end, the referee finally ruling against it and play being protested. Weir was off for charging at the time.

Scores Second Goal.

The local squad opened it up in the second and threatened throughout on rush after rush and the arena was in an uproar. Halfway through, Hatton, who playing a smart game, went right around the visitors' net to push in another, and again an argument resulted, the goal being allowed. The checking was heavier at this time and play plenty exciting. Nicoll and Howe were ruled off for roughing it, followed by Ellis for charging and Mac Donald for tripping Weir as he tore in fast. Creighton nearly got through twice, followed later by Calladine and Hatton Howe was thumbed out for charging near the close.

Penalties Costly.

Early in the third, Doherty A.C. chalked up one when Covert took Nicoll's pass and went right around defence in on Miller and scored. Weir and Covert were both run off then for fighting, with Howe following for tripping. MacDonald took Sherry's assist and eased in fast to give Belleville another, and MacDonald then was sent to the "cooler" for tripping. Calladine threatened, and Hatton got another for the Petes on Ellis' pass at defence. Lebarr came back one minute later to sink the last one of the contest for the Petes, the goal-umpires being changed on the argument. The Petes were buzzing in dangerously, but Covert checked and recovered to shoot in at close range and score the final Belleville counter. Dundas and Lebarr both came near tallying right after and the whole team threatened, forcing Dohertys to shoot up the ice the rest of the way.

The teams:

Belleville: Goal, Tice; defence, Sherry and Rigby; centre, McMeekin; wings, MacDonald and Morgan; alternates, Nicoll, Covert, McQueen, Weir.

Petes: Goal, Miller; defence, Weir and Lebarr; centre, Ellis; wings, Dallin and Dundas; alternates, Howe, Calladine, Hatton and Creighton.

Referee—Frank McCurry.

Summary:

First Period

Petes—Hatton (Lebarr) 12.00

Penalties—Rigby, Weir, Lebarr, Alex Weir, Sherry.

Second Period

Petes—Hatton 13.00

Penalties—Nicoll, Howe (2), Ellis, MacDonald.

TOILERS LIKELY REPEAT.

WINNIPEG, February 23 (C.P.).—Winnipeg Tailers, present Dominion Unless the unexpected happens, the champions, once again will hold the Manitoba basketball crown. Losing several of the veterans who brought them Dominion honors a year ago, the Toilers have just inished a hard-fought series by winning the Senior A Division. They took the final match from Robertson Memorials 37-20 last night.

STARS PRESSED TO SCORE WIN OVER WINDSOR

Captain Tony Savage Seriously Injured in Syracuse's 3-2 Victory.

SCORING CONTRASTS.

TORONTO, February 23 (C.P.).—The sobriquet, "Siamese twins of International League hockey," could be aptly tacked on to Syracuse Stars and London Tecumsehs, tangled together in second place for the past three weeks.

Neither team seems able to shake the other for more than a day at a time. A contrast is afforded, however, in their scoring records. Stars have amassed more goals than any other team in professional hockey, 110, while London have had the least number of goals scored against them—49 in 35 games.

Despite their prolific scoring record, Syracuse were pressed to the limit at Windsor last night to pull out a 3-2 overtime decision over the Bulldogs. It was their first victory of the season on Windsor ice, and proved to be a costly one.

Tony Savage Injured.

Captain Tony Savage, highest scoring defenceman of the league, went down heavily when upset by Mickey Blake, Windsor forward, and was carried off, suffering from a possible fractured hip.

Earl Miller and Hal Darragh, former Toronto Maple Leaf players, scored the winners' goals, Miller clicking on two of them. His second goal came with only 30 seconds of play remaining.

Windsor's blonde forwards, Russel Blinco and Whitey Fields, shouldering the brunt of the Bulldog attack for the past few weeks, garnered their team's goals, both on on solo rushes.

REDSHIRTS TIE OSHAWA 3 TO 3; WIN ROUND 7-3

Sudbury Wolves Win N.O.H.A. Honors By Beating North Bay 9-1.

PATRICIANS ADVANCE.

(By the Canadian Press)

Two highly-favored teams to-day had successfully hurdled the first round in the Ontario Hockey Association playdowns and prepared to meet sterner opposition in their next tilts.

Patricias, Hamilton's Senior "B" outfit, experienced little trouble in eliminating Niagara Falls, winning the second game at Niagara Falls last night, 3-2, and taking the round 8-4. Newmarket, junior finalists of last year, called upon a four-goal lead earned in the first game to carry them past Oshawa Blue Imps. Playing in Oshawa last night, the teams deadlocked, 3-3, but a 4-0 decision at Newmarket enabled Bill Hancock's team to win the round, 7-3.

A serious threat to the Stratford and Windsor teams for the Western Ontario junior title, appears to be Preston Riversides. Riversides enter the third round as a result of their 4-1 victory over Cayuga at Preston. A 3-2 victory in the first game give the Prestonites the round by a 7-3 score.

Sudbury Cub Wolves, Memorial Cup winners, obtained a toe-hold on the Northern Ontario title, when they routed North Bay 9-1 at Sudbury. The victory gave the Wolves the southern series. The other series winner has not been decided as yet.

EX-VANCOUVER ACE MAKING THE GRADE

Dave Downie May be Nucleus for New "Kid" Line With Toronto Leafs.

TORONTO, Feb. 23.—Another graduate of the Pacific coast promises to make his mark in the National Hockey league. We refer to Downie, the right right-winger who has been promoted from Syracuse to Toronto Maple Leafs, to take the place of the player relegated, Ken Doraty.

Strange as it may seem both Doraty and Downie made their professional debut with the same team, Portland Buckaroos. But whereas Doraty was with Portland before the coast club, then of major league classification, was sold down the river to Chicago, Downie was from the newly-formed Portland club, got together by the famous Bobby Rowe of Seattle fame, who assembled a squad to take part in the minor professional loop which started on the coast, but which has since been disbanded.

Downie's family lived for several years in Vancouver and he first gained prominence as an amateur in that city.

Frank Patrick thinks he has the makings of a first-class player, and predicts he will be as sensational as Mush March, now with Chicago. Downie is speedy, and a good player. In feature and size he is very much like Bob Gracie, the Toronto left-winger and, given a good centre player, should help to form a new "kid" line for the Maple Leafs.

Young Corbett Gains Welterweight Title

CORBETT BEATS JACKIE FIELDS IN COAST BOUT

New Champion Has Been Persistent Challenger for Title for Last Three Years.

A DECISIVE VICTORY.

(By Russell J. Newland, A. P. Sports Writer)

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Young Corbett, the third, looked out over the welterweight ranks today as the champion of a division in which he has been a persistent challenger the last three years.

With a dazzling early attack that won his five rounds before his opponent got started, Corbett piled up an advantage that left no doubt in the minds of 16,000 fans as to his superiority. There were no dissenting voices when Referee Jack Kennedy raised Corbett's arm.

Tiring somewhat in the eighth and ninth rounds, Corbett finished with a rally that left Fields dazed and leg weary. Fifteen seconds before the end of the tenth session, he drove into Fields with rights and lefts that forced the latter to give ground. While the crowd cheered, Corbett landed three heavy lefts to the chin and scored twice with right handers to the body without Fields making a return.

The title holder made his big bid in the ninth which he pounded Corbett around the ring with a two-fisted attack. Corbett clinched repeatedly to weather the storm.

ST. CATHARINES STAR NEARS HIS AMBITION IN SPORTSDOM

Max Peart Has Travelled 24,296 Miles In Basketball Title-Seeking Tours.

VERSATILE ATHLETE.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., February 22 (C.P.) — As he shoots baskets for St. Catharines Grads on this floor and that, Max Peart draws nearer to one of his chief ambitions—to run his basketball mileage to 25,000.

The high-scoring forward, who has been a mainstay of St. Kitts teams for ten years, a star since his juvenile days, estimated at the close of last season he had travelled 24,296 miles on title-seeking tours that have carried him and the Grads into every province but two in Canada.

And Max has a fond hope that the Grads will win Eastern Canada honors this season and go West after the senior Canadian championship. A national title and the completion of 25,000 miles of basketeering in one season—that would be just about perfect.

Outstanding player in a city that has produced many fine players in recent years, Peart captained Grads in 1929 when they won the Canadian intermediate championship at St John. He led the team to Vancouver two years later in search of the senior title, but University of British Columbia upset the Eastern challengers that spring.

Basketball is Peart's favorite sport, but he is a star at rugby and lacrosse as well, and knows considerable about soccer, baseball, softball and track because he is secretary of the St. Catharines Parks Board, and plans various leagues during summer. Max was captain of St. Kitts 'intermediate rugby team for six seasons, captained numerous senior lacrosse squads and in 1931 coached the Ontario juvenile lacrosse champions. Since 1920 he has been secretary-treasurer of the Niagara District Hockey League.

RED SHADOW NEWS - BUILDING WINNERS

Mats. Only—THE LAST FRONTIER

This is the first of a series of brief articles relating Jim Corbett's most famous fights—from his first battle with Joe Choynski, in 1884, to his final fight with Jim Jeffries in 1903.

No. 1—CORBETT VS. CHOYNSKI

JAMES J. CORBETT'S first ring opponent was Joe Choynski.

Corbett fought Choynski, when both were kids, in the Corbett livery stable, in San Francisco, Cal.—and licked him. And Jim battled Joe in professional bouts, before many spectators—and licked him.

Corbett and Choynski were amateur stars in 1884. Jim's older brother, Harry, and Joe's older brother, Herbert, were acquainted and boasted of their kid brothers' prowess. The argument wound up with the livery stable battle.

Choynski caught one of Corbett's tricky punches and went down after several minutes brawling. They fought again in a meadow just outside of town, the result being much more even this time.

JOE TURNED pro and became a star. However, Corbett's friends continue to boast that Jim had beaten Joe twice and so, in 1889, the California Athletic club arranged a bout between the two, though Corbett was still classed an amateur.

Stopped By Sheriff

The bout was put on May 30, 1889, in the little town of Fairfax, Cal., because the promoters feared police interference. It was a honey. The two tore into eabh other from the first bell, and they kept the pace hot. In the fourth Corbett dislocated his right thumb, but in the sixth a sheriff stepped into the ring and stopped the fight.

SINCE BOTH were determined to continue the struggle, it was arranged for Joe and Jim to clash six days later, June 5, on a barge off Benecia, another hamlet, near San Francisco.

The bout began at noon, under a broiling sun, and Jim and Joe fought like enraged savages. Corbett later said: "It was the toughest battle I ever fought, and I received more punishment in that bout than in any other."

SURE DEFEAT loomed before Jim. Only strategy could save him now—and strategy did. He faked punches with his useless right, but "telegraphed" each blow, so that Choynski, who now began to doubt Jim's right hand was really worthless, would duck toward the left.

As Joe's head snapped to the left Corbett, to save his two damaged knuckles, hooked with his left. Thus was the now familiar left hook born, there being no record of it ever having been used before.

By the tenth round both men were bleeding freely. By the 20th round the fighters had begun to stagger and clinch. In the 26th Corbett took a desperate gamble. Seeing an opening, he shot a terrific blow at Joe's head with his left hand. If it failed Corbett was through. But it didn't. Choynski fell and was counted out.

"As I stood over Joe," Corbett said later, "I was so tired that if he had gotten up I believe I would have collapsed."

Later the two fought four rounds in San Francisco, Corbett winning again.

AUSSIES MAKE STRONG STAND AT 5TH WICKET

15,000 Cricket Fans See Match Although Nothing is at Stake.

CLEVER BOWLING.

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 23 (C. P. Cable).—A strong fifth wicket stand gave Australia 296 runs for five wickets at close of play today in the fifth and last test cricket match with England. The "Ashes," emblem of world cricket supremacy, were won by England in the fourth match, and nothing was at stake in the final engagement.

15,000 See Match

Fifteen thousand persons dared threatening clouds, however, to witness the play. They were treated to a remarkable bowling exhibition by Harold Larwood whose varied attack took four of the five wickets that fell during the day.

From the Aussie point of view, the splendid stand by L. S. Darling, who made his test match debut from Victoria last week, was the feature of the opening play. Darling scored 66 and at close of play he still carried his bat.

The innings started out disastrously for Australia when V. Y. Richardson was out on the fifth ball of the first over before he had scored. He tipped one from Larwood to D. R. Jardine in the slips.

Don Bradman joined W. M. Woodfull and proceeded to give a fluky and unorthodox mixture of batting which was spotted only occasionally with his best form.

Woodfull Out for 14

Larwood began bodyline trundling. His fifth ball bounded low on Woodfull's pads and glanced off to the wicket. Woodfull was out for 14 with the score at 59 for two wickets.

L. P. O'Brien and Bradman made a brief stand, but the clever deliveries of Larwood were giving Don difficulty and with his score at 48, he lost his leg stump to Larwood.

Stanley McCabe and L. P. O'Brien then settled down and the score began to mount. With his score at 47, O'Brien gave a chance to Voce in the slips from Larwood, but it was dropped. The score was 163 before O'Brien fell victim to Harold Larwood's enticement and knocked a catch to Voce at square leg. O'Brien was out with 61 for the fourth wicket.

A brilliant partnership followed, with the experienced skill of Stanley McCabe being matched by the daring style of Darling. McCabe finally lost his wicket after scoring 73, when he cut one to Hammond in the slips from Hedley Verity. The score stood at 244 for five wickets. McCabe's inning, of three hours, was a magnificent effort played with confidence and assurance.

W. A. Oldfield joined Darling for the remainder of the play and at the close had scored 13, not out, while Darling's score had reached 66, not out. The total was 296 for five wickets.

Hockey Fan Dies In Fenelon Game

(Special to The Examiner)

LINDSAY, Feb. 23. — The hockey tournament at Fenelon Falls last night was featured by a tragic occurrence, when George Wilson, a resident of the village and a spectator, slumped in his seat and died. The Cataract village team was playing Lindsay O.H.A. juniors, and it is believed the excitement of the contest was, in a measure responsible for his death. The game was stopped and three minutes silence was observed. The deceased is survived by his wife and grown up family.

SPORTS

HOCKEY—BOWLING—BOXING
Day by Day
BASKETBALL — OTHER SPORTS

(By C.J.P.)

What a game, and what a series! As this is being written, the game is under protest, but we don't imagine the O.H.A. will take any action on the matter since Belleville took the round by two goals. Manager Eddie Wright is objecting to two goals last night which he figures the Petes should have had counted, and he's also kicking about the raw deal the Petes have received in both games against the Doherty Club. We've been robbed two goals each game, that's all.

* * * * * *

It doesn't take much to get the name of not being able to take it, and our loud and lusty squawks over the officiating at several hockey contests lately will be getting up a rep for riding referees every time a local team loses. But, regardless of that, and anyone at the Brock last night will agree, McCurry wasn't so hot with the bell. Both those goals, Creighton's in the first and Hatton's in the second, were probably in. Whether they were inside or not, the goal-umpire in each case hoisted his hand and the referee was not on top of the play, and could only be guessing when he over-ruled them.

* * * * * *

Goal-umpires come and goal-umpires go, but disputes go on for ever. They were changing them regularly last night, which seems to prove conclusively how unsatisfactory the system is. Fans go to see hockey games and not disputed goals. We saw Referee McCurry after that big argument at the end of the first period, and asked him what about it. He said, "We'll see if it has any bearing on the round." We came right back and cracked, "It was either in or not in, regardless of how the round goes." Then he said the goal was not in. But he wasn't nearly as bad as Ernie Wortley had been in the first contest.

* * * * * *

The Petes should have won this series. They had most of the play last night, sweeping the Oilmen back in every period. But Tice wasn't letting any soft ones by him, and the Petes didn't do themselves any good with penalties. The affair was cleaner last night, but not exactly lily-white either. Early in the third, Belleville, taking advantage of a couple of local penalties, broke fast to run in two in quick order, and that's what turned the tide. The Blueshirts looked like sure winners till that time, buzzing in and peppering Tice rush after rush.

* * * * * *

We'd say Creighton and Hatton completely outshone their gallant teammates on the play, both second-string forwards—with Bill Cailadine going good, too—flashing their best offensive game of the season. Doug, in particular, was effective, scoring three goals, a disputed one and passing to Creighton on that other disputed one. He worked his head off all evening. Miller did not have so much to do in the locals' cage, but turned aside a few hot ones. The defence went fair and the forwards showed good close checking as well as puck-carrying. It was just tough luck, and we still think the Petes are a better team.

* * * * * *

We got one marker in the first and another in the second to come within one of tying up the round. Then the Quinte aggregation goes out and grabs two to start the third frame. The Petes did manage to win out on the game, 4-3, but lost the round, 9 to 7. Those two goals which the referee did not allow last night would have tied it up, and what about those two bad guesses in the Belleville game on Monday? Oh, well, that's the way sports go sometimes.

* * * * * *

About seventeen hundred fans got their money's worth up there, and no fooling. It was probably the most exciting game of the year around these parts, good hockey, disputes, close play, and so much at stake—all helping to pack the affair with thrills that kept the stands in an uproar. Sticky ice slowed play up somewhat, but not as much as ordinarily for the Petes, and the cocky Doherty A.C. boys knew they had been through a mighty tough game when that last bell sounded.

* * * * * *

There are two of the Belleville players that deserve mention, also. Sherry, the sixty-minute defence man, stood out for the visitors, especially when they were in their defensive shell. And boy, how he smacks 'em! Tice, star goalie, is as good as his rep, and he certainly had no cause to kick about lack of work last night. He's too good to be beaten by long shots, and mighty few hard drives close in beat this fellow. The D.A.C. team is a smart one, and they played a fine series against the locals, but we'd just like to have another two-game series with them, and we'd lay dough on it again. Yeah, we dropped some last evening.

* * * * * *

It's tough to be out of the O.H.A. race, both junior and intermediate, all at once, but at this time of year group champs are falling right and left with the elimination process going merrily on. The Petes have nothing to feel upset about, they tried hard and mopped up on the teams—like themselves—that play on natural ice. Manager Eddie Wright did all he could, and we didn't do so badly at all. A group title, winner of the next round, and a close second round series, that's nothing to be ashamed of, we'd say.

* * * * * *

The arena resembled a lake to-day, so no games will be run off as previously scheduled. South-end League play-offs were due to start, but have been postponed.

TWO QUARTETS ARE LEFT UNDEFEATED

New Liskeard and High Park Carry on in Toronto Bonspiel.

TORONTO, Feb. 23 (C.P.)—The number of undefeated teams in the sixth annual Toronto bonspiel had dwindled to two to-day following a hectic day's curling yesterday when close to 100 games were played.

New Liskeard, skipped by E. A. Stephenson and O. A. Bracken's High Park quartette, are the only two teams out of the original 100 that showed unblemished records at the start to-day of the fourth day's competition.

Stephenson defeated Hubert Chisholm's Toronto Victorias, 12-11, in a game which saw the losers make a remarkable effort to avert defeat. Stephenson led 11-4 after eight ends, but Chisholm counted seven on the next three to tie the score going home. The Northern Ontario skip, however, counted the winning shot on the last end.

The Birks-Ellis-Ryrie Trophy games were the real giant-killers; no fewer than four of the hitherto unbeaten teams tasting defeat. These were Davie Walker of Fort William George Downey of Strathconas, Bert C. Hall of Kitchener, and Basil Ritz of Chatsworth.

CARTERS CONFIDENT OF FRIDAY VICTORY

Second Game of East Peterborough Play-offs at Brock T o-morow Night.

Payne's Carters and Norwood Combines will meet at the Brock at 8.30 to-morrow (Friday) night, providing there is ice. It will be the second of the three-out-of-five play-off series for the E.P.L. championship and the Peck Trophy. Norwood took the first on home ice Monday by a 5-2 count, but the game been protested. The third tilt will likely be held in Norwood early in the week.

The Carters expect to return to form after a bad showing in the other encounter, and will doubtless make it a hot and exciting battle on home ice. They have a powerful defence and a good goalie, as well as speedy, experienced forwards. The Kempt crew looks to be headed for another title and will take some fighting to put them out of the race now. They are a well-balanced outfit from the goalie out, and a fine contest is assured, if the ice holds up.

DAVE KERR

The rumor from Montreal that Flat Walsh, in goal, was a reason for the slump of the Maroons seems to have been justified by recent events Dave Kerr, youthful goaltender, was recalled from the minors, and since then the Maroons have been going great guns. And Davis had two consecutive shutouts and the Maroons won three straight games as soon as he was between the uprights again He is, or has been, one of those goalies who isn't careless on long shots.

JACK PURCELL IS KING OF SHUTTLES

Guelph Player Has Triumphs Over All Great Britain and Canadian Stars.

(This is the 13th of a series by the Canadian Press on outstanding athletes of Ontario cities and towns).

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 22. (CP)—If Jack Purcel, the best badminton player in the world, had worked as hard with his clubs as with a racquet he might have become as great a golfer as he is a shuttler. The trim and personable young man who started a badminton career here that led to triumphs over all the outstanding players of Canada and Great Britain plays just enough golf now to convince his friends he could have clubbed his way to the championship heights on the fairways.

But Purcell, always a specialist at sport, developed into the most famous athlete Guelph has produced because he preferred tennis and golf and badminton to baseball and rugby—and pulled himself away from the diamond and gridiron even though it hurt.

Professionalized two years ago because of his connection with a sports goods company and because he wrote a series of articles on badminton, Purcell is still the king of all the shuttlemen. And there is no one on the horizon who threatens to dethrone him.

At golf the 70's and 69's roll from his clubs often enough to make him wince at times. At tennis he is good enough to beat most of them and until two years ago he banged away with some success in Ontario tournaments.

It was tennis that led to his interest in badminton. At 18 he fought his way to the final of the Canadian junior tennis championships and lost the title to Bud Thomas, Queen's football star.

Since 1928 he has been virtually unbeatable at badminton. He captured two Canadian singles titles before his amateur standing was taken away, numerous Ontario championships. Victories this season over the former all-England champion, Jack Devlin of Winnipeg, stamped him as the best of the professionals.

Capitols Win Cage Game By Lone Goal

Scoring the winning basket as the whistle was blowing to finish the game, Capitols of the City Basketball League, won a 24 to 23 contest from Stanger's at the "Y" last night. Riley and Hickey's took a 37-22 decision from Collegiate in the first game. Play was fast and exciting in both fixtures.

It was 15-11 for the R. and H. squad to end the first half, and they continued to dominate play all through the second part, though the students gave them a run for it. Amys, with six points, led P. C.I. scoring, while Holmes for the winners was the big star with Grimes, the former getting 17 points, and Grimes 15. The teams:

Collegiate— Armstrong, Holmes, Sedgewick, Macdonald, Amys, Marsh, Clark, Kelly and McIntyre.

Riley and Hickey's — McLeod, Taylor, Palmer, Sager, Grimes, Holmes, Campbell and Brady.

Referee—D. Loomis. Scorer, E. Ascott.

In the second game, Capitols had an edge in the first frame, having their opponents down 16 to 8, but the losers came back strong to do the scoring all through the rest of the game. It was nip and tuck from start to finish, and Ellis' shot was in the air when the whistle blew. It dropped in for the winner. Stager led the losers at scoring, notching 12 points. Cadd and Ellis led the Capitols, each being good for eight points. The teams:

Stanger's — Shepherd, Hunt, Hayes, Broadley, Reynolds, Magee and Stanger.

Capitols—Curry, Emery, Kitchen, Cadd, Ellis and Stewart.

Referee, H. McLeod. Scorer, E. Ascott.

Bowling Notes

The lawn bowlers in the winter are enjoying themselves bowling on the carpets in the clubhouse. B. Chesler and his rink are the best to date, winning two straight games Tuesday night. E. Wall and H. Freeman had to play an extra end to decide a winner. On Friday evening, the first thirty-two members will be in for a big time, similar to the Friday night tourneys in the summer. Names should be left at the clubhouse by 7.30. The schedule, which commenced Tuesday, will appear shortly in The Examiner.

MOSE YOKOM AND HIS TEN-PIECE BAND PLAY AT EACH NIGHT PERFORMANCE.

First Show Stopped Under O.A.C. Orders

WELLAND, Ont., Feb. 23 (C.P.).—The first boxing show to be halted under arrangements reached between the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada and the Ontario Athletic Commission with Ontario Provincial police was stopped at the North Main Street Palace last night after three bouts on a card of eight had been completed.

Provincial Officers H. O. Finger and Harry Peel visited the arena and asked to see the permit for the show. The promoter, Joe Hadfield, of Crowland, was unable to produce a permit and the police ordered the show stopped.

Petes' Protest Is Not Upheld By O.H.A.

Bill Hewitt of the O.H.A. notified Manager Eddie Wright just before noon to-day that the Petes' protest would not be upheld, the O.H.A. backing its referees except when some ruling has been broken. This definitely puts the Petes out of competition this season.

GOODNIGHT STORIES

By Max Trell

Master Lumpkins' feet were big,
And often he would stumble;
Whenever he walked up the stairs
Right down again he'd tumble.
—Shadow Song

Perhaps you know what tumbleweed looks like. The shadow children with the turned about names had never seen tumbleweed in their lives—especially Knarf, who had never even heard of it. But they finally saw it, and Knarf did more than that. I must tell you all about it.

The five shadows children, and their five masters and mistresses (for each shadow must have a little boy or girl to attach itself to) were taking a long trip by automobile. They all started from Los Angeles, and they were going to a place called Death Valley, which wasn't at all as bad as it sounded. Indeed, it was a beautiful valley, out on the desert; and there was plenty of water for everybody to drink, and nice hotels to stop at, and it was warm as toast in the winter time.

Well, after leaving Los Angeles, the children and their shadows (all of them in the automobile) reached a town called San Bernadino, and then they turned off and drove through a pass in the mountains.

Knarf tumbled with the weed.

Tumbleweeds

After going through the pass, they reached the other side of the mountains and by and by came to the edge of the desert. The edge of the desert is a good deal wider than (let us say) the edge of a plate, and they drove through it for many miles.

Now the curious thing that Knarf noticed was that when the wind blew, great heaps of twigs (at any rate they looked like twigs) all rolled up together like a ball, rolled before the wind, across the flat edge of the desert. No sooner did Knarf notice this, than the other shadows, and the five children noticed it, too. Then father, who was driving the car, explained that what they saw was tumbleweed. It was called tumbleweed because it went tumbling with the wind.

You would think that Knarf would be satisfied with this explanation, but no, he must go and see for himself whether the tumbleweed really tumbled, or whether it just slid along like a heap of loose grass. So he sprang out of the car, and sprang onto a piece of tumbleweed, which immediately began tumbling round and round. "Hooray," the shadow boy cried, waving his arms in glee. Then instead of springing right back into the car, he kept tumbling. "I can go as fast as you can," he boasted to the others, "even though you do stay in the automobile." For a few minutes, Knarf did actually go faster than his friends in the car, but all at once the wind changed, and Knarf and the tumbleweed started tumbling the other way. The worst of it was that Knarf was tumbling so fast that he didn't know which way he was going, and he did not seem to hear the others calling out to him.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, February 24

A day of intriguing and probably mysterious or curious events and conditions is presaged from the prevailing lunar and mutual figures. An element of the sudden, subtle and quite unforseen enters into all affairs business as well as private. It might be well to be on guard against secret enemities, peculiar relations with rings, combines or secret societies, as fraud or sinister hostility are seen. These circumstances, shrewdly managed, may bring employment benefits.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year which may not be deemed as monotonous, as there are many signs of intrigue, conspiracy, subtle and curious experiences and situations. Child born on this day may be clever, shrewd, given to the curious and unconventional, yet may figure in the public eye.

ROSENEATH.

The date is set for Thursday of this week when the Dramatic Society of Campbellford will present their play in the Orange Hall here under the auspices of the Roseneath Dramatic Society.

The Mission Band are preparing for a sale of home cooking for Saturday afternoon.

Trent River

Mr. Emerson Glenn, West Seymour is drawing his wood supply from north of Havelock.

Mrs. Jean Porter of Norwood, who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Redden left Friday evening for Havelock, to be guest of Mrs. D. McAdams.

A meeting of the King's Daughters class met at the home of their teacher, Mr. R. W. Umphrey Friday night after choir rehearsal, to make plans for the year and elect officers. An hour was spent in discussing ways and means for the year after which the following officers were appointed: President, Miss Fleda Thompson; treasurer, Miss Leatha Davidson; secretary Miss Betty Ormiston. Dainty refreshments were served to the members of the class by Mrs. Umphrey.

The opening exercises of the league meeting Friday night was in charge of Miss Bessie Inkster. The president referred to a recent invitation from Rush Point League to spend a social evening with them, but the matter was left for a later date. The league meeting for Friday night, February 24th will be in charge of the newly elected vice-presidents, the Misses Fleda Thompson and Fleda Wildman. R. W. Umphrey took over the evening program: readings by Ethel Shearer and Betty Ormiston; piano instrumental, Helen Brown; reading by Evelyn Wannamaker; Mr. Umphrey gave a short but interesting sketch of the life of Egerton Ryerson. Piano instrumental, Wesley Wildman.

The hour for choir rehearsal has been changed from Wednesday night to Friday night, immediately after the league meeting in order to conserve fuel and light.

MOUNT JULIAN

The Euchre Club held one of their weekly meetings on Wednesday evening, at the home of Mr. Gordon Reid. Russel Tucker and Miss Lena McCauley won the first prizes, with the consolation prizes going to Herbert Lean and Miss Florence Tedford.

Mr. J. Thompson of Westwood, is visiting relatives at Mount Julian.

Mr. Robert Knox of Apsley spent Wednesday calling on some old acquaintances in this vicinity.

Mrs. William Thompson and Miss Annie Thompson spent Friday in Peterborough.

Mrs. William Shewin and family of Burleigh Falls, were the guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Bronson, on Sunday.

You'll do it better on Dated Coffee

Roasted and packed in Canada

Coffee is a very useful stimulant, science says. It puts new life into you . . . for any crisis, any task, any test of strength. But you must steer clear of stale coffee.

WHENEVER fatigue threatens, whenever you need extra energy, whenever there is a critical situation to meet . . . people have found coffee a wonderful natural stimulant.

And now you need fear no bad effects. Science says coffee shouldn't give you headaches, upset your digestion, keep you from proper sleep.

If you have trouble, you have probably been drinking stale coffee.

Stale coffee develops a rancid oil. Nearly half a cup in every pound.

You should steer clear of stale coffee.

But, if you are a normal, healthy grown-up, you can enjoy as many as 5 rich, fragrant cups a day of fresh coffee!

That is why Chase & Sanborn instituted Dated Coffee. The date of delivery to your grocer is on every tin. And no tin is allowed to stay on his shelf more than 10 days.

In half-pound and one-pound tins. Order Chase & Sanborn's Dated Coffee from your grocer. Enjoy its fresh, delicious flavor and its instant exhilaration.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Rheumatism Kept Her In Bed

Mrs. W. H. Pushee, Lorenzo, Sask., writes:—"For about two years I suffered with rheumatism which kept me in bed for weeks.

A friend advised me to take Burdock Blood Bitters, so I took two bottles, and they gave me new life. I am thankful to say that I feel fine now, and have not been bothered with rheumatism since taking B.B.B."

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

In The Automotive World WEEK BY WEEK

NEW CARS SET WHEELS TURNING

Symbolic of substantial activity for many months to come in Canada's automotive industry, was the first 1933 McLaughlin-Buick off the line at the Oshawa factory of General Motors of Canada Limited. This "first car" represented production effort that had been gathering momentum for many weeks, extending beneficial effects to a score of primary industries. Building of McLaughlin-Buicks will not reach its peak of the season for some months, but in the meantime factories of the same Company at Walkerville and Oshawa will be bringing out the 1933 Chevrolet, followed by Pontiac, Oldsmobile, La Salle and Cadillac. Although General Motors of Canada Limited are the largest manufacturers of automobiles in the Dominion, there are other Canadian companies whose production program is gathering headway at the same time, making a total contribution to Canada's factory activity equalled by few other industrial groups, particularly at this season.

GUILD POPULAR IN CANADA

Over thirty thousand young Canadians—"craftsmen of tomorrow"—have already joined the Fisher Body Craftsmen's Guild and are busily fashioning miniature models of the famed Napoleonic coach that is the Guild's set task for all its members. This big enrollment shows how the Guild has improved its position among the boys of Canada in a single year, total membership last year being just over 15,000. Objective of the Canadian Section of the Guild is 50,000 members, and there is sure to be keen competition this year for the university scholarships that are the chief awards. Two of the six scholarships offered will be awarded to the two best coaches built by Canadian boys.

WHEN SCIENCE STEPS IN

It's getting past the stage when automobile body designs are adopted as a passing fancy. Science has taken a hand in it, with the result that one efficiently designed body is pretty hard to distinguish from another. One manufacturer discovered this when he removed hoods and radiators from ten different popular sedans and let his factory staff try to identify them. Even the experts couldn't name more than two or three. Which seems to indicate the truth of one engineer's claim that with the adoption of scientific streamlining cars would begin to have a greater resemblance than before. It will be interesting to see the progress the 1933 cars will make in this direction.

ANOTHER CHANNEL FOR REVENUE

Every year sees it easier for motorists to make their tours international. Following the announcement that the New York Central Railway bridge over the River St. Lawrence at Cornwall, Ontario, is to be made available for highway traffic comes the statement that the St. Lawrence is to be spanned by another bridge, from Lachine to Caughnawaga, Quebec, 6 miles west of Montreal. The first bridge is international, and the second provides a new traffic entrance to Montreal from the southern section of the Province of Quebec and the United States.

ANY ROAD A GOOD ROAD

To owners who do considerable driving over city streets or country highways and roads, the new and advanced step in ride control featured by the McLaughlin-Buicks for 1933 will be welcome news. Comfortable riding over any type of road and ease and certainty of control at maximum speeds approaches perfection in these cars. Reactions of the car to the imperfections of the highway are automatically controlled by new inertia type shock absorbers, which represent and improvement over the manually operated ride control introduced last year by McLaughlin-Buick. The inertia principle of the shock absorbers controls floating valves that instantaneously and automatically adjust the shock absorbers to any type of road.

THE CONSTELLATION OF TAURUS

Or The Bull, The Milk-White Bull With Golden Horns, Leads On The New Born Year

By H. W. L. MAHOOD

The constellation of Taurus is visible from September until the month of May. Look for it early in the evening or night sky. Taurus holds among the many constellations a distinction of its own. Originally it was the first constellation to make its appearance in the sky at the close of the day. It was the leader of the constellations to be seen during the night. This leadership it did not hold. Leadership in the skies changes as does the leadership among men. The constellation of the Ram was the successor of Taurus. Then after many centuries Pisces succeeded to this honor. Pisces still leads. But his leadership will soon be followed by that of Aquarius. Virgil a full century before the Christ wrote of Taurus:—

"The milk-white Bull with golden horns Leads on the new-born year."

In our day many excavations have been made at Thebes, and many finds. There, a sepulchre has been uncovered, on the walls of which Taurus is portrayed as the first of the zodiacal signs. Four thousands years ago it marked the vernal equinox. Many nowadays celebrate May Day. It is a survival of an ancient Druid festival. The Druids commemorated the day with festivities because on that day the sun entered the constellation of Taurus.

In our day the children celebrate May Day as flower day. The Druids observed the day because of an astronomical event. Flowers gladden the heart of folks in our day. In the long-ago days of the Druids the sudden bursting forth of the flowers in such magnificence and variety was like unto the heavens with their glorious constellations, and multitudes of stars. On that day the people sang, and danced, and feasted, and worshipped.

The Bull is the animal that Orion is hunting through the heavens. Only the head, and horns, and forelegs have reached the sky. Taurus seems to be charging down upon the Hunter, and at the same time to be backing away. Taurus is continually on the defensive, and backs all the way across the sky northwestward and out of sight.

In Greek fable Taurus has an immortal place. It was the Bull Taurus that carried Europa, the fair, Europa across the seas to Crete. Europa was the daughter of Agenor, King of Crete. From her, Europe took its name. Jupiter was charmed by her surpassing beauty. To capture her Jupiter took the form of a snow-white Bull. He mingled with the herds of Agenor. Then, one day he discovered that Europa was visibly moved. He came near. Europa caressed him. Encouraged by his apparent tameness, she had the temerity to leap upon his back. Jupiter saw it was now or possibly never. He dashed into the sea, and swam away with her in safety. Tennyson, in his Palace of Art, wrote of this incident:—

Sweet Europa's mantle blew unclasp'd
From off her shoulder backward blown;
From one hand dropped a crocus; one hand grasped
The mild Bull's golden horn.

Taurus lies between the Pleiades and Orion.

NORWOOD I.O.D.E. REVIEW WORK

Treasurer's Statement Shows Balance in Bank—Nominating Group Reports.

VOTE $10 TO RELIEF

NORWOOD, February 23 (Examiner Correspondence). — The February meeting of the Daughters of the Empire was held at the home of the Regent, Mrs. B. C. Squire. Mrs. Cuffe, the treasurer, gave her report for the year, showing total receipts and fees $217.82, expenditures $166.58, leaving a balance in bank of $51.24. On motion of Mrs. Cuffe and Mrs. Cutcliffe the report was adopted.

Mrs. Cutcliffe expressed appreciation of the good work done by the treasurer, and presented Mrs. Cuffe with a bouquet of spring flowers. Mrs. Alexander Kempt also presented flowers to Mrs. Roseborough, Mrs. Carleton, and Mrs. Fred Kempt, showing the Chapter's appreciation of their services.

The report of the nominating committee was given by Mrs. Humphries as follows:

Regent, Mrs. Squire; 1st Vice-Regent, Mrs. Cutcliffe; 2nd Vice-Regent, Mrs. Birdsall; 3rd Vice-Regent, Mrs. Carleton; treasurer, Mrs. Baskin; secretary, Mrs. Weir; Echoes secretary, Miss Fleming; Press secretary, Mrs. Carleton; Education secretary, Mrs. Goheen; Standard-bearer, Mrs. Alexander Kempt.

On motion of Mrs. Giffin and Mrs. Carleton, the report as presented was adopted. An article by Sir Walter Currie, "The Legion's Task for 1933," was read by the secretary. The secretary's annual report was given and adopted, also the educational secretary's report was presented and accepted. On motion of Mrs. Cuffe and Mrs. Weir Mrs. Birdsall was appointed delegate to the Provincial Convention in Hamilton in April, also as councillor for the National Chapter.

The following were named as a program committee to draft programs on Empire Study for each meeting: Mrs. Goheen, Mrs. Weir, Mrs. Cutcliffe, Miss Fleming, Mrs. Squire.

The local Relief Board made an appeal to the Chapter on the question of relief, and a donation of $10.00 was voted to the Relief Board.

Mrs. Carleton gave some suggestions regarding diphtheria inoculations for child welfare work. This question was left over for the next meeting. A motion to provide some sundry supplies was accepted. Tea was served at the close.

Mount Julian

Mr. Walter Hamilton was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Church on Sunday.

About thirteen young people attended the skating party on Jack Matthews' rink Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Earnie Lean and Mr. Herb Long were guests of Mrs. V. Shewen Saturday evening.

The ice harvest is well in progress here. Little Billy sure is knocking off the blocks, while Dad Church keeps the old gray mare hoofing along.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Church called on friends on Sunday.

Mr. Clinton Mathews spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. William Mathews.

Mr. Herb Long went for a dip in local waters one day last week but he thinks he won't go in again until warmer weather.

The many friends of Mrs. Lauder will be pleased to see her able to be out again.

Two local young men were suddenly surprised when they landed in the snow upside down while driving along the road taking in the sights. Fortunately these two young men were unhurt, as the horse they were driving happened to be quiet; but we would advise them to keep clear of flag poles.

Mrs. William Mathews returned home on Saturday from a visit with friends in Toronto.

Miss Lillian Young was in Peterborough for a few days last week.

Mr. James Thompson of Westwood is visiting Mrs. Wm. Thompson at Mount Julian.

Miss Alma McCracken spent the week-end with Miss Florence Tedford.

Madoc

A very enjoyable and successful carnival and skating party was held in Madoc arena under the auspices of St. Peter's Presbyterian Sunday School on Saturday morning.

The C.G.I.T. girls were included, and as many of the Sunday School scholars went in all sorts of comic and picturesque costumes the scene was colorful and interesting in the extreme.

The members of the Sunday School assembled in the Sunday School rooms and were given their tickets of admission, then formed in line and marched down the hill and to the arena where three hours of solid fun and enjoyment were their portion instead of the usual unwelcome Saturday tasks.

Prizes for the best costumes are to be awarded and announcements made later.

Chinese in Hankow Train Guns on Japanese Concession Across River.

(By the Canadian Press)

Japanese delegates walked out of the League of Nations Assembly today, and the Japanese push from Manchukuo (old Manchuria) into Jehol province began in earnest.

Following expiry of the Japanese ultimatum and the League's acceptance of its committee report condemning Japanese policy in Manchuria, the military situation reached a crisis.

A force of 30,000 Japanese beseiged Chaoyang, second largest city in Jehol; another force of 60,000 pressed on towards the capital, Jehol City; Chinese forces withdrew from Nanling and Peipiao and the Japanese entered Kailu, north-eastern gateway to Jehol.

Reports of various "dispersals" of Chinese "guerillas" accompanied the Japanese march, in which troops of the new Japan-sponsored state of Manchukuo participated, but apparently the seige of Chaoyang was the only pitched battle under way.

Apprehensions concerning Tientsin and Peiping, important centres which are close to Jehol territory, spread to Hankow and the Yangtze valley as the Japanese tightened their concession patrols in the area and reports spread the Chinese had trained guns from the opposite bank of the Yangtze on the Japanese concession in Hankow.

Nanking Bewildered

Nanking, Chinese capital, was bewildered by the swift-moving developments and the Chinese Central Daily News there, declaring it was useless to hope for further aid from world capitalists called on the Chinese to "fight as we have never fought before."

Although the Japanese delegates walked out of the assembly after it

RAID ON OFFICE NETS $700 CASH

Masked Bandit Slugs Girl Cashier Just Back From Bank.

CARRYING PAYROLL.

MONTREAL, Feb. 24.—(CP)— A masked bandit entered the offices of Cohen manufacturing company on Victoria Square today, struck down the cashier, Miss J. Laliberte, and escaped with a satchel containing $700 in cash.

Miss Laliberte told police she had just returned from the bank with the money. As she entered passage leading to her office she was confronted with the masked man. He struck her with a piece of lead pipe and she dropped to the floor, momentarily stunned. Her assailant seized the bag containing the money to meet the firm's payroll, and vanished. The hold-up squad of the Montreal police department are investigating the case.

BOYS ARE FACING 3 BIG PROBLEMS

W. R. Cooke Discussed Vocational Guidance With Kiwanis Club.

STUDY INDIVIDUAL.

"The thing most necessary in the business of vocational guidance is that the young man should be encouraged to know himself as objectively as possible, and to be inspired to be his best self, and to realize that the fundamental quality of success is character," stated W. R. Cooke, director of the National Council of the Y.M.C.A., during the course of an interesting address to the Kiwanis Club at the Empress Hotel to-day noon.

Mr. Cooke, who has been engaged in the service of the Y.M.C.A. since 1907, when he became secretary of the "Y" at Lindsay was introduced to the meeting by G. H. Roper, general secretary of the local "Y."

There were three main aspects to the vocational question, said the speaker. The first was that of selection of employees that concerned the employer of labor; the second was the problem of vocational education, that was the concern of the community; and the third problem was that of vocational guidance, by which the individual might be given assistance and advice to fit him for his place in life.

Study Individual.

Those who would offer vocational guidance, the speaker asserted, must study the individual and his problems, with a view of offering the person concerned disinterested advice.

From his experience of boys and young men, Mr. Cooke said he had discovered that they faced three major problems in life—God, girls, and jobs.

"Boys these days want to know what the universe is all about. They want honest answers and are not prepared to accept traditional answers," the speaker said.

It had been stated that salesmen were born and not made, but that was a fallacy that had long since been discounted. It had been possible by proper training to develop salesmen. By the same token, Mr.

PEIPING, China, February 24 (C.P.). — George Bernard Shaw viewed the Great Wall of China from an airplane at a height of 8,000 feet to-day, but had nothing to say regarding his experience.

Whatever were the emotions of the famous playwright as the plane flew over the old wall, he kept to himself. Not once during the long flight did he let drop one of his characteristic observations.

Shaw, with his wife and a few others, flew in the private plane of Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang, Commander of North China military forces.

ONE ARREST.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24 (C.P.) — Origin of $100,000 in counterfeit $100 notes, many of which were successfully passed last month in Chicago, has been traced by Federal agents to Soviet Russia, it was reported here yesterday.

The notes, which have turned up as far away as China, have been pronounced by experts of the United States Treasury Department to be the most genuine-appearing counterfeit ever uncovered.

Dr. V. Gregory Burtan, New York physician, was arrested on January 8 as the American principal in the alleged international counterfeiting play.

It is understood European Governments have been notified of details of the conspiracy as they have been revealed in New York and Chicago, and that an international effort is being made to learn of the identity of those higher in the scheme than Burtan is alleged to be.

BOETTCHER HAS RANSOM READY

Guarantees Deliverance of Cash Providing Son Returned by Saturday.

GRAND JURY PROBING.

DENVER, Feb. 24 (C.P.).—A new investigation, this time by a county grand jury, was underway as the 12th day passed since the kidnapping for $60,000 ransom of Charles Boettcher, 2nd, scion of a Colorado millionaire family.

The grand jury investigation was ordered by District Attorney Earl Wettengel, after a conference with Claude K. Boettcher, multi-millionaire father of the missing man, at the close of a day in which more clues in the case were investigated and labeled worthless and the elder Boettcher had issued an ultimatum to the kidnappers.

In a statement through the press Boettcher said: "Return my son unharmed and I guarantee to deliver $60,000 ransom to you." But he warned the abductors that if the 31-year-old broker was not safe at home by midnight next Saturday, all previous offers would be withdrawn and he would proceed with "such action as may then seem advisable."

Taken For Burglary 2 Days After Release

CORNWALL, February 24 (C.P.).—Arrested two days after his release from Portsmouth Penitentiary where he had served a two-year term, Michael O'Halloran, 27 of Midland, Ont., appeared in Police Court here to-day charged with the theft of clothing from the Economy Store. The store was robbed on Wednesday night. O'Halloran was not asked to plead, and was remanded for one week. Police are continuing their investigations, following O'Halloran's admission that two other men were concerned in the burglary.

The accused was arrested in Montreal yesterday by Detective Ouellet of the Montreal Police, when it was learned he was peddling clothing at a number of second-hand stores.

PAUL JOHNSTON IS PRESIDENT OF KINSMEN CLUB

Succeeds Fred Percy Who Resigned on Being Transferred to Toronto.

DR. A. T. BARR SPEAKS.

Speaker of Evening Discusses Inflation in a Very Able Manner.

H. H. P. (Paul) Johnston was last evening unanimously chosen as president of the Kinsmen Club, to fill the vacancy caused by the pending departure from the city of Fred. Percy, who has been transferred from his position as accountant at George street branch of the Bank of Montreal to the main office of the bank at Toronto.

Past secretary of the club, and also of the district, Mr. Johnston's election to office was proposed by Past-President G. Wilson Craw, seconded by Emmett Sheehy, following his recommendation by the nominating committee under chairmanship of Ralph Linney.

The election took place at the regular fortnightly meeting of the club held in the Elite Court. Ed. Riley presided very efficiently as toastmaster, calling upon Adrian MacDonald to introduce the guest speaker of the evening in the person of the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

Discoursing on the subject of economics, the speaker provided his listeners with an address of more than usual interest and information. The main branch of his address dealt with inflation of currency, and with the quantitative theory of money.

Not a Solution

The conclusion reached by Dr. Barr was that inflation of currency was not a solution to the economic problems that confronted business and industry. The quantitative theory of money was nothing more than a theory, he said, whose main weakness was that it lacked precision. The whole sphere of economics, he thought, was one that could not be entered into with any degree of decision.

In days of peace when the warehouses of the nation were crowded with a surplus of produce and goods there was no guarantee that inflation of currency would produce the same results as it did under the abnormal conditions of the war period.

Inflation was being urged in some quarters, Dr. Barr pointed out. But, he asked, was it warranted merely in order that commodity prices might be raised? Was inflation justifiable, and could it be controlled

Board Of Education Strikes Its Estimates For 1933 And Decides Not To Close All The Night Classes After September 1.

TWO CONTENTIOUS PROBLEMS ARE SETTLED BUT NEITHER GIVEN UNANIMOUS VERDICT.

V. J. McElderry, K.C., Declared Reduction In Estimates Is Absolutely Inadequate And Shame To Go To People With So Small a Reduction.

Two contentious problems that have faced the Board of Education for the past several meetings were apparently definitely settled for this year at a special meeting of the Board last night.

The Board's 1933 estimates were struck and the decision reached not to close all the night classes of the Vocational School. Neither settlement was unanimous.

It was decided that $229,680 will be required from the City Council this year to finance the work of the Public Schools and the Collegiate Institute and Vocational Training School. This is a reduction of $3,220 on the $232,900 secured by the Board for the same purposes last year. It is $22,620 reduction on the 1931 estimates, and a total reduction on the amount required by the Board from the City Council in 1930 of $25,720.

Real Reduction Over $10,000.

However, as those supporting the vote on the estimates last night pointed out, a further reduction of $7,250 would have been shown if it had not been for the slash in the grants made this year by the Department of Education. In the past three years, it was said, the Board has actually reduced its expenditures by more than $40,000, but the full results of economies made have been lost to the taxpayer because of the continued reductions in the grants made to the Board by the Department.

Mr. Hancock's Predicament.

As one of the five members of the Board who maintained that the estimates should be further reduced, W. J. Hancock found himself in a rather ludicrous position. As chairman of the Finance Committee, he was told it was his duty to move the resolution fixing the estimates, when they were brought in in their finished form by the secretary-treasurer.

"It's hard for a fellow in my position to do that," he complained.

"That's your job,' declared Dr. J. J. Craig and Dry Raymore Scott in unison.

So, thus exhorted, he arose and moved the adoption of the estimates. But he told The Examiner to put him down as opposed to the motion. "I hope and trust the Council will have the money to be able to pay them" he commented.

STUDENT FLIER KILLS HIS PILOT

Youth Turns Gun on Self After Shooting in Mid-air and Wild Landing.

REASONS UNKNOWN.

SAN BENITO, Texas, Feb. 24 (A.P.)—An airplane spiralled to the ground, its pilot dead; from the rear cockpit a man leaped, ran a few yards, turned a pistol on himself and fired into his temple.

With these asserted facts, related to officers and investigators by witnesses, authorities to-day continued their probe of the deaths of Lehman Nelson, 33, pilot, and Erin McCall, 20, student flier, late yesterday.

An examination by police and physicians showed Nelson had been shot in the back of the head. McCall was dead when those who witnessed the plane's erratic landing reached him.

George Witzel, a farmer, testified at an inquest he saw Nelson's head hanging over the side of the cockpit five minutes before the ship landed. The plane was flying low at the time, and he said he could see a red smear on the fuselage which he thought was paint. Afterward he learned the smear was blood.

Officers said they found a pistol near McCall's body and that it had been fired three times.

LONDON, Ont., February 24 (C.P.). — No profession has a claim on unyielding virtue, London Police Court records reveal.

LEAGUE ADOPTS REPORT SCORING JAPAN'S POLICY

Tokyo Delegate Quits Assembly Saying Cooperation No Longer Possible.

VOTE UNANIMOUS.

No Formal Japanese Notice of Withdrawal From League Given.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Meeting without the Japanese delegation this afternoon, the Assembly of the League of Nations appointed an advisory committee of 21 members—including Canada—to serve as an executive group in further dealing with the Sino-Japanese dispute.

GENEVA, Feb. 24. (AP) — The Japanese delegation walked out of the assembly of the League of Nations to-day after adoption of the report condemning Japanese policy in Manchuria and urging continuation of non-recognition of the Japanese-sponsored state off Manchukuo.

The delegation announced that it can no longer co-operate with the League on the Sino-Japanese question.

Siam alone abstained from voting. Forty-two voted "yes." The absentees were Cuba, Salvador, Nicaragua, Peru, Bolivia, Paraguay and Chile.

Dr. Walter A. Riddel, for Canada, and Dr. David Zaunius, for Lithuania, non-members of the League's committee of nineteen, announced approval of the report.

Encouragement

Yosuke Matsuoka, head of the Japanese delegation, told the Assembly, however, that Japan would co-operate with the League as far as circumstances permitted.

When the Japanese delegation walked out Paul Hymans, of Belgium, the chairman said the Assembly would reconvene at 5:00 p.m. today, he then dismissed it.

While the situation was left somewhat confused, it was clear that for the present Japan has not withdrawn from the League. Neither did M. Matsuoka assert that Japan would withdraw from the League.

TALKED WHEAT WITH HERRIDGE

Roosevelt Admits Nothing Definite Arranged About Conference, in Interview.

SUBJECT VITAL ONE.

HYDE PARK, N.Y., Feb. 24 (CP) President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt talked about wheat with Hon. W. D. Herridge at his conference last Tuesday he disclosed to-day.

He said nothing definite had been arranged about a wheat conference and recalled the subject of wheat is part of the agenda of the World Economic Conference.

He declined to say whether he would ask the special session of Congress to consider the St. Lawrence treaty now awaiting ratification. Senator Thomas A. Walsh, after a conference with Mr. Roosevelt had predicted it would be taken up.

The President-elect's statement concerning wheat bore out his formal announcement after the Herridge conference that "many subjects of mutual interest to Canada and the United States had been discussed and also Mr. Herridge's remark that it had been "general."

It had previously been suggested speculatively the conversation had dealt with the St. Lawrence possible reciprocal trade arrangements with Canada and exchange. It now appears the economists of both countries may have been more widely canvassed than had been supposed.

Section 98 Will Remain in Criminal Code Commons Votes

RAILWAY BILL PASSES SENATE WITHOUT VOTE

Section 98 Remains in Criminal Code House of Commons Decides.

KING WINS TIFT.

Deputy Speaker Lavergne Drags Retraction From Cabinet Minister.

OTTAWA, Feb. 24.—(C.P.)—After surviving a strenuous last minute attack the compulsory co-operative legislation for the railways of Canada to-day bears the final approval of the Senate. The Upper House of Parliament was charged with the duty of making the first study of the new railway law and it now goes to the House of Commons.

Meighen to Defence.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Government leader, came to the defence of the bill when it was assailed on both sides of the Senate on its third reading last night. The chief points of attack was that the bill was unfair to the Canadian Pacific Railway in that the compulsory arbitration provisions took control of the company's affairs away from the shareholders.

Without compulsion the bill would be useless, Senator Meighen insisted. The Canadian Pacific could not possibly be injured by the operation of the arbitral tribunal the bill sets up. Unrestrained competition was destructive and by seeking to curb it the bill was aiding the Canadian Pacific as much as the Canadian National.

Six Months Hoist.

The House of Commons yesterday ended another of its annual debates on the proposal to repeal section 98 of the criminal code. The section which provides a summary means of dealing with seditious activities has been the subject of criticism ever since it was enacted in 1919, but it stands in the code for another year. By a vote of 89 to 4 the House voted to give J. S. Woodsworth's repeal bill the six months' hoist, an indirect way of throwing it out.

The last hours of the debate were enlivened by a clash between Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, and Hon. Maurice Dupre, Solicitor-General. Mr. King demanded Mr. Dupre retract a charge he made yesterday that the Liberal leader when Prime Minister had moved to repeal the section in order to win the support of the left wingers of the House. He denied making any bargain with any group of members.

King Wins Tiff

The Solicitor-General sought to qualify his withdrawal by saying he accepted the ruling of the chair but reserved the right to his own opinion.

The rules of the House require one member to accept the word of another, and Mr. King insisted on his point. Not until Deputy Speaker Armand Lavergne pointed-Heated Arguments Take Place at Meeting of Hastings Board of Education.

OVER SALARY CUTS.

HASTINGS, February 24 (Examiner Correspondence). — The Hastings Separate School Board met in the Foresters' Hall on Wednesday with the following members present, Rev. Father P. J. Kelly, T. A. Coughlan, J. F. Jones, L. A. Lavoie, T. A. Walsh, and B. Crowley. The meeting was one of the hottest in some time, some very heated arguments taking place between the members. The outcome of the meeting was the resignation of T. A. Coughlan, who has been a trustee for a number of years.

Information obtained by The Examiner was to the effect that the teachers will receive a cut in the very near future. The caretaker has already been reduced $40.00 a year. With a reduction of the Government grant, the difference has to be made up or be taxed to the ratepayers.

HENRY REFUSES TO GIVE APOLOGY TO HARRY NIXON

Feud Over Premier's Connection With Mortgage Company Flares Anew.

HONOR IMPUGNED.

Split in Liberal Party Ranks is Denied by Members of Legislature.

TORONTO, Feb. 24 (C.P.).—The Ontario Legislature was prepared to sit briefly to-day and consider Government business, after yesterday's vigorous encounter between Premier George S. Henry and Harry Nixon, Progressive leader, in which the Premier held an attempt was being made to besmirch his honor.

Split In Liberals.

Meanwhile lobby gossips said possibility of a split in the Liberal ranks had developed out of Mr. Nixon's amendment to the Speech from the Throne, asking early dissolution of the House and an election. Should Mr. Nixon's amendment, amounting to a motion of non-confidence in the Government, reach division in the Legislature, it was said, at least 10 Liberals would support it, while W. E. N. Sinclair, their leader in the House, with three or four adherents, would vote with the Government.

Official statement following a Liberal caucus yesterday denied consideration of the amendment. A further caucus will be held Tuesday, but party adherents would not say whether or not the amendment will be discussed.

Asks Apology.

Renewal of conflict between Mr. Henry and Mr. Nixon began before the orders for the day were called. Mr. Nixon asked an apology from the Premier, contending denial by Mr. Henry of a statement he had made Tuesday was a "most serious reflection" on his character.

Mr. Nixon had said the Toronto Mortgage Company, of which the Premier is a director, had voted itself a 12 per cent. dividend.

Mr. Henry, in reply, reiterated that the stock of the company was not bearing 12 per cent. interest. "You mislead the public," he said, "unless you tell them what rate the stock is bearing." The stock was yielding the purchaser 6.3 per cent., he said, adding, "I repeat what I said before, you are not telling the whole truth."

He declined to apologize, and accused Mr. Nixon "as the last surviving member of a discredited government (the Progressive administration of E. C. Drury) has the hardihood to stand up in this House and attempt to impugn my integrity

Several months ago he raided a place in Southern Maryland, and later testified against the defendant. A few days ago he went to the same place, and there amid the bottles was the same proprietor.

"Hello," said the prop. "Where've you been?"

"Oh, I've been away," replied Bailey. "Gimme a quart."

"O.K." said the proprietor, wrapping one up. "But we've got to be awful careful these days. They're raiding all around here."

"Man, oh, man," said the agent, showing his badge, "you're wrong. They're raiding right in here."

AN INDEPENDENT TRIBUNAL ASKED IN DORLAND CASE

Toronto Police Commissioners Seek Probe of Events Subsequent to Arrest.

COATSWORTH DISSENTS.

High Officers of Force, Including Chief Draper, Give Evidence.

TORONTO, Feb. 24.—With Judge Emerson Coatsworth dissenting, the Board of Police Commissioners late yesterday afternoon decided to ask for an independent tribunal to investigate all that occurred subsequent to the apprehension and arrest of William Toohey and Albert Dorland on April 7, 1930, following an alleged attempted hold-up of the Royal Bank at Church and Wellesley Streets.

For four months the Board of Police Commissioners has been hearing evidence in connection with the Dorland case. Only recently the board went to Portsmouth Penitentiary to obtain Dorland's statement. High officers at police headquarters and a number of detectives and constables have been heard. Yesterday, at the request of Chief Constable D. C. Draper, the board heard evidence again from Chief Inspector George Guthrie, Inspector of Detectives Alex. J. Murray, Assistant Inspector of Detectives John Chisholm, and the Chief Constable himself.

Resolution Proposed.

On the completion of the evidence, Judge James Parker proposed the following resolution:

"Whereas, it has been alleged there was improper conduct on the part of members of our forces in connection with what led up to the

FRESH REVOLT LOOMS IN CUBA

Exploding of Three Large Bombs Set Capital in Uproar.

REBELS ON MOVE.

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Three large bombs exploded here early today. The capital was awaiting anxiously to learn whether a revolutionary movement rumored for today was materializing.

It was recalled Mexico City despatches predicted bombings in Havana simultaneously with a concentration movement of rebels from the mainland toward the island.

An explosion of a large bomb in the Bedado suburb at 12:30 a.m., was so far unlocated by police. Two other large bombs exploded shortly after 2 a.m.

Five small bombs exploded at the Centro Asturiano at 1 a.m., causing several hundred dancers to flee in confusion, deserting the ballroom.

Unrest was pervading throughout the island as the 38th Cuban Independence Day began.

Communications Cut

Communications were interrupted eastward from the capital. Santiago and Camaguey correspondents reported those cities were quiet but unconfirmed rumors said rebels were numerous around Cienfuegos and the situation was tense at Neuvitas.

After the ballroom bombing, police arrested Bartolome Mas, declaring they found liquid fire bombs in his coat pocket. Bombs were found shortly after midnight at the National Casino.

A despatch from Santiago at 1.45 a.m., reported the burning of the Jibacoa sugar mill near Manzanillo yesterday afternoon. All buildings were destroyed, except the machinery house. The cause of the fire was unknown.

The mill was not grinding this season.

HOARDING IN U.S. SHOWS INCREASE

Banking Situation in Michigan is Held Partly Responsible.

CONDITIONS "QUIET."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.— A sharp increase in hoarding, a decrease in the monetary gold stocks of the nation and drastic curtailment in federal revenue were reported by federal fiscal agencies yesterday.

Government authorities again are showing concern about the amount of money hoarded. Money in circulation, that is money not held by the Treasury or Federal Reserve banks, reached a new all-time record total of $5,988,000,000 during the week-end Feb. 21.

This represented a gain of $134,000,000 during the past week and an increase of $405,000,000 over a five-week period, the Federal Reserve Board reported last night.

Fear occasioned by the general banking moratorium declared in Michigan precipitated some of the hoarding, authorities said. This, it was pointed out, despite the announcement of Government officials that a survey of the leading cities found banking conditions "quiet."

Moths No Worry to Chinese

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 24. — (AP)—Two thousand metal helmets, made to protect United States soldiers during the Great War, had been shipped today to China to become part of the equipment of Chinese troops on the Jehol front. They were a bit rusty and with linings somewhat moth-eaten.

Albert S. Dreyfuss, head of the company which shipped the helmets Thursday, said::

SPAIN'S CABINET ABOUT TO QUIT

Slaying of 23 in Suppression of Anarchist Uprising Claimed Cause.

PRIVATE PROBE HELD.

MADRID, Feb. 24.—Government leaders last night regarded a cabinet crisis in the next 24 hours as inevitable.

In addition to other difficulties facing the Government, the shooting incident at Casasviejas last month, when 23 persons were slain during the suppression of an anarchist movement, was brought up by Opposition members of the Chamber of Deputies as indicating a new regime should be put into power.

The group raising the question went to Casasviejas independently when the Government refused to send an investigation commission. They charged that 14 of the 23 shot were killed after they had been arrested and the movement had subsided.

At the end of last night's session several members of the cabinet at a late meeting said that until now they had not known all the details of the incident, and that they were now unwilling to accept the responsibility for it.

Persons close to several members said it was quite possible that at to-day's regular cabinet meeting the ministry would resign.

RAILWAY UNION REFUSES BRIBE SMUGGLE ARMS

Austrian Socialist Group Report Incident to Chancellor Dollfuss.

HIGH OFFICIAL FIRED.

Offered $21,000 to Run Train of Arms From Italy to Hungary.

VIENNA, Feb. 24.— (A.P.)— A smuggling tale as weird as anything in fiction was revealed last night as an aftermath of the recent Franco-British arms note to Austria.

The story involved an alleged attempt to bribe a whole railway union into systematic furtherance of wholesale arms shipments to Hungary through Austria from Italy.

No less a personage than the director-general of the government railways himself—Egn Seefehlner—was accused in a Socialist party communique of having offered the leader of the Socialist Railwaymen's Union 150,000 schillings ($21,000) if he and his men would help a trainload of rifles and macine guns to "accidentally lose their way" and wander into Hungary.

Other Cargoes to Follow.

This train would be loaded with arms, which Chancellor Dollfuss on Tuesday promised would be shipped back to Italy. If the plan succeeded, according to the Socialist communique, there would be other trainloads coming regularly from Italy bound for Hungary, and there would be more money for the federal railroad unions.

The Socialist union leader indignantly refused the alleged offer and told his party leaders, who informed Chancelor Dollfuss. The latter thereupon immediately suspended Herr Seefehlner and apopinted Anton Schopfer to succeed him. Schoepfer is a member of the Heimwehr.

COMMERCIAL USES OF BAKELITE MOST NUMEROUS ENGINEERS TOLD

H. P. Mills Addresses Local Branch of Engineering Institute.

TABLEWARE IN EUROPE.

Of the commercial uses of bakelite protean synthetic resin compounded of phenol and formaldehide, there is almost no end, H. P. Mills of the Bakelite Corporation of Canada, inferred in his address last night at the meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

Extensively used in the electrical industry of which the Canadian General Electric Company was among the first to exploit its possibilities, especially for its insulating qualities and in some phases as a substitute for porcelain, its advantages are employed to-day in a wide range of articles from cosmetic powder boxes to a highly efficient anti-corrosive protection for steel.

Mr. Mills briefly surveyed the broad and interesting field of bakelite, and featured his address on the Bakelite Corporation's research that has recently resulted in the practical demonstration of bakelite's valuable property as an "inhibitor of rusting" when applied with several pigments of which zinc chromate is perhaps the most successfully effectual.

Not as strong as steel, or as flexible as rubber, nor as compressible as cast iron, nor as good an insulator as glass or porcelain, bakelite combines these qualities in a high degree, Mr. Mills said, providing utility in a great many directions, varying to a large extent with the mixtures with which it is moulded. Mixed with "wood flour" it is able to withstand shocks, and in that respect is used on the ends of chisels, replacing leather that was formerly employed to protect the wooden handle. Moulding mixtures have been developed that permit production of some articles as fast as the machines can use the bakelite. In that detail the limit has been reached.

As Tableware in Europe

In Europe it has replaced porcelain to a great extent as tableware. It is used as powder boxes, corks of bottles, caps of containers and so on, lending itself to very attractive designs heightened by a wide range of colors. Cut as gearing from thick sheets it brings silence when combined with steel gears. In this phase it can be used in the timing gear of automobiles and outrun the life of the car.

In its purest form bakelite resists all chemical action, moisture, weather, and light, making it very permanent. Because of its hardness bakelite has attracted the attention of the furniture industry for table tops, dresser tops and so on. It is impervious to ammonia, soap and water, alcohol and perfume that might be spilt. As a surface material it is also used as trim in banks, hotels and theatres and theatre lobbies. In one form of its process production it looks like marble and costs only one-third as much. With all the colors that may be infused into moulded bakelite it is highly favored in the modernistic modes of decoration.

Its Tests as a Varnish

Mr. Mills let a match burn out on a sheet of bakelite table surface showing that it was not in the least marred by the heat. Bakelite includes many products. Of its approximately 4,000 synthetic resinous forms probably only one in twenty-five have common application. Mr. Mills told the story of the corporations' research and tests that produced bakelite as a finish or varnish. Panels were prepared and treated with proprietary varnishes and also the bakelite product. They were left for five months on the Florida beach where they were exposed to tidewater and sun. These natural elements took off the proprietary varnish from all but one panel. The bakelite panel looked the best. It was left on the beach another five months, and because of its practically perfect resistance as demonstrated by these tests all high class marine varnishes are made of bakelite gums.

Bakelite is used in washing machines because of its resitance to corrosion by hot soap. Varnish is taken off floors by soap more than by wear, Mr. Mills incidentally remarked.

Invented by a Belgian

Bakelite was the invention of a Belgian chemist, Dr. Bakelin, some twenty years ago. He brought it to the United States as a process in photography by which prints could be developed with artificial light. It was offered to one company for $5,000, but Dr. Bakelin was told to develop it further. When he returned to the company they were satisfied that it was worth $5,000, but he told them the price was then $25,000. The company told him that confirmed their suspicion that he was only a crazy inventor. Ultimately Velox cost the Kodak Company more than $1,000,000, although they could have bought it for $5,000. The paint industry was looking for a synethetic shellac about that time, but as the "stuff" subsequently to be known as bakelite was not soluble in alcohol it was thrown away in the course of various experiments.

But that insolubility suggested to Dr. Bakelin, a property that might be valuable and from that viewpoint he went on to the discoveries that have developed the importance of bakelite and the immense industry that has been erected on the original testube reactions of phenol and formaldehide.

HENRY REFUSES TO GIVE APOLOGY

as a member of the House and a member of the Government."

"Remote-Control" Leader

At the outset Premier Henry referred to a time last year, when, he said, he had occasion to draw to the attention of the House statements by Hon. Mr. Nixon, which he (Mr. Henry) declared came from "the remote-control Liberal Leader."

"I made the statement," Mr. Henry went on, "that statements made by the member from Brant (Mr. Nixon) were prepared downtown, and I wonder if the speech made this year by the member from Brant was not also prepared by that same remote control in the offices downtown."

Sold on Open Market

The Premier explained that the stock was sold on the open market and not listed on the exchange, and declared that there was no way to get an authoritative figure on how the price advanced.

"I think my honorable friend says the stock varied from $17 to $90. There is no basis for such a figure," asserted Mr. Henry. "The stock was $21 in New York on May 30, and by reason of exchange, $34 in Toronto. It was $25 to $27 in June about three weeks before the Abitibi Power and Paper Company failed to meet its obligations, and the highest price was 80½ on Nov. 1.

Mr. Henry told the House and especially directed this assertion to Mr. Nixon: "I would like to have the figures quoted fairly accurately"

Mr. Nixon—I am not so far out.

"Coaching" Is Denied

Premier Henry again referred to his connections with the Toronto Mortgage Company. "It seems to worry my friend, the coach who is behind him, who ever it is," he said, referring to Mr. Nixon.

"There is no one coaching me," shot back the Progressive Leader.

"I do not think my friend ran on this thing casually," returned the Prime Minister. He then referred to an editorial in The Globe, which, he said, suggested that Mr. Nixon had unearthed his association with the company, and that it had escaped public attention until now. What was there "horrible" in this connection? he asked.

"I want to point out to the member from Brant that I have been a member of the company since 1916, about 17 years. And I am proud of its history, he added.

"What about your statement of 50 years' connection?" asked Mr. Nixon.

"I repeat it," returned the Premier.

"But this report is the thirty-fourth annual one,' pointed out the member from Brant.

Companies Merged

Premier Henry—There was a merger of two smaller companies, one of which my family was identified with for some 50 years. If it had not been connected with the estate, I am doubtful if I would have ever been associated with it. It has been no secret. The directors have been listed for year. I do not know why The Globe want the people to believe that the member from Brant unearthed it."

"I am pictured as a dual personality, a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. Considerable stress has been laid on the Mr. Hyde part. I have been pictured as posing as a friend of the poor and at the same time hiding behind the doors of a mortgage company. I think that is what the member from Brant would have the public think—that the better side of my nature has become dominated by the more sinister side; and that I was to be a party to foreclosure of three mortgages."

Cut Indirect Relief.

Mr. Henry then explained that there is a tendency now, in agreement with Ottawa, to cut down indirect relief and to pay more direct relief. He felt, he said, that the vast majority would be better pleased to perform work for the relief received, but frankly stated that the Province has been unable to finance projects to bring about this condition.

It was noted that since October 31, 1932, and up to January 31, 1933, an appreciable increase is shown in the number receiving direct relief. The total, including heads of families, members of families, and single men for the last three months is 440,000, as against the 203,000 figure for the whole fiscal year ending October 31, 1932.

The Premier then turned to the vital question of redistribution and reviewed the part he had played in bringing down the Bill of 1925.

"We are now being charged with all sorts of iniquities and gerrymanders," said he. "And," continued Mr. Henry, "a former Attarney-General (Mr. Nickle) went around saying we closed eleven dry seats to make twelve wets."

Mr. Nixon — Very successful, as you see (indiating the filled Conservative benches).

However, Mr. Henry went on to defend the Redistribution Bill if 1925. "I said I would not leave a riding of 15,000 or under."

Number of Seats Reduced.

The situation with respect to this redistribution was different from past redistributions, the Prime Minister stated, in that the Government had taken the responsibility of reducing the number of seats, "whether my friend likes it or not."

Mr. Nixon—I notice there is silence among your own followers. The Opposition benchers applauded, as the Government members had been noticeably silent.

Premier Henry—Never mind mine. Take care of your own. He added that the Liberal House Leader agreed with him that there should be a reduction in numbers.

Mr. Nixon—I would agree, too, if you would cut the number of Cabinet Ministers by three and Cabinet salaries by $3,000 each.

He admitted that he did not know as yet how the redistribution would be worked out, and that it was a difficult problem to deal fairly with all. "There has been only one instruction to the committee dealing with it, and that is that the number must be cut to 90 or less."

The matter would be fully dealt with by a House Commitee, and Opposition members would have a chance to air their views. "Put your strongest men on it. We will consult you about it. Choose whoever you like,' he challenged.

"Oh, it doesn't matter who goes on," replied Mr. Nixon, with an air of resignation.

The Prime Minister stated that it would be impossible to get down to ninety seats and leave any constituency less than 25,000 population. And the size of city constituencies was mentioned as about 50,000, although both figures were estimates, he said.

RAILWAY BILL PASSES SENATE

ly said, "I hope the Solicitor-General will not force me to ask him to withdraw," did Mr. Dupre make an unqualified acceptance of Mr. King's word.

Not even a last-minute appeal from James S. Woodsworth, Leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, sponsor of the repeal motion, could stem the tide. The slender-bearded Labor leader, at one time a minister of the Gospel, said he was not advocating force or violence, but was attempting to remove vicious and oppressive legislation from the Statute Book.

The eight Toronto Communists now serving time in Portsmouth Penitentiary after convictions under Section 98, received more than passing reference by the Commonwealth leader. These men, he said, were not convicted of advocating violence to overthrow constituted authority, but only with belonging to the Communist organization which in turn, was affiliated with Moscow organizations which advocated violence.

Bill Is Turned Down

The House turned down a bill designed to lower freight rates on grain moving westward from Prairie points. By a vote of 97 to 56 second reading was turned down after Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways, said the four Western Provinces had agreed to a proposal to reduce by 50 per cent the spread between export and domestic rates on feed grain.

The measure was sponsored by Thomas Reid, Lib., New Westminster, who claimed discrimination was being shown against British Columbia in grain rates.

The Woodsworth resolution to establish a Co-operative Commonwealth in Canada met another cool reception in the House.

Two Liberals, Cameron MacIntosh (North Battleford), Harry Butcher (Last Mountain), and Frank Turnbull (Cons., Regina), hammered away at Canada's newest political party and its commonwealth policies. Debate was not concluded when the House adjourned.

Obituary

MARSHAL McCOMB

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 25 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The death took place at his home in Percy Township early Thursday morning of Marshal McComb, after an illness of some duration. He was in his 53rd year.

For many years a resident of the Campbellford district, he was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McComb. Surviving are his wife; two sons, Earl and Roy, at home; two daughters, Isabel and Marguerite, also at home; two brothers, Melvin of Campbellford and Marvin of Morganston, and two sisters, Mrs. A. Vale of St. Catharines and Mrs. J. H. Booth of Campbellford.

The funeral will be held on Saturday from the family residence in Percy at 2 p.m., interment being made in Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Campbellford. The Rev. Mr. Hinton of Morganston will officiate.

CHARLES H. BLACK

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 25 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).— A prominent businessman of the town of Campbellford and one who was highly esteemed in the community, Charles H. Black was laid to rest yesterday morning in St. Mary's Church Cemetery, Campbellford, after Requiem Mass had been said at St. Mary's Church.

Showing the esteem in which the deceased was held the funeral was largely attended, many coming from a long distance to attend the last Rite. The celebrant was the Rev. H. Black of Parry Sound, cousin of the deceased; the deacon, the Rev. John McAuley of Ennismore; subdeacon, the Rev. Father Kelly of Hastings; master of ceremonies, Rev. Dr. Masterson of Peterborough. In the sanctuary was also the Rev. W. Meagher of Cobourg. A very impressive sermon was preached by the Rev. Father Kelly.

The late Mr. Black died in a New York hospital on Sunday, February 19, after having undergone an operation about a week previously. Born in Campbellford 52 years ago a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Black, all his life has been spent in the town. As a boy he was engaged in business with is father as a drover. For many years he has conducted a butcher business in the town.

Some years ago he married Mis Loretta Couglin of Hastings, who with six children: five sons, Arthur, Gerard, Charles, George, Dan; and one daughter, Margaret, mourn the loss of a devated and beloved husband and father.

He is also survived by four brothers, James of town; John and Dan of New York and Harry of Port Arthur and five sisters (Annie) Mrs. Dr. Comisky of New York; (Mary) Mrs. W. Hadkrigg of town; (Bridget) Sister Adrian of Peterborough; (Sarah) Mrs. Birkmeyer of New York; and Miss Helen Black, B.A., of the staff of the Continuation School at Marmora.

The pall bearers were: John O'Sullivan, Joseph Kellegher, Frank Lee, Pat. Shannon, G. R. Rellinger, and Donald Robertson.

METLER—COCHRANE

(Special to The Examiner.)

COBOURG, Feb. 24. — A quiet wedding was solemnized on Monday evening, February 20, at Trinity Church parsonage, the residence of Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Tanton, when Mary Delle Cochrane of the Ontario Hospital staff, Cobourg, was married to Hugh Alex Metler, of Fenwick, Ont.

The bride wore a becoming French frock of gray crepe, and carried white carnations. Rev. W. R. Tanton conducted the ceremony. The bride was attended by Miss Bryan of the Ontario Hospital staff, and Dr. Kidd was the groomsman. After a trip (Mr. and Mrs. Metler will take up residence in Fenwick.

PILES GO QUICK

No Salves—No Cutting.

Thousands who have itching, bleeding or protruding piles have not yet learned that quick and lasting relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor suppositories remove the cause.

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The hemorrhoidal veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To get rid of Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, drive out the thick impure blood, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, after years of study, found a real internal Pile remedy. He called his discovery HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1,000 patients with success in over 900 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer, no matter how stubborn their case, might try his prescription with a money back guarantee.

HEM-ROID Tablets have such a wonderful record of success that McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Store and all good druggists invite you to try HEM-ROID, and guarantee money refunded if it does not end your Pile misery.

MUST PLAY THE GAME.

Mr. Sinclair, the Liberal House leader in the Legislature, has shown a willingness to co-operate with the Government in the solution of the pressing problems now facing this province that will be appreciated by most people.

His declaration that this is no time for ward meetings and political gatherings generally will be equally welcome. The majority of citizens are under present-day conditions more concerned with their own problems than they are over the fortunes of political parties, and they are glad to note any evidence of a non-political consideration of the whole economic situation.

There is a plain obligation on the part of the Henry Government to show itself worthy of co-operation from other political groups by refraining from playing politics on its own account; the administration cannot expect to be allowed to build up its political fences under cover of an appeal to the patriotism of their political opponents.

If the Government wants general support it must show itself worthy of it; it must play the game in the matter of redistribution and in every other issue, and unless it is prepared to meet such offers as that of Mr. Sinclair half way, it has no right to ask for aid from those who are customarily opposed to both the Government and its policies.

MR. NIXON WAS RIGHT.

Most people, The Examiner believes, will agree with Hon. H. C. Nixon, the Progressive leader, that Premier Henry should terminate his connection with the Toronto Mortgage Company and rid himself of any other business obligations in which he may be involved.

It is not seemly that the leader of the Government, called upon to deal with such questions as protecting the equity of those who because of economic conditions are threatened with the loss of their property, should at the same time be actively identified with the affairs of a mortgage company.

The Premier, if he is alive to his own interests and anxious to protect his political future, will see the wisdom of devoting himself entirely to the heavy responsibilities that are his as the head of the Provincial Government; business and politics, especially in the case of a Premier, should not be mixed, and if Mr. Henry persists in his connection with private business now that the attention of the public has been focussed on the situation, he will be guilty of using decidedly poor political judgment.

There will be a general feeling that he has quite enough to do in attending to the duties of his responsible public position without attempting to serve two masters by continuing to serve on the directorate of a private enterprise, particularly when there is the danger that these two interests may clash.

MR. MINER'S REQUEST.

Jack Miner, Ontario's famous naturalist, whose interest in and successful efforts on behalf of bird conservation has made him an international figure, is appealing to the members of Ontario's Legislature for financial assistance for his work.

His request is a very modest one; he is simply urging that the Legislature include a grant in the budget as large as one game warden's salary.

"Isn't the work I'm doing worth as much as the work done by one of your game wardens?" asks the veteran naturalist, and his question can only be answered in one way.

For many years Mr. Miner carried on his bird sanctuary without any financial assistance, although the number of birds increased enormously, and incidentally there was a similar growth in the number of visitors.

Finally in 1929 the Federal Government voted a grant of $5,000, which was repeated in 1930. For the next two years this federal aid was cut in two, and the estimate this year is for $2,500, which, of course, covers only a portion of the annual expense Mr. Miner has to meet.

Even in this year of strict economy it would seem that the Legislature might give some heed to Mr. Miner's modest request; the small sum he asked for could easily be lopped off some other item not so much in the public interest.

ONE DIFFICULTY IN THE WAY.

The Duff resolution in regard to the opening of overtures for a reciprocity agreement with the United States, and Premier Bennett's announcement that the Government of Canada is prepared to give sympathetic reception to any movement from Washington in that direction, have caused a very hopeful feeling throughout the country.

There is a danger, of course, of being too optimistic about the possibilities of the situation, and it would be well to consider the whole matter calmly and not to build up too high hopes, despite the fact that the reaction in the United States to Mr. Bennett's speech has been very favorable.

A trade agreement with our neighbors to be of any great value in curing our economic ills must open a way for the disposal of large quantities of Canadian farm products, for which the United States is the logical market.

Right there would seem to be the greatest difficulty in the way of successful negotiations between the two countries.

Mr. Roosevelt believes in lowering trade barriers, it is true, but it must not be forgotten that during the presidential campaign he repeatedly promised the farmers of the United States that their market would be protected against foreign farm products, and that promise has been repeated since the election.

In view of his clear-cut statements on this question it would seem logical for our farmers not to trust too hopefully to a reciprocal agreement with the United States to pull them out of their difficulties.

WHOLLY EFFECTIVE.

The Peterborough Examiner is quite right when it remarks that the C.C.F. movement has struck its darkest hour now that Mr. Jean-Francois Pouliot, M.P., has started to bombard the organization with questions. "When Mr. Pouliot goes out after information," the Peterborough paper adds, "he is more persistent than a census enumerator."

The Globe, commenting on the same situation, says that Mr. Pouliot has taken a wholly logical course in putting a series of questions to Mr. Woodsworth. If the latter expects to have his Socialistic program adopted, the Toronto paper says, "he will have to get down to brass tacks so people will understand what he places before them. "If he does not," the Globe concludes, "then the public should understand that he is merely talking for talk's sake, taking up time and holding out false hopes when public attention should be directed to more practical ends."

These observations are thoroughly in line with that made by the Star when the questions were put forward. This paper went to the trouble of publishing the full list of queries so that the public might thoroughly appreciate the force of Mr. Pouliot's questionative argument. We are convinced that this list must have produced a profound impression on the Canadian people because, as we said the other day, they expose the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation movement for what it really is. Mr. Pouliot, in his entertaining and polite way, has done more to shatter the C.C.F. idea than any number of personal attacks upon Mr. Woodsworth. Merely calling a man "Red" and hurling other names at him is the refuge of politicians who lack the wisdom to argue logically. Such attacks provoke sympathy for the victim. Mr. Pouliot has taken the other course, carefully working out a series of questions that show the utter impracticability of C.C.F. propositions. It should be effective in showing the Canadian people the folly of half-baked ideas.—Border Cities Star.

CAPTAIN VANCOUVER'S TRUNK?

An interesting item carried over the wires at the week-end related to the discovery in Nanaimo, B.C., of a trunk bearing the inscription "G.V., R.N., 1771" which it is thought may have been the property of Captain George Vancouver, the celebrated navigator and explorer of the later eighteenth century whose name is borne by one of Canada's chief cities. The trunk is said to have been found among the effects of a certain estate, and has been turned over to the British Columbia Archives department for investigation. Should it prove to be authentic, considerable value would attach to the relic thus brought to light.

If the trunk actually was the property of Captain Vancouver, it must have been acquired by him at the very inception of his sea-faring career and when still he was a boy, for he was 13 years of age in the year 1771, when he joined the "Resolution" under Captain Cook, subsequently serving as midshipman on his second voyage in 1772-75. He was also a member of Cook's second and last expedition to the Pacific in 1776-80, his important visit in the present British Columbian coast coming in 1792-93 when he carried out a survey of the coast-line and gave the world its first authentic knowledge of its details. His constitution undermined by his services, Vancouver died in 1798 in England at the age of 40 years. His grave was suitably marked by the British Columbia Government some years ago.

Stranger things have happened than that the trunk should prove to have been the property of Vancouver, possibly left by him in British Columbia at the time of his visit to that part of the country. The inscription upon it at least bears the appearance of authenticity and coincides with Vancouver's entry into the naval service in which he was to win such renown as a navigator and geographer.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

WORLD'S OLDEST REGIMENT.

Following the death of the Earl of Denbigh who commanded the Honorable Artillery Company of London, England, for forty years, Lord Galway, an ex-officer of the Life Guards, has been named his successor. A proud honor it is because the H.A.C., as it is known to Londoners, is the oldest regiment in the world.

It was founded in 1537 when Henry the Eighth granted a charter to the Guild of St. George to encourage the science of artillery. But artillery at that time simply meant bows and arrows and "handgonnes," whatever the hand guns of 1537 were like. Since 1641 the armories of the H.A.C. have stood in Bunhill Fields within the city of London, near the cemetery in which John Bunyan is buried. The then Prince of Wales, afterwards Charles the Second, joined it as an officer, and since then either the reigning King or Prince of Wales has been an officer in command of a company.

The H.A.C. has seen the transition of arms from bows and arrows to the modern equipment. It forms part of the Royal Regiment of Artillery, and is the first on the Territorial Army list. It is, however, given the honor of being brigaded with the Guards. Four members of the company who emigrated in 1638 founded the Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, Mass., the oldest military unit in the United States.

Although an artillery regiment it has also an infantry battalion, and membership requires that the applicant be "something in the city." Many wealthy men serve as privates. During the World War it had a noble record. Altogether 12,847 men served in the H.A.C. How much it was in the thick of the fighting is gathered by the fact that of that number 5,961 were either killed, died of sickness or wounded. It won 225 decorations for bravery, including two V.C.'s, and over 5,000 men obtained commissions.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Russian barter question seems to be like Banquo's ghost, it will not down.

The Relief Fund needs the whole sum named as the objective of the campaign. Citizens who can help should forward their donations.

Parliament is wasting a lot of valuable time in discussing such questions as Section 98. That particular law is not keeping anybody out of a job or interfering with trade.

Commissioner C. A. Maguire does not seem to be aware of the fact that the Hydro Commission is supposed to be out of politics.

Mr. Roosevelt's Cabinet is virtually completed. Those selected are to be congratulated upon the honor done them, but not on the grave responsibilities the present economic situation assigns them.

Little Girl Lost

By Temple Bailey

READ THIS FIRST:

Araminta Williams, 20 and beautiful, is faced with the problem of three stepsisters who are not so attractive and on whom she and her mother and father are dependent. She decides that the only way out is to marry and decides on Barney Tyson, who is madly in love with her. After an argument with Leontine, one of the stepsisters, who is intent on sending Araminta abroad because she herself is in love with Barney, Araminta calls Barney on the telephone, and later in the garden tells him she wants to marry him.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 3

And now, here they were, Araminta and Barney, on the road to Washington, where Araminta would spend the night with Aunt Min, who had inherited all her money from a great-aunt, who had thought of Mary as safely married and had willed her fortune to the single sister. And Aunt Min had felt that while Mary had come to lean days, it was her own fault, because she had wanted a second husband more than she had wanted what the first one had left her. So it was on her own head! But then if Mary had not married again, there would not have been Araminta, which was something again to think about. For while Aunt Min adored Araminta, she cared nothing in the world for Iris and Helen and Leontine. She admitted Nicky's charm in spite of the fact that she did not approve of him. And she was fond of Mary, although deep in her heart she was aware of a subconscious jealousy, since Mary had known happiness in two marriages, and Aunt Min had not married at all. Yet Aunt Min was happy in her own way, and had found outlets for her supposed frustrations in excitements other than love and matrimony. She loved to eat, and all the epicures of old Washington came to dine with her. She loved politics and her home was often the scene of star-chamber discussions. As for the rest, there were her Persian cat and her Pekingese, and her collection of Baxter prints—and her lamps and her lanterns brought from all the corners of the earth. For Aunt Min had traveled widely, and once she had taken Araminta with her—two years ago, when for some obscure reason, Araminta had lost her color and her appetite and had needed a change.

This much, therefore, for Aunt Min, to whom Araminta was now going, and to whom she would break the astounding news of her immediate marriage.

"There may, of course, be some trouble in getting a license," Barney said, as they sat in the darkness of the car with the storm flowing about them. "I don't know the District laws. But you'll be safe with your aunt, and I'll stay at the hotel. And I'll get in touch with Uncle Tad tomorrow, and ask for his boat. I want you all to myself, Loveliness, out there on the water—with this moon over the bay. . . ."

Then, after a moment's silence, "What made you change your mind, Minta?"

It was the question she had been dreading. She couldn't say, for example, "You happened to be the nearest man."

So she murmured, "Oh, you're such a darling, Barney."

And Barney, asking no more, gathered her up in his arms, and was aware of faint and enchanting fragrances, for Araminta had touched the laces of her gown and the tips of her ears with the scent of—primroses? Violets? Daffodils? Eglantine? Barney did not know what flowers were caught in her hair or in her cobweb draperies. He knew only it was as if he held Spring in his arms and loved her!

They had left Great-Gate almost miraculously without giving a hint to the family of the finality of their departure. The two men had come for Leontine and Iris and Helen promptly at nine. One of the men, Oliver King, was in love with Leontine, and the other, Taylor Pierce, was in love with Helen. And all that one could say of them was this—that they served as escorts, but could not be thought of for a moment as husbands. For while both of them had something in the way of backgrounds, they had nothing else in the way of eligibility. Taylor's debonair attractiveness scarcely balanced the drawback of his indolence, and Oliver's good looks were weighed down by his lack of brains; and they were utterly without adequate incomes.

It had been expected, of course, that Barney and Araminta would go on with the others. But Araminta had hung back. "I hate being early."

And Leontine had said, with a touch of coldness, "Oh, well, if you want to make a spectacular entrance—!"

So Leontine with much perturbation had been forced to leave her behind. There was, Leontine was sure, something in the wind. She had felt it from th moment Araminta had come in with Barney from the garden, and had faced the lights of the house. A glamour had hung over them like a glittering net. It had been disturbing and distracting, and Leontine's mind had been fillid with the thought of it all the way to Annapolis.

Having disposed of her stepsisters, Araminta had made some slight excuse to go upstairs, and had left Barney on the porch with Nicky and Mary. She stayed for a long time, and when she came down, Mary said, "Did it take all that time to powder your nose?"

"I wrote two letters, Mother."

And it had not been given to Mary to know that one of the letters was addressed to her, and that it lay on Araminta's dressing table, propped up with one to Leontine.

Besides writing the letters, Araminta had packed her bag, and had brought it down and hidden it in the shrubbery by the side door, and had gone back to the others with an air of detachment which was most deceiving.

In the note to Leontine, Araminta had said, "Darling, I am giving you a chance, and Iris and Helen. I am not going abroad with Nicky and mother. I am marrying Barney instead. I love him a lot, and it will make things easier for everybody. And there must be no hard feelings because I am really very happy, and I am always your adoring Minta."

And in the note to her mother, she had said, "I know you won't mind not having a wedding. And I know what you think of Barney. So I am putting a kiss in this for you and Nicky. And all my heart's love to both of you."

It was when Araminta read over Leontine's letter that she had felt some misgivings. For hadn't she told Leontine just a few hours ago that she didn't love Barney—and here in black and white she was saying, "I love him a lot?"

But she had let it stand, and now, riding along in the white light of the moon, she was glad she had said it. She didn't care what Leontine thought, she didn't care for anything or anybody, since Barney was by her side in this lovely world which belonged to both of them.

It was very late when they reached Washington and drove through the empty streets. As they came to Dupont Circle, Araminta glanced at the little clock in front of her, "Barney, it's after one."

"Well, what of it?"

"Aunt Min will be in bed."

"We will wake her up."

Araminta hated to think of Aunt Min waking, with her maid, Rhoda, coming down and peering out. And the Pekingese would wake, too, and the Persian pussy, and Rhoda would say, reproachfully, "I'd just got them nicely settled, Miss Minta." Araminta had gone all through Europe with Rhoda, and she knew her reactions to every situation.

Aunt Min lived to the east and north of Dupont Circle, in a house which had been built in the early 90's. It wasn't a very big house, nor was it a very small one. It had a white stone front, and an English basement, and when Araminta and Barney drove up there were lights shining in the hall and in the drawing room on the second floor, and Barney said, "What shall we tell her when we go in?"

"You aren't going in, darling," Araminta told him, "I'll say 'goodbye' right here and now, and see you in the morning."

So Barney set Araminta's bag on Aunt Min's doorstep, and kissed her, and rang the bell, and waited until Rhoda let Araminta in, and Rhoda said, "For goodness sake, Miss Minta, where did you come from?" And Araminta said, "I've just motored up from home. . . ." And Rhoda said, "You will find Miss Minnie in the drawing room," and Araminta running up the stairs, asked herself what she should say if Aunt Min had a lot of people about her, and she decided that the best thing would be to treat herself casually, with "Hello, darling," and let it go at that.

And so, all light and airy, and ready to be casual, Araminta came to the threshold of the drawing room, and stood there, looking in.

And as she looked, it seemed as if that lovely world which she had shared with Barney had fallen suddenly away, and that she was left in a wide and desert space, in which there were just two people—herself, standing in the doorway, and the man who sat beside Aunt Min, and who two years before had broken Araminta's heart!

Who's Who in Ottawa

By CHARLES ROSS, Jr.

HON. HUGH GUTHRIE
Minister of Justice

Long known as one of Canada's most promising young Liberal politicians, protege of Laurier, silver-tongued proponent of reciprocity, nurtured in a home where intellectual strength as fostered by the Bible, the shorter catechism and the editorials of George Brown's Toronto Globe, Hon. Hugh Guthrie sits in the front bench of the present House of Commons as minister of justice in the cabinet of R. B. Bennett. Son of a Liberal patriot and politician, a reformer of the stiff old Manchester school, young Hugh was nurtured and bred in the sturdy political brew of Mackenzie and Brown and Blake and Gladstone. In Liberal ranks he succeeded beyond his father's fondest dreams. Then one night in 1916, after perhaps the most moving and eloquent speech of his career, Hugh Guthrie walked across the floor of the House on the conscription issue and renounced forever his political birthright. His apostasy shook Liberalism to the core and shortly afterwards Union government was born. The man who might have worn the mantle of Sir Wilfrid Laurier put aside his all for an ideal. It is characteristic of the man that once the step was taken there could be no turning back. The shades of Gladstone had been forever banished from his political consciousness. No one doubts his sincerity. He is one of the most cultured of Ottawa's political circle. He never goes fishing or golfing or yachting. He does, however, collect old prints, old pictures, old furniture, can spot a Duncan Pfyffe original as no other in Canada. He recently built an addition to his home to take care of the chinaware. We hereby nominate Hon. Hugh Guthrie to Canada's mythical hall of fame, and to a comfortable seat, when the time comes, among the higher posts of the bench of his country.

20-PIECE BAND FOR CARNIVAL

Splendid List of Prizes on Display in Examiner Window.

IN AID OF RELIEF

All arrangements are well under way for the big event of next week, the Grand Ice Carnival at the Brock Street Rink, by which The Examiner's Relief Fund will profit materially, it is hoped.

There will be special decorations and illuminations donated by interested friends, and the Kresge Company has kindly offered a large number of noise-makers for the occasion.

A twenty-piece band will be in attendance and the Ice Carnival will be followed by dancing.

The prizes are splendid, and are on view in The Examiner window. They include a three-piece lingerie set, a bath robe, silk pyjamas, and a raincoat and hat set for the ladies' and girls taking part, and, for the men and boys, a set of gent.'s furnishings, a silk scarf, a windbreaker, and a pair of kid gloves. Prizes will be given for fancy and comic outfits.

ALL OF US

By MARSHALL MASLIN

THE ANGEL OF GRIEF

Sometimes, riding in the country, I have passed little cemeteries on the edge of little towns.

There lie the fathers, the first men, who came early to this valley or this plain and sank deep their roots and toiled painfully and made farms and factories. Here lie their wives, who worked side by side with them and bore children. And here lie those pathetic ones, the babies that died young, so small, so tender, so unaccustomed as yet to this life of ours. . . .

And often at the entrance to these memorial spots you see a statue of the Angel of Grief. . . .She is made of marble and almost always she lies face forward and her great wings fall before her and her grief is covered and unseen. She is destroyed by the tragedy of bereavement. She, too, hurts the heart and stirs sad memories.

I have seen Grief like hers. I have seen Grief screaming and sobbing and racking herself to hysteria. I have seen Grief sullen and crying out the harsh injustice of death. I have seen Grief sullen and silent and embittered. And I have seen Grief crushed almost to insanity, bearing such a weight that even thought and memory were driven back into the darkness.

But most often I have seen Grief standing straight and eyes looking straight before her. . . .Sadness in those eyes, but courage in them too, ... Seen her face in the loneliness and accept it strongly. . . .Seen her smile and refuse to break. . . .Seen her wise and all-knowing and triumphant, and too proud for obvious agony. . . .And once before a little cemetery I saw a statue of Grief that seemed to be rising from the earth. . . .face illumined and wings reaching strongly for the upper air . . . .despising all pain, spurning all bitterness, beautifully unsurrendering.

And there, thought I, is the Angel of Grief as she should be, the blessed, comforting angel who is stronger in her loss than ever before. . . .And that, thought I, is how all men should face their darkest moments. . . .Showing to the world a heart that knows no dark defeat.

ALBERT EDWARD WILSON
President A. E. Wilson & Co., Ltd., Insurance

This is the signature of an unpretentious man who is constantly discovering himself possessed of more ability than he expects to find in himself and for whom ambition is awakened accordingly. He possesses a capacity for rising to situations and ability for meeting them adequately. His personality is a simple, unaffected unassuming one. He has imagination, but it is of the sort that makes him an understanding person rather than a visionary one, which is more important in its effect on his emotional makeup than on his practical side. In the conduct of his practical affairs he is governed by an active intelligence. He anticipates and foresees opportunities and recognizes them when they present themselves as part of the natural course of events. In availing himself of such opportunities he shows outstanding good judgment and organizing ability. He is generous and sympathetic. He is a man of idealism and sentiment in his personal relationships and it is the personal relationships that interest him more than the abstract idea, even in his business life.

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

"GATLING GUN" HOWARD

On this date, in 1901 there died in action in South Africa, fighting for the British, a man, who, born in the United States, had become an enthusiastic Canadian. When the second Riel rebellion broke out in Saskatchewan in March, 1885, the Militia department found that its equipment lacked any quick-firing guns, although the Taling automatic had been adopted by the British navy and army as far back at 1871 (to be later superseded in the South African war by the Maxim). A hurry-up call was sent to the Gatling people in the States with a request than an expert should be loaned with the gun that was forwarded. In due course both man and gun arrived at Winnipeg and went on to Middleton's headquarters on the Saskatchewan.

The man was A. C. Howard, trim, well-set, sent to do a job but without any great enthusiasm for it; indeed, I have been told that at first he declined to operate the gun in action, contenting himself with instruction, but as the fighting got more fierce he got the fever and went into action as keenly as any of the Canadian militia in the actions at Batoche. His share in the campaign brought him considerable publicity as "Gattling Gun Howard," some, especially in the Chicago press and some of the Fenian weeklies, of a vituperative nature. It did not phase him at all.

After the campaign he came back east with our troops and went home, but he had gotten a liking for Canada and soon returned, settling, if my memory serves, somewhere near Lachute, a few miles east of Ottawa. When the call to South Africa came he responded like the true British subject he had become and he gave his life for the Union Jack and the cause which he believed to be right. He was a fine fellow, a charming companion on hunting trips, and a born storyteller. Many of us, now old-timers, missed him after the Boer was had ended and he did not return.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN.

Approximate prices track shipping point—Wheat, 44c to 46c; oats, 23c to 24c; barley, 32c to 35c; corn, 33c to 35c; rye, 30c to 32c; buckwheat, 28c to 30c.

MONTREAL GRAIN.

MONTREAL, Feb. 24. — Eggs eased slightly on the Montreal produce and dairy market yesterday.

Fresh graded eggs in cartons or less were off a cent at 20 to 21 cents for extras, 18 to 19 cents for firsts, 17 to 18 cents for pullets, and 16 to 17 cents a dozen for seconds. To retailers prices were also down a cent. Receipts were 923 cases.

Butter held firm, No. 1 grass make selling at 23¼ to 23½ cents a pound for cartons or less. Receipts were 27 boxes.

Cheese was unchanged at 10 to 10½ cents for fresh or recent make cents a pound for early Ontario Ontario colored, and 11¼ to 11½ colored. Receipts were 11 boxes.

Potatoes remained steady. New Brunswick Green Mountains being quoted at 75 to 80 cents per 80-pound bag and Prince Edward Island Green Mountains at 85 to 90 cents per 90-pound bag.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—Toppled over by a sudden increase of selling pressure, corn yesterday outdid the season's low price record and dragged downward all other grains.

Big receipts of corn yesterday, and augmented prospects of a large movement of corn soon from farms to domestic primary markets, had much to do with increased selling. Contributing to weakness of cereals was unsettlement of securities.

Corn closed nervous, ¾ to 1c under Tuesday's finish; wheat, 3-8c to 5-8c down; oats, ¼c to 3-8c off, and provisions varying from 2c decline to a rise of 10c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, February 24.—Heavy last-hour selling offset support given by moderate export on the Winnipeg grain market yesterday. Dipping sharply in the closing minutes, wheat prices ended ¾c to ⅞c lower. May future at 48⅛c, July 49⅛c, and October 50⅛c.

Unwinding of spreads between Winnipeg and Chicago accounted for most of the selling, but some local liquidation also entered the pit. Offerings at times poured in heavily and prices rose only minor fractions from the day's low points. Until near the close, trading had been quiet.

Canadian Wheat Sales.

Although not as large as in the past few days, sales of Canadian wheat for export again were made yesterday. Approximately 250,000 bushels were sold, all to the United Kingdom.

Interest was aroused here by reports of fairly good sales recently of Canadian wheat to Germany. This was believed destined for re-export to Czechoslovakia.

Cash and coarse grains as usual, were quiet, and spreads again closed unchanged.

Livestock-Produce Quotations

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Feb. 24. — (CP) — Trade was more active on the Toronto Livestock market this week, although there were no gains in prices. Snow-blocked roads in some sections of the province cut down the receipts after Monday. Cattle trade was generally steady; calves steady; hogs steady; sheep and lambs stronger.

The cattle supply proved just about equal to market requirements. Prices would probably have declined had the run been heavier. Export demand was limited. Weighty steers sold at $3 to $4.35 with the bulk between $3.50 and $4. Good and choice butcher cattle closed at $3.65 to $3.85 with a few tops at $4. Common to medium butchers sold at $2.50 to $3.50. Fed calves opened at $5.25 to $5.75 for choice, but closed with tops at $5.50. Closing sales on fed calves were mostly between $4 to $5. Butcher cows, closed at $2.50 to $2.85 with tops at $3. Good bulls sold steady at $2.25 to $2.75 with bolognas at $1.50 to $2. Small lots of store cattle sold at $2.30 to $4.40 per cwt. Milkers and springers brought $45 to $50 for tops.

Choice veal calves sold at $6.50 to $7 with a few tops at $7.50. Common vealers sold as low as $3.50 with the bulk selling between $4.50 and $6.50.

Hog prices opened 10c to 15c higher than last week's close at $3.35 to $3.40 f.o.b. for bacons and advanced to a high of $3.50 f. o. b. on Wednesday. Closing sales were mostly on a basis of $3.40 to $3.50 f. o. b. for bacon, $3.65 to $3.75 off truck and $3.90 to $4.00 off cars. Selects brought the usual $1 premium.

Sheep and lamb receipts included 900 western lambs. The western lambs sold generally at $6.50 per cwt. Native lambs were mostly of plain quality and sold at from $3 to $5.50 per cwt. with a few good bringing $6 to $6.35. Sheep were higher than last week at $3 to $3.25 f.o.b. for good light ewes with culls at $1 to $2.

CHAMBER RACES AGAINST TIME

French Deputies Have Only 5 Days to Study Amendments Before Budget is Operative.

CABINET'S FATE SHAKEY.

(By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Writer.)

PARIS, Feb. 24 (C.P. Cable).—The Chamber of Deputies met to-day in a race against time. For only five days remain to consider the Senate's amendments before the provisional budget for March is to become operative, and if the Chamber is unable to reach some measure of agreement with the Senate on the budget provisions, the fate of Edouard Daladier's new Government will hang on a thread.

While the spirit of conciliation hangs over the Chamber, the break which will perhaps involve the defeat of the Government is always possible. At the moment the chief point of divergence between the two Houses seems to lie in military credits. The Senate, despite Daladier's personal appeal, voted against the Government's proposal to cut the army vote. The Government suffered a technical defeat in the Senate. But in France, defeat in the Upper House rarely involves resignation of the ministry.

Now the Finance Committee of the Chamber of Deputies declines to accept the Senate's view. It offers a compromise on civil service salaries, but holds to a cut in the army vote, as was provided in the Finance bill before it got through the Senate.

had virtually unanimously endorsed the committee of 19's report calling for non-recognition of Manchuko, it was apparent Japan may not for some time formally secede from the League. The Japanese spokesman said it was impossible for Japan to cooperate with the League on the Sino-Japanese question, but on other matters would co-operate "so far as circumstances permitted."

Dr. Walter Riddell, Canada's League delegate, voted with the reset of the League members (except Japan) upholding the committee report which disagrees with Japan that the new Manchuko government has the support of the inhabitants.

City Besieged

PEIPING, Feb. 24 (A.P.)—Chaoyang, second largest city of Jehol Province, was reported to-day besieged by a Japanese army of 30,000 troops.

Infantry, artillery, tanks and bombing planes were reported participating in the attack, in a message to North China military headquarters here from General Tang Yu-Lin, Governor of Jehol.

He admitted Chinese troops were withdrawn from Nanking and Peipiao, declaring this was done to form stronger lines at Chaoyang and in the valley leading toward Jehol City, capital and largest city of the province. The Japanese drive in this sector is aimed at Jehol City, about 130 miles southwest of Chaoyang.

An ultimatum from Japan, demanding evacuation of Chinese troops from Jehol, was received here. Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang, North China military commander, said he would ignore it.

Warning to Missionaries

(By James A. Mills)

CHINCHOW, Manchuria, Feb. 24 (A.P.)—Japanese military command here announced to-day that planes would drop leaflets warning missionaries to evacuate "danger zones" in Jehol Province as a result of the opening of the Japanese military campaign.

As far as it was ascertainable there are about a score of British Protestant missionaries at Chaoyang, Chihfeng, Lingyuan and Jehol City. It is unknown whether any are Canadian-born.

About thirty Belgian Catholic Fathers are scattered through southeastern Jehol.

The Japanese said General Tang Yu-Lin, the Chinese Governor of Jehol, fearing air attacks, has constructed elaborate underground chambers at three points in Jehol.

No Canadians in Jehol

TORONTO, Feb. 24 (C.P.)—No Canadian missionaries are known to be in the Jehol territory, where evacuation is asked by Japanese military authorities, according to heads of churches here to-day.

The Church of England in Canada offices stated their missionaries were further south in Honan, but said they understood British missionaries from the church in the Mother Country were in Jehol.

The United Church reported representatives in Tientsin, but none in Jehol.

The China Mission Headquarters here of the Roman Catholic Church said they had missionaries in the field in the area between Shanghai and Hong Kong, but there there were none further north in the Jehol section.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24 (C.P.). — Stocks rallied in quiet trading today. Led by improvement in rails, midday gains of 1 to about 2 points were extended moderately in the late dealings. General Electric rose a point, while Delaware and Hudson advanced 2½. Other gains of about 2 points were shown by Santa Fe, J. C. Penney, Union Pacific and Continental Can. Advances of more than a point occurred in American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Chesapeake and Ohio, New York Central, and Louisville and Nashville. Transfers approximated 1,100,000 shares.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Feb. 24 (C.P.)—Mining stocks abandoned their sluggish tone in the last hour to-day on the Standard Mining market and moved forward, registering a liberal sprinkling of gains for the session. The base metal stocks especially gathered strength, Noranda recovering from $22.80 to close at $23.35, up 10, and Nickel showing a gain of 25 for the day.

Dome was a heavy trader, and while it was off about 25 or more at mid-day the loss was made up before the close. Lake Shore gained about 40, McIntyre moderately, while Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves closed practically unchanged.

Eldorado recovered from $1.46 to close unchanged at $1.48 and Nipissing and Castle were stronger.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, Feb. 24 (C.P.).—Interlisted issues moved up firmly in the late trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange to-day and gains and losses were about evenly divided at the close. The market was sluggish at the opening, improved around midday and finished with a firm tone. Turnover was moderate.

Canadian Pacific closed 7-8 higher at 10 3-8. International Nickel cancelled a small deficit to close at 9, with a net gain of ¼. Brazilian added ¼ at 7⅛. Consolidated Smelters lost ¼ at 38¼ shortly after the opening and did not appear in the late trading.

Utilities dragged somewhat. Montreal Telegraph added a point at 43. Shawinigan gained 1-8 at 10 1-8.

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Feb. 24. — (CP) — Quite a rally broke over the Toronto Stock Exchange in the tail end of today's session and lifted prices well above the lows. Interlisted shares were out in front in the recovery, and there was also a good pick-up in volume. The improvement came along with an upturn in the Wall Street market.

C.P.R. made a smart recovery of nearly a point, closing well above 10 and Nickel and Brazilian both gained while Smelters was up 2 and Ford ⅝. Turnover in C.P.R. and Nickel was heavy.

Leading oil shares finished on the upside and volume was quiet heavy for B. A. and International Pete. In the Utilities Bell Telephone got back to 85, up 2½.

Bank shares were off slightly, Bank of Commerce closing several points down.

TORONTO CHEESE

TORONTO, Feb. 24.—(CP)—The Toronto Wholesale Cheese market was steady today with dealers buying large, colored, paraffined and government grades at 10¼ to 10½c.

Wholesalers offered cheese to retailers at the following prices: New—large 10½c; twins 11c; triplets 11¼c; old, large 17¾c; twins 18c; triplets 18¼c; medium, large 15¼c; twins 15½c; triplets 15¾c.

COMMENDS PICTURE.

To be shown at the Regent Theatre for three days commencing on March 1, a picture entitled "The End of the Road" was to-day commended to members of the Kiwanis Club by Dr. C. B. Waite, director of the Provincial Department of Health.

The picture is to be presented, Dr. Waite stated, under the auspices of the Social Hygiene Council, and has been endorsed by members of the medical and ministerial professions.

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—(AP)— Influenced by weakness of securities, grain values averaged lower early today. Likelihood of moisture in drought districts of domestic winter wheat territory was a subject of comment. Opening ¼-⅝ off, wheat later held near the initial range. Corn started unchanged to ¼ down, and subsequently altered little.

Baffled On Dialects, Chinese Write Notes To Each Other Upon Meeting In Toronto

TORONTO, Feb. 24 (C.P.)—Mr. Yi Ching-Min of the North China Ching-Mins arrived in Toronto today on a transcontinental train with his wife and daughter.

Mr. Yi Ching-Min speaks no English. Major Gabriel, the railroad passenger agent, recognizing the "importance"—the despatches said so—of the visitors, unfortunately speaks no Chinese.

But Major Gabriel thoughtfully put in a rush call for one Mark Moon, the road's Chinese agent in Toronto, and Mr. Moon was whisked to the hotel, where the visitors had been taken.

"Mr. Moor, meet Mr. Min," began Major Gabriel, but the introduction produced no immediate result.

Mr. Moor is of the South China Moons, and the South China residents speak a language the northerners can't understand. And Mr. Moon might as well have been been speaking Greek, so far as the Mins were concerned.

Then Mr. Moon rose to the occasion. He remembered the written language is identical throughout China. He would write Mr. Min a letter.

For three quarters of an hour Messrs. Moon and Min conversed in hieroglyphics, while Major Gabriel stood by mopping his brow.

The story of drawing was finally unfolded. Mr. Man and the other Mins are en route to Germany. They wish to visit Niagara Falls and New York. But Mr. Min had no visa on his passport. And Mr. Moon didn't know any hieroglyphic for "passport."

It was decided to go up to the American Consul's office to untangle the whole thing.

BOYS ARE FACING 3 BIG PROBLEMS

Cooke believed that the business of vocational giudance could also be reduced to a science. He would base that science on four main principles.

The first principle was that the ultimate responsibility for making any choice in life rested with the individual. Boys, however, should make their decisions on the basis of competent counsel.

Principle number two was that boys should know themselves physically. They should learn all about their general health; as to whether or not they are able to withstand sustained effort or not.

Not only was it necessary to know oneself physically, but it was important to know one's vocational tendencies. People might be divided up into groups, such as those of the artistic temperaments; people with the commercial or mechanical instincts or possessing executive ability, and so on.

It was essential also that a boy in order to understand himself thoroughly should know something of the urges that were the driving forces behind his life. Chief among the urges were those of recognition, security, friendship, and adventure.

Fundamentally, ultimately and basically it should be the aim of the boy to be his self—his best self. Most of the causes of failure in occupations were to be traced to personality defects rather than to inefficiency.

Mr. Cooke was accorded a hearty vote of thanks on motion of J. A. O'Brien.

George Hooper, plant chief of the Bell Telephone Company, was initiated to membership in the club by L. J. Pettit. The new member was allotted to the Under-privileged Child Committee under chairmanship of Dr. C. B. Waite.

Charles Shaw and Martin B. Chenhall featured on the program, providing a much appreciated pianoforte duet.

set up during the war period. It was inflation that had to collapse and that did collapse with the 1929 stock market crash.

Simple Illustration

Providing a simple illustration to show the effect of inflation, the speaker asked his hearers to imagine a self-contained community on a desert island. The amount of currency in circulation was one million dollars, until with the discovery of a gold mine that sum was exactly doubled. The effect was merely to double prices so that the value of each dollar in terms of goods was cut in half.

There was the hope, Dr. Barr said, that this might be the last great depression, but he would not like to predict that it would be the last. There were such a multiplicity of factors to be considered as the causes of all such periods of economic stress, and many of the causes were beyond the control of man. The main thing to realize was that depressions not only come, but that they also go. He was reminded of the story of the old lady, who while at sea in a storm asked the captain if he thought the ship was going to sink. He replied, it never has done so yet. The speaker did not believe that Canada was going to go under, or that Great Britain was going to sink, in the present economic storm.

In proposing a vote of thanks to the speaker, Dave Jones very ably voiced the appreciation of the club to Dr. Barr. The motion was seconded by Emmett Sheehy

Before the proceedings concluded, two new members were initiated to membership by Mr. Craw. They were Dr. Grant Braund and Dr. John Adair, both osteopathic practioners in this city.

Blackbirds Return From Sunny South

The warm blush of Spring spread over the city and district to-day. A gentle zepher murmered along the eaves, and shining from a clear sky Old Sol, getting stronger day by day, hastened his task of melting away the remaining vestiges of winter's snow.

Signs that nature was answering the call were apparent. Blackbirds newly arrived from the sunny south, ruffled their feathers and did their best to sing as they strutted about roof tops on McDonnel street near Reid street.

Red squirrels chittered and chased each other in wild scampers up and down the trees in the parks.

A large flock of wild ducks have taken possession of the river near first bridge, it was reported. The ducks, estimated to number 200, came down on the open stretch of the river near the bridge some days ago and have remained, resting. They appear quite tame.

Every street drain became a bubbling brook of muddy water as the melted snow and ice hurried away.

Employees of the Board of Works department reported some slight troubles with the Jackson Park creek. Several sticks of dynamite were exploded in the ice jam of the creek near Stewart street yesterday to speed up the break up.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 24.—(C.P.) — Wheat futures prices drifted fractionally lower in early trading on the Winnipeg grain market to-day, due more to lack of support than to any particular selling. Trading was quiet and operations rather mixed. Half-way through the session, values were ¾-¼ cent off, May at 47⅝, July 48⅝ and October 40 7-8.

Only a small export business was reported overnight.

Liverpool quotations were easier from the start, due to heavy shipments from southern hemisphere countries again this week. Prices at the close were 5/3d to 5/4d lower. Buenos Aires wheat at noon was unchanged at 1-8c higher.

Argentine wheat clearances for the week amounted to 4,350,000 bushels and shipments from Australia totalled more than 7,750,000 bushels.

EXCHANGE RATES.

Exchange rates at noon to-day were:

Pound sterling in Montreal, 4.10⅝.

U.S. dollar in Montreal, 1.20⅛.

Pound sterling in New York, 3.41.

Canadian dollar in New York, 82 7-8.

Humble Cow Now Holding Queen's Place As Money Maker In Agriculture Of U.S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 (A.P.)—The humble cow has become the Queen of United States Agriculture.

She has risen to the head of the farm income dynasty which famous dollar producers of the past—cotton, wheat and livestock—successively ruled as king.

Completing a classification of farm income, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported to-day the products of the cow for the first time led all types of income, usurping the place held in recent years by cattle, hogs and sheep collectively.

Dairy products accounted for $1,180,000,000 for farm income last year although the figure marked decline of nearly 50 per cent from 1929, when it was $2,323,000,000.

Livestock held second place, accounting for $1,122,000,000 in income against $2,807,000,000 in 1929—the sharpest decline of all types of farm income.

ESTIMATES ARE CUT $3,220 FROM 1932

pose the motion, V. J. McElderry, K.C., said: "This reduction is absolutely inadequate. It is a shame to go to the people of Peterborough with a decrease of only $3,220 from last year."

Mrs. W. R. Morris replied: "I don't think the people could expect any more."

Mr. Hancock commented: "I don't think the people will be able to pay it".

The motion was put by Mr. Hancock and seconded by Dr. Scott that the $229,680 be requested from the City Council. It was supported by the following: Mrs. Morris, Dr. Craig, Dr. Scott, J. R. Marshall, I. P. McNabb and J. A. Middleton. Opposed were Mr. McElderry, J. A. McKone, M. T. Burnham and Mr. Hancock.

Vocational Committees Report

Mr. McElderry's motion that all night classes at the Vocational School be discontinued after this term, that got past the Board on Tuesday, did not meet the favor of the Advisory Vocational Committee.

This committee to whose consideration Mr. McElderry's motion was referred back discussed the closing of night classes pro and con from 7.30 until 9 o'clock last night. The committee decided against closing the night classes, although it adopted other major aims at economy.

James Dutton, chairman of the committee, reported that the Advisory Vocational Committee recommend that the night classes be continued. But the committee recommended: "The closing of the chemistry class at once, the closing of the applied electricity class at the end of this term; that $520 be reduced from the Vocational Schools appropriation and that this be made in the Commercial Classes, and finally that the fee of the instructors for night classes be decreased beginning next October from $4 to $3.

J. R. Marshall and Dr. Craig moved the adoption of the Advisory Vocational Committee's report.

Amendment Disallowed

Mr. McElderry moved an amendment that the committee's recommendation be not accepted and that night classes in the Vocational School be discontinued after this term until further notice. Mr. Hancock seconded the amendment.

Mr. Marshall asked, "Isn't that amendment a negative motion?"

Dr. Craig answered, "Yes, it has to have some bearing on the motion.

Mr. McElderry—"It has some bearing on the motion certainly."

The chairman, E. F. Reid, held that the amendment was a negative and therefore could not be voted upon.

On the straight vote for and against the motion, that the committees' report be adopted, the following voted for the motion: Mrs. Morris, Dr. Craig, Messrs. Marshall, McNabb and Middleton. Against were: Messrs. McElderry, Hancock, McKone and Burnham. The chairman did not vote, although he had the right to do so.

With the motion to retain open the night classes passed, the secretary retired to make the necessary changes in the estimates, resulting from the economies recommended by the Advisory Vocational Committee.

He returned with the following estimates which were passed as described above.

Some Absentees

Absent from the meeting were Dr. A. Moir and R. T. Lillico. Dr. Scott missed the voting on the question of adopting the Advisory Vocational Committees' report on the retaining open of the night classes. The board meeting started shortly after 9 o'clock and he entered the meeting at 9.45 in time to get into the brief discussion upon the estimates.

James Dutton, as chairman of the Advisory Vocational Committee, had been asked by Mr. Reid to make personally the report of the recommendations of his committee. First thanking the board for this courtesy extended to him, Mr. Dutton addressed the board.

Considered Thoroughly

He said the committee had considered very thoroughly the recommendation referred to it.

"With the recommendation that all night classes be discontinued, the committee did not approve," he said. "The committee recommends that night classes be continued."

However, the committee did recommend that the chemistry night class be discontinued at once and the applied electricity class at the end of this term, he reported.

Further, the committee recommended a reduction of $520 in the appropriations for the Vocational School and that this reduction be made in the Commercial classes. Also, he reported that the committee recommended that the fee for instructors be decreased from $4 to $3.

He said that the committee had upon two occasions considered the advisability of closing the night classes. "It has been thoroughly discussed by the committee in every possible phase and the majority has decided that the evening classes be continued.

Assists in Economy

"The committee has tried in every way to assist the Board in its program of economy. It agreed that the fee of $3 for those attending night classes be retained by the Board. The committee has gone more than half way in contributing the economies desired by the board.

"The question is, is there any real economy in closing the night classes. It is amazing to find how loss to those attending these classes. It is amazong to find how widespread is the interest in these classes."

He said that 92 of the night class pupils were apprentices, and diversified young and old persons were deriving benefits from the night class tuition and study.

Students Are Keen

"I know enough about human nature to realize that these students are animated by a desire for knowledge and instruction that will carry them far in life. It would be a distinct loss to them if the night classes were closed. If the classes were closed, it would not only disrupt the organization, because the classes would be started up again later, but it would take years to build them up again from the bottom."

It was 20 years ago, Mr. Dutton said, that the night vocational classes were started in Peterborough. "The classes could not be put to state of normalcy, if closed, without considerable cost and effort," he declared. "The benefits from these classes can not be estimated in dollars and cents.

"These night students come to school not only to get tuition, but also to secure the help and advice that teachers only can give. At present there are 943 enrolled in the night classes and the attendance this term has been 92 per cent, which is very remarkable."

Operated Economically

He declared that the Department of Education had reported on the Peterborough night classes, finding that they were operated economically and in no way can charges of extravagances be brought against the manner in which they are conducted.

"There must be equality of opportunity," he pleaded. "If the night classes were closed it seems to me there might be cause for the suggestion of discrimination." He stated that those who are unable to take advantage of the day classes should have the opportunity of improving themselves and their chances of employment by attending night school. Sixty unemployed persons are numbered among the night students, he said.

The Minister's Hope

While deciding that school boards be permitted to close night classes if they saw fit, the Minister of Education, he said, had expressed the hope that wherever possible night classes be continued because of the great contribution they are making to education and progress.

"If there ever was a time when night classes were needed, it is now," Mr. Dutton said in conclusion.

The request that will be forwarded to the City Council asking for the Board of Education's requirements for the year read:—

"That pursuant to the Public Schools Act, Section 57, and the High Schools Act, Section 40, the Municipal Council of the City of Peterborough be, and they are hereby requested to pay to the treasurer of the Board of Education in monthly instalments the money to be used for current expenses of the Public Schools and Collegiate and Vocational School for the year 1933 as follows.

January 15	$ 25 000.00

BRITISH CENSORS SPOIL JOAN CRAWFORD'- PLANS

WITH EVERYTHING PACKED, Joan Crawford finds she can't go to New York after all. Unusual reason, too. Seems the British censors have never allowed "Possessed" to be shown in England. Learning that their objections can be overcome by retaking certain scenes, M.G.M. is summoning Joan, Clark Gable, Wallace Ford and several other players back to work on a picture that they finished over a year ago. Joan even has to have the clothes shewore in the picture duplicated. All this will take enough time to prevent the vacation. Meanwhile, Joan is taking daily dancing lessons from Leroy Prinz. Her next picture, you know, is "Dancing Lady."

BEHIND THE SCENES.

LATEST DEVELOPMENT in the Dietrich pants fad was Mrs. Frank Morgan's party at which all the women were invited to come in trousers. Connie Cummings and a few others did, but most of the girls stuck to skirts....The clash between George Raft and Paramount over "The Story of Temple Drake" has not, as yet, resulted in his suspension. Georgie simply refuses to do the part—thinks the character hasn't a redeeming feature and would hurt him in the eyes of the public. He's willing to quit and go to Europe rather than play it. Meanwhile, the actor has given up his Beverly Hills home and has taken an apartment in Hollywood.

And you hear around that Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., may be leaving Warner Brothers after his new film. An option comes due at that time and, if exercised, it calls for a big jump in salary. Doug is not so eager about signing anyway. He wants to go back to New York and do a stage play.

Lilian Harvey

The Lionel Barrymores mistook two fan-magazine photographers for racketeers the other night and slammed the door in their faces. The photos had dropped over to snap informal shots at a party....Sylvia Sidney is home sick with the flu. And only four more days to go on her picture.... Marlene Dietrich has been cooking that fancy German pastry again. It's an 11-layer cake, but only an inch and a half high. The star brings one to the studio every few days. Guests at the Dietrich home also will tell you that Marlene frequently cooks the evening meal herself. But, although serving rich food, she'll eat only sliced oranges. That's when working on a picture.

For one who used to be so little in evidence socially, Maurice Chevalier has become quite the gay blade. He called Lilian Harvey from the lunch table at Fox yesterday and kept her on the phone for 21 minutes. But at the Rachmaninoff concert and later at the Cocoanut Grove, he was the attentive squire of Adrienne Ames.

BEVY OF GORGEOUS BEAUTIES IN "KID FROM SPAIN"

EDDIE CANTOR in the "Kid From Spain" opens an engagement at the Capitol theatre starting next Wednesday. It is Samuel Goldwyn's annual presentation of Cantor song-and-dance, following last year's "Palmy Days" and "Whoopee" the year before. Songs that you will have trouble escaping, the smiling faces and graceful beauty of a hundred girls, spirited dances and color and glamor and excitement are all ingredients of this big production. Lyda Roberti is a wonder as a refrain for Cantor's song and as a second for his comedy. John Miljan and Carroll Naish are more than menacing as the Mexican bad men.

Clark Gable will come to the same theatre for the premiere of the week in the leading role of "No Man Of Her Own," a new drama in which the popular star plays the part of a suave card sharp who is a devil with the women. He is supported by Carole Lombard and Dorothy Mackaill.

SIX MONTHS WITHOUT AN ARGUMENT

WORTHY OF "Once in a Lifetime" is Harry Brand's story of the writer who worked six months for a studio without an assignment, and then was let out.

DOUBLE FEATURES BEGIN AT REGENT.

GENE GERRARD, noted English comedian and star of the musical comedy stage, heads the cast in "My Wife's Family," headliner in the first of double feature programs commencing at the Regent theatre on Wednesday next. The picture is an uproariously funny farce concerned with the sudden arrival of a flock of in-laws at the home of a pair of newlyweds. "Unwritten Law" from the prolific pen of Wilson Collison, author of "Red Dust" starring Greta Nissen, Skeets Gallagher, Mary Brian and Lew Cody follows.

"Man Against Woman" which opens on the same screen Saturday next features Jack Holt in the hard-boiled role of a New York detective who browbeats criminals not only by the threat of his guns but by the flashing of his fists. Lillian Miles, lates torch singer of a Hollywood night club plays opposite him in the leading feminine role.

MAE CLARKE GETTING HER CHANCE.

THROUGH THE HARDEST kind of breaks, Mae Clarke has refused to say quits. She has received the reward of courage and ability—a long term contract at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Mae Clark

Along with it comes one of the leads in "Soviet," the picture that is to co-star Clark Gable and Wallace Beery.

With this good news, Mae can say goodbye at last to the jinx that threatened her screen career. It was last April when the actress became ill—a complete breakdown—and Hollywod shook its head and said she was through. But that was underestimating Mae. She spent five months in the hospital, came out a sick girl still, but held constantly to the determination to come back to the screen.

The first step came in August when she was signed for an independent picture. After that she managed to get four more roles. Then Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer signed her for "Rivets." It was her work as Jack Gilbert's leading woman in this film that turned the tide.

MARX BROTHERS CHALLENGES CULBERTSON

CULBERTSON will have to prove his charges against Hollywood bridge-playing.

The famous authority yesterday was challenged by the Marx Brothers (all but Groucho) to a 16-rubber match. A half hour later word of his acceptance was received and negotiations are now under way to set the date.

Mr. Culbertson, you'll not have forgotten, recently declared that film stars never will be good bridge players because they can't give the game sufficient concentration, his statement created considerable rumpus among the cinema bridge fans, and led directly to the Marx challenge.

And, incidentally, the comedians are sufficiently expert that they may give Culbertson a good game. It is planned for Harpo and Chico to team against the bridge expert and his wife. Zeppo will be used as relief man.

"Or he can keep score," offers Harpo. "That will enable Mr. Culbertson to keep his mind on the game."

Both the comedians and Culbertson have agreed to allow a gallery at the match.

D. F. DRUMMOND QUITS BUSINESS

Joins Ranks of Retired After 34 Years in Peterborough.

NEW PARTNERSHIP

After thirty-four years in business in Peterborough as agent for the Massey-Harris company and dealer in farm supplies, Duncan F. Drummond, Simcoe street, is retiring. During the last seven years he has been associated with Stuart G. Hall in partnership. Recently Mr. Drummond's interest was acquired by Norman Andrews, and the business is now being conducted by Messrs. Hall and Andrew.

"My contacts with the public, especially with the farmers of this county and district during those thirty-four years, have been a very pleasant experience," Mr. Drummond told The Examiner today. "I don't think there is any better section of Canada than right here around Peterborough. There certainly is no better class of people to deal with. In all that time not one man has been sued on a Massey-Harris account through my office, and I can sincerely say that I have enjoyed the business, and the dealings I have had with so many people."

Norman Andrews was engaged with Mr. Drummond for fourteen years, and for seven years was a travelling salesman for the Massey-Harris Company. He is widely known throughout this district, and is thoroughly familiar with the business in which he is now a partner with Stuart Hall.

Seven years ago Mr. Hall bought an interest in the business and has established a wide acquaintance with the customers of the Simcoe street store. Both the new partners are well qualified as successors of Drummond and Hall, and are thoroughly competent to carry on the business. Mr. Drummond is remaining with them for a time more or less in an advisory capacity until the transition of partnership is complete.

"I appreciate very much the treatment and confidence I have received from the public," Mr. Drummond said, "and I am sure that Mr Hall and Mr. Andrew will give the best of service. They have a full stock of Massey-Harris repair parts, with implements and general accessories, Beatty stable outfits, hay tracks and barn outfits, Pedlar's shingles and road culverts, Ackerman's harness, Turner's blankets and robes, and other articles required by farmers."

Hastings

Mr. Jack Stinson spent the week-end with friends in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Blodgett were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Preston.

Mr. Cecil Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. A. Fields of Hamilton spent Sunday at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Fife spent the week-end with friends in Toronto.

Dispatches from Regina this week are interesting to Hastings and district curlers to the effect that Mr. J. K. Wilson, a native son of the village, grand old veteran and historian of the Saskatchewan Curling association is to be honored this week with a life membership.

Mr. Wilson is taking part in the 29th annual bonspiel in Regina again this year, having only missed one since 1905. "J. K." as he is known to everyone in the village is a brother of the village's veteran clerk, Alex Wilson, also Mrs. Wm. Fleming, he left Hasting thirty-six years ago for Belgona, Sask, where he carried on a successful general store, later giving this up to enter the civil service in the Saskatchewan government where he remained for almost twenty years. The past few years he has lived retired in Regina.

The regular meeting of the Young People's Society of Trinity United Church was held on Monday night in the basement of the church. The business of the society was then transacted after which the following program was given: Scripture reading, Rev. Mr. Bell; solo, Miss Madeline Bonds; topic, Mrs. Bell; solo, Miss Fern Preston; reading, Miss Helen Collins; duett, Mrs. M. J. Baker and Mrs. L. E. Kelley; reading, Mrs. H. Edwards; instrument, Miss Marjorie Scriver; reading, Verna Scriver; Mizpah benediction brought to a close the interesting meeting.

Clara Comes Home

Back home to hard work again after a cruise to Europe and winter resorts come Mr. and Mrs. Rex Bell, famous stars of Hollywood—or at least Mrs. Bell is. Her name on the screen is Clara Bow, the 'it' girl. They are seen here arriving at New York.

EXPRESSION OF LOYALTY.

LONDON, Ont.—As an answer to criticism that the Labor reserve is a "Red" organization, the London branch announced last night "God Save the King" will be sung in future at every meeting.

When the Labor Reserve was formed, the National Anthem was always sung, but for some reason the practice was allowed to lapse.

U.S. Income Taxes Drop $113,393,699

WASHINGTON, February 24 (C.P.). — The United States Government's income taxes for the first seven months of the 1933 fiscal year was $113,393,699 less than in the same period of the previous year, despite additional levies in the $1,000,000,000 tax bill. In the seven months the Government collected $351,242,813 from all sources of taxes as compared with $944,636,312 the previous year.

BAN ON RAFFLES

ST. THOMAS, Ont.—Mayor John A. Jagoe has issued an order prohibiting raffling of motor vehicles for charitable activities in St. Thomas this year. Local organizations will not be allowed to display such cars on the streets for such purposes, and organizations in other towns and cities will not be permitted to bring cars into St. Thomas for such purposes.

CERMAK'S HEART WEAKENS.

MIAMI, Fla. — Dr. E. S. Nichol, after more than an hour's examination of Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago, said at 7-10 a.m. to-day, the Mayor's heart during the night had "showed some signs of failure, but this was no more than to be expected."

A.Y.P.A. HEARS SPLENDID TALK

J. H. Goldsmith Gives Interesting Address at Lakefield Meeting.

SOUDAN EXPERIENCES

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 24. (Examiner Correspondence).—J. H. Goldsmith gave a very interesting talk at the A.Y.P.A. on Monday evening on some of his experiences in the Soudan where he spent ten years in the service of the British government as a commissioner. Mr. Goldsmith was introduced by Rev. W. J. Creighton in a brief speech.

Mr. Goldsmith illustrated his talk by means of a large map of modern Africa with the places of special interest marked plainly. There are several ways of getting to the Soudan from Britain; one is by the sea, but if you are a bad sailor you can go overland to Marseilles and cross the Mediteranean and if you are even a worse sailor you can sail from Brindisi in Southern Italy and arrive more quickly at Port Said or Alexandria. The extreme blue of the waters of the Mediterraneon will surely impress the traveller. The Suez canal is interesting and is wide enough for two liners to pass, one going each way.

The sacred book of the Mohammedan is the Koran which is used as we use the Bible and there is dire punishment follows anyone who swears falsely on it. One especial copy known as "The Father of Two Days" owned by a fine old shiek of noble and religious character was loaned to the commissioner by its owner with remarkable results. As the commissioner was an infidel in the eyes of the Mohammedan he could not actually touch the book. The Mohamedans are good to their children and the children show greatest respect for their parents. The women do the work and the men do nothing; they have herds, some of them enormous herds of camels and goats, they don't use their herds but let them multiply. The butter which they churn they use on their hair and bodies, not for food as we do. The Fuzzy Wuzzies, made famous by Kipling, put it in their hair in great blobs.

The port of the country is Suakin and it is a busy place as from there the pilgrimages set sail for Mecca and return. The yellow Arabs of Southern Arabia, all powerful, hard working men, singing all the time, much superior to the Arabs of the Soudan. The West African blacks are very black and very ugly but fine cheery workers and are fine men.

The Italian and French exploit the natives in their African possessions and spend large sums of money on fine quarters while the Britisher lives in "any blooming shack" and does his best, concentrating on the fair administration. Our service (British) started in 1899 and has its headquarters in Khartoun (which means elephant's trunk) which is a beautiful oasis in a great desert. The governor lives in a beautiful white palace. The Soudanese are a mixture of blacks and Arabs. They love their British officers who have taught them British games and impregnated British ideals of sport.

Mr. Stenner who was in the Soudan with the 21st Lancers asked several questions and contributed several interesting experiences, and Mr. T. Simpson mentioned that a Lakefield man, Pete Phelan was among the voyagers from Canada who did much in transporting the troops through the cataracts of the Upper Nile.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Goldsmith for his delightful talk on this great and interesting country was proposed by Mr. J. F. Harvey and seconded by all present.

AN INDEPENDENT TRIBUNAL ASKED

apprehension of William Toohey and Albert Dorland on April 7, 1930, resulting in the freeing of Toohey on a charge of vagrancy and the conviction of Dorland on a charge of 'having in his possession offensive weapons dangerous to the public peace';

"And whereas, the matter up to the time of the apprehension of the aforesaid is properly the subject of inquiry by this commission, and it is the duty of the Board of Police Commissioners to take such action by way of discipline or otherwise as the members may deem advisable;

"I do more than we are of opinion, after considering the evidence, that what occurred subsequent to the apprehension of the aforesaid men, should be investigated by an independent tribunal and we so recommend;

"And, further, that a copy of this resolution together with a copy of all the evidence taken in this matter be forwarded forthwith to the Honorable the Attorney-General for Ontario."

Coatsworth's View.

"I think it is a very unskilful retreat," Judge Coatsworth declared last night, discussing the action of the Board of Police Commissioners in the Dorland case.

"The resolution is very crude and inaccurate. One would think it had been prepared by an office boy. The evidence was incomplete. There was some important evidence which I intended to see was brought forward and I had given notice of it a week ago. Then this motion came to-day, like a bolt from the blue. There was no conference among the board. No findings of fact were either made or discussed.

"There is no question about the fact that the case of the alleged frame-up was not proven," Judge Coatsworth declared. "This investigation has demonstrated beyond question the honesty, loyalty and efficiency of the police officers. The only adverse evidence was that of notorious criminals, who, on examination, failed to agree with each other.

Says Facts Brought Out.

"This investigation has been very costly. It has gone on for over three months now and it has brought out all the facts. Another investigation could bring out nothing new."

His Honor claimed that the investigation for some time had been more of a "fishing expedition" and nothing proven but some minor points.

BADMINTON CLUB VISITS LAKEFIELD

Conservatory Club of Peterborough Wins in Four of the Seven Events.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 24 (Examiner Correspondence).—The Conservatory Badminton Club of Peterborough paid a return visit to the Lakefield Badminton Club on Wednesday night and a very successful tournament was played, with the visitors leading in four of the seven events. The play was most interesting and very pretty to watch. Graceful movement combined with consummate skill and incredible speed were features of the play which intrigued the lookers-on for the entire evening. At the close of the play refreshments were served on the stage from a table spread with a snowy cloth and centered with four bud vases filled with narcissus and greenery, and lighted candles in brass holders. The opal tinted china of the Lakefield club showed to especial advantage.

Coffee was poured by Mrs. J. H. Sherin and Miss Graham, and the young people did ample justice to the dainty sandwiches and delectable cake and coffee provided.

The arrangements reflected great credit on Miss Helen Stewart, the social convenor and her efficient committee. The results of the play were as follows:

Ladies' Singles, won by Miss Elmsley, Lakefield, vs. Miss Winnifred Batten, Peterborough, 11-5; 11-4.

Men's Singles, won by Charles J. Tanner, Lakefield, from George Gore, Peterborough, 15-7, 5-15, 15-8.

Ladies' Doubles, Mrs. V. Selkirk and Miss N. Francis of Peterborough defeated Mrs. E. M. Grier and Miss Mackenzie of Lakefield, 15-9, 11-15, 13-10.

Men's Dougles.—C. Muir and C. Nixon of Peterborough defeated G. J. Elmsley and K. M. R. Tate, Lakefield, 15-7, 15-4.

Men's Doubles.—Eric Stewart and Douglas Smith, Lakefield, defeated C. Osterland and I. McRae of Peterborough, 15-2, 12-15, 15-5.

Ladies' Doubles. — Misses M. Brown and W. Batten, Peterborough, defeated Misses Mary Campbell and Loretta Gibson, Lakefield, 16-6, 8-15, 15-3.

Mixed Doubles.—Mrs. G. Gore and E. Tracey, Peterborough, defeated Miss Angela Osborne, and John C. Sherin, Lakefield, 16-9, 1-15, 15-5.

CHURCH RIVALS CEASE FRICTION

Windsor Roumanian Members Choose Leader After Long Battle.

EVEN INVADED COURT.

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 24 (C.P.)—The Dove of Peace refereed round six on the bout between rival factions of the Roumanian Greek Orthodox Church last night as Gabriel Arama was chosen head of the congregation by a vote of 113 to 28, and the faction leaders shook hands.

In Round one, William Procopi was elected head last December. Round Two found Arama chosen head in January. Round Three was a theft charge against Pricopi, alleging he had church property in his possession.

Round Four found Pricopi in county court seeking an injunction against Arama and supporters, with the judge ruling a new election must be held.

Round Five, back in police court with Arama charged with stealing keys to the church.

Last night the congregation gathered for Round Six of the battle in which Julian and Gregorian calendars featured. Arama is for the present calendar, and won the election.

Decision in the police court cases has been withheld, pending the election, and the principals last night intimated the charges would be withdrawn.

HASTINGS RATEPAYERS FAVOR RETAINING RAILWAY WATCHMAN

Question Discussed at Meeting of Board of Railway Commissioners.

RESERVE JUDGMENT.

HASTINGS, February 24 (Examiner Correspondence). — The Board of Railway Commissioners met in the Town Hall on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock with a large attendance of interested ratepayers, also the Village Council.

The Commission was composed of the following gentlemen: The Hon. T. C. Norris, chairman, F. F. Burpee, secretary, J. A. Stoneham, and G. C. Stone. Mr. MacDonald was present in the interests of the C. N.R., also Mr. Stokes, superintendent of Belleville.

The chairman, in calling the meeting to order, explained that it was called for the purpose of considering the application of the Canadian National Railways for permission to replace the existing watchman with a wig-wag and bell at the crossing east of Hastings Station on Bridge Street, Mile 43.36, Campbellford Sub-division, and a grant of 40 per cent. of the cost of the work from the Railway Grade Crossing Fund, the remainder of the cost of installation, maintenance, and operation to be on the same basis as the watchman's wages.

Mr. MacDonald, on behalf of the C.N.R., was the first to address the meeting, explaining that at the present time a watchman is kept on duty from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. at a salary of $1,524.00 a year, which the railway pays with the exception of $200.00 paid by the local Council. In the interests of economy they wished to have the man replaced by a wig-wag and bell. He placed before the Board as exhibit No. 1 a schedule of trains that had passed over the crossing between Februar y1 and 15, showing a passenger train each way a day, also two way freights and a few extras. The evening passenger train going by the crossing after 9 p.m., there was no watchman present.

Erect Double Wig-wag.

Plans were submitted of a double wig-wag placed on a standard in the centre of the bridge, which would serve as a warning to traffic on Water Street as well. The erection of this would cost $1,900 00, of which the Council would be called upon to pay one-seventh, which would amount to almost $300.00. The maintenance would be $210.00 a year, and the village share would be $30.00.

Trains operating over said crossing were doing so on a speed restriction of 10 miles per hour. It had also been suggested to the railway to install the wig-wags without bell but with stop light. When wig-wags went out of order the arm dropped down and the railway always placed a man on the scene until repairs had been made.

The Hon. Mr. Norris then called on Reeve Stevenson, who on behalf of the village extended a hearty welcome to the commission. On being a new man to the Reeve's chair he expressed his desire of calling on a few of the ratepayers to express their feelings.

Favors Old System

Walter M. Fowlds felt that the man on the job has been very efficient in every way and if at all possible should be kept on. Adjoining municipalities were receiving protection from the man and if they could be assessed a portion of the cost it would lighten the load for everyone. When the watchman was first placed on the crossing considerably more trains passed than at present but motor traffic had increased very materially. A bell would be an annoyance to anyone in business near the crossing and especially the hotel guests would be awakened by its ringing.

A resolution passed by the board and forwarded to the Ontario government to pass a law forcing motorists to stop at all railway crossings was another point brought out by the speaker. In Mr. Fowld's opinion if the board decided to replace the man which he hoped would not be the case, then a wig-wag would be the next best.

Dr. W. E. Wilson stated that the question had come before the council in 1930 when he was reeve and at that time the cost of a wig-wag was $1,460, much cheaper than one today. Considerable traffic between the United Counties and Peterborough county passed over the crossing and he thought that the counties should be assessed a portion of the cost if they could be so assessed. The l ard replied that they thought they uld.

Dr. J. H. Hess was of the opinion that the present protection was too expensive and illuminated stop signs might serve the purpose. J. J. Collins was very strongly in favor of leaving the man there, as with a standard in the centre of the street, many accidents would take place, especially in the Winter time.

Village Clerk A. Wilson was of the same opinion as Reeve Stevenson that the board had made up their minds to remove the man. The village were paying plenty at the present time considering conditions.

Rev. H. F. Battersby in looking over the plans submitted by the railway felt that with the bridge being on an angle that a standard would not be clear to motorists approaching the crossing from the North side and a man was the only sure protection as the traffic looked for him. The question of economy was alright, but human life must be protected. He had already sent in a signed petition to keep the man on.

A. J. McKenty speaking in the interests of the children thought a man was the only sure protection and would prefer it if only at school hours rather than any other system. After hearing arguments on both sides the board reserved their decision. The result of which will be keenly awaited by the ratepayers. The crossing is considered very dangerous as the view of oncoming trains is blocked on all sides. Previous to a watchman being placed there some fifteen years ago there were several accidents.

Dies Suddenly

HAROLD F. RITCHIE

One of the greatest business executives in Canada died suddenly on Wednesday in Harold F. Ritchie, president of the company bearing his name. Mr. Ritchie headed the largest independent selling organization in the world, with branches in many countries. His organization handled such articles as Eno's Fruit Salts, control of which he purchased for $7,500,000.

Rush Point

Mr. Ernest Patterson of Norwood, has his power ice machine on Round Lake at present. Owing to lack of ice in Norwood, Mr. Patterson came here on finding the ice in Round Lake to be 18 inches thick and of very fine quality.

Mrs. George Cooke of Orillia is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Manley Wannamaker, of Round Lake Settlement.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook had the misfortune very recently to have their barn at Orillia burned, due to the explosion of a lantern. The live stock was saved, but some 40 tons of straw, 25 tons of hay and over a thousand bushels of grain were destroyed. The loss is a heavy one though it is partly covered by insurance.

Mr. John Pollock had a wood-cutting bee on Monday.

Mr. Murnie Barton has been ill with the flu for the past few days but is somewhat better at present.

Mr. Albert King is engaged trucking heading from Burn Mill to the Trent River for Dr. Holdcroft, of Havelock, who has over 30 men employed in cutting logs and heading at the lower end of Round Lake, where the old power house was located to furnish Havelock in days gone by with electric lights.

Mr. Carl Barton returned from Stirling on Thursday evening. His cousin Mr. Earl McMullen, of Stirling, is spending a few days visiting him here.

Messrs. Sylvester and Warren, Provincial Police, accompanied by Messrs. Roberts of Havelock, and Grey of Marmora, were in this district on Friday afternoon.

Master Roy Davis gave his foot a nasty slash with the axe on Friday evening.

Mr. John Pollock has completed putting in the season's supply of ice for the Rush Point creamery.

Mr. W. Davis and Mr. C. Munroe are trucking wood around by Lanes Lake owing to the Stoney Lake Road being blocked with snow.

Miss Mae Seeney is visiting her sister, Miss Myrtle Seeney of the T. Eaton Co. staff, Toronto.

Miss Esther Menzies is spending a month with Mrs. J. Deitchman of South Dummer.

Mr. Archie Menzies is cutting wood at a camp operated by Mr. John Pollock in the north country.

A horse belonging to Mr. Sam Quackenbush of McGill's, got down in the swamp where it was forced to remain for some time till help could be summoned to get it up. Little harm was done.

Mr. Herb. Chard has recovered from the flu, and is again on the job.

Mr. Isaac Anderson had a wood-cutting bee on the 15th and got a nice supply of wood cut.

The Rush Point Public School Literary Society held its regular semi-monthly meeting at the school house from three to four o'clock on Friday forenoon.

Mrs. John Pollock is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Cora McArthur of McGill's.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Cora McArthur on Wednesday afternoon.

Signs of Spring are not lacking in this district, even as early as February. Several families report hearing the occasional "cheer-up" of a robin; and as early as Feb. 1st one brave red-breast was seen in the apple trees in the orchard at the top of the school house hill. During the recent Y.P.S. meeting in the White Church a large common butterfly flopped around a lamp in one of the front windows and, undaunted by the late cold spell of weather, a dark velvety wine-colored butterfly fluttered for several days inside the large north windows at the Rush Point service garage.

virtually handed over the Jews of Germany into the hands of the man who has made Jew-hatred a distinct plank in his platform.

A month ago the Hitler movement was showing distinct signs of disintegration. Every successive election had diminished the number of voters who cast their ballots for the Nazi candidates. Some of the most prominent lieutenants of the Fuehrer, who had deciphered the reading on the wall, were deserting the ship, which appeared on the point of sinking. The Nazi propaganda sheets did not succeed in covering up the violent altercations which disrupted the councils of the presidium of the National-Socialist party. As might have been foreseen, the conflicting interests of workers on the one hand and agrarian junkers, big industry, bankers and nobility on the other hand, all of whom, lumped in one organization under the banner of the Hooked Cross, was becoming the rock on which the National-Socialist press made it appear as if the Nazis had already disappeared from the scene. These bursts of joy, we know now, were premature, to say the least.

Nazis in Tears.

The Socialists figured quite correctly that the shortage of funds in the Hitler organization would in a month's time produce mass desertions. Everything pointed that way. Hitler himself felt his impending doom. Otto Strasser's paper reported a session of the Nazi presidium where "neurasthenic Adolph" burst into tears, "as usual," and exclaimed: "We are lost unless we can get fifty million marks immediately!" Goebbels seconded the motion by bursting into tears also. "Pretty soon all the Nazi chiefs were crying scalding tears," reports the Strasser paper, which cites thirty witnesses of this Nazi weeping jag.

Fifty million marks were lacking. The storm-troops had not been paid in three months' time. They were growing restless. Promises availed nothing. The boys were demanding cash. To whom was Adolph to turn for the money? For a little loan to tide him over the crisis?

Chancellor von Schleicher, moderate liberal and shrewd diplomat, was threatening with a dissolution of the Reichstag. That would have meant a new election. Hitler feared a new election. The last one cost him two million votes. Without money for the campaign, he was bound to lose two million more. Schleicher had Hitler checkmated. Without a pile of ready cash the Nazi movement was wrecked. This was no secret to anybody.

Hitler Meets Von Papen.

And then the saving miracle happened. Adolph received an invitation to come and see Baron von Schroeder in the Rhineland. Although this baron is a Jew, that is to say, a member of a race which Hitler himself calls Semitic inferiors, Adolph rushed to the Rhineland. Adolph smelled money. His scent proved correct. At Baron von Schroeder's home, Adolph met Herr Louis Hagen and Herr Salomon Oppenheim, directors of the banking firm of Schroeder and Stein. Just before Adolph arrived, Franz von Papen had come into the house. The ex-chancellor had motored in from Berlin.

Baron von Schroeder made an offer to advance the needed fifty million marks on condition that Hitler and Von Papen agreed to collaborate to bring Von Schleicher to a fall and take over the reins of government. The Fuehrer was saved. Twenty million marks were immediately placed at his disposal. He rushed off to Berlin to carry the good news to GoGebbels, Frick and Goering, and to hold another hectic celebration at the Kaiserhof Hotel.

It must be explained that big business had for weeks been dissatisfied with Von Schleicher because of his moderation. Von Papen, who is the political representative of the Westphalian metallurgical and mining interests, a director of important mines and factories, immediately returned to Berlin after the conference at the Schroeder villa to begin his intrigues with the tottering old field marshal, President Hindenburg. Von Papen's share of the bargain was to eliminate "the liberal general," as Van Schleicher is known.

Von Papen appears to have told Hindenburg that Von Schleicher was plotting to make himself dictator. Hindenburg was also told that the "Social General" was poisoning the R...swehr with democratic notions. This was sufficient for Hindenburg to call Van Schleicher on the carpet and to tell him of his suspicions. The only thing General Von Schleicher could do was resign. Von Papen's trick had worked. Von Schleicher was eliminated. Von Papen then advised Hindenburg to call Hitler. A quarter of an hour later the Hitler cabinet was formed, with Von Papen as commissioner for Prussia. Hindenburg, who had six months ago declared that so long as he lived Hitler would never be chancellor, swallowed his pride, leaving in the lurch the Social-Democrats who had voted for him as President. Hitler was in the saddle at last.

RADIO NOTES

By R. H. CHILDERHOSE of City Radio Service.

Radio-phonograph combinations are greatly improved. They use the radio tubes and speaker to reproduce the recorded music, of course, after picking it up from the record electrically. They are now equipped to play the new long-playing records. These records revolve at 33 1/3 revolutions per minute, instead of 78 r.p.m. as on the older ones, and the grooves are much finer and closer together. They play for from ten to fifteen minutes on each side, as compared with three to five minutes formerly.

Mr. E. B.—Yes, high voltage lines can induce electrical interference in the radio. If the aerial is removed as far as possible from, and at right angles to, the power wires, and you still get noise, you may be getting some of it through the house wiring and wall plug. A filter installed there might help some. An interference will often travel further along the line it is induced in than along the line in which it occurs.

Ed.—Mr. Childerhose will be glad to answer any questions asked by radio fans. If you have any trouble just drop a note to Mr. Childerhose in care of The Examiner.

Rheumatism Goes

Swollen Joints Vanish

How to Stop Rheumatic Suffering in Less Than a Week.

If you suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, sore muscles, or stiff inflamed joints, it's because your system is full of the dangerous poisons that cause rheumatism and make thousands helpless.

What you need right now is RU-MA, the new internal medicine sold by all druggists; that acts directly on the liver, kidneys, and blood and expels through the natural channels of elimination the dangerous potsons that cause rheumatism.

You must use an internal medicine to free the joints and muscles of stiffness, soreness, and torturing pain. That's why RU-MA succeeds while external remedies and pain deadening drugs only give temporary relief.

No long waiting for your rheumatic misery to stop — RU-MA eases pain first day and safety ends all stiffening, crippling lameness and swollen joints in less than a week. McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Store urges every rheumatic sufferer to get a bottle to-day. They guarantee it.

WESTWOOD WOMAN INJURED IN FALL

Mrs. David Brackenridge Has Arm Broken—Institute Branch Meets.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WESTWOOD, Feb. 24—Mrs. David Breckenridge met with a painful accident on Tuesday, Feb. 21 when she sustained a fall in the summer kitchen of her home, resulting in a broken left arm. Medical aid was summoned at once.

Institute Meets

The February meeting of the Westwood Branch of the Women's Institute was held on Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 21, in the town hall.

The benefits of a travelling library were discussed, final arrangements to be made at the March meeting. Several items of relief work were decided upon. The paper on current events by Mrs. Stewart Graham was educative as well as very interesting.

A splendid paper on "Canadian Women of Note and Why Famous" was very ably given by Mrs. Will Thompson. Among the famous writers were: Pauline Johnston (Indian poetess), Nellie McClung, Jeanie Canuck, Lucy M. Montgomery, Marian Keith, Katherine Hale; women doctors included: Dr. Emily Stowe, Dr. Helen McMurchy and Dr. Margaret Patterson. The speaker also paid tribute to the work of Agnes McPhail, and many others.

Trent River Sawmill Begins Season's Work

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 24. — The operating of the sawmill is a reality at last. After several weeks preparations, having a 'try-out' on Tuesday afternoon, turning out a few staves for barrels, work for the season began on Wednesday morning, with ten men employed for day and night shift, sawing about 20 cords in that time. Messrs Altx. Croddock and sons, Clarence, Harold and Leonard, of the Trenton Cooperage Company, have charge of the operating of the mill with five or six local men employed. Stirling couple

Stirling Couple Are Honored By Friends

(Examiner Correspondence.)

STIRLONG, Feb. 24. — On the evening of February 19th, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Meiklejohn were guests of honor at the home of their niece, Mrs. Joseph Whitehead, who was hostess to a score or more of friends. The occasion was the 25th anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Meiklejohn.

After W. Anderson had proposed the toast to the bride and groom of years ago, Miss Emma Allen presented the bride on behalf of the assembled company with a beautiful silver entree dish.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Meiklejohn received many congratulations during the evening by phone, both local and long distance.

Warsaw

Before giving her paper on the League of Nations at the last Warsaw Institute meeting, Mrs. Douglas gave a short talk on Newspaper Reading, the gist of which was that we do not read the general news enough. We are apt to look for the local news, the Women's Page and a few other things which catch our eye, but the world problems, in which we should all be vitally concerned, we pass by. Consequently when it falls to our lot to talk about these things, it is a scramble to find the necessary information.

Mrs. Douglas told of the school from which she graduated, where part of the regular routine of the pupils was to read these articles and editorials, be able to tell what they had read, to discuss the articles, and write essays upon them. In that way a real liking for solid reading was developed. They also had to read the articles or the essays aloud, and do it well.

We understand reading aloud is on the school curriculum. The perusal of newspapers and magazines —of course under the teacher's supervision—is not, but might well be brought up at the Easter convention.

Bridgenorth

Mrs. A. Young of Springville spent a few days last week with her daughter, Mrs. Max Archer of Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Richardson and baby, of Lakefield spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Millage, of Smith.

Mrs. Weaver and son of Stirling spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Telford of Bridgenorth.

Mr. Laurence Oliver of East Emily spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Oliver of Smith.

Mr. Clarence Stabler of Smith motored to Toronto and spent the week-end with friends there.

Mr. Harry Archer of Westwood, spent the week-end with friends in this district.

Mrs. T. McConnel and daughter, Audrey, of Omemee, spent a few days with the former's mother, Mrs. T. Tindle of Chemong Road.

About fifty of the young people of Gilmour Baptist Church, and their friends, were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Mann on Friday evening, Feb. 10. The evening was pleasantly spent in crokinole and Lost Heir. After the game, the serving of dainty refreshments closed a very pleasant evening.

VERY NECESSARY.

WINDSOR.— Mary Pickford may think trousers look ugly on men, but there is one "little man" in Sandwich who is quite willing to appear ugly.

The school truant officer reported to the Board of Education the lad could not go to school because he did not have pants. Steps were taken at once to provide the necessary nether garments.

AN . . . . . APPRECIATION

Having enjoyed the patronage of a large number at last Saturday's opening and a real busy week so far, I sincerely thank you.

His prize winning slogan in a Canada-wide contest was: "When you've been trying for an hour to start your car, for a real kick smoke an R. G. Dun Cigar."

"Banty" McLachlan's Bravery Rewarded

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 24. (CP)—University of Western Ontario officials were delighted to-day at recognition of the bravery of Dr. Angus D. "Banty" McLachlan, who has been awarded the Royal Humane Society medal for rescuing eight persons at Port Stanley last summer. Dr. McLachlan is a member of the staff of the University medical school.

At the time of the rescue of the eight from drowning in the heavy surf, Dr. McLachlan was a student and captain of the "Mustangs" Western's senior rugby team. Recently Dr. McLachlan won a Rhodes scholarship, and his daring in the face of danger is said to have played a large part in winning that high honor.

Additional honors are believed waiting him. He has been recommended for a Carnegie medal for life saving. Representatives of the fund visited the city evidently in this connection two weeks ago.

AFRICA CABINET GOES COALITION

Agreements Signed For Equal Distribution of Seats by Two Leaders.

HERTZOG STAYS PREMIER.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Feb. 24. (C. P. Cable)—South Africa has followed Great Britain and New Zealand in the formation of a National, coalition cabinet.

Agreements were signed to-day for an equal distribution of cabinet seats by the Nationalist party head, Prime Minister J. B. M. Hertzog, and the leader of the South African party, General Jan. Christiaan Smuts.

It is understood Prime Minister J. B. M. Hertzog will retain his premiership.

The expected announcement of the formation of a coalition government came to-day, following party caucuses. The South African party were said to have been unanimous in favor of the terms while the proposal met with considerable objection in the ranks of the Nationalist party.

The agreement was signed by Prime Minister Hertzog and his Finance Minister, N. C. Havenga, and General Smuts and his chief lieutenant, Patrick Duncan, prominent Transvaal Lea.

BRONZE MEDALS ARE AWARDED

Daniel Lafontaine and Harry Grier of Tweed Saved From Drowning.

HONOR OMEMEE COUPLE.

HAMILTON, Feb. 24.— (C.P.)—Nine bronze medals and 10 parchment certificates were to-day awarded residents of Ontario by the Royal Canadian Humane Society for bravery. Savings from drowning figured solely in the list, which is as follows:

Bronze medals were awarded: Reginald Edie, Dunnville, for saving Fred Gradner from drowning when the ice on which they had been skating broke; Donald C. Bracken, Belle River, for saving a small boy who fell through the ice; Dr. Angus D. McLachlan and Allen McLachlan, St. Thomas, for rescuing eight persons from drowning at Lake Erie, Port Stanley, after they had been carried far out by a savage undertow; Daniel J. Lafontaine and Harry F. Grier, Tweed, who saved six year old Clifford Fobert by plunging into ice covered water on the Moira river and hauling him to safety.

The rescue of Mildred Hessy under the bridge which spans the Humber river at Bolton resulted in the awarding of the bronze medals to Gerald Tortington, Mono Mills; Ralph Moore, Albion; and James McDonald, Bolton.

Parchment certificate were given: Roger Bromley, St. Catharines, for the rescue of Thomas Hamilton in Twelve Mile Creek; Roy Wallace, Guelph, who rescued Edward Hayes; John Nevin, Guelph, for the rescue of James Jackson at Puslinch Lake; Robert L. McKenna, Ottawa, who assisted in the rescue of John M. Roney who was drowning in Patterson's creek; Joseph Harold Tuepah, Yarker, who rescued Russell Allen Card from drowning in the Napanee river; Joseph Cardy, Port Credit, for the rescue of Lewis McGreer at Sydenham; Dorothy May Sherin, Omemee, for assisting in the rescue of Marjory Reddick and William Weir, and Charles O. Brooks, also of Omemee, who also assisted in the latter rescue.

MUST RESIDE IN TOWN A YEAR TO QUALIFY FOR RELIEF LIST

Campbellford Town Council is informed on Question by Hon. Wm. Finlayson.

LETTER TO CLERK.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 24 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The town of Campbellford need not concede to the demands of residents of the municipality who have resided in its jurisdiction the bare three months for assistance under the relief scheme, but according to a resolution passed at the last meeting of the Town Council, at the request of Councillor J. R. Battisby, chairman of the Relief Committee, one year residence in the municipality must be registered before the town need distribute relief. Under that period of time it is optional, the town can either refuse or recognize an appeal for assistance.

Being somewhat uncertain on the subject, Clerk J. F. McGregor was instructed to write the local member, J. P. McArthur, M.P.P., for information. Mr. McArthur referred to the Hon. Wm. Finlayson, who in a letter to Mr. McArthur stated:

"The question of giving or withholding direct relief or the terms on which it will be granted is entirely a matter for the municipal council, and there is nothing to prevent the town of Campbellford making a regulation that they will not grant direct relief except to people who have been resident for one year.

"The provision for three months' residence in the Order-in-Council is only in reference to getting the Government's subsidy or payment of a fraction of the amount expended. If the municipality wishes to secure the Government's assistance they have to act within the Order-in-Council and they should see that the man receiving relief has been a resident for at least three months.

"This is purely permissive and does not in any way control the action of the municipality except as to their right to get a refund of the percentage of the expenditure from the Government.

"If the municipality of Campbellford wishes to make its condition that residents receiving direct relief must reside for one year in Campbellford, there is nothing to prevent them doing this."

UNITED CHURCH IN MILLBROOK HAD GOOD YEAR

Total Resident Membership of St. Andrew's Congregation is 399.

RECEIPTS $3,143.15

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, Feb. 24.—Reports of a most encouraging nature, and a spirit of optimism respecting the current year's activities, featured the annual congregational meeting of St. Andrew's church, held on Wednesday, the pastor, Rev. W. W. Jones, B.D., in the chair, and W. G. Hetherington elected secretary pro tem.

Dr. A. Jemison, Clerk of the Session, presented the initial report and emphasized the fact that 1932 had been an important year since it marked the Golden Jubilee of St. Andrew's church, the event being suitably celebrated with special Sunday and week day services.

Twelve new members had been received on profession of faith with four others by letter; the church now has a resident membership of 399 and 20 non-resident. A piano had been presented by the Ladies' Association, and a pastor's individual communion service by the Boneka Bible Class, during the year, and the minister of the charge had been honored with the chairmanship of the Cobourg Presbytery, and also by being elected Commissioner to General Council.

Receipts $3,143.13

The financial report, presented by the treasurer, G. E. Burnham, showed total receipts of $3,143.13, including over $600.00 raised for the M. and M. fund, and approximately $460.00 for the thankoffering. The balance on hand is $145.87.

Mrs. J. McKnight gave the year's results for the Ladies' Association, total receipts being $537.09, the membership 65, with an average attendanceof twenty-one at the eleven regular meetings. The church kitchen had been thoroughly renovated, a new range purchased, with dishes and other supplies; $75 given to the church thankoffering, and taxes on the parsonage of $80.75 paid; balance in the bank $94.86. The Woman's Missionary Auxiliary remitted $340 to the Branch Treasurer, had 58 annual members, and 21 life members with two new ones added during the year; all Auxiliary funds were raised by voluntary givings except for over thirty dollars received from catering to the Masonic banquet in November. Average attendance at the twelve regular meetings was 38, total offerings by envelope each month $48.96, an average of $4.08. Mrs. J. H. George, secretary, gave the report.

Miss Estelle Hetherington covered the leadership training class which had four members who wrote on examinations, and received certificates, this not including members attending Peterborough Normal and taking similar work as part of their course. Miss Hetherington also reported the choir as having had a good year under the able leadership of Mrs. H. W. Johnston. The Mission Circle report was given by Miss Helen Mitchell who told of the full allocation of $100 being raised.

Mrs. J. Ridge, associate superintendent, told of the work in the Mission Band which had 52 members, and with help from the Circle and some other sources also reached its allocation of $100. The Young Worshippers' League, Marian O'Brian secretary, had a membership of 46, with 22 receiving awards in November at a Sunday morning service for being present at least 25 Sundays at morning worship. The primary Department had 54 on the roll, 24 of these being promoted at the new year; through the mite-box and birthday-box $10.51 was raised in addition to the Sunday offering each week. The Wide Awakes C.G.I.T. group had 30 members last year, took up the study of Matthew's gospel; held a number of social gatherings including entertaining the Cavan group when 33 were present; gave $10 to the M. and M. Fund, $3 to the Star Santa Claus fund; $3 to the church thankoffering; $5 to the National Girls' Work Board, and sent $12 to the Bible Society.

Sunday School Report

W. Fred Fallis covered the year for the Sunday School, leaving out statistics but speaking of the temperance education and pledge signing accomplished, the missionary information given, the union picnic with the Presbyterian Sunday School in July when a most enjoyable time was spent; and mentioning the fact the for paper and helps $244.92 was spent. The school treasurer, W. G. Hetherington, told of receipts of $389.80 with a balance on hand of $52.86. The election of stewards left the list for 1933: M. McDowell, W. A. O'Brian, H. C. Argue, T. A. Douglas, H. A. Fallis, J McKnight, W. G. Hetherington, F. A. Kidd, J. Rowland, W. Fallis, D. Patton, M. Challice, L. W. Smith and W. H. Coombe.

Officers Elected

J. A. Brown and W. F. Fallis were re-elected to the session, and by a standing vote the election of Mrs. F. J. Smith as president of the Ladies' Association was confirmed. Votes of appreciation on behalf of the Session to the Ladies' Society for its liberal assistance during the year, and to J. Pitt, caretaker, for his courtesy and faithful service, were sponsored by Fred Fallis and Dr. Jemison and carried unanimously. It was also carried without a dissenting voice that the congregation send a request, through the Presbytery, to the Conference to allow the Millbrook circuit to be included in the Peterborough Presbytery as being much more convenient than the present inclusion in the Cobourg district.

A short program with recitations by Helen Mitchell and Bernice Smith, and a jolly chorus and encore by the Young Men's Class, preceded the social hour when refreshments were served and an enjoyable hour spent with dismissal by the pastor with the blessing.

Fractures Left Hip Falling On Pavement

MILLBROOK, February 24 (Examiner Correspondence). — Treacherous footing owing to the icy condition of pavement and roadway was responsible for two accidents this week, Miss Maud Fee having the misfortune to fall while crossing the road in front of her home on Wednesday afternoon, fracturing her left hip. Dr. H. A. Turner gave the necessary medical attention. Fortunately Miss Fee's sister, Miss Irene, of Peterborough, is at home at present, and is taking care of the invalid.

On Tuesday afternoon William Bingham, who is well up in years, fell on the icy pavement when coming out of the Post Office, receiving painful injuries, including some fractured ribs. This section of pavement in front of the Post Office has been a danger spot practically all winter, and several near-accidents have ocurred previous to the mishap on Tuesday.

Lakefield

The Efficiency League of the United Church held their regular meeting on Monday evening with an attendance of 99. The program was in charge of the Khaki group. The topic, "The Abolition of War," was taken by Mr. S. A. Darling in a convincing speech. Other numbers on the program were readings by Miss Ramsay and Mr. Carroll Evans, a guitar solo by Mr. Ralph Darlings, and piano solo by Donald Yale. A contest called a King contest was won by the White side.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Dunford of Douro were hosts on Saturday evening to the cast of the play, "'Sweet William," put on a month ago, under the auspices of the Efficiency League of the United Church.

The first part of the evening was spent in playing progressive euchre at which George Sherin had the high score and Miss Eva Hendren the low score. Following the euchre two contests engaged the young people. Miss Miles and Ralph Moore won the tree contest, and Carroll Evans and Elwood Dunford won the berry contest. The remainder of the evening was spent in games and music, with refreshments served at 11.30. A vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Dunford for a delightful evening was proposed by Messrs. Allan Gill and Ralph Darling. Among those present were: Misses Ethel Blakeley, Irene Davis, Etta Garbutt, Eva Hendren, Edith Holdsworth, Edna Harrison, and Marin Miles and Messrs. Ralph Darling, Carroll Evans, Allan Gill, Ralph Moore, George Sherin and Robert Spence.

Water power resources of Canada, as now recorded, will permit a turbine installation of 43,700,000 horse power.

Bailieboro

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lord entertained about 75 guests at a farewell party in their home on Monday evening, when the evening was pleasantly spent in playing cards, music and dancing. Dainty refreshments were served at midnight and one and all voted the evening a most enjoyable one.

Mr. and Mrs. Lord will leave within the next week for their new home near Peterborough.

Among those presetn were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Pue, Mr. and Mrs. F. Coyle of Lakefield, Mr. and Mrs. H. Finnie, Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bebee, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. F. NEW FORD V-8
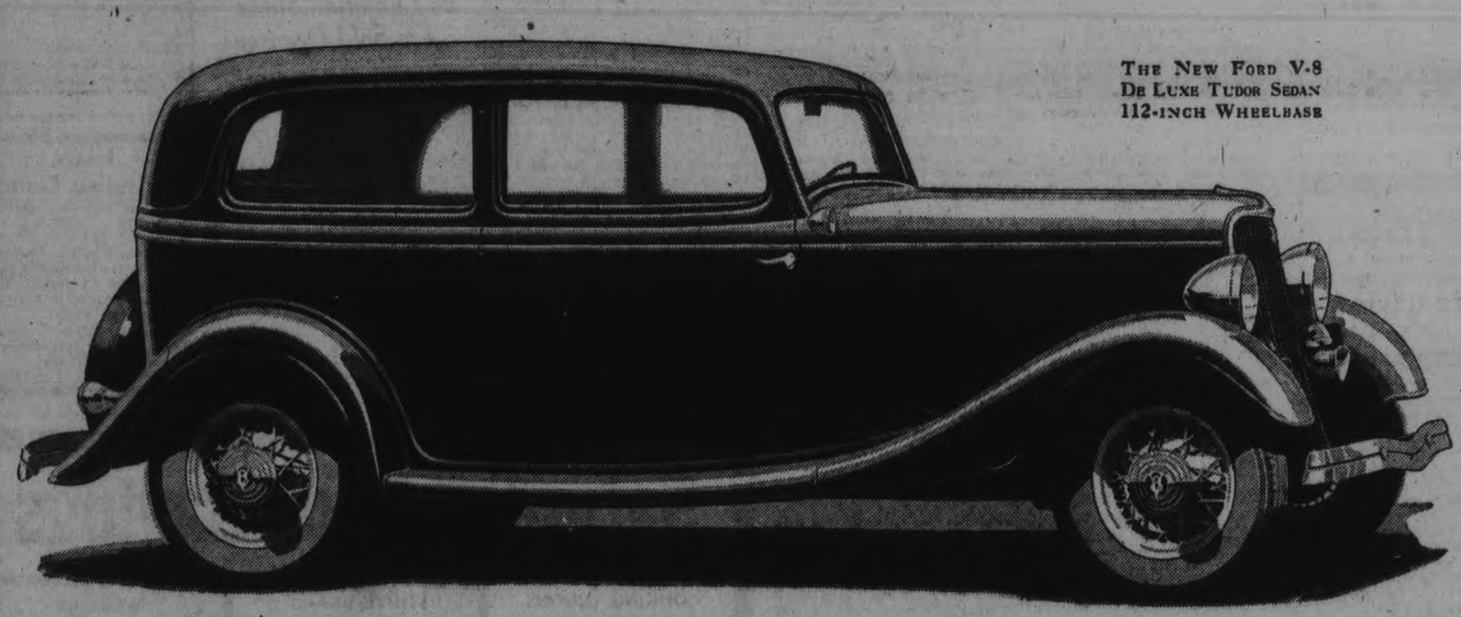
ON DISPLAY TOMORROW



THE NEW FORD V-8 DE LUXE TUDOR SEDAN 112-INCH WHEELBASE

THE longer, wider, more powerful New Ford V-8 is here! Tomorrow it will be on display at the showrooms of dealers in this city. It introduces a new style of beauty, a new standard of comfort and a new pace in performance at a low price.

When you see the New Ford V-8 you will be particularly impressed by its size and attractive appearance. For it's a big car in every sense of the word, with 112-inch wheelbase and unusual interior room—the largest, most comfortable automobile at a truly low price. Its graceful streamlines express the newest, latest mode in motor car designing.

In mechanical design, as in size and body lines, the New Ford V-8 reveals much that is new and distinctive. No single feature is of greater importance to motorists than the V-type, eight-cylinder, 75-horsepower engine. It is a remarkable engineering achievement because it combines eight-cylinder smoothness and flexibility with low cost of operation and up-keep.

An important factor in this low operating cost is a new quality feature—the all-aluminum cylinder head. This costlier metal is used because it dissipates heat rapidly, permits higher compression and results in increased speed, power, acceleration and smoothness, with greater fuel economy.

The development of this all-aluminum cylinder head and the one-piece casting of the cylinder block, exhaust passages and crankcase are among the most noteworthy advances in motor car building in recent years. They are typical of the high quality and advanced design of the entire car.

All New Ford V-8 cars have the new skirted fenders, new headlamps, new instrument panel directly in front of driver, adjustable driver's seat and a safety-glass windshield. All are furnished in a choice of rich body colors. All come equipped with five one-piece steel-spoke wheels. De Luxe cars have two tail lights and two matched-tone horns. De Luxe closed body types have safety glass throughout, cowl lights, arm rests in the rear compartment and a choice of luxurious Broadcloth or Mohair upholstery. Colored wheels are optional on all De Luxe types.

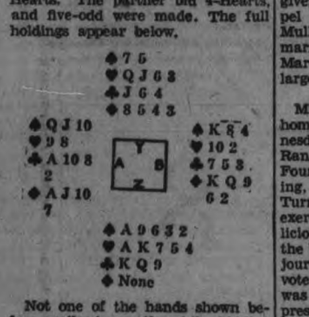
FORCED BIDS

A forced bid, or following bid, is one made over a previous declaration. It discloses certain elements of strength, without announcing any definite amount of quick trick strength. An opening bid is termed a "free bid," because nothing has preceded to obligate a declaration falling below standard requirements. When another bidder has opened the auction a player may feel forced to overcall, to prevent his partner from reading him for utter weakness.

Unless a hand can be rebid safely, to undeceive partner, the minimum requirements for a forced bid are: 1, One quick trick; 2, A biddable suit; 3, Average support of three probable tricks for a shift by partner; 4, Probable ability to fulfill contract,, provided partner has average strength.

Of course any hand worth an opening bid also must be worth a forced bid of one or two. As game cannot be scored unless bid, it is useless to overcall a low bid made at your left, unless you are prepared to defeat a game declaration should your overcall cause opponents to bid for game. I just saw the following hand bid 2-Diamonds, over an opening bid of 1-Spade at the left. If let alone the spade bidder would have fulfilled his contract, but that would have done no harm. The overcall of 2-Diamonds enabled the opening bidder to shift into 2-Hearts. The partner bid 4-Hearts, and five-odd were made. The full holdings appear below.



Not one of the hands shown below really is worth while bidding against an opening bid of 1-Heart made at your left, unless that one trick means game for your opponents, but each of the hands should be bid as indicated over an opening bid of 1-Heart at your right.

If partner shifts from his hearts to a support of your weak spades, bid no trumps, to show how weak your spades are.

BISHOP ENTHRONED.

JUST AMONG US GIRLS

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

THERE IS AN OLD PROVERB which says, "Better is a dry morsel and quietness therewith, than a house full of feasting with strife."

* * * * * * *

In these days there is a sense of refreshment in the words. In many homes when money was plentiful, there was feasting. If it were enjoyed with a peaceful spirit, if true pleasure abounded as well as good food, then there was a mental and spiritual quietness, tending to soothe as well as sustain.

* * * * * * *

But if hilarity only accompanied the good things to eat on which so much money had been spent, and underneath all there was a sense of uneasiness, of living on the surface in apparent harmony which crusted over a volcano of discord which would break forth eventually, there was "feasting with strife," and it was devoid of actual pleasure and of happiness.

* * * * * * *

There is no discounting the value of money in the world as it is, or the equivalent of gold and silver should some other form of exchange in future years, be substituted.

* * * * * * *

But within the past two years there has come in many homes the realization that money is not everything—to use a trite term. Members of a family who, when money was abundant, could go their own ways independently of one another, whose interests clashed, or were so divided that they scarcely touched, made a "house divided against itself."

* * * * * * *

When such strife enters in, the declaration is "it cannot stand." Better is a dry morsel, with quietness therewith, than a house in which there is lack of unity and consequent unhappiness, even though in it there is abundance of worldly substance and sustenance.

* * * * * * *

It is when a common bond of interest exists, binding all members together, that clashing diversions sink to their level of insignificance in a family. Natures may be totally unlike and personal concerns widely vary, but the fact that when money is necessary for the upkeep of the home and each member will suffer unless all pull together, here is unity of purpose which is a cement of security in the maintenance of the home.

* * * * * * *

Moreover, the latent sympathy of one for the other is quickened which often, in times of prosperity, lies dormant. The husband and father's anxiety elicits appreciation of his past work and of the tenseness of present pressure.

* * * * * * *

The wife and mother's extra work, especially when undertaken in the desire to help out without complaint, wins likewise its reward in sympathetic appreciation.

* * * * * * *

The children's determination to relieve the strain of parents as much as lies within their power, comes like a welcome sedative to calm, troubious situations.

* * * * * * *

Amid all the adversity in such a household, strife does not strike at its roots. Even though rations are reduced from feasts to simple meals, a quietness and peace of spirit broods over the household.

Indulgence Of Child Is Hard Upon Mother

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(C.P.)—A mother who goes to excesses to protect and indulge her child may well be suspected of secretly detesting it, according to a theory which engaged the annual meeting of the American Orthopsychiatric Association, which continued here to-day.

Dr. David Levy, chief psychiatrist of the Institute of Child Guidance, said: "Back of every case of over-protection, babying, over-solicitude, too much mothering, over-indulgence, there is a certain amount of rejection—a desire of the mother to be rid of the child."

The feeling of guilt which arises intermittently from this rejection, has as much influence as mother love in making a mother unduly worried and excited about her child, according to Dr. Levy.

"Gossip ana Such

THE CINCINNATI REDS may win no baseball championship this year—in fact, they won't—but there is one title the Bushmen have salted away.

• • •

THERE ARE MORE NICKnames around Redland Field than there were seidels in Cincinnati in the good old days—a figure that staggered the imagiation.

• • •

ALL BUT THREE REDS have a handle which is better known to Cindinnati ball fans than the players' own tags. These three are Infielders Leo Durocher and George Grantham and Outfielder Harry Rice.

• • •

HOWEVER, THE REDS may trade these fellows off one of these days for athletes named Dizzy, Daffy and Dumb or some other such colorful cognomen.

• • •

THE REDS, WHILE LEADing all leagues in nicknames, have shown little imagination in selecting them. There are, for istance, such as Joe, Red and Johnny—in fact there are two of each of these on the squad—Joe Morrisey and Joe Cicero, Red Lucas and Red Frasier, Johnny Ogden and Johnny Moore.

• • •

Other Reds who have uniminginative nicknames include Larry Benton, Benny Frey, Cy Johnson, Ray Kolp, Bob Smith, Erie Lombardi, Pete Manion, Jack Redmond, Andy High, Chick Hafey, Jake Plummer and Wallie Roettger.

• • •

A LITTLE BETTER ARE the names of Dutch Henry, Whitey Hilcher, Sunny Jim Bottomley, Rollie Hemsley and Cap. Shevlin.

• • •

ASBY ASBJORNSON, TAY Douhlit and Rix (old Eppa Jeptha, to you) Rixey are nicknames too obvious to be good.

• • •

REAL GENIUS, HOWEVER, is shown in three titles. They are the property of Clarence Blair, Otto Bluege and John Fonger.

FONGER IS KNOWN TO his mates as Honce, Blair is Foots, and Bluege labors under the tag of Squeaky. This column will gladly back those for originality against the tags of any other three ball players you can name.

• • •

TO COMPLETE THE RED'S picture, there is Manager Owen J. Bush, who has not one but two nicknames. In the big leagues he is Donie, but in his home town, Indianapolis, he is known as Ownie.

• • •

IT IS RUMORED THAT Sidney Weil, president of the Reds, is sometimes called Sid—but not by any ball players wearing a Red's uniform! They know him as Boss.

"Nick" Wasnie's Goal Wins 2-1 Decision For Simpson's Americans.

TORONTO, Feb. 24 (C.P.)—New York Americans, who pack lots of what it takes, had a toe-hold on third place in the National Hockey League's Canadian Division today. No matter how fast Howie Morenz and Leo Dandurand usher Canadiens to the tape they can expect the borrowed, promoted and rejuvenated hockeymen of Joe Simpson to be on hand, too.

What are called crucial proceedings for both the Canucks and Amerks came up last night, and if Canadians' 2-0 triumph over Chicago Black Hawks wasn't surprising enough, considering everything, then the spangled gentry scored the night's feature win. They humbled Montreal Maroons 2-1 at New York.

Favorites to Finish

The surprising New York win leaves Americans favorites to finish in the show position and the playoffs, though they face a harder schedule than Canadiens. Each has 11 games to play, Americans 7 away from home and Canadiens six. But Bullet Joe's team starts with a two-game edge.

Nick Wasnie, lank winger, who is on loan from the Canucks, punched in both Amerk goals last night and took a leading part otherwise in an attack that seldom allowed Maroons to get going. Nick's first goal in the third period tied the score, Dave Trottier having tallied in the second period, and the Winnipeg shotsmith lined a 25-foot drive past Goaler Dave Kerr late in the overtime session to clinch the verdict.

Kerr's brilliant work had saved Maroons from conceding several goals to the battling Americans, but he was caught flot-footed when Wasnie picked up Bill Brydge's pass and fired.

Before 7,000 faithful who only hoped for the best after the 10-0 whipping Canadiens absorbed at Boston two nights before, the French force outplayed Black Hawks by a wide margin to enable old George Hainsworth to make his comeback effort at shutout.

Actually Chuck Gardiner was the game's star with a sensational display in the Chicago cage. He had twice as much work to do as Hainsworth, but Johnny Gagnon beat him from the doorstep in the second period and Aurel Joliat sank a six-footer 10 minutes later. Chabot of Toronto and John Ross Roach of Detroit also picked off shut-outs, Chabot as the Leafs shunted Ottawa Senators definitely out of the play-off circle with a 3-0 defeat, and Roach as the Red Wings moved ahead of the American sectionists with a 3-0 win over New York Rangers.

Senators poured forth a fine array of shots on Chabot in the first period, and when one of them eluded the veteran sailorman from Port Arthur they became erratic. In the second session, Harvey Jackson, King Clancy, and Bob Gracie scored for Toronto, and in the third period the exchanges were too mild to produce further scoring.

Senators, with a record of nine wins and seven ties in 38 games, were four games behind Americans—counted out.

Second Shutout

A crowd of 13,300 cheered the Red Wings on to their second shutout triumph of the season over Rangers. With Ching Johnson doing five stretches in the penalty box the Wings cut loose with a scoring splurge in the last period; old George Hay getting the first and Herbie Lewis and Larry Aurie the others.

Lakefield Students Win From Grove 11-4

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 24 (Examiner Correspondence).—The High School hockey team defeated The Grove, 11-4 in the game in the District Hockey League played on Tuesday night. The Grove team is in the main a junior team, as Wright, Gunn, Stewart and Macrae are not in the District League team. The Grove combination was superior but the checking of the High School spoiled the chances of The Grove. Ames was good, but not in his best form, while Loyst was on his toes and played an exceptionally good game. Dench, Fletcher, Hepburn and Wood were outstanding for The Grove, while White, Blewett and Chittick were perhaps the best for the High School, although all played a very strong game. The line-up was:—

High School.—Loyst, goal; Morrison, Stenner, defence; Lennox, centre; White, Payne, wings; Blewett, Chittick, Jewell, Brown, subs.

The Grove.—Ames, goal; Wood, Atwood, defence; Dench, centre; Fletcher, Hepburn, wings; MacPherson, Grey, Strickland, subs.

Referee—Braden Blewett.

Alberta's winter road clearance program now involves keeping 825 miles of main grave"ed highway open for traffic.

ALBIONS BEAT MARMORA 3-1

Soft Ice Makes Good Combination Impossible—Paul Voyer Stars at Back Check.

CLEVER GOAL-TENDING

HAVELOCK, Feb. 24 (Special to The Examiner).—In a Central Hockey League game played at Havelock on Wednesday night, the Albions trounced the Marmora Maroons to the tune of 3-1. The ice was very soft and rough, making combination plays almost impossible. However, a large crowd went home very well satisfied, as both teams made some smart rushes, with Paul Voyer showing up very well with his nice back-checking. The game was very clean and handled nicely by Jack Brady of Marmora.

Almost immediately from the first bell, both teams were in difficulties owing to the soft ice, and were content to send one and two men up on the attack. About 15 minutes of the first period had elapsed when Hagerman and McLaughlin combined for the first goal, the latter getting it on a pass inside the Marmora defence. Immediately afterward McLaughlin scored his second goal with a hard shot from the blue line. Marmora tried hard to score, but Kennedy was unbeatable. Watson drew the only penalty of the period just before the bell sounded.

The second period opened with Marmora carrying the play. Hewitt scored Marmora's lone goal with a beautiful shot from inside the blue line. The play continued with both teams having tough breaks after getting in position to score. Hewitt was penalized for tripping and Marmora was forced to lift the puck down the ice on many occasions. McCoy was penalized just after Hewitt returned to the ice, but no damage was done while he was off. The score at the end of the second period was Havelock 2, Marmora 1.

The teams stepped on the ice for the last period very tired, with the ice surface cut up badly. The locals finally scored from a scramble back of the Marmora nets; Watson getting the goal on an assist from Jacks. Marmora tried very hard to even the count, but could not score.

Line-ups:—

Marmora.—Goal, McCraw; defence, Burns, McCoy; centre, McWilliams; wings, Hewitt, Campion; subs., Neal, C. Campion, Brady.

Havelock.—Kennedy; defence, McLaughlin, Brennan; centre, Jacks; wings, Watson, P. Voyer; subs., Hagerman, Chiles, J. Voyer, Wrightly.

Corbett, Just a Fresh Kid from Frisco Dazzles Kilrain with His Skill in Art

Jim, Picked as Opponent to Show Off Greatest of Kilrain, Upsets Dope Bucket and Boxes Famed Heavyweight Into Submission.

(This is the second of a series of brief articles, relating Jim Corbett's most famous fights—from his first battle with Joe Choynski, in 1884, to his final fight with Jim Jeffries, in 1903.)

BY WILLIAM RITT

No. 2—CORBETT VS. KILRAIN

The year 1890 found Jim Corbett working in the city auditor's office in San Francisco. He was not yet definitely launched on a ring career despite his victories over Joe Choynski.

CORBETT In 1890

Meanwhile Jake Kilrain, the famed fighter who had, a year before, been beaten by John L. Sullivan in a heavyweight championship fight, came to New Orleans as part of a sports show during the Mardi Gras.

Seeking an opponent for Kilrain in New Orleans the promoters decided that Corbett would be the proper attraction. The Choynski fights had given Jim a reputation but he was looked upon as a green kid with whom Kilrain would have little trouble. William Muldoon, present New York boxing commissioner, was one of the promoters of the proposed bout.

For $2,000 Purse

Corbett, delighted to gain recognition as an opponent of the great Kilrain, agreed to a six-round bout at the Southern Athletic club, New Orleans, Feb. 17, 1890, the winner to get $2,000, the loser $500.

Not a soul among the spectators around the ring figured Corbett had a chance when the slim, 165-pound Californian rushed out of his corner to meet the huge 200-pound Kilrain.

Corbett feinted and then shot six consecutive punches to Kilrain's face. Jake bounced back on his heels, amazed at the sudden onslaught. The spectators rocked the hall with their delighted applause. For the rest of the round Kilrain appeared in a daze. He couldn't solve Corbett's tricky attack.

In the second round Jim cut Kilrain over the right eye. From then on he hit Kilrain almost at will.

The remaining four rounds were virtual repetitions of the first. Corbett had Jake off balance most of the time. Kilrain couldn't land a solid punch.

• • •

As the referee jerked Corbett's hand skyward to signify his victory the crowd swarmed into the ring and carried Jim around the arena on its shoulders.

Kilrain challenged Corbett to a return battle but Jim refused.

"I've licked you once," the 21-year-old victor told his victim, "and that's enough. I want some new names for my record now."

Corbett returned to California confident that the ring was his career. He became a boxing coach at the Olympic club in San Francisco.

But there was a dark cloud across John L. Sullivan's path, a cloud which John L. seemed desirous of avoiding. The dark menace was Peter Jackson, a colored heavyweight star. Jim Corbett began toying with the idea of meeting Jackkson. If Jim licked the dusky "menace" he could demand a chance at John L.'s crown!

WINDSOR HOLDS ONE-GOAL LEAD

Corrigan's Wanderers Score 4-3 Win Over Stratford Midgets.

KIRKLAND WINS 7-2.

(By The Canadian Press)

Ivan Corrigan, mentor of Windsor Wanderers, is to-day contemplating ways and means of holding a one-goal lead his players obtained when they defeated Stratford Midgets, 4 to 3, in a Junior Ontario Hockey Association playdown at Windsor last night.

The return game will be played at Stratford Saturday.

A drifter from centre ice, halfway through the final frame was the deciding counter in a well-balanced contest. Horace Trottier was the long-range marksman, his shot escaping the hawk-like vision of Goalie Gerth in the Stratford nets.

Don Heath, huge Stratford defenceman, Desislets and Lloyd Roubell scored for the losers, while Joe McFarland, Meadows and E. Sady counted the other tallies for Wanderers.

In the Northern section of the Province, Kirkland Lake just about earned the right to meet Sudbury Wolves for the N.O.H.A. Junior title, when they routed South Porcupine, 7-2. It was the first game for the Northern group honors. The second will be played Saturday.

Deloro Drops Second Game To Madoc 6 to 4

MADOC, Feb. 24 (Examiner Correspondence).—In a belated tilt between Madoc and Deloro Hockey teams played in Madoc Arena on Tuesday evening, Feb. 21st, the Deloro made their final appearance in Madoc for this season and lost their second game in Madoc by a score of 6-4.

The Madoc team was a mixed line-up, with Henderson in goal for the first time in sveeral years. Four goals were registered against him in spite of the fact that the play seemed to be mostly against the visitors' goal. The crowd was the poorest of the season, as with the play-offs over the interest has not been so keen, and the milder weather and other interests taking the place once occupied by hockey.

Line-up:—

Madoc. — Henderson, goal; D. Whytock, Phillips, defence; Blue, centre; Akey, Armstrong, wings; West, Embury, Taylor, R. Whytock, alternates.

Deloro.—Murray, goal; Callery, Derry, defence; Simmons, centre; Stewart, O'Neil, wings; Clements, Phillips, O'Neil, alternates.

"DIT" CLAPPER ONE OF FAMOUS HOCKEY "THREE"

Set Record for Prolific Scoring With Cooney Weiland and Dutch Gainor.

(This is the 14th in a series by the Canadian Press on outstanding athletes of Ontario cities and towns):

PETERBOROUGH, Ont., Feb. 24 (C.P.).—Another of those mediocre junior players, who had to crash pro hockey ranks before he discovered his true playing ability, is Aubrey "Dit" Clapper, Boston Bruin captain.

Clapper, a member of hockey's original "dynamite trio." The others were Cooney Weiland and Dutch Gainor—laid the foundation of a profitable hockey career playing shinny on the frozen Trent River, near Hastings, and is considered one of the finest hockeyists ever developed in this district.

Born in Newmarket, Clapper was two years old when his parents moved to Hastings in 1908. Attracted to the ice sport from the first, he joined the boys in their shinny-games and picked up the rudiments of skating.

Played In Oshawa.

His first season in organized hockey was with an Oshawa church league team. A few seasons later he moved west to Toronto and joined Parkdale Canoe Club.

Never a flashy player as an amateur, the angular Clapper attracted the attention of Eddie Powers, canny mentor of Boston Tigers, Can.-American League outfit, and was signed by him.

A two-year term under Powers' tutelage smoothed out the rough spots and turned him into a formidable piece of hockey machinery. Promoted to the Bruins in 1927, Clapper immediately jumped into stardom.

Two years later, the "dynamite trio" attracted notice with their prolific scoring feats. A total of 183 points were amassed by Clapper and his partners—a mark that has not been remotely approached since. Weiland topped the league with 73 points, a few notches down came Clapper with 61 and Gainor counted 49.

The six-foot-two Bruin captain has two younger brothers, Scotty and Don, both playing mercantile hockey in Toronto

VISITING M.C.C. TEAM SCORES 159 RUNS FOR DOUBLE WICKETS

L. S. Darling, a Newcomer to Test Cricket Ranks Accounts for 85 Runs.

GIVEN GREAT OVATION.

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 24 (C.P. Cable).—England at close of play to-day had scored 159 runs for the loss of two wickets in their bid to win the fifth and last test cricket match. The Australian eleven was all out for 435 runs in their first innings.

Nothing is at stake in the match. England captured the "Ashes" and the cricket championship of the world in the fourth test match. The Aussies won only one of the series.

To-day's play was featured by a freer style of batting than during the four previous tests, when the "Ashes" were still at stake. Australian batsmen, with the exception of V. Y. Richardson, the veteran test player who was bowled fifth ball before he had scored, and H. Ironmonger, Aussie bowler, who was bowled by Larwood for one run, made a good account of themselves.

Given Great Ovation

A brilliant inning by L. S. Darling, a newcomer to test cricket ranks, which accounted for 85 runs was given a great ovation by the crowd of 7,000. Stanley McCabe with 73 and L. P. O'Brien with 61 were also high scorers while the veteran, W. A. Oldfield contributed 52 before he was run out.

Harold Larwood led the English bowling attack by taking five wickets; three bowled outright, and two others aided by catches.

Oldfield's wicket, the eighth to fall with the score at 414, was the result of a brilliant throw-in by Paynter from mid-off which broke the wicket.

When the English went to bat the crowd had grown to 25,000. Alexander and McCabe opened the bowling but it was not long before an incident aroused the ire of the crowd.

Alexander is a fast bowler, and D. R. Jardine, the English captain who was batting first, complained Alexander was running on the pitch and scratching the wicket. The crowd shouted its disapproval of the complaint.

W. A. Oldfield caught Jardine out after he had reached 18 off one of O'Reilly's deliveries. Wally Hammond joined Herbert Sutcliffe and the two made a fine stand to send the score to 153 before Sutcliffe was caught at square leg by Richardson off O'Reilly with his score at 56.

Hammond and Harold Larwood carried on and had scored 72 and 5 respectively when play was closed for the day with the score at 159 for two wickets.

RECENT SERIES A BITTER FIGHT

"Toughest Game I've Handled All Year," Says "Duke" McCurry of Petes-Doherty Game.

QUESTIONABLE POINTS.

"That was the toughest game I've handled all year," Dr. Frank McCurry, generally known as "Duke" said after the Belleville-Peterborough playoff contest at the Brock Wednesday night. He handles five and six games a week, National Hockey League and O.H.A. Last Saturday in Toronto, he refereed the Detroit-Leafs game, and he is now slated to take charge of the Newmarket-Queen's junior playoff series.

The "Duke" looked like a beaten man as he drew his money after the game here and left. He knew he was in a bad spot by having to referee such an important fixture between two battling teams here, and with two prominent O.H.A. officials looking on. One was president of the Association and the other a past president. Both are impartial hockey followers, and believe in giving their officials every doubtful point. For that reason, when they informed McCurry that he had missed the disputed goal at the end of the first period, he agreed that it must have been in, and admitted that he did not see it.

"I try to get everything," he said, "and when I penalize a player I seldom even know what color his sweater is. But that game here was certainly a tough one to handle and I wouldn't care to referee a series again between those teams. They fight for every point, and there were plenty of questionable points up in this game." He does not favor the home goal-umpire system which always proves troublesome to referees.

McLarnin May Meet Corbett For Crown

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Feb. 24. Plans for a world welterweight title fight between Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver's giant killer, and Young Corbett of Fresno, Calif., the recently crowned king, were being hatched here last night.

Wad Wadhams, matchmaker for the Olympic Auditorium in Los Angeles, made a bid for the fight and let it be known the baby faced Canadian-Irishman was in the hunt for the bout. Wadhams proposed July 4 as a suitable date for a meeting looked on as a "natural".

LINN SCORES WINNING GOAL

Menie Holds One-count Lead in East Seymour League Play-offs.

SECOND GAME SATURDAY.

BURNBRAE, Feb. 24 (Examiner Correspondence).—A "million dollar" goal from the stick of "Sandy" Linn, dextrous right-winger of the Menie aggregation, gave the village boys a one-goal lead in the playoffs of the East Seymour League over their rivals from the English Line. Playing on good ice, Wednesday evening before a slim crowd, caused by uncertainty of ice conditions, the two teams fought bitterly, with Menie having a decided edge in the first two frames. Only in the third did the Line show any of their famous boring-in tactics, and then Eagleson proved a stone-wall in goal.

Shillinglaw, claimed by many railbirds as the outstanding player of the league, was too closely checked to gain any advantage for his team. He almost played himself to a standstill in the final period in a vain effort to secure a tying goal. Alec Stevens, Eric Little and Don Peake played fine games for the losers, but were all away off with their shooting and this in a large measure accounted for the Line defeat. Owens, in goal, turned aside a flock of shots and the one which beat him was too close to save.

Rannie, playing under the handicap of illness, was a hard man to stop, while Nelson and E. Whitton worked well with him. The second line played splendid hockey, and K. Milne did a lot of hard work while Linn was the main scoring threat of the evening. Doug. Milne was again outstanding on defence and on the attack, while the others went well with Eagleson, the star of the team. Line-ups:—

Menie.—Goal, Eagleson; defence, Craighead and Doug. Milne; forwards, E. Whitton, Rannie, Nelson; subs., W. Whitton, Linn, K. Milne, Tom Little.

English Line.—Goal, Owens; defence, Shillinglaw and Locke; forwards, A. Stevens, H. Stevens, D. Peake; subs., T. Peake, A. Potts, L. Fry, J. Stevens, E. Little.

Referee—H. Dunk. Timers, L. Watson and T. Fry. Penalty—E. Ingram and L. Anderson.

The second and last playoff game is billed for Saturday afetrnoon at 2.30 if ice is available. A fine battle is assured, as the Line gang will be out for goals and Menie will be trying for more lead. While Menie were inclined to rough things Wednesday, nothing serious occurred, and a good clean game should result in the final go.

Should the score be tied on the round at the end of sixty minutes' overtime will in all probability decide the issue.

TORONTO, Feb. 24.— (C.P.) — Seventeen games, six of which are finals, are scheduled for to-day, the last day of the sixth annual Toronto bonspiel. Play started Monday with an entry of 100 rinks from all sections of Ontario.

The surprise of yesterday's play was the collapse of A. E. Stephenson's New Liskeard rink. At the start of the day's play, Stephenson had a perfect record in the matter of wins and was leading in the struggle for the grand aggregate. He scored a victory in the first game, but the next three he dropped and was elimianted from the running.

Two Hamilton rinks have an edge in the race for the grand aggregate. Gordon Campbell of Hamilton Thistles, leads with seven wins, but following closely is Cecil Smith of Hamilton Vics, with six. The winner of this play will play off with Orillia for the privilege of representing Ontario in the Canadian championships and possession of the Macdonlad Brier Trophy.

SPORTS Day by Day

HOCKEY—BOWLING—BOXING BASKETBALL — OTHER SPORTS

(By C. J. P.)

All day yesterday wherever we went, hockey fans were still discussing that Belleville-Petes' games the night previous. They nearly all agreed that the local outfit should have copped the round, but there were different arguments over the disputed goals. Some swore that such and such a goal was in; others were equally emphatic that it was not. At least, there's no doubt but that series was the most hectic round as far as disputes go that the Petes have been into in several years. It was even worse in the first game in Belleville.

* * * * * * *

Referees are in a tough spot. They shouldn't be condemned too much, provided they are trying hard to follow the play. We can't forgive an official when he's "homing it", nor one who misses a lot and then guesses at it. Referee McCurry was a good man on offsides and catching skaters going over the blue line too soon, and in fact he made a pretty fair job of it Wednesday night. But he shouldn't over-rule a goal-umpire unless he is positive that the latter is wrong. We're not squawking now, as it's over and done with. We're just giving our version of it, a sort of re-hash.

* * * * * *

Several onlookers, cool-headed men who have been watching hockey for years, were parked downstairs at the northwest corner of the rink, and they were ready to swear on a stack of bibles that the disputed goal at the end of the first period was in by about two inches. Tice partly stopped it but it slid over the line. As he got up, the canny goal-tender drew it out to the line and that's where the referee saw it when he skated up for a look. Tice tried to pull another out later but wasn't fast enough. We'd like to have his honest opinion on that goal, and may at some future date just for the fun of it.

* * * * * * *

Fans were divided on the other disputed one, and we can't say just what about it It may or may not have been in. But referees, although they have the power to, should not over-rule goal-umpires unless they're sure the man behind the net was wrong. After all, that's what they put him there for. The referee, by doing this, takes all responsibility on his own shoulders and sure puts himself in a tough spot with the home crowd when he guesses against it. Well, it was some fun, anyway.

* * * * * * *

The Petes did considerably better this year than they did last. The boys went very good, and would have done even better we believe only for the soft weather in January. Last winter, the local team did not even reach a group playoff berth. This year, they won their group and went to the second round before being nosed out. We had two good goalies in Miller and Gillespie and a husky defence that could score goals, also, in Howe, Lebarr and Weir. Ellis, in his first year on the forward line, made a good job of it at centre, getting in on a lot of tallying. Dallin and Dundas both enjoyed a fine season. Jarvis proved a big aid with his sweeping backcheck at centre for the second line, while Creighton and Hatton figured prominently in every win on smart all-around play.

* * * * * * *

Eddie Wright took over the managerial reins after being out of the hockey picture since he handled the seniors here. And he made a real job of it, rounding up a good intermediate outfit, giving local fans some smart exhibitions of hockey, helping to bring the Hockey Club through with a financial balance—even in these times—and proving popular with the players all through. It was a harmonious team and club, but more about this again. The Petes will likely play Lindsay now in their annual two-game Haboco Cup series.

* * * * * * *

Ken Colling, Belleville umpire in the C.O.B.L., assured us the other day that he was not managing the Nationals this summer, succeeding Walter Gerow who went to Napanee. He said it looked as if Peeny Mills would inherit the job but Ken wasn't sure just how strong the team would be. They lose a couple of players but, we understand they gained a couple of others. Ernie Holmes is quite likely to be wearing a Belleville uniform this season and having 'em in against the Petes. And the locals will be hollering for hurlers before long.

* * * * * * *

Two basketball games are billed for the Y.M.C.A. tomorrow evening. At eight bells, it's a gals' fixture, Y.W.C.A. Seniors meeting Westclox Seniors; while at nine, Stanger's of the City League tangles with P.C.I. The games in this City Loop have been unusually close since the season opened. They play every Wednesday at the Collegiate gym and at the "Y" Saturdays. Complete schedule will be published one of these days.

* * * * * * *

Don't forget that E.P.L. playoff game at 8.30 to-night at the Brock. Carters tangle with Norwood Combines and it should be a battle. Combines took the first of the five-game series, 5 to 2, but it was protested and will be decided upon after tonight's affair. Herb Payne's squad figures on upsetting the dope completely on local ice, and we wouldn't guess at the winner till after this tilt is over. Next game will be in Norwood early in the week.

* * * * * * *

Picking 'em off the grapevine: Dr. Ralph Wilson, who was a popular grappler here last summer, suffered brain concussion in an Indiana bout last night, and is reported in a critical condition . . . . Norwood Combines would like an exhibition game down there with the Petes' juniors . . . . They say that Lefty Judd really was in Cobourg not long ago but left when he couldn't get a satisfactory job . . . . All local minor hockey games are being held up at present waiting upon ice . . . . We'd suggest that O.H.A. play-offs should see two neutral referees handling each game as they do in the N.H.L., thereby helping to eliminate disputed goals . . . . Plenty of fun and a huge crowd should make that Carnival at the Brock a big evening Monday . . . . Ought to be a senior baseball club meeting here soon to see what's what and why not . . . . As the Lindsay Post says: "Tempus fugit, and so does Sir Malcolm Campbell!"

Game Is Protested By Peterborough Club

The Peterborough Hockey Club decided last evening to formally protest the Belleville-Petes' series on the grounds of incompetent handling by the referees. Despite Secretary Bill Hewitt's advice yesterday morning that the protest would not likely be upheld, the official protest was sent the O.H.A. last night, and the local club is now awaiting word on the matter.

PAYNE'S PROTEST NOT YET SETTLED

E. P. L. Finalists Will Meet in Second Game of Seris To-night at Brock.

The second East Peterborough League play-off game will be held at the Brock to-night at 8.30, Norwood Combines meeting Payne's Carters. The Kempt crew won the first one last week in Norwood, 5 to 2, but the game was protested and has not yet been settled. It is a best three out of five game series for the loop title and the Peck Trophy. The third game will be held back in Norwood early next week.

These two teams have shown all season how well matched they are, and the playoffs will likely see some hard-fought games with the issue very much in doubt till the end. The Carters could not seem to get going when they lost in Norwood, but fully expect to win on local ice. They have the strongest defence in the league, Foley in goal and Lackey and Swanger at the blue line, showing a balance of strength and experience. Two tricky forward lines, which failed to click as they should last game, will give the visitors plenty of trouble in this fixture.

The cagy Alex. Kempt has rounded out a smart Norwood aggregation, aided considerably by the two Calladines and the two Cripps from Peterborough. He has a smart goalie in Beavis, a hard-hitting defence, and fast forwards that combine all the time. This team won the title last year, and many of the League followers predict they will repeat, but it is not likely they will do it in three games at anyrate. With fair ice promised and such an important battle billed between these strong teams, a large crowd of fans is expected to be on hand when they get under way to-night.

WOULD LICENSE BICYCLES

LONDON, Ont.—To aid in the war on bicycle thefts, Inspector Thomas Bolton, chief of detectives of the city police force, in his annual report to the Police Commission last night recommended all bicycles should be licensed and carry license plates. The inspector pointed out bicycle thefts in London in 1932 showed an increase of 105 as compared with 1931.

LOUIS GREEN OLDEST TAILOR

Great Dollar Value in Made-to-Measure Suits Offered.

IN BUSINESS 20 YEARS.

Peterborough's oldest merchant tailor, Louis Green, 432 George Street, again offers the men of this district what is considered the greatest dollar value in made-to-measure suits it is possible to obtain.

For 20 years Mr. Green has enjoyed the confidence and patronage of a large number of the clothing buyers, and has kept at all times a most imposing array of the finest woollens in worsted stripes, serges, and tweeds, the majority of which are better imported English weaves.

An announcement appears elsewhere in this issue setting forth the price and quality of tailoring of his most recent offering which applies for the next two weeks. It becomes evident however, that men and young men can now be better dressed at practically 1914 prices.

HEAVYWEIGHT "HEFTIES" ON TO-NIGHT'S PROGRAMS

NEW YORK, Feb. 24. (CP)—Fistic menu headlined by two heavyweight attractions which should develop into hefty slugging affairs was offered United States fans to-night.

The one brought Johnny Risko, Cleveland's "rubber man" up against King "Fish Peddler" Levinsky of Chicago, in 10 round and probably less at Madison Square Garden.

The other, at Chicago, was a head-on collision between Otto Von Porat of Norway, and "Tuffy" Griffiths of the home forces, also at 10 rounds.

GOODNIGHT STORIES

By Max Trell

This is a cactus
It has needles for hair,
It's lovely to look at,
But touch it with care.
—Shadow Sayings.

Knarf went tumbling round and round. Why? Because Knarf had made up his mind to find out how it felt to go tumbling with a tumbleweed. I hope you know what a tumbleweed is. It grows on the edge of the desert. When the wind comes along, it manages to get itself all rolled up into a ball (like a ball of twigs), and goes rolling this way, that way and the other way until the wind stops again, or something else stops it.

Knarf, and the other four shadow children—Mij, Flor, Hanid and Yam—and their masters and mistresses, were motoring with father towards a place called Death Valley, which is really a beautiful spot in the middle of the desert despite its name.

Knarf Left Behind.

Well, Knarf had sprung out of the car to try some tumblings with the tumbleweed. Everything went well while the tumbleweed tumbled in the same direction as the automobile. But all at once the wind changed and the tumbleweed began tumbling in just the opposite direction. At this the other four shadows became terribly alarmed for they said to themselves: Suppose Knarf should get lost on the desert? Then they called to Knarf, and shouted for him to stop tumbling with the tumbleweed and return at once to the automobile. Only Knarf couldn't, or wouldn't, or didn't hear them. He kept right on tumbling.

How long Master Knarf might have kept on tumbling, I can't venture to guess. As luck would have it, though, the tumbleweed tumbled at that very moment into a prickly cactus, and our shadow friend let out a yip (it was a yip all right) of pain. This cactus was covered with needles so sharp that even a shadow could feel them sticking. An instant later Knarf sprang up, and seeing that the automobile was driving farther and farther off, he suddenly made himself as big as a telegraph pole (which a shadow can do faster than you can say Charlie Chaplin), and with two or three giant strides he reached the automobile. Then, just as he stepped in, he made himself his proper size again, and sat himself down next to his master, exactly where he should have been all the time.

Into Death Valley.

By this time, they had passed through a town called Barstow, in California; then they went through a town called Baker, and through a town called Shoshone, and finally they reached a little town called Death Valley Junction. Here father, who was driving the automobile, turned to the children (he paid no attention to the shadows) and said: "Now we are going into the desert, to the town of Furnace Creek, which looks right into Death Valley."

With that, father took a small road leading off into the mountains. Behind those mountains lay Death Valley. As they were going along, and the road wound in and out among the mountains, the children asked father where Death Valley got its name. The shadows had wanted to know this, too, so when father began speaking, they all kept silent and listened.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, February 25.

A day of rather adverse conditions, with turmoil, confusion and uncertainty is the prediction made from the ruling planetary positions. It will be a lively enough time in both business and personal relations, but in the former there may be exciting situations calling for careful restraint in speech and act lest there be aggravations to hostility that may prove expensive.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of an eventful year albeit with much confusion, excitement and opposition both subtle and open. Much shall depend on restrained acts and careful speech. A child born on this day should be clever; aggressive and enterprising, given to bold chances and extravagances, but may attain fortune and position.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery builds up the stomach and the blood so that the entire system feels the beneficial effect. Your appetite increases and you feel more peppy than you have felt in years. Mrs. J. A. North of 340 N. Kenilworth Ave., Hamilton, Ont., says: "Rheumatism settled in my hips, knees and limbs, knife-cutting pains would shoot through me. My ankles would swell and I lost weight. It was hard for me to get around. But I was relieved of this suffering before I finished the second bottle of Dr. Pierce's Discovery.

"Another time I had pains in my back and found it necessary to get up several times. Dr. Pierce's Anuric ended this trouble."

CAVAN

A pleasant social evening was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Granam, Eighth Line, Cavan, on Friday evening.

A number of their friends and neighbors gathered to express regret that they will soon take up residence in another locality, and appreciation of their kindness and neighborliness while living in Cavan. An address expressing these sentiments was read by Mr. Walter Thompson and Mr. Eldridge Nelson presented them with a purse.

Appropriate response was made by Mr. Graham, and the evening was happily spent in dancing. Refreshments were served by the ladies.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Finnie and daughter, Barbara, of South Monaghan, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Robertson, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Orin Robertson, motored from Hamilton and spent the week-end with his parents, and spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Robertson.

A number of the ladies of Cavan United Church met at the church on Monday and put down the new church carpet, which was donated by the Cavan Dramatic Club.

SOURED ON THE WORLD?—THAT'S LIVER

Wake up your Liver Bile —No Calomel necessary

Many people who feel sour, sluggish and generally wretched make the mistake of taking salts, oil, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage which only move the bowels and ignore the liver.

What you need is to wake up your liver bile. Start your liver pouring the daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels. Get your stomach and intestines working as they should, once more.

Carter's Little Liver Pills will soon fix you up. Purely vegetable. Safe. Sure. Quick. Ask for them by name. Refuse substitutes. 25c. at all druggists. 51

A jolly sleighing party of young people, members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, journeyed to the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Whitred, three miles from the village on Friday evening, for the purpose of practising for their play, "With the Help of Scotty." Before their departure for home a dainty lunch was served.

WANT EXTRA TIME

WINDSOR.—Walkerville is seeking special legislation permitting the town to enter into a direct deal with bond and debenture holders looking to extension of time of payments. The move follows failures to have the debts consolidated and the time extended.

About 75 percent of the debentures are held in Essex county, town officials stated.

BISHOP OWEN VISITS GROVE

Confirmation Service is Held in the Chapel at The Grove.

16 BOYS CONFIRMED

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 24.—The rite of Confirmation was administered on Wednesday evening in the chapel at "The Grove" by the Right Reverend Derwyn T. Owen, Lord Bishop of Toronto. The service was a beautiful one and was an inspiration to all who were privileged to be present. The rows of young faces, bright and eager, with the zest of life in its fulness, reverent and orderly in their demeanor, was not the least part in the inspiring services.

Bishop Owen spoke briefly, taking as his text part of the 17th verse of the 20th chapter of the Book of Numbers, "We will go by the King's highway, we will not turn to the right hand or to the left."

We hear a good deal now of the highways as the age of motor traffic have brought them into constant use. Many years ago we read of the highways as the means of going from one place to another, and then the age of steam displaced the highways to a large extent and people travelled by rail. Now the highway has come back. Our journey through life is like travelling on a highway. We speak of life's road and our part as Christians is to keep to the highway, turning neither right nor left. The speaker urged high ideals, the highway is the connecting link between places and as it passed through villages, it becomes the main street, the centre of the life and business activity of the community. We also meet the traffic of the highway, mingling with it in our journey, but not becoming contaminated. The King's highway in our journey through life with its business, associations and its objective, let us kepe the strainght course.

Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, M.A., D.D., presented to His Lordship a class of sixteen boys who received the laying on of hands, a custom of the church since its earliest days.

The singing of the hymns by the clear boys' voices was a treat to hear, being led by Mr. de C. Fletcher, organist and musical director.

GOV'T ASKED TO PROTECT MOOSE

Fred Marshall, Game Warden, Reports Moose in North of County.

ASSOCIATION MEETS.

Resolutions requesting the Provincial Government to declare a closed season for moose in Peterborough County and also to stock local streams with rainbow trout were adopted by the Executive Committee of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association last night.

Fred Marshall, game warden, reported that five or six moose had been seen in the northern part of the county. They had come down from the moose country to the north, and it was believed that with protection their number might increase within the Peterborough area.

The petition to have rainbow trout placed in some of the streams in the district was suggested for the reason that this species has not been restocked in local waters. It was also proposed that farmers who wish to obtain trout for brooks on their properties, and also partridge eggs for hatching, should notify the secretary of the Association, C. G Graham, at the Empress Hotel. This is all part of the general effort to increase the supply of game fish and birds in the Peterborough area.

Casting Demonstration.

Activities planned for the coming season include a membership drive and a demonstration of casting. The appeal for greater public support and more members will be made next month with an open meeting to which everybody will be invited. Pictures of fishing will be obtained from both railways, and there will be a reel or two of movies to stir up the old spirit of the outdoors and the field and stream days that are positively just around the corner.

Much Damage Done By Wolves In North

LINDSAY, Feb. 24 (Special to Examiner).—Wolves are making serious inroads on settlements in the northern part of Victoria County, according to reports. Edward Bell, a farmer who lives near Norland, had a number of sheep destroyed by a wolf pack. Another wolf hunt is being planned by farmers.

The six-month-old daughter of Nola Lovett, of Cannington, swallowed an open safety pin on Tuesday night. It lodged in the child's throat behind the breast plate, an X-ray revealed. She was taken to the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto.

The death took place at Manilla on Thursday of Robert Thomas Edwards, in his eighty-fifth year. The deceased was well-known throughout the district, and was a descendant of the first settlers in that district. He is survived by one sister aged ninety-five years.

NEW CANADIAN-MADE FORD LARGEST, MOST POWERFUL

112-Inch Wheelbase, 75 h.p. Machine to Appear Here To-morrow.

MANY INNOVATIONS.

The first of the new Ford V-8 cylinder, 112-inch wheelbase motor cars will be displayed here Saturday, Feb. 25, in the showrooms of Hood and Cumming Motors, Ltd., Ford dealers at King and George Streets, it was announced to-day The showrooms will be opened at 8 a.m.

The new V-8 is the roomiest and most powerful Ford ever built. It has new and distinctly modern lines, a most attractive front end ensemble, longer wheelbase, larger and roomier bodies, faster acceleration, increased power and speed and is exceptionally economical in operation. With its 75 horse power V-8 engine, the new Ford is capable of a sustained speed of 80 miles an hour.

The styling of the 14 body types expresses the new mode in motor car building. The modern note is found in the sloping Vee radiator grill, the skirted fenders, newly-designed headlamps, cowl lamps and bumper, the curve of the hoodside ventilators, the 20-degree slant of the windshield, the curved roof header, the reverse curve of the rear quarter and the backward sweep of the apron masking the gasoline tank.

The new all-steel bodies are materially wider, almost a foot longer and consequently much roomier. The attractive instrument panel is directly in front of the driver, with a large package compartment at the right side of the instrument board. Front seats are fully adjustable. Interior fittings are luxurious. Options in upholstery and a wide choice of body colors are available.

The improved V-8 engine is fitted with all-aluminum cylinder heads, one of the most noteworthy forward steps in motor design in many years. Because aluminum dissipates heat more rapidly the use of the aluminum cylinder heads permits higher compression pressure and results in increased speed, power and smoothness, faster acceleration and added fuel economy.

Features of the 112-inch wheelbase chassis include an extremely rigid double-channel double-drop X-type frame, torque tube drive, a straddle-mounted rear axle drive, transverse cantilever springs, internal expanding mechanical four wheel brakes, 17-inch welded steel spoke wheels and tires of 5.50 inches section.

In the new three-quarter floating rear axle, the driving pinion is mounted in a double taper roller thrust bearing at the front and a straight radial roller bearing at the rear. This maintains permanent alignment of the pinion with the ring gear under all driving conditions and results in extremely quiet axle operation.

The frame is cushioned by four double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers which are both automatically and thermostatically adjusted for every variation in weather or road surface conditions. The shock absorber links are insulated in rubber. The rear fuel tank has a capacity of 11 gallons.

PETERBORO' PUPILS CORRESPOND WITH OTHER PARTS OF EMPIRE

J. E. R. Munro Introduced Scheme Some Few Years Ago.

GROWING VERY FAST

Through the League of the Empire Association, pupils of King George and Queen Alexandra Schools are maintaining correspondence with other pupils in the far-flung outposts of the Empire.

J. E. R. Munro, principal of the Queen Alexandra School, introduced the scheme here some five years ago while on the staff of the King George School. He has more recently extended the system to his present school, and replies to letters that were sent out last year are now beginning to drift in. Already ten replies have been received to about eighty letters that were mailed almost a year ago by the pupils of the two upper classes.

"In my opinion it is a mighty fine idea for the youngsters," Mr. Munro believed, "as it provides them with a great deal of valuable information about other countries and other customs, with the added interest of the personal touch."

Schools desiring to participate in the inter-Empire correspondence scheme, as the King George and Queen Alexandra Schools are doing, pay a nominal fee for membership in the League of the Empire Association.

In commencing the correspondence letters are drafted, bearing the name and address of the pupil who is desirous of corresponding with someone overseas. On the top of the letter is written information regarding the age and sex, and the country of the pupil with whom the Canadian pupil wishes contact.

The letters are then sent to the branch of the League at Toronto, and are in turn forwarded to the League headquarters in London, England, and from there sent to various parts of the Empire. After a reply has been received, the interchange of letters is on a purely direct and personal basis.

Some interesting results have accrued in the past. Mr. Munro mentioned as an instance that one of his pupils at King George School was once corresponding with a child of his own age who lived in the Rand Gold Fields area, South Africa. Interest in the correspondence was so keen that before long all the members of the two families, including the parents, were engaged in writing to each other.

Besides providing the pupils with a better appreciation of conditions and modes of living in other countries, the scheme was also valuable as a means of promoting "Empire consciousness" in the minds of the children. It also gave students the additional hobby of stamp collecting, Mr. Munro said.

HOME EDITION

VOL. LXX., No. 47 — PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, CANADA, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1933 — PRICE THREE CENTS

7 LIVES LOST IN BRITISH SNOWSTORM

BOARD OF EDUCATION IS ASKING COUNCIL TO PROVIDE $49.57 LESS THAN IT COST TO OPERATE IN 1932

Started Year With a Surplus of $3,946 Statement Reveals.

WANT $229,680.

Cost to Operate School in the City Last Lear $229,729.57.

The announced $3,220 reduction in the Board of Education's estimates for this year is not really a reduction at all, The Examiner learned today.

The $229,680 that the Board of Education is asking from the City Council to finance the schools this year is but $49.57 less than the Board spent on financing the schools last year. This fact is apparent when it is stated that the Board has a surplus from last year's estimates amounting to $3,946.03.

The $3,946.03 surplus from last year is shown in the Board's financial statement as published in The Examiner yesterday. It appears in the statement for the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School under the heading, Revenue, and reads "Balance brought forward — $3,946.03".

Surplus of $3,170.43

But in the expenditure for Public Schools for last year the Board has an overdraft at the bank of $775.60. So the real surplus in the combined statement from last year is $3,170.43, which is the $3,946.03 surplus in the Collegiate account minus the $775.60 overdraft in the Public Schools' account.

So while the Board secured $232,-800 from the taxpayers last year, what the Board spent last year to tallied $229,729.57.

This year the Board is asking for $229,680, which is but $49.57 less than the Board spent last year. So while a comparison of the 1932 and 1933 estimates of the Board appears to show a reduction of $3,220, the true reduction from what the schools cost the taxpayers last year and what the Board figures they will require from the taxpayers this year is but $49.57.

STABBED BY PAL BOY BADLY HURT

Hamilton Youth Knifed During Tussle in School Yard.

ARREST LIKELY.

HAMILTON, Feb. 25.—Police were informed last night that Ronald Routledge, a boy of 13, who lives on Wellington Street South, Mount Hamilton, was stabbed seriously yesterday afternoon by another boy while playing on the grounds of the Armstrong School. J. R. Routledge, father of the boy, said the wound was on the left side near the seventh rib, and was pronounced to be a deep one by a physician who was summoned. The name of the boy alleged to have done the stabbing is known, and his arrest is likely.

Ronald Routledge said he and the other boy were playing on the school grounds and were wrestling harmlessly when the other boy threw Ronald to the ground and jumped upon him. A long knife is then alleged to have been drawn and plunged into the side of the Routledge boy. His assailant fled, but is said to live on the Mountain.

The Routledge boy was weak and ill when he reached home, and a doctor was called later last night.

CHAOYANG CITY FALLS TO JAPS; KAILU OCCUPIED

Little Resistance Offered—League Considers Arms Embargo on Japan.

PEIPING UNEASY.

Chinese Warned Opposition Will Mean Taking War Into China Proper.

CHINGCHOW, Manchuria, Feb. 25 (A.P.)—Chaoyang, second largest city in Jehol, was reported occupied without resistance by a Japanese army to-day and a third advance into the Chinese province, midway between two offensives already launched, was disclosed.

It was stated at the Japanese military base here that Chinese defending forces had fled from Chaoyang Thursday night after a three-day aerial bombardment. He claimed Chinese were still holding the city yesterday.

Arms Embargo?

A new League of Nations committee charged with carrying forward attempts to settle the Sino-Japanese dispute, discussed a concerted arms embargo against Japan and there were many expressions of approval.

The Japanese cabinet decided to consider the question of participation in the world disarmament, economic and labor conferences separately from its decision to secede from the League.

Following the lifting of censorship today on military reports, it was learned the Japanese claimed there was no opposition at Kailu but there was some fighting in the advance on Chaoyang.

It was disclosed General Suuki's army, veterans of the battle of Shanhaikwan last month, left Chinchow on the night of February 20 and after a vigorous thrust along the railroad, occupied Peipiao on February 21.

Surrenders and defections of Chinese volunteer defense armies, the Japanese command said, made estimates of the number of Chinese effectives in Jehol most difficult. The concensus of authorities now was that they totalled 125,000. The Japanese army totals 60,000. About 20,000 Chinese in Northeast Jehol were said to have already surrendered. This included General Tsui Hsing-Wu's garrison in Kailu.

Drive From New Point

The new advance into Jehol was reported launched from Changwu, half way between here and Tungliao, starting points of the big drives begun earlier this week. A portion of Lt. Gen. Masayemon Sakamoto's Sixth Division, Japanese advices said, was approaching Suitung, just inside the Jehol boundary. Ahead of them, Chinese forces were said to be seen fleeing westward.

Kailu, about 70 miles northwest of Suitung, was reported occupied yesterday by General Sakamoto's main command, Maj. Gen. Kennosuke Mogi's cavalry and the native Manchukuan army under General Chang Hai-Peng, after a 40-mile advance from Tungliao.

Warned Not To Fight.

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, Feb. 25 (C.P.).—General Nobuyoshi Muto, the Emperor's chief advisor to the Manchukuo Government and the Army Commander-in-Chief, warned the North China military regime to-day if it "dares to assume an aggressive attitude" toward the Japanese Army in Jehol the warfare may spread to North China proper.

The North China military regime maintains headquarters at Peiping, where there are many British residents and a military force. There are also about 700 American civilians and 544 United States marines.

The Southwestern Jehol border is only 45 miles from Peiping and Chinese, fearing invasion, already have removed historic treasurers from the old capital to southern cities.

HOT WEEK IN HOUSE.

Debate on Speech From Throne Has Held Legislature During Past Week.

TORONTO, Feb. 25.—(CP)—Ontario's legislators were mostly out-of-town for the week-end holiday today, mulling over events of the past week and preparing for the days to come.

Certainly the first full week of the present session has been an interesting one. Political observers believe, in fact, it was the "hottest" of any opening week in years.

The debate on the throne speech, opening with W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., house Liberal leader, and H. C. Nixon, Progressive leader, attacking the government for its expenditures and in the case of Mr. Nixon, declaring the premier should retire from the directorate of the Toronto Mortgage Company, had given rise to some heated arguments.

Thursday, when the debate was resumed, Mr. Nixon again opened the fireworks when he sought to have Mr. Henry apologize for having inferred Mr. Nixon was not

Norwegian Cabinet Decides To Resign

OSLO, Norway, February 25 (C.P.) — The Government headed by Premier Jans Hundseid resigned today.

The action followed the approval by the Storting (the National Legislature) of a resolution expressing regret because of the Government's non-co-operation with the Radicals. The vote on the resolution was 80 to 67.

Jans P. Hundseid, of the Peasants' Party, became Premier and Minister of Agriculture on March 10 1932. His Cabinet succeeded that of the late M. Kolstad, who resigned.

W. J. PENTLAND DIES IN CRASH

President of Dominion Stores Ltd. Believed to Have Fallen Asleep at Wheel.

STRUCK SAFETY ZONE.

TORONTO, Feb. 25 (C.P.).—William J. Pentland, 45, president of the Dominion Stores, Ltd., was instantly killed early to-day when his motor car crashed into a safety zone on St. Clair Avenue.

Mr. Pentland had almost reached his home on a trip from Montreal when the accident occurred.

Frederick Main, passing in his car at the time, rushed to the wrecked machine, only to find Mr. Pentland dead. His skull had been fractured when he was thrown forward. Mr. Pentland was alone at the time.

A nearby police car raced to the scene when the crash was heard by the officers. They believe Mr. Pentland was overcome by fatigue and strain and had fallen asleep momentarily at the wheel.

Identity was established by an envelope in Mr. Pentland's pocket. Police notified a friend, George S. Warring, who in turn communicated with Mrs. Pentland.

The body was removed to the morgue on orders of Coroner Dr. G. W. Clendennan.

Mr. Pentland's one real recreation was soccer, a game he played in Ireland. He was president of the Ulster United Football Club in Toronto, and owned Ulster stadium, where he installed a floodlight system.

Surviving are his widow, Edith Reynor Smith Pentland, daughter of Thomas Smith, Skipton, Yorks, England, whom he married May 30, 1912, and one son, William Thomas.

Thousands Jobless As Great Blizzard Ties Countryside

Eighty Children Stranded Overnight In South Wales' Drifts Reported Safe—Railway Lines, Highways Blocked, Communications Down.

IRELAND, WALES, YORKSHIRE WORST HIT, MANY ARE INJURED—HEAVY LOSS OF LAMBS.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Seven scattered deaths, a large number of persons injured, thousands of outdoor workers thrown out of jobs and widespread disruption of railroad schedules were among the tolls reckoned today in a great snowstorm which struck the British Isles Friday.

Communications lines were down in many places, schools were closed and great loss of lambs was reported in grazing areas.

Ireland, Wales and the county of Yorkshire were the worst sufferers. But scarcely any part of the British Isles escaped.

The steamer Lairdsburn, carrying the Scottish National football team from Glasgow to Ireland, arrived 12 hours late in Dublin. There had been no word from the vessel for hours.

Travellers from Dublin to London said the steamer crossing to Holyhead was the most terrifying part of their trip.

They described waves and snow driven against the ship like a blanket. Visibility was nil and soundings had to be taken six times during the voyage.

Anxiety for 80 children stranded in South Wales snowdrifts was relieved this morning, when it was learned they were all safe. Another party of 40, mostly young girls, were found safe at Trecynon after their motor coach bucked huge snowdrifts to reach that point. They spent Thursday night in a wayside police station.

CRAZED YOUTH SHOOTS FATHER

Kills One Sister With Second Bullet and Critically Wounds Another.

FAILED BAR EXAMS.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Feb. 25. (AP)—A young law student, his mind apparently affected by failure to pass four bar examinations and the reproofs of his father, shot and instantly killed two members of his family to-day and probably fatally wounded another, before killing himself.

His mother, tending the furnace at the time of the shooting, was the only member of the family to escape the bullets of her crazed son. The others, father and two sisters, were shot as they lay asleep in bed in their home.

The dead are:

John Lutz, 56, president of the John Lutz Realty Service Corporation.

Ruth Lutz, 16, his daughter.

William Lutz, 26, the son whom police said did the shooting.

Rose Lutz, 26, another daughter, was taken to Strong Memorial Hospital with a bullet in her head. She is not expected to live.

TORONTO BANK LOOT IS FOUND

Stocks Recovered in Nashua, N.H., and Lowell, Mass. Bank Deposit Boxes.

IN WOMAN'S NAME.

NASHUA, N.H., February 25 (C.P.). — Police to-day announced the recovery in the form of stocks of "a large part" of the proceeds of the $3,000 robbery of the Royal Bank of Canada in Toronto on February 3.

Two Nashua brothers, David T., 28, and George Girhouard, 30, were the alleged robbers of the bank.

The securities were taken from safety deposit boxes in a local bank and a bank in Lowell, Mass., where they had been placed, police said, in the name of a local woman.

Police declined to reveal the woman's name, the amount recovered, or the names of the banks.

They said, however, they had learned that after the robbery, in which David Girouard was shot and captured while George escaped allegedly with the entire loot, the latter went to Montreal where he transferred most of the money into securities in the woman's name. Later, they said they had learned, he sent the securities here.

There is a $1,000 reward for the capture of George Girouard.

The brothers' parents live here, as do their two sisters.

DISARMAMENT AT CROSSROADS; PACTS HAVING LITTLE EFFECT

Signs Over Rhine Alarm France—Heavy Arms Traffic, Central Europe.

BRITISH NAVY WEAK.

(By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Feb. 25 (C.P. Cable). —Disarmament stands at the crossroads.

Thirteen months ago, following years of preparatory work by a special committee, the World Disarmament Conference began its labors. Petitions by the ton, signatures by the million, echoed and re-echoed a world-wide demand for reduction in armaments. Nations vied in their haste to submit programs and policies.

Now, after weary months of debate and committee, definite results still linger and Continental Europe is passing through an uneasy, nervous phase unequalled since the days which preceded the Great War. Great Britain, in an effort to allay growing uneasiness, has proposed to the political commission of the conference that the nations shall sign this undertaking to extend the Kellogg Pact:

"The governments of . . . acting respectively through their undersigned representatives duly authorized to that effect, anxious to further the cause of disarmament by

The Weather

For about ten days we have been favored with especially fine weather, particularly for our mid-winter month. But it is not of this so much that I desire to attract the attention of the reader but to the astonishing uniformity of the temperature each day. Occasionally we have two days with the same temperature and rarely three days. But since the 13th of this month up to the present time, there has been such slight changes of the maximum temperature for each day that it is uncanny. By scrutinizing these figures you will see what I mean:

February	13	34 degrees
"	14	35 "
"	15	35 "
"	16	36 "
"	17	34 "
"	18	36 "
"	19	35 "
"	20	38 "
"	21	35 "
"	22	37 "
"	23	44 "
"	24	40 "

There is a uniformity in the above temperature figures that I have never seen equalled. February last year was also a fine month, with but one day below zero.—W.P.

PETER VERIGIN IS TECHNICALLY GIVEN FREEDOM

Judge Rules Commutation Unconditional—Deportation Not According to Law.

TROUBLES NOT OVER.

Virtually "Man With Nowhere to Go," Can Not Get Out of Canada.

HALIFAX, Feb. 25.—(CP)—Spiritual and temporal leader of 16,000 Doukhobors, Peter Verigin was technically a free man today, but his troubles were not over. Mr. Justice Humphrey Mellish brought down a decision in Supreme Court chambers which ruled Verigin's commutation unconditional and his detention for deportation to Russia not according to law. The leader was free under the liberty of the Subject Act. "But he was virtually "a man with nowhere to go," because he could not get out of Canada.

Re-arrested

A few minutes later he was rearrested on a warrant served at the instance of J. J. Power, K.C., who had acted, until to-day, as one of the counsel in his case. Legal fees of $700 were paid into court to obtain the chieftain's release from this new custody, but were not turned over to the barrister. Peter G. Makaroff, Veregin's personal counsel, declared Mr. Power had not been engaged by either himself or his leader, but by Lionel Ryan, their legal agent here, to assist in the case. They said they did not propose to pay "fabulous bills."

A third development was the fact immigration officials are still in possession of Veregin's Russian passport, without which he cannot leave Canada, despite his possession of passports to Mexico, Costa Rica, and the Argentine Republic. Though he believed his leader might stay in Halifax until the passport uncertainty was settled.

Mr. Justice Mellish's decision brought a dramatic end to the main phase of the month-long legal battle to prevent Peter Verigin's deportation to Russia.

TWO SHOT DOWN IN LIQUOR STORE

Kenora Men Wounded Twice as Caretaker Runs Amok.

ASSAILANT SURRENDERS.

KENORA, Ont., Feb. 25 (C.P.) — James W. Hogg, 37, accountant for the Ontario Liquor Commission's Kenora store, and Colin Affleck, 38, were wounded yesterday when Arthur W. Robinson, a caretaker, ran amok, the police say.

Affleck's condition is serious. He was shot twice in the back. Hogg was wounded twice, once in the left side and once in the wrist, but his condition is not considered serious.

Robinson had returned to the store after being on duty all night. He rushed up to the two men, shouting, "You put something in my coffee," and opened fire with a .38-calibre revolver, according to the police.

Carrying the smoking gun in his hand, Robinson walked out of the building. On the way to the police station to give himself up he met a constable, and surrendered.

RUSSIAN BARTER QUESTION REVIEWED AT CAMPBELLFORD

"Russia is Best Market for Canada Products," Says Abram Rappaport.

OUTLINES COMMODITIES.

CAMPBELLFORD, February 25 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—An outline of the religious situation in Russia, the present Russian-Canadian barter question, and a concrete theory and proposal for the handling of the latter, in which he believed, formed the subjects of an address given last night in the Hollywood Theatre, Campbellford, by Abram Rappaport, manager and business man of the town. Speaking with a wealth of knowledge on the affairs of that much-discussed and often-misunderstood country the speaker, who is himself Russian by birth, brought to a very attentive audience a vivid picture of his own people and the difficulties they are facing to-day.

"In Canada," he said, "there were so many different ideas about Russia. In years gone by, when the word Bolshevism was much before the public eye and when the Bolshevic government took possession of the country, it was thought terrible. No one seemed to know just what it meant," the speaker said, "while in reality it just signified the biggest majority in the country. People all the world over were divided over the matter, and they are to-day. They say that they would not deal with Russia because she is Communistic, and others because she got away from religion. I believe a country away from religion is not worth living in." Mr. Rappoport declared. "Every civilization should believe in something higher, bigger, and stronger than the people in the country. "But," he pointed out, "when a country of one hundred and sixty million people discard religion there must be some reason.

Faded in 1905.

"Religion," the speaker said, "was fading away in Russia in 1905. At the forming of the first parliament in that year, the life of the people under the Czar was bad, to say the least. When that first parliament was formed, the members were appointed by the government and not by the people. But the people were happy for they thought "here was salvation in Russia."

"Then came a day when the people formed in front of the royal palace to celebrate a parliamentary holiday, and were shot down and killed in cold blood. That was the time religion faded away in Russia," Mr. Rappaport declared. "Then came Rasputin, and not only made war on the people, but also on the clergy who did not fall in line with his policies, many of these being

CARRYING PAYROLL.

MONTREAL, Feb. 24.—(CP)— A masked bandit entered the offices of Cohen manufacturing company on Victoria Square today, struck down the cashier, Miss J. Laliberte, and escaped with a satchel containing $700 in cash.

Miss Laliberte told police she had just returned from the bank with the money. As she entered passage leading to her office she was confronted with the masked man. He struck her with a piece of lead pipe and she dropped to the floor, momentarily stunned. Her assailant seized the bag containing the money to meet the firm's payroll, and vanished. The hold-up squad of the Montreal police department are investigating the case.

Northern Association Finals Start March 3

NORTH BAY, Ont., Feb. 24 (CP) —Matchmaker W. A. Thompson of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association has his calendar arranged to bring on the association finals starting March 3 and finishing on or about March 8.

BANKS ARE SHUT OVER MARYLAND TO PREVENT RUN

Governor, Following Michigan's Example, Orders Three Holidays.

HEAVY WITHDRAWALS.

Bill to Meet National Situation Being Rushed in U. S. House.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 25.—Governor Albert C. Ritchie late last night declared to-day a legal holiday for all banking and financial institutions of Maryland, and also made Monday and Tuesday legal holidays, in an effort for banks here to take measures against heavy withdrawals this week.

Howard Bruce, Chairman of the Board of the Baltimore Trust Company, said withdrawals to the amount of $6,000,000 were made at his institution yesterday, and the week's total withdrawals amounted to $13,000,000.

Governor Ritchie said in a formal statement:

"I attended the meeting of bankers last evening, with the idea of doing whatever is best for the depositors. The interest of those who have placed their money in the banks must be preserved above everything else.

"I believe there is no justification for the withdrawals which have recently been taking place, but, to protect the property and savings of the people of the city and State, these large withdrawals should stop.

Propose Emergency Powers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—Emergency powers over national banks for emergency times will be voted upon in the United States House of Representatives to-day. All leaders agreed last night they expected no considerable opposition to the measure giving this new authority to the Comptroller of the Currency.

The measure to be presented is sponsored by Senator Couzens, Michigan Republican, and a Canadian by birth. It is being rushed to passage to meet the situation that exists in his state. It has the unanimous endorsement of two House committees—banking and currency and rules—and unanimously has passed the Senate in a slightly different form.

Under the law the comptroller would have power to order National Banks closed. He would not, however, have the right to order them to do limited business. In Michigan, for instance, banks that have reopened on a restricted business basis are doing so voluntarily and without diretcion from the Federal Government.

Winter Gardens Has Special Orchestra

As a special attraction the management of the Winter Gardens here, are featuring to-night "Coffee Dan's Night Club" orchestra with Brian Farnon and his musicians.

Opening their engagement here last night, the band of talented musicians whose ages range from fifteen to twenty years drew a large crowd—the largest Thursday night crowd since the Winter Gardens have been open.

The youngest member of the orchestra, Bob Farnon is the 15-year-old brother of the leader. He can play the drums, vipraphone, trumpet, trombone or piano with equal ease and finish.

Brian Farnon, 20-year-old leader claims that his band is the only one in Canada featuring Lombardo's style of dance music. A personal friend of Lombardo, Farnon is also his enthusiastic disciple.

Since concluding a successful radio engagement, Brian Farnon and his musicians have filled engagements at Hamilton, London, Guelph, Kitchener, Oshawa and other centres where they have proved to be possessed of extreme drawing power.

STAMP CORNER

By M. A. BESSEY

Three more very recent issues of British Colonies, are illustrated this week, all of which are most attractive in design and color, and will prove worthy additions to any collections of British colonial postage stamps.

SUDAN presents us with a most beautiful air mail stamp. A reproduction of the statue of General Gordon is shown in the foreground, with palm trees at either side, setting it off nicely, overhead we see a mail aeroplane winging its way. This central part of the stamp is in a delicate green, well shaded to bring out the smaller details. The outside border of the stamp is a rather light brown, providing a fine contrast to the green of the centre.

There is also a two and a half piastre, blue and bright mauve, same design as shown, which was issued at the same time.

SWAZIELAND. For many years this has been an almost forgotten colony as far as stamp collectors were concerned. Swazieland originally was an independent state, located on the south-eastern border of Transvaal. The state was founded by native Barabuza tribes headed by a chief named Swazi, from whom its name was derived. In 1889 the natives requested annexation to Transvaal and granted the latter postal concessions within their territory. Swazieland thus lost its identity as far as new issues were concerned, as it eventually became a part of the Union of South Africa.

During the years 1889 to 1892 a number of the different denominations of stamps of Transvaal, which were then current, were overprinted, in black or red with the name of the territory. Other than these, this new issue of Swazieland comprises the only issue of stamps of that colony. It is, in fact, the first definite issue made by Swazieland.

These new stamps are very finely engraved, and the colors are well shaded, providing a very attractive set of stamps. Some points of interest may be found on these new stamps. A native shield, as made and used by the warriors is shown on each side of the central portrait of King George the Fifth, below the portrait may be seen a distant and mountainous view of the country, while right below the inscription, "Postage and Revenue" are shown two native huts, one under each word. A new innovation in backgrounds for figures of values, is found on these stamps, which consists of a small map of the territory, complete with the principal rivers included. Don't overlook this new set from a new "old" colony. It will be wise to secure a set of these stamps while they are new and in current use. Not many dealers will have them in stock, as yet, but they should have them very soon.

SOUTHERN RHODESIA depicts a fine view of the African rival of our own famous Niagara Falls. In this case Victoria Falls. The colors of the stamp, illustrated above, are the same as the new air mail stamps of Sudan, and being finely engraved, the finished product presents a most beautiful and attractive appearance. A three penny dark blue completes this short set of two stamps, issued last year.

None of the stamps illustrated in to-day's article are expensive, with the exception, of course, of the higher values in the set of Swazieland. Even the boy or girl, beginner, will be well able to afford them, including a short set of two or three values of Swazieland, and it is such stamps as these, that I can recommend to the beginner, as the foundation for a really good stamp collection in the years to come. There are many more attractive and well-worth-while stamps of the various British Colonies, and even if you are unable to buy as many of these for a quarter, as you can of many other foreign countries, I am sure you will find you have, in most cases, invested your pennies more wisely.

Having used up my allotted space, I will be unable to answer any questions this week, but watch for next week's article, either for your answer, or someone elses which may contain information of value to you.

The author will be pleased to answer all questions regarding stamps or stamp collecting. If your question is of general interest it will be answered in this column. If a written reply is required please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply.

telling the truth with regard to the rate of interest received from bonds of the mortgage company. Mr. Henry flatly refused, and later attacked Mr. Nixon vigorously in turn.

Investigation Cost $15,102

As is customary, Friday was a quiet day. Replies were given to questions on the order paper, indicating, among other things, the province had already paid $15,102 for the Hydro investigation of last year, with some accounts not yet rendered.

Argue Martin, M.L.A., West Hamilton, piloted his bill through first reading. The measure provides fines for publications which print discriminating material against any religious creed or denomination, or race.

The week was also featured by two amendments to the address in reply to the speech from the throne. Mr. Sinclair's amendment deplored reductions in grants to Ontario schools without the repeal of regulations requiring expensive standards of equipment so the taxpayers might absorb such reductions through other economies in education."

Mr. Nixon's amendment, however, was regarded as a motion of straight non-confidence in the government. "This house begs to advise your honor the present government does not enjoy the confidence of the majority of the people of Ontario and is maladministrating the public affairs under the mandate given Mr. Ferguson in 1929. We advise therefore only routine business of the house be carried out with all possible dispatch and the legislature should then forthwith be dissolved."

Just how far the Liberal opposition will support Mr. Nixon's amendment is a matter for considerable discussion at present. The long-standing breach between Mr. Nixon and W. E. N. Sinclair, K. C. shows no signs of narrowing. Mr. Nixon is co-operating strongly with Mitchell Hepburn, M. P., provincial Liberal leader.

RELIEF TO COST $25,000,000 IN 1933 HOUSETOLD

Expenditure Will Be $16,500,000 Less Than Previous Year.

SEES BETTER TIMES.

Liberals Charge Government With Lack of Plan or Policy.

OTTAWA, Feb. 25 (C.P.).—Unemployment relief will cost the Dominion of Canada $16,500,000 less this year than last year. The House of Commons had this assurance today from Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, together with a confident prediction of better times on the horizon.

In asking the House to extend for another year the unemployment and farm relief act which confers extraordinary powers on the Government for dealing with relief, Mr. Gordon last night gave a comprehensive review of the whole unemployment situation.

People thrown out of work by the depression were gradually finding their way into other avocations which offered a living, said Mr. Gordon. He hoped it would not be long before direct relief would not longer be needed, although in January there were 1,357,562 people in Canada receiving relief.

Lack of Plan.

From the Opposition side the Government was charged with lack of a definite plan or policy in dealing with unemployment. Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, renewed his plea for a national non-partisan commission to administer relief and promised a system of unemployment insurance if the Liberals returned to power.

The Government was just frittering as it had in the past, said J. S. Woodsworth (Winnipeg Laborite). It was meeting each situation as it arose instead of attempting to devise a scheme with some degree of permanency.

Cost of unemployment relief to the Dominion Government this year was estimated by Mr. Gordon at $35,000,000 compared with $41,501,792 last year. The decrease had been achieved notwithstanding there were more people on relief and was due to the change of relief works to direct relief and greater efficiency in administration. The municipalities and provinces, he said, were more fully alive to the need of economy now than formerly, and with experience the relief agencies were functioning better.

"I have a confident belief" said Mr. Gordon, presenting his relief budget, "that with a gradual turn toward other avocations than those which have afforded a certain

A Dizzy Ride

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Feb. 25.—(A.P.)—Firemen vouch for this one. Duffy, station cat, rode four miles to and from a fire while caught inside a large disc wheel of a truck. Rescued, she was soon as frisky as ever.

The firemen theorize the cat was caught between large bolts in the wheel, thus being held in one position while the wheel revolved and not subject to a tossing about which would have killed her.

HAROLD RITCHIE IS LAID TO REST

Simple, Private Funeral Service is Conducted at Toronto Residence.

BUILT HUGE BUSINESS.

TORONTO, Feb. 25 (C.P.)—Funeral services for the late Harold F. Ritchie, President of the extensive firm bearing his name, were held at his home yesterday.

The service was as private as possible, and the address of tribute by Rev. W. E. Wilson of King Street United Church was brief, dealing mainly with the kindness and humility of Mr. Ritchie.

"As a son of Canada, Harold F. Ritchie is certainly one of whom Canadians may be proud," said Mr. Wilson. He stressed the genius for organizing which had built up so huge a business enterprise, and Mr. Ritchie's great heritage.

"Death does not destroy personalities," said Mr. Wilson, and added it seemed strange death should take such a great man when the world needed great men so badly.

Mount Julian Man Bags Timber Wolf

MOUNT JULIAN, Feb. 25. (Examiner Correspondence). — On Thursday, while getting a special piece of timber in the woods, about half a mile from his home at Louks Lake, Mr. Edward Wilson shot a large timber wolf.

Mr. Wilson had completed his work and was quietly resting when he noticed the animal coming sniffing along towards him. Luckily his rifle was by his side and one shot brought thew olfd own.

After firing the shot Mr. Wilson caught sight of another wolf but failed to get it.

ONTARIO METROPOLITAN REV. J. ROPER ENTHRONED

OTTAWA, Feb. 25 (C.P.)—Solemnly impressive, the enthronement of the Most Rev. J. C. Roper, Anglican Archbishop of Ottawa and Metropolitan of the Ecclesiastical Province of Ontario, took place in Christ Church Cathedral here yesterday. The ceremony was performed by the Rt. Rev. Derwyn T. Owen, Bishop of Toronto, assisted by the Rt. Rev. Charles Seager, Bishop of Huron; the Rt. Rev. John Lyons, Bishop of Ontario, and the Rt. Rev. Wilmot Broughall, Bishop of Niagara.

Present also was the Most Rev. I. O. Stringer, Archbishop of Rupert's Land. The cathedral was filled and the service which saw the enthronement of Archbishop Roper, witnessed also the installation of the Very Rev. E. F. Salmon, D.D., as Dean of Christ Church.

CERMAK HOLDING OWN

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 25 (A.P.) — Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago was "no worse this morning than he was at any time yesterday," Dr. E. S. Nichol said after visiting the Mayor's sick room at 6.30 a.m. today. Except for two comfortable naps during the night, the patient was restless, he said.

Little Stories of Big Results

The Board of Directors of the Mutual Life of Canada in 1897, many of whom were on the Board when the first annual meeting was held on February 5th, 1871.

AT the first Annual Meeting of the Company in 1871 the President made the following remarks:

"We were led to entertain the project of establishing a Life Assurance Company, based upon purely mutual principles, believing it highly desirable that the benefits of Life Assurance should be extended as widely as possible and at the cheapest rates compatible with safety to the assured."

With the passing of time the prophecies made in 1871 regarding the Mutual Life of Canada have come true. How well the Company has succeeded in fulfilling the object of the founders and the extent to which participation in the entire surplus earnings of the company has reduced the net cost of protection is revealed by our policy results of which these examples are typical.

Policy No. 175

In 1872 this policyholder bought an Ordinary Life Policy for $1,000.00 on which he was to pay a premium of $18.90 every year.

He arranged, however, to leave his dividends with us to apply against these premiums.

What happened as a result of his investment?

He has enjoyed sixty years of protection, for which he paid an average of $7.03 per year. His policy is now worth $848.90 in actual cash, which is $427.22 MORE THAN HE PAID IN PREMIUMS.

Policy No. 3310

This policyholder, in 1875, bought an Ordinary Life Policy for $1,000.00, on which he paid a premium of $18.40 yearly, leaving his dividends to accrue.

What happened as a result of his investment?

In 18 years his dividends mounted up to the point where they were sufficient to prepay all future premiums. He had paid in only $331.20. He has had full protection for 57 years. He has received $439.86 in cash dividends since his policy became paid up, and in addition his policy today has a cash value of $869.65. While it remains in force he will receive a cheque each year for his share of the surplus earnings of the Company.

If you need insurance, for protection or investment, consider the outstanding results of Mutual Life of Canada policies and share in the success of the Company by becoming a policyholder. Use the coupon, today.

How to Find the Answer

One night "Bill" Williams, the popular broadcaster, while making his announcement over the radio station X.Y.Z., thought he would have a little fun with his radio listeners during the Ellis Hosiery Hour. Stopping his concert in the midst of an interesting program, he broadcasted a message to his listeners in Code.

One of Bill's friends solved this Code message, and this is how he did it.

The message contains 11 words, each little group of letters representing a word. Start by writing the alphabet from A. to Z, and number each letter beginning at Z first as number 1, Y2, X3, W4, and so on. Then change the letters of the code message into numbers by finding which number each letter represents. Then you must write another alphabet numbering it the right way, A numbering 1, B2, C3, D4, and so on. Change the numbers back into letters by finding the letter corresponding with that number. In order to help the first word is "It". Solve the Code message if you can and send your answer in At Once, and compete for the $5,000.00 in Cash and Immediate Prizes to be awarded At Once.

You Can be a Prize Winner

Send your answer to the Puzzle pictured above AT ONCE. If you send the correct answer Promptly you will positively receive a truly fascinating 40 piece Jig Saw Puzzle Absolutely FREE.

Everyone loves to do Jig Saw Puzzles—It certainly is the rage right now! Match your wits against the elusive pieces that seem as if they just won't fit—yet they do fit, and piece by piece you build up the complete design.

This is a genuine straightforward advertising offer, the prizes are all part of our advertising appropriation, and will be awarded promptly and fairly. Besides the 25 Final Grand Cash Prizes, thousands of our qualified contestants will receive valuable Immediate Prizes. This company has established a sound reputation of living up to its obligations always.

Why the Contest is Conducted

We are conducting this contest because we want our name and fame spread to the four corners of Canada in the quickest possible time. The money spent for prizes and given away will be a wonderful living asset for us because Prize Winners will be lasting friends of ours, and every district that receives a Prize will know how the Prize was won and from whom it came. We believe it will pay us tremendously to advertise in this way, and the Contestants are getting the benefit of it. It will be money well spent, and we will benefit by having winners all over Canada.

Germany Cannot Much Longer Halt Between Two Opinions: Whether to Build Her Future on a Constitutional Form of Government, or on a Monarchical

By H. W. L. MaHOOD

MARCH, the 4th, will be a significant date in the United States. In Germany, March 5th will be epochal for the Reichstag and the Prussian Diet, and March 12th for all Prussian municipalities. For on these days the fate of the Hitler-Hugenberg coalition will be decided. Either the government will be conducted in conformity with the Constitution, or the dictatorship of the Nationalist party minority. That Hitler has a far-reaching purpose in bringing on the Reichstag elections at an early date is making Europe sit up and take notice. Hitler has undertaken to quiet the awakened suspicions. He has sought to gloss over the event by saying that the elections are for "tactical' reasons, and that the outcome of the elections will in no way determine the course of the government, even though the people fail to give a majority to the coalition.

In the German Republic the Reichstag is the legislative body. For more than two years the Reichstag has failed to have a hand in the legislation enacted. During these two years Germany has been governed by the presidential edicts of either Bruning or Von Papen or Schleicher. This strange procedure is in accord with the Weimar Constitution. It contains an article that confers dictatorial power of government on the President in situations of extreme emergency. Thus it follows that since the close of the Great War, in form, Germany has been a Republic, but in reality has been as autocratic as when the Hohenzollerins ruled. Germany has reached the Rubicon. She cannot continue in spirit half monarchist and half democratic. The climax has come. Decision cannot be delayed. The Nationalist party is in action. It is growing in strength. Europe looks on with alarm. What is the outlook?

The Nationalist People's party and the National Socialist party now threaten to destroy even the form of a government of the people, by the people and for the people. The Reichstag Cabinet is in the hands of these two parties. In basic principles and in outlook they are not far apart. In methods of procedure and in social and economic ideals they are widely distinct.

A glimpse at these two forces making for the destiny of Germany will help us to see things as they are. Germany is in a fluid state. That is in her favor. Germany is awake. The German mind is philosophic. Autocracy is in the crucible. The Nationalist People's party is the expression of Junker aristocracy. The only place aristocracies flourish and thrive is in the sunshine of absolute monarchies. Around the Hohenzollerins, a rich and influential Junker aristocracy flourished like the green bay tree. When the German monarchy fell these aristocrats became just common people. And the common people treated them as just common like unto themselves. But the spirit of aristocracy dies hard. To become common is not palatable to those who consider themselves above-common. This uppercrust of German society has its mind set upon the return of monarchy. This depression-time seems to favor their active propaganda. A move for the return of William Hohenzollerin is afoot by these Junkers. Alfred Hugenberg has accepted the leadership of this revived reactionary force. Hugenberg owns a string of capably edited newspapers.

The purpose of every one of these papers is plainly evident. Hugenberg in a quiet, wise, shrewd manner is getting into the minds of many the idea of a restored monarchy. His editorials are not flamboyant, nor are they hot-headed. They are calm, and reasoned, and weighty. The newspaper is in Germany a mighty weapon when edited by such a man as Hugenberg. This same man owns the Ufa Film Production Company. Both the pen and the voice of this leader are invested daily in the cause of a restored and renewed monarchy. Hugenberg is not an office-seeker. He seeks to serve. One cannot but admire him, even though his abilities are invested in a lost cause.

Veterans of the Great War known as the Steel Helmets have joined the followers of the Nationalist People's party. They still believe in William Hohenzollerin. They are experienced soldiers. Upon many a bloody battlefield they proved themselves dauntless. They are eager to have a part in the restoration of the glory of their Fatherland. At their head is a famous general, Franz Seldte. The German army is biding its time. Seldte is a millionaire. During recent years his investments have not been for the sake of business. Much of his wealth is spent to restore Germany to her former place among the nations. He is a thorough going German patriot.

Another factor in forecasting the future of Germany must be reckoned. The Nationalist Socialist party has strength in numbers and in leadership. The members of this party openly advocate and dream of a restored German monarchy. They re staking their faith on the regeneration of their country through a youth trained to military service, obedient to the state, and an army and navy that will restore to the Fatherland the territories and the colonies it once possessed.

Both parties are one in this determination. They are one also in finding a way to end unemployment by a system of universal labor service. This system calls for the enrollment of the nation's youth in a disciplined working army, for a stated period, for the performance of public construction and reconstruction work. The work soldier is to receive maintenance, housing, clothing and pocket money of from 30 to 50 pfnnings a day. In Canadian money the pocket money would amount to from 7 to 12 cents a day. In a brief time every unemployed man will have a job and keep, and a small amount of spending money. Germany is settling down to work and a program of recovery. Monarchist sentiment is strong. But obstacles mountain high are in the way. Lincoln once said, "America cannot continue half slave and half free." Nor can Germany come to herself half monarchist and half republic. This internal strife must down.

Farmer George

Private Lives by The Private Secretary

FARMER David Lloyd George calls for a drink.

One of his staff enters carrying a glass of buttermilk.

L. G. swears by buttermilk. That may be why, at seventy, his blue eyes twinkle as they twinkled forty years ago, then he was thirty.

The buttermilk comes from his own farm—like all the milk, butter, eggs, vegetables and fruit used in the household.

The bread is baked on the premises, too. Dame Margaret learned how to do that as a farmer's daughter.

You have to wake early to beat the "Welsh Wizard."

He wakes shortly after six. Soon after seven he is out and about. If the weather is fine, he takes the dogs round the garden before breakfast.

He loves dogs. He can never have too many about him, no matter how mongrelly. But chows are his favorites. There is usually one on the hearth rug when he sits before the fire.

And on the arm of "Daddy's" easy chair you often find Miss Megan. They are great pals.

Between the garden stroll and breakfast, he goes through his letters. And sometimes starts writing. A stickler for getting to grips period, and Belleville uncorked

A good old British breakfast. Bacon, eggs, toast, marmalade. Tea or coffee.

No "food fads" at all. Wholesome fare, and moderation in all things—that is his motto.

All the family, who may be spread later by political duties, make a ritual of gathering for the morning meal.

After breakfast, a stroll round the garden or farm.

Lunch—a little meat and a sweet.

After lunch, forty winks in a nice bouncy chair if it is possible.

Afternoon tea, sometimes, but not as a rule.

Dinner—another light meal. A few varied courses—not too much of anything.

The evening by the freside with Dame Margaret—unless he has to go to the House of Commons.

No supper.

In bed by eleven unless there is some special reason.

He prefers dinner at home. Dining out does not appeal to him.

Sunday morning. If at Criccieth, off to the little chapel where David and Dame Margaret first met as school children.

They sang hymns as sweethearts side by side in that same chapel. They married there. The children were christened there.

Now they stand there side by side as grandparents—singing the same hymns as in those days of over fifty years ago.

Likes Reading.

L. G. has read practically everything ever written in Welsh that is worth reading.

He likes books about gypsies. And Wild West thrillers. That is in off-duty time.

A bit of a film fan. But he does not go to movie houses.

He has had a movie at the Churt farm. Performances on Friday or Saturday evening. Staff and neighbors invited in. L. G. stands at the door of the Kinema room like the commissionaire.

"This way in, please."

All the best films are rented through the ordinary commercial channels. But it is a silent show—not talkies.

The Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George .... farmer George ....

Charlie Chaplin is his favorite star.

L. G. likes the opera, screaming farces and revues. Yet does not very often go.

A big smoker. Photos taken in public usually show him with a cigar. At home he prefers a pipe. He loves it as much as Mr. Baldwin does. When it has to be cigars, he likes them long and very strong.

Very long and very strong.

Lots of music in the house. Megan plays the grand piano. L. G. conducts the wireless and the gramophone. There is a fine wireless set in the library.

He tunes in nearly every night when there is good classical music on the air. Not jazz. He dislikes it.

He is specially keen on foreign concerts. And, of course, anything Welsh.

He used to play a good deal of golf. But not now, since his illness.

L. G. spends as much time out of doors as he can.

Many of his speeches are thought out while walking round the farm at Churt.

A wonderful place, this farm. He is prouder of it than almost anything in his life.

Other people have talked about "Back to the Land." He has gone there.

Two hundred acres. Practically derelict when he went there. Employing two people. It now produces some of the best vegetables, flowers and fruit in the country. And employs twenty men.

Shopkeepers for miles around compete to buy the produce of the L. G. farm. They know their customers will not have to complain.

And those farm clothes of his!

An old tweed coat that looks as if it was second-hand when Queen Victoria came to the throne. A "mack" that reaches to his ankles. A cape that would put all Chelsea's artists in the shade.

And hats. He has Winston Churchill beaten to a frazzle. Some of those slouch tweed hats that Farmer George wears might well have been stolen from the local scarecrow!

Still, he's proud to be a REAL farmer. So he has every excuse for dressing the part.

"Bron-y-de," the Churt house, is a lovely retreat from the cares of politics. Hidden away amid the heather and pines—with the heather invading the garden—it has leggias on three sides.

Dame Margaret, who loves sitting in the sun, is able by moving round from one loggia to the other to catch it at any time of day.

The house, red brick, fits in with its surroundings as though it had grown there.

All about the place there are lots of comfy sofas and easy chairs. When L. G. "takes it easy," he does the job properly—as he does most things.

He likes to keep home as HOME.

So he has an office at Westminister overlooking the Thames.

That's where you find the Right Honorable David Lloyd George.

I've told you where to find Farmer George.

The Bible Should Be Rewritten, Chinese Declare

By JOHN GOETTE,
Central Press Canadian Staff Correspondent.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 25—If the higher classes of China are to become interested in Christianity it will be necessary to revise existing translations of the holy scriptures. In making this assertion before the Christian Literary society, General Chang Chih-chiang quoted a Chinese proverb that what is not well written is not worth reading. Literary style is as essential as basic truth, he declared.

The general formerly served under Feng Yu-hsiang and was converted to Christianity along with him when the religious wave struck the Chinese army several years ago. He described his conversion which has also been told in a book published by the society. He told how the publications of the society aided and guided him to the Christian faith and therefore he felt himself in position to give advice on the matter of propagating the faith in China.

the interest of the youth of China

He urged the society to capture in a vivid appeal through the medium of illustrations which he thought far more efficient than the written or spoken word.

At the same meeting the Rev. C. W. Allen announced that the Christian Literary Society had 263 foreign and 158 Chinese members. In the past year 53 new books, two of which cover over 600 pages, had been published, in addition to 99 reprints, making 162 publications for the year. This fell behind the previous period, but the destruction of many printing presses during the Sino-Japanese fighting resulted in loss of set type and delayed the work.

Other speakers explained how the society was assisting the mass education movement in catering to the tremendous reading public which was slowly growing up.

Turbine installations in Canada for the development of water power now aggregate 7,045,260 horse power.

Canada's total hydraulic installation averages 670 horse power per thousand of population.

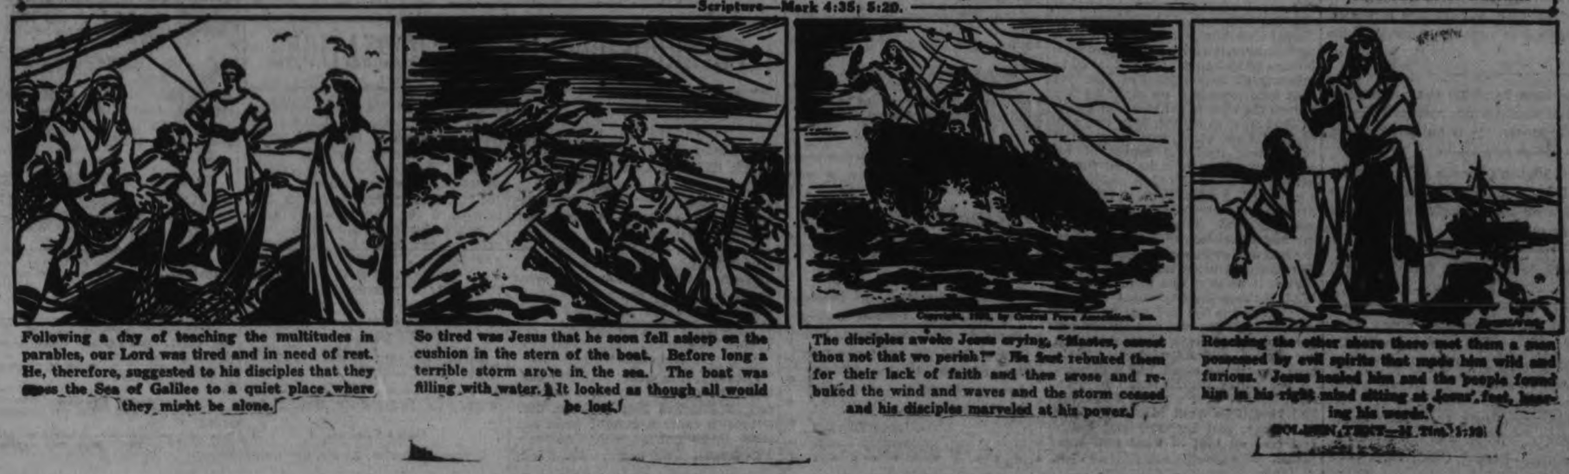
Jesus Shows His Power

Scripture—Mark 4:35; 5:20.

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell and Alfred J. Buescher



Following a day of teaching the multitudes in parables, our Lord was tired and in need of rest. He, therefore, suggested to his disciples that they cross the Sea of Galilee to a quiet place where they might be alone.

So tired was Jesus that he soon fell asleep on the cushion in the stern of the boat. Before long a terrible storm arose in the sea. The boat was filling with water. It looked as though all would be lost.

The disciples awoke Jesus crying, "Master, carest thou not that we perish?" He first rebuked them for their lack of faith and then arose and rebuked the wind and waves and the storm ceased and his disciples marveled at his power.

Reaching the other shore there met them a man possessed by evil spirits that made him wild and furious. Jesus healed him and the people found him in his right mind sitting at Jesus' feet, hearing his words.

THE REAL POINT

Premier Henry in the Legislature the other day made an impassioned reply to Hon. H. C. Nixon in answer to the latter's suggestion that the Premier should resign from the Toronto Mortgage Company.

Mr. Henry choose to regard the Nixon speech as an attack upon his integrity and his honor, and grew quite hot in his answer to the Progressive leader.

The Premier, it seems to us, has quite failed to appreciate the point at issue.

No one who knows him accuses him of dishonesty, no one who has followed his career would dream for a moment of thinking that he would make an improper use of his position.

That, however, does not prevent the feeling that a man who undertakes the responsible position of Premier of Ontario should be absolutely free from the entanglements of private business and should devote himself entirely and exclusively to the public service.

Nothing is gained by blustering about attacks on Mr. Henry's honor; it is not at stake, but what is on trial is the Premier's judgment; it should not be difficult for him to see that his plain duty is to resign all his connections with private enterprise.

AN IMPORTANT INDUSTRY.

Figures just issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in regard to the printing and publishing industry in Canada throw a sharp light upon the extent and importance of this business.

The report deals with newspapers and periodicals which print their own publications, and shows that there were 764 such establishments in 1931, as compared with 776 in 1930, divided by provinces as follows: Ontario, 260; Saskatchewan, 131; Alberta, 81; Manitoba, 72; Quebec, 66; British Columbia and the Yukon, 67; Nova Scotia, 32; New Brunswick, 21, and Prince Edward Island, 4.

There was a decrease, it is recorded, of 1.9 per cent. in capital investment, the figures being $66,-360,624 in 1930 and $65,573,014 in 1931. Lands, buildings, tools, etc., were valued at $47,857,705, materials on hand and stocks in process at $2,599,379, finished products on hand $477,577, and cash, trading and operating accounts and bills receivable to $14,638,373.

The average number of employees in the industry was 16,918 in 1931, only 145 less than in the previous year, while salaries and wages totalled $26,375,663, as against $26,937,052 in 1930.

The industry is a heavy consumer of materials, spending $14,029,546 in 1931. This included $9,557,286 for news print $1,534,548 for books and writing paper and $122,127 for envelopes.

Production in 1931 was valued at $65,700,122, as compared with $72,013,171 recorded the previous year.

ABOLISHING GRAND JURIES.

One of Mr. Sinclair's proposals to come before the Legislature at its present session is that grand juries should be abolished.

"They are no longer needed," declares the Liberal leader, "and really serve little purpose."

With that statement many people throughout the province, including outstanding members of the bench and the bar, will have little hesitation in agreeing.

Grand juries, in the opinion of the majority of citizens, are a link with the past, that in the interest of economy and to eliminate a great deal of wasted time might well be severed.

So far as protecting the public from needless trials is concerned, there would seem to be little occasion for the appointment of grand juries, and their other responsibility, that of inspecting public institutions, can be taken care of surely by the officials now entrusted with that responsibility.

Under the existing system busy men are taken from their work to consider whether or not prisoners should be placed on trial—and all this after the cases have had a preliminary investigation before a police magistrate, who must be considered capable of deciding whether there is sufficient evidence to justify any further proceedings.

There are those who are reluctant to relinquish any part of the legal machinery no matter how obsolete it may have become—but in this matter of grand juries it would seem that the pressure of public opinion is in the direction of abolition.

EDUCATIONAL COSTS REMAIN HIGH.

If the local Board of Education expects the public to be satisfied with what has been accomplished in the way of reducing educational costs it is to be feared the trustees are doomed to disappointment.

While it is true that the board has succeeded in whittling off $3,000, in addition to absorbing the loss in revenue represented by the reduction of Government grants, a saving of some $10,000 in all, there will be a general feeling that these economies do not go far enough to afford any appreciable relief, and that the present situation calls for a more drastic scaling down of educational expenditures.

It is impossible to avoid the conclusion that the majority of board members have not yet properly appreciated the fact that the chief factor to be considered at the present time is the ability of the taxpayer to meet his civic obligations.

It is admitted that Peterborough's financial condition is not as critical as that of some other municipalities, and that up to the present tax collections have been more successful than in a number of other centres.

Nevertheless there has been sufficient shrinkage in revenue to constitute a sharp warning to all spending bodies, for it is a moral certainty that tax collections this year will fall below those of last year; in fact, the community will be fortunate indeed if they do not show a considerable decrease.

That being so, it most certainly is the duty of all civic bodies to approach their estimates in a spirit of determination to lift some of the burden of taxation; in the case of the Board of Education it can scarcely be claimed that the reduction that has been effected affords evidence of such a spirit.

An educational bill of $229,680 under the existing financial conditions is nothing for ratepayers to grow enthusiastic over.

LAW AND ORDER AND BANKING.

Things of which Canadians may justly be proud in the times of trial which have been passing are the administration of justice and the banks. Many things have been called in question, but the administration of the law, the courts, the attitude towards law and order have never for a moment found the people hesitant. While banks in the United States, as a result of the peculiar banking system in that country, have been failing at a rate which is rapid enough to cause alarm, Canada has not had a failure. The administration of the law and the financial status of the banks are symbolic and emblematic of the people.

Canadians do not need to boast of these things for visitors to Canada and commentators upon Canadian institutions have noted these two outstanding facts in the life of the Dominion. On the question of law Canada has been fortunate in those whom she has taken in, only a few having proven so undesirable as to require deportation, and her own people are law-abiding. No bankers of any country enjoy a higher reputation than those who guide the destinies of Canadian institutions.

These are but two national factors which have stood Canada well. There are others, but these are worthy of particular mention, especially as in these days the banking question and the law and order problem have been thrust into the minds of people by events in Michigan and in Miami.

In a depression such institutions are what spell stability and recovery. The Dominion has weathered the gale well. What might her condition have been to-day had even a few of her people been inclined to lawlessness and disregard of the laws, or her banking institutions so poorly founded as to shake at every veering of the financial storm? The answer can go at least this far that her condition would have been many times worse or many times less satisfactory.

Canada, having withstood the tempest which has upset every country more or less, Canadians therefore have reason to believe that they have seen the worst and that the strong factors in our country are even now moving towards that stability and recovery which every country in the world is so sorely in need of.—Belleville Intelligencer.

SUBSTANCE OR SHADOW?

(From the Toronto Globe)

The House of Commons already has given much serious attention to what has proved the greatest hoax ever perpetrated on the Canadian farmer—an alleged plan for barter with the Soviet Government—and it is to be hoped that any further time devoted to the all-important matter of trade expansion will be productive of something more worth while.

It seems to be agreed by all parties that foreign trade must be redeveloped. The business Canada does to-day is lamentably low compared with that of a few years ago, when "Russian barter" was not even a figment of the imagination. Surely Parliament has not reached the point where it has lost sight of the substance in directing attention to the shadow. If not, it will refrain from wasting time on the great barter hoax, and think of trade in the terms of prosperous days, when the Canadian taxpayer was not asked to guarantee fantastic and unsound propositions.

If it is necessary to "barter" to do business, why not barter with Great Britain and other nations which need no guarantees, and which have potential markets for all the cattle and other farm produce the Dominion can export?

Five years ago Canada exported agricultural and vegetable products to a value exceeding $500,000,000, and animals and animal products valued at approximately $70,000,000, the two together more than 50 per cent. of the country's exports. In the calendar year 1929 they still totalled more than $560,000,000. The farmers have a just grievance, which can be met only by getting back to a broad trading basis. Trifling with the Russia barter scheme is but making light of the stupendous problem, which all parties in Parliament should face in its true proportions.

The difficulties of the matter do not make them less worthy of constructive attention. Canada is not responsible for most of the obstacles, but the voice of Canada's Parliament can be made influential beyond the borders of the country. Unfortunately most trade debates have not been of a kind to attract outside attention, as they have been party quarrels. Were Parliament to stage a debate in which all parties endeavored to promote ideas for developing international commerce, in a spirit of harmony and helpfulness, the benefit might be far-reaching. At least, the example would be worth setting.

In any event, little can be gained by diversion from the main track to a branch line leading nowhere. Canada, through Parliament, should aim first at getting the maximum out of the Empire agreements, and should endeavor to let the world know that she is anxious to resume relations on a fair basis with those countries which purchased from and sold to her before the collapse.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It is a short day in the Legislature that Premier Henry and Hon. H. C. Nixon do not clash.

Section 98 remains on the statute books, and nobody need worry except those who would by force overthrow Canada's political and social system.

Mr. Henry is needlessly concerned about references to his connection with a mortgage company. What is being impeached is not his honor, but his judgment.

Counsel who has been handling the prosecution of convicts engaged in penitentiary rioting is being paid $50 a day and expenses. It is an ill-wind, etc.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen's speech in the Senate in regard to the railway situation showed that the former Premier retains all his old logic and fire and his ability to devastate opposition.

Little Girl Lost

By Temple Bailey

READ THIS FIRST:

Araminta Williams, 20 and beautiful, is faced with the problem of three stepsisters who are not so attractive and on whom she and her mother and father are dependent. She decides that the only way out is to marry and decides on Barney Tyson, who is madly in love with her. After an argument with Leontine, one of the stepsisters, who is intent on sending Araminta abroad because she herself is in love with Barney, Araminta calls Barney on the telephone, and later in the garden tells him she wants to marry him. Instead of going to a dance with her stepsisters, Araminta slips away with Barney and they hurry to Washington where Araminta's Aunt Min lives and where Araminta plans to spend the night and be married in the morning. Barney leaves her at the door and as she enters Aunt Min's living room she sees Janney Breckenridge sitting talking with her aunt. Araminta once believed she was in love with Janney.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 4

It is, of course, no longer fashionable to speak of hearts as broken. Modern psychologists would, undoubtedly, have diagnosed Araminta's case as one of fixations or complexes, or applied some other term appropriate to morbid moods. But all Araminta knew was this, that the man sitting beside Aunt Min had murdered her dreams. And the murder of a dream is killing of a most subtle and cruel kind. Janney Breckenridge had wooed Araminta, and then had not wanted her, or rather, he had wanted her, but had not chosen to take what he knew he could have if he had asked for it.

The family had been ignorant of the whole affair. Araminta had met him in Kentucky during a wonderful Derby week and then she had stayed on, and so had he, going from Louisville to Lexington on the same house parties, and living in a glamour of old gardens and starlit nights, of poetic rhapsodies, and of high romance. Then, back with her friends to Baltimore, with Janney still in devoted attendance, and at last—one night at the theater, Janney, in the midst of an intermission had shot his bolt, "You must never marry."

Up to that moment, Araminta had expected to marry Janney. But she had managed to gasp, "Why not?"

"Marriage is bondage. And you're too wonderful. You belong on a pedestal for a man to worship. Not at his table to have him tell you what's wrong with the dinner."

He had said it half fretfully, and she had thought him joking. But it was not a joke. For the next day she had had a letter: "Beloved: Why should you trust any man with your future? We need you as a saint to whom we can lift our eyes. As a goddess whose altar fires we tend. To drag you down from your niche or pedestal would be to wrest you from your high estate. And so, my dear, I am saying 'goodbye.' When I am on the other side of the world I shall think of you as a white flame in my darkness. For it is darkness, at the moment, in which I can see no light but my love for you. I do not know how much you care. And even if I knew, I should have no faith in myself to make you happy. Yet I am yours forever. . . . Remember that, my dear, when you blame me, as perhaps you may for what I have done, or left undone."

He had sailed shortly after that for a diplomatic post in the east. Araminta had known his address, but had not answered his letter. She had had no one to ask what they thought of him. She did not, indeed, know what she thought of him herself. Love in a man, she had felt, should be linked with honor and chivalry. Jan had failed to measure up to her ideal of him, yet that failure made it no easier for her to bear the blow to her heart and pride.

That was, of course, only one side of it. On the other, was the thrill of the almost madieval aspect of his adoration. How high he had placed her! A saint in a niche! A goddess on a pedestal! A white flame in his darkness. It had been heady wine for her youth to drink. It might have spoiled her had she chosen to believe it. But she had not, as time went on, believed. She had said to herself in bitterness, "What if he says this to all women? What if this is his way—out?"

It was then she had lost her color and her appetite, and had almost lost her looks, and Aunt Min had taken her abroad, and Araminta had come back apparently cured, but with scars on her young heart instead of open wounds, and with a pride which she had kept from Aunt Min and Nicky and Mary, and Leontine and Helen and Iris, all hint of what had happened.

And how, here he was again, this Janney Breckenridge—a ghost risen to confront her!

Neither Janney nor Aunt Min had seen her. They were, it seemed, in the midst of an absorbing discussion. There had been, apparently, two tables of bridge, but the other guests were gone. There had been too, refreshments, and Aunt Min's and Janney's glasses were still on the low table between them, and Janney's hand was on his as he leaned towards Aunt Min, laughing!

But he stopped laughing when he saw Araminta!

She stood in the doorway. She had not changed her dress when she left Great-Gatelest Nicky and Mary should ask questions. She wore a wrap which had been Iris'—pale amethyst, which went with the pink gown as the faint colors of sweet peas blend in a garden. The wrap had fallen back a little and showed her white neck. Romney might have painted her, or better, Greuze, with all that sweet coloring and that waving crown of curls! When Janney had seen her last, women had been at the boyish stage of hair and dress, and Araminta had been a slim slip of a thing, in short frocks which showed her shining, silken knees, and with her hair clipped like a lad's. She had had charm then and to spare. But this was something different—beauty of a rare kind—enhanced by all those floating draperies. He found himself rising, "Minta!"

She came forward, composedly, and held out her hand, "Back again?"

"Yesterday . . . from Morocco."

Aunt Min said, "That's where I met him, last winter. But he didn't tell me he knew you, Minta."

"Didn't he? Perhaps he had—forgotten . . ." she misled at Janney. "Derby week, wasn't it? Two years ago?"

He started to speak, but Aunt Min interposed, "Minta, where in the world did you come from at this hour of the night?"

"Home."

"At half-past one?"

"Yes. There's a lovely moon."

"Didn't it rain?"

"Yes, but it stopped. . . ."

"But what brought you, Minta?"

Minta laughed, "I didn't bring myself. Barney brought me."

"Barney Tyson?"

"The one and only," said Minta, letting her wrap drop from her shoulders, as she leaned down to kiss her aunt, "the Barney I am going to marry."

No sooner did the words leave her lips than she had a crashing sense of the crude melodrama she had made of it, for Aunt Min gasped: "Married!" But Janney simply leaned forward and screwed the end of his cigaret into an ash tray. Then, after a moment, "Are we to wish you—happiness?"

She met his level glance with her own. "I hope so. We are running away. May we be married from here, Aunt Min, tomorrow morning?"

"Married? Minta. . . ." Aunt Min seemed to have breath left only for repetitions, "but why? Like this?"

"Oh—I'm fed up on stepsisters."

Janney's dark face was attentive. Araminta felt his scorn! Well, let him be scornful. She'd show him. She wasn't a saint in a niche!

Aunt Min was complaining, "If you are married here, what will Mary do to me?"

"She'll be delighted. She adores Barney. And there won't be any fuss and feathers. . . ."

Aunt Min considered it, "I don't mind in the least. But heaven only knows what Rhoda will say about it."

"Give her a day off, darling."

"Do you think she'd take it? She would know that something was in the wind and would not want to miss it."

NEWS OF OUR OWN VILLAGE

The hockey season in these parts folded up here this week and all we got left in the O.H.A. right now is Perce Bond, president of the same, we regretfully note in passing.

Reporters from this great family journal aint going to be allowed to sit in at meetings of the School Board committees so if our readers don't get the lowdown on all the trustees is doing don't blame this g.f.j., we urge.

Harry Foot and his curling rink has been in Toronto, west of here, this week trying their luck in the bonspiel in that berg. We hope the boys kept close watch on their luggage, the skulduggery in Bill Stewart's bailiewick being terrible to contemplate.

The village police commission heard reports Tues. that the clothes of the constabulary is getting on the thin and ragged side. We hope it won't come to the lads having to watch their beats dressed like Mahatma Gandhi.

The customers is asked not to forget the ice carnival at the village rink Mon. nite with a 20-piece band, funny costumes and dancing on the ice for them that aint bothered by rheumatics and such.

Villagers noticing any static on their wireless machines these nites is informed that it is likely caused by folks cheering the announcement that the School Board has whittled $3,-000 off their estimates and we only got to pay $229,000 this year.

Bill Sinclair of Oshawa, west of here, wants all pedestrians on the highways to carry lights at nite. Them horseless carriage drivers seem to be able to hit them alright without lights to aim at, think we.

Spring weather has been with us the past day or 2 but villagers should remember it is still quite some time before the trout season will blow around.

The village Chamber of Commerce is appointing a committee to study economy in public finance but aint likely to get many tips on that subject from the school trustees, many opine.

SAMUEL J. HUNGERFORD
Acting President, Canadian National Railways; Railroad Executive

This is the signature of a man who has achieved success through the exercise of two outstanding characteristics — thoroughness and perseverance. He takes his job, whatever it may be, learns it from every possible angle, and performs it to the best of his ability. His thoroughness tends to increase the size of any job and the number of details involved, but, never completely submerged nor swamped, he wades manfully through the mass of his duties with their self-imposed attachments and enlargements and comes up smiling, ready for more. Each successive task, however, he accomplishes with a degree more skill, a degree more speed, because of the understanding and the confidence he has wrested from his thorough handling of previous tasks. He looks upward continuously and is eager to reach the peak but does not permit his eagerness to arrive upset his method of fighting the recognized road step by step. He may be tempted to try short-cutting, but he never permits himself to do so. He is essentially the lone climber but has all the qualities necessary for the good leader as well. He is the self-made man, firm willed, collected, calm, and all that rigid self-training implies. Though he is primarily practical and conservative, he is alive to progress and ready to acknowledge the value in such new things as seem to him to be practicable. He is essentially a man's man and would be a generous, staunch and dependable friend.

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

AN UNSOLVED MURDER MYSTERY

On this date, 1909 Hamilton, Ont., was the scene of a murder, the mystery of which is yet unsolved. Death stalked into the family of Thomas L. Kincade, principal of one of the public schools and a man of high integrity and substance. His family consisted of his wife, two sons and three daughters. Of the daughters Ethel, the eldest, had always lived at home, so had the youngest Gertrude, then 16 and still attending school; the second girl, Florence, about 25, had been away on a musical tour which took her to Richmond, Virginia, but had returned home a few days before the preceding Christmas.

This happy family met at lunch as usual on February 25. The meal ended, father and Gertrude left to resume their daily tasks, while Ethel and Florence cleared away the dishes. While they did so, they talked, as women will, about the menace of the tramps who were then calling at the Hamilton homes. Mrs. Kincade got thoroughly alarmed because the previous day one of these itinerants, when refused the usual meal ticket, had attempted to break in, and decided to go down to the police station and ask for protection. The dish-washing done the two sisters decided to go for a walk and each went to her room to prepare. While they were doing so the bell rang; Florence went to the door, where, according to her story on the witness stand, a man forced his way in and demanded all the money she had in the house. She dashed up to her bedroom, got a ten dollar bill and, rushing down, gave it to the marauder. Then she said the burglar seized her but she got away; but soon returned to find the man gone and her sister lying dead on the dining room floor. She then rushed to a neighbor shouting, "Ethel is shot; shot six times."

The police came; the parents returned; it was found that Ethel had been shot seven times; the murderer made sure. At first the general opinion was that the murder had been committee by an escapee from a near-by asylum; but as time went on other possibilities came into the case. Florence's stories did not coincide. The doctors who performed the autopsy testified that at least 15 minutes had elapsed from the first shots in the head to those in the body. Florence admitted that she had had a revolver down in Virginia, but swore that she had not brought it in to Canada, and no revolver was ever found.

Florence fainted twice in court, asserting "That man! I see that man- He will shoot me! This caused delay but finally the inquest was concluded with a verdict against some person unknown. The father gave up his school principalship. Florence married a theological student and they went to Calgary, where the young husband abandoned the idea of entering the ministry and took a civic position. Later the family drifted to New York, Florence having borne two children, and there the husband died of pneumonia. Florence is said to have then returned to the stage. But the mystery of her sister's killing remains unsolved.

IF YOU DON'T KNOW PEOPLE

You can know the distance to the sun, the origin of the universe, the names of the stars—

You can know the name of the man who killed the Grand Duke at Serajevo—

You can know calculus and etymology and genetics—

You can know what makes the green leaf turn gold and how caterpillars turn into butterflies—

But if you don't know people, just how much DO you know?

If you know the name of every ruler—

And what Talleyrand, Copernicus, Apreino, Spinoza, Lavoisier and Hokusai did in their spare time—

And how Cortez conquered Mexico—

And who invented the safety pin—

And what the Code of Hammurabia was—

And don't know what's in the human heart, do you really know anything worth while?

* * *

You know how beens organize the hive, and—

How to make one dollar turn into 10, and—

Where Chimborazi is, and—

The speed of light, and—

The significance of the Law of Diminishing Returns, but—

If you don't know the common wisdom that teaches you how to get along with other human beings, of what use are all these scraps of knowledge?

If you do know what people want—

If you know what they are like, inside—

If you know how to dry their tears—

If you know how to rouse them, stir them, lift them above their common selves—

If you know that people are the most important objects in all this world—

Then you are wise—

Then you know enough—

Then you are doing your share.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET
(By Claude A. Jagger, A. P. Financial Editor)

NEW YORK, Feb. 25. — (AP) — Active liquidation was resumed in the securities markets today, erasing the gains of the previous session. Stocks closed near the day's lowest levels, with numerous losses of 1 to more than 4 points. Transfers for the two-hour session approximated 900,000 shares.

Stocks moved in sympathy with bonds, which again felt the pressure of institutional selling, on news of a banking holiday in Maryland.

Stocks dipped rather sharply at the opening, steadied for a time, but encountered a fresh flurry of selling in the last half hour. The list recovered fractionally, however, in the last few minutes. Liquidation spread throughout all of the principal groups, and reduced the general level, as measured by averages, to the lowest since the latter part of July.

STANDARD EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, Feb. 25 (C.P.). — Heaviness in the New York Market imparted a weakness to the Standard Exchange listings in the closing session of the week, but the slump brought out no selling to speak of and the market steadied slightly before the close.

The high-priced gold shares all weakened from 5 to $1 in light trading. Lake Shore, Dome and McIntyre lost about 25 each. Pioneer slipped back about 25, Hollinger about 15, Teck Hughes about 5 and Wright Hargreaves 10.

Noranda in the base metal group closed about unchanged. Nickel dropped 40 and Falconbridge weakened a few cents. Silver shares were steady, with Eldorado off a point and the others holding.

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Feb 25 (C.P.)—After appearing to recover from an early sell down, renewed weakness developed in the Toronto Stock market in the last half hour and the whole list finished the week at a low level. A break in the New York market unsteadied the Canadian listings and volume increased as prices slipped back.

In the inter-listed seciton C.P.R. fell back to 10, International Nickel to 8½, and Ford to 6¼ and Smelters dropped about a point. Trading in C.P.R. and Nickel was heavy. Brazilian in light trade held unchanged at 7⅝.

Active selling appeared in the oil group and Pete was forced back to 11¼, while B.A. and Imperial held their ground, both at 8¼. Dominion Stores, again featuring the food shares was a sell-off to 13½, its low point since last summer.

Badminton Tourney Here On March 18

Followers of badminton, will be interested in the announcement that the Central Ontario Badminton Associaion tournament is to be held in this city on March 18.

It is planned that the preliminary games will be staged in the Armouries commencing in the morning, with the finals being played off in the evening at the Market Hall. At the latter place an exhibition game will also be given by Jack Purcell of Toronto—a badminton player of championship calibre.

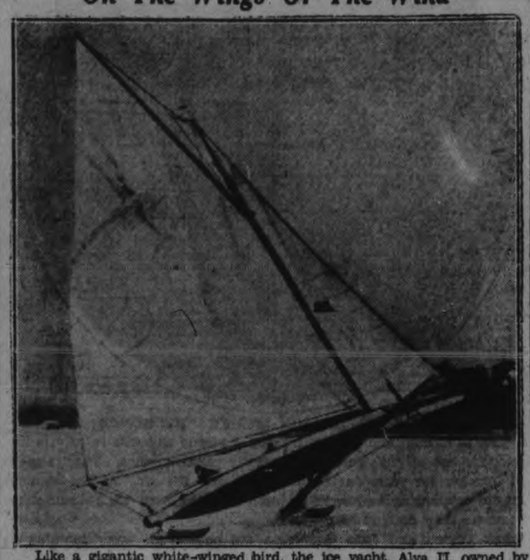
Under the auspices of Peterborough Badminton Club, the tourney is expected to attract a large entry. Among the other clubs that are expected to participate are: The Garrison Badminton Club and the clubs from Lindsay, Orillia, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Port Hope. Each club will enter six men and six ladies.

It is the first occasion on which the tourney has been held in this city, and Walter Stevenson, president of the local Badminton Association; H. C. Sootheran, secretary and other members of the executive are already hard at work on the details, to ensure the success of the event.

There is to be a trophy awarded for club points and additional trophies for men's and ladies' singles and doubles, besides a number of consolation prizes.

Nut groves develop at approximately the same rate as orchards.

On The Wings Of The Wind



Like a gigantic white-winged bird, the ice yacht, Alva II, owned by George Seger, son of Congressman George N. Seger, of Passaic, N.J., flashes over the ice on two of its three runners. Note the perilous position of the daring skipper as he lies, face downwards, and steers the craft with his feet. The Alva II is one of the entries in the ice yacht regatta to be held at Lake Muconetcong, N.J., shortly.

PRICES TOO HIGH ON BRITISH COAL OTTAWA RUMOR

Spread Unnecessarily Wide Official Probe is Said to Reveal.

SOLD FAR ABOVE COST?

Importations From Old Country Controlled by Montreal Senator.

OTTAWA, Feb. 25.—That retail prices of British anthracite in Canada are excessive is said to be abundantly proved by the investigation which has been conducted by F. A. McGregor, Registrar under the Combines Investigation Act.

According to gossip in the Government lobby last night, the inquiry has revealed an unnecessarily wide spread between the laid-down cost of Scottish and Welsh coal in Montreal and the retail prices charged to consumers in Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal.

The investigation showed that a Montreal Senator controls an overwhelming percentage of the importations from the United Kingdom, which totalled 1,300,000 tons last year.

The probe was ordered, following charges in Parliament by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux and other Senators that retail prices were excessive, particularly at a time when many unemployed persons were hard-pressed, and unable to finance the winter fuel bill.

The Agricultural Committee of the Comomns will commence on Tuesday an investigation into the price of milk and other farm commodities. It is stated the farmers in the Hamilton district are receiving only 11 cents per gallon for milk, which is being retailed by the quart at 40 cents per galon.

DISARMAMENT AT CROSSROADS

increasing the spirit of mutual confidence between the nations of Europe, determined to fulfill not only in letter but also in spirit the obligations which they have accepted under the Pact of Paris signed on August 27, 1928, hereby solemnly undertake that they will not in any circumstances resort to force for the purpose of resolving any present or future differences between them.

Little Signs of Reduction

Yet, with all these efforts, even those friendly to the Conference doubt if, under present conditions, the resulting conventions will bring about much substantial reduction in existing armaments. French opinion, which had been swinging towards reduction in armaments, is alarmed over developments across the Rhine. Reports, repeated almost as frequently as they are denied, chant the refrain that arms traffic is proceeding apace in Central Europe, treaties notwithstanding.

Independent naval experts here stress the theme that Great Britain is falling dangerously behind in sea-power, that the London Naval Treaties (which embodied naval parity as between Great Britain and the United States) must be amended if they are to be renewed on expiry in 1936.

NO BOOK-KEEPING ERRORS

BRANTFORD.—Alderman J. D. Ansell, chairman of the Brantford Housing Commission, reported today that a preliminary audit of the Commission books showed a discrepancy of some $500 over a period of nearly seven years.

He added that there was no question of it being an error in book-keeping, the shortage being in the difference between collections made and money turned in. The audit is proceeding.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

MRS. T. W. H. YOUNG HEADS CHAPTER

57th Chapter of I. O. D. E. Holds its Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the 57th Regiment Chapter was held in the officers' mess room of the armouries with a good attendance. The regent, Mrs. T. W. H. Young occupied the chair and after the routine business was conducted the annual reports were submitted.

The secretary, Mrs. F. Miller gave a very comprehensive report of the year's activities showing that the chapter had a very successful season which is something to be highly gratified with in these times. The Chapter has a paid up membership of 53 with several on the list who assist in many ways. There are 41 subscribers to the Echoes. The Chapter has held nine regular meetings and one executive meeting. Reference was made to the great loss sustained by the Chapter in the early part of the year in the passing of Mrs. E. B. Clegg who was a charter member and had been Regent of the Chapter for many years. At the time of her death she was a councillor whose advice was of great value. Another member, Mrs. J. Dunkerly passed to the Great Beyond.

The Chapter has had several interesting speakers, including Lieut.-Col. Winterbottom, R. C. Cumming and reports of the National and Provincial meetings by Mrs. T. W. H. Young. Mrs. Robert Cottrell and Mrs. F. Hooper. During the year the following donations were made: Child's welfare work, $27.10; Navy League of Canada, $10.00; relief, (soldier's families) $13.00; local hospital, $700; Canadian National Institute for the Blind, $10; Shield for cadets, $10; Red Cross Society, $25. Flags placed on soldier's graves in cemeteries on Empire Day and wreath for cenotaph, $18.91; furnishing curtains for officer's mess room, $47.06 and the special work which the chapter had for its objective for several years saw its fulfilment on June 3rd, when the memorial granite base for the flag in Little Lake cemetery was dedicated. Before a large concourse of people a very impressive ceremony took place when the stone was dedicated "To the memory of our fallen soldiers who lie overseas". It is erected in the same place where 19 years ago the 57th Regiment Chapter erected a flag staff in memory of the men of Peterborough who had died in the service of their country in other campaigns. The flag staff in the soldier's plot given by the Chapter was also dedicated.

The money for these undertakings was raised through afternoon bridge parties. Teas, a special evening bridge and fees. The members has enjoyed a fine social time and a splendid spirit of co-operation exists. One of the special features was the picnic at the summer home of Lt.-Col. W. G. Hall and Mrs. Hall at Crawford's Grove where a very enjoyable afternoon was spent in sports and games with a sumptuous supper served under a marquee on the grounds.

The treasurer, Miss M. Rogers gave an excellent report showing balance on hand, January 15, 1932, $139.60. Total receipts, Jan. 15, '32 to Jan. 15, 1933, $352.60. Total disbursements $376.47. Balance on hand Jan. 15, 1933, $105.73.

Mrs. Sharp reported for the sick and visiting committee showing that she and Mrs. Helson had made 423 calls during the year. At the hospital they had distributed books and magazines and spent $6 for fruit.

The relief committee under the convenorship of Mrs. Hall had given out coal, milk tickets and a quantity of second hand clothing. Since September, Mrs. Fanning has carried on the good work and at Christmas distributed baskets of cheer.

The election of officers then took place, the following being elected for 1933: Regent, Mrs. T. W. H. Young; first vice regent, Mrs. W. Gordon Hall; second vice regent, Mrs. R. G. Cottrell; secretary, Mrs. F. Miller; treasurer, Miss M. Rogers; educational secretary, Mrs. R. E. Clark; standard bearer, Miss I. Wesley; Echoes' secretary, Miss Rogers; councillors, Mrs. J. S. Fanning, Mrs. C. Newman, Mrs. W. Sharp, Mrs. C. H. Amys, Mrs. W. G. Howden, Mrs. R. G. Melton, Mrs. D. Loomis, Mrs. W. Ashby, Mrs. S. Newhall, Mrs. W. H. Peryer.

It was decided to celebrate the twenty-first anniversary of the chapter by holding a tea on Mar. 28 with further announcements later. The chapter was organized on Mar. 15, 1912 at a meeting at the home of the late Mrs. E. B. Clegg with the following names signed as charter members: Mrs. Helen Clegg, (deceased), Mrs. Emma Mills, Mrs. Margaret Hayes (deceased), Miss Isabel Eastwood, Miss Minnie Higgins, Miss F. A. Davidson (deceased), Mrs. George Eastwood, Mrs. Ida Hounsell, Mrs. Helen Hall, Miss Dorothy Langford. On March 2b, 1912 the first meeting was held in the armouries when 59 became members.

Mrs. D. A. Loomis and Mrs. R. G. Cottrell were appointed as convenors for the tea table arrangements. Mrs. F. Miller to be responsible for the program. The regular afternoon bridge for next month will be held on Wednesday, March 8 with Mrs. G. R. Metton as convenor, assisted by Mrs. D. Loomis, Mrs. J. E. Johnston, Mrs. F. Miller, Mrs. A. W. McPherson, Mrs. F. G. Mann, Mrs. D. Mellon, Mrs. B. McLeod, Mrs. McWilliams Mrs. F. Hooper was nominated as a provincial councillor and Mrs R. G. Cottrell as a Nation councillor The regent thanked Mrs. C. Newman, Mrs. G. R. Melton and Mrs. W. R. Piercy for acting on the nomination committee.

At the conclusion of the meeting a very dainty tea was served with Mrs. W. G. Hall in charge assisted by the officers: Mrs. Young, Mrs. Cottrell, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Clark, Miss Rogers and Miss Wesley. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

END OF THE ROAD IS COMMENDED

Doctors and Minister Unite to Commend Picture.

COMING TO REGENT.

The official patrons of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council which is sponsoring the showings of the "End of the Road," at the Regent Theatre here next week are Their Excellencies the Governor General and Lady Bessborough. Additional patrons for this specific events include the Prime Minister of Canada, Premier George S. Henry, Sir Arthur W. Currie, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Machado, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Spencer, Hon. Dr. J. King and Mrs. King, Hon. Dr. Murray MacLaren, Hon. Charles Stewart and Mrs. Stewart, Col. J. T. Clarke and Mrs. Clarke, Hon. T. Rinfret and Mrs. Rinfret, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen and Mrs. Meighen, Hon. W. D. Euler, Miss Agnes MacPhail, Mr. J. E. Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Ross, Hon. Dr. J. M. Robb and Mrs. Robb, and Sir James and Lady Woods.

Many commendations are being received from local residents and among them is a letter from Dr. N. H. Sutton, District Health Officer: "I am glad that the film the "End of the Road" is to be shown in Peterborough. It is not only a gripping and powerful drama, but graphically presents information which it is vitally important that every individual should have.

From Dr. G. Raymore Scott comes the following message on behalf of the local branch of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council: "Those of us who have been interested in the work of the local branch of the Social Hygiene Council for many years are very gratified that you were affording our citizens at last the opportunity of seeing that well-known educational picture 'The End of the Road'. We have no hesitation in saying that everyone who has not already seen the film elsewhere, should not pass up the only opportunity this city will have to enjoy the educational features embodied in this film. On behalf of the local branch of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council we most heartily endorse the film.

And from Rev. C. V. McLean, M.A., Ph.D.: "Your invitation of the 24th instant received. I shall do my utmost to patronize the showing of your film in this city on the first three days of March."

From E. P. McNabb, "Having some knowledge of the good work that you are trying to do, I shall be very glad to act as patron to the showing of the film, 'The End of the Road,' being presented at the Regent Theatre, Peterborough, on March 1, 2 and 3, under your sponsorship. I trust that the showing of this film in Peterborough will be fruitful of very good results."

From Doctor C. B. Walte: "It gives me a great deal of pleasure to endorse the picture entitled, 'The End of the Road.' This picture is of educational value, is quite unoffensive, and has been endorsed by numerous clergymen of all denominations."

CANTEEN KILLING NETS LIFE TERM

Albert G. Hendrie is Found Guilty in Kingston of Manslaughter.

JURY OUT THREE HOURS.

KINGSTON, Feb. 26. — Albert George Hendrie, charged with the murder of Peter Davis, was last night found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to life imprisonment by Mr. Justice W. E. Raney. The jury deliberated for three hours before returning their verdict.

When sentenced to spend the rest of his days behind prison walls, Hendrie showed no emotion, and a minute later was taken out of the courtroom to the county jail, whence he will be transfered today to the penitentiary.

Throughout yesterday afternoon the time was occupied mainly by the addresses of H. A. McNeill, counsel for the accused and Sir Alfred Morine, Crown Prosecutor, and the charge of Justice Raney. Mr. McNeill argued that there was no evidence to show that the accused was guilty of murder, and he pleaded that there was evidence which showed that accused had been provoked in a fight he had with Davis in the canteen of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

Sir Alfred Morine testified the story of the accused a tissue of falsehoods, saying that Hendrie had been lying to save his own skin." He felt that the jury should either find a verdict of guilty of murder or not guilty.

Justice Raney pointed out the law, dealing specifically with the definition of murder as it stood on the statutes.

UP TO ENGINEER FOR LEADERSHIP SAYS J. W. PIERCE

Man Who Promoted Problematic Condition Must Provide Remedy.

GOLD MINING EXPANDS.

Presided at Annual Convention of Ontario Land Surveyors.

If our civilization is to continue, the engineer who promoted the problematic condition of today must also provide the remedy, J. W. Pierce of Peterborough suggested in his presidential address at the annual convention in Toronto this week of the Association of Ontario Land Surveyors.

"Contrary to the somewhat general expectation of a year ago, there does not appear to be any noticeable improvement in the business and commercial life of this country or of the world in general," Mr. Pierce said. "While private organizations have reduced expenditures in order to meet their income, or are for the time being making up the difference from surplus funds accumulated during more prosperous periods, our governments have usually found it impossible to balance their budgets. The result is that after one of the most abundant harvests which Canada has ever had, there is today more want and privation than ever. All this, notwithstanding the fact that our granaries, our warehouses and our stores are filled with all that is required for the sustenance and the comfort of everyone.

This condition which has been accomplished by the expenditure of only a portion of the labor heretofore necessary in its production is largely the result of the skill of the engineer. Does it not appear as a direct challenge to this same skill to devise means of effecting more adequate distribution of these commodities now congesting our warehouses and granaries by starting their movement over our rusting railways? While panaceas, such as wholesale inflation of currency or of experiments with new social orders may be attractive and may afford temporary relief, it does appear, if our civilization is to continue, that the engineer who promoted this condition must also provide its remedy."

Gold Mining Expands

Business in Canada has by no means ceased, Mr. Pierce said. Mining, especially of gold, is attracting increasing attention, and the coming season promises to see more intensive prospecting than ever before throughout central Canada.

"If history repeats itself, and nothing is said to be more certain, this will be followed by new discoveries and further demands for surveys and maps."

Prospecting In the North.

In the year 1906 I had the privilege of attending these meetings for the first time. I was then an articled pupil who had been engaged during a couple of summer vacations as a chairman on township subdivision in the then, except for Cobalt, almost unknown New Ontario. A paper was presented by the Director of Surveys, Mr. George B. Kirkpatrick on "Our Northern Heritage," in which he described the steps which had been taken to investigate the possibilities of this district before any general scheme of surveys was decided on. In the year 1900, he had sent ten exploratory parties, each headed by an Ontario Land Surveyor and including a Geologist and a Land and Timber Estimator, to various parts of the district in order to gain authentic information upon the resources of New Ontario. I remember this recalling to my youthful mind the story of the spies being sent to investigate the Promised Land. Already, in that early period of the development of Northern Ontario, the Administration found reason to be satisfied with its endeavours from the fact that the Cobalt Silver Mines, which had been discovered only two years before, had then produced $2,500,000 of ore and that another two million dollars of ore had been mined and was above ground. Today, almost thirty years later, these silver mines have paid upwards of $94,000,000 in dividends alone, while the total amount of money paid in dividends by the silver, gold and nickel mines of Northern Ontario exceeds the huge sum of $375,000,000.

Land surveys, which were then in progress at that time, have continued to the present. At times during the interval, it has appeared that all necesary land surveys have been completed, only to experience the unheralded arrival of a Porcupine, a Red Lake or an Island Lake, which necessitated the immediate extension of the land survey system or of the mapping program. Northern Ontario has since then doubled in size due to the addition of the District of Patricia in 1912. Many members of this Association, some of whom were in charge of the original exploration parties, have devoted the greater part of their profession careers to the surveys of this district, they have been its earliest and most continuous advocates and it is a great satisfaction to them to witness its enviable position in these days of stress."

Mr. Pierce also spoke of Canada's water powers and expressed confidence in the future expansion of industry in this country. He is now not only a past president of the Ontario Land Surveyors but also of the Dominion Land Surveyors' Association.

National Anthem Is Sung In Slower Time

The National Anthem recently revised in accordance with the personal wishes of His Majesty the King, was sung at a banquet of 1st Peterborough (St. John's) Troop of Boy Scouts last night, in the new slow tempo. The suggestion that "God Save the King" be sung in slower time was made by Dr. G. Murray Fraser, the toastmaster and chairman of the troop committee.

A revised official score of the National Anthem was recently issued to British military bands. The new version retains the former standard harmonization, with some improvements in the instrumentation, but considerable changes are made in the directions for tempo and shading.

Trinity Makes Good Showing At Montreal

MONTREAL, Feb. 25 (C.P.) — A trainload of 140 boys from Trinity College School, Port Hope, Ont., invaded Montreal to give the first gymnastic and physical training display that this school has ever held here. It was staged at the Royal Montreal Regiment Armory before a large and distinguished gathering of parents and friends last night.

The senior squad distinguished itself on the horizontal bar, parallel bar, vaulting horse and at tumbling. Probably the best of the four was the parallel bar work, at which a team of 16 performed with grace and agility.

OBTAINING GROCERIES

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Mr. Editor,—I wonder if I may claim a small space in your valuable paper to voice what I feel to be a very just complaint of the people who are at present forced to accept relief.

Under the present system put into force a few weeks ago, we are obliged to take our order to the store the Relief Office wishes, regardless of what it may be. I do not doubt that to people who are not on relief this may seem a very petty affair, but to most of us I assure you it is a very big thing. I don't see why we cannot be allowed to take our order to the man we have always been used to dealing with. What possible difference can it make to the Relief Officer or the Relief Committee? To us the difference is this: the merchant we have been used to dealing with knows us; he knows our circumstances; he is always ready to help out; help us in lots of little things, often selling his goods at cost. We naturally pick the store where we get most value. Most of us owe our own grocer a bill — he carried us when we couldn't pay and I submit he has a right to expect our relief slip. But for the help of the grocer many of us would have been forced to ask for help from the city much sooner than we did. Then again, why should it be necessary for us to air our slip all over the city. I know that a complaint of some of the merchants was responsible for this change; a few of them claimed they weren't getting what they called a fair share. What do they call a fair share? If they had their own regular people, I think they had as much as they had any right to expect.

To my mind, there can be only one of two reasons: that they weren't getting relief slips and that is, either they never did do much business or their regulars were not on relief.

We all know that some stores give much better value than others. I was most unfortunate to draw a small store a week ago. I have six children and they need a lot of feeding. Things were high at this store and we were at our wits' end to make our order last out. The last day we had nothing.

I am sure we are all very grateful for what is being done for us. I am sorry to make this complaint, but I feel that it is very urgent and just.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,

Yours respectfully,

R. E. W.

ANSWERS CHIEF NEWHALL

To The Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Good humor and co-operation of all good citizens was never so essential as now. This is a poor time for our worthy Police Chief to lose his head and so abuse four such public-spirited citizens as His Worship Mayor Denne, Alderman Tuggey and aldermanic candidates who have not failed in a willingness to serve, but merely in securing a majority at the polls who would accept that service.

If efficient service can be assured only by large salary, then there is no pride in one's work or public spirit in that service and a poor example to youth. Genuine public spirit is content with return, measured by the people's capacity to pay. This petition is designed to give moral support and suasion to our legislators and to impress on them the wisdom of an evenly balanced load. Almost all property owners are signing, if time permitted. Why pick on us?

Never have I criticized and ever commended the efficient Police Force and capable Chief, but we want co-operation from all sides, and not dictation.

Reductions to the nurses and laundry help surely can only be acceptable to the more highly paid, if continued correspondingly to the top; all for each and each for all. Let brotherly love continue.

—J. S. BELL.

COMPARISON DRAWN

To The Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir.—In your editorial of Tuesday, the 21st instant, you draw comparisons from figures quoted which you claim prove the prohibitionists wrong in their claim that the Government liquor sale act instead of reducing crime and promoting a respect for law (which its sponsors on its introduction, said would be the case) has materially increased crime.

It would be interesting to know where the figures quoted came from as the figures for 1932, I am informed, are not yet available to the public.

I have before me the government figures up to 1930-31, and these show that as compared with 1926 the last year under the O.T.A. there was an alarming increase of crime and offences against the law and from our experiences in Peterborough and surrounding districts I do not think we have any reason to be proud of our records in that respect.

In the past two years there have been several violent deaths directly attributed to the drink, and the last disgraceful orgy in which a man lost his life was so disgusting that I would have thought that it would have silenced any supporter of the drink,—but apparently not.

In 1926, the last year under the O.T.A., the figures are:

	1926	1930
Total number of convictions for indictable offences	7,246	11,744
Total number imprisoned	16,033	29,126
Prisoners convicted of drunkenness	4,586	7,375
Commitment for murder	16	29
Commitment for manslaughter	37	56
Convictions against the liquor laws, which it was promised would disappear altogether if men could drink legally.	1,158	3,717

an increase of 220 per cent; in fact, in the four years there was an increase of imprisonments of 60 per cent, which so alarmed the government that the Hon. Mr. Price, in 1929, introduced into the Legislature an amendment to the Probation Act to allow Ontario courts dealing with a first offence against any Ontario statute to dismis sthe case with a warning or put the offender on parole. This provision has been largely taken advantage of as any student of conditions is aware and hence a great many cases which used to appear as convictions do not appear and conditions are camouflaged and the sore in the body politic is covered up, but the cancer is there all right, and no amount of whitewashing by the Hon. Mr. Price or newspaper editorials will ever make anything of the workings of any liquor act but a curse to the people amongst whom it operates.

When the fight was on for the repeal of the O.T.A., two great claims were made on behalf of the liquor act. First, it would give personal liberty to the citizens of Ontario, and in four years of its working eleven thousand more of them were in prison. Second ,that it would bring in its train prosperity and employment for all, and I think it would puzzle even the Hon. Mr. Price or The Examiner to prove that it has done this. Tell us where is the prosperity and employment that was promised? A man never yet drank himself and his family into prosperity, nor can any number of them ever do it.

Thanking you; Yours faithfully,

GEORGE LEADER.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Saves $2. No Cooking! So Easy!

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It takes but a moment to prepare, and costs very little, but it positively has no equal for quick, lasting relief.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle and fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup, made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's so easy! Thus you make 16 ounces of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and children love its taste.

This simple mixture soothes and heals the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, the most reliable healing agent for severe coughs. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

WEEKLY BIBLE LESSON

(By REV. WYLIE CLARK, B.D., D.D.)

POWER is a wonderful thing and power used with knowledge and skill can accomplish almost anything.

So many of the things we have to-day which would have seemed miracles to past generations are the outcome of men learning how to use the powers of nature.

For forty years I have been a constant visitor of hospitals and sick people. What doctors and surgeons do now, that they could not do forty years ago is simply astonishing, and what they do not do now, that they did then, is just as surprising.

Knowledge, skill and power are a conquering trio and when in action they work so simply and produce such satisfactory results.

Now Jesus possessed in His own way these three. That was why He was Master in all the circumstances of His eventful life. It was reality of mind over matter and the spiritual over the material—it was man at his best working with God, or put it another way, it was complete scientific knowledge backed by sufficient power skilfully used.

Sudden storms on the Sea of Galilee are the outcome of conditions. The sea is six hundred feet below sea level and the hills around rise as high as four thousand feet. In extreme heat the hot air rises from the sea and the cool air from the hills rushes down the gorges to take its place, and the storm is on.

At the end of the day Jesus and the Disciples seek escape from the crowd by crossing over to the other side. Their boat was caught in one of these storms and the disciples found themselves fighting for their lives.

Jesus, having nothing to do with the sailing of the boat, fell asleep. So deep was His sleep that even the pitching of the boat did not wake Him. So in their distress the disciples called Him. He at once took charge and using His knowledge, skill and power, they were saved.

The case of the Gadarene maniac was a sad one. He should have been in an asylum, but there were none in those days, so he was driven from home and lived in the tombs. Anyone who has seen a violent crazy man or a drunkard in delirium tremens knows something of this poor man's condition. I have heard insane people praying and cursing in the same five minutes—when the mind is possessed anything may happen.

Jesus met this case, again using His knowledge, skill and power—and the man was healed, and sent back to his family and his work.

To-day we need to draw on the power of Jesus to heal the disorders of our souls and the world. He has all the resources. It is ours to give Him the chance.

A Chat with Young Peterboro

ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR MARCH 5.

MY, what a difference! says I to myself. You see I'd just been reading this piece in a missionary paper: "A Mohammedan baby girl had convulsions, so the parents brought it to the village priest. He told them that an evil spirit was in the child, and the only help was for them to buy a paper prayer the same length as the child and fasten it on her back. They found out that a prayer that long cost five dollars. The father decided that a girl baby wasn't worth that much, so they took her home to die."

I'd been thinking about that little girl in the lesson. A little girl is worth something in the Saviour's eyes, for He brought her back to life. I've been wondering a good bit about some things in this story. Wondering's a good way to get some light on a subject. How kind the Saviour was! "Come, wake up, my child!" He says. Then He takes her by the hand. There's a lot in the touch of a friendly hand. You can tell a good deal about a person from the way he shakes hands. "Give her something to eat!" He says. That's practical common sense. I wonder if they call it common sense because it's often so uncommon. Then what drove the father to Jesus? His child's trouble, of course.

His was trouble that couldn't be helped, but do you young ones sometimes make trouble for father and mother that could be helped, if you took a little thought? You might do a lot of wondering about that. The little girl died again, of course, when her time came. But what Jesus did was to give her a chance to live her life out. Every little soul means a lot to God. He's going to see that every one has a chance in the battleof life. The Saviour's hand is the one that is stretched out to give us that chance. The way we touch that hand is by faith and prayer. Now wonder about the meaning of the story for yourselves.—Young Canada.

Roseneath Society Holds Social Evening

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Feb. 25. — The Young People's Society met in the town hall on Tuesday evening, and was fairly well attended. The president, Mr. Arthur Newman, called the gathering to order. Miss Beatrice Sandercock had charge of entertaining the society.

Misses Jessie Mouncey and Jessie Smith favored the gathering with singing a duet, and Miss Joy Morrison ably made things lively by her instrumental selections on the piano. Cardboard cut outs were given out to get mated for supper which made much fun for everyobdy and the lucky spot in the hall was captured by Mr. Stewart Thackeray, and Miss Jessie Mouncey.

A number of games were played by both young and old, and congratulations were offered Miss Sandercock for being such an ideal hostess. Collection taken amounted to $1.95.

Old Sault Resident Claimed By Death

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Feb. 24 (C.P.)—Death to-day had removed one of the oldest citizens of the Sault, Mrs. Victory Atkins, who died yesterday at the age of 95.

Mrs. Atkins, who came to the Sault when her father, Richard Carney, was appointed first Sheriff of Algoma in 1855, was born in Barrie, Dec. 3, 1837, and moved with her family to Owen Sound when a child.

She was christened Victory because her father was serving with Government forces against the rebels at the time of her birth.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

Obituary

MRS. JOHN A. MEIKLEJOHN

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 25 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The funeral of the late Mary Ann Morton, beloved wife of John A. Meiklejohn, was held yesterday from the family residence at Campbellford, to Rylstone United Church, where service was conducted by the Rev. F. G. MacTavish of the Seymour United Church; interment being made in Rylstone Cemetery. The pall-bearers were: Roy McGee, C. McKeown, Will Barlow, Donald Barnum, Kenneth Oddie and Roy Oddie.

The late Mrs. Meiklejohn died on Thursday, after a lengthy illness. She was aged 78 years. Born in the Township of Rawdon on July 18, 1856, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Morton, she married John A. Meiklejohn on October 10, 1882, and until ten years ago resided with her husband on their Rawdon Township farm, when the family moved into Campbellford, where they have resided since.

A staunch member of the United Church and one who was beloved by a very wide circle of friends, the many floral tributes at the funeral showed the esteem and respect in which she was held. The late Mrs. Meiklejohn is the last of a family of nine.

MRS. G. A. WEBBER

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 25 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The funeral of the late Mrs. George A. Webber was held yesterday from the Campbellford family residence to Picton, where interment was made. The service was conducted by the Rev. L. M. Smith of the Campbellford Baptist Church.

The late Mrs. Webber died on Tuesday in the Kingston General Hospital after a brief illness; she was aged 54 years. She was born in Glasgow, Scotland, coming with her parents to Canada as a child, and settling in Prince Edward County. Two years ago she married George A. Webber of Campbellford, in which place she resided until her passing.

The late Mrs. Webber was a Baptist by religion and a member of the L.O.B.A., in which organization she held office. Surviving are her husband ;and two sons, Clifford of Toronto and Roy of Picton.

MRS. THOMAS SHANNON

EAST EMILY, Feb. 24. (Examiner Correspondence). The death occurred on Sunday evening of a very highly respected resident of this district in the person of Ann Brown, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Brown and wife of the late Mr. Thomas Shannon who predeceased her almost ten years ago.

Mrs. Shannon lived with her parents in Cartwright township until she was about six years of age when they moved to Fenelon township and she lived there until her marriage to Thomas Shannon in March, 1879 and went to make their home in Monaghan township, later moving to Omemee until the death of her husband when she came to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Sayward Switzer on the fifth line of Emily township.

Mrs. Shannon was in her 82nd year and was always loved and cherished by all who came in contact with her. She had been in failing health for the past three years and had been confined to her bed for he past fifteen months and bore her sufferings with great patience and cheerfulness and in religion was a staunch Presbyterian.

She leaves to mourn her loss one daughter, Myrtle, with whom she made her home and one sister, Mrs. McIntyre in Regina.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon from her late residence to Emily cemetery for interment with Rev. Dr. Reddick of Omemee officiating at both the house and graveside.

The bearers were Messrs Ira Switzer, Alonzo Moncrief, Harry Deyell, Walter Moncrief, Fred Deyell and Eugene Switzer.

Couzens Resolution Approved In House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 (C.P.).—The Couzens resolution to give the comptroller of the currency new powers over national banks for a limited time was approved unanimously to-day by the United States House of Representatives Banking Committee.

Chairman Steagall said he would ask House action "as soon as possible."

Representative Rainey, the Democratic leader, predicted the measure would be adopted soon.

The committee's action followed testimony for it by Secretary Mills. He said the legislation was "sound" and "it might help the people in Michigan."

The resolution would let the comptroller of the currency exercise over national banks the same powers that State officials have over State banks.

sent to Siberia. This went on for years until the revolution came and then it was that religion was discarded, churches closed, but the clergy were not killed off as it was thought. And if an odd one was put to death it was one who had been a follower of Rasputin. When Russia ceased fighting with the Allies during the World War, it was because she was forced to do so by her own internal difficulties.

"The Cossacks played a big part in the history of the country at this time, for an army of these were got together under several generals and tried to stamp out Bo'shevism," said Mr. Rappaport, describing these soldiers as men who were brought up to kill and who perpetrated many atrocities for the mere pleasure of it. "All this," he said, "was why the young generation in Russia has done away with religion at the present time."

Russia to-day has a terribly big problem to face, and all the country has become communistic. This is a state of life which is well there but which would not suit Canada. But it means very little in reality in Russia, all there are socialistic also, but this will not last the speaker declared, "Russia," he said, "will eventually become a capitalistic country under restriction and will come back to religion."

Russian Barter

Of the Russian-Canadian barter situation Mr. Rappaport declared he was in favor, but not as at present advocated with but an exchange of seven million dollars worth of commodities and only a few of these. Exchange should be more evenly balanced and should cover a wide range of produce. Farmers in Canada were hard hit to-day, but giving advantages to the one class would not benefit the country. Every working man would have to be considered. Factories would have to run to give employment as well as staple prices for farm produce obtained. Markets for all of Canada's produce must be found, and in the matter of a barter, the things Canada needs must be demanded. Of the recent proposals put to the government, Mr Rappaport thought that the situation had never been clearly outlined to the Hon. R. B. Bennett.

Seven million dollars worth of trade would never be much between Canada and a country of 160 million people. And coal and oil in exchange for cattle and hides was not the barter Canada wanted.

A system of exchange outlined by the speaker covered a wide field of commodities. Canada, he said, wanted to sell Russia her cheese, butter, Canadian made cars, implements, machinery, horses, beef cattle, clothing, boots, raw hides and leaher. All these things Russia needs and by selling her them Canada would not be hurting her own industries. But it was essential that beef cattle should be sold and no milch cows, for, the speaker said, "if we sold her milking cows she would have the market in no time, and we have to consider the fact that we want to sell our butter and cheese."

And in exchange for these things Mr. Rappaport outlined a slate of products that Canada could demand and which would tend to increase trade in this country. Coal and oil we could take on a percentage of about 15% each. It would not do to take much coal for we had to consider the mines in our own Empire.

And there was one product that should be obtained from Russia and that was flax, for said the speaker, "the manufacture of linen could be carried out here in Canada and we do not grow sufficient flax ourselves to be up against any home competition". If Canada went into the manufacture of linen, a staple product on the market and one that could be conveniently manufactured in the mills of this country, it would give much work to many of the unemployed, create a new industry and open many of the large plants that are now standing idle. Ireland, he pointed out got all her flax from Russia for no country can compete with Russia for flax, and Canada could do the same. The linen industry was one that never dies out and was needed in Canada as much as any country.

And then the speaker believed that a small percentage of mica could be obtained in the deal, for it was also a necessary product and was mined in Russia.

Russia Has Gold

"And the balance should be paid in solid gold, for that is what we need most", he declared. "Russia, he said had more gold that the U.S.A. Great Britain or Canada put together, for she got this from the dispoiled churches, which were laden with gold and jewels at the timeof the revolution."

"She has the gold and we have to get a part of it, but we must remember that when we deal with Russia we are not dealing with savages but educated and smart people." Russia has not given away gold for the past fifteen years, he said and is still working her gold mines, something our government should remember. "If, said Mr. Rappaport, such a barter was presented to the government today, I believe that the government and the people would work out a system satisfactory to both countries which would create markets and bring prosperity, I believe that Russia is the best market today."

RELIEF TO COST $25,000,000 IN 1933 HOUSETOLD

sense of security to our people in the past and better business conditions, it will not be long delayed until the granting of direct relief to our citizens will disappear."

The Labor miniser gave a resume of unemployment relief measures undertaken this year by the Dominion. It was preliminary to moving a resolution to extend for another year the "blank cheque" legislation under which relief has been distributed for two years.

Resolution Attacked

The resolution met stout attacks by Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, forecasting another debate on the government's relief record. The Liberal leader renewed his pledge to institute a system of unemployment insurance if returned to the treasury benches.

Mr. Gordon reviewed briefly the Dominion disbursements on unemployment relief since May 1932 province across Canada.

Ontario followed the system of Dominion, Province and municipalities sharing the cost save in unorganized districts where Dominion and Province each paid half. Total disbursements (Dominion share) up to the middle of the month were $2,633,427. In Ontario certain projects had also been the object of contribution by the Federal Government. The sum of 30,000 had been laid out by the Dominion on road construction. Contributions were made to the cost of "board camps" where men were boarded and paid $10 a month in return for their work. A loan of $2,500,000 made to Ontario in January, 132, was promptly paid.

NARROW ESCAPE AT RICE LAKE

Car Goes Through Ice But Harvey Brothers Make Good Their Escape.

Crossing the ice at Rice Lake in a car almost cost the life of Mel Harvey, Harwood resident. Harvey and his brother Max were driving across the ice when they came to a fissure. They got out of the car to investigate and had just go back in their car when the ice gave a warning crack and sagged open. Fortunately the car did not sink immediately. Max Harvey got free first and succeeded in releasing his brother before the machine sank below the surface.

The car is in 12 feet of water and arrangements are being made to retrieve it. Each year somebody gets a drenching by going through the ice and Rice Lake residents are beginning to treat it as a commonplace occurrence.

HOW TO TELL IF YOU HAVE ACID STOMACH

And How to Stop It Instantly

According to many authorities, some 80% of the people of today have acid stomach. This because so many foods, comprising the modern diet, are acid forming foods.

It usually makes itself felt in sour stomach, indigestion, headaches, nausea, "gas," "biliousness," and most frequently in stomach pains that come about thirty minutes after eating. So you can easily tell if you have it.

Now Quickly and Easily Corrected

If you do have acid stomach, don't worry about it. You can correct it in a very simple manner. Just do this. It will alkalize your acid soaked stomach almost immediately. You will feel like another person.

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia with a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed.

What This Does

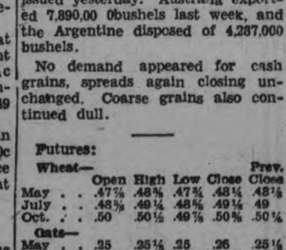
That's all you do. But you do it regularly, EVERY DAY, so long as you have any symptoms of distress.

This acts to neutralize the stomach acids that foster your "upset" stomach, that invite headaches and that feeling of lassitude and lost energy.

Try it. Results will amaze you. Your head will be clear. You'll forget you have a stomach.

BUT—be careful that you get REAL milk of magnesia when you buy; genuine PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia. See that the name "Phillips" is stamped clearly on the label.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM: Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.



PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Neutralizes Food and Tobacco Acids a few minutes after taking.

No. 1 grass butter was quoted at 23¼c to 23½c a pound for carlots or less. A fairly good out-of-town demand was experienced. Receipts were 26 boxes.

Cheese quotations held steady at 10c to 10½c for fresh or recent make Ontario colored and 11¼c to 11½c a pound for early Ontario colored. Receipts were 49 boxes.

New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes were firm at 75c to 80c per 80-pound bag, as were Prince Edward Island Green Mountains at 85c to 90c per 09-pound bag.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, February 25. — The bogey of crop damage in southwestern winter-wheat States again has lifted its head in grain-trade news. Reflecting bullishness at Chicago on receipt of drought reports from several States, wheat prices on the Winnipeg grain market recovered from early fractional losses to close practically unchanged yesterday. Trading, however, was quiet.

Values ended unchanged to ¼c higher, after being as low as ¾c under the previous close, with May future at 48¼c, July 49¼c, and October 50⅝c to 50½c.

Lack of moisture extended throughout the entire winter-wheat belt of the United States, it was said. Recently swept by sub-zero temperatures following high winds which exposed the roots, the new crop was reported in danger of complete failure. Reports, said to be official stated 62 per cent, of Nebraska's wheat acreage will be abandoned.

This news sent wheat values on the Chicago market upward and were reflected in the local pit. Prices here regained earlier declines and traded steadily but quietly until the close. Further sales of Canadian wheat for export again were reported. Sales were estimated at approximately 500,000 bushels.

Australia and Argentina were continuing their heavy shipments of wheat, it was shown in the report issued yesterday. Australia exported 7,890,00 0bushels last week, and the Argentine disposed of 4,287,000 bushels.

No demand appeared for cash grains, spreads again closing unchanged. Coarse grains also continued dull.

DUTCH SCIENTIST FINDS SOVIET AIDS IN THE STUDY OF RELIGION

present-day observers in Russia in that he knew the old Czarist Russia. He is therefore able to make valuable comparisons. As his name indicates he is of Russo-Baltic origin. The fact that he is rector of the College of Dordt, the Dutch city which has always been known as the citadel of Calvinism, precludes the slightest suspicion of partiality for the Soviets.

I made an effort to learn Dr. Piotr Hendrix's views on the religious situation in Russia when I discovered that he is perhaps the only man who goes regularly to Russia for one definite purpose, namely the study of the Orthodox church, its literature and its widely ramified institutions. He happened to be in Berlin on his way back to Holland after a short stay in the Ukraine, where his investigations had carried him to several of the oldest monasteries.

"You must not expect any political opinions or elucidations from me, because I simply do not know anything on the subject," he began. "I go to Russia to do my work, which is the study of Slavonic manuscripts and ikons and I have nothing to do with and very little interest in the political situations of the country. I know no more about contemporary Russian politics than about German or Dutch internal politics. My interest is the Orthodox church. I began my studies long before the revolution and have kept them up uninterruptedly, except in the war years when the journey was too difficult and too expensive for my purse" Dr. Hendrix said.

"You go to study the religious question in an anti-religious atmosphere. Do not the new authorities hamper your movements?"

Gets Soviet Aid

"To the contrary" replied the Dutch savant. "There is an excellent chance to study the religious question and the history of religion quite objectively. The authorities are anxious, to the fullest posible data on this subject. They know the meaning of religion and its significance in the history of Russia and in the daily life of millions. Consequently they want to probe this force and understand it. There is more serious study of religion, real scientific research of religion I mean, than before the revolution. The revolution gave us access to sources which were before that epoch guarded with the mystifying atmosphere of miracle-mongering. With religion it is like every other subject under the sun in Russia. More worth while scientific research is carried on in the new Russia than in any other country in the world at present."

"Have you perfect freedom on your trips?"

'Perfect. I go where I like, speak to whom I like and leave when my time is up. I have nothing to do with official travel agencies. The men I come in contact with are philologists and clergymen."

"As to the monasteries and church libraries do you go in and out freely?"

"Quite freely."

"Dr. Hendrix," I said "a Canadian newspaper recently quoted Dr. Will Durant as saying that visitors are shown only what the auhorities want them to see."

"Who is Will Durant?" he came back.

"He is a popularizer of the works of great philosophers in America."

"Was he to Russia?"

"No. I do not think so. In fact I am certain."

"Well, then my dear sir" replied Dr. Hendrix, "let us not talk of the gentleman, for he is obviously not concerned with facts but with opinions."

"What is the position of the Orthodox church in Russia to-day?"

"It is the same as that in France or Spain you might say. There is absolute separation between church and state. In view of the fact that the Orthodox church was formerly a state institution this change has wrought great hardships on the priests. They must now depend entirely on the generosity of their members for a living. As non-productive individuals they have no civic rights either. The Soviets literally apply the evangelic command: "Who does not work neither shall he eat." The priests are known as 'ballast citizens', individuals who constitute excess weight on the body social. The priests are not permitted to give religious instruction to anyone under the age of eighteen. The Soviet educational department considers that the immature human mind is too impressionable.'

Young Men Enter Priesthood

"Yet there are plenty of young men taking up the study of religion in spite of the hardships involved," went on the Dutch savant. "I recently saw a class of eighteen divinity students being consecrated deacons by one of the metropolitans. All eighteen of them had been through the Red army and all its anti-religious propaganda classes and nevertheless there they were setting out to be priests. I had a conversation with some of these young clerics." Dr. Hendrix continued, "and I was deeply impressed with their spirit. One of them said: 'We consider that now when religion has been stripped of its privileged position and is no longer a mere garment of social deportment, its real test has come. Now is the time for Christianity to show whether its rules for the conduct of life are valuable aids in the establishment of a new order. Formerly when religion was imposed from above and was taken as a self-evident feature of Russian life, it had not the power it has now when Christians are Christians by their own free will, by deliberate choice and conviction.'

"It struck me forcibly," continued Dr. Hendrix, "that the Soviet authorities have a deeper respect for these new young Christians than they had for the old clergy. The fact that a large number of priests, some say fifty thousand, has voluntarily abandoned the church to become industrial and agricultural workers, has give a new orientation to the Soviet attitude to religion, an attitude of greater tolerance. To my knowledge there have been several decrees toning down the activity of the 'Bezbogniki'—anti-God society in 1931 and 1932. The decrees stipulate that there must be no physical persecution, but that anti-religious propaganda must fight in a principled way, refuting superstition and bringing light."

"What are the results?" I asked. "Is the new generation anti-religious?"

"I would rather say that the young generation is a-religious, that is unreligious, indifferent, as the young generation is everywhere else, in Germany, in England, in Holland, in America. Religion does not interest them. We are far from the days when a group of young men could sit down seriously to dispute for hours how many angels can stand on the point of a needle. I say this by way of illustration. The economic circumstances, the advance of technique changes the tastes of man and his intellectual interests in every epoch of history. The historical materialists are perfectly right in this contention. It is a pity our religious leaders do not study the materialist conception of history a little to keep abreast of what is going on in the world if only in order to restate religious values in terms of the twentieth century instead of the thirteenth.

Opera Company Turns Choir

"Still I must say that I saw some churches in Russia on this last trip so crowded that there is really no comparison in western countries. Wherever Sergius, the new patriarch appears, huge throngs crowd in the cathedrals and even in the gardens and courts. In Kieff the Sverdlov opera in a body attends the services, they are all religious men and women. With the opera company turned into a choir the service in the cathedral in that city is the most gorgeously impressive ceremonial in all Christendom at the present time, Rome not excluded.

"Above all I was struck with the intensity of religious life, with the amazing devotion of the Orthodox priests, especially the younger groups. I may not talk out of my turn, but I know quite certainly that Joseph Stalin, himself an exseminarist, has the greatest respect for the new clergy. He recently actually used the phrase, 'religious awakening,' in discussing this and declared: 'We welcome it, because this time it is a spontaneous manifestation' . . . It is such a pity that these things are not published abroad, and that we read scarcely anything in our papers but silly calumies and outright lies. There is so much that is good and admirable in Russian life."

"Ye the Pope has but recently complained again about the state of affairs in the Russian church?"

"I know," replied Dr. Hendrix, "but did you also read the answer of the Orthodox patriarchs to the bull of the Roman pontiff?"

"No," I said, "They passed a joint resolution," replied the Dutch scientist, "condemning the Pope's interference, declaring the interest of Rome at this time more than suspicious and pointed to Roman Catholic activities in and outside the Vatican in connection with Russia, which clearly show the nature and object of the Pope's intervention.

"The great wrong which Christians abroad do to the cause of the Orthodox church," he went on, "is to allow their sympathy for the church to degenerate into sterile anti-Bolshevism. What we must remember is this. The Orthodox church in Russia does not fight the state or does not stand hostile against the state. It does fight, it certainly is a church militant, but it fights for its right within the framework of the state. The Orthodox church is developing tremendous inner power. It is producing a revolution in Christian life. This we must keep in mind also when we consider the motives of the Roman pontiff's pronunciamenti. We harm the cause of religion in Russia when we imagine we must fight by calumny the Russian state in its behalf. It gives the Soviets the definite impression that anti-Sovietism and religion are one and the same thing. So long as religious organizations outside Russia are identical with vulgar anti-Sovietism, we cannot expect anything else but that the Soviet authorities treat religious organizations inside Russia as enemies of the state."

ST. PAUL'S CAGE QUINTETTE FALLS TO "Y" INTERMEDIATES

"Y" Seniors Add Another Victory to List by Subduing Westclox 17-10.

SAINTS LOSE 20-2.

The Ladies' Basketball League ran off four interesting games. St. Paul's were defeated by the "Y" Intermediates in the first encounter. The game was fast and all counters were well earned. In the first quarter V. Davidson gathered in a foul shot for St. Paul's and S. Ecobichon a foul shot for "Y" Intermediates. In the second quarter C. Patterson netted a field basket and ended the score at half time 3-1 for St. Paul's.

In the second half the Intermediates connected by making better use of their chances. Both teams started off in a cautious manner with the defense checking closely. In the 3rd quarter the Intermediates broke away twice and on each occasion D. Paterson netted a field basket.

In the last quarter the only basket came in the last few minutes when S. Ecobichon netted her own rebound from a long shot. The game ended in a 7-3 victory for the "Y" Intermediates.

Line-ups:

"" Intermediates—Forwards, S. Ecobichon, S. Simpson, A. Thompson, J. McConomy; Centret, D. Paterson, E. Lynch; defense, L. Magee, J. Dawson, D. Ackford.

St. Paul's—Forwards, C. Patterson, C. Legon, I. Reid; centre, V. Davidson; defense, E. Morrow, S. Jackson, J. Howson, I. Cowan.

Referee—Stan Shields.

"Y' SENIORS ADD TO LIST

The "Y" Seniors added another victory to their list by defeating the Westclox Seniors in the second game. Both teams specialized in a fast passing game and combined with the constant running attack on both baskets. In the first quarter H. Cole gahered in a foul shot followed by a field basket for the Westclox by G. Robinson. I. Davidson added a field goal for the "Y" Seniors. In the second quarter J. Harvey scored for the "Y" and G. Robinson for the Westvlox, to bring the score at half time 5-4 for "Y" Seniors.

In the second half the "Y" Intermediates opened up the lead to finish coasting to victory. In third quarter the Seniors netted netted four field baskets to Westclox's one put in by M. Mortimer, H. Cole, J. Harvey, I. Davidhon and E. Armstrong scored the four baskets. In the last four two baskets were alloted to each team. E. Armstrong and H. Cole, registering for "Y" Seniors and G. Mortimer and G. Robinson for the Westclox. The final score was 17-10 for Seniors.

Line-ups:

"Y" Seniors—Forwards, I. Davidson, J. Harvey, E. Armstrong; centre, H. Cole, defense, H. Jackson, O. Elcombe, J. Allin, S. Levine.

Westclox—Forwards, G. Mortimore, G. Robinson, H. Joyce, E. Bradley; centre, M. Mortimer; J. Hardill; defense, B. Thirnbeck, D. Webb, C. Mason.

Referee—Stan Shields.

Saints Lose 20—2

The Westclox Jrs. defeated the St. Andrew's team in the third game. The St. Andrew's team was held to one goal throughout the game, which was registered by M. Weir in the last quarter. The winners missed very few chances to score, while the St. Andrew's time and time again threw away real scoring chances with their futile attempts to work into a scoring position. The all-round play of D. Routley stood out for the winners, as she scored ten points to lead her team to victory. B. Blade scored six, while M. Blade was next in line with four points. Line-up:—

Westclox Jrs: — Forwards, B. Blade, D. Routley, C. Whatman; centre, M. Blade; defence, M. Terrace, A. Crary, G. Brand.

St. Andrew's—Forwards, J. Cole, M. Donaldson, H. Heffernan, M. Clarke; centre, M. Weir; defence, D. Tremaine, M. Lytle, M. Stacey.

Referee—Joe Cooper.

A Close Battle

The Blue Petes and C.G.E. Srs. played a nip-and-tuck game. At no time did either team have more than a 2-point lead. How closely matched the two teams were is well illustrated by the score. The C.G.E. Srs. started the scoring off when M. Hodson tallied. P. McClellan and H. Bradley gathered in two field baskets for the Blue Petes, which was followed by a basket by L. Coursey to even the count at quarter time.

In the second quarter, P. McClellan registered a foul shot. L. Coursey tallied for the C.G.E. Srs. and V. Huffman registered another foul shot for the Blue Petes to knot the score 6-6 at half time.

The last half was confined to one foul shot which decided the game. H. Bradley registered this in the last quarter to bring the score at full time in favor of the Blue Petes, 7-6. Line-up:—

Blue Petes.—Forwards, H. Bradley, V. Huffman, B. Rogers; centre, P. McClellan; defense, R. Allan, D. Allan, A. Davis, K. Caddy.

C.G.E. Srs.—Forwards, M. Hodson, L. Coursey, H. Peryer; centre, M. Amyott; defence, B. Cappisoli, M. Hallihan, M. Burnley.

Referee—Joe Cooper.

BETWEEN BOOK ENDS

As J. W. Cunliffe said in a recent tribute there will be countless people on both sides of the Atlantic who will feel that without John Galsworthy the world is a poorer place to live in. So far John Galsworthy's literary reputation has stood the test of time better than either of the other great Edwardians, his contemporaries, Arnold Bennett and H. G. Wells. His work has, more than theirs, the charm of a personal style which is perhaps the surest preservative of a work of literature after its immediate contemporary interest has gone by. It was characteristic of him that while H. G. Wells was arguing energetically for the League of Nations, and Arnold Bennett was no less busily engaged in the National Publicity Office under Lord Northcliffe, Galsworthy had been working quietly and anonymously in a French military hospital as a masseur. In his own field—the social history of the English upper middle class during the last half century—Galsworthy can not be surpassed. The son of a London lawyer, educated at Harrow and Oxford, he knew this class thoroughly and yet was able to regard it with a detachment which was for the most part artistically perfect. In his dramas he liked to have "a spire of meaning" and this was no doubt the ground of Max Beerbolhm's quip that Galsworthy had "sold his birthright for a pot of message". And while one must admit the Galsworthy's sympathy for the underdog sometimes inclined him to sentimental exaggeration in their defence, he never sacrificed his artistic sincerity or deviated a hair's breadth from what he believed to be true for the sake of literary success or popular applause.

"Candelabra" by John Galsworthy, 1933. "Candelabra" is a group of 20 essays and addresses dealing vicariously with literature, life and living. Practically speaking, they represent in general terms Mr. Galsworthy's working philosophy, garnered from his writing during the years 1909 to 1931. This is a perplexing sort of thing for any many to write—you cannot tell whether the thing is unsayable or not until you have made your attempt to say it. And if you don't attempt it you will never know. Fluidness is the hall mark of all such work and these essays have that hall mark. Written in Mr. Galsworthy's fine clear prose, these essays will not disappoint the admirer of the author, and meditation of them will make more acute the sense of our loss. Gone is an comsummate artist and an English gentleman.

"Mr. Chilvester's Daughters" by Edith Olivier, 1933

In this new novel, "Mr. Chilvester's Daughters" Miss Olivier constructs a plot much as she did in "Dwarf's Blood', fantastic and yet coldly possible. Mr. Chilvester lived in a large Queen Ann house, totally devoid of drains and other modern atmosphere, in the quiet Cathedral Close. He lives only for his house, shutting himself off from the life of the small provincial town. His house even takes precedent over his two daughters—Lilian, crippled and confined to her attic room, but there living a life of spiritual ecstasy with her painting and the view from the attic window; and Emily, quiet, unworldly and crushed by her fathers mental domination.

With her usual quiet incisiveness, despite the obvious fantasy, Miss Olivier spins this story of how Mr. Chilvester fights to preserve his house and the old world traditions from the encroachment of the hated modern life. Mrs. Clodia Bowerman, who is all that Mr. Chilvester is not, introduced Emily to the outside world and unintentionally plays a great part in Emily's romance and the death of the crippled Lilian. Miss Olivier handles her marionettes with all the grace and skill of Sue Hastings or Tony Sarg. "Mr. Chilvester's Daugters" is a charming tragedy and although it is not as sensational as "Dwarf's Blood" it will probably make a more lasting impression upon the reader's mind.

"The Salutation", by Sylvia Townsend Warner, 1932

Miss Townsend Warner is one of those few English women who, with Virginia Woolf and Rose Macaulay have developed a very individualistic style of writing. "Lolly Willows"—that object lesson in how Satan should be dealt with in modern fiction—is always remembered with a tightening of the cheek muscles, while "Mr. Fortune's Maggot" sets an example of how the perfect missionary story might be handled. In a different vein from these two first novels is "The True Heart," a quiet novel steeped in the delicacy and charm of her poetry. Miss Townsend Warner exhibits in these former writings all the usual depth, charm, penetration and mastery of technique with an added mordacity which is a perpetual delight. Consequently an announcement of a new book from her vitriol-dipped feather quill is an event to celebrate. And her new book, "The Salutation" is no disappointment. It is a book of two long stories and thirteen little sketches, all gems expertly cut to expose mulitudinous facets. "The Salutation" is almost certain to provide several evenings of fine entertainment.

MOUNT PLEASANT

Mrs. William Elliott of Unionville, is visiting her daugher, Mrs. Eric McLean.

Mrs. James Paul and Mrs. Albert Tinney of Cavan, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dora Lowe, on Thursday.

Mrs. John Mitchell spent the week end visiting friends in Toronto.

SCOTT MALCOLM COMING TO CITY

Will Appear in the Madrigal Concert on Tuesday Evening.

ALSO FAMOUS 'CELLIST

The assisting artists for the Madrigal concert in the Collegiate Auditorium on Tuesday evening, are Joyce Hornyansky, cellist, and Scott Malcolm, pianist.

Joyce Hornyansky is an Englishwoman who married the Hungarian artist, Nicolas Hornyansky, and so spent much of her time abroad. She is one of the finest cellists on this continent, and is a prominent figure in the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, as well as many chamber music aggregations. Her playing is remarkable for beautiful tone, and her musicianship is unquestioned from the first notes of her performance.

Scott Malcolm is, without doubt, one of the most brilliant of Canadian pianists, and, with Reginald Godden, has become very well known for the outstanding excellence of their two-piano ensemble. His technical equipment is so perfect that his playing appears to be entirely effortless, and all his attention fixed upon getting the greatest possible meaning out of every phrase.

The poetic character of these pla:::s will blend very beautifully with the work of the "Madrigal Singers," as the aim of the conductor and chorus is to capture as much beauty, and delicacy of outline and design as the combined brains and voices of these sincere lovers of music can visualize, and make audible.

A.A.U. OF C. THROUGH.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 24 (C.P.).—No further action will be taken by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada in its dispute with the Alberta branch over the eligibility of two players. "We have accomplished what we were after," J. H. Croker, president, said to-day, "and that was the exclusion of two class "A" pros from amateur hockey."

Should the Alberta branch reinstate two players, Lindsay Carver and Ike Faulder, the matter would be reopened by the A.A.U. of C., however.

Frequently representatives of The Examiner are told, "that their Advertising Rates are too high," therefore this comparison is made to show that—

Of 19 Newspapers in Ontario The Examiner's Rates Are the LOWEST!

The basis of comparison used is the cost per inch of advertising space, per thousand of circulation. That is, for every thousand copies each paper sells an inch of advertising space costs the amount shown. This makes the comparison absolutely fair to all newspapers.

The figures given were compiled by the A.C.A. (Association of Canadian Advertisers) and not by The Examiner, and appeared in The Kitchener "Record" of Feb. 15th, 1933. This Association, made up of those who spend large sums on advertising, has no interest in any particular publication, consequently each newspaper was dealt with impartially.

The figures in the right-hand column are the milline rates—a rate that is understood by every large user of space—based on the cost per agate line per million circulation.

Paper	Cost Per Inch Per Thousand Copies.	Milline Rate.
Lindsay "Post"	.1453	$10.38
Oshawa "Times"	.11	7.83
Guelph "Mercury"	.0754	5.39
Welland "Tribune"	.0734	5.24
Chatham "News"	.0729	5.21
Woodstock "Sentinel-Review"	.0697	4.98
St. Catharines "Standard"	.0693	4.95
Sarnia "Observer"	.0692	4.94
Belleville "Intelligencer"	.0654	4.67
Niagara Falls "Review"	.0644	4.60
Galt "Reporter"	.0636	4.54
St. Thomas "Times-Journal"	.0619	4.42
Brockville "Recorder"	.0617	4.41

PETERBOROUGH "EXAMINER"	.0533	3.81
Average of all papers	.0707	5.49
PETERBOROUGH "EXAMINER"	.0533	3.81

Besides charging the lowest rate of any paper in its class in Ontario, The Examiner's rates are practically 25% lower than the average, or to be exact 24.61%.

PERCY COUPLE 52 YEARS WED

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Huycke Observe Wedding Anniversary To-day.

MARRIED IN WARKWORTH

HASTINGS, Feb. 25 (Examiner Correspondence).—Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Huycke of Sunny Brae, Percy Township, celebrated the fifty-second anniversary of their wedding on Thursday, February 23. Mr. Huycke, whose parents were one of the pioneer farmers of Percy Township, has spent his entire long life on the present homestead along the shores of the beautiful Trent, and is a favorite summer resort for a large number of tourists.

The bride of fiftytwo years ago was born in Millbrook, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Luke Berry.

The happy ceremony was performed in Warkworth on February 23rd, 1881, the Rev. Mr Cragg officiating. The attendants were Miss Margaret Berry, sister of the bride, and W. W. Huycke, brother of the groom.

There are five children of the happy union: Mrs. L. A. Gould of Havelock, Miss May Huycke of Percy Township, Mrs. P. C. Watt of Winnipeg and Messrs. Cecil and Ray of Percy Township.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Huycke are enjoying the best of health, the latter being actively engaged in managing his farm at Sunny Brae.

CERTIFICATE RECEIVED.

A certificate of merit won by the City of Peterborough which took second place in Class C for the Province of Ontario, in the Fire Prevention and Clean-up Campaign conducted during the week of October 9-15, 1932, has just been received by Fire Chief George Gimblett.

Issued by the National Fire Protection Association Committee on Fire Prevention, the certificate, "Hereby certifies that the City of Peterborough has been awarded second place, Class C, Province of Ontario, in the record of merit for educational activities promoted during the Fire Prevention Week, October 9-15, 1932."

Obituary

MRS. JOHN McCANN.

The funeral of the late Mrs. John McCann, whose death occurred in Detroit, Michigan, on Tuesday, was held on Thursday from the home of her sister, Mrs. Hannah Lynch, of Otonabee, to the Sacred Heart Church, Peterborough, where Requiem High Mass was said by a brother of the deceased, Very Rev. M. J. O'Leary, parish priest of Bracebridge, assisted by Rev. P. J. Lynch, nephew, Rev. Kearney and Rev. G. R. Maher of Huntsville. The sermon was preached by Rev. J. J. Guiry, of Port Hope, and present in the sanctuary were His Excellency Bishop O'Connor of Peterborough, Rt. Rev. W. J. McColl of Lindsay, Rev. J. J. O'Brien of Peterborough, Rev. Paul Costello, Rev. Vincent Corkery, Rev. C. J. Begley of Peterborough, Rev. P. J. Galvin of Grafton, Rev. E. Welsh and Rev. Leo Rishea of Trent Creek, Rev. E. Grant of Lindsay. Rev. C. J. Maloney of Sacred Heart Church, Peterborough, acted as Master of Ceremonies.

The late Mrs. McCann, whose death occurred at the age of 54 years, was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John O'Leary of Otonabee. Eighteen years ago she was married to John McCann of Bracebridge, where she and her husband made their home until ten years ago. She is survived by her husband, and three sons, Joseph, Francis and William; four brothers, Very Rev. M. J. O'Leary of Bracebridge, Very Rev. Joseph P. O'Leary of Saint Paul's Church, Saskatoon; Maurice and William O'Leary of Otonabee; also two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth McDonnell of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Hannah Lynch of Otonabee.

The prayers at the grave in St. Joseph's Cemetery, Douro, were read by her brother, Very Rev. Dean O'Leary, assisted by Rev. M. J. McGuire, Rev. F. Guiry, Rev. G. R. Maher and Rev. G. J. Lynch.

Among the mourners and friends present were Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Morrin, Mr. and Mrs. James Fitzmaurice and Mr. Thomas Pelletier, of Bracebridge; Mr. William Holdship and son Joseph and daughter, Margaret, of Montreal.

CANON SAWERS GUEST SPEAKER AT SCOUT DINNER

St. John's Scout Troop and Fathers Hold Annual Dinner.

PROGRAM EXCELS.

Fred Gallon is Appointed Scoutmaster of 1st Peterborough Troop.

Fred Gallon was last night appointed scoutmaster of 1st Peterborough (St. John's) Troop of Boy Scouts at the fifth annual father and son banquet of the troop held at St. John's Parish Hall.

The appointment made by the troop committee, was announced at the well-attended banquet, by Dr. G. Murray Fraser in his dual capacity as chairman of the committee and toastmaster of the evening. There were over one hundred Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs and their fathers present at the function, and the rousing cheer that greeted the announcement was ample proof that the appointee has the backing of his troop. Mr. Gallon had been acting scoutmaster of the troop for some weeks.

As guest speaker, Rev. Canon Sawers delivered an inspirational address on the subject of citizenship, during which he stressed the responsibilities that were synonomous with the privileges of being the citizen of such a nation as Canada. He made comparisons between what he termed "the condition of virtual slavery that exists in Russia," and the "law abiding, peaceful atmosphere of Canada." To stress his point more forcibly, the speaker dwelt on the privileges of being a citizen "of this great city of Peterborough."

To the fathers he pointed out the responsibility that was theirs in ever striving to place before their sons the highest and noblest ideals, and concluded by making mention of the sacrifice that had been made by the 50,000 Canadians who gave their all on the battlefields of France and Flanders and elsewhere. "They believed," he said, "that Canada was worth dying for. If they thought that, have we not a tremendous and growing responsibility to feel that Canada is worth while living for. By giving of the best we have in us we can show that we appreciated the sacrifices that were made for us."

Canon Sawers, preliminary to his address, thanked the members of the troop committee for having invited him to address the scouts and their fathers. He felt at home at St. John's, he remarked. It was the church in which he was baptized; of which he had once been a member of the choir; and in which he was confirmed.

He exhibited marked ability as a raconteur, and made Tom Hooper, Sr., and Sid Gibbs the victims of some humourously personal anecdotes he related, and referring back to the time when he had lived in this city.

Scout Program Excels.

Referring to various boys' groups with which he was familiar, the speaker believed there was no program of boys' work that could equal that offered by the Boy Scout movement. It was a movement that strove for the highest and best, and one that placed God first. "Any movement that places God first," he said, "is a movement that is going to do wonderful things."

Following the toast to "The King," Scout Fred Simmons ably proposed a toast to "The Church," which was responded to by the Rev. E. R. James and by the singing of a verse of the hymn, "The Church's One Foundation."

Mr. James briefly referred to the church as "a school for saints." Providing a definition of a saint, he described him as a man who strives to lead an upright life and who helps other people to believe in God.

Scout Tom Hooper proposed a toast to "The Chief Scout," to which District Commissioner John T. Hornsby responded.

Commissioner Hornsby traced the growth of the Scout movement which had grown, he said, from a small group of boys to a world-wide membership of over four million boys. There were 21,000 Scouts in Ontario, he said.

He paid tribute to Baden Powell, the founder of the movement, who celebrated his 75th birthday anniversary this week, and described the movement as providing the greatest all-round training for boys.

In congratulating St. John's Troop on their high standing as a part of the great Scout movement, Mr. Hornsby foretold continued success under the new leadership of Scoutmaster Gallon.

An appetizing and adequate meal was prepared by the women workers of the church, who received the enthusiastic thanks of the gathering. Community singing during the intermissions between speeches was led by Scout Tom Coleman.

The chairman was accompanied at the head table by Venerable Archdeacon R. C. Blagrave, D.D., and by H. C. Scotheran, president of the local Boy Scout Association and member of the troop committee and by D. J. Lawrie, also a member of the troop committee, in addition to the speaker and other guests.

Peterboro' Relief Drive Subscriptions

Two Peterborough industrial companies added $550.00 to the city's Relief Fund this week, bringing the total appreciably past the $12,000 mark.

City Treasure Adams received a cheque for $300 from John R. Marshall of the Canadian Nashua Paper Company, and another cheque for $250 from John H. Vernor of the Western Clock Company.

Every citizen, especially the property owners will be heartened by the fact that this effort has already produced more than $36 000, part of which would otherwise have been a levy on the city treasury.

The Relief Fund appeal has been moving along quietly and without any of the usual campaign "go-getting" fuss. It should be recalled that The Toronto Savings and Loan Company promised a second subscription of $1,000 if the fund reached $19,000.

So the last stretch toward the $20,000 is positively assured if the public piles up the $19,000.

Mr. Adams also reported to-day that the Canadian Department Stores Limited had notified him that they would contribute $100 in goods on orders from the Relief Officer, and the Dickson Store has supplied the Relief Depot on George street with goods of $50 value.

CIRCLE PRESENTS TWO-ACT COMEDY

'Parlour Matches' is Very Gay and Attractive Little Play.

"Parlour Matches" is the title of the delightful little society comedy in two acts that was presented last night to a filled hall in St. Andrew's Sunday School auditorium, by the Alpha Mission Circle of the church, with Mrs. F. G. McNeely directing.

It was a gay and attractive play that was in excellent hands. Each member of the cast acted splendidly and the production left nothing to be desired. Appreciative applause form the audience showed their leasure in the acting and outlining of the two acts that depended upon characterization mainly for their effect. Complications and misunderstanding, the favorite element in amateur plays, also entered into the story.

The stage setting was exceptionally bright and pretty. Many colored shades on wall and floor lights cast a soft glow over the living-room in which the two acts took place.

Mrs. Seltoon, a managing, match-making mama whose thoughts dwelt on worldly matters, was excellently portrayed by Miss Alice Cocks, while her two very pretty and stylishly-attired daughters were Miss Eleanor Stacey as Margaret, and Miss Hazel Davidson as Suzanne.

Their respective suitors, two personable young men who fitted in admirably with the scene, were J. I. Johnston, as Don Radey, and E. McLaren as Ferdinand Poppleton. The former sang very acceptably in the before-dinner hour of the second act, while the latter had a career for amateur theatricals and excelled on sundry occasions. His gift for his histrionics stood him in good stead in the little episode with his jealous lady love, when he was exceptionally good.

Miss Marjorie Read was the lovely young cousin, Gail Lawrence, who arrives to make her home with the Steltoons and is greeted by [illegible] plans for her matrimonial future, by Mrs. Seltoon. She is a little huffy about it and proceeds to announce her own engagement to a mysterious man, taking his name from a magazine cover. Adrian [illegible] the famous movie actor, is her choice, and the youth presently appears in person, as the cousin and guest of Don Radey.

Ben McMaster is the visiting celebrity, in real life Vance Trelford, and he mistakes the new Scotch maid for the visitor and retires in great haste.

The [illegible]s, the maid and Butler, provide the comedy element and great pair they are. Mrs. J. Sherrat is the sentimental maid, Abbie Mullin, and William [illegible] is the hard-working and weary impressive butler, Emanuel Jones.

Between acts, announced by the [illegible] Dr. C. V. McLean, entertainment numbers that were enthusiastically received and encored were the piano solos by Mrs. William Auld, playing Romance in B flat and Chopin's Valse in D Minor, and the reading by Miss Jessie Tully, a pupil of Mrs. McNeely, who convulsed her audience with the fun of "Clinicked," and its cute little encore.

BOYS' BAND TO BE ORGANIZED IN PETERBOROUGH CITY AT ONCE

These Bands Have Become Very Popular in Many Ontario Cities and Towns—Local Movement Endorsed By Peterborough Musicians.

Several prominent musicians and other outstanding citizens of Peterborough for some time have felt that a Boys' Band would be an asset both to the rising generation and the community.

During the past three years bands of this type have been successfully organized in several cities and towns in Ontario, and the experience of playing in public and musical knowledge derived by the boys is bound to help prepare them for their future.

For the past two years a Boys' Band Contest has been included in the series of contests sponsored by the Ontario Amateur Bands Association in connection with the Canadian National Exhibition held in Toronto, and bands have competed from all parts of Ontario. One boys' band journeyed all the way from Vancouver for the competition; an experience and event never to be forgotten by all the members of this band, many of them only twelve years of age.

A few of the centres that have successfully organized Boys' Bands include Toronto, Hamilton, Weston, Woodstock, Brantford, Ingersoll, Windsor, Stratford, Lindsay, Simcoe, Norwich, Owen Sound, Forest, Fort Erie, Clinton and Parkhill. Some of these have been organized less than two years, and the majority of the boys previously knew nothing about music or the playing of an instrument. Now many of them show talent and ability sufficient to develop into first class musicians.

Boys' Bands have become very popular and have proved to be great attractions at concerts, banquets, garden parties and fall fairs.

Professor Gliddon of the Conservatory of Music, one of Peterborough's outstanding musicians, having had twenty-five years' experience, and having conducted several bands and orchestras in this vicinity has been approached. He not only advocates the movement but offers his assistance. Mr. Allan Wilson, local bandmaster and musician, is also a strong supporter of the idea.

The band will consist of about forty boys ranging in age from ten to eighteen years, and it is unnecessary to have any musical education whatsoever to quality.

A live organization is behind the movement and they have arranged a very practical method that is decidedly economical to all concerned.

The application form required is below. Fill it in and send it to Box 4471 Examiner. It places you under no obligation, and you will be given full particulars

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet,
Or dims the radiant light
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind;
But each shall seek the common weal—
The good of all mankind.

MILLBROOK

A paper on "Community Activities," read at the February meeting of the Millbrook Branch of the Women's Institute, held on Saturday afternoon, included the following information:

Madam President and Fellow Members of the Institute.—In preparing this talk on the Community Activities of our Institute I was amazed to find how great is the variety in this section of our program, how far-reaching the results, how many our own branch is already engaged in, and how altogether rich an organization is the Women's Institute—rich in opportunities, in resources, in achievements, and in its possibilities of still greater growth.

In the Hand-Book, Community Activities are defined as "undertakings in the interest of the whole community, in co-operation with all the local boards, church, fraternal, and civic, such as providing, or maintaining community halls, rest rooms, parks, fire equipment, street lights, schools and school grounds, cemeteries, entertainments, Christmas trees,—and that does not by any means exhaust the list. Doesn't that look like a program broad enough to engage all our talents, all our membership, all, and perhaps, more time than we can spare?

At one of the provincial conventions one speaker compared the Institute to a big wheel, the Institute the hub, each spoke an activity reaching out and touching the rim (the community), binding the whole together, making it useful, and meaning a better locality in which to live. Shall we consider first then some of the activities our own branch is already engaged in; as, for instance, providing a layette for the local hospital. Branches all over the Dominion support in various ways their hospital, and at present in a northern district surrounding branches are combining their efforts to provide a sterilizer for the central hospital of that section.

Sick Loan Box

While we are on this subject we might mention that a Junior Institute in Central Ontario has a "Sick Loan Box,' 'any article in which is to be loaned where needed. Those who can, pay a small amount—those who cannot are asked only to take good care of the articles, return them clean, in good condition, and as soon as they have no further need of them. Then we note the afternoon's free skating on the rink as most commendable; several branches have even provided a rink, or pay for the lighting; one branch receiving in return the right to use this open-air ground for a community tennis court in summer. Branches serve lunches for visiting hockey teams, without charge, when the local boys would like to extend this hospitality, and have made or bought sweaters, caps, and for ball teams made flannel shirts to equip the lads and encourage clean sport. I find also that a good activity is supplying basketball equipment, or costume, for the girls, and one branch bought enamel and silver pins for the girls who had the other necessities. One pays a teacher to instruct the girls in the game since there is no other way of supervision, the school not caring to take the team as one of its responsibilities.

The tourist sign boards at the four roads leading into the village are another activity many branches have followed; and the flowers round the Cenotaph—but one branch goes farther and has bought and painted suitable benches, placed them under the trees in the bit of park surrounding the Memorial, putting a brass plate on each "Donated by the W.I." Supervision at the noon hour in some schools is a responsibility assumed by the W.I., and one branch presented the school with a well-bound, up-to-date dictionary; another gave the school a fine flag; another a first-aid kit, while several do what this branch is doing, provide prizes for the annual school fair.

"Community Beautification' 'is a big term, but it means just this—that Institute members agree to have their own lawns and home surroundings as attractive as possible, with flowers, shrubs, and nicely-kept lawns, making a better impression on visitors, and incidentally raising the ideals of their own minds, and of their households. The placing of a wreath on the Cenotaph on Armistice Day is highly important, but one branch goes farther and each fall packs a supply of apples, and other fruit and ships the box to the Christie Street Hospital; also they see to it that the custom selling poppies at that season is not allowed to lapse "Lest We Forget."

Party Ideas

St. Valentine parties are very much favored by a number of Institutes or on St. Patrick's Day as our own branch favors, but a new idea is that of gathering the younger element for a Hallowe'en party serving a banquet and having the boys propose the toast to their fathers (some of whom are present) and the girls to their mothers. Games and contests follow, or the party may take the form of a masquerade with prizes for costumes—the whole idea being to give the boys and girls a happy time and avoid any destructive pranks out of doors on the night "when witches hold high carnival." A community Christmas Tree is another activity not too generally observed, the W.I. being responsible for the tree and its trimmings of colored lights, arranging for the singing of carols round it, and then having parties of singers visit the shut-ins and sing for them the carols they invariably love to hear.

A number of branches report holding motoring excursion to some point of educational interest—down east they went to the Experimental Farm at Kemptville—chartering a bus and having a fine outing. Incidentally new members were gained because only members were allowed to go, so several paid the extra quarter to be enrolled, and bought their tickets beside. "You'll be nicely entertained when they know you come as a branch, we are assured. Money for all these activities are necessary, and from a survey all over the land we find that baking sales, candy sales, teas, catering for various banquets, and conventions, entertainments, rentals from properties owned by the W. I., such as flat ware, dishes, halls, pianos, folding chairs, etc., furnish the wherewithal to continue the good work.

Certainly interesting the young folk in dramatics is listed of high value, but caution is urged in the choice of a play, and the elimination of all slang and profanity before the parts are given out and practices begin. At one place they take a collection at each meeting, but no one must give "anything more than copper," and this fund is used for Christmas cheer baskets (another local and commendable practice), for fruit and flowers for sick members, and any other special object that naturally crops up, and has a claim on the expense fund. One hesitates to mention rest room in this Branch because our experience has not been a happy one in this regard—but after all, is there any convenience we need more in our village than just this? Did you know that in some places where women from the country round come to a central village for shopping the Branches unite in providing such a convenience—say Cavan and Millbrook as joint owners of the room?

One Branch built a dining hall on the fair grounds, in co-operation with the Agricultural Society, and also built and furnished a "Mothers' Comfort Station," with baskets and cradles for the babies so mother might rest in peace — ambitious, wherein't they? But a fine community activity. We must not forget the libraries; we are fortunate in having a good public library, but many places would utterly lack this advantage were it not for the valuable service the W. I., has given in this connection. If a real library could not be secured then at least they had a "travelling library" in the community for three or six months out of the year, and actually there are instances of an Institute building a public library—I take off my hat to them—as one woman put it: "the women are the boys who do the work."

In one place they serve afternoon tea in the library during Easter week, and the social hour is well patronized, because the public knows the proceeds will be used for the library in some way. One branch laid a hardwood floor, one furnished a Canadian book shelf, and keeps it up-to-date with the best writings of our "home grown" authors and poets; another bought curtains, and in one case it is urged that the W.I. try to have one of their number on the Library Board, and thus keep in touch with the needs the Branch might supply.

It would be impossible in one paper to list all the community activities that have occupied W. I. members, such as non-denominational Sunday schools in a section where no other religious service was held; community picnics, and Grandmother and Grandfather Nights, with the old folk providing most of the program, music in the schools, and helping with the annual Festival competition, bringing good moving pictures to the community—these and many other come under the "C.A." head

"What we give, we keep; what we plant, we reap. We stand undaunted for God and Country, Home and right."

JUST AMONG US GIRLS

Jig-Saw Fever

Of all the ills that ere beset us,
Of all the woes that come to fret us,
Of all the trials that ever get us,
With snarl and guzzle,
Far worse than all at last has met us,—
The jig-saw puzzle.

The house in tomb-like silence sleeps
From dusty nooks the spider peeps,
And growing bolder forward creeps,
With silken thread,
Enshrouding animated heaps,
He thinks they're dead.

Upon the table laid in batches,
Fantastic shapes in bits and patches,
Anon, a hand goes forth and snatches,
Another bit,
A groan, it won't, a smile it matches,
And on they sit.

A hot meal now is all taboo,
The jig-saw puzzle crazy crew,
To mention such a thing as stew,
Would cause a riot,
I'm none too fat, but all too true,
I'm on a diet.

My only shirt (this is no jest),
Has neither buttons, back nor breast,
In fact it soon will be non est,
For want of mending;
While this fool game without a rest,
Goes on unending.

No doubt the man who did invent it,
Is sitting snug and well contented,
And human-like he won't repent it,
With well filled purse;
While many a man may well resent it,
With deadly curse.

MENU HINTS

SUNDAY SUPPER
Baked Noodle Ring
Apple-Celery Salad
Ice Box Cake. Coffee or Tea

The recipes will serve four, the ice box cake 16.

Today's Recipes

Bade Noodle Ring—Two cups noodles, one cup buttered crumbs, one-half cup grated cheese, two tablespoons chopped parsley, one egg, well beaten; one-half cup milk. The noodles may be leftovers or freshly cooked in thick broth and drained. Combine ingredients in a well buttered ring mold or in a casserole with a cup placed upside down in it. Bake in a moderate oven until firm, about 45 minutes. Unmold and fill center of ring with creamed leftover chicken, veal or pork.

Ice Box Cake—One cup sugar, one-half cup butter, two egg yolks, one-fourth pound cocoanut, one small can crushed pineapple, one pound chopped dates, three-fourths cup chopped pecans, pinch of salt, one and one-half dozen lady fingers, one-half pint whipping cream. Cream butter and sugar, add egg yolks, cream and other ingredients. Split lady fingers and alternate layers of cake and mixture until all are used. Serve in slices with a generous helping of whipped cream on each slice. This amount will serve 13 easily, but it will keep for many days and is always a welcome addition to any meal.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

As I was saying yesterday, I sometimes wonder what the people who have had their lives saved by medical science, have done with those lives to justify the effort that was spent on them.

For instance, one of the active workers in the subject told me the other day it was rare to have a post mortem on a patient with pernicious anemia; patients with pernicious anemia do not die of the disease any more.

Since liver therapy and ventriculin therapy were discovered in 1925, it is possible to keep these patients in the same physical condition as if they did not have the disease. Deaths are caused by intercurrent disease. And since pernicious anemia is a disease of late middle age, it is natural that heart disease and kidney disease, incident to a little age, should carry them off, whereas before they would have died of the anemia.

Now, what I wonder in my cynical moments is how they are going to answer to medical science for the years that have been saved to them? I have a notion that if there is any Day of Judgment it won't be Jehoval who will judge them. Probably it will be the workers who discovered the cure of pernicious anemia—Dr. George S. Minot, Dr. William P. Murphy, Dr. William B. Castle, and Dr. C. C. Sturgis—kind of a final supreme court for pernicious anemia cases.

What did they do with the extra years? Is it worth while going on? What do we save when we save lives by medical science? Of course, we will continue to do it, if possible, but it would be comforting to know that somebody really did something worth while with life after that.

The same thing with diabetes. The supreme court for diabetes on the last Day of Judgment will have a very distinguished bench. There will be Thomas Willis, Pavy, Minkowski, Naunyn, Kussmaul, Opie, Banting, Best, Collip, Campbell and McLeod.

There are probably a million people with diabetes in the United States, to each of whom every one of these men may be said to have given an extra year of life. Eleven million human years.

Has it been worth while?

What have you done with the 11 million years?

Both of these supreme courts will be very kindly. At the same time they are rather proud, and I think they would like to know. Does any reader of this column know anything worth while that has been done in those millions of years that have been added to human life by medical science?

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding,' "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

NEW TREATY

ROME.—Polish and Italian delegations to-day agreed to a new commercial treaty. The governments were expected to ratify it shortly.

KELVINATOR IS ON FULL TIME

London Factory Recalls 60 Employees to Put Out Orders.

ORDERS CROWDING IN.

As a result of the enthusiastic reception of the new 1933 Kelvinator models now being previewed from coast to coast, Kelvinator of Canada has resumed capacity production in their plant at London, Ontario, according to a statement just issued by F. S. McNeal, general manager . Approximately sixty men have been called in to take care of the rush of business that has followed the presentation of the new models to the Kelvinator dealer organization. These men will have steady work for a considerable time to catch up with the orders already on hand, and Kelvinator officials feel that the present bank of orders is only an indication of a large and steady volume that will follow when the new models are made available to the buying public this week.

"We are certainly delighted with the reception accorded our new models," said Mr. McNeal, "and highly pleased to be able to bring our factory staff up to full again after having been operating on a skeleton staff for the past two months or more."

OUR MAIL

My Dear Anne:

There used to be so many write to you and now there are so few. I was glad to see a newcomer, "Optimist" write in this evening's Examiner.

She does seem to me to be on the right track. Taxes are over three times what they were before the war; last year they were about four times—in our section, produce is very low, if it can be sold at all. Of course for eggs, cream and milk we can get cash or their equivalent in trade, but vegetables, hides, wool and such like you may and may not, besides giving away a great deal anyway, at least of the vegetables. No getting around it—young people who just started their homes, within the last seven or eight years must find it mighty tough, if they started as the majority do, with a mortgage, for at that time land was fairly high. Since then values have steadily depreciated but the interest has not. Those who were well started twelve or fourteen years ago should be able to manage without too much pinching and have some to give.

All business men or women are in the same box. Those on salaries even if they are out, are, it seems, best off for they know where they are and living expenses are lower unless one goes to extremes.

While it does not seem reasonable that we should go back to living as our forefathers did, we need their spirit. Those who came to Canada were splendid people. They were upright, God-fearing, energetic, willing to go the second mile, consequently they did not nearly so often have to traverse the first. There was family worship in the homes. They, if need be, arose earlier on Sunday to get to church. There was more true hospitality. They got clothes of good materials and were not ashamed to wear the best clothes as such so long as they looked well. Getting new, up-to-date clothes every season was undreamed of.

Now, new whole outfits must be gotten and often several of them each season and there are even with the present need, closets hung with clothes which will not likely ever be used. We hardly dare to call upon a neighbor unless upon a set day, let alone for a visit, without at least telephoning. (For some reasons it is really well to telephone). There is very little effort put forth to get to church. The minister is a brave one who dares to speak his mind. Family worship is growing rare and even asking a blessing or giving thanks for meals is rare or relatively so. A sort of apathy seems to have superseded energy and all, I do firmly believe, because we have fared so well with our prosperity. We have forgotten the Great Giver of all therefore we have not the outlook upon life our forefathers had and in love the Heavenly Father is showing us what happens when we only formally remember Him.

Soon we will be brought to see our dependence upon Him to bring to the altar what He demands to reverence His Sabbaths and our own bodies which are the temples of the living God When we do, the windows of Heaven will again be opened. Then, may we not forget again. It seems to me a turn has already been made.

Very best wishes, dear lady of the page. It is a puzzle to me how you manage to get something fresh, and good for us every day.

Sincerely yours.
QUID EST.

I was looking forward to receiving a letter from you, hoping that you would answer. "Optimist's" letter, and so I was delighted to hear from you. Somehow, with your experience of life, I think you should be a good judge, Quid Est. Thank you for you interest and kind wishes,

Sincerely,
Anne Wilcox

VOTE AGAINST CUT.

MONTREAL. — Canada's two principal railways were informed to-day that 30,000 employees in the running trades had voted against the substitution of a 20 per cent reduction in pay for the present 10 per cent cut. The result of the Dominion-wide referendum among the men was made known to four representatives of the companies at a conference with general chairmen of the unions.

FRUIT-A-TIVES WILL STOP YOUR BACKACHES FOR GOOD

They strengthen and cleanse the whole digestive and eliminative system — and bring you good health.

IT is no exaggeration to say that thousands of people each year for the past quarter-century have put backaches out of their lives — for good — by taking Fruit-a-tives.

You cannot be completely rid of backaches by taking just a local "kidney remedy" or a purgative or by merely adopting a change of diet. Do you realize that the kidneys form only one link in a chain consisting of five organs in your digestive and eliminative system —and all five must work correctly to give you health. Fruit-a-tives makes them do this.

The five organs are: (1) stomach, (2) kidneys, (3) liver, (4) bowels, and (5) skin. Trouble in any one of them naturally slows down and causes congestion in the others. Backache is evidence of constipation, poor digestion, inactive liver, or sluggish skin as well as clogged kidneys.

Fruit-a-tives clear up backache completely because they bring all five organs into perfect co-operation with one another. Kidney congestion ceases — stomach is toned up—liver and skin stimulated—and bowels made to work regularly and completely.

The Discovery of a Brilliant Physician

Fruit-a-tives are the discovery of a distinguished Canadian doctor,—M.D., M.C.; L.R.C.P., L.R.C.S., Edinburgh; post-graduate of famous European hospitals; and a past president of the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons. He did what no one else has ever done—combined an extract derived from oranges, apples, prunes and figs with medicinal fruits and herbs in such a way and in such proportions as to benefit the five vital organs in one treatment. That is why Fruit-a-tives are so superior to ordinary pills, oil, roughage, and so-called "food cures" that affect one organ or possibly two.

Fruit-a-tives are a natural health-help—not habit-forming—a trial will prove their exceptional merit.

"My Kidneys got out of order and made my back ache so that I could hardly sit up. I spent a lot of money but got no good results till I took Fruit-a-tives. Pains in the back left me, appetite and digestion are fine, trouble disappeared."

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

In my last article, I discussed the first two factors that the gray-haired woman must give attention to, if she desires her silvery locks to make her appear youthful and lovely, rather than old and unattractive. These two factors were the importance of wearing the proper colors to give emphasis to the hair, and the importance of keeping the face fresh and youthful in coloring. Today I shall deal with the last factor; namely, the care of the hair itself.

Gray hair can be kept in as luxuriant and healthy a state as any other shade of hair, if it is properly treated. If the hair is infested with dandruff, the proper steps should be taken to correct this condition. If it is dry and brittle, or thin, it should be given rectifying hot oil treatments. If it is very oily, or falling out, salt water shampoos should benefit it. All these corrective treatments are outlined in my "Beauty Culture" booklet, and can easily be administered at home.

The chief unattractive feature of gray hair, in my opinion, is the fact that it so easily tends to become streaked or to acquire a yellowish tinge. And to really be beautiful, gray hair should be a halo of shining silver or snowy whiteness.

There are a number of factors that tend to discolor gray hair and make it yellowish and unpretty. Improper permanent waving is one. The use of too strong shampoos is another. And overhot curling irons and too intense heat also tend to discolor gray hair. These things should all be guarded against. Shampoos should be mild and bland. Permanent waving should be done only by an expert. Hot curling irons should be avoided. And hot air currents should not be used to dry such hair.

When gray hair has become streaked or tinged with yellow, however, bluing rinses are excellent for correcting the condition. It is best first to give the hair a hot oil treatment and a thorough shampoo. Then a rather deep solution of hair bluing should be made and used as the last rinse. There are different shades of bluing for different shades of gray hair and care should, therefore, be used in the selection of the bluing. If the bluing rinse alone proves insufficient to remove all yellowish streaks, peroxide and salt may be used on the yellow parts, and then a bluing rinse administered as the final step.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Make-Up

Dottie: I think that a soft peach shade of powder, soft orange rouge, light lipstick and blue eyeshadow cream would blend harmoniously with your coloring.

Mouth Wash

Agnes: An excellent mouth wash can be made by dissolving one-quarter teaspoon of borax, one-quarter teaspoon of peroxide and one-quarter teaspoon of salt in a glass of warm water.

Nose

Marion: It is indeed possible to have a fleshy nose reshaped by plastic surgery. Only an expert surgeon should be permitted to do this work, however.

EDITOR'S NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her, care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed enveloped stamped with a three-cent stamp, and ten cents in coin for each, to cover cost of printing and handling. For her articles on "Care of the Hands and Nails" and "Care of the Feet and Legs," two cents in coin for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope are required. CASSEROLE OF CORN AND CHICKEN

1 can (No. 2) corn
2 cupfuls diced cooking chicken
1 small onion
2 stalks celery
2 tbsp. chopped green pepper
2 tbsp. chopped pimento
½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
1 egg
½ cupful milk.

Combine the corn and the cooked chicken. Chop the onion and the celery and add with the green pepper and pimiento to the corn and chicken mixture. Add the seasonings and the egg which has been slightly beaten and mixed with the milk. Turn into a lightly greased casserole, cover the top with buttered bread crumbs and bake for about 40 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.).

Get Rid of That SORE THROAT!

Any little soreness in the throat grows rapidly worse if neglected. Crush some tablets of Aspirin in some water, and gargle at once. This gives you instant relief, and reduces danger from infection. One good gargle and you can feel safe. If all soreness is not gone promptly, repeat. There's usually a cold with the sore throat, so take two tablets to throw off your cold, headache, stiffness or other cold symptoms. Aspirin relieves neuralgia, neuritis, too. Use it freely; it does not hurt the heart.

Under the auspices of the Young Ladies of St. Peter's Sodality, a very successful Charity Ball was held last evening in the Knights of Columbus Hall on Simcoe street. Three hundred people were in attendance for the dance in the large upper assembly hall and for bridge games in the ground floor parlors. Stan Williams and his orchestra played fine music for the dancing program, which included two favor numbers. Decorations were carried out effectively in rose and white, with shredded shades from the chandeliers and puffed wall-shades with fluted edges, in the two colors. There were quantities of tall green palms and ferns and lighted floor lamps and the orchestra was backed by a screen of black and silver. Patrons and patronesses were His Worship Mayor Denne and Mrs. Denne, Dr. and Mrs. F. P. McNulty, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Glover, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Corkery, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Overend, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Sheehy, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. L. Ryan. The general convenor of arrangements was the president of the Sodality, Miss Geraldine Collins. Miss Marcelle McNulty was in charge of invitations; Miss Mamie McCarthy and Miss Agnes McCarthy of bridge tables, and refreshments were looked after by Miss Norah Killen, Miss Kay Doyle and Miss Madeline Henry. The table for the patrons and patronesses was arranged very attractively with a lace cloth and a central silver basket filled with yellow daffodils and purple iris lilies. Prizes for bridge were won by Mrs. P G. Wallace and Mr. Frank Fairen, while Mrs. Fairen won the lucky draw prize. Among those present were: His Worship Mayor Denne and Mrs. Denne, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. A whist drive and dance was held at the Recreation Rooms at the Armories last evening, under the auspices of the Sergeants' Mess, and a very happy evening was spent by the guests. Twelve tables of whist were in progress, with sixteen hands played, and prizes going to Mrs. E. E. Nicholls, wife of Capt. E. E. Nicholls, Mrs. Turner, wife of Staff Sergeant Turner, Sgt. Kitchen and Sgt. H. Summers. The consolation prize was won by Miss Edith Hodson, and the lucky chair prize and spot dance prize, by Mrs. Wright. The prizes were donated by Mr. T. Griffin, Senior, and Mr. Peter Goselin. After the service of refreshments, dancing was enjoyed until midnight, when Sgt. and Mrs. McLarnon again danced the latest English Valeta waltz, to the delight of the gathering.

The aggregate prizes for the season were presented at the regular card party (the last before the Lenten season), held last evening in the East City Community Hall under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Sodality of the Church of the Immaculate Conception. These were won by (first), Mrs. George McCarthy and Mr. Timothy Garvey, and (second) Mrs. M. O'Toole and Mr. William Walsh. Fifty-six tables of cards were played in one of the largest gatherings of the season ,and the evening's prizes went to Miss Florence Healey and Miss Freda Kilcher, while men's prizes were won by the Rev. C. Begley and Mr. Orville Falls. Miss Florence Healey also won the special prize and the door prize went to Miss Isabel Malane.

FASHION SERVICE

Here's the newest mode Fashion is favoring. It has the long waistline so kind to the hips of the mature figure.

The sleeves are interesting with an upstanding flounced ruffle placed above the rather fitted deep cuff.

Another chic detail is the wrapped buttoned closing of the bodice. It may be worn opened in rever styling or buttoned to the shoulder creating the smart high neck effect.

It's a model that adapts itself to the rough crepe silks or soft woolens.

Style No. 3188 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust.

Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material with ⅝ yard of 35-inch contrasting.

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

MODERNISTIC FURNITURE has taken a turn towards conservatism in that it no longer stresses the bizarre, the ultra, the freakish.

• • • • • • •

It clings to its name because it is said to be based on no former type of furniture which has historic background. Hence it is modern. It certainly has few, if any, earmarks of the styles developed by former master designers, whatever their names or from whatever country they came.

• • • • • • •

The early modernistic furniture harks back farther than period styles, recalling the angular lines of primitive furniture experiments.

• • • • • • •

In its present output it emphasizes choice and rare woods which reflects the beauty of former furniture makers, while in its designs are retained its untraditional and original style in accord with its origin.

• • • • • • •

This modified modernistic furniture will appeal to homemakers rather than startle and estrange their thoughts from it.

• • • • • • •

Perhaps the most interesting feature of the modified modernistic furniture is the use of exquisite woods. In the veneers the angular cutting will not be so favored as those which give more flowing lines.

• • • • • • •

In the earlier furniture of this type, the quartered veneers which could be fitted into square alignments best suited the severity of outlines of pieces.

• • • • • • •

It is not always appreciated by home decorators that veneers are of the finest parts of the various woods used. Rare woods can be introduced without making furniture so expensive that it is available to only wealthy persons.

• • • • • • •

It is not so much for this reason, which appeals strongly to most of us, however, btu because of the exquisiteness of the graining in woods, cut as they are for veneering, that veneered furniture has such rare beauty of woods.

• • • • • • •

The new type of modern furniture will make good use of woods whether in solid pieces or in veneers. Charm of wood in many colors and kinds lends attraction to new pieces.

• • • • • • •

Natural finishes will be accented and the soft tones of dull varnishes and a refraining from stains in finishes.

• • • • • • •

It is seldom in its most pronounced forms that styles are held in highest esteem, but rather when they have a certain illusiveness in which the articles are reminiscent of beauty in preceding models.

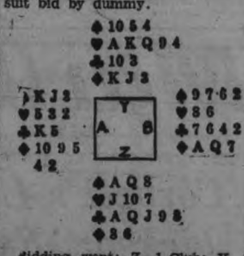
LEAD THROUGH STRENGTH

Soun rules for play are those found most efficient by experts, and formulated for others to follow. One of the most often quoted rules is: "Lead through strength and up to weakness, but do not lead through too great strength so as to establish a suit against your side." The black-face portion of the rule seldom is heard, and yet it is just as important as the first part.

Until you see dummy, to make certain that a suit bid by that player is not too strong to lead through, select some unbid suit for an opening lead. The next hand shows what happened because a player had a mania for leading through a suit bid by dummy.



Bidding went: Z, 1-Club; Y, 1-Heart; Z, 2-Clubs; Y, 2-Hearts; Z, 4-Hearts.

B led the 2 of clubs through dummy, although that suit had been bid and rebid. Dummy's 8 was played and the K won. A led back his 10 of diamonds, to beat the best card of that suit visible. Y played his J. B's Q won the trick. B led back the 2 of spades. As dummy afforded three discards, the Ace was played. Three rounds of trumps pulled all opposing hearts. The 10 of clubs was led. Dummy's J overtook and upon the three good clubs the declarer discarded his last two diamonds and one losing spade. The fact that B did not win a diamond trick with his Ace, when he had the chance to do so, made no difference in the final result, as declarer's K would have been left good, and the declarer would then have discarded his two losing spades upon dummy's clubs As the hand was played the declarer finally had to give his opponents one spade trick at the end, but he fulfilled his game contract because B had led through too great strength.

Try an opening lead of a spade against the hand, and note the difference. Play dummy's 8 of spades. The J will win. Lead back A's 10 of diamonds. Cover with the J. B's Q will win. Lead another spade from B's hand. Play dummy's Q, the K will win. Lead another spade from B's hand. Play dummy's Q, the K will win. Lead back a diamond. The Ace will win, if Y puts up his K. If he declines to play his K the 9 of diamonds will win the trick, leavind the lead in A's hand. He will lead either another diamond, forcing dummy to trump, or he will lead a major suit card putting dummy in the lead. It does not matter which of the three he does. The result will be two tricks down on the contract, as the declaring side has lost two spade and two diamond tricks, and still must lose one club trick to A.

ART ASSOCIATION OF TORONTO HAS DISPLAY AT CONSERVATORY

Pictures Being Shown Under Auspices of Lyceum Club.

CONSERVATIVE TYPE.

An interesting exhibit of small pictures and handicraft done by members of the Art Association of Toronto was on view in the Art Rooms of the Conservatory of Music, yesterday and to-day, under the auspices of the Lyceum Club Women's Association.

The pictures were of the decorative type and were mainly of the more conservative era in painting that seems to be replacing the exotic ideas of the Group of Seven and their ilk. Only one picture (hanging behind a door), had the liver-colored rocks and gamboge water and billous sky that has represented Canadian scenery in many of that group, for some time past.

Signed by Doris Huestis Mills were several small landscapes in off tones, of trees and sky, and a leaning boathouse canted forlornly to green water; C. G. Coombs gave an attractive modernistic impression of a cloudy sky and storm-wracked trees, and one very outstanding bit was the French-Canada street, entitled "In Montreal" by Mabel Lockerby. Grey snow on a hilly upward incline matched the outlines of close-packed grey buildings on either side and the misty grey of a church dome on the skyline, while an accent of contrasting tone was in the dull red of the cutter drawn by an old horse.

A pastel had telegraph wires and old colored store-fronts in the foreground, and brilliantly-colored crayons outlined the autumn trees of a trio of dainty little skeches. Miss L. D. Adams, noted for her studies of flowers, showed a pair of lovely pictures of Christmas roses in bowls, also one of her characteristic cosmos bouquets in a purple glass jar against a background of dead black.

Blue-Green Tones

The soft blue green of aquamarine tint was in a picture that stood out by reason of the tempera-like freshness of its colors. Low purple hills rose to snow-capped peaks against a quiet sky. Then there were the silvery white trunks of birch trees, "the young maidens", as the Indians termed them, with summer-blue sky and water behind them. This was signed by L. C. Knowels of St. Thomas, as was the winter scene, with blue shadows in its snowy street and bare trunks of trees.

H. Gorgan had a poster-like sketch of gorgeous tiger lilies, and a peaceful countryside that reminded one of Constable's — calm studies of nature, with vivid green in the trees, soft white in the cloud bank and glowing blue in the summer sky.

Elizabeth S. Nutt of Halifax had a lovely picture called "Feeding Time", with almost photographic degree of detail in the old grey stone farmhouse before which stands the watering-trough at which lambs are gathered.

Mrs. Dignam of Toronto, foundress of the Art Association, showed a beautiful study, with phlox, in soft creams, reds and mauves, in a low bowl, and there was a bold treatment of fresh greens and reds and yellows in the leaf-covered trees of a landscape by A. Rogers.

Especially interesting was the exhibition of handicraft—batiks, homespun pieces, block printing, habitant scarfs, woven rugs and bags, leather goods, and ornamental jewellery in silver.

One batik was a striking thing. It was a fire screen with a castled door in dark brown, against which stood a gallant knight in armor, with his horse, also in full trappings and his man servant of mediaeval type.

Another batik of fine silk illustrated a Roman chariot drawn by two prancing steeds.

An ambitious piece of handicraft was the woven decorative landscape in blues, whites, yellows and reds.

A painted wooden butter bowl, shallow and wide, was done in quaint fashion, with four cameo-like sections enclosing small figures, in vivid tones.

One of the charming bits of woven suff was heb aby afghan conceived in delicate pink with a design in pale blue.

The leather pieces were hand-tooled, and included a gorgeous guest book whose cover was ornamented with raised flowers in soft tones of purple, red and yellow. A leather envelope purse in navy blue and a fire-breathing dragon in solid tones as adornment.

The jewellery was very beautifully executed, and included several silver bracelets, a solid pearl-bead evening bag and pearl necklace. A pair of copper comports, silver-lined, were on the mantelpiece.

"Gossip ana Such

IT'S A WEAK-KNEED LOT which may line up at the Churchill Downs barrier, come Saturday, May 6, for the 59th running of the Kentucky Derby, but that doesn't mean that the eventual winner, bobbing his—or her—dark head first under the wire won't be a worthy successor of Man O' War, Twenty Grand and the rest of the Derby greats of the past.

• • •

Weak knees appear prevalent among the favorites—which makes this one of the widest open Derby races to be run in a decade.

Ladyaman, at this time rated the No. 1 horse, went into winter quarters with bad knees.

The same thing troubled Caterwaul, another favorite.

Repaid and Swivel, a filly, suffered from a like ailment. So have Kerry Patch and Sarada.

Which makes the Derby far from an kneesy race to pick.

Ow!

KNEE AILMENTS ARE THE bane of a trainer's existence. They are hard to cure and often the equine victim remains slightly lame. And if you think the Kentucky Derby is a spot for a lame horse then Russia is a haven for vacationing millionaires.

All of which makes the host of long shots among the 118 entered in the Kentucky classic appear to have a better chance than is usually the case with the lesser lights of a Derby field.

• • •

However, Ladysman and any of the other current favorites may be as sound as a dollar and at the peak of their form when the first week in May rolls around—so don't count any of them out, not yet!

• • •

THIS DERBY FIELD—AS IS always the case—has all sorts of attractive entries for the hunch players.

• • •

FOR INSTANCE, Colonel E. R. Bradley, who has won the Derby with three of his horses—Behave Yourself, Bubbling Over and Burgo King—has five "B" horses, Boilermaker, Broker's Tip, Beefsteak, Broad Bill and Bobsled, and a sixth nag, Fingal, entered.

• • •

MAN O' WAR WILL BE REpresented by three sons—Pre War, War Glory and War Stripes. Other Derby winners with offspring in the race are Omar Khayyam (Mr. Khayyam) and Bubbling Over (Boilermaker).

• • •

IF YOU ARE LOOKING FOR "hunch" names—Good Advice, One Chance, Head Play and At Top. The Irish might try De Valera, a good one for barbers is Crowning Glory, and a peach for radio comics is American Smile.

• • •

EVEN THOSE OF A REligious turn get a break. Derby entries include Isaiah, St. Stephens, Cardinal Newman and Resurrection.

Frontenacs Blanked By Oshawa Maroons

OSHAWA, Feb. 25.—Displaying a fine passing game, and taking advantage of most of the "breaks" that came their way, Oshawa Maroons defeated Kingston Frontenacs by a score of 5 to 0 here last night, and won the round, 6 to 1.

Coach Spring used Graboski and Maundrell from his junior team on the second line, and they signalized their first appearance of the season in senior ranks by scoring two well-earned goals. Kingston found that they could not cope successfully with the passing attack of the juniors, and were rather bewildered when they were on the ice. Burr played an outstanding game in the net for the winners, and earned his shutout. Gowsell, at the other end, played as good a game, but had little chance to save the shots that beat him. For Oshawa, Bradd, Johnston, Rowden, Graboski and Maundrell were best, while Gowsell, Bellringer, Muchmore and Bentley were the best for the visitors.

FIRST GAME AT NORWOOD THROWN OUT

E.P.L. Executive Upholds Carters' Protest for First Fixture of Series.

TEAMS EVENLY MATCHED.

Calladine and Williams Score Goals in Last Night's Play-off Tilt.

Carters and Norwood start the E.P.L. playoffs from scratch in Norwood Monday night, neither side having any advantage. Their first game, played in Alex Kempt's town, was thrown out because of a protest, and the contest held at the Brock last evening finished in a 1-1 tie. Williams' goal with three minutes to go of the last frame sewed it up and no overtime was played.

Only a small crowd attended, and the game was run off on soft ice which slowed play up most of the time. The Combines notched one early in the first period and play was fairly even from then till the third when Carters kept hammering away till they evened it. While flashes of exciting hockey were shown the game as a whole was tame owing to the ice conditions though a few flare-ups by opposing players livened things somewhat.

Clever Display In Goal

Foley played a bangup game in the Payne goal, stopping many that looked like sure ringers. Beavis in the opposite net had less to do but was equally hard to beat. Both defences checked hard and effectively, with Lackey doing some nice rushing in the third. The Carters' second forward line shaded the first on all-around play, but all worked hard in the last fast frame. Both Norwood lines looked good, the second one injecting more speed and dash into the fray. The two Calladines, Rogers and Stevenson were dangerous all the time. Eleven penalties were handed out, Norwood drawing six.

A fist fight that threatened to start a general melee broke out between Staunt and Pat Calladine just as the last bell sounded, but they were pulled apart by teammates before any real damage could be done. Staunt and Bill Calladine carried a feud all through the last stanza.

Scores First Goal

Play opened slowly and evenly, but it was not long before Bill Calladine took Bill Cripps' pass through the defence and went right in on Foley to score. The opposing second lines speeded things up and then Rogers and Staunt were chased for roughing it, Lackey following shortly for boarding. Swanger almost got through and then Foley pulled two fine saves, with play being about even and slower at the bell.

It was up and down, hard and even most of the second frame. Both goalies had plenty of hot shots to handle and there was much close-checking in the centre zone. The Combines were showing more teamwork but sticky ice made puck-carrying difficult. McConnell drew a penalty for tripping, Staunt following for slugging. As play roughened up, Webb and Meagher got the thumb for swinging high sticks, Cripps missed an open net, and Foley pulled a couple more dandy stops as the Kempt crew threatened late in the chapter. Rogers got the gate at the close for tripping.

Evenly Matched

The Carters opened the third with a strong offensive that swept them in on Beavis time and again, but he stopped them all, with his defence checking and covering closely Swanger was benched for chopping, and Fenton scored on Cripps' rebound but it was offside. Play was fast now and exciting from end to end. Lackey twice worked right through only to have his shot blocked. They sent four up while Norwood used three men on defence. Staunt and W. Calladine went off for slashing each other, and then Williams scored, his shot hopping over Beavis' stick. Norwood threatened on several hard rushes but no further scoring resulted. Just as the gong sounded, Pat Calladine and Staunt tangled with fists flying but order was soon restored.

The teams:

Norwood: Goal, Beavis; defence, Scriver and Webb; centre, W. Calladine; wings; P. Calladine and Cripps; alternates, Fenton, Rogers, McConnell and Stevenson.

Carters: Goal, Foley; defence, Lackey and Swanger; centre, Maudsley; wings, Magee and Williams; alternates, Staunt, B. Jones, H. Jones and Meagher.

Referee, Archie Weir.

Summary:

First Period

Norwood—W. Calladine, (W. Cripps) 4.00

Penalties — Rogers, Staunt and Lackey.

Second Period

No score.

Penalties — McConnell, Staunt, Webb, Meagher and Rogers.

Third Period

Carters—Williams 17.00

Penalties—Swanger, Staunt and W. Calladine.

Corbett's Longest Fight, With Peter Jackson, Ends With Neither the Victor

This is the third of a series of brief articles relating Jim Corbett's most famous fights—from his first battle with Joe Choynski, in 1884, to his final fight with Jim Jeffries, in 1903.

By WILLIAM RITT

When Jim Corbett mentioned to his folks his plans to get a fight with Peter Jackson he almost lost his happy home. Jim's dad went into a tantrum. He though t it would be a disgrace to see his son battling with a colored fighter. He pleaded with Jim to reconsider.

Jackson was as eager to fight Corbett as Jim was to meet him. The dusky star was very sensitive and believed Corbett had once slighted him because of his race. Jackson had licked virtually every outstanding heavyweight in the world except Sullivan—whom he hadn't met—and so had everything to lose and little to gain by meeting the youthful Corbett. But he wanted to square that fancied insult.

Corbett, himself, brought about the fight by talking the California Athletic club into staging the affair on May 21, 1891, in San Francisco, Cal., with a purse of $10,000—the largest, up to that time, ever offered for a fight. The winner was to get $6,500.

Worked On Jackson's Goat.

CORBETT did everything possible to get the colored giant's goat before the fight. And it appears he succeeded.

The night of the bout he refused to get into the ring first, knowing that Jackson always was the last in the ring, because he believed it brought him luck. When Jackson refused to leave his dressing room first, so did Jim. This delayed the fight 45 minutes.

Finally, it was agreed that both men would climb through the ropes at the same time. As both fighters stood on the ring edge, their hand on the ropes Corbett nodded to Jackson that he was ready to step inside. The colored boxer climbed through, but Corbett ducked back.

(Ring Magazine)

Corbett and Jackson square off for their bout.

Already inside the ropes, Peter Jackson saw with horror that Corbett was still outside! He had been tricked.

• • •

WHEN THE BOUT began the enraged Jackson rushed Corbett. He rained punches at the white youth in a desperate atempt at a quick knockout. It was all Jim could do to duck and dance away from Jackson's "one-two" punch.

For the first eight rounds Corbett was always on the defensive, ducking, swaying, dancing away from that tornado of whirling brown arms. Jim began shooting home a few himself after that, but in the 16th stanza a cracking right-hand punch to the body nearly floored him.

During the next rest period Corbett decided to try to block the murderous "one-two" attack by getting inside Jackson's left to the head, twist his body to avoid the slashing right and drive home a left to the stomach. It worked.

A TERRRIFIC right bounced Corbett into the ropes in the 26th. Then he let go. Throwing haymakers as fast as he could, he drove Jackson back across the ring. Jackson was staggering in a daze when the gong rang.

The pace from then on was at top clip. In the 35th round both began to tire. By the 50th they had slowed down to a walk. Both were so weary they could hardly lift their arms in the 60th round.

Stopped in 61st.

Referee Hiram Cook stopped the fight in the 61st round, calling it "No contest." As Corbett stumbled to his dressing room he saw Jackson collapse. Had there been one more round he would have won.

LONDON BREAKS PLACE DEADLOCK

Tecs Blank Syracuse Stars for 7-0 Victory Last Night at Garden City.

TORONTO, Feb. 25. (CP)—The three most decisive defeats registered in International Hockey League circles this season have been by 7-0 scores. By a coincidence, London Tecumsehs have participated in the three of them—one of which they dropped.

Their second 7-0 victory was registered last night, when they tangled with their erstwhile rivals for second place, Syracuse Stars. The win not only enabled Tecs break a second-place deadlock with their opponents, but shot them into first place, one point in front of Buffalo Bisons.

It was hectic hockey furnished by the teams for the benefit of 3,000 London fans. Four majors and a 10-minute misconduct penalty to Cameron Proudlock were imposed by Referee Guy Smith. Smith was also the target for Ken Doraty's punches, after the former Maple Leafs player had lost a tooth exchanging blows with Farrand Gillie.

Tory Gregg and Gene Carrigan led the marksmen, Gregg netting three and Carrigan two. Leo Quenneville, rapidly hitting his stride, after an absence due to injuries, scored one and Gillie completed the total.

It was the fifth consecutive victory for manager Loughlin's men and the 1th shutout for Herbie Stuart.

Simpson's Amerks Face Hard Week-End

TORONTO, Feb. 25 (C.P.)—Joe Simpson and his ambitious Americans looked a tough week-end in the eye to-day and hoped for the best. If they get it, it will be swell stuff for the rookie-veteran outfit Simpson has piloted to the edge of the National League play-offs. They will be "in."

Old "Bullet" Joe is working entirely on the theory that his closest rivals for third place in the Canadien division, Montreal Canadiens, can't win from Maroons tonight. He hopes Americans can beat the Maple Leafs in Toronto, and then mow down Detroit Red Wings Sunday night at Detroit.

Two full games in front of Canadiens, the Amerks would double the safety margin with a double triumph while Maroons were beating the Canucks.

New York Rangers go west to Chicago for the only other weekend tussle.

King Of Grapplers

Meet the new king of wrestlers in the person of Jim Browning of Webb City, Mo. Jim won his bright new crown by defeating Ed (Strangler) Lewis in their championship bout at Madison Square Garden, New York. Browning was not rated much of a chance with Lewis and surprised the fans by tossing the champion in 57 minutes and 50 seconds.

SENIOR DUKES DEFEAT FALLS FOR 2-1 WIN

Teddy Oliver Scores Deciding Counter in Opening of Third Period.

COSTLY PENALTY.

(By the Canadian Press).

Bingo "Iron-Hat" Christie, modest mentor of Toronto Marlboros, who never did pretend to know hockey technique, was one up to-day on Nipper Wilson and Gene Fraser, co-leaders of Niagara Falls Cataracts.

Unable to defeat Cataracts in four of the regular League games, the Dukes turned the trick last night in the big roar town, when they won a 2-1 decision in the first of the Senior "A" Ontario Hockey Association semi-finals.

Always noted as a good "money" team, Marlboros were forced to come from behind to earn the decision. Outscored in the opening canto, they tied it up in the next frame, and taking advantage of a penalty, scored the winning goal shortly after the start of the final period.

The second of the two-game, total-goal series will be played in Toronto next Friday, and as the speedsters on the Cataract roster have shown a decided preference for a big ice surface, Marlboros are bound to be extended to retain their advantage.

Bowman Returns.

Scotty Bowman returned to the wars, after a bout with "old man injury" and scored the Falls' counter. Momentum from one of his speedy rushes, carried him past the Toronto defence, and enabled him to bat in the rebound of his own shot. Only a minute and a half of the first frame remained after this goal.

Pud Kitchen, smart-rushing Marlboro defenceman, and Bob Davidson combined for the tying goal. Kitchen's rush carried him to the other end of the rink and he circled the Falls' net, to slip the puck out to Davidson. "Big Bob" easily netted the rubber.

Scores Winner.

A penalty to "Chet" Steele, Marlboro Junior of last year, paved the way for Lanky Teddy Oliver to garner the deciding counter. Oliver cruised around Kalbfleisch to pick the uppermost corner of the twine with a whistling drive.

Despite the fact he did not score, Jack Shill was a constant threat for the winners. Invariably he worked his way to within shooting distance, but he could not beat Esseltine.

Jerry Shannon, leading scorer of the League, featured with his shifty stickhandling for the losers.

"Jo-Jo" Grabowski, a promoted Junior, scored two of the goals when Oshawa defeated Kingston, 5-0, in a Senior "B" playdown. The loss eliminated Frontenacs by a 6-1 score on the round.

Little difference was apparent between the teams in the Hamilton-Windsor game in the same series. Hamilton won 3-2, but Mic Macs dominated the play in the latter part of the game, when they scored the last two goals.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, since my last our O.H.A. hockey season has exploded right in our faces, and both our teams is all washed out and in dry-dock until another winter's campaign blows around. Mister Buckland's juniors was eased outa the running by a husky bunch of Queen's students, and our intermediates succumbed after 2 gruelling battles with the Doherty club of Belleville, a serious what will be long remembered for disputes over goals and other exciting features.

The juniors couldn't develop enough scoring punch to save themselves when they ran into the Queen's team. The collitch boys was big and strong with a defensive system built round a very clever goal-keeper, and while they hadn't much of a scoring kick themselves, they was mighty tough to register on, while they managed to get enough brakes when on the attack to take the Petes in 2 straight games, 4 to 2 here and 5 to 2 there. Watching the Queen's lads in action here I thought their defensive tactics was only reserved for games away from home, but according to my scouts, they played exactly the same kinda game on their own cushion, and it was good enough for them to cop the round. The students get Newmarket next, and they'll have to show more than a defensive system to hold Mister Hancock's selects in check.

The intermediates-Belleville serious was a wow, Mac, and when you figger that there was 5 disputes over goals in the 2 games and that 4 of the decisions went against the Petes, you can see that Mister Wright's lads didn't get none of the brakes. In the game at Belleville Referee Wortley overruled 1 goal credited to the Petes by the goal umpire and allowed a Belleville counter that the Petes claimed went through a hole in the net. Mister Wortley had the hole sewed up, but allowed the goal to stand. Here Wednesday nite they was 3 arguments over goals, and the Petes lost 2 of them. A different verdict on a couple of these woulda made the round look a lotta different. At that though the Wright brigade woulda come through, disputes or no disputes, if they hadn't of run into a coupla penalties at the beginning of the 3rd period, and Belleville uncorked enough punch at the right moment to drive in 2 goals that saved their bacon. At the end of the 2nd the visitors was only 1 up on the round, and the combination of soft ice and the Petes' aggressive attacking had the green and white crew all hot and bothered. When they skated off the ice at the end of the 2nd session they looked like a beaten team, but that 3rd period brake was a lifesaver that put them back in the running. Outside of that 1 flash, the Petes was always in the driving seat, and it was a miracle they didn't score themselves a mass of goals.

Well, Mac, it ain't been a bad season. The 2 teams has given us some interesting entertainment, and they both went down fighting, so here's to them with the hope that next season they'll be able to climb closer to the pennant-winning class.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

OWEN SOUND HOLDS NATIONALS TO TIE

Toronto Junior Sextet Advances in Play-downs, Winning Round 10-3.

OWEN SOUND, Feb. 25.—Taking advantage of the "breaks" and their superiority in speed, weight and hockey knowledge the Toronto Nationals held the Owen Sound Greys to a 3-3 tie here last night in spite of the fact the Greys had more than their share of the play. Nationals thus advance into the third round of the junior O.H.A. playdowns, they having whitewashed the Greys in the Maple Leaf Arena by a 7-0 score on Tuesday. Right from the start of last night's game the Greys played the only kind of game in which they could hope to best Nationals, fighting into the corners and holding the puck within the Nationals' blue line for half the time.

HAMILTON THISTLE QUARTETTE WINS ROYAL YORK CURLING CUP

Cordon Campbell Rink Has Record of Nine Wins and Two Losses in 5-day 'Spiel.

TORONTO TEAMS WIN.

TORONTO, Feb. 25 (C.P.)—The Grand Aggregate and Royal York Trophy of the sixth annual Toronto bonspiel was to-day in possession of the Hamilton Thistle quartette of youngsters, skipped by Gordon Campbell.

The Thistle rink with a record of nine wins and two defeats in the five-day 'spiel bested the efforts of 100 rinks that started play on Monday.

Hubert Chisholm's Toronto rink captured the Birks - Ellis - Ryrie Trophy.

Two other Toronto teams were trophy winners, Col. W. O. Morris earning honors in Seiberling Trophy play, while Rev. J. Cranston led his Royal Canadians to victory in their quest for the Wrigley Trophy.

Rev. J. Shortt, Barrie, won the North American Trophy, and the sixth trophy of the 'spiel went to the Shelburne rink, skipped by A. V. Silk.

Campbell's rink will not battle Orillia, Ontario Tankard winners, for the right to represent the province in the Canadian championships.

Junior Lacrosse Club Is Organized

Peterborough will be represented in Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association junior ranks this year, according to plans made at the organization meeting held by a number of enthusiasts the other evening. A strong team is expected to be entered from here with a four-team grouping to be arranged later. Considerable business along this line was done by those present at the session.

Officers elected for the local Junior Lacrosse Club for 1933 are: Patron, J. F. Strickland, K.C., M.P.; honorary presidents, William Meagher, R. W. Glover, Ed. Dillon, Lou McCoy; honorary vice-presidents, James Skinner, C. S. Bowne, Pete Wallace, William Grady; honorary members, Art Blade, Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., W. F. Huycke, Ted Barr, Harry Theobald, C. S. Cummer, E. A. Peck, M.P., Ken Sine, Arnold Hatton, J. Ward.

Fred Goodfellow was elected president, with W. LeBarr and Cy Whaley being named vice-presidents. John Dundas is the secretary-treasurer and all communications must be sent to him at 716 ... street. The executive will consist of the president, secretary and three members, Arnold Hatton, Cliff Cadd, Walter Firth and V. Reynolds. The positions of manager and coach were left open for the present.

The club decided to communicate with the Brock street rink management in regard to suitable arrangements for home games. All junior players will be kept in junior ranks this year; that is, a player signing junior must complete the season as a junior. Those at present ready to sign up are: B. Hatton, M. Collins, E. Creighton, B. Ash-

Western Sextettes Battle For Honors

WINNIPEG, February 25 (C.P.).—Hockey warfare blazed across the Prairies through o British Columbia to-day with senior and junior sextettes battling for 1933 honors.

In senior play, the Maple Leafs downed their rivals, ex-King Georges 2-1 to win the Vancouver City championship. The Leafs now meet the Trail Smoke Eaters to decide the holder of the British Columbia title. At Saskatoon, last night, the Prince Albert Mintos blanked the Saskatoon Quakers 1-0, making a third game necessary to decide the Northern Saskatchewan senior title.

Champions were declared in two divisions for juniors in Manitoba. The Southern Division title went to the Kenora Thistles in the Winnipeg Junior League, while the crown for the Northern Section was held by the Winnipegs to-day. Kenora won from the local Columbus Club 2-1. Winnipegs defeated Portage la Prairie, after 30 minutes of overtime, 2-0.

PLAXTON AND SIMPSON FAIL TO MAKE GOOD

"LANKY HACK" IS OUT.

Four Olympic Teams Have Produced Four Starring Major Leaguers So Far.

By ELMER DULMAGE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

TORONTO, Feb. 25. (CP)—One of the deeper mysteries of hockey concerns the almost negligible contribution of Canada's four Olympic teams to the National League — why such an Olympiad ace as Hack Simpson should fail where dozens of less celebrated amateurs find firm footing.

Simpson, lank and towering centre star of Winnipegs, Olympic champions a year ago, and Hughie Plaxton, peerless pivoter of University of Toronto Grads who captured the international title for Canada in 1928, where the standout "goat" of the season.

While such rookies as Red Jackson and Wilf Starr of New York Americans, Eddie Wiseman and Carl Voss of Detroit and young Art Coulter of Chicago were ringing the bell loudly on their first rush into the big time, Simpson and Plaxton, amateur kingpins both, were failures.

Maroons Take Sap

It was only just that Montreal Maroons should lose on the Simpson-Plaxton speculation because they have been about the only professional club to find profit in the Olympic market since back in 1921 when the old Victoria Cougars of the Pacific Coast League picked off Frank Frederickson from the newly-crowned Winnipeg Falcons.

Maroons were batting 1,000 cent on Olympia before they signed Plaxton, who sought a professional tryout after five years away from any kind of ice competition and Simpson, the prize package of 1932. Hughien ever got going with Maroons and was just as much at sea with Windsor Bulldogs when the Montreal club moved him down to the International League.

Hack is Out

And Giant Hack, a noted pinch-hitter rapped in one important goal for the Bulldogs that prolonged a minor league career doomed from the star. Simpson went quietly out and Plaxton is seeking to build up a background, or whatever is needed, with Vancouver Maroons in the Western Canada circuit.

Four Olympic teams so far have produced just four outstanding major leaguers and Montreal got three of them—Hooley Smith, Dunc Munro and Dave Trottier. Smith and Munro played with Toronto Granites in 1924 and Trottier with Varsitay Grads in 1928.

Bert McCaffery, rugged winger who played on the great Granite line-up made a go of it for several seasons with Toronto and Pittsburgh and Beattie Ramsay, defenceman on the same team, had a short whirl without much success, Slim Halderson, Falcon sidekick of Frederickson, was good enough for the majors, too, at one time.

Watson Would Not Sign

But, along with the greatest Olympian of them all—Harry Watson—most of these internationalists gave moneyed hockey a wide berth. National League managers considered Watson had "everything", but they couldn't get his name on a contract.

And they didn't sign any of the six goal-tenders these four teams had—Wally Byron of Falcons, Jack Cameron and Ernie Collett of Granites, Dr. Joe Sullivan and Stuffy Mueller of Grads and Bill Cockburn of Winnipegs.

They wanted dashing Red Porter of Grads and more than one club would have liked Hugh Plaxton five years ago. They got him too late. Hughie Sutherland of Winnipegs turned down offers, so did Lou Hudson of the Grads.

When the fastest skater on any Olympic team, Mike Goodman of Falcons, turned to the professional game he landed in the minors and is still there.

Larwood Is Star In Batting Display

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 25 (C.P. Cable).—Australia had cheers instead of jeers to-day for Harold Larwood, cricket's speed ball king from Nottinghamshire, who is the hero of 1933 test cricket, whether Australia likes his bodyline bowling or not.

The master trundler of England's cricketing forces, whose leg theory come close to disrupting Anglo-Australian relations just a few weeks ago, won over his critics here to-day with a sensational batting display that lifted him to the charmed circle of all-rounders for at least a day.

Thirty thousand crowded the stands as Larwood came in to help England right her way back into the running in the fifth test. And the chunky Briton, heartily barracked by crowds in four Australian cities as he unloosed his bodyline shots, heard Sydney cheer him to the echo.

Rated a strong batter in the pinches, Larwood came through with a forceful, polished innings. The former coal miner scored 42 of his 98 runs on boundary hits, including one six and nine fours.

And Sydney, pronounced anti-leg-theorists, took its perfector to her heart as she would any game cricketer.

SPORTS Day by Day

HOCKEY—BOWLING—BOXING
BASKETBALL — OTHER SPORTS

(By C. J. P.)

The Hockey Club was informed by Secretary Bill Hewitt of the O.H.A. this morning that no action would be taken on their protest. "Not grounds enough for a protest meeting," was the way they dismissed it. This wasn't at all surprising in the face of Hewitt's remarks the other day that it was useless to kick about the judgment of referees. The local club had several items to protest in regard to the series, but the O.H.A. stated that none was sufficient to call a sub-committee meeting to hear. That winds up the O.H.A. season around here for the year.

* * * * * *

We had an idea what would come of it, but at least it's better to make a fight for it when we figure the refereeing was incompetent and against us—even if unintentional—than take it lying down. Lou Marsh had a "Barney" pulled on him when he was told that Wortley—likely by Wortley himself—handled a good game in Belleville. Both Peterborough and Belleville papers, both teams and the whole crowd bawled him out plenty. McCurry was better but he made one bad mistake. At least, this mixup should result in better refereeing in future. The officials get paid plenty per game.

* * * * * *

Carters' protest on the first E.P.L. playoff game, because Norwood used Davis, an unsigned player, was upheld by the league last night, and the game will have to be replayed Monday in Norwood. That means that the playoffs are even-stephen again as last night's game at the Brock ended in a 1-all draw. It's Norwood Monday and back here Wednesday, best three out of five games for the title. And we hope they get better crowds than they did last evening. It was very small, but then the weather was against the game and the ice soft.

* * * * * *

The fixture itself was good and bad. Play was fast at times and then slackened down to the speed of a snail out for a Sunday afternoon walk. The last spasm was better, both sides stepping on the gas, with the Truckmen crowding the Combines plenty till the count was balanced. A few feuds and a fist fight at the finish helped things along and gave the miniature crowd a run for its money. These teams will make a merry old fight before the Peck Trophy is parked on the mantel-piece of one side or the other.

* * * * * *

Bill Rogers, vest-pocket flash, put on a speed-skating act that carried him a lot of miles in a hurry during the party. He nearly cracked up once when George Lackey rubbed him up against the boards at approximately forty-five miles an hour. Bill and "Rocket" Calladine teamed up well on the front line, both Foley and Beavis looked smart between the gas-pipes and both defence-lines weren't a bit backward about coming forward with jolting bodychecks. On fast ice it would have been a lulu; as it was it was just a fair game

* * * * * *

A couple of rules that should be put into the East Peterborough League are: (1) No player not having taken part in at least two league games shall be permitted to participate in E.P.L. playoffs; (2) City Hockey League players may advance into E.P.L. ranks at anytime, with the league's permission, but must have taken part in at least one league game before eligible to participate in the playoffs. These are just suggestions which might be adopted by this loop which ordinarily goes by O.H.A. rules. The idea is that one intermediate player should not be dropped by his club for a better player once the playoffs arrive; and then, too, promising junior material should receive encouragement to go up.

* * * * * *

And, while were breaking out in a rash of suggestions, we'll just pass on one we heard last night. A hockey follower said the best way he saw to get around using home goal-umpires and then having them over-ruled by suspicious referees was to have the home hockey club submit half a dozen names of reliable men for acting as goal-umpires during the season in that particular town. The list would be sent the O.H.A. early and then the decisions of these men would be final in all cases where the referee wasn't absolutely sure whether a goal had been scored or not. Well, it's an idea, ayway.

* * * * * *

A local ball club, long connected with the East Peterborough League, is said to be considering seeking entry—or at least thinking of it—in the proposed Lakeshort League this summer. It might be well to think over the expense angle of it well before doing anything about it. It seems to us that the addition of the Foster Club and possibly a team from Lindsay in the E.P.L. should make the local intermediate circuit a stronger one than it has been the past few years and one that should draw good crowds. There are several angles that ought to be thoroughly discussed before any plans are made.

ENGLAND RUNS EIGHT WICKET SCORE OF 418

Wally Hammond Makes the Century Mark With Brilliant Contribution of 101.

LARWOOD ALSO STARS.

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 25 (C.P. Cable).—At the close of play to-day England had scored 418 runs for eight wickets in the first innings of the fifth test cricket match against Australia.

Australia had scored 435 in their first innings.

Two fine individual innings, one just over the century and one just under, featured to-day's play. The honors are already won by England in the quest for the "ashes."

Harold Larwood, for whom many remarks of contempt have been voiced on account of his persistence in employing his "body-line" bowling theory, won over the praise of the large Sydney crowd by a brilliant innings at bat. He scored 98.

Wally Hammond was more fortunate in getting just over the century mark with his contribution of 101. He should have been out at 80 when he lofted an easy one to L. P. O'Brien, but it was dropped.

Hammond's wicket fell when he tried to drive one from P. K. Lee and missed it. The score stood at 345 for three wickets.

Larwood, joined by Maurice Leyland opened out with his heavy strokes. Finally he lofted one from Lee into Ironmonger's hands at mid-on. Larwood scored 98. Leyland was run out after scoring 42. The fifth wicket fell at 330. Wyatt and Ames took the batting, but Ames was run out with four runs. Lee took paynter's off stump for nine runs. The score stood at 374 for seven wickets. R. E. S. Wyatt was out for 51 when he skied one to Ironmonger at mid-on from O'Reilly. G. O. Allen was left at bat with 25 runs, and play was called with total at 418 runs for eight wickets.

Sturgeon Cup Play Starts On Monday

The curling fraternity (and the sorority also) are hoping for a return of cold weather over the week-end. Slated for Monday, the Sturgeon Trophy mixed bonspiel for which a dozen local rinks are entered is dependent upon a return of freezing or zero temperatures. Mild weather of the past few days played havoc with the ice and in places the sandy bottom was wholly exposed.

The draw for the Sturgeon Shield has been made as follows:

Preliminary Round.—Mrs. Fanning vs. Mrs. W. J. Oke; Mrs. Harkness vs. Mrs. E. Waddell; Mrs. DeGraw vs. Mrs. Clarke; Mrs. Munroe vs. Miss Littlefield.

First Round.—Mrs. Reg Turner vs. Mrs. Manson Comstock; Mrs. C. Turner vs. Mrs. M. Carr.

Newmarket Juniors Whitewash Queen's

KINGSTON, Feb. 25.—Newmarket juniors defeated Queen's by 5-0 in the third round of the O.H.A. junior play-offs here last night. The visitors held the edge on the Tricolor all the way through the first period and ran in three goals. They were held goalless in the second frame, but added two more to their total in the last period.

McArthur scored the first goal when he capitalized on an attempted clearance by James that was slow. Mann added the second goal on a pretty pass from McArthur from the corner and Wilson went through alone a half minute later to score.

In the last period McArthur took a pass from Doran to register goal No. 4, and, with five minutes to go, McArthur tallied alone.

Grove School Team Loses To U.C.C. 3-2

Word was received about eleven this morning that the Grove School hockey team had been nosed out by Upper Canada College first team, 3 to 2, in a hard-fought hockey game played this (Saturday) morning at the Varsity Arena, Toronto. It was the hardest battle the U.C.C. team has had all year, with the Lakefield outfit finishing much stronger.

GOODNIGHT STORIES

By Max Trell

An ox is a clever beast,
It always takes its time,
And even if it didn't, still
I'd have to end this rhyme.
—Shadow Song.

The children asked father where Death Valley got its name, for they thought that as long as they were going to Death Valley they ought to know as much about it as possible. So the children all listened in silence as father began speaking. The shadows o the children listened also; they, too, wanted to know as much about Death Valley as possible. You remember, the children (and their shadows) had started out in an automobile for Death Valley, which is in California.

"Death Valley got its name many years ago," father began, "when the pioneers from Kansas started to cross the continent to search for gold.

"They all rode in their covered carts, drawn by oxen," father continued. "It was a terribly hard journey, because there were no roads, only trails which the Indians had made.

Fry Eggs on the Sand.

"It took months and months, for they had many thousands of miles to cover. At length they reached the place called Death Valley. It wasn't called Death Valley then, of course. Everything might have gone well with them if only they had had enough water and food—but especially water. To begin with, it was terribly hot—so hot that it was possible to fry eggs on the sand. Death Valley is really a desert. It is a valley because it is between two ranges of high mountains. But there is no water in this valley, and nothing grows, and the ground is rough and rocky. First the oxen died because they had no water. Without oxen to pull their carts, the pioneers could not move. They found themselves helpless, without food or water, in this terribly hot valley of sand. Some of them managed to save themselves at last, but many of them did not. For that reason, this valley has now become known as Death Valley." Father was silent a moment, then he added: "Now it is no longer terrible, however. With an automobile anyone may go to Death Valley. There are hotels, and camps, where one may find plenty of food and water."

"They rode in their covered wagons," said father.

The shadows and the children were glad to learn that this was so. They knew that in a little while they would all reach Death Valley, and they did not want to go hungry, or thirsty like the pioneers did.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, February 26

Sunday's horoscope is a forecast of a fairly mediocre day with the conventional activities and interests of the sabbath claiming the attention. It may be a time of petty disappointments, opposition and delays, with a mental attitude of depression or contemplation, or perhaps religious uplift and meditation.

Those whose birthday it ismay look for a year in which the entire trend and outcome of events depend upon individual flort, initiative and enterprise, as the planetary influencesmay be considered as negative in their intervention on mundane affairs. There may be petty delays, obstacles and disappoint ments to be vanquished by firm attack and application. The mind will be steady and shrewd. A child born on this day may be calm, shrewd, slow-going, but practical, studious and dependable. Its career will depend upon the degree of its own initiative.

For Monday, February 27

Monday's astrological forecast is a fortunate one for those in the employment of others, as well as for business generally. Negotiations with mergers, combines, secret organizations or diplomatic circles should thrive, especially by methods of quiet agreements or even by intrigue or conspiracy. Also, all pertaining to lands, tenancies, mining and agriculture are under benefic influences.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of steady advancement, with favors or preferment in employment or industry. Deals with corporations, rings or by secret agreements of conspiracies may prove gainful; lands, real possessions and mining activities should flourish. A child born on this day should be steady, industrious, and responsible, winning recognition in employment and gaining real possessions by its shrewdness and keen insight.

Headaches and Dizzy Spells Nerves In Bad Condition

MILBURN'S HEART NERVE PILLS

Mr. Neil Crawford, Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"My nerves were in such bad condition I found it almost impossible to get a good night's sleep.

I was also bothered with headaches and dizzy spells.

I tried many different remedies, but they did not seem to give me much relief, but after I had taken Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I could hardly believe the change they had made in my condition."

POLICE RELATE HENDRIE'S STORY

Claim Prisoner Admitted He Committed Assault Upon Davis.

SAW ROLL OF BILLS.

KINGSTON, Ont., Feb. 25 (C.P.).—Evidence of police officers which told of confessions made by the accused at the time of his arrest marked to-day's session of the trial of Albert George Hendrie, charged with the murder of Peter Davis last December.

According to police, Hendrie made a voluntary statement, telling them he had committed an assault on Davis.

This evidence was given yesterday, pending its admissibility, with the jury in retirement, and to-day was admitted by Mr. Justice W. E. Raney and presented before the jury.

His Lordship announced he had no doubt as to the admissibility of evidence of the officers, and declared that as the statements were made voluntarily, he would allow the evidence to be given.

Provincial Officer R. H. Wanell of Perth said that with two others officers he went to a hotel at Smith's Falls on December 19. They found Hendrie in bed. He said he had come from Montreal.

"Hendrie said he had only a couple of dollars," Wannell testified. "I saw a roll of bills in his shirt pocket and I asked him about it and he said, 'I did the job in Kingston.'

"Then I warned him that anything he said might be used in evidence against him. He said he understood, and said: 'I did the job.' Officer Bleecher asked if he had any weapons, and also asked, 'What did you hit him with?' and Hendrie replied, 'A piece of pipe. I left it in the canteen.' Then Hendrie asked how the old man was and Bleecher said, 'Pretty bad.' Hendrie replied, 'I hope he dies; I'd rather hang than do 20 years.'"

Marmora

Mr. R. Elgie of Toronto visited friends here on Wednesday.

Mr. T. J. Parker of Ashburn is spending a few days here renewing acquaintances.

Miss Helen Gaffney is visiting friends in Trenton this week.

Miss Grace Warren spent last week-end with relatives in Toronto.

Miss Elizabeth Heath is visiting friends in Toronto for a few weeks.

Mrs. Philip Sopha is visiting friends in Campbellford.

Reeve F. N. Marett made a business trip to Toronto on Wednesday.

Miss Black of the Continuation School staff, attended the funeral of her brother in Campbellford on Thursday.

A goodly number of the members of St. Paul's A.Y.P.A. attended St. George's A.Y.P.A., Trenton, as the latter's guests on Wednesday evening.

St. Andrew's Men's Association held a short meeting on Wednesday evening in St. Andrew's Hall. Plans were made for the visit of Rev. W. P. Woodger and Mr. Gibberd of Napanee to the club on March 7, when the latter will describe his recent trip to Europe. H. R. Haacke handled "current events" in a manner which provoked good discussion.

Armor Inspired These

Hat, cape, cuffs, belt and handbag of aluminum mesh

By MME. LISBETH

Nothing new under the sun, eh? Well maybe not. These tricky accessories that the young woman wears so jauntily do give one the impression that they got their inspiration from the "days of old when knights weer bold."

At any rate the hat, cape, cuffs, belt and handbag are of aluminum mesh and are singularly becoming to Princess Aleka Rotstislav, once of the Russian nobility, but now living in Chicago.

The set may also be had in colors.

Glittering raiment is fashionable just now, anyway. Molyneux embroiders a white net evening gown, with silver sequins, further embellishing it with a scarf of geranium marquisette and a huge flower to match.

Even mother may not suspect the trouble

LISTLESSNESS, lack of appetite and energy are often warnings of childhood's commonest ailment — constipation. At such times a laxative is needed, for despite balanced diet and proper exercise elimination may be "regular" but not thorough.

Any laxative will not do. Those intended for adult use are too strong and harsh for a child and may do more harm than good.

Castoria is the laxative especially prepared for children. It contains no harmful drugs — no narcotics. It is gentle in action, is not nauseating and is recommended by physicians. The family size is the most economical way to buy it.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Hamilton, visited with Mr. and Mrs. A. Caverley, recently.

Mr. R. Phillips of Brighton, was a Sunday guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Van Volkenburg.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Chard and son, Morley, were recent guests of Havelock friends.

Mr. Leady of North Marmora, held his regular cottage service on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Vesterveldt.

Mrs. Delilah Barrons received word on Monday of the death of her brother, Hiram Mumby of McMahon, Sask.

Havelock

Mrs. James Cook of Maple Inn, Trent River, entertained a number of Havelock ladies on Tuesday evening last, when three tables of bridge were played. The honor prizes were acptured by Miss Minnie Williams, and Mrs. Ross Covert. Mrs. Harry Bush was awarded the consolation trophy. A dainty lnuch was afterwards served and a short period of social chatter was enjoyed over the teacups.

Mrs. Keyes, of Toronto, a guest of Mrs. Cook at Trent River, who was taken ill and removed to Mrs. Cummings' Nursing Home, is said to be greatly improved.

Miss Winnifred Spencer of Rylestone is spending the winter months with Mrs. Douglas Brennan.

Looking After Roosevelt

ALBANY, N.Y., Feb. 25—(C. P.)— President-elect Roosevelt awoke to-day in his old bedroom to find the familiar old New York executive mansion converted into an armed camp. Beneath his window a dozen police tramped about the grounds. Nine "prowl cars" cruised about the block, shotgun muzzles showing in each car. Outside the front gate were more police.

An overnight guest of Governor Herbert H. Lehman, with whom he attended the Legislative Correspondents' Show last night, Mr. Roosevelt was assigned the same room he used during his four years as Governor.

Besides his secret service escort, 75 police circulated about the Ten Eyck Hotel last night while the President-elect chuckled over friendly gibes directed at him in the annual burlesque of the Albany correspondents.

ART OF CANADA IS REAL THING NOT JUST SHAM

Arthur Lismer Denies Idea That Canada Has No Art.

NOT EXHIBITING.

Artists Just as Great in Present Day as Those in Past.

"Who says there is no art in Canada? We do not have to think of Canadian art as a thing of the future— it is here now." This was the declaration of Arthur Lismer, one of Canada's foremost artists, addressing a Peterborough audience in the Y.M.C.A. last night.

'I recently heard the lecture of a woman visiting Canada from abroad," Mr. Lismer said. "She declared that Canada has not got an art because no country can have an art before it first has wealth, leisure, culture and ease. Quite lately a prominent academician speaking in Nova Scotia on a visit from England expressed the same idea. It is a common theme for visiting authorities to our Dominion. But if there is not any art in Canada what are the many art associations in the Dominion working for?"

"It is in the time of what I might term the 'upspringing' of a country when we have art, not in the time of wealth, culture and leisure," Mr. Lismer maintained. "It is in the time of a country's development when the most fertile food for expression is present and, since the human power for the retention of sensation and feelings is limited, it is natural that the time of 'upspringing' should be accompanied by art. Although I open myself to controversy in making the statement, I believe that art has little to do with culture. It has little to do with leisure and certainly nothing to do with wealth. Wealth pertains to possession, hardly art."

Eager Audience

Mr. Lismer made his address as the fourth lecturer in a series of university extension lectures being sponsored by the Friday Night Supper Club at the Y.M.C.A. He was heard by an enthusiastic audience which filled the auditorium. C. A. Salmonsen presided at the gathering. Gordon Roper introduced Mr. Lismer.

Throughout his talk Mr. Lismer's belief in a distinctively Canadian art—an art reflecting the youth, vigour and progressing development of the country in its liberalism—was apparent. Mr. Lismer is possibly more widely known for his work in association with "The Group of Seven", the group of artists which has been promoting the idea of an individualistic Canadian art, than in connection with any of his other activities. During the period from 1919 to 1927 he was vice-president of the Ontario College of Art and for many years has belonged to the Ontario Society of Arts. His work, among which "September Gale", "The Island of Spruce" and "Happy Isles' are particularly widely known, have won the distinction of being hung in the national galleries.

Dialects of Art

Mr. Lismer said that he preferred the phrase "Art of Canada" to the phrase "Canadian Art". Art, he said, can not be distinguished by nationality or language. Art is art in all languages and, to speak figuratively, shows differentiation only as dialects differ in relation to each other and the key tongue. The art of the people of one country differs from that of another people as the environments of the people differ. It is the distinctive Canadian environment—the large rivers, the rocky north country, the great expanses of snow, the wide prairies—which provides the possibility of an individualistic Canadian art, he maintained.

He called attention to the broad sense in which he was using the word "art". When he spoke of "art" he was not necessarily referring to canvasses with pictures painted on them, he said. The ignorant Quebec peasant woman hooking a rug, unconsciously working into the rug an impression of the colours and forms she sees while looking from her window, is working in the realm of art. The wife of the prairie farmer who unconsciously executes in her homespuns expressions of her feelings is also an artist, he said. Where ever we find the expression of feeling in some form or another, we have art.

Pedestal Stage

On at least one occasion during his address, Mr. Lismer distinctly startled his audience. "We hear of 'wonderful Raphael' and 'wonderful Reubens'," he said. "Nonsense. There are artists just as great around us now" This remark was made as he spoke of what he termed the "pedestal stage" which art reached in modern times. In the great periods of art in early times the work of the artists, such as the sculptors and architects of ancient Greece, was admired for its own merit, he pointed out. In more modern times the artists are put on pedestals and their work blindly worshipped without the proper consideration of merit.

Mr. Lismer maintained that art today is now almost purely a matter of self-expression. In ancient times art was not self-expression, he said, for it was largely inspired by religion. The Greeks in their art strove not to express their own ideas of beauty so much as to demonstrate the beauty of their gods. In later periods came royal patronage. Artists executed their works for the benefits of royal favour. Royal patronage gave way to the patronage of the rich and artists strove for monetary benefits. Today there is money value in art, Mr. Lismer said, thus art is now almost purely self - expression — simply the result of the urge of the human being to express his own feelings and sensations. "As a result of the lack of restraint in this era of self-expression, there are strange forms of great beauty coming to us," he declared.

Not Exhibiting

"It is surprising how many artists there are in this country who are not exhibiting. They are merely expressing the beauty they conceive. Some day we are going to be envious of the person who can create with the use of his two hands and his brain in these times of destruction."

Mr Lismer showed a number of lantern slides in an endeavour to illustrate the many and varied fields of artistic expression in Canada. Many of the slides were reproductions of the paintings of such Canadians as Jeffries, Walker Watson, Thompson and MacDonald, demonstrating the fertile possibilities of the Canadian environment for a distinctive Canadian art. Showing the wide application of art were two slides depicting oneof the earliest railway locomotives constructed and depicting one of the most modern types. The element of art is involved in the vast difference in their appearance, Mr. Lismer said. Another group of slides served to demonstrate that art is restricted as the product of the adult mind, but also the product of the child mind. In this connection Mr. Lismer declared that "Canadian children have as much imagination as the children of the Poles, Jews and any other children", denying the common belief that the peoples of some nationalities are, from birth, more imaginative than others.

During the evening the audience was favoured with two violin selections by Mr. Dean Minor, accompanied by Mrs. David Howat.

EXECUTIVE KILLED.

TORONTO, February 25 (C.P.).—W. J. Pentland, president of Dominion Stores, Ltd., known from coast to coast as a chain store executive, was killed early this morning when his car struck a safety-zone abutment. He died almost instantly.

MILLBROOK W.A. SEWING MEET

St. Thomas Church Ladies Make Progress on Annual Bale.

A.Y.P.A. TRAVEL TALK.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 25 (Examiner Correspondence) — Mrs. L. M. Bonneville kindly extended the hospitality of her home, King street, not only for the sewing meeting of the W.A. of St. Thomas' Church on Thursday afternoon but also for the February meeting of the Auxiliary, the chair being taken by the president, Mrs. C. M. Westmacott, and the attendance being quite gratifying.

Among the reports read was that of the Dorcas secretary, Miss Annie Armstrong, who told of two quilting meetings held during the month in preparation for the annual bale which is sent in April. The 'mothers' bags which are also annually prepared for northern mission fields will be brought in at the March meeting. The president expressed pleasure in the number who were out for the initial sewing meeting and announced that the same would be held on the third February of each month, possibly at different homes, the Guild having this activity under its auspices.

Referring to the 'restoration fund' made necessary through the Machray disaster at Winnipeg, Mrs. Westmacott read an explanatory article from the Living Message, and reminded the members of the annual Day of Prayer which will be observed, as a community event, in St. Andrew's United Church on Friday, March 3, at 3 p.m.

It was decided to hold a supper on March 18 in the T. C. Ingram store to add to the Guild funds, Mrs. J. E. Allen consenting to act as convenor of the supper committee. To introduce the study book on Honan, the president and Mrs. Bonneville read an article from the W.A. paper, and the review of the first chapter was taken up by Miss Armstrong, Mrs. Westmacott, and Miss Macnamara, the latter then giving a talk on the second chapter covering the religions of this province of China.

The hostess served refreshments at the close and the March meeting will be at Mrs. H. J. Russel's home.

Travel Talk

The travel talk given in the parish hall of St. Thomas' Church on Tuesday evening drew an interested audience that filled the seating capacity, the event proving most instructive and enjoyable, the moving pictures being secured through the courtesy of Dr. H. A. Turner.

The trip began at Montreal and continued down the St. Lawrence, a representative of the Anchor-Donaldson Steamship Line being present to give the lecture material, life on shipboard being vividly pictured, the travellers going then to Ireland and Scotland where points of outstanding interest were visited, a feature of particular pleasure being the biographical sketches as the birthplace of famous folk was thrown on the screen.

Only the British Isles were included in the travelogue, and even then the audience was carried but to Yorkshire in England, time not permitting the continuance of the happy trip to other points. The rector, Rev. William Simpson, B.A., welcomed the audience on behalf of the A.Y.P.A. which had the event under its auspices, and added an invitation to be out again for the annual pancake social on Tuesday, February 28, which the same organization is presenting on that date.

Financially the A.Y.P.A. benefitted considerably from this week's venture, and it is hoped to have a further travel trip by means of moving pictures in the not too distant future.

CLOTHING NEEDED AT RELIEF BUREAU

Big Demand is Being Made by by City's Needy on Relief Bureau.

There must be plenty of cupboards and attics and closets in a city of this size, that harbor quantities of unused clothing.

If you knew for a certainty that some human being could use these things which are of no possible good at all, when hung on hooks or stuck away in some bag or box or trunk, wouldn't you make an effort to get them out?

As they are, they are not doing anyone good. If you send them in to the Relief Bureau on George street, you will have the mental satisfaction of knowing that they are being used, the physical satisfaction of getting rid of excess baggage in the everyday round of life, and, above all, the spiritual satisfaction of being quite positive that you have received a good credit mark on the right side of some heavenly ledger.

Anything and everything is needed, in the way of clothing, at the Bureau. Dresses for women are often asked for, and requests come in by the dozen for children's things—underwear, dresses, coats, shoes and stockings, as well as sweaters and scarves and hats.

Then there are the young men who are out of work and whose clothes wear out, like all clothes do. Where are they getting any money to buy new things?

And there are the families, dozens of them, whose little household goods have been seized for non-payment of rent. In many cases, every article is taken, even beds and stoves and chairs. Such things as tables and chairs and mattresses and stoves and bedding are always welcome, and always find a place, soon.

Please make an effort to see what you, individually, who read this, can do to help those families—over seven hundred—who are needy and in distress at the present time. 'Phone 3315 and the things will be called for.

Canada, U.S. Leading World In Insane

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Feb. 24.—C.P.)—Canada and the United States, in equal ratio per capita, are leading the world in numbers of insane, according to Very Rev. Canon Charles Verhejen, Professor of Psychology and Psychiatry at the State University of Amsterdam, Holland, who sailed from Saint John to-day on the Steamer Montrose after completing an independent study of psychiatry cases in North America.

"The rapid growth of insanity is due to a large extent to the depression with its resultant financial worries and the like," said the eminent alienist. "The fast life of this country and the United States is also one of the main causes. Young girls are not heeding the demands of health. They stay up late at night, get little sleep and rush off to the office heedless of breakfast. It just can't be done.

"More than half the people in asylums should not be there."

Why Bulk Cocoa Is Much Cheaper

Perhaps you have wondered why bulk cocoa is so cheap compared to the well known nationally advertised brands. The reason is that the principal part of the valuable property of cocoa has been removed in the case of bulk cocoa and naturally it can be sold cheaper than the cocoa which retains its full food value.

Science has determined that cocoa powder which is easily digestible and yet which contains a maximum of nourishment, should have a cocoa butter content of at least 22 percent. In bulk cocoa you may be using an article which has a very low cocoa butter content because the valuable cocoa butter has been pressed out and sold separately at a high price. This means that most, if not nearly all, of the food value of the cocoa has been taken away.

When you buy bulk cocoa you have no guarantee that it is absolutely pure. Furthermore, the rich chocolaty flavor which is so pleasing a feature of a good cocoa drink cannot be obtained.

When you buy a well known brand of cocoa, you are certain of getting an article which has been tried and found most beneficial as a health beverage. Good cocoa is considered by experts as an important item in the diet of children and may be given with perfect safety to children of two years of age and over.

Proceeds For Relief From Ice Carnival

The big opening event of next week will be the Grand Ice Carnival which has been arranged for the benefit of The Examiner Relief Fund, at the Brock street rink, on Monday evening.

Friends are interesting themselves in the decorating and illumination of the rink, and noisemakers are being donated by the Kresge Store.

A twenty-piece band will play for the skating and dancing and there will be prizes for the best costumes.

For the ladies, a three-piece silk lingerie set will be presented for the best fancy costume, and a bath robe for the best comic.

The men get a three-piece set of gents' furnishings (shirt, tie and hose), for the best fancy outfit, and a silk scarf for the best comic.

Girls' prizes include a pyjama set for the best fancy and a raincoat and hat for the best comic, and the boys get a windbreaker for the fancy and a pair of gloves for the comic outfit.

There will also be a special prize given for the most original costume at the Carnival, and this prize is open to any class or age.

CONCERT STAGED BY GIRL GUIDES

Marmora Troop Puts on Fine Program of Drills, Songs and Play.

BROWNIES TAKE PART.

MARMORA, Feb. 25 (Examiner Correspondence). — An entertainment, novel and interesting, was given by Marmora Girl Guides and Brownies at the Town Hall, Marmora, on Friday evening, before a good attendance. Commissioner Mrs. F. R. Wells acted as chairman, while the pianists were Miss Nettie Thompson and Mrs. E. C. Prentice.

The program was as follows:

Opening songs—Brownies and Guides.
Hoop drill—Brownies.
Doll show—Brownies.
Health play—Guides.
Song—"The Three Bears," Brownies.
Dumbell drill—Guides.
Monologue — "The Telegram," Dorothy Lumaden.
"Lenna's Dream"—Brownies.
The Irish Jig—Seven Guides.
Song—"A Tale of a Bear," Brownies.
"Venetian Strollers"—Guides.
Sketch—"The Lost Brown Owl," Brownies.
Campfire scene with songs and "Taps"—Guides and Brownies.
National Anthem.

Towards the end of the program, District Commissioner Mrs. Ponton of Belleville, who was present, was called upon for a speech. She expressed her pleasure at the progress made with the Guide and Brownie work and referred to the help given by Misses Thompson and Hudgins during the illness of Captain Mrs. F. S. Pearce. She had been pleased to observe the splendid behaviour of the Marmora Guides who had attended camp, and reminded all that the great aim of the movement was character building among girls.

HOME EDITION

VOL. LXX., No. 48 — PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, CANADA, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1933 — PRICE THREE CENTS

NO BRITISH ARMS FOR CHINA OR JAPAN

ALL IS READY FOR CARNIVAL THIS EVENING

Brock Street Rink Has Been Beautifully Decorated For Night.

ICE SHEET IS GOOD.

Music Will Be Provided By 20-Piece Band and Orchestra.

Tonight, Brock street rink will be an ice fairyland for the Carnival which is being held there under auspices of The Examiner.

The decorations are beautiful, and are carried out in rainbow colors. Long, fan-shaped sections in brightly colored paper cover the pillars at either side and the large lights are covered with basket shades in the same gay hues. Dozens of brilliantly colored Japanese lanterns are suspended from the roof and strings of red and green lights are strung from side to side. The effect of the illuminations and bright decorations is exceptionally dazzling and brilliant.

A smooth sheet of ice is promised and the music for the evening will also be of the finest. The Peterborough Rangers' Band of twenty pieces will play for the Ice Carnival, from eight to ten o'clock, and then dancing will commence, with Mose Yokom's ten-piece orchestra in attendance. Moccasins or goloshes or rubbers may be worn for the dance, if desired. A Heintzman piano has been secured through the kindnessof Robert Haddow.

In the center of the rink, a platform has been erected for the musicians. This is banked with palms and the corner of the rink will be filled with Christmas trees.

Prizes are very handsome. Nine will be presented. There is a three-piece silk lingerie set and a bath robe for the ladies, in fancy and comic sections; a three-piece set of gent's furnishings (shirt, tie and hose) and a silk scarf, for the men; silk pyjamas and a raincoat and hat, for the girls; a windbreaker and pair of kid gloves, for the boys. A special prize, a hand-painted picture, has been donated for the most original costume on the ice, open to any age or sex.

The Kresge Company has kindly donated noise-makers for the Carnival, and everything points to a big time. The event commences at eight o'clock. Get your costume and take part in the contests for prizes, or come along and enjoy the fun, in any case.

ONLY ONE NURSE IS APPOINTED

No Patients in Isolation Hospital This Month M.O.H. Reports.

LEFT WITH CHAIRMAN.

Reconsidering their decision to appoint two graduate nurses to the staff of the Queen Mary Isolation Hospital for a year at a salary of $20 per month, the Board of Health decided to-day to hire but one nurse. Miss Bernadine Scollard, R.N., 189 Mark street, graduate of St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, Brockville, is the nurse receiving the appointment.

Miss Sarah Adam, Elcombe Crescent, a graduate of Nicholls Hospital, who had been selected by the Board from 27 applicants as the second nurse for the Isolation Hospital staff, informed the Board today that she could not accept the appointment for a year for several reasons.

Another nurse, a Peterborough girl, informed the Board that she would not accept the position at $20 per month.

No Patients This Month

In reply to a question, Dr. T. W. H. Young, M.O.H., said that there were no patients at the hospital at the present time and that there had not been any all month.

It was then decided that the appointment of the second nurse should be held in abeyance temporarily. In case of emergency if another nurse is required the Board gave Alderman Walter Stocker, chairman, powers to employ one.

"I'll consult the rest of you before I do anything," promised Chairman Stocker.

This completed the business of Board meeting.

14 DIE IN ELEVATOR CRASH

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Feb. 27 (A.P.)—Two Europeans and 12 native miners were killed to-day when an elevator cage crashed to the bottom of a 7,000-foot shaft at the Crown Mines.

Shark-Busting

BRISBANE, Queensland, Feb. 27 (A.P.) — An unarmed man captured three sharks.

The sharks, which were shovel-nosed and from six to nine feet long, had entered a bathing pool. Roy Wilson swam to one of the sharks, and scrambled on to its back. Then he hooked his legs around its body, and 'rode' it as it dashed frantically up and down the pool.

Finally, the shark gave up, exhausted. Two others were caught by the same method.

MILK CONTROL BY GOVERNMENT SEEN SOLUTION

Producers Prepare New Plea or Federal Probe of Conditions.

SUPPLY "BOOTLEGGED."

Price to Farmers Depressed by Some Big Operators.

HAMILTON, Feb. 27—Wentworth milk producers, at their meeting here on Saturday afternoon, unanimously supported petitions already sent to the Federal Government asking for a thorough probe of milk prices by the House Agricultural Committee.

The meeting also urged that a conference be arranged between Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, and F. C. Biggs, former Minister of Highways in the Drury Government, who is a large milk producer, and who announced he had a plan he believed would overcome the present situation, provided the Provincial Government enacts the necessary legislation at this session of the Legislature. Mr. Biggs declined to reveal his plan at this time, but said he would be glad to divulge it to Mr. Kennedy.

Endorsation Asked

A third resolution adopted by the producers urged County and Municipal Councils in Ontario to have their representatives in the Legislature endorse the action of the Dominion Government in deciding to probe the prices paid for milk.

Youth Is Convicted Twenty-One Charges

HAMILTON, Feb. 27.—(CP)— So numerous were the charges and sentences read against and imposed upon George Cunningham, 20, in police court today, it seemed difficult to ascertain just how much wrong-doing George had been up to.

But the accused solved the difficulty by admitting everything. On 13 charges of false pretences, involving the use of "rubber cheques," he was sentenced to six months determinate plus 12 months indeterminate in the Ontario reformatory. On two charges of attempted fraud, he was given three months plus six. On six charges of forgery and uttering he was given one year plus two years less a day. Sentences concurrent.

British Railways Waiting Gov't Bill

(By Thomas T. Champion, C.P. Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Feb. 27 (C.P. Cable).—Before taking any further action on the question of wages following the abortive result of the recent National Wages Board enquiry, British railways are apparently awaiting the Government's bill concerning road and rail transport.

(The National Wages Board heard both the companies and the employees on the question of wages and recommended a partial reduction of wages. The employees, through unions, threatened to strike if the reductions were put into effect).

J. H. Thomas, secretary for the Dominions, has announced the Government regards the matter as urgent and will introduce a bill covering road transport licensing, conditions and restrictions before Easter. The financial aspects of the problems, however, will probably form a matter for the budget.

The average annual precipitation at Vancouver, based on records for 26 years, is 55.13 inches.

NEVER PLACED MONEY IN BANK WITNESS SAYS

C. E. Strickland is Charged With Misappropriation of $1,300.

TRIAL STARTS.

Mrs. Marion Cameron Seeks Return of Mortgage Which She Signed.

Bailed in the sum of $1 000 from Police Magistrate Langley's court, C E. Strickland, Lakefield, coud salesman, pleaded not guilty on a charge of misappropriating $1.300 of the funds of Mrs. Marion Cameron of Indian River at a special session of the county judge's criminal court with Judge Huycke presiding this morning.

The prosecution was conducted by V. J. McElderry, Crown Attorney annd J. W. Stevenson was counsel for the defense.

The evidence this morning closely followed the testimony at the preliminary hearing on January 26 It was brought out that Mrs. Cameron had received from her father, Thomas Shearer of Omabee, a mortgage for $2.000 given by Richard Henry Bickell. Christina Jane Bickell and John James Bickell of Smith township for $2.000 that it had been assigned by Mrs Cameron to C. E. Strickland, secretary-treasurer of the Stoney Lake Hotels Limited, who was to liquidate it and with the funds by $500 of the stock in Stoney Lake Hotels Limited and deposit the remainder to her credit in the Dominion Bank, Peterborough.

Presumably, from Mr. Stevenson's cross-examinaton, the defense is that the mortgage was assigned to the company, and not to Mr. Strickland personally. It was also adduced that the Midland Savings and Loan Company have a mortgage on the McCracken's Landing

YOUTH PERISHES IN SNOW STORM

Girl Companion Collapses But is Rescued in Time—Has Chance of Life.

2 OTHERS REACH SHELTER.

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., Feb. 27 (A.P.)—Eighteen-year-old Doris Ebsen, Arizona State Teachers' College student, was given only a 50-50 chance to live to-day as the result of exposure in a blinding snowstorm which claimed the life of her companion, Robert Sanders, 19.

Miss Ebsen, Sanders, Nancy Alford, 17, and William Brown, 19, set out Saturday to climb Mt. Elden, three miles east of here. They were trapped by a blizzard.

Brown said Sanders collapsed and being unable to give aid, he and the two girls kept going. Shortly afterward Miss Ebsen collapsed.

A forest ranger found Miss Ebsen asleep in a snowdrift, overcome by the cold. The body of Sanders was found about a mile away.

STEEL HELMETS BACKING HITLER

Leader Predicts Nazi Chief Will Stay in Power Five Yars.

NEXT ELECTION, THE LAST.

BERLIN, Feb. 27 (A.P.)—Franz Seldte, one-armed chief of a million "Steel Helmets" now fighting side by side with Hitler's "Brown Shirts" for victory in next Sunday's elections, predicts the Hitler coalition cabinet will remain in power for five years.

This was an outstanding statement in the flood of oratory loosed over the week-end during which eight more deaths were laid to political violence. It comes in the wake of statements by leading Hitlerites that Sunday's voting may be the last ever held in Germany, and that the result cannot end the Hitler regime.

Three of the eight slayings occurred yesterday. Meanwhile the leading Communist organ, Rote Fahne, was put under a six weeks' ban and The Bamberger Volksblatt, a Catholic paper, was suspended four days.

Sacrifice

SEATTLE, Feb. 27 (A.P.)—Fred Coleman, an unemployed Aberdeen logger, was found in a breadline, fainting from weakness and hunger.

He was taken to a hospital, where attendants recognized him as the man who three days previously had given his blood for a transfusion to save a patient's life.

PAY OUR DEBTS BEST WAY BACK TO PROSPERITY

I. P. McNabb Addresses Local Underwriters' Association.

INFLATION OPPOSED.

Extracts From Address of Imperial Life Manager Quoted.

An illuminating resume of the annual meeting of the Dominion Life Underwriters Association, held at the Royal York on January 20 last and which he attended as local delegate, was to-day given to members of the Peterborough Life Underwriters' Association by I. P. McNabb, M.A.-C.L.U. The occasion was the monthly meeting of the association, held at Hooper's Palm Rooms, under the chairmanship of N. J. Wootten.

Mr. McNabb confined his address to changes made in the constitution of the Dominion Association, also giving glimpses from various reports to indicate some of the more important questions that are occupying the attention of the insurance world at the present time.

Among some of the interesting references made by the speaker to the address given before the Dominion Association by Mr. Weston, managing director of the Imperial Life Assurance Company, were those concerning inflation of currency; the responsibility of the life underwriting in the moulding of public opinion against the ills of of depression; and an optimistic prophecy that better conditions cannot be long delayed.

PETER VERIGIN ILL IN HALIFAX

Cult Leader Sets Time Limit on Stay in Canada at One Month.

DESTINATION SECRET.

HALIFAX, Feb. 27.—(CP)—Illness today held Peter Verigin, Doukhobor chieftain, in Halifax, interrupting his plans to return to Western Canada immediately. The cult leader, released from custody Saturday with a full pardon, is said to be suffering from sores on the back resulting from frostbite received while he was serving a term in Prince Albert prison for perjury.

Verigin was released from custody on Saturday, in accordance with a decision of Mr. Justice Humphrey Mellish that a deportation order against him was invalid, had planned to leave for home today.

J. P. Shukin, vice-president of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, and Peter Makaroff, Verigin's personal counsel, left today for Ottawa to take up matters in connection with their leader's income tax.

Verigin, his fight to remain in Canada successful, does not plan to take advantage of the right to live in this country. One month is the time limit which he has placed on his stay in Canada. At the end of that time, he is leaving—never to return.

Whether he will move his 16,000 Doukhobor followers when he departs is "a secret between himself and God," he said last night

TWO NEW MEN PUT ON CABINET OF ROOSEVELT

Senator C. A. Swanson, Virginia Secretary of Navy—Harold Icks, Illinois, Interior.

THREE TO NAME.

Walsh Expected to Fill Attorney General's Post—Roper For Commerce.

(By Francis M. Stephenson)

HYDE PARK, N.Y., Feb. 27. — President-elect Roosevelt added two more names to his cabinet to-day: Senator Claude A. Swanson of Virginia as Secretary of the Navy, and Harold Icks of Illinois as Secretary of the Interior.

He had previously announced appointment of five other members of his cabinet. Cabinet members officially announced thus far are:

Secretary of State.—Cordell Hull of Tennessee.

Secretary of the Treasury.—William H. Woodin of Pennsylvania and New York.

Secretary of War: George H. Dern of Utah.

Postmaster General: James A. Farley of New York.

Secretary of Agriculture: Henry A. Wallace of Iowa.

Secretary of the Navy: Claude A. Swanson of Virginia.

Secretary of the Interior: Harold Ickes of Illinois.

Three Vacancies

This leaves three posts in the cabinet still to be officially announced although it is generally believed that the Attorney General will be Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, the Secretary of Commerce, Daniel C. Roper of South Carolina and the Secretary of Labor, Miss Frances Perkins of New York.

Senator Swanson is an authority on naval affairs. He is one of the staunchest preparedness advocates on Capitol Hill. At the same time he is an advocate of international agreement for limitation of armaments and a member of the American Arms delegation.

Mr. Ickes is a lawyer and has been identified more or less with the Republican Independent group. He has been associated with Senator Johnson, of California, in past political campaigns and is regarded by Mr Roosevelt as a leader "for good government."

Independent Move Aimed to Halt War Example to World

"First Action Of Kind Taken By Neutral Nation In Distant Conflict—One In Which We Do Not Mean To Be Entangled," Simon Tells Packed House.

EXPLAINS BRITAIN CANNOT DIFFERENTIATE BETWEEN 2 NATIONS—FRANCE MAY LINE UP.

(By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Writer)

LONDON, Feb. 27.—(C. P. Cable)—The United Kingdom today acted decisively and independently in the Sino-Japanese dispute by declaring that as from tomorrow, no shipments of arms or ammunition for either Japan or China will be allowed out of the country. Existing contracts will be respected.

"So far as I know," gravely declared Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon as a packed House of Commons cheered the announcement, "this will be the first time in which any neutral government has taken positive action of this kind in reference to a distant conflict."

Sir John paused to give added emphasis to his words as he added: "A conflict in which we do not mean in any circumstances to concern ourselves."

The House of Commons, packed to the corners, listened in tense stillness as Sir John with quiet words announced the government's momentous decision. From the distinguished Strangers' gallery Japanese and Chinese diplomats listened over to catch every sentence.

Lansbury's Demands

Sir John's declaration came after a strong speech by George Lansbury, Labor leader, who demanded an embargo on anything—arms and ammunition, credits and finance — which would assist Japan. "Japan," exclaimed Mr. Lansbury, "has been brought to the bar of the greatest court in the world and found guilty." He referred to the League Assembly's acceptance of its committee report condemning Japanese policy in Manchuria.

After Mr. Lansbury had demanded an embargo on "everything that would aid Japan in her cruel and cynical war against China," Sir John made his announcement.

The Foreign Secretary related the long course of negotiations which preceded the findings of the League's committee of 19 and their adoption by a special League Assembly last week.

View to End Dispute.

The view of the British Government throughout, he said, was to use very means of conciliation to end the dispute between China and Japan. But if conciliation failed, then the League should stand by the report of the Lytton Commission (the League's investigating commission under Lord Lytton, on

SOO 'INVENTORS' WITH SLED-BOAT READY FOR WAR UPON WILEY WOLF

Will Coast Alongside Victim and Hoist Him Aboard by the Tail.

"ALGOMA WOLF HOUND."

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Feb. 27. — (CP) — "The Algoma Wolf Hound," engined with a 100 horsepower Moth plane motor, which had been under construction at a factory here for the past month or so, tried out her machinery for the first time today. When the whir of the motor blades began to blow two-by-four scantlings around the factory the engineer, Cecil Mercer, shut off the power in time to save the windows behind the wolf chaser from being blown out. However, the test satisfied the two collaborators, Lynn Hollingsworth and J. W. Curran, that they had partially solved the problem of wolf-hunting without extraneous aid.

The general idea is to run alongside the wolf, grab his tail and lift him aboard. To do this it is necessary to attain a speed of about 30 miles per hour. As the "Wolf Hound" is likely to do 80 miles if not discouraged in some way, the necessity for carrying shooting irons is not thought to be dire.

Mr. Hollingsworth is the designer.

Tricky Model

There were a lot of points to be settled in building what appears to be a boat on sleds.

The collaborators have had all the technical skill of the aerodrome force, the experience of wolf hunters, alloy experts, skilled woodworkers and painters, as well as the aid of various grocers, barbers, house furnishers, iron workers, far-

DUMMER MAN TAKES OWN LIFE

John Gallagher is Found Hanging From Beam in Drive Shed.

IN GOOD HEALTH.

With a heavy rope knotted about his neck and strung down from a beam in the drive shed at his farm on the Sixth Concession of Dummer, William John Gallagher, aged 54, was found hanged to death this morning.

Anxious to discover why her husband had not returned for breakfast after doing the chores, Mrs. Gallagher found the body of her husband.

Provincial Police and Dr. J. C. Smith, coroner of Lakefield, were notified immediately. After investigating Dr. Smith decided that no inquest was necessary.

While it was yet dark Mr. Gallagher left his house carrying a lighted lantern to do the morning chores and tend the stock, his bereaved family told police. When he had not returned to the house by 8 o'clock for breakfast, Mrs. Gallagher went to learn what was delaying him.

Police said their investigations disclosed that Mr. Gallagher had tied one end of the rope tightly around his neck. He then stood on the cutter in the drive shed and rapped the other end securely about a thick beam. Five times the rope was rapped around the beam. He then jumped off the cutter, hanging himself. His feet were about 16 inches from the ground.

No reason has been advanced to explain the act. Mr. Gallagher had apparently been in good health, was not worrying about finances and had his normal sound outlook on life.

His son, William Allan Gallagher, was accidentally shot to death last April 19. He was returning from duck shooting when his shotgun was discharged as he was getting over a fence. The body was found after hours of searching in the bush.

HUSBAND, WIFE DIE OF HUNGER

Tragic Story Brought to Newfoundland Capital by Mail Carrier.

5 CHILDREN DESTITUTE.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. Feb. 27. — (CP)—The capital was stirred today by a report that a man and his wife had died of starvation at Caplin Cover and that their five children were destitute.

The report came from Roland G. Starkes, opposition member of the Legislature for Green Bay, who stated he had been told the tragic story by a mail courier.

The mother was said to be "covered only with a boatsail," and it was stated that the eldest child was near death. Starkes declared the family had applied for relief but had been refused it by the relief department.

Department officials here confirmed the report of the deaths, naming the victims as Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell, ages about 40. They doubted the suggestion that they had died of starvation, however.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Feb. 27 (C. P.)—Francis James Gundy, son of the late Rev. James Gundy and Eliza Gundy, is dead here. He was 61, years old and died Saturday in hospital.

JAPANESE MEET REAL FIGHTING IN SOUTH JEHOL

Marshal Chang's Regulars Hold Ground Despite Repeated Attacks.

MUD HAMPERS INVADERS.

Tokyo Confident Troops Will Occupy Jehol City By March 10.

(By the Associated Press).

Encouraged by the success of their campaign so far, Japanese officers at Chinchow, Manchuria, hope to occupy Jehol City, the capital of the Chinese province of that name, by March 10.

This date is the anniversary of the Battle of Mukden in the Russo-Japanese War.

Japanese and Manchukuoan combined forces continue driving deeply into Jehol territory, with their campaign aimed at four objectives. They are Lingyuan, Chihfeno, Wunkungfu and the region near Suitung, all within 100 miles or less of Jehol City.

Such confidence persists despite the fact that an infantry brigade under Major-General Heijiro Hattori was checked in South-Eastern Jehol, where a battle was lasting all morning. It was the first place where Japanese tested the mettle of the regulars of Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang, North China military ruler, and it was reported the heaviest engagement thus far in the campaign

The Hattori Brigade was halted at Shamoashan, about 100 miles east of Jehol City, and only 15 miles inside the border. Marshal Chang's regulars held their ground despite repeated attacks.

Fighting Heavier

The heaviest fighting thus far in the nearly week-old Jehol campaign was reported to-day as three Japanese offensives approached the last line of the Chinese defense.

This line is htrough the mountain passes of Lingyuan, Chinfeng annd Wukungfu, half-way points for the Japanese columns advanc-

BARN AND STOCK LOST IN BLAZE

Morning Fire at Webber Farm, Marmora Tp., Takes 12 Cattle, 3 Horses, 50 Hens.

CAUSE MYSTERY.

MARMORA, Feb. 27.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—About 4 a.m. on Saturday, fire destroyed the barn of Robert Webber of Marmora township, causing the loss of twelve head of cattle, three horses, about fifty hens, two loads of hay and fifty bushels of oats. Mr. Webber was aroused to a sense of the occurence through the reflection of the fire lighting up his bedroom. He was in time to rescue three pigs from a small building adjacent to the barn which also had ignited.

Neighbors were soon on the scene but the fire had taken too firm a hold to make further rescue possible. The cause of the fire is mysterious since no lantern had been used in the barn the previous evening and neighbors returning from a dance in the village in the early hours of the morning saw nothing amiss as they passed the barn.

Mr. Webber suffers a complete loss since he carried no insurance on his stock. The property is owned by Michael Ryan.

Puts up $8,250,000 For Re-establishing Two Largest Banks

New Companies Will Take Over Only Liquid Assets Of Old—Depositors Will Be Able To Receive About 30 P.C. Of Deposits—Open Wednesday.

HOOVER PASSES HYSTERIA SAFEGUARD; BANK HOLIDAY SPREADS TO OHIO CITIES.

DETROIT, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Two new Detroit banks, buttressed by the millions of Henry Ford, today became the keystone of plans to lead Michigan out of the difficulties which resulted in the proclamation of a state wide banking holiday two weeks ago.

The new banks, whose capital will consist of $8,250,000 furnished by Mr. Ford and his son, Edsel, are expected to open for business Wednesday. They will be built from the liquid assets of the First National Bank and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce whose depositors will be able to receive immediately about 30 per cent of their deposits.

Disbursement of the remaining 70 per cent must await the liquidation of the assets of the two banks.

The Ford announcement climaxed a week-end of fast moving developments during which officials of the First National and the Guardian National accepted a $78,000,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to be used in the formation of the new banks.

Name Own Personnel

The Ford's offer to subscribe the entire capital stock of the two new banks as accepted by directors and stockholders of the First National and the Guardian National grants the motor manufacturer and his son the right to name the official personnel of the new institutions and to ultimately merge them into one organization. These rights were specifically requested by the Fords.

Under the plan the Fords will put up $5,625,000 for the successor to the First National and $2,625,000 for the successor of the Guardian National.

FLOODS FEARED IN BRITISH ISLES

Rising Temperatures Melting Huge Drifts of Last Week's Storm.

RIVERS OVERFLOW.

LONDON, Feb. 27 (C.P.).—With rising temperatures and heavy rains melting the snowdrifts of last week's storm, large areas of the British Isles countryside were covered with water to-day.

Villages which previously had suffered privation from the snow blockade were now menaced by rapidly rising floods.

The thickly populated Thames valley was particularly threatened. The river already had overflown its banks at many points, where the water was nearly four feet above normal and was continuing to rise rapidly.

In many other parts of the country rivers were rising out of their banks. The Wey River rose eight feet at Guilford, creating a lake four miles long and a half-mile wide. Many residents were driven to the second floors of their homes.

At Chippenham, the River Avon was nine feet above normal and was still rising.

Car Badly Damaged In Saturday Crash

Car Driver Uninjured.

HASTINGS, Feb. 27 (Examiner Correspondence).—The storm of Saturday night took its toll of damage when a car driven by R. H. Young of Harwood crashed into a stalled truck on the Norwood Road. Mr. Young escaped without injury, but the car was badly damaged. It is learned that there was no one with the truck or no lights on. The driver of the wrecked car obtained the license number of the truck.

THREE FIREMEN HURT IN BLAZE AT HAMILTON

Two Others Overcome by Gas From Refrigerator System.

30,000 LOSS.

Outbreak is Confined to Restaurant at City's Main Corner.

HAMILTON, Feb. 27. Fire did damage of $30,000 early yesterday to the premises of the Paramount Restaurant, 11 James Street North, and three firemen were injured, one by falling when a floor collapsed, and two others by fumes from several gas pipes and ammonia from a refrigerator system.

Firemen Thomas Patterson of the Central Station was injured after the fire had been extinguished. He fell to the basement when a floor gave way, was pinned under debris in the basement in three feet of water and rescued with difficulty. Lieutenant George Smith and Fireman Edward Parr of the Robert Street Station were overcome by fumes. The three firemen were removed to the General Hospital, but later were able to return to their homes.

The fire was discovered about 5 o'clock yesterday morning by Police Sergeant McNair. It had broken out in the basement and the building was ablaze when firemen reached the scene two or three minutes later. They succeeded in keeping the flames from spreading to adjoining buildings, although the Paramount Restaurant was gutted.

Other tenants who suffered minor losses were the Canadian National Railways ticket office, the C.N. Telegraphs, Drs. V. T. and W. W. Baxter, Webb Sign Company, Century Tailors, and Harry Minden, jeweler. The cause of the fire was unknown.

NO CO-OPERATION

SUDBURY — "What's the use," said City Engineer William McMullen as he watched the snow whirl outside his office. "We get no co-operation from the weather to keep within the estimates." Snow removal and sanding sidewalks cost the city $600 extra this week to add to the $1,000 addition required for the first two weeks of the month.

JAPANESE MEET REAL FIGHTING IN SOUTH JEHOL

ing on Jehol city, the seat of the Chinese Provincial Government.

(A Chinese communique issued at the Peiping military headquarters said Japanese planes already had bombed Lingyuan and Chihfeng.)

Japanese planes bombing the neighborhood of Lingyuan, 60 miles southwest of Chaoyang, which was captured Saturday, reported 1,000 Chinese casualties resulting from the bombardment.

The Chinese estimated their total casualties at 1,000 and claimed 600 Japanese were killed and wounded near Linghuan.

The other main offensive, driving down the snow-covered and wind-lashed Mongolian desert from the extreme northeast, also anticipates easy going after scaling Chifeng, 90 miles from the capital. This Column was reported passing through Hopei, 95 miles southwest of Kailu at 10 a.m. to-day. Chihfeng was about 50 miles away.

Hardest Battle of Drive

Another offensive, which did not enter Jehol province until yesterday, claimed victory to-day in what was described as the hardest battle yet fought in the campaign This force, the 14th infantry brigade under Maj. Gen. Heijiro Hattori was 15 miles inside Southern Jehol a Shamaoshan, about 100 miles east of Jehol city.

A fourth Japanese offensive, midway between the two northern spearheads, was last reported nearing the Jehol border town of Suitung, about 60 miles south of Kailu.

Mud Delays Tanks

PEIPING.—A Chinese communique issued here to-day said Japanese aeroplanes bombed the Jehol cities of Chinfegn, Chienping and Lingyuan.

"The enemy is advancing southward from Kailu with the object of taking Chifneng (90 miles north of Jehol city) but his meeting great difficulties because of sand drifts and mud in the river beds, over which tanks and motor trucks are unable to pass" said the announcement.

It is said a Japanese transport was forced to halt at Kailu.

AMAZING INCREASE IN TAXATION AS INCOME UPON FARMS DROPS

Municipal Tax Jumped $7.84 to $28.07 and Average Mill Rate 12.63 to 38.25.

WORSE THAN IN CITIES.

TORONTO, Feb. 27.—While municipal taxes imposed on rural Ontario are fourteen times the amount they were fifty years ago, field crops of Provincial farms have decreased in value by $12,000,000 in the same period, a statistical summary of rural and urban taxation over the past several decades shows. The statement is issued by S. H. Symons, Executive Secretary of the Ontario Agricultural Council, who is also statistician to the Department of Agriculture at Queen's Park.

More Consideration.

The increase in taxation between 1911 and 1931 is termed "amazing" in the report which was submitted to the Council last week, and observes that "local Governments must in the future show more consideration of the ability of the taxpayer to pay taxes than they have in the past."

In 1911 the total of municipal taxes imposed in rural Ontario was $7,972,335 and in 1931 $31,138,921, an increase of $23,166,586. In the same twenty-year period urban taxes imposed went up to $97,518,763 from $18,390,990, an increase of $79,127,773.

While the actual taxes imposed have shown a greater increase in urban centres than in rural districts, the growth of population and the increase in assessable property has likewise been greater in urban municipalities. The actual burden of taxation as reflected in the rate in mills and the taxes per head of population has been much more severe in rural sections, the report notes.

Increases by Percentages

Increases in the last twenty years, by percentages, are shown as follows, to bear out this statement:

	Rural Per Cent.	Urban Per Cent.
Assessed population ...	9.1	55.4
Assessed values	29	201
Actual taxes imposed..	291	430
Rate in mills	203	76
Taxes per head of population	258	241

The constant growth in taxes imposed by municipal bodies in Ontario is shown in the following table:

Year.	Rural.	Urban.
1873 .....$	3 402,976	$ 2,202,803
1881	3,694,095	3,481,553
1891	4,544,261	7,223,457
1901	4 866,415	8,474,090
1911	7,972,335	18,390,990
1921	21,335,831	61,681,781
1931	31,138,921	97,518,763

From $7.84 to $28.07

In the year 1911 municipal taxes imposed in rural Ontario were at the rate of $7.84 per capita, while t he average mill rate was 12.63; in 1931 the tax per head jumped to $28.07 and the average mill rate 38.25.

Continuing, the report shows in conjunction with the great tax increase in farming areas, that the total value of live stock in Ontario has only doubled in the past fifty years and that the value of crops has actually decreased from $137,000,000 in 1862 to $125,219,586 in 1931.

In 1862 potatoes sold at $1.07 per cwt., and wheat at $1.01 per bushel, whereas in 1931 the average price of potatoes per cwt. received by farmers in Ontario was 40 cents and for wheat 52 cents per bushel.

The analysis shows the present necessity for rigid economy and the exercise of the most skilful financial management on the part of our local municipal Governments, the statement concludes.

Soft Hearted

KITCHENER, Ont., Feb. 27. (CP). — Hard-hearted though the call for economy has made them in matters of finance, park commissioners were touched by the plight of Woofus, the wood duck of Victoria Park. They have decided to heed the call of Spring and provide a mate for Woofus who lost her beloved Adolph last year. Not only that, the commissioners will spend $20 and add another pair to swim in the lake and furnish Woofus and her new mate something to quack over.

particularly the wide spread between what is paid the producer and what the dairies charge the consumer.

Mr. Biggs spoke spiritedly at the meeting, which was attended by 200 members, and advocated Government control of milk as the only action likely to meet the situation. He was opposed to price-fixing, he said, and did not believe such action would give the solution. It was purely a business matter and not a political one.

Bootlegged Milk

The most serious menace confronting the milk-producing industry, Mr. Biggs declared, was the growing practice of "bootlegging" cheap milk. Truckers went to outside districts and purchased cheap milk in large quantities and then sold it to dairies, which paid a lower price than the regular dairies were able to pay recognized producers. In this way, some of the big operators of the dairy interests were determined to obtain an excessive profit. Mr. Biggs warned that these "big fellows" would undersell them all and would take it out of the farmers in order to reach their end. Such "bootlegging" should be prevented, as it was disorganising the milk-producing industry, Mr. Biggs said.

ANNUAL "AT HOME" BY NORWOOD LODGE

R. J. Lesper is Presented With Past Preceptor's Jewel Following Program.

NORWOOD, Feb. 27 (Examiner Correspondence).—A social gathering was held in the Norwood Orange Lodge rooms Friday night, when the members of the Norwood R.B.P. Lodge, No. 311 with their wives and families met for their annual "At Home."

After a few words of welcome by the chairman the following program was presented: Solos by Miss Ruby Preston and Mr. Frank Taylor; instrumentals by Beamish brothers and Mr. Kinard; recitations, Messrs. Platt, Kinard; addresses, Messrs. James Thomas, Elliott, McGowan and H. Thistlethwaite; duet by Miss Marion Comrie and Miss Hazel Elliott.

Sir Knight Robert J. Leeper was then presented with a Past Preceptor's jewel. Mr. Lesper has for the past four years held the office of W.P. The address was read by Mr. H. Campbell, Registrar, and presented by Mr. S. Buck, W.P.

ST. JOHN'S UNITED CHURCH COMPLETES SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Reports at Meeting Show All Organizations in Strong Position.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 28 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—A year of Christian endeavor and progress in all spheres of activity was shown by the reports given at the annual meeting of St. John's United Church, Campbellford. The meeting was well attended and presided over by C. W. Palliser, who sponsored a vote of thanks to the officers of all organizations for their splendid co-operation and support.

A feature of the meeting was the presentation to Mrs. C. W. Turner of a beautiful floor lamp. This came from the Sunday School and was in recognition of the fine services rendered by the recipient in that particular sphere of activity. The presentation was made by Mrs. H. Donald, an address being read by Miss Velma Runnels. Mrs. Turner making an appropriate address of thanks.

An appreciation of the splendid work of the pastor, Rev. R. C. Tait, and Mrs. Tait, was heartily accorded by the congregation on a motion sponsored by S. J. Abernethy and Harvey Donald; Mr. Tait being invited to continue his ministry in St. John's Church. An appreciation of the services of the Rev. F. G. MacTavish of Seymour and the Rev. H. P. L. Seymour of Belleville for their hearty co-operation and assistance during the illness of Mr. Tait was also expressed; this being on motion of G. A. Kingston and W. H. Ashton.

Giving the report of the session, Mr. Kingston stated that there were 10 members of the Session, and 20 on the Board of Stewards with nine other officials; the church comprised 350 families, there being 800 people under the pastoral oversight. During 1932 there were 37 infant baptisms, 3 adults, and 5 marriages. The total membership of the church was 594, four having been received by certificate. There had been 10 removals by death and two by certificates. Total resident full membership was 486 with 100 non-resident members making a total in all of 586.

Giving the report as secretary-treasurer of the church, S. A. Maguire stated that there was $5,476.77 in the general fund of the church, a total of $8,520 having been raised by the congregation for all purposes. The sum of $1,068 had been sent to the M. and M. Fund and the value of all church property was $40,000.

Sunday School Report

The work of the Sunday School has also been splendid, according to the report given by G. A. Kingston for A. D. Bennett, secretary, and the treasurer, Miss Stella Fair. There are 22 teachers and officers; 210 pupils, a cradle roll of 32 with 42 in the home department, making a total in all of 306 with an average attendance of 130. For general purposes there had been raised over $200 of which $83 had been sent to the M. and M. Fund. The report of the home department for the Sunday School was given by Mrs. H. Bakes and showed a membership of 42 with collections amounting to $53.37, of which $16 had been given to the Sunday School for supplies.

The Ever Ready Class had raised $5; a donation having been given to the missionary fund of the church. This report was presented by Mrs. H. Donald.

Rundown, Nervous

MANY women in Canada are troubled with monthly bearing - down pains, weakening drains, backache or sideache and nervousness. They should take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Read what Mrs. F. Ebel of 244 Douro St., Stratford, Ont., says: "I was all rundown in health—had hardly any strength. I felt awfully nervous, melancholy and depressed. I used to get such sick-headaches, too, and would have a heavy ache across my kidneys. My skin became quite sallow and yellow. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it built me right up, drove away that nervous condition and gave me strength and energy."

Former Madoc Boy Dies In Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Feb. 27. (CP) — John Robert King, 80, prominent figure in the mining, fishing and lumbering industries of the Pacific coast in pioneer days, is dead here. He was born in Madoc, Ont., and came to British Columbia in 1876.

An enjoyable social evening was spent at the Caledonian Club last Friday. The Woodmen of the World Hall was crowded to capacity with Caledonians and their guests—the members of St. David's Society. Mr. D. Anderson, president, was in the chair, and with him on the platform were the chief officers of both societies. Mr. Anderson welcomed the guests, and expressed his pleasure of the large attendance. A musical program opened with a popular bagpipe selection, "The Road to the Isles," by Mr. A. Milne. Miss Jessie Pattison delighted the audience with her two vocal solos, "Carmena" and "All Through the Night." Mr. R. Hendry sang "She's the Lass for Me" and "When I Meet MacKay." Mr. A. Burgess, resplendent in a new Royal Stewart tartan kilt, balmoral and matching accessories, received great applause when he danced the Highland Fling and the Sword Dance. Mr. W. Grieves sang "Hame o' Mine" and "Streams of Duna." "Breakfast in Your Bed" was a popular song hit by Mr. J. Beggs, as also was his encore, "Devil may care." Mr. A. Milne gave two readings, "Dan McGrew" and "Sam McGee." Miss Pearl Smith enhanced the program with a piano solo, "A Toi-a March," and also gave an encore. Miss Pearl Smith, Mrs. R. Hendry and Mr. A. Milne acted as accompanists. Mr. Sam. McKinley drew comic cartoons very skilfully. Conjuring tricks by Mr. McDermott caused great merriment, and closed an enjoyable program. Mr. G. Davies, president of the St. David's Society, most fittingly expressed the appreciation of himself and his society for the entertaining program and hearty welcome extended. The Rev. J. L. Hughes seconded the president's remarks. Sumptuous refreshments were served by the executive and dancing engaged in to music supplied by Mr. R. Gilmour and Mr. A. Milne.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

There's no doubt but that the majority of women today consider gray or white hair anything but an asset. Yet at many periods in history such hair has been thought very beautiful. That renowned courtesan, Madame du Barry, for instance, often wore a white wig over her own tresses. And she was considered one of the most beautiful women in the world.

It's not really the color of gray hair that women of today dislike. It's the fact that in their minds gray hair is associated with age. They think that such hair makes them appear older than they ordinarily would. And show me the woman who relishes looking old.

Gray hair really isn't aging in itself. Indeed, to loads of faces gray hair proves infinitely kinder than dark hair; softer and more becoming. To really prove youthful-looking and lovely, however, there are three things that are essential. First, the proper colors must be worn to emphasize the shade of the hair. Second, the skin must be kept fresh and youthful in coloring. And third, the hair itself must be kept in the best possible condition.

There are a good many colors that may be advantageously worn by gray-haired individuals. Not particularly drab hues, but sofe ones that are flattering and give skin life and warmth. Of all these shades, the best are soft blues, rose, gray, black, white and soft greens with a bluish, rather than a yellowish, cast. Such hues give emphasis to gray hair and help to enhance its attractiveness.

If the face is kept fresh and youthful in coloring, gray hair will not tend to make it appear the least bit older. The skin should be kept soft and clear by proper cleansing, stimulation and lubrication. And the natural coloring of the face should be emphasized by the skillful use of make-up. The gray-haired woman should not make up her face too vividly, else it is likely to take on an appearance of hardness. Soft, warm tones are best for cheek and lip tinting. And to emphasize the lashes and brows, dark brown eye cosmetics are best. Black should seldom be used by the gray-haired individual, as it tends to have a hardening effect on the face.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Scars

Rose: For affective eradication, scars should be treated in their early stages. I'd advise you to consult a skilled skin specialist about those scars as soon as possible.

Reducing

Mae: Constipation may indeed be a cause of overweight. You will find full information on correcting constipation and on reducing and slenderizing the figure in my "New Figure" booklet.

Brown Spots

Mrs. T.: To eradicate brown spots, so-called "liver spots," apply a solution of hyposulphite of soda and water, using one part of the chemical to eight parts of water.

Thin Legs

Betsy: It would be impossible for me to print my method of developing and shaping legs and thighs in this brief space. However, the process is fully outlined in my article on "Care of the Feet and Legs."

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Tomorrow is Shrove Tuesday, the day preceding the first day of Lent, and as you know it is known to many as "Pancake Tuesday."

• • • • • • •

Because of this, no doubt the majority of Peterborough's housewives will be serving pancakes tomorrow. The following material was written by a well-known woman food expert and I believe it will be of great interest to you readers.

• • • • • • •

"Pancake Tuesday" is that a familiar phrase in your house?? It is an interesting one—both from the point of view of its origin and of its modern celebration.

• • • • • • •

"The last day before Lent, Shrove Tuesday, has taken on as part of its recent-day character the idea of closing off the pre-Lenten festivities of various kinds. A day of fun and feasting, if you will.

• • • • • • •

"And the feast? Pancakes to be sure No matter what the hour of the occasion, pancakes will fit into it, at any rate, good pancakes will end with the sort of modern help the cook can get on this favorite dish, there is no reason why the day should have a single pancake to its discredit!

• • • • • • •

"If a luncheon is on your pre-Lenten mind, why not delicate thin French pancakes as a dessert? Spread them with jelly and roll them up tightly—or for even greater acceptance, serve them with lemon and sugar. Or a sauce-crepes Suzette fashion.

• • • • • • •

"Just as good for the sweet course at dinner, too. Pancakes of the less sturdy type are so smart for the sweet course, and incidentally, they are a remarkably good idea for the menu that starts out a trifle weakly, for everyone loves them so that they will eat all you offer, and a slim first course will pass unnoticed.

• • • • • • •

"For the family—there is no better main course for luncheon (or for supper if dinner is at mid-day) than plenty—and do please not the 'plenty' of delicious pancakes, served with any of the many favorite accompaniments.

• • • • • • •

"Amongst the sweet suggestions. Maple syrup holds the traditional lead—but it does not stand alone. Any of the good syrups of the golden or corn-syrup types will prove popular; and honey is in its way just as delectable as the maple syrup.

• • • • • • •

"Then there are all the jams, jellies and conserves—and the aforementioned lemon and sugar. Butter of course, with all of them, probably! Or with none of them, for is there anything better than the combination of deliciously-browned pancakes and butter?

• • • • • • •

"Corn pancakes, so fine served just by themselves, or with fried bacon at the top of their bent when they accompany a dish of fried chicken, for, or course, that gives us the famous combination idea, chicken with corn fritters. Pancakes offer a simple and yet adequate substitute for the more difficult fritter!!

• • • • • • •

"To make corn pancakes, just add drained canned corn, at this season, to the batter when you have it ready for the pan and of course you can use the liquid off the corn as part of the liquid in the batter.

• • • • • • •

"The prepared pancake flours are becoming more popular every year. The busy housewife appreciates the ease and speed with which she can mak pancakes and waffles from these flours.

• • • • • • •

"A pancake batter should be stirred rather than beaten. Drop the batter of your preference in spoonfuls on a greaseless griddle or into a well-greased frying pan. When bubbles form over the surface, the bottom should be brown enough; turn the cakes to brown the other side. And do keep the cakes hot until they are served!"

Warkworth Pupils Sponsor Concert

Physical Culture Demonstration Program is Followed by Dancing.

WARKWORTH, Feb. 27. (Examiner Correspondence)—An interesting physical culture demonstration program was given by the pupils of the Warkworth Continuation School in the town hall Friday evening, Feb. 24th. There was a large number of spectators.

JUST AMONG US GIRLS

Yesterday and To-day

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 27 (AP) The 1933 girl doesn't lift her nose at the sight of last year's dress or yesterday's bread pudding.

"No" said Miss Carlotta C. Greer of Cleveland, Ohio, at the National Education's convention. "Nowadays girls are willing—even eager—to learn how to make blouses out of last year's dresses, and to make puddings out of yesterday's bread crumbs."

It's a result of decreased family budgets, said Miss Greer who is president of the association's department of supervisors and teachers of home economics.

Household Hints

By Mrs. Mary Morton

MENU HINTS

Roast Pork Baked Potatoes
Mushrooms Cabbage Salad
Graham Pudding Coffee

The mushrooms should be sauted in a little butter and served around the roast.

Today's Recipes

Cabbage Salad—Three cups shredded cabbage, one cup diced pineapple, one-fourth package dates, salad dressing, lettuce. Soak cabbage in cold water until crisp. Drain thoroughly. Dice pineapple (fresh or canned), slice the dates and add to French dressing or mayonnaise Toss with two forks until well mixed. Serve in a cup of lettuce leaves.

Graham Pudding.—One and one-half cups graham flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon soda, one teaspoon baking powder, one-fourth cup butter, one package raisins, one-half cup molasses, one-half cup milk, one egg. Mix dry ingredients without sifting. Mix raisins through flour with finger tips. Melt butter; add molasses, milk and beaten egg; stir this mixture into dry ingredients. Fill well-oiled molds two-thirds full of batter. Cover tightly. Steam for two and one-half to three hours. Serve with hard sauce or a liquid pudding sauce.

Sunday Night Suppers

Here are some suggestions for what to serve for Sunday night suppers:

Hard-boiled eggs heated in a rich cheese sauce, buttered canned asparagus, and for dessert, angel food cake.

Salmon salad, crackers with peanut butter, pickles and coffee, with a fruit cup of diced pineapple and peaches.

Chili con carne, apple and raisin salad.

Spaghetti cooked with ground beef and catsup, head lettuce with salad dressing combined with chopped pickles and chocolate walnut cake.

Watch Shoulder Seam

A properly placed shoulder seam acts as an anchor to a well-fitted dress, says the United States bureau of home economics, discussing home dressmaker problems. The seam should be located carefully and the shoulders should be the first part of the dress fitted. The material should be smooth over the chest and shoulder blades.

ECZEMA

No matter how long you've suffered with itching, feverish, ugly Eczema and what treatments you've tried — One application of powerfully soothing and healing Peterson's Ointment instantly stops the maddening itching and terrible soreness and often just a few days' use banishes every trace of that red, cracked, discharging skin—leaving it smooth and clear.

For over 30 years Peterson's has brought freedom to thousands suffering with old sores, pimples, eczema, and itching skin. The ingredients are so powerfully healing and soothing that it never fails to bring results. One 50 cent box proves it. All drug stores.

OUR MAIL

Dear Anne Wilsox:

What a perfectly lovely thing it was of "E. C." to do, giving us that delightful 'Legend of St. Valentine.' The beauty of it appealed to me so much. I fancied I could see the lowly florist picking his choicest blooms to send to those who were suffering and desolate and sweeter still, when he himself was not able to grow and send the flowers to still write messages of love and cheer to those in need of consolation.

I know the cheering influence of flowers brought lovingly and I recall more than one occasion when I was pretty well down and out, of seeing my little friend from over the way coming up the lane with her joyous step and her arms full of lovely blooms and such a glad look on her dear young face, as she presented me with the bouquet. I was at once happier and will always remember the beauty and fragrance of the flowers.

That was a fine letter too, in many ways, that Optimsit wrote. One thing I would like to say though, is that I do not think that it was the use of cars that has caused so much lack, but the abuse. I really think that the age demanded that the farmer own a car; it seems to me that it was quite necessary and saved many a dollar when repairs for farm machinery were needed in seed time and harvest and instead as in former times waiting the best part of a week to get them by mail, one could run into town and back in a few hours and incidentally some of the family could jump in and go along and so combine pleasure with business. Farmers have had other luxuries too, during the boom and why shouldn't they? We have the same capacity for enjoyment as our city friends and not the same chance of indulging that capacity. We may have spent a little recklessly as everybody else seems to have done to say nothing of the Governments who have taxed us so unmercifully. But I think our old-time thrift will come to our aid and that we will all pull throught somehow, very little worse of wear.

We have had a funny winter, have we not? It has been easy on fuel and that is fine for those who are short. The skating has been fine on ponds round about and the young people have made the best of the free ice. I wish I were young again—and I want to skate and sleigh ride like everything when I see the youngsters going. I can make a good cup of coffee yet though, to have when they all come in.

It will soon be Spring and housecleaning time.

With best regards,

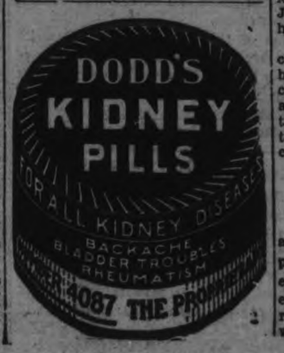
As ever,

VIONNET.

It has been delightful, Vionnet, receiving letters recently from all those who had written letters to the page some time ago. I am very glad to know that they are still interested in the Page. I think I can agree with you about the farmers' use of cars and thank you for your interesting letter.

Sincerely,

Anne Wilcox



Favors Leopard Skin

By MME LISBETH

THE LITTLE fur jacquette promises to be just as smart for spring as it was for fall, and leopard and ocelot are favored for both these short wraps, as well as three-quarter swagger coats.

Raquel Torres, glamorous dark-eyed screen player, shows her jaunty leopard skin jacket with a muff to match, which is, of course more for show than comfort for the early spring. Note the standing collar of the jacket and the swagger straw hat with tailored band.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

HOLDING BACK AT NO TRUMPS

One of the most important rules for the declarer's play of no trumps is to hold back a single winner of a suit until the third round, so that only one opponent is to be feared. The hand below well illustrates this.

	♠ 10 9 3 ♥ K 6 ♣ Q 8 ♦ A J 10 7 6 2
♠ K 7 2 ♥ Q 9 7 5 ♣ A 10 9 7 6 4 ♦ None	Y A B Z	♠ 8 6 5 4 ♥ 8 5 4 2 ♣ J 5 ♦ K 8 4
	♠ A Q J ♥ A J 10 ♣ K 3 2 ♦ Q 9 5 3

Z opened with 1-No Trump. When Y bid 2-Diamonds, Z went 2-No Trumps and Y then bid 3-No Trumps.

The opening lead was the 7 of clubs, showing only four higher cards of the suit held outside A's hand. B might hold the J or the 10. Possibly B held the Ace or 9, if A had only four clubs headed either by J-10-9 or A-J-10. In case B held the Ace dummy and declarer held two stops to the suit, but otherwise they jointly held only a single stop, and Z knew that he must not win the first trick in any event. Dummy played the 8, and B's J was allowed to win.

B led back his last club, and A's Ace captured dummy's Q, but when the declarer's K won the third trick of the suit, B held no more clubs.

The declarer's Q of diamonds found A void of the suit. He let go his lowest heart, thereby asking his partner to lead a spade when he could do so. B's K won the trick. He could not lead back a club, but he led back his lowest spade. The declarer's Ace won the trick and A dropped a come-on with his 7.

Five diamonds were run off in dummy. It made no difference what B let go. He held no winners. Upon the last two diamonds led the declarer discarded his Q and J of spades. Dumy's 10 was just as good, and the declarer wished to squeeze A, who had to make five discards. First he let go his lowest spade. He held his three remaining hearts for awhile, letting go all three of his clubs.

At the tenth trick A was obliged either to let go his top spade, thereby making good the 10 in dummy, or to let go his lowest heart, leaving that suit unprotected. He chose to do the latter. The K of hearts was led from dummy. Then the Ace of hearts picked up the twelfth trick, giving the declarer game and dropping the unguarded Q at his let, thus making good the declarer's J, and giving him one trick over his game contract.

Had the declarer won the first club trick, either with his Q or K, his opponents would have won five club tricks and one diamond trick, and he would have been down two tricks on his contract. Observing the rule on his club play the declarer three added tricks.

BISHOP HONORS CANON LOUCKS

Rector of Holy Trinity Ordained Priest 40 Years Ago.

ONCE AT ST. JOHN'S.

TORONTO, Feb. 27.—Rev. Canon Walter M. Loucks, M.A., rector of Hnly Trinity Church, observed on Sunday the 40th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. The occasion was marked at Holy Trinity, with the Bishop of Toronto preaching at the choral Eucharist at 11 a.m., and Rev. William C. dePauley, D.D., of Trinity College, in the evening. At 8 a.m. the rector celebrated Holy Communion and all candidates whom he has prepared for confirmation united in worship.

Canon Loucks has had a distinguished career. Trinity College conferred on him the B.A. degree in 1888, and the M.A. degree in 1890. He was curate at St. John's, Peterborough, 1890-1893; priest vicar at Christ Church Cathedral, Ottawa, 1893-1902; rector St. Matthew's, Ottawa, 1902-1913; rector of All Saints', Winnipeg, 1913-1925, and has been rector of Holy Trinity here since July 1, 1925.

Mayor Anton Cermak Develops Pneumonia

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 27 (A.P.)—A bulletin on the condition of Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago at 7.30 a.m. to-day said: "Mayor Cermak had a very restless night, especially during the early morning hours. He later fell asleep, and now is resting comfortably. He has no cough, nor apparent pain. The oxygen tent is being used. Temperature 99.2, pulse 128, respiration 36." The bulletin was given out by Dr. Frank Jirk, who said the names of all the attending physicians wre written on it.

Dr. Snyder said he would be unable to tell whether the pneumonic condition discovered yesterday had spread until the attending physicians examine Mr. Cermak later in the day.

SERVES A USEFUL PURPOSE.

The remark has been often heard in regard to Sir Malcolm Campbell's record-breaking triumph at Daytona Beach the other day that such performance serves no useful purpose, and that they are merely a needless risk of life.

However, a trial of the nature carried out so successfully by the great British driver is something more than a mere "stunt"; if it were only that it is not to be imagined that Sir Malcolm would persist in facing death, even for the purpose of maintaining British supremacy in the realm of speed.

After all it must be the case that the test given the "Bluebird" in travelling at the rate of 272 miles an hour is of value to automotive engineers and to the automobile industry generally; in the words of the Ottawa Journal, such a run is the supreme test of mechanical theory, of material and methods, and no doubt there are very important lessons for the automobile industry in study of the "Bluebird" after its astounding performance.

From such a trial it is to be imagined much important data as to wind resistance, stability of mechanical equipment, soundness of tires and a dozen other similar points will emerge, and much of this will be used to advantage in the construction of the motor car of to-morrow.

IT SHOULD BE SEEN.

It cannot be too strongly emphasized that the picture, "The End of the Road," which is to be shown here on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week, under the auspices of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council, is being displayed for the sole purpose of educating and arousing the public against the demoralizing and destructive character of the social diseases, alas so prevelent in this country.

As has been pointed out by one Canadian newspaper, it is not a film for neurotics or for the morbid or idly curious. It deals with an unpleasant topic, but it is scientifically and skilfully done, and there can be no question of its value from an educational viewpoint, inasmuch as it is endorsed by medical societies, health authorities generally and leaders of church and state.

It is, The Examiner believes, a picture that all adults should see, not in the hope of securing entertainment, of course, or as an ordinary film attraction would be patronized, but because it reveals the plain truth in regard to ghastly menace that lurks in the midst of every Canadian community and about which too little is known or understood.

Ignorance of such a vital subject is unfortunately no protection; on the contrary, it would seem to be certain that an enlightened public is the best possible defence against the dire effects of the terrible diseases dealt with by this impressive and instructive picture.

A BOYS' BAND.

The announcement that steps are being taken for the formation of a boys' band in this city will be received with general satisfaction, especially by those who have had an opportunity to judge of the splendid progress made by similar organizations in other Canadian centres.

The local Salvation Army has as a matter of fact demonstrated that a boys' band can be successfully carried on, and that it can be utilized as a valuable training school for young musicians.

The Temple Junior Band has most effectively served as a feeder for the senior band of the corps, and in addition has given excellent service on its own account.

The launching of a civic band for boy players will be a welcome addition to the city's musical organizations and will provide a unique opportunity for young musicians to develop.

There must be scores of boys here who would welcome the chance for training under such auspices, and the new band is not likely to be handicapped by any dearth of promising material.

It is to be hoped that the movement will make rapid headway, and that it will not be long before the Peterborough Boys' Band makes its first bow to the public.

UTTERLY INADEQUATE.

The Examiner has always consistently opposed suggestions that city councils should be given greater control over educational expenditures, but we are forced to admit that the failure of the local Board of Education to respond at this time to the general demand for economy has strengthened the aim of those who argue that the powers of school boards should be curbed.

Frankly we are at a loss to understand the attitude of those members of the board who, despite the plight of hundreds of taxpayers, are reluctant apparently to relinquish any sizable portion of school expenditures.

We are satisfied that they are not running their own business or their own household affairs on the same basis at the present time—and yet when it comes to the spending of public money they are satisfied to go along as though the municipal revenues were buoyant as in times of prosperity and as if there were no such thing as citizens unable to pay their taxes.

To announce a saving of a few thousand dollars out of a total expenditure on education of a quarter of a million is to utterly ignore the fact that we in this city are coming closer and closer to a financial crisis, that unless we adjust our expenditures to changed conditions and economize in every field of public spending sooner or later we'll be in the same plight as some other Canadian municipalities have already found themselves.

That is not a pleasant thought, but it has to be faced, and it has to be met by a whole-hearted effort to avert disaster by rigid economy.

As one of our largest spending bodies, there is an especially heavy responsibility upon the Board of Education, and we are sorry indeed that we cannot congratulate the members upon having effectively discharged that responsibility.

When V. J. McElderry, K.C., Separate School member of the board, told his colleagues that the reduction agreed upon was utterly inadequate and that it was a shame to go to the people with such a budget, he voiced the great bulk of public opinion in this community.

With him The Examiner agreed that the reduction proposed is indeed inadequate; it affords no appreciable relief to the over-burdened taxpayers, and it is completely out of joint with the wishes of the people out of whose pockets this huge expenditure upon education must for the most part be taken.

DE-BUNKING EDUCATION.

The address to the Ottawa Teachers' Institute by Mr. George F. Rogers, Chief Director of Education for Ontario, was notable for its display of commonsense, its appreciation of the realities, the resounding blow it strikes against hokum and bunkum and the over-elaboration of the inconsequential in our educational system. If Mr. Rogers speaks with the authority of the department—there is no reason to suppose otherwise—and considering also the fact that Premier Henry is Minister of Education, certainly his address is a plain indication that we are getting down to brass tacks in this respect. There was a time when the most expensive system necessarily was thought the best system. To-day expenditures are being measured by results, and it becomes apparent that we have been spending much time and money in our schools on things of very little importance.

Mr. Rogers would have us concentrate on the broader aspects of education; pay less attention to certificates and more to a sound general training; less attention to Latin and more to the classics in English. Time is wasted which he would put to good use. "We should teach," he said, "to develop power in our students, to inculcate in them habits of work, good work, and of industry." There was room for improvement, he indicated, in the technique of teaching, and if teachers trained themselves to handle larger classes the cost of education would be reduced. In the past the department has held before local boards the ideal of thirty students to the class. The ideal seldom was reached, because the cost in plant and teachers was prohibitive, and now the solution, it is proposed, may be sought from another angle.

Mr. Rogers' words should set us thinking, ought to assist in tearing down some of the devotion to fads and fetishes which have made real progress difficult in the Ontario school system. It is an excellent sign, that a high official of the department thus should come out flatly for simplicity and practical efficiency; should remind us that perfection is not achieved by piling up intricate and costly processes.—Ottawa Journal.

GOOD NEWS.

The Windsor City Council handed the ratepayers a welcome St. Valentine's gift yesterday when it struck a tax rate of 28 mills for 1933.

A 28-mill rate, combined with the 10 per cent. assessment reduction in effect this year, means a saving of approximately one-third to the people who pay the city's bills. And one-third off, as everyone will readily admit, is something that is not to be sneezed at. It is a real achievement. And it is right in line with Mayor Croll's forecast at the beginning of the year.

* * * *

It is easy to sit down and discuss suggestions for a lower tax rate. It is easy to say the rate should be this or that. Making a rate, however, is a very different business. It is never easy—even when times are "flush" and no one is worrying a great deal about taxes.

Setting a rate under conditions such as we have experienced for the last two or three years is especially hard. Into this picture come considerations of reduced or obliterated incomes, reduced property values, unemployment, reduced debenture interest, less population, civic services and a dozen and one other things. Keeping all these factors in mind, trying to arrive at a decision providing for the greatest good to the greatest number, effecting economies without stopping essential services—setting a tax rate in 1933 has not been an easy task.

* * * *

Briefly, the 28-mill rate—probably one of the lowest in the province—has been made possible through:

1. Sharp reductions in the estimates of all spending bodies.

2. Reduction of the interest rate on municipal debentures to three per cent.

3. Salary cuts averaging 10 per cent. (In addition to reductions previously made.)

The 1933 levy is based on an estimated tax collection of 65 per cent. On an assessment of $80,000,000 a 28-mill rate will provide $2,240,000. Assuming a collection of 65 per cent., the yield will be $1,456,000 or $650,000 less than the amount required to meet the estimated expenditure. From the Hydro Commission, the Water Board and other sources, however, the Council hopes to make up the necessary amount.

* * * *

One of the unfortunate phases of the arrangement is the necessity of cutting salaries and wages. The Star has never felt that city employees, except perhaps in an odd instance, were overpaid. Most of them accepted office years ago and took a lower remuneration than they could have secured elsewhere, because of the security offered by public employment. Their incomes have not been sufficiently large to permit the storing away of much reserve.

We have an especial feeling of sympathy for school teachers, those faithful men and women who have devoted the best years of their lives to an all-important branch of public activity. We do not know, of course, how the Board of Education will make the savings that are necessary under the financing plan called for in the rate struck yesterday, but it is difficult to see how the result can be achieved without further salary restrictions.

In a situation of this kind, however, necessity over-rides every other consideration. It is a matter of the people's ability to pay. Practically everyone has lost money in one way or another. Private incomes have been cut to the bone. In many cases they have been wiped out altogether.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

There is a general feeling that Mr. Roosevelt will have to have a lot of luck as well as a new Cabinet if he is to live up to the expectations of those who elected him.

The Legislature, it may be said, came in like a lion, but it remains to be seen whether or not it will go out like a lamb.

Little Girl Lost

By Temple Bailey

READ THIS FIRST:

Araminta Williams, 20 and beautiful, is faced with the problem of three stepsisters who are not so attractive and on whom she and her mother and father are dependent. She decides that the only way out is to marry and decides on Barney Tyson, who is madly in love with her. After an argument with Leontine, one of the stepsisters, who is intent on sending Araminta abroad because she herself is in love with Barney, Araminta calls Barney on the telephone, and later in the garden tells him she wants to marry him. Instead of going to a dance with her stepsisters, Araminta slips away with Barney and they hurry to Washington where Araminta's Aunt Min lives and where Araminta plans to spend the night and be married in the morning. Barney leaves her at the door and as she enters Aunt Min's living room she sees Janney Breckenridge sitting talking with her aunt. Araminta once believed she was in love with Janney. Janney and Araminta had met two years before at the Kentucky derby and she had fallen madly in love with him but he, in the diplomatic service, had hurried abroad telling her that she should marry no one, that she was much too lovely for a humdrum sort of life. And so with Janney present in her aunt's living room Araminta astounds them both by announcing that she is to marry Barney in the morning.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 5

Aunt Min was the slave of her servants. She had a chauffeur who drove his wife quite gaily and airily in Aunt Min's car, regardless of orders. Her cook took commissions from all the tradespeople, brazenly, and without apology. Her housemaid flirted with the butcher, the baker, the milkman, the furnaceman, and the window cleaner. Only Rhoda was stable. She was honest but exacting. It was as if having none of the faults of the other servants, she took her toll in making demands on her mistress.

So Aunt Min said, "Perhaps I'd better tell her now and let her sleep on it."

"Aunt Min, you're an angel."

"I'm glad you think it. And now I am going to leave you two to talk about it while I face the dragon." So, followed by her smoky Persian and by the Pekingese, Aunt Min made her way to the hall, and Araminta was left alone with Janney.

And Janney waking suddenly into something that was blazing and violent, said "Minta, are you mad?"

Why?"

"Some women might marry like this. But not you."

She gave him a fleeting glance. "You mustn't take me so seriously."

"Why shouldn't I take you seriously? You're too lovely to be tied to some boy who doesn't know that you're a golden cup filled to the brim with sacred wine."

Her lashes flickered over her smiling eyes, "I'm done with poetry, Jan."

"Poetry?"

"Oh, you say it so well. . . . But Barney does things."

"You mean he has asked you to marry him and I—haven't?"

"Why mean anything?"

She was still smiling.

He jumped to his feet and stood in front of her. . . . "Such a marriage is preposterous—and you know it."

She leaned back in her chair, looking up at him. "You ought to write a verse about it—'On Minta Contemplating Matrimony'! You were always writing verses."

"Stop saying things like that."

"But they are true, aren't they?"

"No."

Silence fell between them. Araminta felt his nearness—the spell of the old enchantment. He had changed little, and she was aware of the dark splendor which had first attracted her, his hair flung back, his thin and graceful figure, his stormy gray eyes and black lashes, his face lean and brown, his slight moustache.

At last he said: "You haven't forgiven me. Yet I did what was best for both of us. It was as hard for me as for you, Minta."

"Perhaps," her laugh was light, "and so you—ran away. And I found Barney — and — lived happy — ever after. . . ."

She stopped, suddenly, for Janney said sharply: "Don't," and buried his face in his hands.

She wanted to pull his fingers down from his face and say, "I love you." She wanted to kneel beside his chair and say, "Nothing matters but—you." But she did neither, and Aunt Min coming in presently found Janney again screwing his cigaret ashes into a tray, and Araminta, deep in her cavernous chair, smiling.

"Rhoda insists there shall be a wedding breakfast, Minta. She says there will be plenty of time, and that I must ask the rector and one or two others—you Janney, if you'll come. She says it will make things look a lot better. And that it would be positively disreputable to let Minta go off without wedding cake and chicken salad. . . ."

"But why bother, Aunt Min?"

"It is Rhoda, child, who makes me bother. And she always gets her way."

Janney turned to Araminta. "So I'm invited to the wedding?"

"Evidently—by Rhoda."

"Not by you?"

"You may come if you like."

"Minta," Aunt Min expostulated, "how can you be so ungracious."

"She doesn't mean it," Janney said, "do you?" His eyes held hers. "And you must let me wish you happiness."

"Happiness. . . .?" Her hesitation was slight—"thank you."

When he had gone, she talked with Aunt Min telling her all about it—about Leontine, about Nicky and Mary and Barney, and Iris and Helen. But not a word did she say of Janney. Aunt Min must not know about Janney. No one must know.

And when she had finished her story, Aunt Min rang for Rhoda. "Is Miss Minta's room ready?"

"And waiting," said Rhoda, succinctly.

She gathered the Pekingese up in her arms. Aunt Min took the Persian which hung over her shoulder like a fur rug, its green eyes matching the emerald satin of her gown. And so they made their way upstairs, Aunt Min first, Araminta following, and Rhoda stiff as her starched frills, bringing up the rear.

And when at last she was alone and the door shut, Araminta threw herself face downward on the bed. She did not cry, but it was worse than crying. . . .

Oh, Janney. . . . Janney. . . .!

For she knew she loved him! And she was going to marry Barney!

She couldn't back out of it now—and if she did, what then? She had sent Janney away. She had hurt him and she had wanted to hurt. But she loved him.

She might as well face it. She was back where she had started two years ago. There was something almost sinister about it, this hold Janney had upon her imagination. What was it someone had said about loving? That until the imagination was captured, love was merely a biological process? All the great passions of history had been founded on a projection of the imagination into the life of the beloved.

At last she got up from the bed and began to undress. As she brushed her hair, she saw herself in a mirror set in the door. Tomorrow she would be married to Barney, and he would call her "Loveliness," and all her life she would belong to him. And all the while she would be loving—Janney.

She knew then that she could not do it. Barney had a right to a square deal and she wouldn't be giving it. She might never see Jan again, but she could not marry Barney.

Her decision made, she said her prayers whole heartedly. She wondered what God could do in a matter like this? She remembered what her grandfather, the Bishop, had once said to her, "You can't get yourself into a thing willfully, and then expect God to get you out again." Well, she blamed nobody but herself, so she worded her petition, "Dear God, make me strong to set things right." Her faith had a child-like quality. She was indeed, a child, groping.

THE MAN WHO DIDN'T WANT FRIENDS

HE SAT there and smoked my cigarets and smiled and told me that he didn't want any friends.

Friends, he said, are a nuisance. They get in your way. They will not let you be yourself. You make a friend and he puts his arm around your shoulder and draws you in to himself. You become a part of him then, "an extension of his egotism," as he put it. You're like his dog, house, his family, you are his. And you don't belong to yourself and longer.

He talked as if friendship were an indecent and selfish thing. A slavish device for tying a free soul.

So he, himself, would have no friends. He desired to be free. He wanted to "know" life. Life is exciting. Life is an adventure. And he desired to be ready for any part of it that came along. But if he had friends in his life, cluttering it, hampering it, he wouldn't be free....Did I think so?

I didn't answer, but I don't think so....It seemed futile to talk about friendship to him. To do so would be, as the poet puts it, like beating in vain one's wings in the luminous void....The young man was merely using words, spinning ideas in the atmosphere. He knew nothing at all about the matter. And perhaps he never would know.... It was likely that he had never had a friend. Quite possible that he never would have one. He would not know how to live with a friend if he did have one.

His life, so far, had been sterile ....And though it is a kind of arrogance to pity another human being without knowing all there is to be known about him—I pitied him, as you might pity a man who makes a public show of himself.

Because I think he was confused about friendship. It is not a greedy and grasping arrangement. It is, rather, a gentle grouping of two human beings who are a little lonely and a little incomplete. Who are warmed, strengthened and comforted by one another.

In a friendship a man will give without asking returns. He will understand without being told. A friend will see your imperfections without loving you the less. He has taken you to himself and will not ask you to change. If he needs your help, his need is no burden, but a privilege. And his arm about your shoulder is no chain; it sets you free.

I might have said this to the bright young man, but somehow I wasn't sure he'd understand.

WILLIAM G. MURRIN
President, British Columbia Power Corporation; Industrialist, Engineer.

This is the signature of a man who has achieved that rare quality—serenity. He finds life good, whether in the midst of struggle or at rest. There is poise, grace and harmony in his handwriting. He is neither overawed nor flustered by the largest project, no matter how apparently complex. He has a solid, well-grounded sort of self-confidence. He works on the principle of taking the big things bit by bit, mastering the whole by temporarily ignoring the whole and concentrating on the mastery of its component parts. He believes any man of average intelligence can apply his method and succeed, and that no special credit is coming to himself. But therein he is too generous, for few men have what he has; a sense of humor that levels things, that divests them of any element of false importance that may be in them. He can see something funny in most things. Not that he is a facetious type; on the contrary, he is essentially a serious-minded person. But he has a sort of rock bottom common sense, a crystal clarity of perception, a subtle appreciation of contrasts. He is not afraid or ashamed to admit his own mistakes and respects those who do likewise. The only thing of importance in life as he sees it is to live it fully. He has a broad, sympathetic and tolerant attitude. He himself is governed in living his life by a delicacy of appreciation that insures his finding it constantly interesting and by an aesthetic sense that makes him an artist in everything he does.

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

THIS IS PAARDEBERG DAY

ON THIS DATE, in 1900, Canadian soldiers in South Africa avenged one of the most poignant disasters in the history of British arms. On February 26, 1881, Sir George Colley, in the first war with the Boers, seized Majuba Hill in Natal, but was the next day disastrously defeated, being himself killed in action and half his force shared his fate. On February 27, 1900, the Royal Canadian Regiment aided the Cornwalls and the Gordon Highlanders in wiping out the stain of that defeat and making what had been a day of mourning in military annals one of rejoicing for victory.

There had been a preliminary battle at Paardeberg on February 18th, when Kitchener ordered a charge upon the Boer position by the Canadians and three companies of the Cornwalls. It was a deadly error. A brilliant charge, one of those which live in British history as proof of the valor of our race, but still one which should never have been made. The Canadians suffered several casualties, and for the first time our home papers had casualty lists for their readers.

The next morning Lord Roberts arrived and there was a change of tactics. There were no more charges. Trenches were dug in the river bed, a forerunner of the greater war with Germany fourteen years later. On the night of the 26th the Canadians were ordered to relieve the Cornwalls. At 10 p.m. came the order to advance. The boys of the Maple Leaf rose from the trenches and marched forward in darkness that could almost be felt. Some one blundered into barbed wire; the enemy got the alarm and hundreds of Boer rifles poured bullets into the night. The fire was so fierce that four companies had to fall back on trenches occupied by the Gordon Highlanders.

But Companies "G" and "H" of the Canadians held fast until dawn and then found themselves able to look into the Boer position and enfilade it. The Boer leader, Cronje, soon realized that the battle was lost; a white bed sheet fluttered in the breeze; a messenger was sent to Lord Roberts; in a few hours terms were arranged, Cronje and his sharpshotters, admittedly the best in the world, surrendered to raw Canadians, few of whom had had any but training in their home militia.

The survivors of Paardeberg (now, alas! rapidly dwindling) will to-day recall their part in that great day's work and pay tribute to their comrades who fell there, as in memoriam in which all Canadians should join.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Feb. 27 (C.P.)—The influence of Wall Street on the Toronto Stock Exchange was anything but helpful to-day. All the interlisted shares moved downward with the New York listings and the close was around the low for the day. Selling was quite active on weakness.

Oils seemed inclined to hold their ground in the face of general weakness but all took fractional declines in the late trading. Selling of Dominion Stores, forcing the price down to 13¼, featured the food group. In the interlisted section, Brazilian hit its all-time low at 7¼. Nickel fell off to 8⅛, and C.P.R. lost its early gain to close at unchanged at 10. Smelters was off a point at the close.

Photo Engravers, Massey Harris, Cockshutt Plow and Steel of Canada were all down for the day.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Feb. 27. (AP) — Stocks were relatively quiet to-day, although the list turned easy in the late dealings, erasing earlier net gains of fractions to more than 2 points. Losses of about a point were sustained in Allied Chemical, Lowes, and Case. Fractional losses occurred in United States Steel, American Can, American Telephone and Standard Oil of New Jersey. Some of the tobacco and rail shares held fractional gains. Transactions approximated 1,100,000 shares.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Feb. 27.—(CP)— The Standard Mining market failed to stand up under the avalanche of selling that flowed in upon the market today, inspired by the weakness in the New York market, and prices broke all along the line. Lake Shore was the main target for the sellers and it tumbled $3. All the leaders sold off sharply and showed no sign of a rally before the close. Base Metal shares went along with the golds but fell less severely.

Lake Shore was under selling pressure all day. Dome dropped about 50, Hollinger about 50, McIntyre about 75, Teck nearly 30 and Wright Hargreaves 25.

Heavy blocks of Noranda were thrown on the market and the price was carried down to $23, off 50 while Nickel lost about 15 and Falconbridge gained 10 points.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Feb. 27—(CP)—Good export business worked in Canadian wheat from both sea-boards over the week-end, together with a better feeling in United States banking circles, boosted local wheat prices fractionally in early trading on the Winnipeg grain market today.

At mid-session all wheat futures rested 3-8 cent higher, May at 47 7-8, July 48¾ and October 50.

Export sales were estimated at slightly more than 500,000 bushels and the bulk of this was worked out of Vancouver. Pit trade from the start was not particularly active, but the market had little difficulty in holding steady at levels 3-8c over the previous close.

Liverpool wheat was lower due to cheaper Canadian and Argentine offers and quotations near the close were ½d to ⅝d lower. Buenos Aires market was on holiday.

World wheat shipments for the week totalled 16,000,000 bushels, of which only 3,500,000 bushels was of North American origin.

CAPITAL REORGANIZATION PLAN NOT PLACED BEFORE DIRECTORS

J. C. Newman Tells General Steel Wares, Limited Shareholders.

REDUCING OVERHEAD.

MONTREAL, Feb. 27 C.P.)—The question of capital reorganization for general Steel Wares, Limited, has not come before the board of directors, J. C. Newman, president, told the annual general meeting of shareholders here o-day. "Action of this nature," he declared, "will not be contemplated unless the directors reach the conclusion that the working capital position of the company renders this step unavoidable.

"Every possible step has been taken to reduce overhead charges but further progress in that direction in rendered difficulty by the fact that heavy fixed charges have to be met. For instance, taxes payable by your company to the Dominion, Provincial and Municipal Governments in Canada amounted to $461,000 in 1932," Mr. Newman said.

R. W. Steele was elected to the board of directors, succeeding A. A. Clark, of Toronto, while the other members were re-elected. Some changes in the board are contemplated at a later date, it was intimated. To-day's meeting marked the expiry of the management trust agreement under which the directors were elected by the holders of three management shares. Shareholders to-day exercised the vote for the first time.

When his cabin 'plane crashed near Lake Kenogomossi, in Northern Ontario, Pilot Herbert Clegg, of Sarnia, Ontario, was killed along with his four passengers, one a woman, all from Schumacher, Ontario. Trying to make a forced landing, the plane struck the top branhces of a tree and crashed. Above shows the wrecked remains of the ill-fated 'plane. Discovery of the tragedy was not made until the day following the crash, which was last Sunday. The four passengers were on their way to a picnic.

EIGHTEEN OHIO BANKERS TAKE STEPS TO LIMIT WITHDRAWALS

Anticipatae Emergency Banking Laws in Current Legislature of State.

5 PER CENT. OF DEPOSITS.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27.—(A.P.)—Eighteen Ohio banks— most of them in Cleveland, Akron and Dayton—clamped down on withdrawals to-day in anticipation of emergency banking laws to be proposed to the current Legislature by Gov-George White.

On the basis of December 31, 1932, bank statements, this drastic step encompassed more than $1,025,000,000 in resources and $815,000,00 in deposits. The Akron and Cleveland banks said future deposits would not be affected.

Seven of Cleveland's eight banks agreed to limit withdrawals temporarily to five per cent. of deposits.

The National City Bank declined to participate in the agreement and announced operation on a normal basis.

Akron's five banks restricted savings deposits withdrawals to one per cent. per month. The four banks of Dayton declared a three-day holiday under a declaration by the City Commission and Mayor.

Gov. White declined to divulge the nature of the proposed legislation. Manager G. A. Stephenson of the Cleveland Clearing House Association, however, said the suggested laws would "enable the Superintindent of Banks, with the approval of the Governor and Attorney General, to stop or limit withdrawals from Ohio banks."

INDEPENDENT MOVE IS AIMED

whose findings the League based its stand).

That report, Sir John continued, recognized the case of Japan involved many complications. She had many trials to put up with.

Yet there was no doubt at all the methods followed by Japan were not in accordance with the provisions of the League covenant.

International Action.

Sir John held that only by international action could the embargo be effectively enforced. The British representative at Geneva had been instructed to raise the matter in the special committee of the League.

"We have been as active there," Sir John pointed out, "as any government could be."

He then laid down these propositions:

(1) International consideration as quickly as possible was no doubt the best process, and one likely to lead to the best results;

(2) If there was to be any action by one single nation like the United Kingdom, she could not differentiate between one nation and another.

Sir John pointed out also that arms and ammunition could only be exported from the United Kingdom under license. Export therefore required positive action by a government department.

"Existing contracts must be respected, but subject to this we have decided that as from to-day, and pending the opportunity of international consultation and a decision the Government will not authorize the issue of licenses for export to either Japan or China of any article mentioned in the arms export prohibition order of 1931."

PARIS, Feb. 27.—(A.P.)—France is ready to participate in any arms embargo proposed by the League of Nations for the Far East, provided Great Britain and the United States also participate, it was learned to-day in high Government quarters.

Seek Buried Gold Heart Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27 (A.P.)—Search for gold on Fort Moore Hill in the heart of Los Angeles to-day reached its final stage, actual digging with pick and shovel.

The gold hunt was inspired by a sheepskin map which Ray Martinez, one of the prospectors, said dated back 157 years to a time when a wealthy Spanish family owned the ground. The map and other historical data in his possession, Martinez declared, showed fabulous treasure had been buried there.

As a preliminary test, Martinez sought the aid of G. Warren Shufelt, who owns a mineral surveying instrument. Shufelt made several "readings" with the instrument at the claim, which is within a few blocks of the Hall of Justice and almost directly over the North Broadway street railway and vehicular tunnel, and said it registered "strong contacts."

WIDOW ARRESTED IN MURDER CASE

Four Men Confess, Describe Killing, Claiming Woman Agreed to Plot.

AFTER $15,000 INSURANCE.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27 (A.P.)—The haze of mystery which enveloped the death last July 16 of George Carl, whose widow said his fate was "written" three days in advance on the cards of a fortune teller, began to clear to-day, the police claimed.

Vera Frances Carl, 36, his widow, was under arrest with four men, who, police said, confessed Carl was slain to obtain $15,000 insurance. She has denied being an accessory.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert, State's Attorney investigator, revealed the alleged confessions. He said John Milosic, 50, father of two children, admitted he persuaded Mrs. Carl to get her husband to take out life insurance and agree to his death.

Her brother, Ivan Grilec and Joseph Fess, 26, the latter as the actual killer, also confessed, Gilbert said. Edward Veselka, according to Capt. Gilbert, admitted he had considered doing the killing, but demanded more than the $800 Fess received.

U.S. Private Slain Fight Over Woman

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Feb. 27.—(CP)—Private Walter Flinkowski, 27, of the United States Army garrison at Fort Brady, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., known at Franklin, is dead today with five bullets in his body and Private Herbert West, 27, is under arrest charged with murder. Mrs. Merna Matthews, 22, is held as a material witness. It is alleged the shooting occurred at her apartment.

Police say West and Mrs. Matthews had been living together for some time but that lately while West was in the guard house for a term for having overstayed his leave, the woman had become friendly with Kinkowski. West, according to police, said after his arrest he had warned the two to stay apart.

CANADIAN BANKS WEATHER TIMES

Interesting Report Recently Released by Corporate Investors, Ltd.

Two interesting reports have just been released by Corporate Investors, Limited, with headquarters in Toronto, and with which are identified some of the leading financial and industrial men of Canada. The reports are accompanied by the investment portfolio, consisting of Government, City and Corporation securities. The first purchases were made in June, 1932, when security prices were at their low levels, and are confined exclusively to well diversified holdings of high-grade securities giving safety with a high degree of liquidity and good income.

The Economic Review outlines the domestic and international developments during the past sixteen months, and indicates how these have affected investments and the market price of securities.

One of the outstanding facts of the present period which will bear emphasis is that Canadian financial institutions have come through the trying period in a most creditable way. For example, we have not had a single bank failure in a decade, while in the United States in the same period of ten or eleven years, 10,000 banks have closed and 5,000 others have had to receive financial assistance. It is this kind of careful, conservative guidance that should place Canada in a position to reap substantial benefits with the turn of the tide.

The review points out the material achievements in Great Britain, which faced far more serious problems than Canada. In this respect the review says in closing:

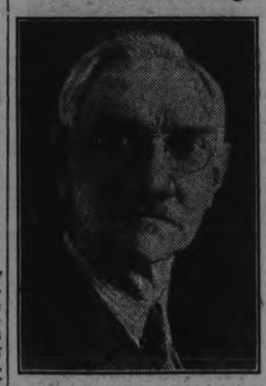
"The British Empire has all down through the centuries built up the tradition of doggedly solving the problems of each crisis. In retrospect, when we consider the accomplishments of 1931 and 1932, the results appear incredibly good. The serious concern of the British people resulted in setting aside party lines and forming a National government. This was an accomplishment of first order. The balancing of the British budget and the successful conversion loan were unbelievably good accomplishments. The masterpiece of accomplishments in Europe, however, was the bringing together of European powers at Lausanne. The bringing together of France and Germany in common accord would have been regarded as an utter impossibility two years ago. Yet that has been accomplished. The right about face from the century-old trade policy of Britain, through the force of her emergencies, was another almost incredible step. The Empire Conference was but the logical following out of this changed trade policy. The fine way in which the British have risen to the successive emergencies should be an inspiration to us at the present time and should fortify us in our determination to do our part in maintaining British traditions."

"In view of these far-reaching achievements we should realise that material progress has been made, which amply justifies facing our future with courage and confidence."

BACK IN THE TOILS

LONDON, Ont.—Harry A. Fountain, Jr., Negro, recently released from Portsmouth penitentiary, pleaded guilty in police court today on two charges of robbery with violence and one of theft of groceries. He was remanded eight days for sentence.

Executive Changes, Goodyear Company



Announcement has been made of executive changes in the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Canada, Limited. C. H. Carlisle (LEFT), who has been actively connected with the Company for twenty-three years, serving for nearly the whole period as General Manager and for some years past as President and General Manager, retires as General Manager, and is succeeded in that position by R. C. Berkinshaw (RIGHT). Mr. Carlisle continues as Director and President of the Company, in which he retains his invested interest.

Mr. Berkinshaw, the new General Manager, has been with the Company for thirteen years, in charge of the Legal Department, and later as Secretary, as Treasurer and as Assistant to the President. He is a Canadian, and a graduate of Upper Canada College, University of Toronto (Trinity College), and Osgoode Hall and practised as a barrister before joining the Company He served overseas as adjutant of the 124th Battalion and as major in the 12th Battalion, Canadian Engineers, and was favorably mentioned in dispatches.

SOO INVENTORS READY FOR WAR

mers and insurance men. The "Hound" ought to be a good wolf-chaser as Algoma has spent a lot of time on it.

The general theory is something like this: When a wolf realizes that somebody is interested in him he sticks to the timber or scrub on a reconnaissance, for as long as seems advisable. At what seems to him an opportune moment he will make for open country or, if there is a wide expanse of lake ice handy, his better judgment tells hom to travel for it. The collaborators have taken this little "foible" into account. The "Wolf Hound" is their answer.

Lives On Runners

The "Wolf Hound" can sleep four men and, with a little luck, cooking can be done aboard it. It's runners are six feet long and five inches wide. It will have space for a dog or two if necessary under the engine, which occupies the rear deck. It has four windows on each side, two in front and a rear hatchway. The gasoline tank is in the bowshaped front. The vehicle, or vessel, is water tight and sufficiently air-tight.

From St. Joe comes word there are five wolves rounded up and waiting. The "Wolf Hound" will leave for the front practically any time now, as it is figured the ice and snow conditions are just right.

Tablet Is Unveiled To Late Archdeacon

In the presence of a large congregation, a memorial tablet was on Sunday morning, unveiled and dedicated at St. John's Church, "In ever loving memory of John Cheyne Davidson, Archdeacon of Peterborough and Rector of this church 1890-1931."

The tablet presented by the family of the late Archdeacon Davidson, is situated over the vestry door on the east side of the chancel. It was unveiled by a son of the late Archdeacon, the Rev. John Davidson, of Toronto, and was dedicated by the Rev. W. R. R. Armitage, rector of the Church of the Messiah, Toronto.

Included among members of the family who were present at the service in addition to the Rev. John Davidson, were Mrs. A. C. Davidson; Phillip Davidson, a son, and Mrs. Gossage, a sister. A daughter, Miss Joyce Davidson, who had intended motoring from Toronto, was unable to be present.

The service was conducted by Venerable Archdeacon R. C. Blagrave, D.D., while the Rev. Mr. Armitage preached an inspiring sermon, during the course of which he referred to the two outstanding qualities in the late Archdeacon Davidson's life—those of cheerfulness and good heartedness—as being in themselves human qualities, but finding fulfillment in Christ.

The Rev. John Davidson officiated at the morning celebration of Holy Communion, and also addressed the Bible class in the afternoon.

WORD PICTURE OF ROOSEVELT

Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe Discusses Personality of Famous President Beefore Service Club.

ROTARY'S BIRTHDAY.

The colorful life of Theodore Roosevelt was the subject of a most interesting paper before the Peterborough Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon today by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray St. Baptist church whose word picture of the dynamic president was followed with close interest by the Rotarians. The program was under the auspices of the International Committee and President James Juby was in the chair.

Rotarian W. R. Morris called attention to the twenty-eighth anniversary of the founding of Rotary and stressed the fact that the movement now had a membership of some 150,000 and was to be found in over 60 countries. He commended an editorial in the Mail and Empire to the consideration of Rotarians.

Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe who was introduced by Rotarian R. F. Downey, briefly sketched the outstanding events in the career of Theodore Roosevelt as a background for his portrait of the man himself. He pointed out that Roosevelt was the son of a rich father and had been left in such circumstances that he did not need to have worked at all. His ambition however was to lead the full life of a man and his doctrine that of the square deal both in his own country and throughout the world. The speaker dealt especially with Roosevelt as the internationalist, pointing out that although "T. R." loved his own country passionately he was anxious that justice should prevail everywhere. Roosevelt's stand in the Venezulas dispute, his attitude in regard to the Panama Canal, his efforts in the Moroccan mix up and above all his success in bringing about peace between Russia and Japan, were all touched upon by the speaker as evidence of the famous president's anxiety to be of service internationally. Roosevelt he said was always pugnacious but not because he loved a fight but rather because he loved to battle for righteousness and justice. Contrary to the general opinion he was not above receiving advice, but he made his decisions quickly and firmly and often was more right than others who took much more time to deliberate.

Rotarian Dr. A. Moir expressed thanks to the speaker on behalf of the club and declared that more attention should be paid to the lives of great men of other nations. It was well, he said, to be internationally minded about such things.

The annual Rotary Farmer's day will likely be held next month, Rotarian George A. Gillespie announced and he added that he proposed to invite the new Federal Deputy-Minister of Agriculture to be the speaker on that occasion.

Third Round Draw English Rugby Cup

LONDON, Feb. 27 (C.P. Cable).—The draw for the third round of the English Rugby League Cup to be played March 11 is announced today, but owing to heavy snow which prevented the playing of the second round last Saturday, second round matches have still to be played.

The draw is as follows:

Salford or Leeds vs. Wakefield or Hull.

Wigan or Oldham vs. Batley or Warrington.

York or Swinton vs. Barrow or Huddersfield.

St. Helen's or Hunslet vs. Halifax or Keighley.

Barrow and Huddersfield were the only ones able to play the second round match on Saturday, but this tilt resulted in a scoreless draw.

END OF THE ROAD IS FOR ADULTS

Really a Picture No Adult Should Miss Seeing.

SEPARATE SHOWINGS.

With a record of box-office success throughout the other provinces of the Dominion, "The End of the Road" is now being shown in the city of Peterborough for the first time. A startling motion picture which medical authorities say "no adults should miss", "The End of the Road" will be seen at the Regent for three days commencing Wednesday.

Acclaimed everywhere as the most revealing and authentic film of its kind, "The End of the Road" is a courageous attempt to tell in dramatic form the dangers tha follow sex indiscretions. Under the auspices of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council, the film should be see by every parent and every young man and woman contemplating marriage.

"The End of the Road" deals in a fearless way, without sacrifice of delicacy, with the horrors of venereal disease and the ghastly toll that is exacted by Nature as penalty for weak indulgence. An impressive lesson to this generation, the film scores prudery and false modesty, advocates frankness in answering the questions every child asks, and is cinematic proof of the Biblical admonition that "the sins of the fathers are visited upon the children."

Unedited and unaltered, "The End of the Road" as seen at the Regent beginning Wednesday will be the same picture that was viewed by 60,000 people during a short test-run at Toronto. So great were the crowds of prospective ticket-buyers in that city that mounted police reserves had to be called out to handle the long lines that stretched for blocks. On the opening night of this outstanding motion picture, approximately 4,000 people had to be turned away, a remarkable fact when it is remembered that the theatre has a seating capacity of 3,000 people.

There are separate showings for men and women. In addition to the feature film, there are first-run showings of short subjects dealing with the necessity of thorough medical examination before marriage, and the process of reproduction.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

"Lincoln and the Doctors," is the name of a recently published book by Dr. Milton H. Shutes. It is an interesting addition to Lincoln literature, and serves to call to mind the condition of medical practice in the early and middle days of the republic.

There was no doctor at Lincoln's birth, the only attendant being a Mrs. Enlow. Warm water, warm coverings, and a hot fire in the cabin were the only precautions used to safeguard this precious life in its early hours.

When Lincoln was nine years old, his mother, Nancy Hanks Lincoln, died—probably from using milk from cows which fed on white snakeroot. Today her life could have been saved by the proper administration of carbohydrates, but in those days nothing of the nature of the disease was known.

During most of his life Lincoln was physically healthy in spite of his lanky and somewhat unfavorable build. In 1883, at the age of 24, he suffered a condition of mental depression. As is well known, he did not appear on the day first set for his marriage, which in the light of future events was not quite as queer as it appeared at the moment.

His attacks of melancholia, which persisted on and off for sime time, have been ascribed to chronic constipation from which he suffered all his life, and which would be natural in a man of his physique. Costiveness probably also explains his fondness for apples.

Like all other human beings, of course, Lincoln had many minor ailments in the course of his life, and it is with a fellow feeling that we notice some of his drug store bills: In 1858 he bought 10 cents' worth of adhesive plaster; in 1859 he bought 25 cents' worth of castor oil, also 35 cents' worth of Brown's mixture and cough candy; in 1859 he bought a bottle of Dead Shot, which was used as a sure cure for bedbugs.

After one of the Douglas debates he fell into an acute state of exhaustion and was treated at the Quincy House, Quincy, Ill. At that time the proprietor of the Quincy House was George P. Floyd and Mrs. Floyd was asked to attend the sick orator. She took one look at him and said that he needed a "rum sweat," at which Lincoln said he never drank a drop in his life. But Mrs. Floyd assured him that the rum was for external use only. He was stripped and seated on a cane-bottomed chair and covered with a blanket. Then a pan of New England rum was lighted and placed under the chair. This started a profuse perspiration, and broke up the malady.

Years later Mr Floyd visited at the White House: Lincoln recognized him and said, "I believe your wife saved my life when I was in Quincy in 1858. Yes, I have taken that rum sweat that she prescribed for me many times and I have prescribed it for some of my friends. It has always been a dead shot."

Famed "Group Of Seven" Makes Way For New Group

Canada's famous "Group of Seven," storm centre of art in the Dominion for the past 10 years, has passed out of existence. Its place is being taken by the new group of 28 Canadian artists who have formed the "Canadian Group of Painters." The new group includes many of the foremost artists in the country and is headed by Lawren Harris of Toronto, founder of the original group of seven. The new members are: Montreal—Edwin Holgate, Randolph Hewton, Prudence Heward; Sarah Robertson, Artie Savage, Mabel May, Lilias Newton and Albert Robinson. Toronto — Arthur Lismer, A. Y. Jackson, Frank Carmichael, A. J. Casson, Charles Comfort, Will Ogilvie, Bertram Brooker, George Pepper, Yvonne McKague, Isobel McLaughlin, Bess Housser, Thoreau MacDonald and Lawren Harris. Midland, Ont. — William J. Woods. Vancouver—F. H. Varley, C. H. Scott, J. W. G. MacDonald and W. P. Weston. Victoria—Emily Carr. The above layout shows the work of (LEFT), Lawren Harris entitled "Mountain Form." At RIGHT is "Polande" by Prudence Heward, Montreal. BELOW is "Canada's Western Ramparts," by W. P. Weston of Vancouver.

the choir, which showed the total receipts as $63.50, with expenditures of $51.45. This money had been spent for music and hymnaries; a balance of $12.06 being on hand.

E. H. Greig gave the report of the Men's Club, which is just one year old, and told of the good work and splendid speakers which the club had obtained during the past year. Membership stood at 53, the total receipts being $46.09 with expenditures set at $41.85, the balance of $4.24 being on hand.

The W.M.S. report was given by the secretary and treasurer, Mrs. R. C. Tait and Mrs. G. A. Kingston. There had been 12 regular meetings held with an average attendance of 37, the membership numbering 70 with 30 life members and 15 associate helpers. Total receipts were $710, the expenses for the year being $3, the balance of $707 being sent to the Presbyterial treasurer.

The Mizpah Mission Circle report given by Mrs. P. A. Morgan, showed a membership of 26 with an average attendance of 23 and ten meetings held. During the year $159.40 had been raised and the full allocation of $150 having been met. The treasurer is Miss Alma Simpson.

Mission Band

The Dayspring Mission Band report was given by Mrs. R. C. Tait for Miss Emma Meikeljohn and showed a membership of 25 with 8 life members; 19 meetings having been held with an average attendance of 25. The sum of $50.65 had been raised and the allocation of $50 met.

The Y.P.I. showed a total of 30 meetings for the year with an average attendance of 35. Total receipts were $203.36; the sum of $125 having been given to the missionary fund of the church. Miss Velma Runnells gave the secretary's report for Miss Elsie Connor, and the treasurer's report was given by Miss Doris Mason for Miss Nettie Forde, general treasurer, and Miss Ruth Taylor, missionary treasurer.

The report of the Ladies' Aid was presented by Mrs. C. W. Turner and showed that 9 meetings had been held with an average attendance of 50; the total membership being 85. The sum of $346.02 had been raised, out of which $300 had been paid on the church mortgage and $300 on bank interest. Mrs. T. L. Diamond is treasurer of this organization. The Flower Fund of this society had raised $36.44 during the year, which had been spent on flowers for the sick, Mrs. F. N. Brown gave this report.

Mrs. A. L. Malcolm gave the report of the Girl Guides for Miss Grace Payne. This group has 21 members and has held 40 meetings, having raised $9 from the sale of candy and given $5 of this for relief.

J. A. Irwin gave the report of the Building Committee, which showed total receipts of $201 and subscriptions due $265. J. R. Smith is treasurer of this organization.

The following were re-elected to office: Secretary-treasurer, S. A. Maguire; auditors, T. E. Hall and A. J. Armour; board of stewards, A. J. Armour, T. E. Hall, Walter Henson, H. Jones, and E. H. Greig. Contributing to the musical portion of the program Mrs. H. Jones and Mrs. A. L. Malcolm rendered a vocal duet, and Clark McKelvie a violin solo; Albert Hazell being the accompanist.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.— (AP)— Henry Endler faced the court and heard his wife complain that he drank 68 gallons of wine in seven weeks.

The judge looked astounded. He gave Endler a lecture and ended:

"Hereafter you keep the peace and confine yourself to water."

"But, your honor," said Endler, "I can't drink that much water."

veying sweeping powers on the United States Treasury to protect National Banks against public hysteria.

The federal legislation, product of Senator Cousins of Michigan, who is Canadian by birth, would provide, among other things, for "freezing" of the assets of National Banks in states where such emergency action was deemed necessary.

Meantime, while the bank situation in Michigan seemed to be clearing, Maryland sought solution of the problem that forced a three-day suspension of banking, and two of Ohio's leading cities moved to combat the problem of weakened bank structures.

18 Banks Close.

In Ohio 18 banks in three cities —Cleveland, Akron and Dayton — clamped down on withdrawals in anticipation of emergency banking laws to relieve a situation aggravated, according to Ohio bankers, by the emergency in Michigan.

Governor Ritchie of Maryland, where a bank holiday has been declared pending action by the legislature to protect the interests of banks and public, sought to-day the advice of "representative citizens" concerning legislation to be enacted.

Indianapolis banks opened to-day with withdrawals restricted to five per cent. of the customer's deposit. The restriction is "until further notice," and was invoked, a statement by the clearing house explained, because of "unsual withdrawals for other than usual or business needs."

WILLIAM RIVERS

Mr. William Rivers of Bogart passed away late Thursday night, after a lengthy illness.

Funeral Mass was sung by Very Rev. Dean C. O'Riordan at 9 a.m. in St. Cathargh Church, Saturday morning, with interment in St. Cathargh cemetery.

MARSHAL McCOMB

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 27. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The funeral of the late Marshal McComb was held on Saturday from the family residence in Percy Township, interment being made in Mount Pleasant cemetery, Campbellford. The service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Hinton of Morganston and was largely attended, many floral tributes testifying to the esteem in which he deceased was held.

The late Mr McComb died on Thursday morning after an illness of some duration. A son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McComb, he lived for some time in Seymour Township, moving last fall to the Percy farm. He is survived by his wife and four children, Earl, Roy, Isabel and Marguerite, all at home; two brothers, Melville of Campbellford and Marvin of Morganston; and two sisters, Mrs. A. Vale of St. Catharines and Mrs. J. H. Booth of Campbellford.

CHURCH SERVICE IN CHARGE OF SENIOR B. Y. P. U.

Murray Street Young People in Charge of Evening Service.

THREE SPEAKERS.

A young people's service was held last evening in Murray Street Church, when members of the Senior B.Y.P.U. took charge of the service and presented the theme for the evening as "The Growth of the Kingdom," taken in three parts, the past, present and future, and presented by Miss Josephine Carson, Miss Erma Rosborough and Cecil Lapp.

Cecil Lapp presided during the service, which was enriched by special musical numbers by the choir, a beautifully rendered solo, "Son of My Soul," by Miss Marion Ralston, and a much appreciated violin selection by Stanley Northrop.

The Scriptural reading was read by Laurence Marriott, followed by prayer by Miss Marion Armstrong.

The Rev. Ralph D. Wright, pastor of Gilmour Memorial Church, pronounced the benediction.

In presenting the theme, the growth of the Kingdom, Miss Josephine Carson took the first thought.

"In one of the parables, Jesus compares the Kingdom of God to a man who sowed good seed in his field, but while he slept his enemies came and sowed tares among the wheat. Jesus said wait until autumn and we will gather them in bundles and burn them. People are like these tares, at first they have a common likeness though they have different roots. We ask why does God not destroy them. For fear of a mistake, He waits until the autumn. It is so difficult to tell which is which that the wrong ones may be destroyed. The tares may not become wheat but the evil men may change and become good.

"Jesus had a wonderful faith in the ultimate success of His word, although then the results seemed small, but the progress through each century shows that the Kingdom will spread like a great tree until it o'ershadows the earth.

"Christianity came to men in a contracted shell of Judaism, but has spread and expanded and is still capable of expansiveness broad and deep and high as the growing needs of a growing race."

Reference was made to those men who had found the seed of God planted in their heart — Martin Luther, John Wesley and William Carey, who had gone forth to plant in every land the banner of the cross that is the great tree.

Present Growth.

Miss Erma Rosborough, taking the present growth, brought out the fact that the idea of the Kingdom of God is a growing idea—it grew among the Jews where it first had its birth, it grew among the early disciples of the Christ who prayed for its coming through every succeeding age of those who would fulfill the purpose of the Master on earth, and it grows in the comprehension of every thoughtful Christian who gives himself to accomplish the purpose for which the Christ was born, for which He lived and taught and suffered and in the cause for which He died.

"Even as a seed, God has planted us here and in order to grow in good soil and keep the weeds out of our lives we must work with God. He expects us to spread the gospel and tell of Him. Think of the millions of men and women into whose hearts the seed has fallen, taken root and grown up into Christian character to be passed on to others. This is the real miracle in the growth of the Kingdom.

"Jesus came to reveal God's will. He interpreted it in the Sermon on the Mount—it means honesty, purity, righteousness, kindness and truth. Everyone who has learned to pray with Jesus, 'Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven,' must try with all his might to find the best way to bring about the answer to that prayer."

Cecil Lapp.

The future life was the thought brought out by Cecil Lapp.

"To-day everyone is looking into the future, does anyone know what the future holds—there is an answer —the One Who Said, 'Come unto Me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest,' and 'Seek ye first the Kingdom of God . . . and all these things shall be added unto you.'

"The word future was analyzed as F for fortune, U for unknown, T for treasures, U for unsought, R for righteousness and E for everlasting. The ambition of every person is to have a so called job in order that he might become independent and begin to accumulate his fortune unknown—but many are brought into this world with a silver spoon in their mouths and ultimately fall heir to treasures unsought.

"Young people have been, are today and will be endowed with the privilege of education with which they may grace their uncanny heritage, and as we look about us and associate with people who are gifted with talents, that quality in a person's life which may be second nature, we say to ourselves, will this guarantee righteousness everlasting?

"We cannot build B.Y.P.U., C.G.I.T., Tuxis Square, Trail Rangers or any other organization without having confidence in the future. If we play our lives away and do nothing for His cause, are we no better than the troublesome tares which seem to live for man's misery and disgust?

"And as a last challenge to your better understanding I implore you to be four square with the Lord, respectful of His Sabbath, diligent in His literature, more obedient to His command, His service to render with pleasure, and look forward to the promised land."

PAY OUR DEBTS BEST WAY BACK

Endanger Savings

On the subject of inflation, Mr. McNabb quoted Mr. Weston as having stated that he was strongly against such a measure, and that inflation would endanger the savings of the people as represented by life insurance.

On the latter subject, Mr. Weston was quoted as having remarked that better conditions could not long be delayed. "The best way back to prosperity," he said, "was to pay our debts without resorting to expediency."

G. Raymond Smith was elected president of the Dominion Association. Mr. McNabb referred to the election as being unique in so much as Mr. Smith was selected from the ranks of the life underwriters. He was a representative of the Great West Life. Previously, Mr. McNabb said the president had been an agency manager.

It is interesting to note that the new Dominion President is to be the speaker at the next meeting of the local underwriters.

The meeting will be a joint one between the life underwriters and the Rotarians, and will be held at the Empress Hotel on Monday noon, March 27.

A large part of the meeting in Toronto, Mr. McNabb stated, was engaged in the hearing of reports. One of the reports dealt with the value of advertising in local newspapers, and urged that space could be profitably used by the various insurance companies in bringing matters of interest and concern to the attention of policy-holders and prospective policy-holders.

Secretary L. S. Killaly gave the meeting notice regarding the forthcoming C. L. U. examinations to be held April 18-22, and urged that candidates advise him not later than March 15 of their intentions, in order that arrangements might be completed for their writing of the papers.

A committee of six was appointed by the chairman to assist in the securing of speakers, as follows: John I. Allan, superintendent Prudential Insurance Company; E. L. Sackville, district manager Manufactuers' Life Insurance Company; D. M. Bissell, district manager Canada Life Assurance Company; and I. P. McNabb, manager Dominion Life (Central Ontario Branch, all of Peterborough, and Messrs. Ferguson and Bateson of Lindsay.

Perkins To Succeed Mitchell In Chair

NEW YORK, Feb. 27. — (AP) — The resignation of Charles E. Mitchell as chairman of the National City Bank was accepted today at a meeting of the board.

The board elected James H. Perkins, president of the City Bank Farmers Trust Company, a National City affiliate, as chairman to succeed Mitchell.

Perkins became president of the Farmer's Loan and Trust Company in June 1921. He became president and director of the City Bank Farmer's Trust and a director of the National City Bank when the National City Bank acquired control of Farmer's Loan and Trust. Perkins will immediately assume his duties as chairman of the National City Bank.

Metropolitan Stage Turned Into Night Club As Staff Honor Director In 25th Season

NEW YORK, Feb. 27 (A.P.) — They turned the Metropolitan stage into a night club Sunday night.

With jazz music, a habanera, a vaudeville act, an Apache dance and Neapolitan songs the opera staff paid its tribute to Giulio Gatti-Casazza, the general director, on the celebration of his 25th season.

It was a gala night. Lucrezia Bori danced about the stage, thrilling a Spanish flower song. The Ponselle Sisters, Rose and Carmela, danced to the strains of "Sole Mio"; then they sang it.

Lily Pons, Falco, Lauri-Volpi, Pasero, Borgioli and Bada sang the Sextette from Lucia; Edward Johnson, the tenor from Guelph, Ont.; Richard Bonelli, Arthur Anderson and Max Altglass sang the finale from the King's henchman.

VERMONT MAPLE SUGAR FARMER CRUSADES FOR HIGHER TARIFF

Claim Imported Canadian Product Far Undersells That Made in U.S.

BLAME TOBACCO MEN.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(A.P.)—An appeal for a higher tariff on maple syrup and sugar to protect Vermont farmers from competition from Canada has been made in the United States' House by Representative Gibson, Republican, Vermont.

"The principal competition," Gibson said, "comes from Canada where sugar is produced at a cost much lower than is possible in this country. Importations from Canada have increased from about 2,000,000 pounds in 1923 to over 10,000,000 pounds annually and has resulted in driving many farmers out of sugar production. Less than 60 per cent of our maple trees are now in use and many splendid orchards have been sacrifced to lumber."

Gibson blamed tobacco producers for the difficulties of the maple sugar producers in his State.

Rates Reduced.

"The Tariff Act of 1930," he said, "fixed a duty of eight cents a pound on maple sugar and 5½ cents a pound on maple syrup. This rate offered a proper measure of protection. A considerable portion of our crop each year is used by tobacco manufacturers, especially by the American Tobacco Company. On July 25, 1930, a small New York Corporation, backed by a big tobacco company, made application to the Tariff Commission before the rate fixed by Congress went into effect, for a rate reduction, and the Tariff Commission, following an unworkable formula, recommended a reduction of the duty to six cents a pound on maple sugar and four cents a pound on syrup.

"This struck a hard blow at the farmers of the maple sugar producing States. It was a stab in the dark, from an unseen but all powerful foe."

Gibson said it cost $1.21 to produce a gallon of maple syrup in Vermont, while a gallon produced in Canada, with the tariff added, can sell in the United States for 86 cens.

A material obtained from fish waste can be used to manufacture electric insulators, umbrella handles, knitting needles, buttons and many other articles.

Sedgewick Allows N. L. Martin $42,500

TORONTO, Feb. 27. (Special to The Examiner).—Judgment was handed out Saturday afternoon by Hon. Mr. Justice Sedgewick in the claim of N. L. Marttin, trustee in bankruptcy of Stobie Forlong property.

Mr. Justice Sedgewick gives an extended judgment upon the claim of Mr. Martin, upon the assests amounting to $3,381,039 and the trustee suggests that he should be allowed 5% of the amount of the debentures issued, for his compensation, which amounts to $169,051.95. The judge allowed $42,500 and allowed his costs out of the estate as the greater part of the time occupied in the matter was devoted to the attempt to prove negligence and mismanagement, which he does not find against the trustee.

The Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., of Peterborough appeared for the directors of Stobie Forlong Assets Limited and Arthur C. McMaster, K.C., of Toronto appeared for N. L. Martin.

SPYING ON SPORTS

"Gossip and Such"

THE PASSING OF "STRANGLER" Ed Lewis as one of the world heavyweight wrestling champions has brought a remarkably small number of tears from the sport writers.

* * *

AS A RULE WHEN AN OLD title holder is tumbled from his throne there are many columns of type to see him off. But Lewis has gone from the heights with only a stick of seven point: "New York—Jim Browning Boston, threw "Strangler" Lewis here tonight."

* * *

IN THIS YOUR CORRESpondent believes the sports writers were in error

* * *

LEWIS IS A COLORFUL, IF not a great sport figure. He has been champion off and on since he perfected his favorite hold, the headlock, in 1917. He stood for the old order against the new, a relic of the good old grunt and groan days of grappling he and his headlock bow to the new whirlwind calisthenics (which now passes for wrestling) and the airplane scissors.

* * *

LEWIS NEVER PLAYED the hero role—his looks were against him. Ponderous and fat given to the making of horrible grimaces, leers and scowls during a match, Lewis was always regarded as one of the "villains" in the wrestling drama which also has its handsome heroes.

* * *

WHETHER OR NOT YOU have faith in the mat game it must be admitted that Lewis outlived in active participation the heroes and champs of all other sports who reigned when he first won recognition as world heavyweight title holder in 1917.

* * *

THAT YEAR LEWIS SURvived an international wrestling tournament held in New York to determine a champion.

* * *

IN 1917 THE CHICAGO White Sox were world baseball champs, Jess Willard, Battling Levinsky, Mike O'Dowd, Ted Lewis, Benny Leonard, Johnny Kilbane and Pete Kid Herman were the kings of the ring; Chick Evans was golf champ, and R. Lindley Murray was boss man among tennis players.

* * *

LEWIS SPENT HIS 16 - year career as a top ranking matman being a menace to the handsome heroes of the grunt and groan game.

* * *

HE CAME ON THE SCENE to menace those two Apollos of the corn belt—Earl Caddock and Joe Stecher—and when Jim Browning tossed the Strangler for a loss the other night, Lewis had just menaced the modern Greek god of grappling, Jim Londos, out of New York recognition as heavyweight champion.

* * *

LEWIS' CHIEF CONTRIBUtion to his game was his headlock, now regarded as too slow by adherents of the modern zip-and-zowie type of wrestling. But that old head headlock was effective in its day.

It squeezed Lewis into the championship on four different occasions.

RANGERS BEAT CHIHAWKS 4-1 FOR LOOP GAIN

Bill Cook Registers Two of Four Goals in Third Period Rally.

MONTREAL TEAMS IN TIE.

Primeau, Levinsky, Clancy and Jackson Tally in Toronto Game.

TORONTO, Feb. 27. — (CP) — Scarcely breathing hard, Toronto Maple Leafs cantered out on the National League stretch today with the situation so well in hand 10 jumps from home that most of the hockey public switched its immediate interest to a thrilling duel for leadership of the other division race.

The bombardiers of Conny Smythe, gradually developing a gusto in their attack as they near the play-off stage, overcame New York Americans Saturday night at Toronto 5-1 to increase their lead in the Canadian section to nine points as the fighting Canadiens held Maroons to a 2-2 tie.

At full strength again, Blair recovered from injuries, Leafs can just about wind up the campaign for top place this week, they play Canadiens twice, Tuesday at Toronto and Thursday at Montreal, then take on Maroons Saturday night at Toronto.

The Smythe-Stanley cuppers scored first against the Amerks, which is usually all that is required to leave Joe Simpson's machine full of gaps. And when the holes started to show Leafs punched in four more.

Joe Primeau scored the first and so readily did Americans open up that Alex Levinsky was able to get into the scoring records in the second period. "Mine Boy" shot on a pass from Hal Cotton. Primeau got the third tally. King Clancy got the fourth and Busher Jackson the last, Johnny Sheppard sandwiching the only American goal between the final pair.

Alex Levinsky

But for a quick scoring rally in the second period Maroons might have flopped completely before a stampeding Canadien onslaught. It wasn't their turn to be good, but the Frenchmen were on top of their game just the same.

Morenz Assists in First

Howie Morenz fixed things for Johnny Gagnon to score in the first period but Paul Haynes, Dave Trottier and Earl Robinson popped in a pair for the Redmen in the second. Trottier got the first and Robinson the second. Then Sylvio Mantha tied it and neither team could break the deadlock.

Americans, who are vitally interested in all Canadiens do as they seek to hold third place above the Canucks, picked up a single point by holding Detroit Red Wings to a 1-1 tie Sunday at Detroit. Even when the Wings took the lead on Young's second-period goal Americans were too tired to open up, which perhaps was a help as Red Jackson tied the count and the Adams musketeers couldn't get inside the Amerk barricade for another.

It isn't often Red Wings let anybody get away with a draw at Detroit ice and New York Rangers jumped at the opportunity to make a gain by thumping Chicago Black Hawks 4-1, concentrating all the thumping in the third period. The win pulled the Blueshirts up to a half game back of Detroit.

Teddy Graham

Teddy Graham's goal in the first period kept growing bigger and bigger to Chicago as the second period passed without a Ranger reply but when Bill Cook finally mustered his celebrated organization to the attack there was nothing to it. Bill rapped in two goals himself, both on passes from Frank Boucher, Butch Keeling scored one and Boucher got the last alone.

With eight games each to play Rangers hold a distinct edge over the Wings as they move shoulder-to-shoulder toward the finish. Rangers play five of their remaining games at home, Detroit only three. And when the two meet, it will be in New York.

Stratford Juniors Enter O.H.A. Semi-Finals

"Gentleman Jim" Kayoes Sullivan to Win "Heavy" Title in Ring's Biggest Upset

BY WILLIAM RITT
Central Press Sports Editor

EARLY IN 1892, Heavyweight Champion John L. Sullivan, nearing the completion of a two-year theatrical tour, announced he was ready to defend his title against anyone who could put up a $10,000 side bet. The purse was to be $25,000, the site of the bout the Olympic club, New Orleans, La.

SULLIVAN, In 1892

In his challenge Sullivan named in particular Frank Slavin, Australian champion; Charley Mitchell, British champion, and James J. Corbett. Corbett, now managed by William A. Brady, famed ring and theatrical figure, obtained the side bet money from friends and accepted the challenge. The bout was scheduled for Sept. 7, as Sullivan was due to start, another show tour Sept. 12.

Thus did Jim Corbett arrive at the greatest opportunity of his career. And thus came about the greatest upset in all pugilistic history.

No Chance To Win

CORBETT DID NOT have a chance to win—or so, at least, thought everyone when the day of the fight dawned. That is, everyone but Brady, Corbett's family and a few friends and one sport writer, Harry Weldon, of Cincinnati.

Looking back it is easy to wonder how the sport world could fail to note that Sullivan was beginning to show his age—34. That he had grown a bit too heavy. That Corbett was in perfect condition and was a fighter of a new type absolutely unknown to the champion.

The odds were five-to-one when the old champion and the young challenger climbed through the ropes. Sullivan weighed 212 pounds, Corbett 178.

The great hall was in an uproar and so was the city of New Orleans. The streets were black with people. Only Corbett—the man who couldn't win—appeared calm and confident. The bell rang at exactly 9:05 p.m.

Sullivan lands a straight to Corbett's jaw.

* * *

SULLIVAN ROARED out of his corner and Corbett danced away. Around the ring they turned and twisted, John L.'s murderous short arms stabbing at the slender youth, Corbett's feet flashing in and out but always carrying him free of danger.

The crowd booed Corbett for avoiding John L.'s rushes as the round ended. He hadn't struck a blow.

Corbett continued to back away throughout the second round. The third was the same, and the fourth. Once, while the jeers of the crowd swept the hall, Jim turned and yelled at the spectators: "Wait! You'll see a fight!"

In the fifth Corbett stunned the crowd by suddenly lashing out with his left and smacking the champion in the face. The blow broke John L.'s nose.

Instantly the crowd switched its allegiance. Screams of "Corbett! Corbett!" surprised Sullivan. This maddened him and he began throwing haymakers right and left—but none of them landed.

His Last Stand

CORBETT now switched to the offensive. He pecked away at that nose with his left, socked hooks to the stomach and jaw.

As round after round slipped by and Corbett was landing oftener it suddenly dawned on the crowd that an old champion was making his last stand. Sullivan began to breathe heavily, his rushes were lessening in speed and number. He appeared to be tiring rapidly.

Sullivan's left was short. Corbett landed another left to John L.'s battered nose. Sullivan was short with a right. Corbett lashed out with a left to the jaw. The champion staggered. Jim shot two lightning punches—right and left—to the face. Sullivan's knees buckled. Corbett smashed another right to the jaw. Sullivan fell, face forward. He rolled on his back—out!

Jim Corbett was heavyweight champion of the world!

NEXT: Corbett and Mitchell.

ALEX HURD OF HAMILTON WINS NORTH AMERICAN ICE HONORS

Mountain City Skater Beats Frank Stack in Closely Fought Series.

IN ST. LOUIS MEET.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 27 (C.P.)—That small package of concentrated greased lightning, Alex Hurd from Hamilton, Ont., wore the North American speed skating crown today. He toppled a fellow countryman, Frankie Stack of Winnipeg, from the throne by showing his flashing skates to an international pack of skaters in as sensational series of wins as the continental championships have ever known.

Showing class in the dashes as well as longer races, the diminutive but wiry Ontario youth compiled 170 points to beat out Stack by an even half hundred marks. He scored victories in the quarter, half, three-quarter, mile and two-mile events, and most of the time the Winnipeg speedster was right behind in second place. Stack won the five-mile grind Saturday with Hurd placing second.

Madeline Horn Is Winner

The feminine title many had expected Leila Brooks Potter of Toronto, to win, went instead to a all, smooth-sailing girl from Wisconsin, Madeline Horn of Beaver Dam. The young Toronto matron, showed plenty of speed in Saturday's preliminaries to win the right to skate in the finals Sunday. But illness forced her to hang up her skates a few hours before the finals got underway.

Miss Horn won the girl's title with 70 points, beating out Hattie Donaldson Briggs of Toronto, by 10 points. The Wisconsin girl won only the half-mile but two seconds gave her the edge over Hattie and Dorothy Franey of St. Paul, who placed third with 50 points. Florence Hurd of Hamilton, Ont., was next with 30 points.

Left Far Behind

As Hurd and Stack battled for honors in the men's division — a fight that gave the Ontario flash his third important United States title of the year—they left the other competitors far behind in the point standing.

The other crowns that have fallen to Hurd this season are that for the Atlantic States and for the American Northwest.

AVON HOCKEY SQUAD DEFEATS WANDRERS 2-0 TO WIN ROUND

Desilets and Brenneman Score as Midgets Win Series 5 to 4.

MEET PRESTON NEXT.

STRATFORD, Feb. 27.—Defeating the Windsor Wanderers here on Saturday night by a 2—0 score, after having lost the first game of the series in Windsor on Thursday night 4 to 3, Stratford Midgets won the round 5—4, and qualify to meet Preston in the semi-finals of the O.H.A. Junior race, with the winners gaining the right to meet the winners of the Newmarket-Toronto Nationals for the title.

Wanders Press Hard

Their best chances came in the last period, when they chased five men up the ice and hemmed the Midgets in their own end of the rink for minutes at a time. Midgets were very loose around their own net and it was then that Gerth had to show his class.

Wanderers claimed a goal in the first five minutes of play when Bishop snared a loose puck in a bad offside position and went in close before sliding the disc along the ice toward the goal corner. Gerth threw himself to the ice and appeared to have smothered the disc, but the Windsor goal judge flashed the red light and claimed a counter. Referee Tom Munro did not see it that way and was in position to judge for himself and the result was that the goal judge was quickly replaced and the puck faced off at the side of the Stratford net.

On the other hand, the Midgets had numerous chances to score more than two, but the stellar work of Teno, in the Windsor net, and erratic shooting spoiled otherwise good efforts. Desilets broke the ice at 6.30 of the middle canto when he broke with Brenneman and Roubell and, faking a pass to the former as he hit the defence, waltzed around his check to beat Teno.

Brenneman Decides It.

Brenneman registered the only other counter of the game, which brought the honors to the Midgets, with Desilets flanking him. Brenneman rounded the Wanderers' left rearguard and then swooped in close before picking the upper corner before Teno could shift to save. From then on the game speeded up, with Windsor chasing all hands up on the attack, but the Midgets managed to hang on, although the visitors had a few good chances to score during scrambles.

Only three penalties were imposed during the game, Windsor drawing down one of them and the Midgets two. The referee could not have been criticized had he meted out several more, although the tilt was anything but dirty. Teno, Drouillard and Saby were the best performers for Windsor, while Heath, Brenneman, Desilets, Vrooman and Roubell played the best hockey for Stratford.

DORATY ABLY FILLS PLACE TONY SAVAGE

Syracuse Scores 8-3 Victory Over Windsor Bulldogs on Sunday Night.

BISONS GIVEN SETBACK.

Cellar-place Indians Blank Buffalo 1-0 at Cleveland Over Week-end.

TORONTO, Feb. 27 (C.P.)—The big gap in the vaunted scoring power of Syracuse Stars, caused by the absence of Captain Tony Savage through injuries appears to be capably filled to-day by Ken Doraty, who returned to Stars recently after a lengthy sojourn in the National League with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Savage—highest scoring defenceman of the circuit—suffered an injury to his hip last week and after his release from hospital left to see his team score an 8-3 victory over Windsor Bulldogs last night.

Another feature of the trio of week-end games was the 1-0 shutout the cellar-place Cleveland Indians handed the leading Buffalo Bisons at Cleveland Sunday.

This setback somewhat offset Bisons 5-1 win over Windsor at Fort Erie Saturday. As it is Buffalo remained in front by one point, while deadlocked behind them are the inevitable second-placers, Syracuse and London.

Heavy Scoring

In handing Windsor their second defeat on successive nights, Syracuse indulged in some of the heaviest scoring of the season. Charlie Sands followed Doraty's lead by garnering two goals, and the others were notched by Scotty Martin, Freddy Robertson and Jack Markle.

The blonde forwards, Russell Blinco and Whitey Fields, notched their usual points—a goal each—and Mickey Blake netted the third.

Alfie Moores' performance in the Cleveland nets when they scored their victory over Buffalo bordered upon the sensational. Battling desperately for points to keep in front of the race, Bisons were unable to find a weak point in Moore's defense. MacFarlane scored the games' only tally. The two former games between these outfits ended in deadlocks—one a scoreless stie.

Police Quell Fight

It was a give-and-take affair that Buffalo and Windsor staged on the Bisons' stamping grounds. In addition to the fairly heavy scoring, Berlett and Huggins clashed in a fistic encounter that required police assistance to end.

Bud Jarvis garnered two of the winners' tallies, Lloyd Gross, Sam Godin and Lorne Carr netting the other trio. Eddie Ouellette was the lone marksman for Windsor.

RACE NARROWS O. H. A. SERIES

Four Teams in Senior "A" and Three in "B" Are Left in Running.

JUNIOR FINALS IN WEEK.

(By the Canadian Press).

Swinging into the stretch, only a small percentage of the number of starting teams remained to-day in the different Ontario Hockey Association series as the semi-finals and finals loomed on the horizon.

Four teams of the original seven in the Senior "A" Series still have a say in the disposition of the title. Better progress is noted, however, in the "B" section, where something like a dozen starting outfits have dwindled to three.

Lower Teams Fallen.

The elimination axe has bitten deeply into the two lower series—Intermediate and Junior. A bare dozen of the countless number of Intermediate sextettes that started play at the beginning of the year are still in the running, while of the 65 or more original Junior teams, only five remain.

Hamilton Tigers visit Port Colborne to-night for their first game of the Senior "A" semi-finals, the second of which will be played at Hamilton Friday. Marlboros have a one-goal lead over Niagara Falls Cataracts for their return fixture, which is also scheduled for Friday. The two survivors will meet in a best two-of-three game series for the title.

Pats Hold One-Goal Lead.

Patricias, Hamilton's Senior "B" entry, have a single goal advantage with which to work on when they play hosts to Windsor Mic Macs to-night. The winner of this series will battle Oshawa for the championship and right to meet the Northern Ontario Association winners in the Allan Cup playdowns.

Finalists in the Junior series are expected to be known by the end of this week. To-night at Oshawa Queen's University have an almost impossible task confronting them in overcoming a five-goal lead held by Newmarket Juniors. Toronto Nationals stack up against the winners.

ICE CARNIVAL IS ON TO-NIGHT

Everything is Set for Big Time at Brock Street Rink.

PROCEEDS FOR RELIEF.

Well, everything is set for the big time to-night. Place: Brock Street Rink. Event: Grand Ice Carnival. Object: Examiner Relief Fund.

Prizes for costume will be given—nine in number. The ladies get a three-piece set of silk lingerie for the best fancy, and a bath robe for the best comic, outfit; the men draw a set of gents' furnishings and a silk scarf; the girls a pyjama set and raincoat and hat, and the boys a windbreaker and pair of gloves. There is a special prize, a hand-painted picture, for the most original costume on the ice.

Decorations will be especially effective and there will be a grand illumination, with noise-makers provided through the kindness of the Kresge Store. A 20-piece band will play for the skating and an orchestra for the dancing, which commences at ten o'clock.

Mose Yokom and his band will play for the dancing. It is not necessary to wear moccasins for the dance. Goloshes or rubbers may be worn, if desired.

CANADIAN OFFICIALS PLAN DOUBLE SEMI-FINAL CLASSIC

Proposal Would Benefit Western Rugby Team By Allowing Earlier Play-off.

MAY TEST NEXT FALL.

TORONTO, Feb. 27. (CP) — Something new in football spectacles was on tap to-day as the executive committee of the Canadian Rugby Union pondered a double-header, semi-final senior series for next fall that would bring the four outstanding squads in Canada to a single battleground on the same afternoon.

The plan, evolved out of a western proposal that the Dominion final alternate between East and West, was placed in the hands of the new executive Saturday at the C.R.U.'s annual meeting after most delegates had given it approval.

Should the executive decide to try out the scheme next Fall the West's champion would play the Ontario Rugby Football Union champs in one half of the classic double bill, on an eastern field, and the Big Four and Intercollegiate champions clash in the other half.

West Would Benefit

Winners of these games would meet a week later for the Canadian championship. Dr. E. A. McCusker of Regina, past president of the Western Canada Rugby Football Union, favored the idea because he thought the champions from the West would benefit by playing a week earlier than usual. If they were successful in a semi-final, he thought, they would be better prepared for the final than ever before.

Dr. McCusker, formerly an official of Regina Roughriders, six-times Western champions, was elected first vice-president of the C.R.U. and was given a position on the rules committee. T. Hicks Miller of Montreal was elected president, succeeding Dr. M. D. Kinsella, Toronto.

Only minor changes to rules were adopted at the meeting. The obsolete marked catch and succeeding free kick rule was deleted and the kick-off rule was revised to give the visiting team the choice of either kicking off on taking either end of the field.

TWO NEWCOMERS ON RYDER TEAM

Olin Dutra and Paul Runyan Named Along With Seven U. S. Veterans.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27 (A.P.)—Two newcomers to Ryder Cup golf competition have been named along with the seven United States veterans of one or more international struggles to attempt the difficult task of beating the British professionals next June.

These two are Olin Dutra of Los Angeles, winner of the Professional Golfers' Association championship last year, and Paul Runyan of White Plains, N.Y., who performed brilliantly all through 1932 and recently won the Gasparilla open tournament at Tampa, Fla.

Walter Hagen again was chosen captain of the American team and he will have the experienced backing of Gene Sarazen, 1932 British and American open champion; Densmore Shute of Cleveland; Craig Wood, the Deal, N.J., player who played sensationally in California this winter; Ed Dudley, now pro at the Augusta, Ga., National Golf Club; Leo Diegel of Agua Caliente and Horton Smith of Chicago when the biennial series is played at Southport, England, June 26 and 27.

EN ROUTE EAST TO-DAY

WINNIPEG, Feb. 27 (C.P.) — Manitoba's representatives in the Dominion Badminton championships, to be played in Montreal, are en route east to-day. They are:

Charlie Jones, who holds the Manitoba Singles title; Carl Wood, Bert Jones and E. E. Long, representing the Manitoba Badminton Association; Edward Leman, Ted Woodman, Mrs. Victor Woodman, and Mrs. Harley Hughes from the Winnipeg Winter Club.

The players left here Sunday night.

AUSSIES FINISH SECOND INNINGS WITH 182 SCORE

While England Scores 11 Without Loss When Play Closes for the Day.

NEED 164 TO WIN.

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 27 (C.P. Cable).—Australia collapsed badly to-day in the second innings of the fifth and concluding test match, being dismissed for 182. England, set 164 runs to win, had scored 11 without loss when play closed for the day.

Australia scored 435 in the first innings, England replying with 454.

It was a sorry day for Australia. Although the coveted "ashes" have already been won by England, a large crowd which by the end of the day had reached 50,000, turned out to see the last stand of the Aussie batsmen against England.

Rout for Aussies

The spectators were disappointed, however, for it was more of a rout than a stand. With the exception of W. M. Woodfull's 67 and a spectacular inning by Don Bradmon, who obtained 71, the Aussie batsmen were unable to defend their wickets against the English trundling.

Hedley Verity replaced Harold Larwood as the spearhead of the English attack by taking five wickets and catching a sixth. Larwood only took one wicket, that of V. Y. Richardson who went out second ball without scoring. He worked occasionally with his leg theory attack and at one time roused the ire of the crowd when he struck Don Bradman on the left bicep with a fast high-bouncing delivery.

Don Brandman's innings was a most quick-footed, aggressive affair, but wholly unorthodox. He was hitting everything and in one over got 10 off Allen. A lunge at one of Verity's cost him his wicket.

87 for Woodfull

The splendid stand of W. M. Woodful, the Australian captain, who stayed in from the first wicket for three hours and five minutes, was closed when he missed one from G. O. Allen. He had scored 87.

The remainder of the Aussie wickets fell cheaply, with the exception of that of P. K. Lee, the newcomer to test ranks, who knocked up 15 before G. O. Allen took his leg stump.

The English innings was started by D. R. Jardine and R. E. S. Wyatt, who had scored six and five respectively when play was closed for the day.

A Weak Showing

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 27 (C.P. Cable).—The score card in the fifth cricket test match between England and Australia is as follows:

Tonight is Carnival Night at the Brock and a lot of fun is promised skaters, dancers and onlookers. Proceeds go to relief and a large crowd is looked for. It's quite a while since a good costume ice-carnival was run off here, and there is nothing that better portrays the Canadian spirit of winter. Colorful decorations, comic and picturesque game, grand music, graceful skaters and dancers—such an affair is not soon forgotten.

The first of the City Hockey League playoffs start Tuesday night at the Brock at eight bells. Rotary, second place team, meets P.C.I., which outfit finished on top, in the first of the two out three series. The loop title and the Tully Trophy is at stake, and this should be a smart set of games between the best two junior teams in the town. Many of these players will be trying out next winter for junior O.H.A.

It was 3-1 for the Machine Shop over Switchgear in the first of the C.G.E. Shop League home and home series Saturday for the championship. Another fast, classy game between two well-balanced squads. The Machinists won the intermediate group while Switchgear won the senior section. They'll wind it up maybe next Saturday, maybe sooner—depends on when the ice is available.

Peterborough is to have the Central Ontario Badminton Association tournament March 18th, three weeks from last Saturday. Local clubs, Lindsay, Orillia, Oshawa, Bowmanville and Port Hope will be represented, with the prelims. at the Armouries in the morning and the finals in the afternoon at the Market Hall. Jack Purcell, famous Canadian pro exponent of the feathered sport will give an exhibition at the latter place.

Already, considerable activity has been noticed locally in lacrosse circles, and another big year in the gutted stick game is expected. The junior O.A.L.A. idea shows every indication of taking hold and being pulled over. The club here has been organized and a number of promising kids lined up. Incidentally, C. S. Browne, who is no stranger to lacrosse, has been coaching some of the boys along on the side in the Collegiate gym for some time.

* * * * * *

This is what A. E. Lyon, president of the C.A.L.A. says: "In the capacity to play lacrosse a boy has a certificate of physical fitness. To play it he must be the raw material out of which only the finest type of human product can be made. Above all, it is not an "alibi" game. If he is outrun or outchecked, it is apparent; if he shoots the ball over the top of the net, he is just a bad shot; if he is outguessed, it shows him lacking in alertness. In no game has an official so little opportunity to influence the result as in lacrosse. That is the way Canada's problems must be solved. There is no alibi in life. It is the Canadian boy, youth, and man, best fitted to meet and solve these problems that the advocates of lacrosse are seeking to develop in their campaign to introduce the game into every school and college in the land.

The Nationalsof Toronto, last year's amateur senior hockey champs, lost the final at Prague yesterday, 2-1, in an overtime game to the Boston tourists. It was billed as for the championship of the world and will go down in the books as that. But Canadians know that this year's crippled Sea Flegs is a long, long way from being a championship team in Ontario, let alone Canada and the rest of the world. Frank Collins and Ken Kane who used to strut their stuff on Peterborough are with the touring Gnats.

* * * * * *

Doherty A. C., who nosed out our intermediates last week, aren't fooling in their quest for O.H.A. honors. They have procured the services of Frank Carroll of Toronto to assist Coach Les Shields in teamplay as well as individual instructions to the players. Carroll has twice piloted the Springfield Indians to championships in the Canadian-American League, so should be a real aid to this outfit is it prepares for a final drive toward a title.

In one of the classiest all-around basketball games seen here in several seasons, Stanger's City League squad pulled out a 37 to 34 win over Collegiate at the "Y" Saturday p.m. The students rallied strongly in the second half, and there's no knowing how the fixture would have turned out if play had lasted another few minutes. Some really smart cage play is being seen Wednesdays and Saturdays in the hoop-the-ball circuit. Y. W. Seniors licked Westclox, 16 to 9, in the gals' game up there the same eve.

Teams Blanketed In Madison Grind

NEW YORK, Feb. 27 (A.P.)—After a wild first night of jamming the six day bicycle race in Madison Square Garden to-day settled down to the long grind with the 14 teams closely bunched at 8 a.m., the 11th hour.

A triple tie existed for the lead, shared by Georgetti-Severgnini, Lands-Thomas and Hill-Binda with the newly formed combination of Reggie McNamara, grand old rider, and Harry Horan, annd Letourner and Debaets tied for fourth place a lap to the rear.

The Canadians in the grind did not get off to a very good start. Henri Lepace of Montreal teamed with Cohen of New York held seventh place three laps behind the pace-makers, while Torchy Peden, Victoria and Jules Audy, Montreal were down in 11th place, five laps from the leaders.

CHURCH LEAGUE PLAY-OFFS

The second game of the Church Hockey League junior play-offs takes place between Knox and All Saints at seven to-night at All Saints' rink. Players should be at the rink at 6.45 o'clock. Southend League playoffs commence tonight at the Brock.

N.S. Liquor Prices To Drop On March 1

HALIFAX, Feb. 27—Nova Scotia liquor prices will be substantially reduced on March 1, it was learned unofficially. The new price lists will show reductions on domestic spirits of as much as 75 cents a quart, wine prices will be lowered considerably in line with the policy of the liquor commission to promote greater use of wines as against spirits. In the revision of spirits lists the commission will take a lower percentage of profits on domestic products in order to give Canadian industries and Canadian workers a measure of protection, it was learned.

P.C.I. STUDENTS DROP 37-34 DECISION TO STANGER'S FIVE

Y.W.C.A. Seniors Take 16-9 Victory From Westclox in Girls' Game.

FIRST TILT IS CLOSE.

Playing their third close game in as many starts, Stanger's squad of the City Basketball League pulled out a 37-34 win over P.C.I. at the "Y" Saturday evening. It was one of the best games seen locally in several seasons, the Collegians staging a strong come-back in the second half to give the winners a genuine scare and the fans plenty of excitement. In a girls' game up there, Y.W.C.A. Seniors took a 16 to 9 decision over Westclox.

The mens' contest was marked by classy all-around play between two well-matched teams. They flashed a lot of speed, some smart teamplay, good shooting and effective checking. It was 22-14 for the winners to end the first half, but the Students rallied and counted 20 points against 15 during the second session, with the count very much in doubt till the final whistle.

Amys again led the losers at scoring, with 14 points; while McIntyre got five and Sedgewick four. For the victors, Stanger was high man, notching 21 points in a fine exhibition. Broadley ran in eight and Shepherd shoved in two baskets. The teams:

Collegiate: Macdonald, Sedgewick, Holmes, Amys, Marsh, Reynolds, McIntyre and Clark.

Stanger's. — Reynolds, Magee, Thirnbeck, Broadley, Stanger, Hayes, Shepherd and Hunt.

Referee—R. Kitchen; scorer, D. Loomis.

Y. W. Holds Edge

The girls turned in a fast, clean argument with the Y.W. crew showing a slight edge most of the way. E. Bradley led the losers on the score-sheet with five points, her teammates B. Thirnbeck and H. Joyce hooping a basket apiece. I. Davidson counted seven points for the Y.W.C.A., H. Cole was good for four, J. Harvey got three and J. Allin two. Some fair combination and checking were shown. The teams:

Westclox.—D. Webb, G. Robinson, G. Mortimer, E. Bradley, B. Thirnbeck and H. Joyce.

Y.W.C.A. — O. Elcombe, H. Jackson, H. Cole, I. Davidson, J. Harvey and J. Allin.

MACHINE SHOP COPS 3-1 WIN FROM GEARMEN

Upsets Hockey Bucket to Secure Two Goal Lead in C.G.E Works Play-offs.

MIGHT OFFENSIVE.

The Machine Shop hockey team, champions of the intermediate section of the C.G.E. Inter-department Hockey League, upset the dopester's apple-cart at the Brock Street Arena on Saturday afternoon and won a three-to-one decision in the first game of the play-offs for the works' championship. This count gives them a two goal advantage and the second tussle of which the two-game series will be staged as soon as arrangements can be made.

The Switchgear players maintained their reputation for speed and cleverness in the first period when they barged in on the Machinists' cage, fast and often. Whatley on one occasion going right to the goal-mouth only to waste his shot. The forwards, Playford, Paggett and Maudsley by their speed thrusts pierced the Machinists' defence quite often in this frame to give Tice, the net guardian, his busiest session of the game. The latter weathered several scrambles only to be scored on when Playford went in fast to scoop in Pagget's rebound.

Three-man Attacks

The second period was featured by a series of three man attacks by both sides that sent the play from one end of the rink to the other with remarkable speed, and both goalies were kept on the jump. Hetherington tied the score after six minutes of play in this period when he sunk Stan Clarke's rebound after the Machinists had been swarming around the Switchgear net, for some time. In this frame the Mechanics' defence consisting of Ashore, McGillen and Gibson started to use their weight, the first named being very effective in breaking up the thrusts of the lighter opponents, with well-executed body-checks. Bernie Jones, shifty right winger for the Machinists staged one of the nicest rushes of the game in this period when he zig-zagged through the entire opposing team, only to miss the puck when attempting to shoot. Claire McGillen engineered the attack that resulted in the next counter for the winners when he carried the rubber to the Switchgear defence, then passed to Clarke who nipped the high corner of the net, from close-in giving Hope no chance. Craig and Mowry were banished for five minutes at this stage for indulging in an exchange of fisticuffs but the period ended without any further scoring.

Brilliant Goal-tending

The Switchgear players turned on the steam at the start of the final session and for several minutes, Teddy Tice in the Machinist goal was called on to weather a barrage of shots that were peppered at him from all angles. Two dangerous pile-ups at the goal-mouth were also part of the performance but the Switch-gear failed to score and the play soon shifted. As the play progressed the Machinists had an edge in territorial play and except when either Whatley or Mowry broke away in solo rushes the battling was confined to the Switchbuilders' end of the rink. Clarke scored for the Machinists here but the bell had gone for an offside and it was not allowed, however he got it back a few minutes after when Whatley was off, picking the open side of the net wih a high shot. Hope gave a nice display of clever goal-tending for the Switchgear in this stanza when he robbed the Machinists time and again. Pearson, Craig and Jones combined well and passed nicely for the winners in this period and were the combination that gave the Machinists the edge. Pagget although slowed up by several stiff body-checks played stellar hockey for the Switchgear. He teamed up with Maudsley and Playford on the front line, both of which showed speed to burn but most of their shots were off the mark. The defence pair, McGillen and Ashmore, were a big factor in the win for the Machinists, as they broke up numerous rushes, showed finish in covering up and were dangerous on the attack.

The teams:

Machine Shop—Goal, Tice; defence, McGillen and Ashmore; centre, Craig; wings, Pearson and Jones; alternates, Gibson, Clarke, Rogers and Hetherington.

Switchgear—Goal, Hope; defence Mowry and Whatley; centre, Maudsley; wings, Pagget and Playford; alternates, Hurst, Cordery, Higgins.

Referee—Archie Weir.

Columbia University Cleared Of Charges

NEW YORK, Feb. 27 (A.P.)—A committee of five appointed to investigate Columbia University athletics after charges of professionalism were brought by the college paper, The Spectator, had not only cleared the school system of all suspicion to-day but advised greater facilities for athletic participation.

In an exhaustive report the committee found no evidence of favoritism toward athletes, either as candidates for admission or the awarding of honors.

PROVIDENCE REDS HOLD LEAD

3-2 Win From Boston Gives Half-game Advantage Over Arrows.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 27 (C.P.)—Providence Reds remained on top of the Canadian-American Hockey League standing to-day as the result of their 3-2 victory over Boston last night—a win that gave them a half-game lead over the hard-pressing Philadelphia Arrows. The Boston Cubs followed in third place, five and a half games behind the pace-setters and New Haven Eagles started the week a game and one-half ahead of the last place Quebec Beavers.

"Yank" Boyd and Paul Runge of the Arrows, although each gained but a single point last week, managed to hold on to their top scoring places, with 35 and 32 points respectively. Alex Cook of Boston, followed in third place with 29, and three were tied for fourth places with 27 points, Conn of Philadelphia, and McCabe and Toupin of Quebec.

Peters of Philadelphia finished last week as the circuit's highest penalty carrier, having been sent off the ice for a total of 83 minutes. Joe Jerwa, Boston, who has collected three majors to date, pressed him hard with 81 minutes.

GOODNIGHT STORIES

By Max Trell

You ought to watch the sunsets
They are a lovely sight,
Besides, unless the sun sets
You never can have night.
—Shadow Sayings.

Neither the five children nor their shadows had expected that any place with so terrible a name as Death Valley could really be so beautiful. It was as beautiful as anything they had seen, and the children (and their shadows as well) had seen a great deal of the world.

Death Valley is in California. It is really a desert, lying between two ranges of high mountains. Because it hardly ever rains, nothing grows upon the mountains but here and there a dry shrub, or a cactus.

The shadows went with their masters and mistresses to a hotel in Furnace Creek which is the name of a little place on the edge of the valley. After they had their dinner, they all went with father to a mountain peak called Dante's View. They climbed up by automobile, almost to the top. Then father stopped the car along the side of the narrow road, and told the children that it would be more fun if they walked the rest of the way. Father didn't ask the shadows to go along, but the shadows went anyway. From Dante's View, which was more than a mile up in the air, they saw the whole valley, stretching along for almost a hundred miles. The floor of the valley was sandy in some parts, rocky in other parts, and in some parts it was pure white, like snow. Father explained that this whiteness wasn't snow at all, simply a whiteness in the stone, or salt, perhaps.

Into the Valley.

The wind was blowing so hard at Dante's View that the shadows were glad when father led the children down again and into the car. The shadows, being so light, were afraid of being blown off.

From Dante's View the shadows looked down into Death Valley.

Then they all went down into the valley. A road, which had been built by the miners many years ago, was still good, so they were able to go by automobile. This was a good thing, for otherwise it would have taken them all hours and hours to walk. By and by they reached a place called Bad Water. This was nothing but a small lake, lying at the lowest point in the valley. Father told them a strange thing. He said that Bad Water lay 300 feet below the level of the ocean. It was, he explained, the lowest point in America. So the children, and the shadows, saw the lowest and the highest point in America on the same day.

But they saw many other strange things in Death Valley. They saw salt pools ("are there any pepper pools?" the shadows wondered), and they saw sand dunes, and they went through Golden Canyon, where the walls of rock are all the colors of the rainbow, and they went across the Devil's Golf Course, where the ground looks as though it was all plowed up; and they saw the carts which used to be drawn by a twenty-mule team; and they saw a sunset, which was so red that the children were afraid that all the houses were burning. But there weren't any houses to burn, so everything was all right. You must take this trip yourself some time. But be sure to take your shadow with you. If you should forget, don't worry. It will go anyway

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, February 28

A lively and interesting day but one calling for much wisdom and sagacity is presaged from the predominant unar and mutual configurations. A decided or radical change seems imminent, with definite influences on the future life and interests. Purely private relations and interests may be involved in this change which will have the element of excitement and commotion unless a good reign be kept on the tendencies to rash and impetuous decisions and behavior. Move with deliberation and restraint.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of sudden and quite important change, which will have a far reaching effect on the future destinies both private and business. A child born on this day may be adventurous, aggressive, original, tempestuous and should make much progress and attain good position if it will learn to discipline its turbulent inclination.

HYGIENE COUNCIL SPONSORS PICTURE

The Canadian Social Hygiene Council will bring the well-known Venereal propaganda picture, "The End of the Road," to Peterborough at the Regent theatre for three days only, commencing March 1st. With the picture there will be additional education pictures dealing with the anatomy and physiology of reproduction, detailed information as to the technical aspects of Venereal Disease and also a film emphasizing the need for medical examination before marriage.

The Canadian Social Hygiene Council is a national association carrying on health education work in all phases of health throughout the whole of Canada. The Council has as its aim the emphasizing of the need for prevention in order that the extremely high costs of unnecessary illness throughout the Dominion may be avoided. While the cost of the Great War was approximately four hundred million dollars a year for four years; the cost of illness in Canada including the cost of postponable death is estimated to reach more than three times this amount every year, namely $1,311,000,000. The Council's publications state that 180,000 people (2 per cent of the entire population) are constantly ill and unable to work. The Council has taken an interest in such matters as pasteurization of milk, prevention of Diphtheria, periodic health examination and the establishment of County Health Units.

The Council was responsible ten years ago for the establishment of the first grants for health purposes to be made to the Provinces, namely, the Venereal Disease grants amounting to as much as $200,000 a year. These grants have been given continuously until this year, when the grant for the support of Venereal Disease clinics of $100,000 was withdrawn from the Dominion Estimates, in addition to the grant for the Council's own activities.

It was hoped that a grant of $200,000 would be made by the Dominion Government to the provinces for the establishment of County Health Units. This grant has not materialized as yet owing to the depression.

The Council emphasizes the fact of high, unnecessary hospital costs. The statement is made that in the Venereal Disease field alone, largely, because of the intensive work of the last ten years by the Council, a great many hospital beds which were filled because of the end results of syphilis have been freed. General Paralysis of the Insane, heart disease, early apoplexy, bone syphilis, blindness, congenital syphilis are some of the results of the speed of these diseases which have diminished in virulence very remarkably since this work was commenced ten years ago.

The film, "The End of the Road" with its supplementary pictures constitutes a remarkable example of the extent to which the education of the people is possible. These pictures shown in Toronto a few months ago created so great an interest that thousands of people were unable to obtain admission to Massey Hall.

AND

These wonder-working suds delight thrifty women

WHY do so many women insist on Rinso? Because they know from experience that it's safe. Because they know it washes clothes whiter—gets washable coloured things brighter. Because it saves scrubbing and boiling—and how that saves the clothes!

It's the suds that do it—thick, creamy, lasting suds. Twice as much, cup for cup, as from lightweight, puffed-up soaps—even in hardest water. No bar soaps, chips or softeners needed. The makers of 40 famous washers endorse Rinso. Great for dishwashing, too. Grease goes in a flash—dishes shine. Get the BIG household package.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Headaches and Pains In Stomach

Mr. W. G. Simpson, Saria, Ont., writes:—"For two years I was troubled with severe headaches, and pains in my stomach. My druggist told me to take Burdock Blood Bitters, and since then I have not been troubled with either.

Each spring I find a bottle of B.B.B. is just the thing to clean the blood of the poisons gathered in the system during the winter months."

LUMP OF COAL LEADS TO JAIL

Orillia Man Caught With Chunk Worth 10 Cents, By Hidden Officer.

FAILS TO RAISE BAIL.

ORILLIA, Feb. 27 (C.P.).—Albert E. Ball, 50, was late Sunday conveyed to Barrie Jail to serve 15 days' imprisonment, imposed late Saturday when he was found guilty, before Magistrate Daniel McCaughrin, of stealing one lump of coal from the yards of the Samuel Sargeant Company.

Immediately after the hearing, Ball served verbal notice of appeal, and sought release on bail. Magistrate McCaughrin set bail at $2,000, requiring $1,000 from Ball himself, and two other sureties of $500 each. The bail was not supplied.

The theft of coal was committed, according to police evidence, on Feb. 1. Constable Carr told the Magistrate that he had been hiding in the Sargeant Company's yards, that he had seen Ball come forth from his own house nearby, look around, and pick up one lump of coal from a pile in the yards. When Ball had started away with the coal, the constable said, he placed him under arrest.

The weight of the lump of coal was later ascertained by police to be 36 pounds, and it was valued at ten cents.

Ball's version was that he picked up the lump merely to examine its quality, as he intended buying fuel from the same company in a day or two

CAR GOES THROUGH ICE THREE FISHERMEN DROWN

CLEVELAND, N.Y., Feb. 27 (A.P.) —The body of George Lawrence, 42, of Solvay, was being sought to-day in Oneida Lake at the spot where his automobile broke through ice yesterday, carrying him and two companions to death.

With Louis Eckert, 43, of Syracuse, and Allen Crozier, of Solvay, Lawrence was fishing. Two other fishermen called for assistance when the rear wheels of their car broke through the ice. Lawrence, Eckert and Crozier drove toward them, but the ice was too thin and the car plunged into the lake.

NEVER PLACED MONEY IN BANK

summer resort property to the Stoney Lake Hotels Limited, and that proceedings to sell this property have been commenced by the Midland Savings and Loan Company as mortgagee. The first default of interest on this mortgage was on September 1st, 1932.

The trial was adjourned at 1 p.m. for the noon recess, and is continuing this afternoon.

First Witness.

R. R. Hall, K.C., was the first witness this morning. Mr. Hall stated that Thomas Shearer had been a client of his for many years, especially in respect to his investments. He had assigned to his daughter, Mrs. Cameron, the Bickell mortgage of $2,000 which, with interest arrears, was valued at more than $2,600. Mr. Hall said he had learned from Mrs. Cameron that she had assigned to Mr. Strickland the mortgage which had been paid off by Mr. Bickell through the Agricultural Development Board.

R. T. Hicks-Lyne, manager of the local branch of the Dominion Bank, testified that no deposit had been made by C. E. Strickland to the credit of Mrs. Cameron.

Fred Morrow, registrar, and H. W. Morphet, secretary of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, were also examined briefly.

Mr. Morphet testified that a debenture of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company for $2,000 had been transferred on March 14, 1931, by Fred L. Golloway, of Toronto, to the Stoney Lake Hotels, Limited, and a year later was transferred to Bruce T. Ryerton of Toronto.

Mrs. Marion Cameron.

Mrs. Marion Cameron verified the assignment of the Bickell mortgage to her.

"Mr. Strickland came to our house on the last of April, 1930, with John Strickland. I bought $2,000 Canadian Terminal bonds. Later we bought another $2,000. The total investment was $4,000. They are paying interest on the dividends they should have paid. During our conversations I mentioned the Bickell mortgage. It was paying 6 per cent. so were the bonds. They came back later and C. E. Strickland spoke about the mortgage. He said he knew a company that would handle the mortgage. I said I wouldn't like to do anything about it without seeing the Bickells. Mr. Strickland saw them and told us Bickells were satisfied. We were satisfied to cash the mortgage, and an arrangement for that was made in May, 1930. We were advised against the Terminals, so we agreed to take $500 in Stoney Lake Hotels, Limited, and he was to deposit the balance in the Dominion Bank at Peterborough to my credit.

Later on the money was got from the Bickell mortgage by C. E. Strickland. He sent the certificates of Stoney Lake Hotel, Ltd., in June or July, 1930. They were sent to us in advance of his, getting the money from the mortgage. In May, 1931, he gave us a $500 cheque, and another for $200 in August, and $25 for interest, but I did not understand that one."

Mrs. Cameron identified these cheques from the Stoney Lake Hotels Company, of which C. E. Strickland was secretary-treasurer. She said she had received dividends on the $500 investment in the Stoney Lake Hotels, Ltd.

"At that time Mr. Strickland had all the money from the Bickell mortgage except the $500 Stoney Lake Hotels stock, the $500 and $200 cheques and $25 cheque for interest."

Mrs. Cameron identified a letter from C. E. Strickland, dated July 7, 1930, advising her that the balance of the Bickell mortgage funds would be deposited in the Dominion Bank to her credit when the mortgage was adjusted. On July 12, Mr. Strickland forwarded the Stoney Lake Hotels stock and also wrote that he expected to have the mortgage adjusted in a short time and would deposit the balance in the Dominion Bank.

In May, 1931, the accused wrote that he had obtained a Toronto Savings and Loan certificate to provide against interest loss on the mortgage. From that date, Mrs. Cameron said she had seen nor heard nothing more from Mr. Strickland, although he had promised to return in three weeks and finally settle the transaction.

"I inquired at the Dominion Bank about the payments, but they were never made. The value of the Bickell mortgage was upwards of $2,700."

Signature on Assignment

To Mr. Stevenson, Mrs. Cameron said she had told Mr. Strickland that if she could get the Bickell mortgage money she might buy some more Terminal Bonds.

"I thought I was assigning the mortgage to Mr. Strickland," Mrs. Cameron said, when Mr. Stevenson showed her the document with her signature on the assignment to Stoney Lake Hotels Limited.

The cheque for $500 which plaintiff received on May 17, 1931, was signed with the printed words, "Stoney Lake Hotel, Limited," and in writing, C. E. Strickland, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Stevenson. — Did you make any remarks about the Stoney Lake Hotels Limited?

Mrs. Cameron.—No.

Mr. Stevenson.—As a matter of fact were not all the letters and cheques from the Stoney Lake Hotels, Limited? There was no personal stationery?

Mrs. Cameron replied affirmatively. She also identified the $25 cheque which was from the Stoney Lake Hotels Limited with the notation, "interest account re Bickell."

Mr. Stevenson.—You told me at the preliminary examination that you knew the assignment of the mortgage was to a company?

Mrs. Cameron.—I did know it was to a company."

Mr. Strickland told Mrs. Cameron on May 17, 1931, that he could pay her the entire amount, but that he was pressed for money, and if was agreeable to her he preferred to withhold the remainder for three weeks rather than dispose of a Toronto Savings and Loan bond he had mentioned.

Mr. Stevenson. — Didn't he say they were going to start up the hotel for the season?

Mrs. Cameron.—I don't remember.

Plaintiff said she understood that Mr. Strickland did not want to sell the Toronto Savings and Loan certificates mentioned, and she thought that any accommodation in time would actually be to her own advantage.

Mrs. Cameron identified a letter from C. E. Strickland which Mr. McElderry produced. It was written on May 29, 1931, to the effect that J. C. Strickland was arranging to buy common stock in the Stoney Lake Hotels, Ltd. He required $700 for a year and was writing to offer a chattel mortgage on his house and property which were valued at $3,000. C. E. Strickland recommended the loan and volunteered to look after the details. Mrs. Cameron replied that she had decided not to "let out any more money as we might need it at any time."

BARN, STOCK BURN

BRANTFORD, Ont., Feb. 27 (C.P.)—Harold Sage, who lives near Muir, to-day counted the loss of his bank barn, 32 head of pure-bred Holsteins, six horses, 200 chickens, 20 pigs, 60 tons of hay and 2,000 bushels of grain as a result of a fire that swept the building Saturday while the owner was in Woodstock. The cause of the fire is a mystery.

MILLBROOK COUPLE CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Friends and Relatives Gather to do Honor to Mr. and Mrs. John Hatherly.

GIFTS PRESENTED.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 27 (Examiner Correspondence).—An event of peculiar interest took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hatherly, Main street, on Wednesday when their children, grandchildren and other immediate relatives arrived somewhat unexpectedly to celebrate with them the golden anniversary of their wedding-day.

Fifty years ago, on February 22, 1883, at the home of the bride's parents, at Baltimore, Ontario, the marriage of Phoebe Haw and John Hatherly was solemnized by the late Rev. Mr. Hull, the bride having as her attendant Miss Zillah Haw (later Mrs. W. A. Peters, of Canton), and the groom being supported by his brother, W. H. Hatherly, now of Peterborough, who was among the guests on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hatherly made their first home in Otonabee, but 25 years ago decided to move to Cavan township, purchasing the James Might farm east of the village and continuing to live there until ten years ago when they gave over the homestead to their son, Irwin, and came to Millbrook, buying their home on Main street from William Mullen, who occupied the residence up to that time.

An unusual and happy feature of the pleasant occasion on Wednesday was the fact that four of the grandchildren had birthdays this month, and this was emphasized in the beautifully-decorated birthday cake which centered the table at which the younger folk sat down for the "wedding dinner," while an equally handsome wedding cake had the place of honor at the "bride's" table. Lovely roses of a deep gold tint appropriately decorated the tables, while for the living and dining rooms daffodils were chosen as in keeping with the golden anniversary celebration.

A number of beautiful gifts, and cards and other messages of congratulation were received by the "bride and groom" of fifty years' wedded life together, and among the guests who were present for the happy gathering were: Rev. W. W. and Mrs. Jones, Millbrook; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hatherly, 577 Division street, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hooey, of Bowmanville; Mr and Mrs. H. P. Climo, Cobourg; Mr. Sidney Climo, and Mr. Percy Climo, B.Sc., Cobourg; Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Hatherly, and their two sons, David and Evans, Millbrook; Miss Ethel Hatherly, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Will Jones, and daughters Gertrude, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Jones, and their two children, Ross and Gwen, of Port Hope.

VETERANS' NIGHT AT MILLBROOK

Eight I.O.O.F. Members Are Presented Jewels—Grand Secretary Attends.

INTERESTING PROGRAM

MILLBROOK, Feb. 27 (Examiner Correspondence). — "Veterans' Night" was fittingly observed by Millbrook Lodge I.O.O.F. No. 308 on Tuesday evening, with Grand Secretary, Brother William Brooks, of Toronto, as the chief speaker, and D.D.G.M. Brother J. L. Payne, of Pontypool, also as guest for the occasion.

Brother H. A. Fallis, Past D.D.-G.M., occupied the chair, and the address of welcome was given by the Noble Grand of the local lodge, Brother C. B. Sutton. Eight veterans were presented with jewels by the Grand Secretary, the chairman explaining that Millbrook Lodge has previously presented on varying occasions, forty-three veterans with their jewels, twenty-five being still active in Oddfellowship and eighteen deceased.

Those so honored on Tuesday evening included Brothers T. J. Lang, H. A. Earle, W. G. Rowland, T. W. Belch, L. W. Ball, J. Isbister, and J. M. Armstrong. Preliminary to the presentation the Grand Secretary explained that in the '80's the custom originated to recognize long continued membership of brothers of the Order, but in later years individual lodges introduced regulations of various kinds; in any event there must be at least 25 years of membership in the I.O.O.F., and the recipient must be in good standing in his lodge. On one occasion I presented 63 of these jewels in a single evening; the jewel may be worn, in lieu of regalia except at the Sovereign Grand Lodge, or when filling any official position in the local organization."

Each veteran was called upon for a brief speech when the jewel had been pinned on by sisters of the Rebekah Order, or brother Oddfellows at the request of the chief guest of the evening; Brother Brooks pointing out that they totalled two hundred years of membership in the Order. Other veterans present were asked to stand and tell how many years they had been Oddfellows; two mentioning 38 years; the Grand Secretary, who has held his present position for 22 consecutive years, relating that a brother in his own lodge has been a member for 63 years "and can take any part of the initiatory degree and do it well. We had, in Ontario, up to a few years ago, presented more veterans' jewels than any other jurisdiction in the Dominion."

Songs, Drawing, Magic

Music was furnished by the orchestra throughout the program and while the guests of the evening were gathering, the personnel being: Mary Burnham, piano; J. Isbister, G. L. Byam, and G. E. Burnham, leader. Other items were songs by V. R. Hunter and John Graham, the latter in Scottish costume; a demonstation of magic by Robert Harvey, and of drawing by Sam McQuilkin, both of Peterborough, the artist finishing with a crayon portrait of the Grand Secretary, Brother Brooks carrying it home with him as a souvenir of the occasion.

"A Picture of Oddfellowship in Action" was the theme of the instructive address delivered by Brother Brooks, who traced the growth of the Order in its 110 years of history on this continent, pointing out that approximately six million members had been initiated in that period, not including Rebekahs, a number equal to two-thirds of the population of Canada. "Its purpose is a simple one—doing something for others, and that is a real job particularly in this time of exacting need. To help those in sorrow and distress we pay out $7,000,000 yearly, and in addition are spending $2,000,000 in homes for the aged and for the orphaned children in this and other countries."

An interesting account of the work of Oddfellowship in "The Citizens' Friendship League of Toronto, was given the speaker, explaining that such practical relief activity "never finds a place on our books at all, but it is going on all the time wherever Oddfellowship is functioning as it should—where there is need, there is opportunity. No place within the covers of the ritual will you find it stated that we confine our efforts at relief and comfort to members of our Order. We are not in opposition to the church, but in co-operation, and we should be better church people because of connection with our Order."

A reading by Miss Jean Burnham, "Bergain Day," a song by J. Graham, and a selection by the orchestra, with brief addresses by Brother J. L. Payne, D.D.G.M. by Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A., and Rev. W. W. Jones, B.D., and Brother Luther, N.G. of Peterborough Lodge, No. 111; with a piano solo by Mrs. V. R. Hunter, completed an entertaining and instructive program.

Adjournment was made to the dining-hall where tables were laid with a color scheme in red, white and blue, and a happy social hour was enjoyed. The vote of thanks to those on the program was sponsored by Brothers C. Thorndyke, P.G., and Ivan Gray, and to the supper committee by Brother J. L. Payne, D.D.G.M., and Brother William Brooks, G.S. Dancing and cards were indulged in by those who wished on return to the lodge room upstairs.

W. I. Dance.

The dance sponsored by the Women's Institute, and held in the Town Hall on Monday evening was quite successful, the floor being nicely filled all evening, and music furnished by Ernest Powell and Will Byam, with May and Walter Challice alternating, round and square dances both being popular.

A booth supplied refreshments as required; W. E. Ball, Mrs. J. L. Byam, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, Mrs. T. G. Harkness, and Mrs. H. J. Armstrong serving the customers. Reeve P. Stinson sold tickets, and altogether over forty dollars was realized for the W.I. funds. Next activity of the W.I. will be the community concert and dance for relief purposes on St. Patrick's Day, or at least near that date; the second event of the kind to be held by the branch this winter.

prices quoted by retail stores stimulated buying by the public on Saturday, and a better turnover was reported. Last week's receipts totalled 5,890 cases, against 7,136 cases the previous week.

Cheese quotations were unchanged, fresh or recent make Ontario colored selling at 10c to 10½c and early Ontario colored at 11¼ to 11¼c a pound. Receipts for the week were 143 boxes.

Potatoes also remained steady, New Brunswick Green Mountains, per 80-lb. bag being quoted at 75c to 80c, and Prince Edward Island Green Mountains, per 90-lb. bag at 85c to 90c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Adversely affected by Maryland financial devolopments and by New York Stock Market breaks, grain prices underwent sharp jolts Saturday.

More than 3,000,000 bushels of wheat were sold by one house alone for a single holder who had run into stock market difficulties. Wheat suffered a maximum fall of almost 2 cents a bushel. All deliveries of corn and oats outdid season bottom price records.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¾c to 1¼c under Friday's finish; corn ¼c to ½c down; oats ¼c to ¾c off, and provisions unchanged to a decline of 2c.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

Heavy selling at Chicago, which found reflection here, offset support given by good export sales on the Winnipeg grain market Saturday. Lifting fractionally from the day's low points. Values closed ¾c to ⅞c off, May future at 47½c. July 48⅛c to 48½c, and October 49⅝c. Trading was active throughout.

Spread of banking troubles in the State of Maryland, similar to that in Michigan two weeks ago, unsettled the Chicago market. Liquidation poured into the wheat pit there and resulted in unwinding of spreads between Winnipeg and the Southern mart.

This Southern Pressure soon was felt in the local pit. A minor 1-cent "break" occurred near the close when the sudden influx of offerings poured into the market. Support appeared at bottom levels, however, and values rose slightly at the finish.

GRAIN, CATTLE, PRODUCE

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Aggressive buying Saturday, which sent butter prices to the highest levels in nearly a year, was the highlight of last week's trading on the Montreal produce and dairy market.

After holding firm for the majority of the week, prices spurted upward. Demand was confined to Montreal, as many outside places bought here, even Toronto buying from Montreal. Other factors for the better tone were adequate stocks in storage to last until spring production commences, no danger of butter importations and lighter receipts. Carlots or less of No. 1 grass make closed Saturday at 23¾c to 24c a pound, up half a cent from Friday and the previous week's final quotation. The 23¾c to 24c range was the highest level prices have touched since last March, when a shortage of stocks at the end of the winter season forced quotations to 27c and a fraction. It was considered possible similar prices may be witnessed this March.

Receipts for last week were only 132 boxes, as compared with 531 the previous week, and 2,484 boxes in the corresponding period of last year.

Eggs were steady. On Saturday quotations were a cent higher than Friday, but were unchanged from last week's closing levels. Fresh graded extras in carlots or less at the end of the week were sold at 21c, firsts at 19c, pullets at 18c and seconds at 17c a dozen. Lower

BRITISH ARMS EMBARGO RILES JAPAN

New British Boat Will Seek Laurels Held By Gar Wood

Royal Yacht Club, Acting For H. Scott Paine, Prominent British Boat Designer and Widely Noted Racer In Europe, Cables Challenge To Detroit.

NEW HYDROPLANE TO BE MISS BRITAIN III. HULL OF RADICAL DESIGN—1,350 H.P. MOTOR.

LONDON, Feb. 28. —(AP)— The Royal Motor Yacht Club, acting for H. Scott Paine, today cabled a challenge to Detroit for the Harmsworth Trophy, premier motor-boating prize held by Gar Wood.

Paine, motorboat designer and constructor, has designed a boat with which he will attempt to lift the trophy Wood has successfully defended against previous British challengers.

The races probably will be held in Detroit on Lake St. Clair early in September. To-day was the last day for fyling a challenge.

Paine, in outlining his plans, said his new boat would be named Miss Britain III and that he had been working on her design for six months.

"I feel sure I am in reasonable reach of a suitable hull," he said. "The engine will be of 1350 horse-power of the supercharged type used in the Schneider Trophy races a few years ago."

Paine declined to reveal the details of his new hull beyond saying that it was an entirely new design and probably would be termed "unorthodox".

Held by Wood Since 1930

Gar Wood first won the Harmsworth Trophy in 1920 on Osborne Bay, England, defeating Sir E. MacKay Edgar, and has successfully defended it seven times since against British and French challengers, in 1921-20-23-25-26-30-31-32.

It was in his first Miss America the Detroit motorboat builder and race first won the trophy, and it was the 10th of that great line of boats that he drove to victory over Kaye Don's Miss England at Detroit last September.

Betty Carstairs was the challenger in 28-29-30, and Lord Wakefield, with Don as his driver, was the challenger in 31 and 32.

The Harmsworth Trophy is the one great speed prize on land, sea and air not held by Great Britain. Wood also holds the world speed record for motorboats of 124.91 miles an hour, a mark he set last fall after the Harmsworth races.

Welcomed In Detroit.

C. E. STRICKLAND GETS TWO YEARS IN REFORMATORY

One Year of Term Be Determinate and Other Indeterminate.

GOT NO BENEFIT.

Guilty of Converting Money Entrusted to Him to Own Use.

Found guilty this morning of having converted to his own use $1,200 of funds entrusted to him by Mrs. Marion Cameron of Indian River, C. E. Strickland, bond salesman of Lakefield, was sentenced at noon to-day by Judge Huycke to a term of two years less one day in the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph, one year to be determinate and one indeterminate.

The evidence in this case was concluded Monday afternoon, and judgment was reserved by Judge Huycke until this morning.

J. W. Stevenson was counsel for Mr. Strickland, and V. J. McElderry, K.C., Crown Attorney, conducted the prosecution.

Judge Reviewed Case

Judge Huycke this morning reviewed the major points of evidence in the trial, pointing out that Strickland arranged with Mrs. Cameron to cash the Bickell mortgage, and that he did so. She agreed to buy Stoney Lake Hotels Limited stock with part of the money, and the remainder was to be deposited by the accused in the Dominion Bank to her credit.

"It was unfortunate that Mrs. Cameron did not go to the bank a few weeks before that and talk over the investment with her banker," His Honor commented. "If she had done that we would not be here to-day. I have two letters before me signed by the accused. They are signed by C. E. Strickland as secretary-treasurer of the company, and the attempt is made to put the blame on the Stoney Lake Hotels Company. Mr. Strickland signed the letters, indicating his knowledge and his intention. The letters do not deal with the company, but with the relations between Mrs. Cameron and the accused. He wrote

BARN BURNED AT LAKEHURST

Nelson Windover Lost Stock and Impements in Bad Fire.

AWAY AT THE TIME.

HALL'S BRIDGE, Feb. 28. (Examiner Correspondence). — Fire of unknown origin yesterday afternoon swept the barn of Nelson Windover, near Lakehurst. The barn, a large one, was totally destroyed and lost in the flames were four horses, a number of young cattle, a full supply of farm machinery and implements and the remainder of last season's crops. Mr. Windover was in Hall's Bridge drawing logs when the fire broke out in his barn. Neighbors did everything possible to put out the flames, but their efforts were without effect, and the barn was soon a mass of smouldering embers. It is not known whether the loss was covered by insurance.

TORONTO, Feb. 28. —(CP)— It was learned on reliable authority today that W. F. Nickle, K.C., of Kingston, former Attorney-General of Ontario, would likely be appointed to the Ontario Supreme Court to replace Mr. Justice J. H. Sedgewick, who was today sworn in as chairman of the new tariff advisory commission at Ottawa. Other names mentioned in connection with the appointment were those of F. V. Hogg, of Ottawa and Col. R. S. Hope of Perth.

PIRATES LOOT DANISH VESSEL

Chinese Smash Wireless and Kidnap Three First Class Passengers.

ABANDON CRAFT IN BAY.

HONGKONG, Feb. 28.—(A.P.)—Chinese pirates, active again after a quiet period, attacked the Danish steamer Gustav Diedrichsen last night while en route to Swatow, China, held up the officers, smashed the wireless and decamped with three first class passengers.

Chief Officer Rad Neilsen had relieved Captain Jacobsen when the bridge was rushed by the pirates. The pirates carried him to the captain's cabin. There they also took five other European officers while others of their band ransacked the ship.

They forced the captain to steer for Mirs Bay, where the pirates left the ship this morning.

Bomb Attempt Fails Upon Railway Sheds

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Feb. 28 (A.P.).—An unsuccessful attempt was made to-day to bomb the engine sheds of the Great Northern Railway here. A bomb thrown from a road near the sheds failed to explode.

Railway workers in Ulster have been on strike three weeks as the result of a wage dispute.

Two bombs were exploded in Belfast last Sunday. One of them was set off at the Victoria Station of the Great Northern Railway and the other at a station of the London Midland Scottish Railway. Strike leaders denied their followers had any connection with either incident.

German Reichstag Is Destroyed by Fire

Berlin's Reichstag, government house of Germany, was destroyed by fire yesterday. Flames breaking out in four different locations made it seem certain that the beautiful building was deliberately fired. An attempt was made some days ago to set fire to the building. One of the most magnificent governmental structures in the world the Reichstag was built in 1884-94 at a cost of nearly $6,000,000. In addition, the interior contained many priceless art treasures, reported lost in the fire. Over 100 Communist members have been arrested and martial law virtually declared.

MONTREAL SET STARTING POINT FOR MILK PROBE

WHOLE MILK FIRST.

OTTAWA, Feb. 28 (C.P.).—Montreal will be the starting point of a nation-wide investigation into milk prices, according to the decision made by the House of Commons Committee on Agriculture here to-day. The committee will enquire into the spread between the price paid to the producer and the price paid by the consumer. When the probe of the milk situation in the eastern metropolis is concluded, the committee will take up other centres.

For the time being it was decided to confine the investigation into the matter of whole milk. The limited time at the committee's disposal, said Mark Senn (Cons., Haldimand), chairman, would make it difficult to enquire into all the phases of the situation. The most important aspect, according to innumerable letters he had received from interested parties all over the Dominion, was the price spread.

Large Centres Worst.

The suggestion that the committee begin with Montreal was advanced by Dr. F. H. Pickel (Cons., Brome-Mississquoi).

It was not the village or small town that was abusing the situation but the large centres. The farmers were complaining they were not getting their fair share while the consumers, on the other hand, were paying all they were able to pay.

Objection against any special point being selected for inquiry was voiced by Elie O. Bertrand (Lib., Prescott), but the consensus of opinion in the committee was in approval of the proposal. Sam Gobiel (Cons., Compton) drew the committee's attention to a newspaper

NIXON WILL AID LIBERAL LEADER

Close Co-operation With Liberals Will be Plank in Platform.

WORKING TOGETHER.

TORONTO, Feb. 28 (C.P.)—"When the Legislature is dissolved and an election announced, if I am a candidate at all it will be on the basis of close co-operation with the Liberals under the leadership of Mr. Hepburn," declared Harry Nixon, Progressive leader in the Ontario Legislature, commenting today on reports Mitchell Hepburn Ontario Liberal Leader, had decided to sever relations with W. E. N. Sinclair. Mr. Sinclair is Liberal Leader in the House; Mr. Hepburn, a member of the Ottawa House, being the Provincial leader.

In an interview yesterday Mr. Hepburn was quoted as saying that if Premier George Henry had been encouraged by anything which has happened since the session started to hope for what has been termed "co-operation," then "let him disabuse himself. There will be no co-operation, no truce, no quarter," Mr. Hepburn was quoted as saying. Speaking in the House a few days ago, Mr. Sinclair appealed for co-operation with the Government on constructive issues, while Mr. Nixon moved a vote of non-confidence in the Government. In view of this, Mr. Hepburn's statements were taken as an indication of transferring House leadership of the Liberals to Mr. Nixon.

Mr. Nixon and Mr. Hepburn have conferred several times, but the former to-day would issue no definite statement other than that for the duration of the present Legislature, "there will be no change in my position or attitude in the House."

Mr. Sinclair declined to comment to-day on the situation, but intimated he would make a statement later. The rift between the House and the Provincial Leader of the Liberals has been widening for some time and similarly Mr. Nixon and Mr. Hepburn have been working closer.

3 MINERS DIE IN ROCK SLIDE AT FLIN FLON

First Major Disaster in Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company Works.

14 ARE INJURED.

Tragedy Occurs as Debris Crashes Down on Night Shift in Open Pit.

FLIN FLON, Man., Feb. 28. —(C.P.)—The first major disaster in the Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company mines here to-day had taken a toll of three lives and put 14 miners in hospital, many of them seriously injured,some possibly fatally.

Shortly after the night shift went on duty Monday, a slide, which crashed tons of rock into the company's open pit mine took the death toll, and sent the other workers to hospital, some of whom had been imprisoned for hours before resouers were able to reach them.

The dead: John Martell, Russell Oboric and an unidentified miner, whose body is still buried beneath huge rocks at the bottom of the 100-foot pit.

Mines Superintendent M. A. Roche and Herbert Wilcox, miner, were among the injured. Wilcox was buried for three hours, but remained conscious throughout and directed rescue workers striving to release him.

SEAT REGAINED IN ROTHERHAM

First Conservative Loss to Laborites Since Last General Election.

BLAME DEPRESSION.

ROTHERHAM, England, Feb. 28 (C.P. Cable).—The Labor Party regained its seat in the House of Commons for Rotherham to-day from the Conservatives when W. Dobbie, Labor candidate, was elected by 28,767 votes against 12,893 for the Conservative, Drummond Wolff.

It was the first Conservative loss since the last general election. The by-election was occasioned by the resignation of the Conservative member, George Herbert, due to ill health. The seat had been held by the Labor party for many years, but was won by Mr. Herbert in 1931.

Steel and iron production are the main industries of Rotherham, an ancient town on the borders of South Yorkshire. The Conservative party officers admitted they expected to lose the seat in view of the depressed conditions in the heavy trades.

Unrevised statistics of Canada's sea fishing operations for 1932 indicate a total yield of about 7,200,000 hundredweights, or 360,000 tons, of fish.

Act Causes Britain To Replace U.S. In Villain's Role In Japanese Eyes—Failure Of America To Follow Suit Comes As Great Surprise.

JAPS HINT AT WAR IF BAN RESTRICTED TO THEM—CHINESE CLAIM WORST OF DEAL

Lansbury Confident If U.S. Would Line Up Britain Would Put Embargo On Japan Alone—Ban To Cover All Lines Of Material.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Feb. 28.—(CP)—According to an Associated Press despatch from Tokyo the British government's embargo on new arms shipments to Japan and China has caused that country to momentarily replace the United States in the villain's role of the international drama as seen through Japanese eyes. Failure of the United States to follow suit was regarded as surprising.

Keen resentment at yesterday's announcement by Sir John Simon was manifested in official circles. Authorities, however, agreed Japan was self-sufficient and that the embargo would only handicap China.

As long as the embargo is impartial and confined to finished munitions there is little likelihood of trouble over it, said a government spokesman today. But if an embargo is applied to Japan alone the government will have to consider seizure of arms shipments to China, he said.

Hint at War

There was evident uneasiness in both official and business quarters lest the embargo turn out to be merely the first of a series of actions bringing pressure against Japan, increasing in severity until they eventually culminate in full economic sanctions. This, the majority of Japanese believe, will mean war.

Bank In Montreal Is Looted Of $6,000

MONTREAL, Feb. 28 (C.P.)—A police cordon was thrown about the city at noon to-day in an effort to trap five bandits who held up a north end branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale and escaped with nearly $6,000 in cash.

Three bandits armed with revolvers held nearly a dozen customers and clerks at bay while a fourth threatened to shoot the manager if he did not hurry opening the vault. Scooping cash from the teller's case and the vault into a bag, the four bandits backed to the door where a fifth man awaited them at the wheel of a car.

Police radio patrol cars raced to the scene from several directions and organized a hasty pursuit of the light car with a broken windshield.

BLAST OF ETHER WRECKS OFFICE

Firemen Save Girl Trapped in Room Over Agricultural Department Laboratory.

CHEMIST SCORCHED.

OTTAWA, Feb. 28. (CP)—When an ether explosion occurred in the basement of the seed testing laboratory, Department of Agriculture, to-day, Miss Grace Whitney was trapped in her office on the second floor. She was rescued by firemen responding to telephone calls and a fire alarm, who carried her down a ladder to safety. Immediately after her rescue flames belched from the window.

Percy Doyle, chemist, was engaged in experimental work, when some ether he was using exploded in his face, singeing his eyelashes and eyebrows, and started the fire which quickly spread throughout the building.

In their haste to vacate their apartment in an adjoining building, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rushton, did not notice their little son Donald, aged four, was not with them. Members of the salvage squad heard his cries, however, and he was carried downstairs through the smoke-filled house by one of them.

Book of Tin

ROME, Feb. 28. — (A.P.)—Filippo Tomasco Marinetti, author, famed as the father of futurism, has tried something new—a book printed on tin.

It is entitled "words on the liberty of futurism as regards touch, heat and smell." "Liberty," says the author, "is too sacred a word to be printed on paper. It demands a metallic elasticity."

The pages are of very light, bendable white tin. The printing is in black. Illustrations are in brilliant tri-color.

Windsor Councillors Cling To 28-Mill Rate

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 28 (C.P.)—Windsor city council to-day ignored an "order" from the committee of supervisors to fix the tax rate at 29 mills. The council has decided on a rate of 28 mills, not approved by the supervisors.

The council divided evenly on the suspension of rules to bring the resolution in. Alderman Frank Dayus "bolted" the meeting, demanding time to study the penalty clauses that control the legislation. The council session was the most turbulent in months.

JAPS SMASH CHINESE LINE 2-DAY BATTLE

LINGYUAN HOLDS OUT.

Tokyo Official Terms British Arms Embargo Foolish—Blow at China.

(By the Associated Press)

A reinforced Japanese army captured Shamaoshan, important pass into Jehol province from the southeast, today after a terrific two-day battle The Japanese were directed toward Limgyuan, another pass on the main line of the Chinese defense Meanwhile Chinese were jubilant, claiming another Japanese offensive which had swept through Peipiao and Chaoyang, failed in an attack on Lingyan and was turned northward, away from its objective. Once Lingyuan falls, the Japanese have command of a 75-mile highway leading straight to Jehol City, the capital.

Move On Chihfeng

Another Japanese force sweeping down from the far north expected to occupy Chihfeng, communication and transportation centre of Jehol, tomorrow. This is the northern pass to Jehol city, 92 miles distant. Japanese reports said their column was 25 miles northeast of Chihfeng at 10 a.m.

A British embargo on arms shipments to China and Japan was regretted in China, where it was said Japan already was well provided, and an arms embargo against the "aggressor nation" only was urged. Japanese officials admitted the British embargo would handicap China rather than Japan but nevertheless, keenly resented it.

"Foolish Move"

TOKYO, Feb. 28. (AP)—A high army official to-day described the British Government's embargo on new arms and ammunition orders for Japan and China as a "foolish and dangerous" move.

He declared the action would seriously handicap China and would have virtually no effect on Japan.

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man., Feb. 28 (C.P.).—Three buildings, including the Merchants Hotel, built nearly half a century ago, were destroyed in an early morning fire here to-day. The property loss is estimated at $100,000. Other buildings in ruins were Hill's drug store, a large establishment, and a small restaurant.

Lodgers in the hotel had ample warning and all escaped without injury, but many were forced to flee in night attire.

Firemen had a narrow escape when a three-storey hotel wall collapsed.

The cause of the fire has not been determined.

Liberal Program On Unemployment Outlined by King

Program Liberal Leader Believes Would Solve The Economic Ills Of Canada—Reduce Interest Rates And Establish Central Bank.

C.C.F. RESOLUTION GOES TO BOTTOM OF LIST CONSERVATIVES MOVE MOTION TO ADJOURN

OTTAWA, Feb. 28.—(CP)—Socialism and Conservatism have something in common but Socialism and Liberalism are antagonistic in the opinion of Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader. Leaving no room for equivocation Mr. King yesterday disassociated his party from the aims and ideals of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation.

At the same time he outlined a programme he believed would solve the economic ills of Canada. It was based on social justice and freedom rather than state control. It included freedom of trade, removal of restrictions to business, curbing of price-fixing combines, reduction of interest rates and taxes and establishment of a central bank.

The Liberal leader's speech may be the last word of the present session on the Co-operative Commonwealth resolution introduced by J. S. Woodsworth, Winnipeg Laborite and president of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation.

Liberals Opposed

Liberals were opposed to the aims of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, said Mr. King, because it sought the abolition of private property and would establish state control of industry for the benefit of a particular class. The present Conservative government sought to increase state control for the benefit of a few privileged groups. Both pursued the same methods and had this in common.

Liberalism on the other hand was opposed to any centralization of control. The future he believed, would see a more equable division of responsibility between the various groups interested in industry, capital, labor, managerial ability and the consuming public.

As Mr. King sat down a motion to adjourn the debate came from the Conservative side. It was carried over the combined opposition of Liberals and Progressives and sends the resolution to the bottom of the list. Private members' time will be limited for the rest of the session and unless the unexpected happens the resolution is finished for another year.

Resolution Talked Out

Another resolution, somewhat more ticklish also went to the bottom of the list yesterday when Oscar Boulanger's proposal for the issuance of bilingual currency was talked past the adjournment hour. TARIFF BOARD IS INSTALLED

Three New Commissioners Are Sworn-in Office This Morning.

APPLICATIONS RECEIVED.

OTTAWA, Feb. 28.—Canada's new Tariff Commission, appointed three weeks ago in accordance with the Canada-United Kingdom trade agreement, will officially come into being this morning when its three members will be sworn into office here.

The swearing-in ceremonies will formally mark the transition of Mr. Justice Sedgewick of Toronto from the Ontario Supreme Court to the chairmanship of a body charged with collating evidence regarding not only the applications for tariff changes made by Canadian producers but those of British exporters as well.

Similarly translated to this new quasi-judicial body are Milton N. Campbell, until now Progressive M.P. for Mackenzie, Sask., and Charles Hebert, young Montreal business executive, who will be French Canada's representative on the commission.

Coincident with this word of the formation of the Tariff Board it was announced yesterday that British woollen and knitted goods manufacturers will apply through the board for a reduction on the Canadian tariff items relating to their products.

PRISONER CONFESSES.

Cabinet Rushes Powerful Emergency Decree Against Communist Danger.

BERLIN, Feb. 28.—(A.P.)—Herman Wilhelm Goering, cabinet minister without portfolio, early today ordered the arrest of 100 Communist members of the Reichstag a few hours after fire of incendiary origin had swept the first floor of the Reichstag building.

The police began making the arrests shortly after 4 a.m. The Communists will be held pending a complete investigation of the blaze, which last night did damage estimated at several million marks.

Herr Goering was placed in complete charge of the probe. He also ordered the suspension of the entire Leftist press.

Some in Hiding.

Early arrests included a man given possible to ascertain how many had been detained, but it was generally known that in the last several days communist leaders have gone into hiding, scores having abandoned their usual residences pending the clearing of the political situation.

Every fire company in Berlin was rushed to the blaze. After fighting the flames for two hours, the fire was under control at 10.45 p.m., but ruins still smouldered in the east wing. The gilded cupola above the Reichstag meeting hall was reduced almost to ruins.

Early arests included a man giving the surname of Van der Luebbe, 24 years old, who said he was a Dutch Communist. He refused to talk further, but authorities heard from other sources reports that ammunition had been placed in the burning heaps.

Used Shirt

Van der Luebbe, whose passport indicated he lived in Amsterdam, was reported to have admitted using his shirt to start one fire.

From the knowledge displayed of the arrangement of the ground floor, the police deduced he must have had several accomplices, but he refused to disclose their names. He said he had set fire to the former Kaiser's palace Saturday night.

The police were informed that some Communist members of the Reichstag were seen hurriedly leaving the building shortly before the fire started.

Van der Luebbe said his motive was "to get revenge on capitalism."

The interior of the plenary hall, including wooden seats, the presidential tribune and the public galleries, was completely burned out and otherwise damaged by falling iron supports and water, which was ankle deep in the corridors.

Fireman Overcome.

Nobody was injured except one fireman who was overcome for a short time by smoke. All the House officials had gone home, and only the watchmen and a number of legislators who were working in their offices were in the building. All escaped.

Emergency Decree

BERLIN, Feb. 28 (C.P.) — The German cabinet, which had been in session since 11 a.m., early this afternoon decided to present to President Von Hindenburg for his signature an emergency decree "for the protection of the German people against Communist danger," which will make possible far-reaching interference with personal liberty.

Coal production of Alberta mines for 1932 totalled 4,870,030 tons, an increase of about 300,000 tons over 1931.

Mussolini destroyed the Populari, the Catholic popular party which had shared power with him during the first months after the march on Rome.

At present Hitler cannot very well afford to break with Dr. Hugenberg, leader of the German Nationalists, and with Captain Seldte, the head of the Steel Helmet organization. The President, Marshal Hindenburg, called Hitler to the chancellorship on one condition: to form a coalition government with Hugenberg and Seldte. To break the coalition would mean breaking the pledge to Hindenburg. Hindenburg still has the power to dismiss Hitler. Before the elections Hitler would not take that risk.

That is why Hitler is in such a hurry to render the two Marxist parties impotent. He realizes full well that if he allows the Socialists and Communists to exist side by side with his own organization, these parties will continue to attract his own worker-members, especially if ever the feeling gained field among the Nazis that they are in reality but the cat's paw of the capitalist elements in their own party.

Hitler lost two million voters to the Communists at the last election. He is straining every effort to prevent a new catastrophe. This time he will succeed by simply preventing the Communists from making propaganda in pre-election days.

Hepburn Splits With Sinclair

Provincial Liberal Leader Virtually Repudiates The Speech Which W. E. N. Sinclair Made Last Week In The Legislature.

COMMITS LIBERAL PARTY'S FORTUNES IN LEGISLATURE TO PROGRESSIVE LEADER.

TORONTO, Feb. 28.—(CP)—Caucuses of both Liberal and Conservative members of the Ontario House were held today and definite solution of the tangled situation may be forthcoming. The breach in the Ontario Liberal party's dual leadership—Mitchell Hepburn, Provincial leader, and W. E. N. Sinclair, House leader —may be widened to bring the majority of Liberal members under the House leadership of Harry Nixon, Progressive leader.

Mr. Hepburn, a member of the Ottawa House, in a statement to the press has virtually repudiated the speech in which Mr. Sinclair declared Liberals should co-operate to some extent with the government in support of constructive measures, and the party leader has made it clear that he will work in co-operation with Mr. Nixon, who conferred with Mr. Hepburn before the statement was made public.

At the same time, pending outcome of the caucuses, it is not known definitely whether Mr. Sinclair will continue with the Hepburn-Nixon Liberals. The House leader declines to make any statement at present. Probably the issue will not be clarified until the Legislature reaches a division on Mr. Nixon's amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, an amendment which expresses no confidence in the government, and which Mr. Sinclair is generally expected to support along with the bulk of the Liberals.

No Co-operation

"There will be no co-operation, no truce, no quarter," said Mr. Hepburn's statement last night. "The Henry Government is on its way. It is heading inevitably towards defeat. Mr. Henry's only hope is in securing the support of the Opposition groups under the pretence of offering non-political government. He will not get it."

No Coalition

All Mr. Sinclair would say before the caucus gathered was that talk of coalition between himself and the government "is all wrong." He would not answer directly when asked if the developments would lead to a split between himself and the bulk of Liberals on the Nixon amendment.

Meantime members of the Ontario Fish and Game Committee were busy at the first meeting of the body. When the House opens J. F. Strickland, Cons., Peterborough City, will resume debate on the address in reply to the throne speech.

The House moved promptly yesterday in adoption of a motion by A. R. Nesbitt, Cons., Toronto Bracondale, to appoint a select committee to study improvement in methods of compiling the Voters' List; all party leaders agreeing the present method was unsatisfactory. Mr. Nesbitt instanced his belief Premier Henry's mother had been on the Voters' List for some years after she had died.

A bill submitted by Mr. Sinclair calling for extension of the Board of Control system to all cities was referred to the Municipal Committee for consideration.

Gov't Balks at Further Railway Interference

OTTAWA, Feb. 27 (C.P.).—The Government is prepared to do anything within the power is now possesses to bring about a more equitable division of the available work for running trades on Canadian railways, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett told a large delegation here this morning. But the Prime Minister did not believe any efforts should be made at this time to enlarge the scope of governmental power to enforce such distribution. He expressed confidence that the men themselves would gradually bring about such division of work, and offered to set up conciliation boards for the purpose.

I. E. Weldon, K.C., Toronto, counsel for the body, presented a petition urging the Government to use its good offices to bring about establishment of a 20-day month for the running trades. That would permit all the unemployed represented by the delegation to be taken ... work, and take them off re- ...f.

OATH VANISHES IN FREE STATE AFTER 60 DAYS

De Valera to Effect Disappearance by Motion in Dail Eireann.

SENATE POWERLESS.

Republican Chief About to Realize Goal Aimed at in 1923.

By JOSEPH BENNIGAN,
(C. P. Correspondent)

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Feb. 28. (C. P. Cable).—Sixty days from to-morrow the oath of allegiance to the British Crown will vanish from the constitution of the Irish Free State and become a dead letter in the Anglo-Irish treaty.

President Eamon de Valera will effect its disappearance by a motion in the Dail Eireann invoking Article 38A of the constitution, rendering the Senate powerless to obstruct passage of his oath removal any longer. The constitution provides that bills which the Senate refuses to pass in such a manner as to satisfy the lower House will, at the expiration of 15 months, become law despite the Senate. In the event the Dail is dissolved in the meantime the waiting period is shortened to 60 days.

The oath question has dominated every election campaign since the Free State was founded and has caused endless acrimony and bitterness between large sections of the Irish people.

The Oath

The section of the treaty to which so many Irishmen have taken offence says:

"The oath to be taken by members of the parliament of the Irish Free State shall be in the following term: 'I do solemnly swear true faith and allegiance to the constitution of the Irish Free State as by law established and that I will be faithful to H. M. George V, his heirs and successors by law, in virtue of the common citizenship of Ireland with Great Britain and her adherance to and membership of the group of nations forming the British Commonwealth of Nations'."

It was on this section that Mr. De Valera and his followers in 1921 founded their objection to the treaty and refused to recognize it. William T. Cosgrave and his party, however, found no cause for complaint in the section and insured that the oath clause in the constitution which was framed later should be a strong one.

Article 17 of the constitution made the oath mandatory. The Republicans refused to take it and remained outside the Dail, leaving Mr. Cosgrave and his adherents with a clear field.

For a while the Republicans pursued a policy of absention, contenting themselves with getting elected to the Dail and boycotting the assembly. At that time all the Republican forces were concentrated in one organization, styled "Sinn Fein" (literally "Ourselves Alone"), but they grew tired of abstention and loss of political capital in the few years that followed.

De Valera's Strategy

At a general assembly of the Republicans in 1926 Mr. De Valera proposed an effort be made to secure seats in the dail by demanding admittance without taking the oath. The meeting agreed to his proposal by a large majority. Mr. De Valera then founded the Fianna Fail (literally "soldiers of destiny") massed all his followers who had been elected to the dail and led them to parliament house. They were denied admittance.

The Cosgrave party then passed through the dail a bill making it mandatory for a candidate for the dail to take the oath of allegiance before his name could be entered on the lists at a general election. Mr. DeValera saw in this move an effort to spike his guns and persuaded his followers to enter the ...il after taking the oath with the ...vation they regarded it as "an formula."

Approximate prices track shipping point—Wheat, 44 to 46c; oats, 23 to 24c; barley, 32 to 35c; corn, 33 to 35c; rye, 30 to 32c; buckwheat, 28 to 30c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Butter prices continued their upward trend on the Montreal Produce and Dairy market to-day. Heavy buying, particularly from outside points, sent butter to new high levels. At the close of trading No. 1 grass make in car lots or less was quoted at 24¼ cents, up a quarter to half a cent. Receipts were only 30 boxes.

Eggs were also higher, an advance of a cent being recorded by fresh graded stock in car lots or less. Extras sold at 22c; firsts, at 20c; pullets at 19c, and seconds at 18c. To retailers prices of eggs in cartons were a cent higher. Receipts were 515 cases. Cheese held steady, fresh or recent make Ontario colored being quoted at 10 to 10¼c and early Ontario colored being quoted at 10 to 10½c and early Ontario colored at 11¼ to 11½ cents. Receipts were 18 boxes.

CHICAGO—Overwhelmed by a rush of selling to stop losses, all future deliveries of corn moved downward to new lows for the season just before the close to-day. wheat and other grains quickly joined in the tumble.

Wheat prices were firm until corn gave way. Liberal export demand for Canadian wheat was a sustaining factor.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Support given by further export sales and lightness of offerings held wheat futures steady near the previous close here yesterday. Values finished unchanged to ⅛c higher.

Trading was quiet. Selling pressure was never apparent, moderate export business being sufficient to take care of all wheat for sale. Overnight sales of Canadian wheat for export approximated 529,000 bushels. Most of this was sold for shipment from Vancouver, but a small amount was ear-marked for Spring shipment from Montreal.

An indication that wheat is rapidly passing into consumptive channels was shown in the world's shipments report, issued to-day. World shipments of wheat were maintained at 16,000,000 bushels last week. Australia cleared 7,890,000 bushels and Argentina 4,287,000. North America was third with 3,590,000 bushels, mostly Canadian wheat.

C. E. STRICKLAND CASE CONCLUDED IN COUNTY COURT

Judgment Will Be Given Today By His Honor Judge Huycke.

IMPORTANT CASE.

Defence Claims Money Was Given to Stony Lake Hotels Ltd.

Judgment in the trial of C. E. Strickland, bond salesman of Lakefield, on a charge of misappropriating $1,300 of the funds of Mrs. Marion Cameron of Indian River, was reserved late Monday afternoon by Judge Huycke until 11 o'clock this morning.

"This is an important case," His Honor said, "and is not free from difficulties. I purpose going into it carefully, and I shall not give judgment now."

The case was concluded yesterday afternoon with the evidence of Fred L. Galloway for the Crown, and of J. C. Strickland, second cousin of the accused, who was the only defence witness.

V. J. McElderry, Crown Attorney, conducted the prosecution, and J. W. Stevenson was counsel for C. E. Strickland.

Fred L. Galloway, Otonabee township, testified that he first met C. E. Strickland in June, 1930. He was accompanied by J. C. Strickland to Mr. Galloway's farm.

HULL, LINDSAY MEET.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(A.P.)—Cordell Hull, Secretary of State in the Roosevelt Cabinet, said after a conference with the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, to-day, that they had discussed "the question of a program that would contemplate the revival of business in each and every country, including our own."

As this was the first meeting with the British envoy no "special factors" were gone into in detaial, Hull said.

"ACTS LIKE A FLASH"

Hang-on Colds Bronchitis AND Asthma

Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis and ordinary respiratory troubles are real menacing ailments during the winter months—but leave it to the good, sensible folks of this big country—they know how to treat them.

Seventy per cent. of them take Buckley's Mixture and get well, quick. "It acts Like a Flash"—It's different from any Cough or Cold remedy on earth.

It's sure quick action amazes all when they take it the first time—in ten minutes they know they have a real magical Cough and Cold killer.

That's why Druggists report such wonderful sale. Get a bottle—you may need it to-night, as there is nothing harmful in it—don't let the children suffer a minute—one little sip loosens things up right away.

For your health's sake — demand Buckley's, for cheap imitations are numerous.

The following account refers to the father of Mrs. J. B. Hammond of Monaghan Road: "Dr. Charles Spencer Williamson, who answered the final roll call suddenly at his home at 1517 Dearborn Parkway on February 17th, was one of Chicago's most distinguished physicians. For twenty years, he was head of the Medical Department of the University of Illinois. He was graduated from Vienna, Leipsic, Berlin and Paris Universities, where he won high scholastic honors in the medical field. He was a member of seven scientific medical fraternities. Taps were sounded by the guards of honor over the flag-draped coffin in Oakwoods Cemetery, where he was laid to rest, while a dim February sun filtered through the leafless branches of old elms and maples. The Williamson home is one of the landmarks of the North Side. It was there the two daughters, including Elizabeth Williamson, now Mrs. John Bancroft Hammond of Peterborough, Ontario, were born, made their debuts and received the felicitations of their friends following their respective weddings."

JUST AMONG US GIRLS

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

A birthday is something which comes to everyone and so everyone looks forward to a certain date each year, which will mark another milestone in their life.

* * * * * * *

* * * * * * *

There is something so gala about it surrounded as it is with lighted candles, few in some cases, but full of significance. When one is young, there is a proud feeling of importance when candles are many, which is entirely lost in later years.

* * * * * * *

It seems to me in later years that dates kept in the background rather than emphasized in any way, and I don't think it is a good idea. Birthdays should not make one feel that they are "getting old."

* * * * * * *

Simple sponge cake is just the kind to have for a youngster's birthday. It is easily digested and nourishing. Angel cake is another good kind.

* * * * * * *

A top frosting supplies sugary sweetness and this frosting should not be too thick. But let it be gay with name and dates done in a contrasting colored icing run in a fine stream through a pastry tube. Or the name and numerals can be put in with tiny colored candles.

* * * * * * *

For children twelve years or in the teens, a richer cake can be used and it can have layers. The name and dates are not so important but the candles continue to be. Fun is instilled into the party refreshments if tiny favors are inserted in the cake, the sort of favors that come just for such purposes.

* * * * * * *

And, of course, it should be known that there are favors, so they will not bite hard on them.

* * * * * * *

A good frosting for ornamenting cakes is made as follows: 2 egg whites, 3 teaspoons freshly squeezed lemon juice, or one teaspoon orange juice to two of lemon juice. The lemon gives zest, and is not for flavoring purposes.

* * * * * * *

Use any preferred flavoring. If vanilla is wanted use one teaspoon of it. Lemon and orange requires but half a teaspoon. Add two tablespoons confectioners sugar to the unwhipped whites of eggs. Beat three minutes before beginning to add more sugar which do slowly, beating one or two minutes each time after adding sugar before putting in more.

* * * * * * *

When frosting is heavy enough to spread, put in a pastry tube and press in a stream over the already iced cake. Use any preferred vegetable coloring for the decorative icing which must, of course, be of a different color from that already on the cake.

Your Health

By DR. LOGAN CLENDENING

Strictly speaking, stones do not form in the kidney itself, but only in the collecting basin at the end of the kidney tubules, called the "pelvis of the kidney." As we saw yesterday, we have here the conditions favorable for the formation of a stone, ie., a body cavity where filud holding minerals in solution may be held stationary.

Also in the pelvis of the kidney there may be the other determining factor for the formation of a stone—that is to say, a foreign body around which the minerals can crystallize.

The famous theory of Rainey about kidney stones, was that in the kidney pelvis a colloid substance, which desquamates from the cells of the kidney or the kidney pelvis, is the starting point of kidney stones. This desquamation may be due to infection, with the production of pus and shreds of mucous Such infection occurs frequently in the pelvis from the transfer of infectious material from the nearby large intestine Many cases are, however, not so easily explained.

The chemical structure of kidney stones is derived from the salts in solution in the urine. The commonest of these is uric acid, and most kidney stones are of this character. Next come lime and phosphate stones.

What influence diet has upon the production of these structures has been widely discussed. It is often said that the consumption of too much sugar will tend to produce stones. A vegetable diet is recommended as a preventive. Nitrogenous foods such as meat and other protein foods, are considered by many to be favorable to the formation of stones. Alcoholic excesses are sometimes blamed. Yet in contradiction to this is the experience of surgeons in India, where kidney stones are particularly common, occuring in patients who for religious reasons are total abstainers from alcoholic drinks and are aso strict vegetarians.

After there is evidence the stone has formed, or when the discharge of small grains of stone gives indication that there is a tendency in that direction, much can be done to prevent further damage by the use of alkaline waters and a vegetable diet, and a life of abstinence, and careful regulation of the bowels.

The consequences an ddangers of a kidney stone depend on circumstances. Such stones may vary in size from a grain of sand to one reported by Shields of one and one-half pounds. The smaller stones are liable to give the most trouble in the way of painful symptoms—renal colic—but are less liable to affect the general health. When the presence of a large stone causes obstruction to the flow of kidney secretion and extensive infection results, surgical removal should be seriously considered. The prospect need cause no alarm, as in skilled hands today it is remarkably safe.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

O.: "I have been using a preparation of white henna on my hair, and it is, of course, a bleach. I heard some time ago that things of that sort would, in time, affect one's brain. Is that a fallacy or fact? Another thing I am troubled with, is a condition known as poisoned eyelids. I have tried many remedies. Can you suggest a cause?"

Answer: No hair dye or bleach known to me affect the brain. I do not understand what poisoned eyelids are. Inflammation of the eyelids from the use of hair dyes and skin preparations has frequently been reported. Possibly that is what is wrong in this case.

PLENTY OF NERVE

CHICAGO.—Miss Pauline Stahl, cafe employee, has so much nerve a hold-up man took out time to compliment her.

"Lie on the floor," he commanded.

"What, and spoil my nice clean dress," she relied. "I should say not."

"You've got a lot of nerve, sister," the robber declared admiringly.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

IMPROVING PARTNER'S BID

You 'improve a bid" by shifting to a call requiring fewer tricks for game, or one better fitting the joint 26 cards of your side.

Bidding is largely tentative, to disclose "hand patterns" (the division of 13 cards between four suits) and where commanding honors lie. A strong trump make ordinarily wins one more trick than a strong no trump. There are four times as many chances to win 4-odd as 5-odd.

Under "suit-over-suit" procedure shifting to another suit never denies support for partner's call. The shift seeks information; the shift bidder wants to discore his partner's distribution, and where his rebid values lie.

Hand 1, below, unquestionably calls for a shift to 1-Spade, of partner's opening bid of 1-Club, although you hold two assists for his call. But Hand 2 does not require a shift of partner's 1-Heart to 1-Spade. You had beter bid 3-Hearts. At the latter make you jointly must hold at least eight hearts, but partner may support your spades upon three to the K, probably meaning that one opponent will hold not fewer than four trumps. By all means bid 1-Spade over partner's 1-Heart on Hand 3. Spades may give you 9 trumps against 8 trumps at hearts.

No. 1—
♠ A Q 10 6 ♣ K J 6 3
♥ J 7 5 ♦ 5 2

No. 2—
♠ A Q 10 6 ♣ J 7 5
♥ K J 6 3 ♦ 5 2

No. 3—
♠ A Q 10 6 3 ♣ J 7 5
♥ K J 6 3 ♦ 2

Over partner's 1-No Trump, bid as indicated below. Bidding game on No. 4 is "signing off." Hand 7 is too weak to encourage further contracting. No. 8 stands far better chances for game at no trumps than at the minor make. As long as your voice lasts do not permit partner to play no trumps on Nos. 9 and 10.

No. 4—4-Spades—
♠ K Q J 10 ♣ 8 6 3
7 4 ♦ A 9 7
♥ 5

No. 5—2-Hearts—
♠ K 9 6 ♣ 7 4
♥ K J 10 8 2 ♦ 9 6 3

No. 6—2-Diamonds—
♠ 5 4 ♣ 7 3
♥ A Q 6 ♦ Q J 10 8 7 4

No. 7—Pass—
♠ K J 9 6 4 ♣ 7 4 3
♥ 10 5 ♦ 9 7 6

No. 8—3-No Trumps—
♠ J 7 4 ♣ A K Q J
♥ 8 3 5 2
♦ 10 6

No. 9—Show both suits—
♠ K 10 6 4 3 ♣ 9 8 7 4 3 2
♥ A 7 ♦ None

No. 10—Bid and rebid clubs—
♠ 7 4 ♣ 10 9 8 5 4
♥ 5 2 3 2
♦ 8 4

Suppose you have bid 1-Heart. Second hand bid 1-Spade. Partner forces you with 3-Clubs. Respond as shown below.

No. 11—3-Hearts—
♠ 4 ♣ 8 6 4
♥ A K J 9 7 ♦ K J 5 3

No. 12—3-Diamonds—
♠ 4 ♣ 8 6 4 2
♥ A K 9 7 ♦ A Q J 3

No. 13—3-No Trumps—
♠ A Q ♣ 8 6 4
♥ A J 10 7 ♦ A Q 9 3

No. 14—5-Clubs—
♠ 4 ♣ K J 9 7
♥ A 10 8 6 4 ♦ A Q J

Note carefully the following. If you have opened the bidding and have been overcalled at your left, your partner's bid of one trick more than required, if made in a suit not previously bid, is a forcing bid, demanding your response. But if you have passed an opening bid at your right your partner's bid of one trick higher than required is only an invitation for you to bid.

Household Hints

MENU HINTS

Dutch Bean Soup
Celery or Cabbage Salad
Baked Apples
Economy Loaf Cake Tea

This is a supper menu. Sweet milk can be used in place of the condensed in the cake recipe.

Today's Recipes.

Dutch Bean Soup—One and one-half cups navy beans, one-fourth teaspoon soda one onion, one-half cup oatmeal, one pound lean pork, ground; salt and pepper to taste. Cover beans with cold water and let stand over night. Next morning heat to boiling, add the soda and boil a few minutes. Pour off this water. Add three pints boiling water to the beans, stir in the uncooked oatmean, onion and ground pork which has been seasoned and shaped into balls. Season well and simmer slowly until beans are tender, several hours.

Economy Loaf Cake—Two cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon soda, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-half cup coco, one cup sweetened condensed milk, one-half cup shortening, two-thirds cup water, one teaspoon vanilla. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, soda, salt and coco. Add condensed milk, shortening which has been melted, water and vanilla. Beat until thoroughly mixed. Pour into buttered square pan (nine inches). Bake 35 minutes in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit).

OUR MAIL

Dear Anne:

Here is another of your erratic children coming back. When I wrote you last Anne, at the beginning of the year, I fully intended writing to the Page once a month but I know you will forgive me when I say that I have been far from well owing to the fact that I contracted flu shortly after writing you and I have not yet fully recovered.

I have just read the letter by "Adastia"; it was a fine, intelligent letter and I see her point of view. I also read "Optimist's" letter and I saw her point too. I suppose we can say there are four sides at least from which we can view things and we can all gain something from each other's viewpoint.

I was glad to see another letter from "Ad Infinitum." I feared she must be "taken aside" again. I know how trying it is to be compelled to be inactive when one wants to be active. I heard some very beautiful verses (the best I have ever heard) over the radio the other Sunday, relative to the Spiritual benefit one may gain from being shut in or "taken aside" to learn lessons we cannot learn otherwise. I have some lovely lines also sent me by a dear friend out West, a very delicate little soul! They are entitled "Taken Aside" and refer to the dead man (Mark 7:33) being healed by the Lord and He took him aside from the multitude (what a wealth of thoughts we find here). I will quote one or two verses if I may for "Ad Infinitum."

"Taken aside by Jesus,
To be quite alone with Him,
To hear the wonderful tones of love
'Mid the silence and shadows dim."

"Taken aside by Jesus,
That henceforth my voice may be,
Made clear to tell of the Love Divine
And the Rock of Eternity."

I was glad to read also Quid Est's letter a while ago. I was glad she liked my letters. Yes, Quid Est, the chief end of man is to glorify God and enjoy Him for ever, this also is the Lord's fervent desire—but it would almost seem that man's chief end has been largely lost sight of and if so what about enjoying Him for ever? I would that folk would only think, but I must close Anne, or I will be writing too much. Best wishes to you Anne, and all the neighbors.

Yours sincerely,
WATER LILY.

I am very sorry indeed Water Lily, that you have been ill, and very certainly you are forgiven. I am glad to know that you are still interested in the Page and especially the letters which are being written by the other neighbors. Thank you for your kind wishes and write again.

Sincerely,
Anne Wilcox

Still Seeking Slayer Of Lindbergh Baby

TRENTON, N.J., Feb. 28 (A.P.).—An international man-hunt for the kidnappers and murderers of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., never relaxed, went on to-day, one year after he was stolen from his crib.

Begun March 1, 1932, when the 21-months-old son of the famous flier was abducted, intensified on May 12 when his body was found in bleak Sourland hills, the search has been relentlessly pursued.

Months ago President Hoover admonished law enforcement agencies to make the case a "live and never-to-be-forgotten" one.

His admonition has been followed.

At the year's end investigators had nothing they were willing to report. For six months they have maintained silence.

Meanwhile, a $35,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the kidnappers, offered by New Jersey after the baby's body was found, still stands.

BE BEAUTIFUL

Patricia Bowman, the lithe and dainty prima ballerina of Radio City, has a pair of the shapeliest hands that I've ever had the pleasure of seeing. They are smooth and graceful and the fingers taper beautifully. And personally, I think that their shapeliness is due, in great part, to the exercising that her hands receive when she executes her graceful movements as she dances. For exercise does a great deal to mould and shape the hands attractively.

There are some excellent exercises for shaping the hands in my article on "Care of the Hands and Nails." But the following ones are particularly effective for this purpose:

Standing erect, extend the arms forward. Then relax the hand muscles, and flap the hands up and down from the wrists.

Using the left hand, push the fingers of the right hand as far back as you can. Then reverse, pushing the fingers of the left hand back with the right hand.

With each finger pointing straight ahead, describe circles in the air with first the thumb, then the forefinger, and so on.

Pretend you are practising five-finger exercises on an imaginary piano, streching your fingers as far as you can. If a real piano is available, use it, and see how much over an octave you can stretch your fingers.

Proper massaging also does a great deal to shape the hands attractively. Before retiring each night, apply a generous quantity of your favorite hand cream, or pure olive oil to your hands. Massage the lubricant well into the skin, making the strokes towards the wrists. Then rub each finger gently but firmly from the tip to the base, and pinch the fingertips to make them slender and tapering.

When the hands are plump and pudgy looking, a great deal can be done to make them appear more slender by the skillful application of make-up. Blend a bit of rouge along the outside of your hands, and along the sides of the fingers. Then remove any excess and fluff a bit of powder on your hands, carefully removing any loose particles. This procedure will help to give the hands a more slender, tapering appearance.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Standard Weight

Beefy: You are about 22 pounds overweight. A girl 20 years of age and 5 feet, 2 inches tall, should weigh about 119 pounds.

Nails

Mrs. S.: Soak your finger tips in warmed olive oil nightly before retiring. This will help to correct the dry, brittle condition of your nails.

Feet

Miss K.: A 25 per cent solution of aluminum chloride in distilled water is a good remedy for perspiring feet. Apply for three consecutive nights, and then use once a week.

Shampoo

Dora: The castor oil shampoo described in my "Beauty Culture" booklet is indeed excellent for promoting the growth of thin, dry, falling hair. This shampoo is too long to print here.

Favorite Recipes.

CORN AND SALMON SOUFFLE

1 cupful canned corn
1 tbsp. butter
1 can salmon (1 lb.)
1 tsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. Worcestershire Sauce
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
Dash cayenne or Tabasco
2 cupfuls thick white sauce
2 egg whites
Buttered crumbs.

Add the corn to the melted butter and saute slightly. Flake the salmon, removing the bones and skin, add the lemon juice and seasonings and combine with the thick white sauce. Beat the egg whites until stiff and fold into the salmon mixture. Pour half of this mixture into a lightly butered baking dish, cover with the sauteed corn and add the rest of the fish mixture. Top with buttered crumbs and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for about 15 minutes.

WHAT THE PUBLIC DEMANDS.

Apparently all our public spending bodies have not yet arrived at a realization of the fact that it has become necessary that public expenditures should be measured solely by the ability of the people to pay.

How much longer that realization can be delayed is problematical, but certainly unless there is a speedy improvement in economic conditions generally it will be hastened by an alarming increase in the proportion of unpaid taxes that will have to be reported.

Our public bodies simply cannot go on, in the face of the existing conditions, as if there were no citizens out of work, no landlords who cannot collect their rents, no people with reduced incomes, no general scaling down of privately-earned salaries and wages.

Admittedly it is difficult to reduce expenditures, to lop off services, to put departments on a plain bread-and-butter basis; but the simple truth is, most of the people are on a bread-and-butter standard themselves, and they have a right to demand from their elected representatives that until the return of better days every dollar of public expenditure that can be saved will be saved.

It can only be done by a courageous and sincere effort to deal effectively with a situation that demands something more than shadow boxing.

THE RELIEF FUND.

It cannot be too strongly emphasized that citizens whose financial condition enbls them to subscribe to the Relief Fund can come to the rescue of many worried taxpayers by sending in a substantial donation and to that extent easing the load of taxation.

Relief must go on—and if the necessary funds are not forthcoming voluntarily from those best able to pay they will have to be provided out of the city treasury at the expense in a good many cases of citizens very close to the relief line themselves, and who are finding it a difficult task to obtain the money with which to pay their taxes.

The more money subscribed for relief therefore the better will it be for that large portion of our ratepayers who have been gamely carrying on an uphill fight against odds.

The Relief Fund is still far from its object, and still far below the capacity of this community to pay; it must be the case that there are a good many people who have not given the matter the consideration it deserves, who have not yet realized the seriousness of the situation or appreciated the desirability of seeing that so far as is possible Peterborough's relief operations should be financed out of voluntary subscriptions.

The Examiner is confident that a study of the whole question would be followed by a quick building up of the local fund to the $20,000 objective set by the committee as the mark at which to aim.

SETS THE WORLD AN EXAMPLE.

In the decision announced by Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, in the House of Commons yesterday that after to-day no shipments of arms or ammunitions for either Japan or China will be allowed to leave the United Kingdom, Britain has set the world an example that it is to be hopeful will be generally followed.

No more effective step toward halting war could be taken than to see that the supply of war materials upon which the carrying on of hostilities depends is cut off—and if other countries adopt Britain's lead an effective blow for peace will have been struck.
